THE Self-acting Sewing Machine Company of Lombard street, London, has taken out and is working a patent which will save the necessity for the use of either hands or feet. The new motor drives the sewing machine by a process of clockwork—neither bulky nor complicated. The motive power is completely under control, so that while it can be made to drive a needle at the rate of about a thousand stitches a minute it can also be worked slowly.

THIS altogether improbable story is told by a Washington correspondent: Susan B. Anthony has been in Washington some time canvassing among Congressmen in behalf of female suffrage. One day last week she encountered a new member from the far West, who, being introduced to her, broke out in the following fashion: "Glad to make your acquaintance, Mrs. Anthony. Saw your son in the Senate the other day. Looks a little broken down. Never mind that. Ought to feel proud of him. Sturdy old boy. Lots of life in him yet. Times hell just as long as Rhode Island. Good day." And without giving the venerable virgin time to recover from her astonishment the humptious Representative of the sagebrush regions disappeared in the crowd.

EVERYONE knows how exasperating it is to lose a key, particularly when you lose it outside a locked door that you are anxious to get on the other side of. It appears that the British Parliament keeps its doors locked between sessions now. (It used to keep them locked when in session formerly.) Just before the present sitting began the key of the House of Commons was lost, and the disputches say that great anxiety prevailed in consequence. One can only imagine how bad the members from Ireland would feel if the key had been permanently lost; and what dire disaster would have supervened if her Majesty's loyal opposition had been prevented from moving a vote of censure on the Government's Egyptian policy if they had not turned up.

Debt had got the best of him, and to satisfy a mortgage his home was about to be sold. "What is the amount?" asked Philetus. "Twelve hundred dollars," answered Philemon, with a face as long as the Signal Officer's report. "O, brace up," said the Wisconsin statesman: "I'll pay you what I owe you, which, with the interest, will be enough to straighten this matter out." "But," said the former, "you don't owe me anything." "Yes, I do," replied Shorty. "You remember lending me $1 when I went West; well here it is with returns," and he counted out $1,500. "Every dollar I took away with me has brought me $1,500 in return. If you ever get hard up let me know, and I'll help you out again."

AMONG of the Mapleson-Cursier unpleasantness, Eugene Field, of the Chicago Daily News, perpetrates the following:

One night the charming diva said:
"Now, Bozo, Colonel, to me—
I will not sing—I'll cut instead,
Unless I do just what I do not.
I'm mad to think that you should think
That I am such a group
To let you interfere with the chick
Of Mme. Nordica!"

Then Mapleson, in unlawful vein,
Protested he was loaded,
And danced on the midnight train
Uncelestially corded;
Back to her lair in York she fled—
The curtain's thrown—
And put all other locusts
To shame of simple manners.

But Mapleson, when she had fled,
Forthwith began to worry—
The telegram he sent her said:
"Come back, and I promise to marry.
I'll do it a-fore car to you,
And bear your business capable,
And pay your salary when it's due—
That is (say, Nordica)."

So back to Mapleson went she,
As sweet as dripping honey,
And was as happy as can be,
Because she got her money.
When asked what caused the recent row,
They always (bless the lamb—
This story tale's sufficient now
To find the inside, same) be:

"Mme. Nordica, in unison speaking,
And pay your salary when it's due—
That is (say, Nordica)."

THE LITTLE FOLKS.

Which Loved Best?

"I love you, mother," said little John;
Then, forgetting his word, his cap went on
And he was off to the garden swing,
And felt her word and water to bring.

"I love you, mother," said rosy Kate;
"I love you better than bread and meat."
Then she kissed and pouted half shy, half gay,
Till her mother rejoiced when she went to play.

"I love you, so does," said little Fan;
"I love you more than you can I can."
How glad I was that school doesn't keep!
So she rocked the baby till it fell asleep.

Then stepping softly she brought the broom,
And swept the floor and dusted the room;
Poor girl! I guess all she was she!
Helpful and happy we could see.

"I love you, mother," sneaks they said—
Three little children going to bed.
How do you think the mother guessed
Which one of them really loved her best?

A Little Peacemaker.

They were hunting for May-flowers in the pasture one day, Daisy and Mac and Addie.

There weren't a great many in blossom; but once when Addie and Mac were looking together under the rusty-green leaves on the sunny side of an old stump, they found a single bunch, pale-yellow and pink, like a rose; and they both spied that exactly the same minute.

"See what a lovely one I've found!" cried May.

"I saw it first!" cried Addie; "and it's mine."

"It isn't!"

"It is, I say!"

So Addie scuttled, and Mac snatched; and between them both they pretty pick blossoms were pulled in pieces.

"You mean thing!"

"Twas mine, any way!"

O dear! wasn't it too bad, when the day was so sunny, and had begun so pleasantly, that it should be spoiled by black looks and cross words?

Daisy thought so; and presently she called out:

"O girls, just see what beauties! And there is one apiece. Don't let's we get cross!"

So, after a minute, Addie smiled a little; and then Mac smiled a little more; and before long they were very good friends again. For the May-flowers were beauties truly, and the girls found a good many more there in the shelter of the great old 'woddler.'

Wasn't Daisy a little peace-maker? —Youth's Companion

About Hornets.

Andy was in disgrace, and in a very bad humor as well. Ordinarily he was such a pleasant, bright-faced lad, that one would hardly believe that the little, crosshooking chap with the deep scowl over his eyes could be he.

When mamma went off to the sea shore, for a few weeks of change and quiet rest, her only trouble was about Andy. Susie and the baby nurse could take care of she three but Andy, since he had grown to the dignity of a schoolboy, was not as tractable in the nursery as he once was, and nurse had more patience with babies and little children than with a noisy, restless schoolboy of eleven. However, the baby nurse and mamma managed, and leave them all at home. So Susie had carried her off, almost against her will.

Andy made so many promises to be good and mind nurse that she was persuaded that he meant to keep his word. And so he did. But nurse was nervous, and, as her lights flew to be safe and off from making a kite to run crosslock. Such "confusion of long ones, too the adjective is Andy's own: I should have said very long). Then, upon his return, when he was only making peace for the beloved kite, to have it snatched away from him!

True, he was mixing it in a cut-glass goblet; but what matter? One glass was as good as another, indeed, if he had been handy, he would have preferred a tin cup.

Altogether he was a much abused boy! If it were not for mamma he would have serious thoughts of running away. What a lark it would be to have no nurse to order about, with her cap strings floating in the air, drumming up neighbors to hunt for Master Andy!

"I wish I was not a boy. Boys have the hardest time of anything in creation! I don't want to be a sissy, pinny, fold-no-sol of a girl either; I wish I were a bird, then I don't have to mind. Yes, I'd even like to be a hornet! Look at that chap hunting flies over there! He has no nurse, and I'll bet does just as he has a mind to."

These words, uttered aloud, were scarcely out of the little boy's mouth, when, wonderful to relate, the very hornet he had been envying flew out to him and said:

"Do you really like to be one of us? Remember, a hornet's life is not one of idleness. He must work hard for his living, like all the rest of the Maker's creatures. Think before you envy."

"Do you have nurses?"

"No."

"Then I'll be a hornet!"

How strange! At once he felt himself growing smaller and smaller. Now—yes, he could fly! It was a delightful sensation to feel himself floating through the air.

"Buzz! buzz!" went the hornet. So it would have sounded like the voice of Now Andy knew he said, "Come with me, and I'll introduce you to the other hornets."

So, off they went, further down toward the peach orchard. There the family had built themselves a very curious house. It seemed as a temporary lodging house for themselves, and was the place where their eggs were deposited, where the hornets of the future sprang into life.

Andy remembered looking at this house, from a distance, only a day or two before. Now, to fly right into it was very funny! All the hornets came to look at him. All buzzed and kicked so fast that he could hardly understand a word they said.

He was offered a blue-bottled fly for refreshment, and as he hesitank from the proffered dainty, they all buzzed louder than ever.

Later his friend took him to a peach tree, and they regaled themselves on a ripe peach, which was much more to Andy's taste.

That night he slept on a limb of the same tree—it seemed so stuffy in the hornet house.

The next day all assembled in their house, and each received orders from the head of the colony. Each had to kill so many flies and bring them home to be stored up for the next generation of hornets. Some remained at home to put the finishing layer to their house.

Andy was among the latter, to learn their trade. Hard work, too, it was. Beginning at early dawn to chew up paper, moisten it with glue, and absorb it on the outside of the hornet house, was no joke. All day long he worked. No rest, except two or three short visits to the peach tree, to refresh himself.

Then to see all the other hornets come home, each laden with a fly, sometimes only half dead, still struggling in the grasp of its captor, was to Andy disgusting in the extreme.

Three or four days dragged wearily on, and he was beginning to wish that he could be a boy again, and run errands, when one morning Andy was sent out with the others.

He flew with his old friend a little way, and then they separated. Andy saw a large fly on a window and made for it at a big speed. "No," he remembered, and he flew in also.

"Buzz! buzz! that room looked! It was the nursery—yes, to be sure it was! There was the baby in the crib. Just then Susie said:

"Oh, nurse! a hornet! hornet!"

Nurse was after him. Oh, dear! he should be killed right in his own house!

"Buzz! Buzz!" Would they never understand?

"Get out of this, you rascal!" cried nurse.

"I'll catch him, nurse, in my apron, and then kill him."

"He'll sting you, Susie."

"Buzz! Buzz!" Well, he wouldn't. He'd rather die than sting his own sister.

He screamed:

"Don't you know me?" and awoke to find nurse really standing over him, under the peach tree.

"Why, Master Andy, did you ever go to sleep on the grass? I am afraid you've caught your death of cold. Come with me, and let me give you something hot."

"Why, nurse," Andy tries to explain, "I've been a hornet. I have been in the orchard, sleeping in a tree ever since."

Nurse tells him that she has been hunting for him for hours, and was in hopes that he was discovered in the peach orchard.

Andy goes slowly home, too relieved to be a boy again to argue the point with nurse.

"To be sure," he adds to himself, "boys do have a hard time, but hornets have a harder."

And he believes he would not change places with any other of God's creatures, but stay on a boy until he changes him into a man.—Golden Days.

Zealous Men the Successful Ones.

As far as natural endowments determine, the zealous men are generally the successful ones. But they have a beneficial sin, which, being intrinsic, is therefore, perhaps not quite a sin—impurity. Except in the base of great creative minds, it is necessary to be somewhat partial in order to succeed in affairs. Social culture is school efficient in any immediate way; narrow, intense purpose accomplishes the hard enterprises of the world, and is everywhere at a premium among those who are interested in getting things done.

I have a respect for bigots and partisans, and believe that the world owes a great debt to intolerant, one-sided men. It must have them; it could not push its reforms, or get its rough, unpleasant work done else. Narrow men are edged men, men of single and determined purposes; and in their purposes they are apt to succeed.

The liberal, the spirit of insight, really rule all; they are not always seen to do so; they come the thoughts that direct the world's forces. But they turn over their thoughts to armies of stirring partisans, who adjust by force of arms the claims of opposing truths. The philosopher would prefer to wait for evolution, and let things settle themselves quietly, but the reformers cannot wait for this. So they organize boards, wage religious wars, and pomp by force of witness. There is a sad waste of force in these proceedings; but men promise at least wise in course of time, and meanwhile? the human cruise slowly along, and some progress is made.—Titus Munson Coan, M. D.

Not All Alike.

Nearly all the heterodox men I have seen believe all men are coming to the same destination. Tom Paine and Whitefield, Jezebel and Florence Nightingale, Charles Guiteau and James A. Garfield, John Wilkes Booth and Abraham Lincoln, side by side! If this be true, I turn from such a heaven with loathing.—Rev. Dr. Talmage.

It is better wisdom to fix things that we take them as they come.

Adobe Houses.

The Mexicans, says an exchange, make adobe houses. The mud found in Western and Southern Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, and the Northern States of Mexico is highly colorous or argillaceous. It is usually dark, and of it the Mexicans make adobes. Clay in quantities is very scarce, and adobe would not be made of it, as it would soon crack or be crushed. The binding qualities of the clay or loam, or both, hold the particles of sand together, while the sand itself is proof against crushing. A suitable place is selected, and a man with any digging implement begins by forming a small heap of earth, digging in a circle around it. He continues the heap, the circle, and the depth of the digging. When the heap is sufficiently large he makes a circular opening in the center, spreading the earth outward toward the circumference of the circle. The result is a crater-like heap, over which the man spreads a mixture of chopped straw, hay, or manure, containing a large proportion of long fuel. He then adds water, mixing the whole into a stiff, tenacious mass, of which he makes adobes. The molds are of various sizes—8x12x4 inches, 18x24x4 inches, 11x22x4 inches, 12x24x4, etc. The smaller sizes are used for house walls and the larger sizes for fences, retaining walls, etc. The adobes are carefully protect their walls, but would then from one to five years. In the end, none of which is visible from the road, the adobes, hollowed out of suitable timber and cylinders, are provided to carry off the water. The adobes themselves are laid in the same mind of which they are made. In a few days they are sun-dried, and are free from alternate wetting and drying, adobes make good, cool, and durable houses, delightful in summer and warm in winter. The old church at Paso del Norte, 25 years old, is built of adobes, and its entire walls are, and always have been, exposed to the weather. The flood and roof are made of the same adobe mud. The Mexicans have a way of making the floors exceeding hard and durable. Houses of adobes built in the American style, with roof, and, in some cases, with the interior, are exceedingly handsome. They may be expected to represent either stone or brick.

He Knew the Failing of the Caterers.

Mr. Scott was an eccentric Englishman who lived many years ago. He travelled about the country on business until about eighty years of age, and was one of the most celebrated characters of his time for punctuality, and by his methodical conduct, joined to uniform diligence, he gradually amassed a large fortune. For a great number of years, the proprietors of every hotel he frequented knew the very day and the very hour he would arrive. Jack Adams, a well-known gentleman on a journey in Cornwall stopped at a small hotel to dine. The waiter presented him with a bill of fare, which he did not approve of, but observing a gentleman reading, said "I have that," said the traveler. "You mean, sir," said the landlord, "it is for Mr. Scott, Mr. Exeter." "I know Mr. Scott very well," replied the gentleman, "and he is not in your house." "True, sir," said the landlord, "but six months ago, when he was here last, he ordered a stack to be ready for him this day precisely at 2 o'clock." And to the astonishment of the traveler, he saw the old gentleman jogging into the yard about five minutes before the appointed time.—The Eye.

Ginger Jars.

The ginger used in preserving and crystallizing in the 52 London establishments all comes from China. An amusing story regarding the familiar blue and white stone jars is told. The Chinese made a very large jar. After some years they were presented upon to make a second size for the reception of ginger. In time a third size smaller was requested, but here the stubborn Celestials rebelled. Their conservative character regarded any more innovations as sacrilege.

"Superintendent, "we have small pots made in the English potteries to hold our Chinese ginger. So the ginger is genuine Chinese, but the jars are not."

Not Respectable.

The following conversation between two indies at the Austin Opera House was overheard by an elderly gentleman, who gave it away:

"Mrs. Hunkerdot called on me the other day, and I don't know whether or not I should return her call. What sort of people are they, anyhow?"

"I haven't had anything to say to the Hunkerdots for several years, but believe that I was quite intimate with them, and I must say they never were proper people, and I never knew a respectable person to associate with them."—Texas Siftings.

With Coats Wrong Side Out.

At the battle of Manassas the uniform of the First Louisiana Regiment of Confederate Infantry was blue. Another Confederate regiment, mistaking them for the enemy, fired upon them. An order was immediately given for the Louisianians to shuck their coats and put them on inside out, and the consequent spectacle of 800 men with their coats all turned wrong put an end, for the time being, to the pomp of war. This was the first "great reverse" that befell the Louisiana troops in the war.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

DR. DEEMS says that kissing is purely an American habit.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

DR. ANDY writes in Science that he found a full-grown chipmunk in the stomach of a bullfrog; a hornet in one of the same species (Rana Catesbyana) to feed an eight-inch garter snake which had been swallowed by the frog while the snake was in the act of swallowing a mouse. The snake could not afford itself while it had a mouse in its gullet, and the frog took advantage of the fact. Of course, no one will find the story difficult to swallow.

SOME letters of Horace Walpole, just published for the first time, give strange pictures of the London of his day. A favorite morning diversion was to pass under the heads of newly hung criminals at Temple Bar, where people made a trade of letting spyglasses at a halfpenny a look. Another fashionable amusement was seeing prisoners flogged at Bridewell Hospital, where men and women, stripped to the waist, were brought one by one to the whipping post.

AT Atlanta Constitution correspondent says: "The other night while taking to Senator Brown I noticed a peculiar relish for protruding above his collar. I asked him if he wore a stiffener. He said he did. 'No,' he replied, 'but I do wear a rabbit skin on my chest. A lady commended it as the best possible protection against cold. I got a fine rabbit skin, cut off its feet, and, tying the two legs together with a ribbon, I tied the skin about my neck. It has worked like a charm.'"

ABOUT one heard Walter Scott tell Mr. Rutland what made him become a poet. He reminded her that when many years earlier she had visited Edinburgh she had with her a manuscript copy of Taylor's version of Leger's "Lenora." This she had read to Dugald Stewart. "He," said Sir Walter, "pronounced it a wonderful of it to me, and this, madam, was what made me a poet. I had several times emptied the more regular kinds of poetry without success, but here was something I thought I could do."

IN the Physio-Medical Journal, of Indianapolis, Dr. White tells of a magnetic healer who had been fleecing the people of that city. The charlatan billed the town with statements that he was "ordained by the crowned heads of Europe and Mr. Vanderbilt," and a spirited weekly paper showed him at the age of "the lady in one of hands," from each finger of which there flashed broad, zigzag lines of lightning. He did, in fact, produce surprising electric effects, but from exposure and a Sheriff's attachment compelled him at last to leave town. His dock contained a two-cell Grove battery, with insulated wires running to a switch, and thence under the carpet to all parts of the room, where they terminated in copper plates having blunt points just long enough to penetrate the carpet and reach the patient's feet. Hence no matter where the patient might stand or sit, he could not avoid coming into unconscious contact with an electric feeder. The doctor, seated at his desk, took his fee, switched the current to the proper wire, raised to his patient, and soon convinced him of his miraculous power. The people were great in faith, and "Dr. St. John" took in much money, until the press cast doubt upon his methods.

NEARLY all the recent Premiers of England have enjoyed the advantage of having had wives of great devotion and considerable ability, to whose tender care and sympathy in their ambition they have been largely indebted. The devotion of the Countess of Russell, who is still living, and the Countess of Beaconsfield, had some thing of romance. Mrs. Gladstone, who is nearly the same age as the Premier, accompanies her husband, as did Lady Beaconsfield, everywhere, and frequently remains in the ladies' gallery to the close of the night's sitting. Lord Palmerston, more than perhaps any other British Minister, was indebted for his position and its maintenance to his wife, who was physically and mentally a remarkable woman. Up to her death in 1869 at 85, four years after her husband, she could read without glasses, and talked with all the fire and energy of a woman of 30. Her voice was most cheery, musical, and soft. Her eyes were of bright blue, and, in spite of a very evident wig, she was a very handsome old lady. She had some peculiarities, always shook hands with her left hand, and pronounced gold "gould," and china "chenny."

THE highway to perfect methods is paved with mistakes.

LABOR.

The Reduction of Wages Under High Protective Tariff Duties.

(Philadelphia Record.)

In many of the protected industries the reduction of wages is still going on, while it is observed that there is no corresponding reduction of the wages of skilled workmen who are not affected by the tariff for nothing but burdens. In a portion of the anthracite coal regions the wages have been cut down to what the miners describe as a starvation rate. Since the beginning of the year the reduction of wages of factory hands in New England has varied from 10 to 15 per cent. Bradstreet's review, opposed to the Record not many days ago, shows that in the rolling mills, the steel works, and the nail factories of the East an almost general reduction has taken place in the rates of wages, while there has been a partial reduction of the wages in those industries in the West. While there has been a large increase in the nail-making capacity, a general strike against reduced wages prevails in the nail works of New England. In the window-glass trade production has been resumed after a long strike, and will continue until oversupply induces another reduction of wages or another strike. In other protected industries there has been little variation from the downward tendency in wages. These reductions of wages, with strikes and loss of employment in many quarters, need not be said, have been accompanied by much distress among workers and their families.

In connection with this condition in the field of protected industry it is to be observed that reductions of wages have taken place in the East than in the West. The manufacturers of the East are on the outer edge of the home market, while the tariff closes the foreign markets to them, and they are therefore the first to feel the effects of over-production. Low wages do not permit them to take their products far inland before they are met by the competition of the West, and cost of raw materials through the tariff will not let their products out. They are thus between two fires, and when the crisis of over-production comes they must meet it with a reduction of wages. Hence a removal of the heavy taxes on the raw material of industry is fast becoming a crying necessity with the manufacturers as well as the workingmen of the East, and all the sophistries of protection will not silence it. With busy manufactories in the rear to supply the home market, it is of small advantage to dwell on the ocean front when a bill of legislative policy will not permit the receiving products of Eastern mills and factories to reach the markets of the world.

Another significant fact in this relation of wages is that it has not affected in the least the earnings of the skilled workmen who are outside of the so-called protected industries. "Be carpenters, blacksmiths, masons, plasterers, and many other guises of skilled mechanics have suffered no loss of wages, but, on the contrary, some have made strong for an advance in order to protect themselves against the increased cost of the necessaries of living imposed upon them by the tariff. Protection seems to have left their wonderful system maintains the wages of labor, and yet it can not keep up the wages of that labor which is made its special care. By what sophistry will it be pretended that a system which raised prevent the wages of ironworkers, nailmakers, coal miners, glassblowers, and the hands in cotton factories from declining to starvation rates, and yet permitted and forced down the wages of stonemasons, carpenters, blacksmiths, hatters, and bakers?

In a general financial and industrious crises like that of 1857 or 1873, reduction of wages, loss of employment, and depression are experienced in all industries and nearly all parents. But in this partial distresser of trade the depression runs along a certain line of industries that are under the protection of high rates of duty, while outside of this line there are no signs of stagnation or uneasiness. How do the Protectionist champions account for the singular phenomenon? In the condition of over supply caused by the unhealthy tariff stimulus the workingmen in the protected industries are the chief sufferers, and yet it is in their behoof that the benevolent system was devised. The manufacturers can reduce wages, and thus obtain their commodities at cheaper rates, while waiting for a rise in the market. Whatever may become of their laborers, they at least are protected to a considerable extent in a market in which scarcity as well as overproduction is caused by law, if they can only wait until demand overtakes supply. But the workingmen, who cannot wait for a better market, must sell their labor for what it will bring, or starve. If they strike, with the market glutted with products under the tariff stimulus, they are in many instances doing what their employers desire. While the strike continues, production is diminished, and the tariff is the same thus protects the manufacturers from competition. In this situation the workingmen, the "protected" workingmen, have the alternative of waiting without employment until another demand springs up, or of giving work at the reduced wages, unless in the meantime their employers send abroad and secure as ample supply of cheap labor.

The workingmen of this country will not always be under the glamour of a false system, which plunders and degrades them with the hollow pretence of affording them protection.

FOSTER and Sherman have joined forces, it is said, against Arthur. It has not been decided as yet which shall have custody of the partnership at Chicago. If it is Foster he will be required to doubt, in view of the experience four years ago, to give heavy bonds.

A BASE FABRICATION.

Exposure of a Vile Attempt of the Republican Members of the Capitals Committee to Manufacture Political Capital by Circulating a Wretched Lie.

A week or two ago the following dispatch was sent out from Washington, and has been printed in nearly all the Republican papers in the land:

"Some interesting pictures of the Yorktown surrender, which, with the balls given in honor of the French officers, and the Mardi-Gras festivities, will be daughter, the daughter of Gen. Lee, Gen. Longstreet, and some other noted Confederate generals, sat in a box which was draped with Confederate flags, that a flag of truce, decorated with the Confederate colors and addressed simply "To the President," was presented to the noted ex-Confederate party on the box, and was so regard. "And," said one of those commissioners, "I did not think that that looked very much like reconstruction. In a good many instances the ladies attached what it would to other messes."

The New Orleans Times-Democrat, one of the most conservative journals in the South, pronounces the story false as follows:

We doubt if there be a single truthful sentence in this whole telegram. It is true that the daughter of Gen. Lee was there, but not that the daughter of Gen. Longstreet was with them. It is also true that the box was draped, but not true that it was draped with Confederate flags. It is true that Mr. Johnson lived was in the box, but it was also true that Admiral Porter, of the United States navy, was with his wife, in the box with him. It is true that a flag of truce was there, but it is not true that it was presented to Mr. Davis. It is true that the second lady in good, but utterly and absurdly false that the flag of truce was presented. In the simple truth is, that the presentation was noticed in the most marked spirit of respect and affection from Gen. Lee's soldiers to Gen. Lee, and that the flag of truce was the sacred emblem of Lee's surrender. Nothing purely political, nothing partisan, nothing of the sort was connected with the occasion. The distinguished gentlemen of a party and honorable character, who were in the box, were there in the Ways and Means Committee room for a young man who had a story to tell.

A Detroit paper gravely announces in its advertising columns:

"Wanted—An intently furnished room in a gentleman already located.

Among the artistic advertising are the following notices:

Two young women want washing.

Wood split cheap.

Tooth extracted with great pains.

A cheerful advertisement is this:

Tey—our cousins. You will never say any other.

In the Washington Evening Star there recently appeared the following suggestive advertisement:

"The prayers and tears of a people are most earnestly requested for the enough pernicious, ungodly church, whose pastor and officers are impertinent polemic slaves, smoth against the wishes of its members.

This cool advertisement appears in a Lincoln paper:

A lady wishes to recommend another lady who, through no fault of her own, has become in diminished circumstances, thinking that if I knew of some one who was rich to subscribe $10 it would place her again in affluent circumstances.

In looking over the pages of a daily paper, one is impressed with the great number of lost dogs. It would seem as if there must be a large community of dogless people who find a dog when they are returned to their owners. And, no matter how ugly the dog, they are always described as beauties, and the family nuisance becomes the family pet as soon as he is hopelessly lost.

SAD ADVERTISEMENTS.

Then there are the sires—poor things—who are advertised as Having left my bed and board without provocation I shall not pay the wages of my wife, or any expense, as I will not pay any debts of her contracting.

A sad species of advertising is that we meet almost every day in the columns of the newspapers.

An American—A seven little girl baby, 6 months old. Must be taken at once.

This seldom fails to elicit an immediate response from the charitable and kind-hearted reader, to whose tenderest sympathies it appeals.—Detroit Free Press.

Bear Instead of Bishop.

A story told by the naturalist Brehm, in a lecture on Siberia, very strongly illustrates the saying, "It is the unexpected that happens."

An inhabitant of the village of Tomski Sowel went in his wagon to a neighboring village to pick up some wood pineapple kernels.

His wagon was already more than half full, when the peasant, coming back to it with a new load, saw in the middle of it a large bear, devouring with undisguised satisfaction the fruit, of which his race is exceedingly fond.

"Ho hold!" cried the terrified man to his horse, Off, of course, went the horse, the more so that, although he had not seen the bear, he had perceived its presence by the sense of smell.

But the bear himself was the most frightened of the three, and began to howl lamentably. This made the horse speed away all the faster.

At being confirmation day, the authorities and all the people were standing at the village limits, waiting for the arrival of the bishop.

On a signal given by a boy who, from the steeple, had seen the cloud of dust raised by the peasant's wagon, the church bells rang joyously, and all the throng of people struck up the hymn, "Gospoding pomilf."

Judge of their astonishment when, as the wagon rushed into the village, instead of the Bishop they saw the miserable bear tumbling on all sides of the wagon, and howling as often as he could get breath enough to do so.

Mayor, aldermen, priest, choir-boys, and peasants fled in all directions, and a few minutes later, the wagon having been overturned, the bear limped back to his native forest.

THE mountains of Gellivara, in the most northern part of Sweden, consist of pure magnetic iron, in numerous layers of several hundred feet in thickness upon the surface of the ground.

The Literature of Advertising.

Business men find it very hard sometimes to write even a simple little direction advertisement in the strict technical phraseology which is the only style allowable in the newspaper columns, and some houses employ a clerk especially for this work. Others leave it to the publisher to see that it comes out in good shape, and often the best talent upon a paper is brought into requisition to write out the virtues of a patent medicine in a sufficiently laudatory manner. Not long ago a man stood absorbed in thought at the counter of a newspaper office in this city. He was writing something on a scrap of paper, and as a friend passed him he caught at him as a drowning man catches at a straw.

"Give me a word," he exclaimed.

"Certainly," said his friend; "what kind of a word?"

"Oh, anything you can think of. It doesn't matter what."

"Has would culminate in?"

"Couldn't be better. Thanks, ever so much," and he inserted the word and handed in the advertisement.

The next morning the friend read:

Fourteen and on collateral loan to secure decrease of gains in enumerated instalments.

Punctuation, or the want of it, is responsible for many of the strange advertisements we read. Take this one for instance:

Wanted—A woman able and willing to wash iron and with three cows.

Wanted—By a German girl just landed in a private family a situation with or without washing.

Wanted—A man to plug the organ and a boy to blow the same.

Wanted—Just a bath and near lawns.

A rather singular announcement appeared in one of our city papers.

A large flat—Two rooms adjoining the above.

Hoosac in rent with all modern improvements. Was undoubtedly could.

Wanted—Two young men for a young man to board in a private family.

A Detroit paper gravely announces in its advertising columns:

Cow—An extremely furnished room in gentleman already located.

Among the artistic advertising are the following notices:

Two young women want washing.

Wood split cheap.

Tooth extracted with great pains.

A cheerful advertisement is this:

Tey—our cousins. You will never say any other.

In the Washington Evening Star there recently appeared the following suggestive advertisement:

"The prayers and tears of a people are most earnestly requested for the enough pernicious, ungodly church, whose pastor and officers are impertinent polemic slaves, smoth against the wishes of its members.

This cool advertisement appears in a Lincoln paper:

A lady wishes to recommend another lady who, through no fault of her own, has become in diminished circumstances, thinking that if I knew of some one who was rich to subscribe $10 it would place her again in affluent circumstances.

In looking over the pages of a daily paper, one is impressed with the great number of lost dogs. It would seem as if there must be a large community of dogless people who find a dog when they are returned to their owners. And, no matter how ugly the dog, they are always described as beauties, and the family nuisance becomes the family pet as soon as he is hopelessly lost.

SAD ADVERTISEMENTS.

Then there are the sires—poor things—who are advertised as Having left my bed and board without provocation I shall not pay the wages of my wife, or any expense, as I will not pay any debts of her contracting.

A sad species of advertising is that we meet almost every day in the columns of the newspapers.

An American—A seven little girl baby, 6 months old. Must be taken at once.

This seldom fails to elicit an immediate response from the charitable and kind-hearted reader, to whose tenderest sympathies it appeals.—Detroit Free Press.

Bear Instead of Bishop.

A story told by the naturalist Brehm, in a lecture on Siberia, very strongly illustrates the saying, "It is the unexpected that happens."

An inhabitant of the village of Tomski Sowel went in his wagon to a neighboring village to pick up some wood pineapple kernels.

His wagon was already more than half full, when the peasant, coming back to it with a new load, saw in the middle of it a large bear, devouring with undisguised satisfaction the fruit, of which his race is exceedingly fond.

"Ho hold!" cried the terrified man to his horse. Off, of course, went the horse, the more so that, although he had not seen the bear, he had perceived its presence by the sense of smell.

But the bear himself was the most frightened of the three, and began to howl lamentably. This made the horse speed away all the faster.

At being confirmation day, the authorities and all the people were standing at the village limits, waiting for the arrival of the bishop.

On a signal given by a boy who, from the steeple, had seen the cloud of dust raised by the peasant's wagon, the church bells rang joyously, and all the throng of people struck up the hymn, "Gospoding pomilf."

Judge of their astonishment when, as the wagon rushed into the village, instead of the Bishop they saw the miserable bear tumbling on all sides of the wagon, and howling as often as he could get breath enough to do so.

Mayor, aldermen, priest, choir-boys, and peasants fled in all directions, and a few minutes later, the wagon having been overturned, the bear limped back to his native forest.

THE mountains of Gellivara, in the most northern part of Sweden, consist of pure magnetic iron, in numerous layers of several hundred feet in thickness upon the surface of the ground.

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 10th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a return of abuses and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES, Secretary.
H. F. PENNINGTON, Chairman.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Riot in Cincinnati.

Last Friday afternoon at Cincinnati, Wm. Berner, who had been tried for murder and found guilty of manslaughter, was sentenced to the penitentiary for 30 years, and to pay all costs of the prosecution. The prisoner had confessed the murder, and the verdict and sentence was not satisfactory to many people in that city. An indignation meeting was held in Music hall, Friday evening, at which many addresses of an exciting nature were made, and loudly applauded. After the meeting, the better element went to their homes, but many of those easily excited remained on the street and discussed the matter further. This body of men began to move toward the jail where the prisoner was confined, and the officers becoming alarmed called the whole police force of the city to help guard the building and prisoners. The presence of the police transformed the large body of citizens into a howling mob, without leaders or organization, and with an avowed determination to hang every one of the forty murderers confined in the jail awaiting trial. An assault was made on jail without effect. At one o'clock fire was applied to the jail, and the fire department prevented from extinguishing it. Gun and ammunition stores were pillaged, supplying an additional horror. This continued until daylight Saturday morning. The excitement was intense all day Saturday, but the mob did nothing until night. At ten o'clock fire was applied to the court house. The militia had been called out but were powerless to do anything effectually, and the firemen could no nothing to save the court house. The mob gained possession of four cannon, and threatened to burn Music hall and blow up the jail if the prisoners were not delivered to them. The fight continued until morning, many good citizens being among the killed, though taking no active part on either side.

Sunday night 3,000 soldiers failed to disperse the mob and the fighting continued until midnight.

On Monday 48 were reported killed and over 200 seriously or fatally wounded. The loss by fire will be over a million dollars, besides valuable records.

"That Ohio Man."

The new editor of the Charlotte Leader replies in a most ungentlemanly manner to our notice of the lack of harmony in the statement concerning his nomination, and the changing of the age of his paper. The language used is unfit for a respectable newspaper, consequently we must omit it. As to the argument: When a new paper is founded, the ruins of one lately deceased, as was the case with the Leader after the Argus had suspended, if there be any desire to connect the two, it is usually done by giving the old number as well as the new at the time of the change. But in this case there was an avowed breaking away. The Argus was a losing business for months before it suspended,—at least that was talked freely at the time,—and not until Mr. Johnson and his associates broke loose from the old order of things, and obliterated it as much as possible from the new and improved, was it possible for the paper to thrive. And there has been no connecting of the two papers until now, when the present editor attempts to give the paper a little additional age by going back to the first establishment of the office in which it was printed. But really age has little to do with the present value and influence of a newspaper. Something else is necessary, as the new manager of that paper will find before he lives in Charlotte a year. As to the personal allusions to the editor of the JOURNAL: If our residence of three years in Charlotte is not sufficient to convince fair minded people that the epithets are insulting and uncalled for, all we can say at this distance will have no effect.

The silk weavers of Patterson N. J., 500 strong, have at last got their eyes open regarding the tariff and have a powerful organization working for free trade. They say their condition is getting worse all the time, wages are going down, while the necessities of life are as high as ever, and they notice that while their employers can always produce statistical evidence of hard times, when their employes want more wages, their mills increase and enlarge every year, and every year the houses of the manufacturers become more magnificent; every year the wives and daughters of the monopolists approach nearer and nearer the magnificence of "Solomon in all his glory," every year the scenes of these manufacturing millionaires spend more and more money, yet they toil not, neither do they spin. Any working man in any line of labor, who will go to work and investigate the subject without prejudice cannot help being convinced that free trade is his only hope of salvation on earth. Cheboygan Democrat.

Not Results.

The Evening News sums up the Cincinnati riot as follows:

1. The 40 murderers against whom it was originally directed are safe and comfortable in their cells.

2. About 40 to 50 citizens, soldiers and police are killed.

3. About 200 more are wounded, some of whom will die.

4. Over a million dollars worth of property has been destroyed, which the taxpayers will have to make good.

Notes and News.

Kalkaska reports trade increasing.

Elk Rapids will have one steamboat from Chicago each week this season and possibly two.

Cameron Bros.' mill at Torch Lake will start soon. They have about 3,000,000 feet of logs on hand.

The bill to extend the hundred period of whiskey sale was lost in the house March 27, by a vote of 46 to 42.

The editors of the Mancelona Herald and Alba Record are now publishing highly creditable and elegantly illustrated biographical sketches of each other.

The Kalamazoo Telegraph of the 30th gives a full and graphic description of the new court house to be erected in that city, at a cost of $60,000.

A defective flue was the cause of a fire in Kalkaska's court house recently. It was extinguished with a loss of $200, covered by insurance.

The Traverse Eagle began volume 20 last week. It is a good paper, and is doing good service for the people in the fight against ring rule and monopoly.

Wm. G. Thompson, of Detroit, has come out for tariff reform, and lower taxes. He has been an active republican party worker, but will soon find plenty of new friends, even if they have voted generally with the democracy.

A bill is under discussion in congress providing for the redemption of the trade dollar at its face until Jan. 1, 1886. If it passes, it will be a bonanza to eastern bankers who are collecting and hoarding this coin for some such legislation.

Ten car loads of hardwood square timber arrived here from the south last Friday. It, together with considerable that has been hauled by teams, is for the European market, and will be sent by vessel from here down the St. Lawrence river. We understand there is to be considerable more to be delivered here.—Traverse Bay Eagle.

In the spring nature intends that the human body should be relieved of the heavy sluggish humors which always accumulate during the winter months, and the very best medicine for accomplishing this object is Paradee's Blood Purifier. It will cleanse and purify the system and drive out all humors and impurities safely and quickly. Price $1.00 for large bottles. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co.

Scientific investigation has proved that nothing but a direct application can cure the many forms of Piles, that so trouble all classes of mankind. In all forms of Piles, immediate and careful attention is needed. By faithfully following the direction given with each box of Paradee's Pile Suppositories a cure is certain. Warranted to give immediate relief. Price one per box. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co.

"That Ohio man," who assumes, through the Charlotte Leader, to convert Eaton county democrats to "Ohio ideas," does not maintain the high standard of excellence to which Mr. F. A. Ellis had brought the paper. We mentioned of "another Ohio man" who undertook to revolutionize the newspaper business in Charlotte, in 1880, discharged all his old help in and winter, imported a new lot which knew nothing about running machinery by steam, and at the end of six months was blown on record as a miserable failure by quietly moving back to Ohio and returning the office to the former proprietor.

Still booming. The daily average circulation of the Detroit Evening News for last week was 45,890. This does not look like rain.

Coughs and colds are the inevitable results of sudden changes in the weather. Immediate attention should be given them so that they may not become established and result in Bronchitis, Congestion, Inflammation or even consumption. Hamilton's Cough Balsam soothes the irritated membrane, and assists in removing phlegm and mucus, that, by its adhesion to the membranes, causes violent coughing. Great relief is received by even those in the last stages of consumption. In croup and whooping cough it is unequaled. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co.

—Scientific engineers say that the bridge over East River is the last large bridge that will ever be erected, and that, had engineers known as much in 1870 as they do now, this bridge would not have been erected. Tunnels are to take the place of bridges.—N. Y. Tribune.

—The Rio Grande Sugar Company Cane May Coming of N. J. have now 1,300 acres of sorghum under cultivation. They have more than doubled the capacity of their works, and look forward to a very prosperous season. The cane is growing finely, and an excellent crop is anticipated.

—A "Commission," presumably of experts, appointed by the French Society of Hygiene, has studied the condensed milk question, and reports that when it is diluted with twice or four times its weight of water it may in some cases be useful as a food for infants, but is always to be considered "incumbentally inferior to good cow's milk."—Health Monthly.

—The dredging of South Carolina rivers for phosphates is a new industry of considerable importance to the territory surrounding Charleston. Some of the crude rock is shipped to Europe, but most of it is ground at home before it goes to market. At the present time the demand is great, and all the companies are working on full time.—Chicago Herald.

FOR SALE.

Eighty acres of land, with or without improvements. Also one seven-eighth interest with only one good work horse, two Texas ponies four years old, well broke; land one five miles out. The above stock is in good condition. Inquire of A. A. Isaacs, on north shore of Pine Lake.

3-30 tf. A. A. ISAACS.

FOR SALE.

SECOND HAND

Stationary Engine and Boiler

Size of cylinder, 10x20 in.; boiler 12 feet long, 42 in diameter, 48 flues. The engine has been thoroughly overhauled, and is practically as good as new. Price and terms cheap. Address

S. M. MFG. CO.

Use of Washburn & Ackert, at the Machine shop.

FOR SALE.

A FINE

Pair of Oxen

Yoke, Chain, and Sled, for Cash. Come Early.

J. MILO EATON.

Fresh Oysters

Just Received.

300 pounds Candy and Nuts.
Two Barrels Fresh Butter.
Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.
Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents.

AT L. L. CARR'S.

New Goods.

At Cost

FOR CASH

For the Next 30 Days.

MISS L. SPAULDING,

Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

NEW GOODS

I am pleased to say that my

Spring Stock

is ready for inspection. Come and see them, and when you want a suit of clothes that are JUST IN STYLE, you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES,

AND

Price to Correspond With the Times.

GEO. W. MILLER.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the receipt for a simple VEGETABLE BALM that will remove TAN, PIMPLES, FRECKLES, MOTH PATCHES and BLACK HEADS in 10 days and beautify the complexion (or produce a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face). Address, inclosing 2c. stamp, Dr. VANDER & CO., 12 Hardey St., N. Y.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from NERVOUS DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and direction for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to benefit by the generous offer should not delay to do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of Consumption by a simple remedy, and being anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the remedy, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Throat and Lung Diseases. Parties wishing the prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

NOTICE OF ATTACHMENT.—State of Michigan, In the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix. The Fourth National Bank of Grand Rapids vs. William T. Addis. Notice is hereby given that on the 16th day of January, 1884, a writ of attachment was duly issued out of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in favor of Fourth National Bank of Grand Rapids, the above named plaintiff, against the lands, tenements, goods, chattels, moneys and effects belonging to William T. Addis, the above named defendant, for the sum of one thousand one and 44-100 dollars ($1,001.44) which said writ was made returnable in the circuit court, on the 16th day of February, 1884.

BLAIR, KINGSLEY & KLEINHANS,
32-34 Attorneys for plaintiff.

NOTICE OF ATTACHMENT.—State of Michigan, In the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix. Lewis Brandes, Walter F. Brown, plaintiffs, vs. John Munroe, James Matthews, defendants. Notice is hereby given that on the 5th day of December, A. D. 1883, a writ of attachment was duly issued out of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, at the office of the clerk thereof, at the village of Charlevoix, in favor of said plaintiffs, against the lands, tenements, goods, chattels, moneys and effects of John Munroe and James Matthews, the defendants above named, for the sum of six hundred and seventy-five dollars, which said writ was made returnable on the 5th day of February, A. D. 1884.

Dated February 6th, A. D. 1884.

CRUCKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for plaintiffs.

32-38

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. R. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes,

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes,

LATEST STYLES.

A FINE STOCK OF

New Boots & Shoes

JUST RECEIVED.

Prices Below all Competition.

L. B. Connor

Opposite Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

WILL M. GILBERT,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting,

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW,

DEALER IN

Hardware,

FARM IMPLEMENTS, ETC.

Charlevoix, Mich.

Advance Lumber Company

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO.
ADVANCE, MICH.

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 141 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, one mile from Bell city depot. A good frame house, and two frame back farms. About 35 acres cleared, balance good beech and maple timber. About one fruit tree beginning to bear. One half mile from school and saw mill. Terms, three thousand seven hundred dollars, with not less than $1,000 down, balance on time, with interest. For further particulars apply to DAVID H. PEAN JR. Charlevoix, Mich.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

STATE OF MICHIGAN } ss.
County of Charlevoix.

In the matter of the estate of

FRANK CHALOUTKA, Minor.

Notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of an order granted to the undersigned, guardian of said minor, by the Hon. Jas. A. Sharpe, Judge of Probate, for the county of Charlevoix, on the 3rd day of March, A. D. 1884, there will be sold at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the front door of Lewis's hall, in the county of Charlevoix, on the premises hereinafter, on the 5th day of April, A. D. 1884, at two o'clock in the forenoon of that day (subject to all incumbrances by mortgage or otherwise existing at the time of sale) the following described real estate, to wit: The north east quarter of the north east quarter of section twenty four (24) in township thirty (30) north of range eight (8) west, containing forty (40) acres more or less.

CHARLES CHALOUTKA,
Guardian.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, Thirteenth judicial circuit, in chancery. Joseph C. Green, complainant, vs. Martha J. Ayers, Martina A. Ayers, et al. defendants. Suit pending in the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in chancery, at Charlevoix, on the 10th day of February, A. D. 1884. In this cause it appearing from affidavit on file, that the defendant, Martina A. Ayers, is not a resident of this state, but resides at Greenville, in the state of Michigan, and out of the jurisdiction of the circuit court of this state; it is ordered that the said defendant, Martha J. Ayers, cause her appearance to be entered herein within four months from the date of this order, and in case of her appearance she shall within twenty days after service on her of a copy of said bill, and notice of this order, and that in default thereof said bill will be taken as confessed by the said Martha J. Ayers. And it is further ordered that within twenty days after service on defendant of a copy of said bill and notice of this order, the complainant cause to be published in the Charlevoix Journal, a newspaper printed, published and circulating in said county, and that said publication be continued therein thereafter once in each week, for six weeks in succession, or cause a copy of said bill and notice of this order to be served on said non-resident defendant, at least twenty days before the time above prescribed for her appearance.

OSCAR P. WISNER,
Circuit court commissioner.

CRUCKSHANK & GRIER,
Complainant's solicitors

Post office address, Charlevoix, Mich.

A true copy, attest:

OSCAR UPRIGHT,
Deputy Register.

32-38

THE JOURNAL.

Charlevoix, Mich., April 3, 1884.

Business Announcements.

One of our last citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

We get a good bargain in Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, or Clothing, by Byron Sees.

The best oysters of the season, going like hot cakes, at Upright, Emery & Co.'s.

Upright, Emery & Co. have just received a choice lot of English breakfast Blackeye, the finest sample ever offered to the trade.

A $10 Suit for $7, and everything at such low prices, all will buy at Byron Sees'.

Upright, Emery & Co. are noted for their Fresh Groceries and Flavoring Extracts.

Fresh Coffees, Teas, Spices, Crackers, Oysters, Foreign and Domestic Dried Fruits, and Canned Goods received this week. Upright, Emery & Co.

DANDY. Do you know that you are liable to attacks of Dyspepsia and all kinds of stomach derangements? Yes, worse still, to that result of kidney and liver disorder that is known as diabetes or possibly Bright's disease. They are often fatal and that in a very short time. Loss of appetite, sour stomach, dizziness or vertigo, dullness, pains in side and back and many others, are last symptoms of disease. Be wise in time. Remember Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure is the sovereign remedy. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co.

Provision Market.

Retail prices to consumers, as corrected every Wednesday evening by UPRIGHT, EMERY & CO., general dealers.

FLOUR, per bbl, $6.00, $7.00, and $8.00.
BUCKWHEAT FLOUR, per cwt, $3.25.
CORN MEAL, per cwt, bolted $2.00; unbolted, $1.95.
HAY, per ton, $8@9.
OATS, per bu, 50c.
GROUND FEED, per cwt, $1.65.
APPLES, per bu, $1.00.
POTATOES, per bu, 50c.
ONIONS, per bu, $1.00.
BUTTER, per lb, 28c.
EGGS, per doz, 20@22c.
LARD, per lb, 12@15c.
HAMS, sm. lb, 14@15c.
SALT PORK, per lb, 8c.
MACKEREL, per lb, 10c.
CHEESE, 10c.
WATER WHITE OIL, 25c.
FARMERS' PRODUCE is good demand.

Fresh Meats from the Market.

MEAT, beef steak, 12@15c; fresh pork, 12@15c; mutton, 12@15c; sausage, 10c; hams, 16c; shoulders, 12c.
TALLOW, 6@7c.

Local News Brevities.

Personal Gossip.

Mrs. Dr. Carlstom started for Chicago yesterday.

H. Lee Iddings is in Albion this week, visiting friends.

I. Shaffer, of Carpenter, gave the JOURNAL a call on Monday.

F. E. Fogg, of East Jordan, gave the JOURNAL a call yesterday.

R. W. Kane has returned from Kalamazoo and other points south.

H. P. Cook is building a barn on his farm purchased of Mr. Hvarnum.

Eli Toulouse got up steam enough on Tuesday to blow the whistle of his tug.

Fred Smith and Al. Washburn returned on Thursday from their visit to Flint.

L. D. Bartholomew returned home from Florida yesterday. He reports a pleasant trip.

Capt. Thompson will try to run the North star to Boyne next Sunday, if the ice continues to settle.

Miss Flora Nelson, who has been teaching school at Cadillac, returned to Charlevoix last Thursday.

Mrs. Wm. Tower, of Charlotte, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. J. Grier, started for home yesterday.

Mr. W. Watson, of Boyne, visited Charlevoix last Friday and Saturday, the guest of the editor of the JOURNAL.

Tip Miller, captain of the life saving station at St. James, spent a few days in Cross Village on his way to his station.

Dr. Lewis recently came to town on a professional visit, making the trip from Charlevoix here in one and a half hours.—Enterprise.

Mrs. Sarah McLean, dressmaker, will in a few days be established in the rooms formerly occupied by O. W. Smith, on Clinton street.

Rev. J. T. Iddings will address a union temperance meeting at the M. E. church next Sunday evening, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U.

F. E. Cole, of Boyne Falls, our former temperance, gave the JOURNAL a call on Wednesday. He has charge of Smith's livery and stage barn at that place.

Amos Fox has sold his stock of merchandise and rented his store to L. L. Hurd, of Detroit, who will take possession as soon as he can arrange matters at home.

E. H. Lapham is getting ready to build on his lots on Main street. His building will be frame, two stories in height, and veneered with brick.—Boyne Hoist.

News Brevities.

Storm signals resumed April 1.

Don't forget to register next Saturday.

Norwood is to have a new town hall.

Geo. Miller's new hats go off like hot cakes.

An addition has been built on Connor's shoe store.

Will Ferguson has a new awning over his restaurant door.

Upright Emery & Co., display a fine line of new crockery.

Union temperance meeting at the M. E. church Sunday evening.

The steamer Gazelle will run on the same route she did last summer.

Since Geo. Miller's new hats were opened nearly everybody wears one of them.

Work has commenced on a new church for the M. E. society of Norwood.

A large stave factory is one of the possible manufacturing enterprises at East Jordan.

Z. N. Garbutt, attorney at law, Boyne City, favors the JOURNAL with a business card this week.

It is rumored that Amos Fox will build two stores on the vacant lots south of his present building.

The Charlevoix resort will have a pavilion and roller skating rink the coming season.—Evening News.

The present bad roads and the difficulty of getting in freight, is a forcible reminder that we need a railroad.

The light-house keepers at Wango shance and Skillagalee are at their posts after four months vacation.—Ex.

It has been intimated by M. C. R. R. officials that they may build a branch to Charlevoix.—Evening News.

The tug Bob Stevenson has been thoroughly overhauled and repaired, and is about ready for a big summer's work.

A cow broke through the ice foot of Mason street last Thursday, and was pretty nearly exhausted before she could be got out.

J. Milo Eaton has begun the erection of a building opposite E. H. Green's residence, to be occupied by himself as an office.

The Charlevoix iron works have a new whistle, and its sound morning, noon, and night, is an improvement on the old order of things.

A. E. Pickard, will erect a store building on State street, East Jordan, 20x45, two stories high, the work on which will be commenced at once.

A citizen of Charlevoix wants the News to inform its readers that there are openings at that place for a pump maker, a tinsmith, a Knapsack maker, and a dentist.—Evening News.

Geo. Duncan retiring, and J. Milo Eaton succeeding, will be the management for the present.

The managers of the Charlevoix summer resort are beginning to prepare for the coming season, and it is rumored it will be made more attractive than ever.—News.

D. Sherwood is building a handsome miniature church for a yard ornament, the outside covering of which is bits of colored glass stuck with putty to the frame.

A move is now being made toward a survey from Elmira to this place for a railroad which may be secured at an early date if our citizens will take hold and work zealously.—Enterprise.

One great need of this town is more store buildings. There is not a vacant store in Charlevoix suitable for a stock of dry goods, or anything of that nature, if anyone wanted to come here.

We have probably seen the worst of the dull times, and may look ahead with a reasonable degree of assurance that in the near future all our local industries will be in a highly flourishing condition.

The new council propose to work for the best interests of the village by seeing to it that the streets and sidewalks are kept in good condition and that the laws in regard to good order are strictly enforced.

Next to Antrim county, Charlevoix county is one of the best counties in Grand Traverse, and is having a steady and substantial growth. It has also some of the best people to be found anywhere.—Progress.

A committee has been appointed at East Jordan, Charlevoix county, to see about water supply for villagers use and for fire protection. The place is booming; will have another hardware store, April 1st, also a shingle mill. It already has an excellent foundry and machine shop, but sighs for a fine line of new crockery.

East Jordan, Charlevoix county, sighs for summer resorters the coming season to catch the speckled trout in Jordan river and otherwise disport themselves. There will be five steamers running there during the season.—Evening News.

When new-comers arrive in our midst and buy village lots or farms, and you know it, then let the printer know it, and the JOURNAL will let every one else know it. Let the outside world understand that we have a goodly share of new home-makers.

We are prepared to print election tickets neatly and promptly. Send or bring in your orders. Remember one thing, however, and that is to have all names written plainly, and then you may be reasonably certain that errors will not occur.

Ed. Belford has built within a few days a new residence on Antrim street and is now finishing the inside. From present indications the building business will boom lively as soon as navigation opens, so that the necessary material can be procured cheaply.

Five new machines have arrived for the manufacturing company, which are being set up this week. More are on the road, and expected daily. As soon as they can commence running, building operations will increase rapidly. Carpenters will then be in good demand.

The Pine Lake house of Boyne City, is represented in our advertising columns this week. There have been numerous improvements made to this house since last season, and we are assured that the traveling public will find excellent accommodations and reasonable rates.

Mr. I. Stauffer, a real estate dealer at Carpenter, Emmet county, recently sold to Julius Fromm, of Batavia, N. Y., forty acres of farming lands, partly improved, in Evangeline township for $700. Mr. F. will continue his improvements and next spring will bring his family here and settle.

At the meeting at the M. E. church last Monday evening, plans for enlarging and improving were submitted by architect Kirpatrick and approved, and the work will progress as soon as the necessary means can be raised, the lack of ready money being the only reason for not beginning work at once.

We have been informed that the stock of the manufacturing company is being "centralized" rapidly, and in order to boom the grist mill project, the proper thing to do is for the gentlemen most interested in the site to come and lend a subscription list with five to eight thousand dollars, and it is thought the balance will soon follow.

From good authority we learn that a new hardware store will be opened in the building recently vacated by Chamberlin & Parmelee. The name of the firm is D. C. Loveday & Co., who are now in Detroit purchasing their stock. H. H. Barker, of St. Louis, one of the firm, is one of the best posted hardware men in the state.—Enterprise.

There is a probability now that L. D. Bartholomew will soon move his hardware stock to the rooms now occupied by J. Milo Eaton's real estate office. A large warehouse and tin shop will be erected on one of the vacant lots between the Odd Fellows' hall and the harness shop. This change is made necessary by Mr. B.'s increasing business, and a desire to get down to this end of Bridge street.

"The Foster' ten party at the Central M. E. church Friday evening was a decided success, as predicted beforehand. That the building was completely thronged is an evidence of its success. The receipts of the evening show that over $54 was added to the treasury.—Lansing Journal. This supper, like many others during the past few years, was furnished by the ladies of the society, and served from 5:30 to 9 o'clock for 10 cents a ticket. They have been popular from the first. Being held in the basement of the church, convenient to the business portion of the city, they are patronized by all classes. They afford a substantial supper for the mechanic, and an hour or two of social chat if he chooses to remain and enjoy it. The ladies of our churches cannot provide entertainment that will produce better results socially and financially.

"Words that Burn" is the title of a book now being introduced to our citizens by B. F. Bisbee. It purports to give the best thoughts of the best authors, upon almost every subject of life, and contains also a biographical index of authors. This last feature is alone worth the price of the book. The book is well indexed, contains 50 full page engravings besides many smaller ones, and is well bound, making a valuable addition to any library.

The coming year will be a booming one for Charlevoix; all outward and external appearances point directly toward it, and internal signs and symptoms are favorable. Business in all branches begins to pick up and the people generally are settling down into a spirit of confidence that dull times will soon be a thing of the past, property is changing hands, real estate is moving more briskly than for many years, and newcomers are looking for locations in our midst.

The following from the Elk Rapids Progress will apply to some extent to Charlevoix, varying, perhaps, the amount of freightage: "If Elk Rapids never gets a railroad, it will be because she will never give a bonus to bring one here. Our freightage here is considerable, say 70 tons a day, and this would be increased probably to 100 tons a day should a railroad touch here. All of the products manufactured during the winter are stored, waiting for navigation, to be taken to the various markets."

When a person is far away from home, there is nothing that brings so much gladness to the heart as a letter from a loved one. Now a newspaper is nothing more than a letter—a large budget of news—and every person having friends at a distance should gladden their hearts by sending them a copy of the home paper each week. It will be a present that carries joy with it, awakens old and familiar recollections, more firmly cements friendships, and proves a well spring of satisfaction on both the donor and recipient.

"I look for a good season for vessel-men," said a well known vessel owner on Saturday, "and I think boats will make more money than they did last year. There is now more grain in Chicago than there ever was before. The lumber centers are crowded with stock that will have to go forward when navigation opens. The wharves at Cleveland are almost bare of iron ore, and it is said that at the opening of navigation there will be a scramble of iron at the furnaces. Last spring the furnaces were well stocked when navigation opened. There is also about double the amount of coal to be shipped this year, and taking all things into consideration, I don't see why vessel men should feel any alarm about the coming season."—Cheboygan Tribune.

Business Enterprise.

W. J. Lewis, of Boyne City, is building what is claimed will be the finest meat market north of Grand Rapids. The building is to be brick, and the furnishing of the saleroom alone will cost over six hundred dollars. There will be two large meat racks, and all counters, scales, shelves, etc., with which the meat will come in contact while waiting for sale, will be covered with white. Other furnishings will be uniform in style with this. The walls of the building are to be completed in about two weeks, and the inside work will be pushed as rapidly as possible.

Historical Society.

Reports to the Journal.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnsin entertained a large audience of the historical society last Tuesday evening.

Mr. John Nicholls presided and the following program was rendered. An evening's program was presented. Kate Smith and Clara Ainslie rendered an instrumental duet. Miss Stephens gave a choice reading. Fred Smith and Al. Washburn sang "Dreamy eyes that haunt me still," as an encore to an April joke. Mr. John Nicholls in the historical paper of the evening evinced a careful thought, and in arrangement, pleased all. A quartet by Mrs. Mayne, Mrs. Dr. Graves, Messrs. Carlstein, and W. A. Smith was a most appreciated feature of the evening's entertainment. The society will meet on Tuesday evening next, at the parlors of the Bridge Street house, which meeting will close the winter's term.

Burgess.

Next Saturday is registration day.

One of Mr. Norman's horses is sick.

John Hewstead has lost a valuable cow.

Sugar making has commenced early.

Tom. Scroggy, is sick with pneumonia.

Capt. Bennett has a nice span of ponies.

Whitford's saw mill is laid up for repairs.

Wiggins 26 of March storm did not materialize.

Dot. Baker was visiting at her father's last Sunday.

Lots of people looking for land in Hayes about these days.

Thos. Murray, Esq., is going to put in 10 acres of peas this spring.

E. H. Burgess has his contract for telephone poles nearly filled.

Log hauling is about finished, and log rolling is about to commence.

W. T. Drake is to remain as foreman for E. H. Burgess this summer.

Dr. Lewis commenced logging on his farm Monday morning, March 31.

Miss Mary Ross intends to go to Scotland with her uncle the coming season.

Mr. Josiah Gibson who has been visiting in Louisville, Ky., is expected home soon.

Elder Robinson has an appointment at Whitford's school house, every two weeks.

Charlevoix was full of Hayesites last Saturday, with quite a sprinkling from other adjacent towns.

The friends of Mrs. W. T. Dake will be pleased to learn that she is recovering from her serious illness.

People's caucus for nominating town officers at Gibson school house, Friday, April 4th, at 2 p. m. By order of committee.

Loren Hamlin is home again from his winter's job and is making preparation for completing his residence which he commenced late last fall.

Willet C. Arnold has a brother visiting him from Ionia county, who is so well pleased with this county that he intends to locate here at no distant day.

Alex Ross, Esq., would be the proper man for commissioner of highways, and if he would accept the nomination he would be elected by a roosting majority.

Charles Gunson, who came from the south part of the state, to visit relatives, was so well pleased with the place that he remained all winter, and intends to stop this summer.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by DUNHAM BROS., real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, where the consideration is $100 or over, for the week ending Tuesday evening, April 1, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

Samuel Clark and wife to Ole Jensen Lyngklip, lots 1, 2, 37, $425.

F. W. Hanover to Tilla Hanover, n w ¼ of s w ¼, n e ¼ of s w ¼, and s ½ of s w ¼ 3-32-6, $200.

J. L. Parmelee and wife to John Chamberlin, s ½ of lot 3, sec 3, 33-7, $100.

John Chamberlin and wife to J. L. Parmelee, s ½ of lot 3, sec 3, 33-7, $100.

Louis Indian and wife to Samuel A. Brown, et al, s ½ of w ½ of s e ¼, 29-32-7, $400.

A. H. Upright and wife to Oscar Upright, lot 70 Upright's addition to Charlevoix, $300.

A. H. Upright and wife to Oscar Upright, lot 9 block 1, Upright's, $100.

A. H. Upright et. al. to Pierce Smith, lot 353, Upright's addition to Charlevoix, $175.

James E. Wylie and wife to Wesbitt & Quinlan, n ½ of sec 2, 32-5, $200.

Benjamin V. Willis to William H. Otis, w ½ of s w ¼ 34-34-8, $100.

Martin Wolff to Martin Wendt, n ½ of n w ¼ 33-34-4, $1,000.

Henry J. Martin and wife to Jos. E. Watson, mid. ½ of s ½ of lot 3 block 4, South Lake, $100.

William H. Wallace and wife to Julius Fromm n ½ of sec 8, 34-34-6, $700.

Richard W. Kane to Frank R. Smith, 39½ acres, n ½ of s e ¼, 2-34-8, $100.

Society Election.

The annual election of the Ladies Christian Union of the M. E. church was held last Wednesday, and the following officers elected:

President—Mrs. J. H. Green.
First Vice President—Mrs. J. T. Iddings.
Second Vice President—Mrs. Hawkins.
Secretary—Miss Esther Battars.
Assistant Secretary—Mrs. Dr. Crouter.
Treasurer—Mrs. D. C. Loveday.

Married.

STEWART—LYNN—On March 31, 1874, at the bride's parents in Charlevoix, by J. T. Iddings Mr. John Stewart, of Marion, and Miss Lavina Lynn, of Charlevoix.

NICHOLSON—HIGGINS—On March 29, 1884, at Boyne City, Mr. Abner Nowland and Mrs. Edith Billings, both of Boyne City.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. But's Catarrh Cure cures Catarrh. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

WE SHALL KNOW.

When the mists have rolled in splendor
From the beauty of the hills,
From the valleys, was in and studies,
Pride is stricken on the rills.
We may read our history better
In the rainbow of the spring,
We shall know each other better
When the mists have cleared away.

We shall know as we have known,
Never more to walk alone,
In the dawning of the morning,
When the mists have cleared away.

When the silvery mists have veiled us
From the faces of our own,
Oft we die in their love has failed us,
And we trod our path alone;
But we meet by sunlight and trifle,
We should trust our hearts by day,
Neither love nor home nurture,
If the mists are cleared away.

We shall know as we are known,
Never more to walk alone,
In the dawning of the morning,
When the mists have cleared away.

When the mists have risen above us,
As our Father knows its place
Free to face with those who love us,
We shall know as we are known.
Love, beyond the Orient meadows,
Love, the Father's smile of light,
Must be here in little the shadows,
Till the mists have cleared away.

We shall know as we are known,
Never more to walk alone,
When the day of light is dawning,
And the mists have cleared away.

HE BROKE UP THE SCHOOL.

"That is the new schoolhouse, is it?" inquired Miss Alice Ray, the "new teacher," as the driver's plodding little team passed by a little white house standing endwise to the road, inclosed in a rather dilapidated fence.

"Yes, that's where you'll hold forth," remarked Uncle Zeke Woodhams, "but I'm allcured you won't hold out long, for we've got the toughest set of boys in the State," and Uncle Zeke gave a kind of cackling little laugh as he thought of the final, demure little damsel at his side controlling the boys of Bear Creek School.

"But don't the directors expel them when they are beyond the control of the teacher?" asked Alice, her heart beginning to sink at the prospect before her.

"Expel 'em! no, we never expel nobody; if a teacher can't boss the school we just let it boss him; it ain't our fight, an' the school here generally bosses the teacher, and that's been some pretty good men licked in that schoolhouse by the boys.

"I did not know the school was so unruly," said poor Alice, wishing heartily that she had hired out as a washerwoman instead of trying to teach the savages of Bear Creek.

"Oh, well, maybe it won't be so bad this winter; Jim Turner, he's one of the toughest of 'em; he'll be 21 in a month, and you'll get rid of him; but that's the Brindleyboys, they're mighty nigh as bad."

Poor Alice listened with a sinking heart. The cold, hard duties before her were dreary enough at best; but to go alone and unknown into a strange neighborhood to teach her trial school, and to be met at the outset by such dark prophecies, made her feel homeless indeed. She was naturally a timid, shrinking little thing; and if she had possessed anywhere on the whole broad earth a roof to shelter her she would have turned back from Bear Creek school even then. But she had no home. Her mother had died when she was but 14, and she had kept house for her father two years, when he died, leaving her alone. Before he died he advised her to expend the little sum he would be able to leave her in fitting herself for a teacher, and Alice had fulfilled his wishes literally that day when she had completed her course of study at the normal school she had barely 210 left, and when she paid Uncle Zeke for hauling her and her little trunk from the nearest railroad town to the district where she was to teach, she had but $5 left.

On Monday morning as she started for the schoolhouse she felt as if she was going to the scaffold. Her course of pedagogy in the normal institute had included no such problem as this school promised to be, and if it were not for very shame she would have given her single $5 bill to say one to take her back to the railroad and pay her fare to D., the town where she had attended school.

When she arrived at the schoolhouse about twenty or thirty pupils were grouped around talking, but a spell of silence fell upon them as she walked up and saluted them with a "good morning" which was more like the chirp of a frightened bird than anything else. As she unlocked the door and entered what she had already began to regard as a chamber of torture, two or three slowly followed her into the room, and, depositing their books upon the middlest seats, took seats, and fixed their eyes upon her with a stare that did not help to strengthen her nerves.

All the rules and regulations of her "Theory and Practice of Opening Schools Upon the First Day" seemed to vanish and leave her head whirling in dizzy helplessness. She tried to think of some cheerful remark, but her brain refused to form the thought and her tongue clove to the roof of her mouth. She could see in the faces of her pupils, most of whom were now in the school-room, that they were aware of her fright and enjoyed it thoroughly. By a strong effort she partially recovered herself and bravely resisted the temptation to lean her head on the desk and have a good cry. She felt that she must do something or faint, so she rang the bell, though it lacked fifteen minutes to 9. She began taking down the names and ages of her pupils, and by the time this was completed she began to feel more at ease. She then began examining the pupils in the different branches in order to assign them to their proper classes. She had finished the examination in all the branches except the advanced reading class, which was principally composed of grown girls and young men, among whom was the terrible Jim Turner, of whom she had been warned.

Several of the members of the class had read, and it was now the turn of Moses Bradley, a large, heavy-set fellow, with small, malicious eyes and a general air of ruffianism. When he was called upon to read he did not rise from his seat, but began to read in a thick, indistinct voice from a book hidden in his lap.

"Mr. Bradley, will you please stand up when you read?" asked Alice.

"I can read just as well sittin' down," replied the fellow with a dogged air.

"But it is one of the rules in a reading class to stand up to read." When Alice, her heart quaking with fear as she foresaw the incipient rebellion.

"I reckon you will have to make a new rule for me then," impudently answered Moses, glancing sideways at his companions with a grin of triumph.

"If you do not obey me I shall be obliged to punish you," said Alice, bravely, though she could scarcely stand up.

"I guess all the punishment you could do wouldn't break any of my bones," replied the ruffian, leering at her impudently.

"But I can break your bones for you in half a minute, and I'll do it if you don't stand up and read as the teacher asked you to," said a voice at the other end of the class, and Alice looked in the direction and saw Jim Turner step from the class and face the astonished Moses.

Moses's insolent manner abated in an instant, his face turned pale, and he muttered something about not being "bossed by other boys," but he stood up as he was commanded.

Alice could have kissed her young champion for very gratitude, but she mustered all the dignity she could command, and said:

"Mr. Turner, I cannot allow you to interfere in the management of my school; take your seat."

The youth obeyed without a word, but kept his eye on Moses, as if waiting for any delinquency. After this little episode the exercises proceeded without interruption till noon.

Alice had no appetite for dinner. She leaned her throbbing head upon the desk and wondered wearily how long she could endure this.

She was aroused by one of the little girls running up to her, exclaiming:

"Teacher, teacher, the big boys are fighting!" She followed the child, exclaiming: "Oh, why did I ever come into such a den of wild beasts?" At the rear of the schoolhouse stood Jim Turner engaged in a hand-to-hand contest with Moses Bradley and his two brothers, both of whom were larger. As Alice stepped around the corner Jim sent Moses reeling to the earth, and then turned like a lion upon his two remaining assailants. They rushed at him from two sides, and but Jim was active as a panther, and Bill Bradley fell as if shot, from a left-handed blow, and his brother Jim followed him in an instant. By this time Moses had gained a foothold and rushed upon Jim, but the latter evaded the blow, and, wrenching the bat from his hand, knocked Moses headlong with a blow of his fist.

As the discomfited trio arose Jim laughed lightly and asked them "how they liked it as far as they had got," peeled the bat out of the hands of Moses, and called out, "Come on, boys, let's have a game of ball."

The combat ended so quickly that Alice had no chance to interfere, but she felt that it would not do to let this open violation of school rules pass unpunished, so she rang the bell. When the pupils were assembled she called the culprits up to the desk, and asked what the fight was about and who began it. The Bradleys stood sullen and silent, but Jim answered, "I would rather not tell what it was about, but I began it by knocking Mose Bradley down." Alice knew the fight was the result of Jim's espousal of her cause in the reading class, and her cheek faltered as she said: "Then I shall have to punish you; hold out your hand."

Jim obeyed her instantly. She took up the ruler with a trembling hand and began the punishment. She had never changed a muscle. The look upon it was one of quiet obedience in which there was no trace of either bravado or sullenness. As Alice inflicted the blows upon the hand so quietly held out to her, the thought rushed upon her mind that she was smiting the only hand that had been raised to befriend her in that lawless region.

Her face grew pale, the blows fell falteringly, the tears began to run down her cheeks, the ruler fell from her hand, she sank into her seat, buried her face in her hands, and burst into a storm of sobs.

Then Jim's countenance changed. His lip quivered, he dashed his hand across his eyes to clear them of unnatural dimness, and the great lump in his throat seemed to choke him. A chuckle from Mose Bradley recalled his self-possession, however, and he took a step or two toward the latter with eyes that fairly blazed with hot indignation.

Mose rapidly retreated a step or two, and his chuckle died an unhappy death, and for a full minute silence reigned over the school-room. At last Alice raised her head and in a broken voice dismissed the pupils to the playground.

As the children passed out she heard some say, "So you got a whipping after all, Jim," and Jim's reply, "Yes, and I got enough to pass some of it around if anybody is anxious about it."

At 4 o'clock she rang the bell in a feeling of utter despair; but the school ever moved more smoothly than did her school that afternoon. Quiet obedience, study, good lessons, and respectful attention were universal. But Alice had determined to quit the school; she felt as if she would rather be the poorest washerwoman than to be jeered, hulliled, and tortured for mouths at a time by a set of brutal ruffians, whose parents employed her for the sole purpose of enthroning this martyrdom.

To when Alice broached the schoolhouse door that evening it was with a mingled feeling of relief and humiliation that she started to offer her resignation to the directors. As she left the schoolhouse she saw Jim Turner a few yards ahead of her, walking rapidly toward Bradley's shop, and his pace and manner stopped and respectfully waited until she had overtaken him.

"Mr. Turner," she said, "I am going away in the morning, and I wish to express my thanks for your firm defense of me in the school to-day, and to ask your forgiveness for the punishment I so unjustly inflicted on you," and in her earnestness Alice held out her little, trembling hand, and Jim instantly grasped it.

"I have nothing to forgive," said he; "you could not do otherwise, you knew I could; I, but you are surely not intending to quit the school?"

"Yes," answered Alice, "I would rather die than pass through three days such as I have passed to-day."

"But you will have no more trouble; there is no one in the school that would give you trouble, except the Bradleyboys, and as long as I am there I will answer for their good behavior."

At last Jim's eloquence prevailed, and Alice finally consented to teach a week longer, and at the end of that time she decided to stay, for never did a school move along more smoothly. At her request Jim was allowed to remain during the term, and as soon as it closed he went to college.

Alice taught the Bear Creek school successfully for three years, but in the end Uncle Zeke's prophecies was verified, for Jim Turner came back and took up the school.

He married the teacher.

Buzzards in Charleston.

Well do I recall a visit made early in the morning to the city market one year ago, and my surprise to see such flocks of these ungainly birds hopping about, picking up the scraps. The market-keeper, noticing my interest, remarked that he was a nuisance shorn of their intelligence, and what I then saw was really corroborative in part of his story. The birds were collected on the peaked roof of the market-house, and they did not seem to be in any hurry to come down to the street to gather the scraps tossed away by the butchers had rejected. I asked him why they did not—were they afraid? He hadn't seen any yet, sir!" "Why, the inspector, sir. These buzzards then turn their heads nobly till he inspects," and presently as spoke up, "Here he comes," and I looked up the street, marveling much what kind of a man I was getting, for what had a market inspector to do with a lot of carrion birds? My confidence was fast vanishing. "Not there, sir, up there; don't you see him?" All I saw in the direction he indicated was a few large birds flying toward the market. "That's him—watch him." I saw a buzzard alight on the roof, and the color of his back was a little redder, I thought, and I did see this fellow hop around, then down he came in the street, and presently the whole of the flock followed.

The market man, still pointing out the "inspector," suggested to me that I would hay some meat at a neighboring stall lie would show me how these birds were, and perhaps they suspected that I came from a city where man was not so friendly terms with the buzzard family. "Then birds," said he, "knows mor'n some men; they knows the day of the week, and when Sunday comes just like a Christian, and up at the slaughter pens they can pick out the fat cattle and wait for him." The scraps of meat being purchased, he selected two of the toughest thinks and tied them at each end of a string about six feet long, casting this in the street. The birds fought in bunches for the chunks, one trying to pull one way, another the other way; they would hold the cord with their feet like a dog, till finally one more courageous or hungry than the rest swallowed one chunk, the string hung in his throat, and he immediately disgorged at the other chunk of meat, our gourmand braced himself and tried to keep down the dose, and everything in him most good, but his grip was not strong enough, he could not hold the chunk down. A strain at the cord by the other side—a disembodied neck. "He's lost it," cried the market man—and the much-coveted morsel returned to terra firma, to be once more fought for, and so the ludicrous masquerade, company of birds, hopping sideways, jostling each other with their distended wings, fought and quarrelled for their breakfast.—Cor. Baltimore Day.

A Lesson in Good Breeding.

The following story has its moral: An elderly gentleman started across a broad street. His cane, being half-way abroad, started at the same moment from the other side. The gentleman had made pools of mud on either side of the crossing. The old gentleman paused, and, turning to the other, had the young woman in front of him literally bow down on him with no idea that he would not plunge his fresh-polished gaiter into the slop on the right of the city crossing, he and man bowed at the mud, he looked at the young lady, and then he waited until she was within reach of him, when he gently laid finally taking her hands in his, held her a little in a low tone: "My dear young lady, I cannot step into the mud, I would give you the way if it was necessary—any gentleman would. But it is not necessary, because yes and you compromise only walk single file and not force anybody off. Always remember that while it is the duty of a gentleman to be polite and chivalrous to ladies, it is a woman's duty to be considerate and not force him to exercise a self-sacrifice." At first the girl was astonished, then she blushed as about three years, perhaps a little longer, of serving its purpose as circumspect, is metamorphosed into bubbles, birds, and other figures. The process of the destruction of the bubbles is an interesting one.

The venders will often see in the daily papers a paragraph something like this: "National bank notes received for redemption to-day, $500,000." The next day these notes are carried to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and placed in a machine containing immense knives, which clip the notes into fragments. Its separation is conducted under the supervision of three officers of the Treasury Department, especially detailed for this business. No one is allowed to be present at this daily maceration of the notes except the officials and the men who run the machine. They are compelled to remain in the room until each separate note is destroyed. They must account in detail afterward to the redemption bureau of each note; and, should one become lost or mislaid, and afterward find its way into circulation, the result would be the immediate discharge of the three gentlemen who daily have in their custody from $500,000 to $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 notes and bonds. The shreds are reduced to pulp, and then, by a patented process, this mass is molded into figures of birds and animals and sold as souvenirs for a dollar each. Congress is quite him to ask a blessing on the food. He would either sprain his wrist or fire his turkey through the window in an attempt to cut it in two.

It is a good lesson—though it may be a hard one—for a man who has dreamed of literary fame and of making himself rank among the world's dignitaries by such means, to step aside out of the narrow circle in which his talents are recognized, and to find how utterly devoid of significance, beyond that circle, is all that he achieves and all he aims at.—Nathaniel Hawthorne.

HUMOR.

ALL miners are not successful, but many dig in vain.

UPS and downs in high-school life—the stairways.

IN spite of all that can be said in favor of Adam and Eve, they were undoubtedly a shiftless pair.

AN Eastern editor says: "The devil is not as black as he is painted." D. w. Fast editors are always "painted" enough for a reserved-seat ticket.—Norristown Independent.

BEWARE, you I world, how thou despisest
The humble of thy acquaintance, and bestow
Thy good on the poor, lest thou be found
Thy bread cast on a pudding.
Lest thou offers bone loaded a tooth
That thought a man worth a 2-d cochon.
It may wrinkle a man sleeve worse
Than ever thy tailor made. Or, lest thou
Throw wit to a dull ass, and impudence,
Where he is very much in place,
Meet thy mortal enemy in every dog Jewish.

A COUNTRY girl, coming from the field, being told by her pastor one day that she looked as fresh as a daisy, blushed with deep, said: "Well, I wasn't any fellow by that name, but it was pretty nigh time that I kissed her. I told him that every one in town would find it out."

THAT was a fine piece of irony of Pagnus, when he had got out the design for a magnificent cathedral, to the E.Ib.ishop, and the committee of the building fund wanted him to reduce the price by £10,000 "Stay, ob shittings, mone, gentlemen," he wrote, "and have a nice spire!"

"NOW, you must converse in nothing but French," said Monsieur the Professor to his pupils. Silence immediately fell on the class for the space of a quarter of an hour, when the professor exclaimed, "What? Nothing but silence? Zat is the very opposite of French."

"AND did the man get off, Pat?" says his friend. "Share and he did that," says Pat; "he proved an alibi, yer know." "No! That's that, now?" "Sure, he haythen! Share, and wasn't he in the alley by Mickey's saloon, all the while, now? and wasn't in the fight at all, at all?—Pat Hunter.

THERE is a luminous paint which renders objects visible in the dark. Let now the Chicago belle will be putting it on their cheeks, as a sort of guide when the gas burns low, so that now when a youth sees two spots of light, about two feet apart, he knows there is a Chicago mouth between one somewhere, and don't need to waste any time, except that required to make a detour about her fairy slippers.—The Traveler.

The Right of Discovery.

We may take it for granted that civilization dislikes to be "discovered," to suffer this carries with it the impression of inferiority. There is always a certain conceit and assumption in the act of discovery. It says that we who make the discovery are known, and we condescend to introduce you into the circle of the world that is known. Often the discovery is nothing more than an exhibition of the ignorance of those who make it; but this does not trouble the discoverers. The sublime conceit of the Greeks that all outside their own confederacy was barbarism, was not disturbed by finding in Egypt a civilization older and a refinement superior to their own. The early adventurers and missionaries who penetrated China really thought they were following the footsteps of the first inhabitants of that land whose people had been highly organized thousands of years before Europe began to emerge from the darkness which had discovered gunpowder, and invented printing, and knew how to make porcelain. It was China that was the discovered Europe. The Parisians in spite of the disturbance of the discovery of the Athenians in possessing the art of discovery. There is nothing amusing in a Parisian's rage with which Theophile Gautier crosses the barriers of his exclusiveness and into the provinces on a voyage of discovery, and with heels-of-his-boots pushes on into the unknown land of Brittany. The Parisians are, perhaps, the only Occidental people who are absolutely indifferent to the pretense of discovery. The Chinese, Turks, and Parisians are sensitive to foreign opinion of their city. We in America have been a good deal discovered, and ought to be used to the process by this time. The Indians were unduly disheartened under it, and perhaps their successors have inherited something of their prejudiciousness at least that is the prevailing one in Europe. It is exhibited in a dislike to be gazed at and described, and something new and wild. Europe was for a long time content with its early impressions—vast forests, pestilence, wild men, a society of barbarism, tempered by the bowie-knife and the rifle. Its fortunately for us, it has begun to be suspected in these later days that the opinion needs revisal, and the only and pure impartiality and philosophical souls of reflection have begun to be "inspecting its institutions," of representing the looks and manners of its women—always a fruitful topic with your true discoverer—and of accounting generally for the American phenomenon. The English show the most commendable zeal in this duty, and enter upon it according to their lights, from the Trollopes down to the Spencers. They are amused, they are grieved, they are amazed, they praise, they admonish, they "explain." It is fortunate that in a genuine desire to make us known to the world, and to make us a part of it, for which we always struggle, we get credit. What deeply wounds us, however, is that when we are given over to discovery, a Hawthorne or an Emerson, to discover and report on England, we are met with a sort of wonder that such a man should be found among the favored people. We have two sides, and we claim right of discovering other people.—Cheers Dudley Warner, in Harper's Magazine.

Novel Use of Greenbacks.

"What becomes of all the greenbacks and bank-notes after they have served their five years of usefulness?" is a frequent query. A bank-note has its life just the same as all other things useful. What an interesting story the travels of a greenback, from the moment it leaves the mint, and returns to the innovating machine, would make. The average life of a bank-note is about three years, perhaps a little longer. After serving its purpose as circulating medium it is redeemed, and, as it is metamorphosed into bubbles, birds, and other figures. The process of the destruction of the bubbles is an interesting one.

The venders will often see in the daily papers a paragraph something like this: "National bank notes received for redemption to-day, $500,000." The next day these notes are carried to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and placed in a machine containing immense knives, which clip the notes into fragments. Its separation is conducted under the supervision of three officers of the Treasury Department, especially detailed for this business. No one is allowed to be present at this daily maceration of the notes except the officials and the men who run the machine. They are compelled to remain in the room until each separate note is destroyed. They must account in detail afterward to the redemption bureau of each note; and, should one become lost or mislaid, and afterward find its way into circulation, the result would be the immediate discharge of the three gentlemen who daily have in their custody from $500,000 to $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 notes and bonds. The shreds are reduced to pulp, and then, by a patented process, this mass is molded into figures of birds and animals and sold as souvenirs for a dollar each. Congress is quite sure that some little object will be composed of what once was $100,000,000 worth of money.—Hartford Globe.

It is a good lesson—though it may be a hard one—for a man who has dreamed of literary fame and of making himself rank among the world's dignitaries by such means, to step aside out of the narrow circle in which his talents are recognized, and to find how utterly devoid of significance, beyond that circle, is all that he achieves and all he aims at.—Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Trees.

Thank God for trees! What glad-ness does the sight bring, and how our souls are warmed! We can not change residence with the infinite forty acre or one-half acre, or a dwelling, and yet we have the same supremacy of such a region! Better than money, better than wealth, better than the wealth of the world within our happier clime, for the summer's heat, and a protection against the winter's storms.

What a wondrous significance is there in our trees and friends! As we look around, the proud and lofty pine, the proud and lofty oak, and tell the story of centuries, as emblems of grandeur and endurance! And the "silver-leaved" poplars, emblem the brave, fearless and ever erect in temperament as in color, the dangerous pines, clothed in perennial beauty, whether filling the air with fragrance, or forming in the cones along some far-off mountain tops.

Such charm has within the soft, cool shadows in a grove of elms, the towering cedars, the lofty maples, blessed in aches, meet for lovers' vows.

The wide-spreading elements, and the ever-spreading elements, and the ever-spreading elements, and the ever

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., April 3, 1884.

Recent Legal Decisions.

False accusations of adultery constitute such cruelty as will authorize a divorce.—Supreme Court of Texas.

One cannot set up his own fraud as a defense to a contract entered into by him. Public policy will not tolerate such a defense.

A promise made by one person to pay the debt of another, if he does not is void, unless in writing.—Supreme Court of Wisconsin.

A contract made in Michigan which by its terms must be preformed in part on Sunday, is void.—U. S. Circuit Court, Michigan.

Where a man and woman who are doing business as partners marry each other, the marriage works an instantaneous dissolution of the partnership.

A railroad company crossing a public highway is bound to keep the approaches to the crossing in a safe condition for travelers on the highway.

Where a will has once been expressly revoked by a later one, nothing can ever be claimed under it, even though the later one has been lost or destroyed.

The title to a promissory note, delivered upon certain conditions, can not pass, as between the parties, until those conditions have been complied with.—U. S. Supreme Court.

One who has no interest in the life insured, cannot for the purpose of speculation merely acquire by assignment or otherwise a valid title to the policy or the moneys to become due on it.—Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

It is the duty of a railway company in stopping its cars at a station, to stop at such a place where it would be safe for passengers to alight, and if a passenger, using proper care himself is injured by reason of a breach of such duty, the company is liable.

A railroad company which is made liable by statute for injuries occasioned to stock by reason of its failure to properly fence the track, is liable only for injuries occasioned by actual contact and not from those resulting from fright.—Supreme Court of Indiana.

A mortgage given with the intention to defraud creditors, while void as to them may be enforced by the mortgagee where no question as to creditors arises and the mortgagor cannot set up his fraudulent intention as a defense.—Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

A married woman in this state has no general power to make promissory notes or other contracts, and she must be shown to have contracted in reference to her sole property in order to make her liable. She is not liable on a note signed by her with her husband merely as surety.

A gas company is a public corporation and is bound to furnish gas to every citizen who wishes it in those localities where its pipes extend. It may, however, require reasonable surety that the citizen will comply with his contract if the gas is furnished.—Supreme Court of Michigan.

The penalties of the statute regarding the sale of liquor on Sunday are imposed upon those whose saloons are not kept closed on that day, and no other act is necessary to constitute the offense. The intent is immaterial, and it is no defense that the saloon was opened by one in the saloon keeper's employ and not by himself.

A conductor of a train has no authority by virtue of his employment to bind the company by his promise to awake a sleeping passenger when he reaches his station so as to make the company liable if the conductor forgets and carries the passenger past his station. The passenger sleeps at his own risk.—Supreme Court of Georgia.

A woman suing for breach of promise to marry, may show that she has no independent means, and may put in evidence the letters written to her by the defendent before he broke the engagement, the jury may consider the length of the engagement and give damages for injury to her feelings or reputation and for any other circumstances of indignity.

One who is entitled to the possession of premises may remove property left there by a previous tenant if he exercises such care in doing so as the nature of the case demands; and if he leaves it in such a condition that the owner by reasonable diligence can take it uninjured, he is not bound to house it, or otherwise protect it until the owner sees fit to take possession.

W. W. Johnson, of Forest Home, very properly and justly cause to grief on trial of the legality of the tax assessment roll for 1881, at the March term of the circuit court, held at Bellaire. Judge Rinsdell, presiding. Mr. Johnson has been supervisor of Forest Home for several years, and has done a heavy business in taxing non-residents and a light business in taxing residents of the township, thereby making himself quite popular with the voters of the township. But the non-residents were dissatisfied with this high handed outrage of taxing wild lands nearly double the amount of improved farms, and some of them paid their taxes under protest. But the Elk Rapids Iron Co. and a number of other parties determined to test the legality of the assessment and commenced suit in the circuit court. This case was managed for the contestants by Hon. F. R. Williams and a verdict rendered by the court declaring the assessment roll for the year 1881 in the township of Forest Home null and void. This will be a lesson to supervisors who hanker after an opportunity to get things solid on non-residents.—Elk Rapids Progress.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hull's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co. 8-60

G. W. JEFFERIES,

Dealer in

Fresh and Cured Meat

Fresh and Salt Fish,

AND VEGETABLES.

Fat Stock and Farm Produce Wanted.

West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS,

Patent Medicines, all Kinds,

Imported and Domestic Perfumery,

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Burhoden's new

Opera Block

JOSEPH HYLAND,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Boiler Maker,

Sheet-Iron Worker,

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitings,

Boots and Shoes.

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at actual cost, as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. Remember, I have marked these goods down at actual cost and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark.

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

THIS IS THE SAME

OLD FOX

OF BY-GONE YEARS,

And he is, this spring and summer, giving the hounds a hard run to catch him. They are all after him, in full cry, but he distances them all.

The Old Reliable Establishment in Charlevoix

Is full to overflowing with the most complete assortment of

DRESS GOODS, CLOTHING

Boots and Shoes,

Hats and Caps, Gents' Goods,

Ladies' Goods, Crockery, Glassware, Carpets,

Groceries, Provisions, Flour & Feed

And you can't guess anything we haven't got

FRESH.

Our sales thus far this year are far in excess of the same time a year ago, and are daily increasing, which attests the popularity of our establishment.

REMEMBER

We deliver promptly all goods to steamers, stages, private houses or resorts, and we give our customers prompt attention and perfect satisfaction.

COME AND SEE US

Yours,

AMOS FOX.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 39. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, APRIL 10, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

is published every Thursday morning

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

office over T. D. Smith's grocery,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

CHEEVER, SLANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law. Office in Barlow Block, Charlevoix, Mich. A. S. CHEEVER, SLANK, C. J. GRIER.

DART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake st., east of post office, Petoskey, Mich.

FRED A. MAHER, Attorney at Law, First door E. Mich.

FRED C. LANE, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Collections promptly attended to. OFFICE, TO LOAN.

W. A. JERSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Circuit Court Commissioner, Petoskey, Mich. Building contractor on Mitchell St., Petoskey, Mich.

J. M. CLARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

NORTON, KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law. Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

O. C. ANSTINE, Attorney and Solicitor, and U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

N. S. SABRUTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX. Capital $50,000. Savings department. Deposits secured by pledge of government bonds, real estate, and approved notes for more than above amount. Money to loan on first mortgages, at lowest rates. Exchange, REVOLVER & SIMONS.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sabbath school, Sunday evening at 6 p. m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7 o. m. Seats free. A. E. VANACKER, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sabbath school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. J. T. JOHNSON, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

CHARLEVOIX HOOK AND LADDER FIRE COMPANY meet the first and third Tuesday evenings of each month. H. F. HOSMER, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY

B. SUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. MILO EATON, Proprietor. Gen. Dealer in Stock. Only Livery-Boat Stage line in Charlevoix. Good Saddle Horses a Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

J. A. CARLSTEIN, M. D., Office at the Lindwide.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

N. C. GRAVES, M. D. Office in New Block, Charlevoix.

W. W. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARDIA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loans, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 149, meets second Monday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Sycamore Lodge No. 207, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 293, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

F. & A. M.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 327, meets on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

A. BUTLER, President. A. E. UPHAM, Vice President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money to loan on approved paper at reasonable rates. Deposits received. Collections given careful attention and remittances promptly made.

O. S. TOWNSEND, Cashier.

1872 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.

PURITY, POLITENESS.

WE MAKE IT A POINT TO SELL ONLY

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

OUR PRICES WILL ALWAYS BE AS LOW AS

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

CAN BE SOLD.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

E. T. BROWN & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS' AGENTS,

Portable and Stationary Engines,

Boilers, Mill and Wood-working Machinery,

Mill Supplies, Threshers, and Threshing Engines.

Bargains in Second-Hand Machinery.

WRITE FOR PRICE AND CATALOGUE.

WEST BRIDGE ST., GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

PINE LAKE HOUSE

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the accommodation of the traveling public.

Pioneer House,

A. E. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

United States Hotel,

Geo. W. CHILDS, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

Hours thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

Sewing Machines CHEAP.

A few fine sewing machines for sale at ten dollars each. Well used and have cost $50.

EVERY MACHINE WARRANTED

D. S. WAY.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

Has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. Call and be convinced.

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Musical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best time-piece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

O. W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. Job work promptly done to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order.

FOR SALE.

A FINE

Pair of Oxen

Yoke, Chain, and Sled, for Cash. Come Early.

J. MILO EATON.

Fresh Oysters

Just Received.

300 pounds Candy and Nuts. Two Barrels Fresh Butter. Golden Thread Sauer Kraut. Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 30 Cents.

AT L. L. CARR'S.

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view at Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

Gen. Chas. G. Gordon,

MORE FAMILIARLY KNOWN AS "CHINESE GORDON."

Over in Soudan, in Khartoum, on the White Nile, this famous general is now threatened with annihilation. As the special agent of the British Government General Gordon was dispatched up the Nile on a mission of conciliation and reassurance to the Soudanese, and for a short time after his arrival in Khartoum and the issuance of two remarkable proclamations declaring that the rights of the natives would be protected and the slave trade again allowed, it seemed to the world that General Gordon, with a handful of men armed with the diplomacy of peace offerings, would prove a conquering herald against the army and cause of the false prophet, El Mahdi. But a reaction occurred and to day the situation is of the most alarming character for the personal safety of General Gordon. Even while this article is in type the news may be flashed across the continent that Khartoum has fallen, and with it brave "Chinese Gordon."

General Gordon was the youngest son of the late Lieut. Gen. H. W. Gordon, R. A. After receiving a military education at Woolwich Academy he served in the Crimean war with great credit. In 1860 he visited China and by a bold and dashing, yet judicious support of the Chinese emperor in the Taiping campaign he earned great honor and credit from both the British and Chinese government, and henceforth was known as "Chinese Gordon." His reputation now grew world wide. The late Khedive of Egypt, Ismail Pasha, called General Gordon to his aid in abolishing the infamous slave trade and strengthening his decreasing power. After a labor of five years on the White Nile, in Darfour and Cordovan, he had partly accomplished his mission and returned to London, as the present Khedive, Tewfik Pasha, was not favorably disposed to him. The present Egyptian complications induced Gladstone to again send General Gordon into that country as a conciliator. His loss would be a calamity to his government. He is at present fifty-four years of age.

The Regulators of Wages.

A colony of twenty-five families on Tuesday left Pittsburg and its smoke to seek homes at Seattle in Washington Territory. The reason given for the move was that foreign immigration gave the employers a chance to reduce wages to a point so low as to make it necessary to change occupations. Several hundred other families are prepared to follow the first ones in case the venture shall prove a success.

This movement is not a novel one. Fall River and other factory towns in New England maintain a steady flow of people to the new lands of the west, and in times of depression the emigrants go in colonies as they have just gone from Pittsburg. It is this resort to farming lands which by lessening the supply of labor tends to keep wages up; but the movement is counteracted by immigration from Europe which floods the labor market.

These two mutually opposing tendencies are the real regulators of wages; while the tariff at best plays only a minor part, and often is altogether inactive. Employers do not give what they can afford to pay but what they are compelled to pay. They buy labor in the cheapest market. Where a tariff raises the margin of profit, laborers, if thoroughly organized, may compel employers to advance wages until competition among producers diminishes profit so that wages have to be cut down. Then the result of the tariff is to place manufacturers on a permanently high plane of cost of production and wages gain nothing whatever.

The only way in which wages can be permanently increased in this country is to make America what England is to-day—the workshop of the world. When we are manufacturing for Mexico and South America, for Australia and China, then there will be plenty of work for all, and wages will rise. But while we are hampered as at present with taxed raw materials our laborers too quickly flood the small domestic market with their productions and then, there being no work for them to do in the factories, they must go to farming. Talk about the tariff diversifying industries! It is every day driving men out of manufacturing.—Detroit Times.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hull's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co. 8-60

In the spring nature intends that the human body should be relieved of the heavy clammy humors which always accumulate during the winter months, and the very best medicine for accomplishing this object is Parmelee's Blood Purifier. It will cleanse and purify the system and drive out all humors and impurity safely and quickly. Price $1.00 for large bottles. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Scientific investigation has proved that nothing but a direct application can cure the many forms of Piles, that so trouble all classes of mankind. In all forms of Piles, immediate and careful attention is needed. By faithfully following the directions given with each box of Parmelee's Pile Suppositories a cure is certain. Warranted to give immediate relief. Price 50c per box. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

DANGER. Do you know that you are liable to attack of Dyspepsia and all kinds of stomach derangements? Yes, some still, to that result of kidney and liver disorder that is known as diabetes or possible Bright's disease. They are often fatal and that in a very short time. Loss of appetite, sour stomach, dizziness of vision, dizziness, pains in side and back and many others are but symptoms of disease. Be wise in time. Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure is the sovereign remedy. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Coughs and colds are the inevitable results of sudden changes in the weather. Immediate attention should be given them so that they may not become established and result in Bronchitis, Congestion, Inflammation or even consumption. Hamilton's Cough Balsam soothes the irritated membrane, and assists in removing phlegm and mucus, thus, by its adhesion to the membranes, causes violent coughing. Great relief is received by even those in the last stages of consumption. In croup and whooping cough it is unequaled. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

THE CHARLEVOIX RAILWAY.

Time Card in effect January, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Chicago, lv.		7 30am	7 15pm
Kalamazoo, lv.		11 20	10 00
Allegan, lv.		11 57	11 05
Holland, lv.		12 35	11 40
Grand Haven, lv.		1 00	12 10am
Fort Wayne, lv.		12 30pm	1 50am
Cedar Springs, lv.		2 50	3 50	8 05am
Greenville, lv.		3 05	4 05	8 17
Howard City, lv.		3 15	4 15	8 25
Edmore, lv.		3 33	4 33	8 40
Stanton, lv.		3 53	4 53	8 55
Ludington, lv.		6 15	7 45
Reed City, lv.		4 54	5 52	9 17
Big Rapids, lv.		5 15	6 15	9 35
Paris, lv.		5 35	6 35	9 55
Grant, lv.		5 45	6 45	10 05
Bridgeton, lv.		5 55	7 00	10 15
Newaygo, lv.		6 05	7 15	10 25
Croton, lv.		6 15	7 25	10 35
Croton Junc'n, lv.		6 20	7 30	10 40
Rockford, lv.		6 35	7 45	10 55
Cedar Springs, lv.		6 50	8 00	11 10
Sparta, lv.		7 00	8 10	11 20
Kent City, lv.		7 15	8 25	11 35
Lowell, lv.		7 30	8 40	11 50
Ionia, lv.		7 45	8 55	12 05pm
Portland, lv.		8 00	9 10	12 20
Grand Ledge, lv.		8 15	9 25	12 35
Delta, lv.		8 25	9 35	12 45
Lansing, ar.		8 35	9 45	12 55
Lansing, lv.	7 15am	12 05pm	3 15	6 45
Corunna, lv.	7 45	12 35	3 45	7 15
Durand, ar.	8 05	12 55	4 05	7 35
Durand, lv.	8 15	1 05	4 15	7 45
Flushing, lv.	8 35	1 25	4 35	8 05
Flint, lv.	9 00	1 50	5 00	8 30
Otter Lake, lv.	9 45	2 35	5 45	9 15
Lapeer, lv.	10 00	2 50	6 00	9 30
Imlay City, lv.	10 20	3 10	6 20	9 50
Lexington, lv.	10 45	3 35	6 45	10 15
Port Sanilac, lv.	11 15	4 05	7 15	10 45
Marlette, lv.	10 45	3 35	6 45	10 15
Sandusky, lv.	11 05	3 55	7 05	10 35
Croswell, lv.	11 25	4 15	7 25	10 55
Lamont, lv.	11 45	4 35	7 45	11 15
Deckerville, lv.	12 05pm	4 55	8 05	11 35
Peck, lv.	12 25	5 15	8 25	11 55
Sanilac Center, lv.	12 40	5 30	8 40	12 10am
Cass City, lv.	12 55	5 45	8 55	12 25
Unionville, lv.	1 05	5 55	9 05	12 35
Bad Axe, lv.	1 25	6 15	9 25	12 55
Pigeon, lv.	1 45	6 35	9 45	1 15
Caseville, lv.	2 00	6 50	10 00	1 30
Akron, lv.	1 15	5 45	8 15	12 45
Pigeon, lv.	1 45	6 35	9 45	1 15
Ubly, lv.	2 05	6 55	10 05	1 35
Elkton, lv.	2 20	7 10	10 20	1 50
Pinnebog, lv.	2 35	7 25	10 35	2 05
Owosso, lv.	2 35	7 25	10 35	2 05
Corunna, lv.	2 55	7 45	10 55	2 25
Perry, lv.	3 15	8 05	11 15	2 45
Vernon, lv.	3 30	8 20	11 30	3 00
Durand, ar.	3 45	8 35	11 45	3 15
Durand, lv.	4 00	8 45	12 00	3 30
Ashley, lv.	4 15	9 00	12 15am	3 45
St. Louis, lv.	4 35	9 20	12 35	4 05
Gratiot, lv.	4 50	9 35	12 50	4 20
Riverdale, lv.	5 05	9 50	1 05	4 35
Alma, lv.	5 20	10 05	1 20	4 50
Wright, lv.	5 35	10 20	1 35	5 05
Sumner, lv.	5 50	10 35	1 50	5 20
Ashley, lv.	6 05	10 50	2 05	5 35
Middleton, lv.	6 20	11 05	2 20	5 50
Ionia, ar.	6 35	11 20	2 35	6 05
Ionia, lv.	6 40	11 25	2 40	6 10
Lyons, lv.	6 55	11 40	2 55	6 25
Muir, lv.	7 05	11 50	3 05	6 35
Fenwick, lv.	7 15	12 00	3 15	6 45
Coldwater, lv.	7 30	12 15	3 30	7 00
Greenville, lv.	7 45	12 30pm	3 45	7 15
Carson City, lv.	8 00	12 45	4 00	7 30
Crystal, lv.	8 15	1 00	4 15	7 45
Stanton, ar.	8 30	1 15	4 30	8 00

GOING SOUTH

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Stanton, lv.			6 15pm	7 30am
Merrill, lv.			6 40	8 30
Shepherd, lv.			6 55	8 45am
Farwell, lv.			7 10	9 15
Clare, lv.			7 20	9 25
Harrison, lv.			7 35	9 40
Leroy, lv.			7 45	9 50
Cadillac, lv.			8 15	10 25am
Tustin, lv.			8 35	10 45
Reed City, lv.			8 55	2 30
Hersey, lv.			9 15pm	3 00
Marion, lv.			9 30	3 15
Cedar Springs, lv.			9 45	3 30
Rockford, lv.			9 55	3 40
Croton Junc'n, lv.			10 05	3 50
Croton, lv.			10 15	4 00
Newaygo, lv.			10 25	4 10
Paris, lv.			10 35	4 20
Big Rapids, lv.			10 55	4 40
Reed City, lv.			11 15	5 00
Ludington, lv.			2 00	8 00
Edmore, lv.			11 40	5 25
Howard City, lv.			11 50	5 35
Greenville, lv.			12 00	5 45
Cedar Springs, lv.			12 15	6 00
Fort Wayne, lv.	12 30pm		12 45am
Grand Haven, lv.	1 00	5 30am	7 00
Holland, lv.	1 35	6 05	7 35
Allegan, lv.	2 00	6 35	8 00
Kalamazoo, lv.	2 35	7 10	8 35
Chicago, ar.	7 00	12 00pm	3 35am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Ass't G. P. Agt., Grand Rapids, Mich.

Grand Rapids Democrat,

DAILY AND WEEKLY.

Office: 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

Daily Democrat—By mail, $6.00 per year in advance, postage paid.

Weekly Democrat: $1.50 per year; 75 cents for six months; 40 cents for three months—invariably in advance.

Address,

THE DEMOCRAT,

Grand Rapids, Mich.

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

FOR SALE.

Eighty acres of land, with or without improvements. Also one cross-cut saw with cable, one good work horse, two Texas ponies four years old, (well broke), and one five-year old cow. The above stock is in good condition. Inquire of J. A. Bacot, on north shore of Pine Lake. 3m1 J. A. BACOT.

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 111 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Well, cisterns, barn, frame house, and two frame barns. About 40 acres cleared, balance good timber and timber. Along 200 rods fronting on lake, one-half mile from school and saw mill. Terms: three thousand seven hundred dollars, with not less than two thousand down; balance to suit purchaser. Will produce papers upon application. DAVID H. FRANCIS, Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE.

SECOND HAND

Stationary Engine and Boiler

Size of cylinder, 8x20 in.; Boiler 12 feet long, 40 in. diameter, 48 flues. The engine has been thoroughly overhauled, and is practically as good as new. Price and terms to suit. Enquire of Washburn & Ackert, at the Machine shop. 3t1

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

STATE OF MICHIGAN,
County of Charlevoix, } ss.
In the matter of the estate of
FRANK CHALOUPKA, Minor.

Notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of an order granted to the undersigned, Guardian of the estate of said Frank Chaloupka, by the Hon. Judge of Probate, for the county of Charlevoix, on the 3d day of March, A. D. 1884, there will be sold at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the front door of Lesko's hall, in the county of Charlevoix, on the premises hereinafter described, on the day of April, A. D. 1884, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day (subject to all incumbrances by mortgage or otherwise existing at the time of sale, the following described real estate, to wit: The north east quarter of the south east quarter of section twenty four (24) in township thirty-four north of range four (W. 20 west), containing forty (40) acres more or less.

CHARLES CHALOUPKA,
Guardian.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

AT Glons, near Liege, Belgium, a young man named Francis Delrou lately strangled his half-paralyzed idiot brother. Francis was in love with a girl who refused to marry him because she said that the idiot (who was dependent on Francis) would be on her hands in the house. This is a story which Balzac could have worked up with fine effect.

KLEIN indicted McCue to drink three pints of whisky on a wager, at San Antonio, Tex. The feat proved fatal. McCue's widow sued Klein for damages, and got a verdict of $5,000. On appeal, the Supreme Court confirms the jury's conclusion. The ruling was that, as the drinker was so intoxicated as to be incapable of consent at the time of swallowing the third and killing pint, the man who made him do it was responsible.

FRANK KENT, says a Monticello (N.Y.) correspondent of the New York Sun, lives in the Sackett's Pond neighborhood, this county. The region is a wild one. Residents of the neighborhood coming to town during the past week have had much to relate about a recent hunting exploit, or series of exploits, of Frank Kent, who, they declare, is no hunter at that. A few days ago, while he was at work in his yard, he saw his dog suddenly make for the woods as fast as it could run. In a few minutes he heard the sounds of a struggle between the dog and some other animal. Kent got his gun and ran to the spot. He found his dog and a large red fox fighting. The fox whipped the dog, and the latter sneaked back home. The fox ran into his burrow, at the mouth of which the fight occurred. Kent dug the fox out and started home with it alive. He had taken a few steps only when a small animal dashed across an opening in front of him, immediately followed by another. Close behind the two hounded a large animal. The first two were raccoons. They were being pursued by a wildcat. The coons scrambled into a hollow log. The wildcat, seeing Kent, did not stop until it had gone 100 yards further on. Then it took a position in a chestnut tree. Kent hastily took off one of his suspenders and tethered the fox to a chestnut sapling by both hind legs. He then ran to the hollow log where the coons had taken refuge, and closed up both ends with chunks of wood. The wildcat still remained in the chestnut tree in plain sight. Kent walked toward it, but it showed no inclination to escape. Kent stood under the branch on which the wildcat crouched, not more than twenty-five feet above him. The animal prepared itself to spring upon him, but before it could do so Kent sent a rifle ball into its heart, and it fell to the ground and died almost instantly. Before the report of the gun had died away Kent heard a noise off to his right in the underbrush, and he thought it was a cow that had wandered into the woods. He went into the brush toward the spot where the noise came from, and to his surprise discovered a large bear dragging its ill-along with both of its hind feet in a heavy steel trap, to which was attached a long chain. Kent was obliged to shoot the bear twice before he killed it. After waiting a few minutes to see whether he would be called upon to kill or capture anything more, Kent went back after his fox. He got there just in time, for by its struggles the fox had freed one of its legs, and would soon have gained its liberty. Kent carried the fox home and placed it in his smoke house. Then he went out and brought the wildcat in. He next took a bag and went to the hollow log in which the coons were imprisoned. He removed the pieces of wood from one end and drew the mouth of the bag over the hole. He shoved a stick in at the other end of the log, and the coons ran out and into the bag. Kent drew the bag off of the log and carried the coons home alive and turned them into the woodshed. He then went out and dragged in the carcass of the bear. He has not found out yet where the bear and the trap joined company. Kent's exploit consumed fifteen minutes only. But his neighbors insist that he is no hunter.

THE London Times prints a letter from its Russian correspondent giving an extremely interesting sketch of Nechayeff, the founder of Nihilism, or rather of the revolutionary organization which under that name has spread terrorism all over the empire. It has generally been supposed that organized revolutionary societies of this kind date back nearly a hundred years, but it now appears that insurrections previous to 1866 were only revengeful uprisings, without any real organization or any fixed policy. It was not till after Karakozoff's attempt upon the life of the Czar in that year that the Nihilistic revolutionary organization was called into active existence, and Nechayeff was the organizer. His career reads like a romance. He was born in the Province of Vladimir, of very humble parentage, and, showing extraordinary ability, was sent to St. Petersburg, where he taught religion in the Sergius School. He was a self-educated man, studied deeply in German philosophy, and learned French from Rochefort's Lanterne. His first because known to the world as the head of a school for murder, and was associated with a student named Ivanoff, whom he killed because he talked of quitting the organization. He then fled to Switzerland, whence the Russian Government procured his extradition. He was tried for the offense in St. Petersburg and convicted, but for some inscrutable reason the government did not hang him, did not even send him to Siberia, for that, it was urged, that he might escape, but confined him in the dungeons of the Fortress Peter-Paul under a sentence of twenty years' imprisonment. It was conceived by the Government that there would be absolutely secure, and that by confining him in the right way it would get valuable secrets from him. Never was a Government more completely disappointed. He was visited by several eminent persons who attempted to sound him, but to no purpose. On one of these occasions he had an interview with the Czar himself, to whom he boldly declared that absolutism was out of date, and that the only remedy for the existing difficulties was a constitution. That remedy has been the constant demand presented by Nihilism ever since. Nechayeff was loaded with chains for his offense, and was riveted to the wall in such a manner that he had scarcely any freedom of motion. He was whipped with switches, but it had no effect upon him. His unmanaled condition he actually made converts of his guards, though they were not allowed to speak to him, and he carried on a correspondence with the conspirators. At last a plan was matured by one Jelaboff, at Nechayeff's instigation, to murder the Czar, and Jelaboff was actually introduced into the dungeon to confer with him about the details of the deed. A question arose among the Nihilists whether Nechayeff ought not to be released before the murder was committed, and a plot was made to seize the Fortress, but as Jelaboff declared that the murder would have to be adjourned if Nechayeff were set at liberty, the latter decided to remain in confinement, and chained and riveted to the walls of the deepest dungeon in the fortress, actually issued his order for the killing of the Czar, and that order was obeyed shortly after. The watch upon the prisoner was made the more stringent, and at last, in the summer of 1882, the Government succeeded in interrupting all relations between him and the outside world. The soldiers and guards who had been friendly to him were arrested and punished, and the Times correspondent says: "Nothing more was ever ascertained about Nechayeff beyond the fact that he was cruelly beaten in consequence of a dispute with the inspector of the prison, and died shortly afterward, in December, 1882. Some suppose that he committed suicide, others that he was killed by the effects of the blows; but in all cases his untimely end—for he died in the prime of life—was keenly lamented by all the Nihilists." With the killing of the Czar and the death of Nechayeff, Nihilism was quiet for a time, but recent events, particularly the murder of Gen. Sondekin, show that it was only resting for a time to acquire its demands which for its greatness run out and into the bag. Kent drew the bag off of the log and carried the coons home alive and turned them into the woodshed. He then went out and dragged in the carcass of the bear. He has not found out yet where the bear and the trap joined company. Kent's exploit consumed fifteen minutes only. But his neighbors insist that he is no hunter.

THE LITTLE FOLKS.

Growing.

Baby is only one year old,
Baby will soon be a year older;
Baby be bright as the twinkling stars,
Bright as the heart of a water-lily.

Baby is only two years old,
Baby can say a few words and sing
Little comic songs that can e'er be told,
Or even a little would make you laugh.

Baby is only ——— who's been standing
Right at our knees and off my knee?
My baby? The crazy words come kneeling,
Baby is growing, baby away from me.
—Lucy Fitzwilson.

The Carpenter's Trade.

I asked an excellent carpenter, a few days ago, what was the ability a boy must possess in order to become a good workman. He answered without an instant's hesitation:

"Aptitude."

"Hm," said I, "how can you or the boy himself tell whether he has aptitude or not?"

"Well," said he, after duly scratching his wig, "one of the first things a boy wants to do, who has in him the making of a good carpenter, is to handle, saw, plane, and chop. He likes to watch men who are at work with tools, and he has a great deal of curiosity about the tools themselves. By the time he is 12 years of age, unless all his native sense has been beaten or been schooled out of him, he will make a good dog-house, lard-cage, and rabbit-trap; rig a very respectable shelf for his mother in the store-room, and knock together a pretty shed or summer-house for his sisters in the garden. He has a sort of relish for work and tools.

"Which is the boy for a carpenter. The advantages of carpentering are so obvious, and some slight degree of skill in it so easily acquired, that it continually attracts the boys as well as the right ones. In these days of sharp competition, the man thrives best who can do things which few can do, or can do common things in a superior way.

"If, therefore, you do not perceive in yourself any signs of 'aptitude' for the carpenter's trade; if you have no 'relish' for good work and ingenious tools; if you have not something of the mechanic's peculiar patience, or power of keeping on without fret or worry, it is better to avoid the bench and try something which does not require these qualities.

"Let us suppose, however, that, after proper consideration, you have made up your mind to be a carpenter. How are you to get into the trade?

"A boy now, in a country place, on coming out of school at 16 years of age, gets into carpentering in a very simple way. He stops at a carpenter shop and says perhaps to the master:

"I have worked with carpenter's tools a little. My cousin is a carpenter, and I have been round his shop a good deal. Can you give me a job?"

"If it is a busy time, and the masters hands, he will try him for a day; 'feel of him,' as a carpenter expressed it, to find out what he is made of." He will set the lad to helping a man who is putting a jack-plane on a piece of which is sidegoing holes for posts. Often, the first thing the boy does decides his fate. If he bungles, pinches, he will have two difficulties that will win respect. First, it will be straight against the minimum of earth will be displaced by chopping it. An unlandy boy will throw out four times as much dirt as is necessary; he will scatter the dirt all around and after all the post may not stand upright in the hole.

"The boy that hits his hole in that way is very likely to be told at the close of the day that he is not wanted the next. He may be set to nailing on pickets, a very simple matter; only they must be put on straight, just so far apart, and just so high. A careful boy after nailing on six pickets makes the eye of an experienced man, see if there is no other mistake.

He will soon learn to do easy work with certainty and rapidity. His merits will at once attract attention, because sweetness and patience are among the rarest qualities shown by boys of sixteen or seventeen, and what an employer most wants is men who can be trusted to carry on a piece of work without supervision.

I heard a carpenter say recently—

"If a young fellow asks me for a job, I look him over first of all, and if I like his looks, I name two or three boards, give him a saw, and tell him to saw them off. If he saws straight I begin to think there's something in him, and so I do even if I only see that he tries hard to saw straight, though he may not hit it. Everything is our trade is done by trying. When I see a boy that can try, I feel like giving him a chance."

If a young man proves capable of doing the easy work of a carpenter, such as nailing the rough boards on the side of a house, he can earn wages at 16 a day, which he can increase to $1.50 by the time he has been at work six months. I am speaking now of country places, not of large cities like New York and Boston.

In the course of two or three years, a wide-awake young man family with tools, and always trying his best, can earn the highest wages ordinarily paid to a journeyman carpenter, $2.50 a day. When he is competent to be a foreman, and take entire charge of an important piece of work, requiring several hands, he may receive from three $3 to $4 a day, though the latter rate is not common except in cities.

What does carpentry lead to? This is a very interesting question to ambitious youths, who naturally and properly look forward to a fair advancement in life, and wish to spend the evening of their days in peace and dignity. In country towns the most natural issue of carpentry is building and architecture. I knew myself a boy who was deliberately placed in a carpenter shop by his parents as a step toward the profession of architecture, and after working three or four years at plain carpentry (with lessons in drawing) he established himself as an architect in a Southwestern city. He there formed a partnership with a builder, and they soon had their hands full of business.

Many carpenters have invented new tools, new methods, new devices, and thus made their way to a large business. Others invest their savings (skimp them out with some credit) in a set of machinery for making blinds, sash, doors, sashes, stair-rails, or moldings, and send the product of the same all over the country.

In New York, Boston, and Philadelphia, there are men who began life at the workman's bench, and now have shops in which all such articles are manufactured on the greatest scale and with wonderful economy both of material and power. There is such a shop in Boston, in which 100 men, aided by a steam-engine of sixty-horse power, manufacture as much as employed work on 5,000 men could accomplish by the labor of their hands alone. It is a museum of wonders. On walking over it I was reminded of a remark made by John Quincy Adams upon returning from a manufactory in Russia.

"I might," said he "to vest a manufactory once a week in order to learn my own ignorance."

It really takes your breath away to see the rapidity and certainty with which such operations as sawing, mortising, dove-tailing, grooving, and polishing are done by the machines in this establishment, which, I suppose, Carlyle would call an explosion of all the carpenters.

There are not many men in the world who can create, or even conceive, an establishment like this, because it requires a combination of faculties and talents such as are seldom found in the same individual.

But in many a quiet country place there are carpenters who take pleasure and pride in their work; who have built for themselves snug little houses, filled them with beautifully made furniture, and established a limited but sufficient business. These are the most fortunate of mechanics and men. They do not reckon their income in thousands, but their wants are few and moderate; they take a holiday when they need one. They bring up their children to be good citizens, and they have an inexhaustible satisfaction in doing their work in the best manner.—James Parton, in Youth's Companion.

Insect Life in a Snuffjake.

Some of the imaginative and wonderfully learned German scholars tell us that every snowflake is inhabited by happy little beings who are born, hold their revels and die in the long lives of happiness and delight, die and are buried, all during the element of the snowflake from the world of clouds to the solid land. I do not know whether to believe these scholars or not. They are of that same school which tells you that every square foot of air possesses some 12,986,930 or 15,038,030 of more or less perfect little beings, and that at every breath we destroy a million, more or less, of these in passing. The sip of a healthy lover is supposed to swallow up about 15,000.

They insist that the dust which will, an all know, accumulate in the most secure and secret places, is merely the remains of millions and billions of these little beings who have died of old age. All this, of course, is mere speculation, but I do know that the snow is, in some parts of the world, thickly inhabited. I have seen snow in Idaho black with little insects. They call them snow-fleas. They are lively as possible, and will darken your footprints, walk as fast as you may. They are found only on the high mountains, and only in very fresh and very deep snow. They, of course, do not annoy you in any way. They are infinitely smaller than the ordinary flea, but exactly the same in locomotion.—Joaquin Miller.

A Robber's Appreciation of Genius.

As the Italian poet, Tasso, whose misfortunes were as great as his genius, was on one of his journeys between Rome and Naples, he fell into the hands of bandits, who immediately proceeded to plunder him and his fellow-travelers. But no sooner did the captain of the band, the celebrated Marco Sciarra, of Abruzzi, hear the poet pronounce his name, than, with tokens of admiration and respect, he set him at liberty; nor would he permit his followers to plunder Tasso's companions. A prince of royal or imperial birth confined the poet in a mud-house for more than seven years; the great and wealthy sell him to a provincial life, which so often a life of absolute want; the service of letters of late days loaded him with abusive and most unjust criticism; but a mountain robber by the roadside controlled in his behalf—the very instinct of his gang, and kissed the hand of the author of "Gerusalemme."—The Eye.

Promise to Pay.

"Why are you so interested during such bad weather?" was asked of a well known citizen.

"Well, you see my landlord insisted that I was promising to pay too much rent. He said that he could rent the house for much less than I had promised to pay. This was quite a high compliment to me, but it has put me to some inconvenience."—Texas Siftings.

Be happy if you can, but do not depend on it; be wise if you can, for you do not know their troubles.

THE PATENT OFFICE.

Some of Its Peculiarities and Curiosities.

AN bureau of the Government, says a Washington paper, exceeds in importance the United States Patent Office. From the start, it has been self-sustaining, and now has an unexpended balance to its credit of about $2,500,000. This money is the result of fees paid by inventors to secure the patents which protect their inventions. The business of work and the distinguished force has brought the work up to date. In some divisions, of course, it is further in arrears than in others, for the inventive genius seems to follow the public need or public interest. For instance, when the new standard of time was agitated, there was at once a large number of applications filed for improved watch and clock dials.

The troubles with the gap on the Brooklyn bridges are already leaving fruit in the Patent Office records. Every week brings forth one or more patent grips and the backwoods are not yet heard from. Should the winter prove severe enough to suspend outdoor labor in the rural districts, the gaps will usher in an array of patent grips that will leave ice-crippers, electric lamps, and snow-crowns entirely in the background. When anything happens to keep a portion of our population inside doors, its effects are immediately apparent in the Patent Office records.

One would hardly think where every thing is taken into account that as far as the Patent Office, that there could be anything that would excite a smile entitled to be entered in the rural district, in a school, thoughtful man, and he would be surprised to see how many articles are received and critical examiner; and one might almost as soon expect to get a comic song out of an oyster as to look for funny things from the cranks and cogs of the models. An examination of the applications, however, reveals some curiosities in the way of names and the patents applied for. Hard on the heels of Mr. Ambrotype, for a patent fruit can; T. Allwood, for a barrel platform; J. Brown, for a refuse objector; J. Bamball, for a planter; J. Christ, for a tripod; Isaac Cook, for a rock stove; Crofut & Knapp, for felt hats; and Car Carpenter, for a car-heater. One Pennsylvania has invented a mast for vessels, and Lazarus Fried has a patent for tay watches. F. F. Foot has appropriately applied for a patent for locks and shoes. H. Hoofman, for a horse-shoe; C. J. Glover, of Greenville, N. Y., for a glove fastener; T. January, for a fitting machine for lightsaber, for a harmonica, and W. Lego, for a lost upper. T. Milburn has patented a gas engine; Modest Merke, of Troy, N. D. Miracle, a valve; D. A. Moon, a grain measure; Maudee E. Green, a corn harvester; E. B. Mustard, an ear-lobe; J. E. Mustard, a pepper cruet; A. North, a refrigerator; Perry Prettyman, of Paradise, Spring Farm, Oregon, a lamplurner; J. D. Peck, a measure—probably a peck measure; A. T. Tandebeal, a machine-gun; E. H. Turnipseed, a beehive; J. Widener, an insect dredger; and Wall Work, a car signal.

Of other peculiar names there are W. R. Argue, William Argue, and Gallup a Harry, who are attorneys; Cindy John, A. Coldiorbead, T. Carpenter, S. Cornfield, O. Drinkwater, Lodoico Charles Adam Joseph Count D'Albicconi, A. Doll, Cuck Darling, V. C. A. F. D. G. Comte de Ayapraed, Leo Lemn, Jesse Ellis, Pierre de la Perouse, P. T. Barlyuing, D. Goodwille, F. W. Gooding, W. H. Goodchild, Sampson Golsalo, J. L. Hubbard, C. Harmony, Jackson Martin Van Buren Hickory, L. Kiss, M. J. Hanover, L. S. Laughinghouse, Mustapha Mustapha, of Zagazig, Egypt; Benjamin May, Chauncey Mum, Jacob Joy, Roy McGregor, A. Morningstar, Reform Jonathan Megee, Q. E. Pringe, L. Scurlock, B. Sleppy, J. L. Scatterpood, W. S. Sharpsock, C. Shortsleeve, Lafayette Walker, Pleasant Witt, and Tweatyman Wood.

Where Wisconsin Asserted Herself.

A Government agent, who was sent to Wisconsin to look up trespass cases on Government lands, was on his travels one day, when he found a man whaling away at some choice timber on one of Uncle Sam's sections.

"Any land for sale around here?" queried the agent.

"Well, thar might be," was the reply.

"I'd like to buy a whole section."

"Have ye the cash to pay?"

"I have."

"I mought sell you this."

"Can you give a clear deed?"

"Clear as a whistle, stranger. Gimme $800 cash, and I'll deed ye the section of timber undoubt."

The agent coolly unrolled a map, spread it out on a log, and said:

"You will see by this map that Uncle Sam owns this section. How, then, can you give me a deed of it?"

"See hyar, stranger," said the chopper, after a long pause, "maybe you is one of those cussed sharpers as argues that Uncle Sam is a bigger man than a freeborn citizen of old Wisconsin. I'll give ye just three minits to skip!"

The agent wanted only two.—Wall Street News.

To KILL the lime on walls that are to be papered, a coating of glue size must be given. To make thick break up, a pound of glue; put it in two pints of cold water for twenty-four hours, until it has swollen up; then heat it until it is melted; put it on hot and give two coats. Then put on the paper in the usual way, with rye flour paste.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE proposition introduced in the Iowa House of Representatives, asking its Governor to consult with the governors of other States in regard to the holding of a convention in Des Moines to consider matters pertaining to a uniform divorce law throughout the several States, has attracted favorable attention in a large number of Western newspapers.

SIXTEEN SHOOTER, a Birmingham woolman, who presented Mr. Gladstone with an axe, has received the following letter: "Mr. Gladstone desires me to express to you his best thanks for the detailed account of the making of the axe which you kindly presented to him. Although Mr. Gladstone is loath to behave its polish in any degree, he feels bound to contemplate making a trial with it, in order to see the effect of an axe made wholly of steel."

ATTENTION is to be made in Germany of the long-suppressed memoirs of Heine, the poet and cynic, which it has been confidently declared were burned. Heine died in 1856, after having written and destroyed portions of his autobiography, in which he sarcastically treated his near relatives, his literary adversaries, and mankind in general; but it now seems that he has gone to write new memoirs in 1854, and that these have been sold to a publisher.

"NEW REMEDIES" states that when hungry pigs see food their mouths water, and the gastric secretion is largely increased. A manufacturer of pepsin, taking advantage of this fact, turns hungry pigs into a pen where a trough, filled with food, tempts the animals, though a wire screen prevents their eating it, and thus absorbing the pepsin contained in the peptic glands. Then the hogs are killed, and the yield of pepsin is comparatively large. Take it altogether, alive or dead, home or abroad, the great American hog is shamefully cheated and abused.

WITH the railroad facilities of India it all commensurate with her wheat growing capabilities, she will be a very formidable competitor of the West. As it is, she produces from 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 quarters every year, and these she will qualified to judge say that were there adequate means of communication, this amount could be easily doubled, and that at no great cost of labor or capital, but transportation is costly. Notwithstanding this serious drawback, India has more than trebled her wheat export during the last five years.

CRYING has assumed proportions in England such as no one dreamt of a few years ago, and the invention of bicycles available for ladies gives to this new art. There has been a most active emulation among manufacturers to produce the best article, and it is thought that this has been attained. The clubs have arrangements with certain hotels throughout the country to accommodate them at exceptionally low rates. The favorite route out of London is the old Bath coaching road, on account of its smoothness, but in most districts the roads are of a quality that never wearies the rider.

CHARLES WYNDHAM, the actor, is said to have a special regard for the city of Washington, because there he first began his upward career. After being severely criticised as an actor in New York, he went to Washington, seeking an appointment as an army surgeon, intending to go to the front. For three weeks he went to the Capitol, buying his applications and handing them in, and thus enable him to gain his desire. At last he saw a florid gentleman, apparently an Englishman, and to him related his purpose. The man told him to wait and he would see what could be done. In a few days Wyndham received the official notice of his appointment, and then found that his benefactor was P. T. Barnum.

THE Earl of Abingdon, who has just died, was in his youth a wonderful mimic, and could personate Dr. Keate the head master of Eton, in a marvelous manner. He did this on one occasion when at school, summoning the boys at a tutor's house to prayers, having first donned a master's gown, and in the dusk of a summer evening his identity was not discovered. Once, in the House of Commons, a member could not find some papers to which he wished to refer, and he called for them among a mass of them. The House grew a little impatient, and suddenly a voice in Keate's tones—well known at Eton—boomed out of the House, saying, "Never mind, stay afterward," which was Keate's way of intimating to a delinquent that he would be flogged for his offense. The impersonation, at Nuneham, Lord Abingdon was dressed up as a girl, and made desperate love to an elderly gentleman, promising reciprocated, and wanted to follow up his suit with a view to matrimony. The thing was for some time kept going by letters, and the would-be lady was terribly disgusted when he learned the truth.

THE bitted hazzard, whose flight over western counties of Georgia has aroused so much superstitious fear among the negroes, is said to have passed over a field near Taylorville, Ga., recently where four men were plowing. One of them, a negro, quit work at once and told his mates he had was a warning to the people of another cyclone, in which hundreds of people would be killed. The story of this celebrated bird is an interesting one. Nearly two years ago it was a pet in the farm yard of a farmer named Freeman, in Paulding County, one of his children one day attached a sheep bell to the bird's foot, and the tinkling sound so scared it that it immediately flew away. The first night out it alighted on the roof of a negro cabin in Heard County. One of the inmates went out to ascertain the cause of the bell-ringing, and immediately the long-eared rose from its perch and flew away. The night was clear and cold, and as the inmates rushed out and beheld the great black object, and heard the tinkling of the bell hundreds of feet up in the air, great fear seized them, and they all took to their heels under the impression that the end of the world was approaching. Ever since the bird has pursued its migrations through the State, arousing the fears of the superstitious, who regard its visit as ominous of evil. The negroes, and many whites, too, along the track of the late storm insist that they heard the fateful bell about an hour before the terrible wrath of wind had come upon them. In 1817 a hazzard was similarly belled in Putnam County, and up until 1830, when its presence was last reported in Greene County, he was vouched for as having visited points as far west as Meridian, Miss., and in several northern counties of Tennessee.

THE REVENUES.

Who Pay Them—An Interesting Exhibit.

St. Louis Republican: The imports to the United States for the calendar year 1883 free of duty were to the value of $295,114,904, against $214,056,300 for the year 1882—a falling off of $8,922,086. This large amount of imports free of duty came under about sixty headings, but is made up mainly of the following:

Articles, the growth of manufacture of the United States returned	$ 6,874,410
Crude tartar or argal dust	3,559,012
Specie and bullion	3,409,357
Silver of ores	2,410,482
Sulphur or brimstone	3,171,122
Copper	43,71,096
Eggs	2,350,904
Unfinished tiles and for slates	2,325,016
Gums, gum arabic, gum tragacanth	1,386,223
Tape, other than wool, cotton, patent	4,766,929
Raw silk, or as reeled from cocoons	15,121,699
Tea	19,365,904
Tin in many forms	6,595,581
Wool, unmanufactured	4,604,642
Brown sugar	7,954,379
Total	113,272,857

The sixteen headings embrace the fourfifths in value of the goods brought into this country free of duty.

The amount of dutiable imports for the calendar year 1883 was $481,960,392, against $538,807,117 in 1882—a falling off of $56,846,745. The total exports of free and dutiable imports for the year was $65,708,831, compared with $64,000,000 in 1882. The dutiable articles imported came under 129 headings, of which the following are the principal:

Live animals	$ 2,242,529
Barley, malt	2,398,864
Buttons and button materials	2,599,322
Cabinet ware	2,000,000
Watches and watch materials	2,200,000
Carriages, cars	2,700,000
Cigars, cigarettes	2,958,979
Cotton knit goods	7,912,399
Clothing and other cotton goods	11,000,000
Earthen, stone, and china ware	6,960,923
Fancy articles, perfumery, etc	2,000,000
Hemps and substitutes for	2,276,594
Iron and steel, rails	8,720,000
Manufactures of flax, jute, etc	13,175,000
Drugs and gums	17,667,667
Furs, dressed on skins	3,502,733
Glass and glassware	5,700,000
Tin plates, tagger tin	9,500,000
Various manufactures of iron	14,000,000
Leather, and	2,250,000
Gloves, kid and leather	3,500,000
Silk, dress and other goods	9,000,000
Silk, clothing, laces, ribbons, etc	16,300,000
Spirits	2,000,000
Fancy articles, perfumery, etc	2,000,000
Sugar, Dutch standard in color	27,000,000
Manufactures of wool	2,000,000
Cigars, cigarettes, and cheroots	3,000,000
Wine in casks	2,000,000
Wine in bottles	3,000,000
Wool, clothing	2,000,000
Wool, unmanufactured	11,000,000
Woolen cloth	12,000,000
Worsteds and children's woolen goods	12,000,000
Woolen goods unspecified	8,000,000
Total	188,100,731

These thirty-six headings embrace more than three-fourths of the dutiable commodities brought into this country. It will be observed that by far the greater portion are articles of prime necessity—sugar, cotton goods and cotton clothing, woolen goods and woolen clothing, manufactures of flax, jute, and miscellaneous of tin, iron, and manufactures of iron make up much the larger part of the goods upon which duties are imposed. These are articles indispensable in every household in the land. Then enter into the life of every human creature. The duty on sugar averages from 40 to 50 per cent. It is not stating the case too strongly to say that on the six articles we have just named the laboring classes pay annually over $100,000,000 tax to the Government, or $2 to every man, woman and child in the country. This, of course, takes no account of the amount they pay to protect home industries which does not go into the Treasury. This amount is difficult, but is variously estimated to reach three times as much, or more than is paid to the Government income nearly $6 to each person, and the men who are supposed to be honorable and whose position is such as to inspire the people that a man before them would be decided according to law and evidence, and who is much less equitably distributed than in 1876, no difference what the evidence was, to oust his friendliness, Bayes, as President, were Republicans.

9. Because every one who votes for President is an Republican.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

John Logan's Syntax—Singular Grammatical Construction.

(Washington Cor. Chicago Inter Ocean.)

The Presidential fever does not appear to have improved Gen. Logan's syntax. On Monday last he introduced in the Senate a bill, of which the following is an exact copy:

Be it enacted, etc., that from and after the passage of this act, all which they are in so associated, it shall be certain be lawful for the surviving mother or father of all soldiers who shall have been killed in the line war of the rebellion, or who shall have died in the military service of the United States from causes received while serving, or from disease contracted in said service, or who shall have died since the war, or who may hereafter be killed in said war, or who may hereafter have died or shall die, or any, shall hereafter be entitled to a pension without regard to being dependent upon said deceased soldier relative for support; that the said mother or father from the result of having lost said soldier and relative in defendance of duty in said war of the rebellion is in itself sufficient grounds for a pension, without regard to their being dependent upon said deceased soldier relative for support. This act, of which this act is an amendment to section 4702 of the Revised Statutes of the United States is hereby repealed. This not to take effect from and after its passage.

THE Chicago Journal says: "The more free trade we have for all sorts of goods the worse it is for the American farmer." That is to say, the fewer customers a man has and the smaller the demand for his products the more he gets for them. Why, then, all this fuss about the European prohibition of American pork? The American farmer is not the fool this Chicago paper proclaims him.—Detroit Free Press.

ator in October, 1880, just after the Indiana election:

"I especially congratulate you upon your masterful management of the campaign, and the thoroughness with which you have watched all the details and incidents of the fight. Let me counsel you to take some well-deserved rest, and save yourself for the much-needed rest and sleep—for the final struggle soon to come on. We shall need all our powers during the last two weeks of the contest; but just now we are well and strong, and we have saved enough for the final struggle. Sleep, then, and make up a little, or better still, cease here and sleep. Souls jubes me in kindest regard."

Garfield already had read in cold figures the story of the state route plunder when he wrote to Senator Dorsey:

"I want you to know how absolutely I rely on your earnest desire to do the best for the cause, and how eager I am to aid your efforts.

He knew all about the expedited routes when he wrote, in January, 1881, regretting that he could not attend the Dorsey banquet at Delmonico's:

"DEAR SENATOR: I am glad you are to be complimented by such gentlemen. I wish it could be for me to be present, but I cannot."

Finally, when Garfield and Dorsey parted company on March 5, 1881, with expressions of cordial esteem, the President was not less well-informed on the subject of Dorsey's connection with the Star Route business than he was a few weeks later when he announced his before he was satisfied a good deal go to the polls. This is not true.

It is the truth that a good full vote always shows a list of the best women and the wives of the last men. A Dorsey himself is half allowing of bad voters than a bad one, and the weather makes a more perceptible difference in the female vote than the male, but when things are exciting and the battle is red hot, and the tide of war sounds anon, the wife and mother puts on her armor and her sunbiks and her sun-bonnet and her sunbiks things cross-eyed.

It is generally supposed that the female voter is a pantaloonatic, a half horse, half alligator kind of woman, who looks like Dr. Mary Walker and has the appearance of one who has risen hastily in the night at the alarm of fire and dressed herself partially in her own garments and partially in her husband's. This is a popular error. In Wyoming, where female suffrage has raged for years, you meet quiet, courteous, and gallant gentlemen, and fair, quiet, sensible women in cheese-cloth aprons, who have not at the polls, where there isn't a loud or profane word, and where it is an infinitely more proper place to send a young lady unsecorted than to the postoffice in any city in the Union. You can readily see why this is so. The men about the polls are always candidates and their friends. That is the reason that neither party can afford to show the slightest rudeness toward a voter. The man who on Wednesday would tell her to go and soak her head, perhaps, would stand bareheaded to her on Tuesday. Suppose she holds a smashed ballot shoved under the palm of her gray kid glove she may walk over the candidate's prostrate form with majesty and her overshoes, if she chooses to.

Weeks and months before election in Wyoming the party with the longest purse stimulates the most livery stables and carriages. Then on the eventful day every conveyance available is decorated with a political placard and driven by a polite young man who is instructed to improve the time. Thus every woman in Wyoming has a chance to ride once a year at least. Lately, however, many prefer to walk to the polls, and they go in pairs, trios, and quartets, uniting their little sentiments, and calmly returning to their cookies and crazy quilts, as though politics didn't jar their mental poise a minute.

It is possible, and even probable that a man and his wife may disagree on politics, as they might on religion. The husband may believe in Andrew Jackson and a relentless hell, while his wife may be a stalwart and rather liberal on the question of eternal punishment. If the husband manages his wife as he would a clothes-wringer, and turns her through life by a crank, he will no doubt work her politically, but if she has her own ideas about things she will naturally act on them; while the man who is henpecked in other respects till he can't see out of his eyes will be henpecked in the matter of national and local politics.

These are a few facts about the actual workings of female suffrage, and I do not tackle the great question of the ultimate results upon the political machinery if woman suffrage were to become general. I do not pretend to say as to that. I know a great deal, but I do not know that. There are millions of women, no doubt, who are better qualified to vote and yet cannot than millions of alleged men who do vote, but no one can tell now what the ultimate effect of a change might be. So far as Wyoming is concerned, the Territory is prosperous and happy.

Education in Doily Life.

It has been well said that "no part of a child's school knowledge can be safely allowed to remain long detached from its daily life. The history and geography of lesson books must join on to that of newspapers; it is almost worse to know the name and date of a writer or hero, without an independent familiarity with the nature of his books or actions, than to be frankly ignorant of all at once.

Same Old Answer.

"Papa, why did Washington cut down the cherry tree?" asked a 6-year-old son. "I will answer your question by asking you one. Why did you break that pane of glass this morning?" "Er—er, because er—er——" "Well, my son, that's just the reason George gave his father."—New York Morning Journal.

WOMEN AT THE POLLS.

BY BILL NYE.

There have been many reasons given first and last why women should not vote, but I desire to say, to the full light of a ripe experience, that some of them are fallacious. I refer more particularly to the argument that it will degrade women to go to the polls and not never have been a bawler for female suffrage, I must admit that it is much more of a success than prohibition and speculative science.

My wife voted eight years with my full knowledge and consent, and to-day I cannot see but that she is as docile and as tractable as when she was my trusting heard. Now those who know me best will admit that I am not a lazy-dice' man, and therefore what I may say here is not said to secure favor and grateful smiles. I am not attractive and I am not in politics. I believe that I am homlier this winter than usual. There are reasons why I believe that what I may say on this subject will be sincere and not sensational or selfish.

It has been urged that good women do not generally exercise the right of suffrage, when they have the opportunity, and that only those whose social rank has been tarnished a good deal go to the polls. This is not true.

It is the truth that a good full vote always shows a list of the best women and the wives of the last men. A Dorsey himself is half allowing of bad voters than a bad one, and the weather makes a more perceptible difference in the female vote than the male, but when things are exciting and the battle is red hot, and the tide of war sounds anon, the wife and mother puts on her armor and her sunbiks and her sun-bonnet and her sunbiks things cross-eyed.

It is generally supposed that the female voter is a pantaloonatic, a half horse, half alligator kind of woman, who looks like Dr. Mary Walker and has the appearance of one who has risen hastily in the night at the alarm of fire and dressed herself partially in her own garments and partially in her husband's. This is a popular error. In Wyoming, where female suffrage has raged for years, you meet quiet, courteous, and gallant gentlemen, and fair, quiet, sensible women in cheese-cloth aprons, who have not at the polls, where there isn't a loud or profane word, and where it is an infinitely more proper place to send a young lady unsecorted than to the postoffice in any city in the Union. You can readily see why this is so. The men about the polls are always candidates and their friends. That is the reason that neither party can afford to show the slightest rudeness toward a voter. The man who on Wednesday would tell her to go and soak her head, perhaps, would stand bareheaded to her on Tuesday. Suppose she holds a smashed ballot shoved under the palm of her gray kid glove she may walk over the candidate's prostrate form with majesty and her overshoes, if she chooses to.

Weeks and months before election in Wyoming the party with the longest purse stimulates the most livery stables and carriages. Then on the eventful day every conveyance available is decorated with a political placard and driven by a polite young man who is instructed to improve the time. Thus every woman in Wyoming has a chance to ride once a year at least. Lately, however, many prefer to walk to the polls, and they go in pairs, trios, and quartets, uniting their little sentiments, and calmly returning to their cookies and crazy quilts, as though politics didn't jar their mental poise a minute.

It is possible, and even probable that a man and his wife may disagree on politics, as they might on religion. The husband may believe in Andrew Jackson and a relentless hell, while his wife may be a stalwart and rather liberal on the question of eternal punishment. If the husband manages his wife as he would a clothes-wringer, and turns her through life by a crank, he will no doubt work her politically, but if she has her own ideas about things she will naturally act on them; while the man who is henpecked in other respects till he can't see out of his eyes will be henpecked in the matter of national and local politics.

These are a few facts about the actual workings of female suffrage, and I do not tackle the great question of the ultimate results upon the political machinery if woman suffrage were to become general. I do not pretend to say as to that. I know a great deal, but I do not know that. There are millions of women, no doubt, who are better qualified to vote and yet cannot than millions of alleged men who do vote, but no one can tell now what the ultimate effect of a change might be. So far as Wyoming is concerned, the Territory is pros

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., April 10, 1896.

Business Announcements.

C. C. Michmels, the Fort Wayne chimney sweep, will be here till Friday next week, and will sweep chimneys for 25 cents and $100.

Overcoats at cost at E. M. Clark's.

Wanted—5,000 doz eggs for foreign markets. Highest prices for farm produce. Upright, Emery & Co.

For a good bargain in Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, or Clothing, try Byron Sea's.

E. M. Clark has a fine line of cloth ing, which he offers at bottom prices.

A fine line of gents furnishing goods, notions, &c., received at Upright, Emery & Co.'s Tuesday.

Fresh Coffees, Teas, Spices, Crackers, Oysters, Foreign and Domestic Dried Fruits, and Canned Goods received this week. Upright Emery & Co.

Great bargains in Boots and Shoes at E. M. Clark's.

The balance of our stock of clothing to be sacrificed the next ten days at 20 per cent from cost. Upright, Emery & Co.

Buy node paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. R. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

Upright, Emery & Co., are giving away clothing to make room for their spring stock of boy Goods and Gents' Furnishings.

13 lbs C sugar for One Dollar at E. M. Clark's.

Extracts of every description received to day. Upright, Emery & Co.

Provision Market.

Retail prices to consumers, as corrected every Wednesday evening by UPRIGHT, EMERY & CO., general dealers.

FLOUR, per bbl, $4.00, $2.00, and $3.00.
BUCKWHEAT FLOUR, per cwt, $1.50.
CORN MEAL, per cwt, bolted $2.00; unbolted, $1.90.
HAY, per ton, $8[illegible].
OATS, per bu, 30c.
GROUND FEED, per cwt, $1.25.
APPLES, per bu, $1.00.
POTATOES, per bu, 30c.
ONIONS, per bu, $1.00.
BUTTER, per lb, 17c.
EGGS, per doz, 9@12c.
LARD, per lb, 4@5c.
HAMS, 10c; Shoulders, 12½c.
SALT PORK, 12c; Beef, 8c.
MACKEREL, per p, 10c.
CHEESE, 9c.
WATER WHITE OIL, 25c.
FARMERS' PRODUCE in good demand

Fresh Meats from the Market.

MEAT, beef steak, 12½@15c; fresh pork, 12½@15c; mutton, 12½@15c; sausage, 15c; hams, 16c; shoulders, 12½c.
TALLOW, 4½@5c.

Local News Brevities.

Personal Gossip.

Al. Cooper is home again.

Allen Potter was elected mayor of Kalamazoo.

J. Milo Eaton's office will be two stories high.

Miss Cherrie is now postmistress of Ironton, vice Otis deceased.

Mrs. Howard, of Saline, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. E. M. Clark, of Charlevoix.

Orson Miller, of Hudson, has just been elected to his sixth term as supervisor.

Addin Sinclair of Ellsworth, Antrim county, was among the Journal editors yesterday.

Mrs. Maggie McCabe, wife of John McCabe, of Charlevoix, died at Petoskey, last week.

Mr. C. M. Burns, who has had a clerkship in Traverse City since Jan. 1st, is home again.

Mrs. A. S. Abbott, wife of the editor of the Bellaire Herald, died last week of consumption.

Miss Celin Nickolls expects to visit friends in Youngstown, Ohio, at some no[illegible] opening.

L. D. Bartholomew brought from Florida several varieties of canes as souvenirs for his friends.

Geo. Durance, late of the livery stable, has gone to Ironton, and will have charge of the former team.

Miss Martha O'Neil, has engaged a school in Evelyn township, and will go next Saturday to begin business.

Mr. B. Van Auken, of Potterville, Eaton county, is visiting his brother, Rev. C. F. Van Auken, of Charlevoix.

W. P. Brown has our thanks for Cincinnati papers containing a full account of the recent riots in that city.

D. H. Francis has rented his farm for the season, and will build a residence and move his family to Charlevoix soon.

W. A. Brown starts to-day for Newcastle, Ind., where Mrs. B. is now visiting. They will return to Charlevoix early in May.

Chas. Williams, Mel Houghtlin, and Wm. Livingston, of Boyne, attended the I. O. O. F. encampment in Charlevoix, Monday evening.

Chas Kelly was down to Ionia county last week. He reports that spring work is a little advanced there than here, and the weather not much warmer.

Prof. M. L. Smith's rendering of the "Mockingbird" at the "historical" Tuesday evening, shows him to be master of the organ. He informs us that it is his own composition and arrangement.

T. H. Corson, of Salem, Mich., visited Charlevoix with the intention of locating in the millinery, dressmaking, and fancy goods trade, but could not find suitable rooms. A few more store buildings would pay pretty well.

Prof. M. L. Smith, late of Tilsonburg, Ont., has been in town a short time looking for a location to engage in teaching vocal and instrumental music, and the encouragement offered is sufficient to induce him to remain here.

Mrs. Meeka DePue will return to Charlevoix this week to take charge of the millinery work the coming season for Mrs. L. Spalding. She has been spending several weeks in the city attending the openings and getting the latest styles, and will be able to give the ladies of Charlevoix something new in the way of hats and bonnets. Mrs. DePue is an experienced trimmer, and cannot fail to please the most fastidious.

News Brevities.

Light snow Tuesday.

New hearse for E. M. Clark.

Frank Wood has a new ice box.

That been soup was hard to beat.

The melodious chimney sweep is in town this week.

The Sea Gem has been given a new covering of deck plank.

Preaching at Black's school house, April 19th at 2:30 p. m.

Our correspondents will confer a favor by writing names distinctly.

Been soup and johnny cake is a simple yet substantial fare, and is easy to take.

Fifty families from Ireland are about to settle on Beaver Island.—News.

It is intimated that the teacher of the Hilton school is preparing a sweet feast for some one.

If you don't want to pay the tax on your dog, kill him before the assessor makes his annual visit.

The Congregational Sunday school will give an Easter concert next Sunday evening, at the school house.

In Hayes township, one ticket had one man's name for every office. Our informant did not give the name.

The Ladies, aid society of the M. E. church, will meet with Mrs. Hawkins next Wednesday at 4 o'clock p. m.

An incipient fire in Wm. Cross' residence was discovered and extinguished about 7 o'clock Monday morning.

Easter service at the M. E. church next Sunday at 10:30 o'clock. Easter concert by the Sunday school in the evening.

The G. R. & I. R. R. guide to the summer resorts of Northern Michigan has been issued. We shall give it a more extended notice later on.

The teachers of the M. E. Sunday school are making an effort to give an Easter concert to surpass anything of the kind ever given in Charlevoix.

Fire started near the stove pipe in Johnson's boarding house Sunday afternoon, but was extinguished before the department could get there.

All the teachers examined at the late session of examiners in Charlevoix were granted certificates, including Prof. Allen's advanced normal class.

The Gazelle is being thoroughly painted, inside and out, she will have seven different colors when completed.—Messrs. Price and Newman have the contract.

Capt. Gallagher, of Beaver Harbor, has traded the schooner Willard A. Smith with John Day for a half interest in the schooner Fisher, of the same place.

We must not complain about a little cold wind or snow storm, when our neighbors in the southern, central, and western states are being destroyed by cyclones.

Rev. Mr. Iddings' temperance lecture at the M. E. church Sunday evening was a sensible and practical exposition of the facts of history and the needs of the present.

April 24th has been appointed Arbor Day by Governor Begole. Do not fail to plant a tree that will stand as a monument to your memory, and a blessing to your fellow man long after your own body has been laid away to rest.

The Northern Michigan Line of lake propellers announce that it is now prepared to receive freight at its new dock, rear of 126 to 132 Market street, Chicago. Extensive repairs and improvements have been made on the propellers Champlain and Lawrence, and they will run on the same route as last season, carrying freight and passengers.

From the Chicago Newspaper Union we have received the "Illustrated Chicago Guide," a hand-book of its sights, amusements, history, and commerce. To the person visiting that city for the first time or business or pleasure it is valuable aid. It embraces a map of the city, a brief history of the more important places of interest to the sight seer, a street guide to find on the map any place in the city, besides much other valuable information.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

The Season of 1883-4 Closes with a Banquet at the Bridge Street House.

At the Bridge Street house last Tuesday evening was held one of the most enjoyable meetings of the historical society ever held. There were present 105 members and friends.

President John Nicholls called the audience to order, and an interesting program was opened by music by Prof. G. M. and Miss Lillie Bice and Miss Aggie Miller, with violin, organ, and cornet.

Mrs. C. V. Cook then read a pleasing selection entitled "Grandmother's Trial," after which Mrs. Dr. Graves rendered a beautiful vocal solo entitled "When the Swallows Return."

Miss Maud Loveday gave a touching recitation entitled "The Two Pictures."

Fred. Smith and Al. Washburn sang the popular duet entitled "Fairy footsteps gently falling."

Robert O'Neil gave a choice reading, being a selection, with criticisms, from Lalla Rookh.

Mrs. F. W. Mayne gave a most charming vocal solo, and Ed. F. Parunder a recitation.

The first named trio again gave a stirring selection, which closed the exercises of the parlor.

An intermission of ten minutes was allowed, during which time the mail cases were aroused by the violent ringing of a dinner bell. President Nicholls then announced as an explanation that a banquet (the plan of which was original with and had been prepared by the executive committee) was awaiting the audience in the room below.

THE BANQUET.

After being seated, grace was asked by Rev. J. T. Iddings. The viands were then indulged in, especially that delicious beverage known in French as soupe de la fere. Gateau du main and coffee shared the same fate.

TOASTS.

R. W. Kane, master of toasts, introduced that order of exercises.

The first was as follows: "The Charlevoix Historic Society, the pride of our village; first in culture, first in social quality, and first in bean-soup banquets." Responded to by President John Nicholls in an able manner, giving a synopsis of the work accomplished, and a pleasing prophecy of the work to come.

"The heritage left us by our revolutionary forefathers; bought with their blood, and dear to us as life itself." E. H. Green gave a stirring response, calling up memories of the fathers who gave their lives that we might enjoy peace and liberty.

"Camp life in the revolution; tough but glorious. Let the laurels of those who endured never wither." Hon. Jas. See responded to this by summarizing the struggles, privations, and calamities endured by the brave boys and patriots around the camp-fires.

"The lawyers; where were they during the revolution?" Fred. W. Mayne, in a dignified yet spicy manner vindicated the profession, and won laurels for himself as an orator on occasions like this.

"The ladies of the revolution. In purity and nobility of character, and in personal charms, their equals are only found among the ladies of the Charlevoix Historic Society." Responded to by Robert Miller in an appropriate manner, paying due homage to the ladies who took to arms during the revolution.

The toasts were interspersed with music as follows: An instrumental with violins and organ, by Messrs. Wheat, Carr, and M. L. Smith; a vocal solo by Miss Aggie Miller, an instrumental, "The Mockingbird," by M. L. Smith, a vocal duet by Jas. Carlstein and W. A. Smith, translated from the Swedish for this occasion; a violin duet by Messrs. Wheat and Carr; and a comic vocal by M. L. Smith.

The society gave a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Miller for their hospitality, and the use of the house for this meeting; also to Messrs. Wheat and Carr, and M. L. Smith, for the music kindly furnished by them.

The next meeting of the society will be held the first Tuesday evening in October.

Friends in New Orleans have sent J. Milo Eaton an illustrated comic paper called Figaro, which gives two suggestive fall-page cartoons. On the first page is an old gentleman labeled "democracy," slipping and falling by reason of a banana skin labeled "tariff," dropped by a small boy labeled "public opinion." On the last page a Louisiana planter is waylaid and robbed by three masked figures, one holding him by the throat, a second at one pocket marked "free sugar," and the third at another pocket marked "free rice." The whole is evidently a republican campaign document.

Ironton.

Ice in the Arm and Pine lake continues to stay.

Last Thursday Charlie Wheaton broke through the ice on the Arm, and was rescued with difficulty.

The smile on the face of James Hanegan is caused by a bouncing baby girl at his house.

The night foundryman at the furnace, returns to his home in Green Bay this week.

John Otis superintends both the Ironton and Macedonia furnaces.

There are more than five thousand tons of iron in the yard at this place waiting the opening of navigation.

Richard Lake and Amanon Beers are boatsmen for A. M. Tally.

The brewery will be in operation about May 1st.

Religious services at the school house last Sunday, conducted by Mr. Seed.

School commences first Monday in May, J. M. Harris, teacher.

Religious services at the Ironton school house next Sunday at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. C. F. VanAuken, of Charlevoix.

Burgess.

An old landmark gone; the old log house near Burgess postoffice was burned one day last week, it was formerly occupied by Wm. Burns. No insurance.

Pete Campo who has rented Wm. Gilson's place, has his spring wheat sowed and nearly all his spring plowing done.

Moses Cooper and family were visiting up in the center of Hayes last Sunday. "Mose" knows where to go when he wants a good time.

Logging bees are beginning to swarm, and splendid weather for them.

Elvin Hale made 100 pounds of sugar last week from 75 trees.

John Struthers and Tom Barrett ran away from home one day last week, and have not been found up to the present writing. [The former has since been found near Vanderbilt.—Ed.]

One of the inhabitants of Hayes who has been spending the winter in the south part of the state, upon returning home found his house occupied by a tramp.

How to Study Music.

Dear reader do you wish to gain a knowledge of the ground and glorious science of music? Have some composer has placed before you, namely music; then my earnest entreaty to you is that study the fundamental principles which underlie the science. Many people are too apt to be carried away with the idea that music is an invention by man; not so, but rather the gift of God. We find that through this beautiful nature has given us such an adequate supply, that every note of the pure atmosphere is resolvable or teeming with music. For a clear proof of this, we need to cause a drawn string or a note to vibrate intelligently, when, like an overtaken fruit tree, ripe to the harvest, it is ready to shower down its fruit on all who come beneath its branches. When we consider the fact that the science of music is the gift of God, we cannot fail to comprehend that it is governed by laws as unchangeable as the All Wise Creator Himself. Merely learning to play a few pieces, or to read readily at sight, (although this is a fine accomplishment) does not constitute the science of music. You may now ask the question what is the exact equal that I must see to studying music? My answer is this: First study and learn to analyze perfectly all of the intervals of music; the inversion of intervals, and the formation of intervals into chords, and the progression of chords according to certain fixed rules in music. The teacher who is not capable of imparting to his pupils a knowledge of this at the very outset is unfit to teach. If I should tell one of my pupils that C, E, and G formed the chord of C and that I knew nothing more of it, would he as intelligent an answer, as to would when you were asked to give a description of a certain book to describe it by spelling BOOK. Trusting dear reader that you will take the right course in this grand and glorious cause. With these few lines of advice I remain.

Yours Respectfully,
Prof. M. L. Smith.

One of our best citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that it claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Cregier.

Married.

LYONS—FRIENNEY—In Charlevoix, April 7th, by Rev. J. T. Iddings, Mr. Ira Lyons, of Boyne City, and Miss Claudia G. Friennery, both of Charlevoix.

Notice Miss L. Spaulding's new card this week.

AN OCEAN DISASTER.

THE STEAMER DANIEL STEINMANN WRECKED.

OUT OF 130 PERSONS ONLY NINE SAVED.

A DREADED COAST.

BOSTON, Mass., April 4.—Intelligence was received late this afternoon of the wreck of another Atlantic steamship on the dread Nova Scotia coast. The steamer is the Daniel Steinmann, of Antwerp, and she sank last night off Sambro Island, eighteen miles from Halifax harbor, carrying down about 120 persons.

The disaster occurred in the same locality which in April, 1873, proved fatal to the White Star steamer Atlantic and 546 of her passengers and crew, and not many miles from the scene of the wrecks of the Arctic in 1854, with 347 souls, and the Hungarian in 1869, with 205.

The Daniel Steinmann is a well known vessel and has, since her building in 1873, plied between Antwerp, Halifax, New York and Boston. Her tonnage was 1,311, and she last sailed from Antwerp March 21, bound first for Halifax and then to New York. Capt. Schoonhaven was in command.

Her passengers, it is supposed, were all immigrants, probably Germans.

STRUCK A REFUGE.

A Journal special from Halifax says that the vessel struck a ledge between five and six miles off Sambro at about 10 p. m., and sank with all on board. The gale had prostrated the wires leading to the signal station, so that it was 2 p. m. to-day when news of the wreck was received by Chipman Brow, agents of the White Cross line, to which the steamer belonged.

An immense hole was knocked in her bottom. She filled and within a few minutes went down. At high water the only thing visible is the topsail yard.

So far as at present is known, but one boat left the vessel, but how many it at first contained is unknown.

About midnight the men at Sambro island observed a boat making for the shore, and guided it around with torches to Cuhin cove, where the occupants, seven in number, landed. They were five of the crew and two passengers.

After daylight broke two persons could be seen clinging to the rigging of the sunken ship, and a boat putting out from the lighthouse, they were rescued from their perilous position. They proved to be Captain Schoonhaven and a boy passenger. About o'clock yesterday morning Charles Martin, of Pipkot-boat No. 4, touched at Sambro Island and received the above meagre facts and then proceeded to the mainland with the following message: Chipman Brothers, agents of the White Cross line, in Halifax:

The Belgian steamer Daniel Steinmann, Capt. Schoonhaven, wrecked on the 3d of April, about 10 p. m., between five and six miles off Sambro. Ninety passengers and thirty-four of the crew are drowned. Five of the crew, three passengers and the captain are saved.

G. SCHWANEBEN.

After Pilot Martin left the island the sea became so rough that a boat could not reach it again from the mainland, which is three miles distant. Efforts were made all day from Cuhin's down station to obtain information by the Morse signal system, but the fog was so dense that one station was not visible to those at the other. The names of survivors consequently are not yet known, but there are no women among them.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 7.—The three surviving passengers of the Daniel Steinmann, now in this city, state the vessel struck lightly twice. The captain then summoned them all on deck and directed them to prepare to enter the boats if such would be necessary. One boat was launched and made a rush for it, although good discipline was maintained among the ship's crew. The boat was well filled, and being attached to the steamer by a rope, some of those on board were about cutting the line when the steamer suddenly sank, dragging the boat and the unfortunate occupants with it. The boat turned over and every person in it was thrown out and drowned. When the stern of the vessel sank, the cries and screams of the women and children were heartrending, but lasted only for a few minutes. Capt. Schoonhaven made his way up the forerigging. Two men caught the rigging of the mainmast and endeavored to climb along the stays between the masts. One was washed away. The other, John Nederman, succeeded by a desperate effort in reaching the rigging, where he was pulled into a comparatively safe position by the captain. One of the wire ratlins was broken, and this gave play to the yard, which worked back and forth with the action of the waves, and threatened to tear out the mast. The two unfortunates from time to time cried out for help, but the roar of wind and water drowned their voices. They saw lights burning on the shore and signals, while conscious they were beyond any human assistance. At last daylight appeared. Soon a boat put out from the cove. The captain was by this time so benumbed that his companion had to use force to induce him to leave the spar and aid him into the boat. He then followed and both were landed exhausted and taken into the lighthouse, where their needs were promptly attended to.

A white robin was shot at Racine, Wisconsin, Friday, by Dr. P. R. Hay.

John W. Fitch, formerly lieutenant governor of Ohio, died Saturday at Cleveland.

A boy of 11 years, named Warner, hanged himself in a cellar at Newburgh, Ontario.

William Jones of Washington, who shot at Gunbert through the prison van in 1881, is to be tried April 25.

The Michigan saw-works, at East Saginaw, valued at $100,000, were destroyed by fire Thursday evening.

The saw mill and furniture factory of S. B. Anderson, of Richmond, Mich., valued at $20,000, was burned Saturday night.

Emil Bolling, who was a lieutenant in the German revolutionary army in 1848, died at Humboldt, Wis., in his 70th year.

The governor of Louisiana has appealed to the secretary of war for rations for sufferers by the breaking of the levees.

William Proctor, the soap and candle manufacturer, and Alfred W. Bonrett, the caricaturist, died Friday in Cincinnati.

Rev. W. S. Mahan, postmaster of Gallatin, Missouri, was found dead on his Friday morning. He was 60 years of age.

Henry Rose, a colored man, was executed at Osceola, Arkansas, for shooting Dempsey Taylor through a window on a dark night.

Sadie Hays, a negress who killed Police Sergeant Jenks at St. Louis, last October, has been convicted of murder in the first degree.

A revenue cutter and two American ships sailed from Key West, Friday, to assist the Box in searching for the Cuban filibusters.

Colonel Breckinridge, a bank president of San Antonio, has purchased 2,500,000 acres of land in the Mexican state of Tamaulipas.

Harry Angell, formerly paymaster of the Valley railroad at Cleveland, who embezzled a considerable amount, was captured in Chicago.

Forest fires are doing vast damage in the plantations and pine trees in the Carolinas. The flames extend over six counties in each state.

Lorenzo Dimick, of Buffalo, formerly a senior partner in a marine insurance firm, has been held in $80,000 bail for asserting bonds of the insurance companies.

J. A. Bomlbrecl, an army paymaster, suffered from thieving employes in Arizona. He recently returned to Boston in an insane condition, and died of pneumonia.

Sandy Spencer, a prominent saloon keeper of New York, who recently served a month's imprisonment for selling liquor on Sunday, has made an assignment.

A passenger train on the Chicago and New Orleans road was badly wrecked near Duck Hill, Mississippi. Several passengers and three trainmen were seriously injured.

At the funeral of Mrs. Oswald Ottendorfer, in New York, Carl Schurz delivered an address and the Liederkranz chorus sang a dirge. Samuel J. Tilden was in attendance.

William A. Hall, formerly chief clerk in the comptroller's office at Newark, New Jersey, has been sent to the state prison for twelve years for forgery and embezzlement.

Two murderers and three thieves cut a hole in the partition wall of the jail at Fort Wayne, and only had the window bars to cut when the plot was discovered by Sheriff Schooler.

The tug Peter Smith, of Cleveland, with two mud scows in tow, burst her boiler and sank off Vermilion, Ohio, Saturday. The engineer, fireman, and one passenger lost their lives.

Judge Caldwell, of Arkansas, decisions in a suit to recover for the Memphis and Little Rock road, but has ordered its sale within thirty days unless the mortgage liens be paid.

John Young, who died in a Philadelphia hospital with a razor-blade imbedded in his skull, claims to have been injured in Chicago, last January, by a man named Valentine Dessure.

An express train on the Grand Trunk road leaped the track near Wales, Ontario, early Friday morning. The engineer and fireman were killed, and twelve passengers were injured.

The steamer Newcastle City, which sailed from Halifax for Boston Friday morning, struck a small iceberg, and took water so rapidly that the captain ordered her back to the port.

The Northwestern roads to swallow the Sioux City and Pacific and the Kansas and Missouri Valley leased lines, 955 miles of track, necessitate their bonded indebtedness of $18,000,000.

Dey M. Hough, a young and active member of the Detroit board of trade, has been wrecked in the drop in wheat. He paid his losses as far as his means went, and yet owes several thousand more.

Jacob Smith, residing near Rising Sun, Indiana, after having his house beaten by burglars, was swung back and forth over a fire until he came unconscious. He was robbed of his treasure-box.

Mrs. F. W. Pirtle, residing in Seventh street, Louisville, who has been suffering from dementia, flung herself from a third story window, early Sunday morning, and was fatally crushed on the sidewalk.

The postmaster at Chicago has received from Washington a package of water-stained letters found in a mail bag picked up by English fishermen in the North sea, having been lost in the steamer Cimbria.

In the criminal court at Cincinnati a decisive colored woman was sentenced to seven years imprisonment for shooting with intent to kill, and John Martin got five years for inflicting a fatal blow with his fist.

Hosewell Olson, a colored school teacher at Stanville, Kentucky, has sued the Louisville and Nashville for $20,000 for refusing her the privileges of the ladies' coach after she had paid her full fare for a first class ticket.

The remains of ex-Secretary Hunt will soon arrive in New York by the steamship Ellie, and a suitable reception at the Brooklyn navy-yard has been ordered. The interment will be in Oakhill cemetery, Washington.

The steamer Robert Everingham was warm Thursday morning burned to the water's edge on the Chattahoochee river, forty miles below Columbus, Georgia. Two persons had their lives, and those who escaped were severely burned.

The legislature of Nova Scotia has prepared an address to the governor general of Canada, stating that since the confederation of the provinces taxes have been increased 50 per cent, and that discontent is more general than ever before.

A riot is imminent in the City of Mexico, on account of the dearth of Pressed Beef is to be cut at a heavy slump [illegible] to-day at the abattoirs, and in case of refusal to levy on the goods in store. The merchants say they will resist.

A cyclone passed over Columbus, Ohio, Tuesday night, but did no serious damage. A number of towns in this section of Ohio suffered more or from the storm. At Greenville, Darke county, several persons were injured but no one killed.

The continued decline in grain in the Chicago market seems to increase the excitement on the board of trade. Wheat, Saturday, fell 17 to 3½ cents per bushel, and corn 2 to 2½ cents. Within three weeks May wheat has dropped from ½ cents to 84.

At a prize fight near Hyndman, Pa., Saturday, between Hungarian miners, in which fifty-eight rounds were accomplished, one of the principals struck his head on a stone and died. In the row which followed, two others were killed and three fatally wounded.

The schooner Sisters, the alleged filibuster, returned to Key West, Saturday evening, and was seized by Collector Wicker. The men on board stated that he was compelled by Aguero to land at a plantation near Cardenas, where ten or more Cubans went aboard.

One death has resulted from the railway wreck at Belleville, Illinois, Friday night, and twenty of the injured passengers are being cared for at the expense of the company. All these people were on their way from Virginia to Kansas, to establish a colony.

The iron-workers in the furnaces at Sharpsville, Pennsylvania, have struck because of a reduction of from 10 to 15 cents per day in the wages of laborers, carriers, and filers. Sharpsville is a suburb of Sharon, Mercer county, Pennsylvania, demand an increase of 20 per cent.

S. W. Bruce, who two years ago embezzled $2,000 from a grocery house in Philadelphia, was captured in Chicago Sunday. He attempted to commit suicide until he told his story to a woman. She circulated it quietly among her friends until it reached the detectives.

Samuel J. Walker, the most reckless real-estate operator ever known in Chicago, who is said to be slowly wasting away from cancer in the face, is urging his right to a discharge in bankruptcy on $5,000,000 of obligations. A bank in Ohio, with a claim of $10,000, is the only objector.

In the criminal court of Chicago a woman who had stolen goods from three dry goods houses undertook to turn state's evidence against her pals. She testified that with two indictments hanging over her, and her counsel demanding a retainer of $100, she had to make a third raid to secure funds for her defense.

The Bar association of Cincinnati, with a determined purpose to replace its burned library, has possessed each member $100, and many lawyers have contributed money and books in addition. There are 1,000 members, aggregating $3,000 were forfeited by a clause declaring there should be no indemnity for riot.

The failures in the United States for the past week were 145. Geo. W. Guy & Co., notion dealers, of Pittsburg, & Co., notion dealers, of Pittsburg, suspended payment, with liabilities of $22,000. C. N. Heist, a private banker at New Bristol, Wisconsin, who offered 8 per cent. for deposits, has resorted the end of his tape, owing $20,000 to working people.

Fire broke in the vicinity of Hillsboro, Ills., claim that winter wheat has been greatly damaged by the recent changeable weather, the roots being generally exposed. On the contrary a Milwaukee grain exporter has received advices of the excellent condition of the growing crop in half a dozen states with some slight damage in Michigan.

Forests fires have broken out in various sections of North and South Carolina through the attempt of the farmers to clear the planting grounds by burning the "brush." The fires have spread with alarming rapidity. Hundreds of farmhouses and outbuildings have been destroyed. Berkley and Chesterfield counties have suffered severely.

The farmhouse of Charles Schultz, near Iwan, Mich., was during Friday night visited by three masked men who battered down the door, shot with a fence rail. They secured nearly $3,000 in German gold coin, and brutally maltreated the family. As the latter died shortly after the robbers fired towards a neighbor's house, they fled upon them, killing a young son of Mr. Schultz.

On the Chicago board of trade, Friday, prices were thoroughly demoralized. Wheat fluctuated 7 cents per bushel, closing at 83½ cents for May, and 250,000 bushels were sold for export. Over 2,700,000 in margins was deposited in a single bank. Pork for May closed at $10.25, and live hogs at the stock-yards fell 20 to 30 cents per hundred pounds.

A most destructive and frightful cyclone swept over north Alabama and Georgia Wednesday night. The full effect of the storm can only be surmised, as most of the country traversed is miles from a railroad. But enough is known to characterize it as the most fatal yet reported. In the vicinity of Collinsville, Ala., and in Dalton, Georgia, it seemed to be at its worst. The storm was only three hundred yards wide, and seemed to consist of numberless whirlwinds, revolving within each other at a furious rate, and moving over the earth with lightning like rapidity. The swath of the storm was like wheat before the scythe, and its track was outlined by the total ruin and destruction which marked it. Many houses throughout that section were demolished, and many of the inmates killed.

On Tuesday the village of Oakville, south of Mineville, Indiana, was in an instant an instant converted into a collapsed mass of debris. Dwellings, houses, barns, sawmills and storehouses are scattered beyond repair. The wind came from the northward, and persons who saw the approach of the cloud describe it as one of peculiar color and movement. When within two miles of the place it came to the ground and played havoc with everything in its way. It struck the town, and though its force was spent in from three to five minutes, out of thirty-five or forty buildings but five stand as before. Seven people were killed instantaneously, and three have since died from their injuries. At Loray, 3 miles east of Oakville, William Lines, and family of seven were seated in the house, when the house was dashed to pieces and he instantly killed, while the others escaped without a scratch. Four miles west James Sanders, 5 in record from Middlesex, with an infant son was instantly killed by the house being blown down.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW,
DEALER IN
Hardware,
FARM IMPLEMENTS, ETC.
Charlevoix, Mich.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.
MISS L. SPAULDING
Has just received a
New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,
And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best style. Two Doors South of Postoffice.
MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

PIMPLES.
I will mail (Free) the receipt for a simple vegetable remedy which cured me of Pimples, Black Heads, Freckles and Pimples, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, Inclosing a 3c stamp, VENUS & CO., 12 Hudson St., N. Y.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.
The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. Parties desiring the prescription will find it a blessing. Address, Rev. W. WARNER, 194 Penn. St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

G. W. JEFFERIES,
Dealer in
Fresh and Cured Meat
Fresh and Salt Fish,
AND VEGETABLES.
Fat Stock and Farm Produce Wanted.
West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

JOSEPH HYLAND,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

A
Boiler Maker,
Sheet-Iron Worker,
and manufacturer of
Hyland's Patent Fireman.
Dealer in all kinds of
SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.
Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

O. B. WEED & CO.
Are headquarters for
DRUGS
CHEMICALS,
Patent Medicines, all Kinds,
Imported and Domestic Perfumery,
Toilet Articles,
AND FANCY GOODS.
None but Pure Medicines
Kept in stock.
Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Barlotheo's new block.

Opera Block
EAGLE CLOTHING HOUSE.

GEO. W. MILLER,
DEALER IN CLOTHING,
GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS,
ETC.
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.
NEW GOODS.
I am pleased to say that my
Spring Stock
is ready for inspection. Come and see them, and others can send a suit of clothes that are FIRST IN STYLE, you will know where to find them. My stock is full of the
LATE STYLES,
AND
Price to Correspond With the Times.
GEO. W. MILLER.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

THE HEROINE OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

THIS STYLE CHEAP.

A pretty little blond-haired maid,
Ah, me!
Throw back her shoulders, and she said
Some unclean Bible verse,
About people who go in harness,
Whom God!

And when the girls had got all through,
All things
They gave her a ticket painted blue,
All blest!
Then she went home and went to bed,
With throbbing fever and aching head,
Ah, lost!

The Mongol heathen spit and spat,
Ah, pagan!
Upon the Superintendent's slat,
Clean slate!
Then he sallied out a heavy oath,
When a solid stand-pipe struck him and felt
How that girl died in Judge well,
Ah, cold!

And the Mongol heathen lives on yet,
Lives yet,
And ignores the Superintendent's debt,
Just so!
And as the Superintendent lives,
And still the Mongol heathen lives,
While the world is burning short of wives,
You bet!

—Brooklyn Eagle.

THE LAST MAN.

BY A SEAFARER.

A small iron, full-rigged ship was in latitude 10 degrees north of the equator, outward bound for a New Zealand port. The sun would be setting in an hour, already his disk was rayless and of a dark and angry gold, and his reflection lay in a heavy and waving dazzle upon the western swell. A pleasant draught of air, blowing steady over the port quarter, had kept the lighter canvas sleeping all the afternoon, but the heavier sails hung up and down, and, as the ship leaned upon the gentle undulations, the leisure swinging of their folds wafted cool currents over the fevered decks, as though some gigantic punkah-wallah, perched aloft, were fanning the ship. The deep blue of the sea, scarcely wrinkled by the breeze, stretched around, and the water-line was like an azure cincture clasped, where the glory of the sun hung, by a plate of gold,' but over the side the water was of an exquisite transparent green, in which you could see the metal foil of the vessel wavering all a-bend but it, and it was enough to possess a man, half-blinded with the heat that came off the brasses glare under the sun, with a calentare to look into the glass-like cascade profound, and to think of the cool noises and sweetness to be got by a lazy floating in the serene surface of that fathomless depth. All the afternoon it had been blowing a soft air, with now and again a stronger fold that came of the northeast with a parching taste in it that might have made it pass for the expiring breath of a rush of atmospheric heat from some that furnace hidden behind the sun but one felt that the draughts could not long outlast the sinking of the sun, whose ardency was slowly sucking out all life from the air. Already in the south the water-line rifled the lower edge of the sky with a burnished surface, betwixt which and the heavens there was a trembling of heat in which the blue seam to a height of four or five degrees. Just where that tremulous appearance was you saw a shining speck, the topmast mast of a ship discomented by refractions from the rest of the fabric; they looked through the glass like kites flying in the air, and if there was anything in this world to emphasize the vast expanse of the ocean, it was those tiny points of canvas, when one came to think how small a handful of miles was credited to sink the big vessel out of sight, to render invisible a hull full of people, perhaps, and loaded with a cargo of a value sufficient to render a thousand poor families happy and independent for life sahore. Still the breeze continued blowing softly as the sun sank. There were wrinkles round the stem of the little iron clipper, and the surface of the green clearness over the side was strewn with bubbles that gleamed like emeralds and diamonds and rifles between the shadow of the ship and the light off the sea as they veered slowly astern into the languid, iridescent wake. It was a pretty sight to peer from under the short awning to the aloft, and mark the sunsails spreading farther and farther as they descended, till the reflection of the great white spaces of cloth stretched by the swinging-boom shone like a sheet of silver under the black spars; and when ever the ship lifted to the swell, there would come from aloft a sound of pattering reed-points, and the quiet beating of hustlines, and the low clatter of ice against rope, which, with the sob of the brook-like murmur of the ripling water at the bows, might have passed for a stirring of fallen leaves disturbed in their shady place by a sudden passage of winds betwixt the dark trunks of trees and over the cool turf.

It was the second dog-watch. No work was doing, and the least was too great for any kind of diversion. One saw a number of open-breast-d, mosshaloomed seamen overhanging the forecastle rail, pipe in mouth, with drowsy eyes sleepily looking away into the blue distance, while a low, throaty murmur of voices floated aft from forward, where the black cook, standing in the galley door, was arguing with a Dutch sailor. There was a farm-yard noise, of numerous voices, covert with the rooting, grubbing grunt of a pig or two, and a strange Eastern bird, secured by the leg, was clawing with beak and talons up and down a little in or two of forecastle, while in a hoarse accents he'd sing out now and again: "Call hol! blaes my eyes! lazy a lamb! call hol!" Bight aft on the quarter deck, visible from the weather side of the forecastle under the lifted clew of the mainsail, stood the bolmsman gripping the wheel, and gnawing upon a quid in his cheek, with many a roll of his glassy eyes aloft and then into the compass-bowl and then upon the sea; the brightness came off the water in a scarlet tremulo upon his figure, and often he would tip the Scotch cap on the back of his head to pass the length of his arm from the wrist to the elbow over his streaming brow. The captain, a red-faced man in a straw hat, with a Manilla cheroot in his mouth, paced the deck from the mizzen-rigging to the taffrail; the chief mate, who had charge of the watch, walked in the gangway, and the second mate, seated on the main hatch, was emptying his third and last nasty pipe. Slowly the sun sank, brightening out the heavens to far beyond the zenith into an amazing glory of scarlet and red and orange, melting into a sulphurous tinge that died out into a delicate green sky, which, in its turn deepened into blue and violet and indigo where the ocean met it in the east, with a star or two glistening where the lovely hue was deepest. A tropical evening, indeed; and you saw the silver speck of the hidden ship's sails trembling above the horizon and catching the farewell ray of the setting luminary, whose light went slipping feet for feet from the brow of one swell to another, until it was like a drop of blood in color, and hung like the red lamp of a distant light-house though the sahen eastern shadow cleared from it ever swiftly, and melted it into thin, gray air, while the billows of our own dipper's sails were still on fire with the rich hectic of the west, and the ropes, like gold wire, and the yards, like gallant and royal masts, and whatever else showed a polished surface up aloft, twinkling with ruby stars. Darkness swiftly follows the descent of the sun in these parallels; there was no twilight, and the night lay in a dusky, spangled fold in the east ere the sun had fairly trailed the skirts of his golden robe off the low-down western sky. The moon would not rise for another two hours; but the darkness and the coolness were wonderfully sweet after the long spell of roasting daylight. The dew fell till the stars made every flakes of it upon the rails and skylights; and the gentle breeze still blew, though with an ever-waning breath. The ripples now ran in lines of fire from the ship's bow, and strange green shadows, like the vapor rising from melted tin, brightened and dimmed in cloudy puffs in the slants of the inky swells, and you saw tendrils and stalks and leaves of phosphoric radiance edying in the lodes of the ship's wake, and glimmering along the lines which marked the breadth of the sheny path she was sailing along. Then, in a trice, the skies overran the velvet black heavens, with planets shining in blues and greens, and dropping points of quicksilver into the dark waters, while above them the glittering dust of constellations lay thick as sand, and often a narrow space of the vast dome would flash out in radiance to the bursting of a meteor, whose momentary bright shining would seem to Bill as, who, so to speak, it a dim violet glare of lightning down in the southeast.

Two bells—9 o'clock—were struck; one heard the ringing chimes hollowly thrown downward out of the sails, and dead calm had fallen, the ship lay in a deep slumber upon the gently breathing bosom of the ocean, and nothing seemed awake but the throbbing stars. Notadoy four miles had been measured since the darkness came down, and now that the sight was breathless, with a thread of cataract—no, no account to be neglected—on either bow and all around, the captain gave instructions for the sternsails to be taken in and stowed away out of the road of each boatsailing of the yards as might be necessary. The made the ship lively for awhile with the running to and fro in the racing aloft of naked-footed mariners; but presently all was silence again, the captain below taking a glass of grog, the second mate pacing the deck aft, the watch coiled up anywhere for a snooze, a single figure erect on the forecastle, and the sea like a mirror full of starlight, yet so dark that it was like looking through a haze at the luminaries over the water-line. Three bells were struck, and scarcely had the last vibration died when the second mate hailed the forecastle: "Forward there! is there anybody singing below?" "Nobody singing below, sir," came back the answer promptly. "Nonsense, man! There's some one singing somewhere below forward, I tell you. Put your head into the scuttle and listen." There was a pause, and presently back came the reply: "All's still in the forecastle, sir. There's no singing in this part of the ship." The second mate walked up to the fellow at the wheel: "Did you hear a man's voice singing just now, before the bell was struck?" "Yes, sir." "Didn't the sound come from forward?" "It seemed like it, answered the bolmsman. "Hush! there it is again," said the second mate, raising his hand and stretching his head forward, with his ear bent toward the forecastle. The sound was dist not enough—it was that of a lonely voice singing—but at a distance that made the notes as thin and vibratory as the twanging of a jew's-harp heard from afar. It ceased, and was followed by a faint, unearthly laugh, that died out at the moment, when a sudden shivering flap of the canvas up in the darkness seemed like a shudder passing through the ship. "There's some one singing and laughing away out ahead here, sir!" shouting the man on the forecastle, in a voice that made one suspect he felt his loneliness at that moment. "What the dickens can it be, and where does it come from?" exclaimed the second mate, stepping to the rail and looking over. He peered and peered, but the night lay dark upon the water, spite of the starlight, and no deeper shadow stood anywhere upon the gloomy surface to indicate the presence of a vessel in his neighborhood. "Forward there!" he shouted; "do you see anything?" "Nothing, sir." The watch on deck, aroused by this hailing, and gathering its support, clambered on the bulwarks to look around, and the captain, hearing the second mate's voice, came up from the cabin. "What's the matter?" he asked. "There's been a sound of singing and laughing floating from somewhere ahead, sir," responded the second mate. The captain went to the side and look a long look. "Bosh! pooh!" he exclaimed, "it must have been your fancy, sir. Singing and laughing? Why, were any vessel near enough for us to hear such noise, we should be bound to see her." He was walking over to the compass. "There, sir, you see it here!" cried the second mate. Once again the same thin, wailing, singing, borrowed a mournful character from the darkness, came faint but clear to the ship, followed as before, by the same ready, crooking laugh. "By heaven, Mr. Burton, it's no fancy!" exclaimed the captain, wheeling swiftly around. "But it is a human voice, think you? If so, where in mercy's name, can it come from, and say, my lads," calling to the men starboard watch, "what is it you hear?" "Nothing at all, sir, though I swear, delivered in a tone of awe. Suddenly a dim, luminous gray haze floated up into the eastern sky; it brightened into yellow and then into a kind of upper limb; and in a few moments the moon swiftly follows the descent of the sun in these parallels; there was no twilight, and the night lay in a dusky, spangled fold in the east ere the sun had fairly trailed the skirts of his golden robe off the low-down western sky. The moon would not rise for another two hours; but the darkness and the coolness were wonderfully sweet after the long spell of roasting daylight. The dew fell till the stars made every flakes of it upon the rails and skylights; and the gentle breeze still blew, though with an ever-waning breath. The ripples now ran in lines of fire from the ship's bow, and strange green shadows, like the vapor rising from melted tin, brightened and dimmed in cloudy puffs in the slants of the inky swells, and you saw tendrils and stalks and leaves of phosphoric radiance edying in the lodes of the ship's wake, and glimmering along the lines which marked the breadth of the sheny path she was sailing along. Then, in a trice, the skies overran the velvet black heavens, with planets shining in blues and greens, and dropping points of quicksilver into the dark waters, while above them the glittering dust of constellations lay thick as sand, and often a narrow space of the vast dome would flash out in radiance to the bursting of a meteor, whose momentary bright shining would seem to Bill as, who, so to speak, it a dim violet glare of lightning down in the southeast.

The watch below had turned out and a crowd of seamen awaited with burning curiosity the issue of this singular encounter. "Did he or man's voice raised that there chanter," said one of the oldest, and presumably one of the most ignorant among them, as they overhauled the rail. "If I'd been in the old man's place, sir, I'd ha' hailed and boiled me afore you'd ha' got me to send a boat in." "Why, what do you think it is, Bill?" inquired another. "Think! I don't think at all. Thinkin' aby business to think. Why, I've a-sez, replied the old man, "that aay mortal being with hinnelects inside him, as well as you and me's got, 'ud turn to and sing songes—and I-dease—songes—songes for what should set him heth?" "In a hopen boat at this here hour of the night, 2,000 or 3,000 miles away from land? You bet old Bill knows what he's a talkin' about when he says that if what's come across in that there boat turns out mortal hell-smitter the biggest pair o' sea-boots that's known of about the forecastle." Awed by the old sailor's prophetic croaking, to which years of run and hard weather had communicated a forbidding, sepulchral note, the others fell into deep silence, straining their eyes in the direction of the boats. A half-hour passed before they approached the ship, during which the seamen had been startled by many hoarse and doleful cries proceeding from the advancing boats, interwoven with wild and scary laughter, and wild shouts delivered in accents the mariners could not make head or tail of. "Ahoy, there!" cried the captain, when the boats were within hail. "What is it you have come across, Mr. Burton?" "A raving lunatic, sir," answered the mate, "like a Spaniard, I think. There's a dead boy in the bottom of his boat that he refuses to let go his hold of, which we've found apparently, and there's nothing to eat or drink among him that we can find." It was now seen that two of the crew were on the madman's boat, one being lashed to the mast side the wretched maniac began to rave fearfully, sometimes breaking off in sing some weird, tuneless song, then bursting into accents full of heartbreaking entreaty, and afterward wrestling furiously with the two men who had hold of him, the boat lashed away to her gunwales, and uttering shriek after shriek. It was as terrible a scene as over the moon shone down upon. They had to land him turn upon on turn with ropes in order to drag him aboard, and mad as he was, yet it was evident he knew he was to be separated from the dead boy under the blankets in his boat, for his struggles were frantic when he saw what they meant to do, every posture was a passionate, deliious yearning toward the corpse, and when finally he was lifted over the rails, his screams and ravings in Spanish sent the hardest among those who had no hand in getting him inboard reeling with horror. He was little more than a skeleton. When they brought a lantern and examined him, they found the remains of what had clearly been a tall, handsome man, but famine had done its work—famine and thirst. A boy might have lifted the emaciated, shrunken, fragile madness furnished it yet with a horrible vitality, and a degree of life fearful to behold in a shrunken a conformation, blazed in his dark eyes, erneffs spoke, and showing like flames in the hollows, whose shocking depth was accentuated by his lanky brown. The corpse of the lad was reverently dropped over the side, and the boat sent adrift, after the ship's mate, who carried painted on her stern had been duly added. There was no doctor on board, but what the kindness of English sailors could do for the poor Spaniard was done. He died on the following afternoon, having caused his raving and fetters into a pathetic silence now, after which he lay down below. It could not certainly be known that the boy had died of his sun. "But I don't think there could be a doubt of it," said the captain to the mate, as they stood looking at the dead man, "for, mere skeleton as the poor fellow is, there seems to be the intelligence in the face that there was more of a broken heart in him than death from mere hunger and thirst." The man's clothes were of the finest quality, besides the vessel's name, served to identify him. He was master of a Spanish ship that had sailed from Cartagena three months previous to the discovery of the boat by the English iron clipper. With him had gone his only son. The vessel was never heard of after having been spoken in twenty degrees north latitude, and there could be no doubt that of the numerous crew who were in her, the poor captain, when encountered raving in an open boat amid the frightful solitude of the great Atlantic, was the last man.—London Telegraph.

George Washington's Nose.

Judge Pedland, Representative in Congress from Vermont, is said to bear a resemblance to portraits of George Washington, and the likeness is increased by his antiquated style of dress. He was, according to a Troy correspondent, he was in the east room of the White House with some friends from Vermont. The room was made dim by heavy curtains. A comfortable-looking Quaker, with his wife and two children, entered the further end in their neighborly-seeming friends. In a corner near the Judge stood a full-length picture frame leaning against the wall. "Get behind that frame," said one of the party, "and we'll tell these people that it is a picture of Washington."

The Judge stepped briskly into place. Slowly the Quaker and his broad-rimmed gray hat, he painting out the pictures on the wall. "What's that? he demanded, pointing toward the Judge. "That's Washington," he was answered. "He looks great. The painting is just finished and must not be touched." The Judge stood impassive in the slanting, gazing peacefully out on the group halted a dozen feet away. At length the Quaker's wife found voice. Turning sorrowfully to his wife he said: "Wife, we always thought well of George Washington, but that is all over. We are temperance people; just look at him now!" and he pointed toward the most marked feature of Judge Pedland's portrait to his family and sorrowfully marched away. The Vermonters restrained themselves for a second, then gave way, and only realized what they were about when the Judge, gazing sternly at them, asked: "What are you fools laughing at?"—Chicago Tribune.

The Value of Shade Trees.

That our ancestors emanated from the shades of a tree land is one of the few points on which Moses and Darwin agree, and it seems hardly probable that the descendants of a forest race should be damaged by a little tree shade, especially where that shade is confined to the six warmest months in the year. After October, when summer is more preferable to shade, trees do not obstruct the rays of the sun. They merely moderate its summer glare, and at noon offer the best possible refuge from the broeding heat. No human contrivance can rival the anti-caloric arrangements of a leafy canopy—free access to all the winds of heaven, and a roof impervious not only to the direct light of the sun's rays, but to their warmth, which is felt through a shingle roof as plainly as through a lady's sunshade. But in shade tree, with its hundred slants of light-absorbing leaves, interposes an almost impervious screen to the hottest sun; and, moreover, plants have a direct refrigerating influence, analogous to that of animal bodies in generating warmth. Even under the blazing sun the juice of oranges, watermelons, apples, etc., is from ten to fifteen degrees colder than that of the stagnant water, and on cloudy summer days the air of a tree-shade is from ten to twenty degrees cooler than the atmosphere of a shady forest on shady days.—Dr. Felix Oswald, in Lippincott's Magazine.

GRIDIRONS assert that if the continent should be raised the bottom of the ocean would be covered with a uniform level the whole world would be covered with water a mile deep, so, instead of the depression of the ocean bed than the elevation of the existing land.

JINGLES.

INTERVIEWED BY HOEMER.

His nose was nubby, yet it seemed
With a cheerfulness he was not a bleak;
Nine nubs adorned his illustrious face—
His nose had seen a hornet's mark.

—J. Nelli.

HOW TO GET ONE.

A nobby pedestrian you with, young man;
To tell you the best way I'll try, if I can:
Get one of your fines
Right in the eye, or your nose,
Then, if you don't know the rules,
I haven't told the right way, I suppose.

—Nelli.

DISTINCTION AND DIFFERENCE.

But yesterday I spoke of Jones.
Well, what of him? Why, nobody knows
"Why," said Brown, "he's a capital boxer,
"He's an unlucky dog, as I know,
"Just so," said I, "suppose that we Chip in and give the lad a fife?"
"Excuse me," said Brown, "can't count on me;
I think you'd better let him alone."

Yesterday again I met Jones
And said he looked been around.
"Yes, too," said Brown, in angry tones,
"I wonder where he can be found?"
I said I hadgone now Brown was
"He's just the man I want to meet
"I'm sorry I missed him," said my friend
"He made a mark on the ice wheel."

—Chicago News.

A FAN SONG.

Fan me to rest, for sleep time seems coming
And foil me fond I, and oh! so restless.
Wonderful eyes, I know, I know, I know
Once can charm me into thought's entanglings,
Fan me to rest, for sleep time seems coming
Heard the dark sorrow, dead its will lost;
Fan me to rest!

Love, do you hear the best from blind-lorn solo
Drifting to me, my heart from the glen grief
Reaches
Render it over to me, and stay it low—low—
Low as a line of wailing from Celian to Sasse,
Low
Fan me to rest!

Fan me to rest!
—Edward Wick, in Back.

HOW HE GOT IT.

"A Ma
you
Ma
this great big boy belonging to an only father? He weighs a ton or more, I guess;
I have one just like him, only smaller. Did he ever do anything for a sunshine in the autumn air, the evening? Did daddy wind into the hammock by girl. We thought he have called her a sun beam to get to the gate to appear in the morning of a very pleasant day? Did he ever give you a sweet kiss another sky. Oh! then he came; the owner of this boot
the same. I felt a pleasant sensation in my heart when I saw it beside one of mine. I felt the air I flew, and dropped into the bottom of the boot. I wanted to stay and made I never would make; here, no, never where, in the world I to be I ha adhered to you.

—H. S. Keller, in Whitehall Times.

A LITERARY LASSEY.

I want to be an author
Who's able to contribute
A hundred lines in prose
Or twenty lines in verse
To anybody who
Will think they're a lewsy
When sheeting at their writings:
"Oh, pray do tell it them!"

I want to be an author
Who never will get mad
When a Boss gewd at me,
"You stupid idiot, you
This article is far too long—"
And then, with horrid scorn—
"It never can be published Until you boil it down!"

I want to be an author
So perfect in my way
That editors shall quarrel over
Who's to publish my stuff
I will be so perfect in my way
"Editors shall quarrel over
I'll allow no man to make a joke
To try to boil it down!"

PHILOSOPHY.

In summer time, when made hazing sun,
When man sun thirty brown, and, oftey one,
Sun-struck, he falls down
Sun-struck, he falls down
Sun-struck, he falls down.

In winter when it lays they stand,
Talking gaily with companions hand,
Sun-struck, he falls
Sun-struck, he falls
Sun-struck, he falls down.

Sun-struck, he falls down.

—Nelli.

OUR ANCESTORS' NERVE.

The Secret of Their Unusual Vigor Explained and How It Can Be Acquired.

There was something about the sturdy vigor of former generations that challenges the admiration of every man, woman, and child. They were no epicures—those ancient fathers. They lived simply, and successfully met and overcame difficulties that would have discouraged this age and generation. The vigors of the frontier were supplemented by the savages, with lessons from their enterprise, and poverty was a common companion. Yet they bravely encountered and resisted all those things and laid the foundation of a land whose ideas age we now enjoy. These constitutions were strong, their health unimpaired, and yet they were forced to expose themselves continually. There certainly must have been some good and adequate cause for all this, and for the physical superiority of that age over the present.

It is well known to every one conversant with the history of that time that certain home components of strengthening qualities were used almost universally by those pioneers. The malarial evils and exposure to which they were subjected demanded this. When their bodies became chilled by cold or wetted by rain, or when they were in danger they were forced to counteract it by the use of antidotes. Medicines were low in those days, and doctors almost unknown. Hence the preparations alone referred to, were among the number, all of which were compounded upon the same general principle, and were found to be more efficient and hence far more popular than all the rest. It was well known through the Middle and Western States, and was acknowledged to be the best remedy for malarial disorders and general debility then known. The recipe for compounding this valuable article was handed down from one family member of this to another, was known to the Harrison family, and is now in the possession of a gentleman who has given it to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is now manufactured by the proprietors of the celebrated Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The manufacturers have thoroughly investigated this subject in its minutest details, and are certain that for constipation of food, dyspepsia, tired feelings, nervous debility, sleeplessness, malarial ailments, and kidneys in the blood, nothing can stand in value "Tippecanoe," which was the medicine of our forefathers and seems destined to be the most popular preparation of the day.

"Tippecanoe" is prepared and given to the public by Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co., of Rochester, N.Y., proprietors of the famous Warner's Safe Cure, which is now the most extensively used of any American medicine. The well-known standing of this house is a sufficient guarantee of the purity and power of this preparation, which seeks to benefit one of the greatest evils of our time, namely, the malassimilation of food. Any one who experiences trouble of digestion, who feels less vigor than formerly, whose system has suddenly "run down," and who realizes the necessity of some stimulant, but cannot afford to permit such scrupulous to stimulate, if the farmer finds that his threshing machine does not separate the grain from the straw he realizes that something is wrong and goes to repair the machine. When the food does not sustain the life, when it fails to make blood, when it does the energy to digest and assimilate to die, it is a certain sign that something is wrong and that the human machine needs repairing. It is a question of choice; it is a matter of duty. Any man can judge for himself, and if he is a man of sense he will not hesitate to use the means at his command.

TRUE SOLDIERLY GRIT.

Having Passed Through the War, an Old Soldier Conquers One Enemy More.

Kindling with enthusiasm as he recalled the great struggle of twenty years ago, Capt. J. R. Sanford, of Newark, who raised Company H and 38 N. J. Zouaves, and went to the front with them, said to a transient companion one day last summer:

"Yes, I was in eight of the fiercest battles of the war, Seven Pines, Malvern Hill, Savage Station, Missionary Ridge, and Harrison's Landing to name a few. I marched and fought through the heat of day and night was shattered by a ball in the first engagement after the great march began. After the amputation I was taken twenty-five miles and left in a tent at Ringgold, Ga. A pole came as and my tent was flooded. Then I was carried on my way to Chattanooga, 250 miles distant. Just try to imagine the horror of that journey to a man in my condition. For years afterward I was shaken with every exertion. Yes, the doctors prescribe, as they always will when you ask them, but I keep my own doctor now, and he never opens his mouth."

"A dumb doctor!" exclaimed the Captain's auditor.

"Yes, dumb as a mummy, but smart as lightning flashes in a," pointing to a bottle of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY standing in a corner shelf. "I take that. When I am run down it winds me up; when I am weak it strengthens me; when I am 'off my food' it gives me an appetite; when I am sick it cures me."

Remember name, Dr. David Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY, Rondout, N. Y.

A NEW JERSEY widow has just been awarded $1,000 in damages for a broken heart. This ratchet, if it is true, is a fair sample of what we know.

I have been very much benefited by a 50c. cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. When I begin using it I didn't think it was so bad a headache the whole time and discharged a great deal of matter. I thought I had had about enough, although I was not sick enough to stay in the house. I can say it is the best thing I have ever found for anything. Please send me another 50c. bottle.—JOHN H. SUMMERS, Stepney, Conn.

PIRO'S Cure for Consumption does not dry up a cough, but cures it. 25c.

NO NEED of being incommoded on if you will insist on having Fisher Brand of Axle Grease.

Try Dr. Sanford's Liver Invigorator and be convinced that it cures Liver Complaint, etc.

The short, hacking cough, which leads to consumption, is cured by Piso's Cure.

"Brown's Bronchial Troches," 25c. 15c.

Brown's Swan's Worm Syrup, tasteless. 25c.

"Brown on Lungs" Troches, 15c; Liquid, 50c.

WELLS' May Apple (Liver) Pills, 10c.

"Brown on Toothache," Instant relief. 15c.

"Burbs salve," Cures Kidney and Urinary Cures. $1.

"Brown on Corns," for Corns, Warts, Bunions. 15c.

WELLS' Health Renewer cures Dyspepsia, Impotence.

The "Brown on" Tooth Powder, elegant. 15c.

JACOBS OIL

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY FOR PAIN. CURES Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, and all other bodily pains. Price 50 cents. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers everywhere. Fifty Cents bottle. THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO. Baltimore, Md., U.S.A.

BIG PAY to sell our rubber hand stamps. Terms free. Cut this out. TAFT BROS., Cincinnati, O.

LOST MANHOOD RESTORED. Once supposedlost, now found. Sealed. Sc. HORRIS & CO., Woodsquare, N.Y.

PENSIONS Soldiers, Widows, Fathers, Mothers, Children, Brothers, Sisters, Discharge, Bounty, Arrears, Pay, Claims, Land Warrants, Patents, Claims, Opinion, Advice, Stamp. Gen. CHAS. H. HOWARD, Washington, D. C.

HAIR Whiskers and mustaches. Send for price-list. Stamp. Mention this paper. Wm. Dodge to order. J. H. BUNHAM, 74 State street, Chicago.

Stamp cured of the Tobacco Habit, and the general health improved. Sent on receipt of 25c. and 2c. stamp. Address, THE TOBACCO ANTIDOTE CO., Cincinnati, O.

WRITE TO DR. and SOLICITOR FREE J. E. BICKNELL & CO., Brockton, Mass.

A QUEEN WANTED for the best and fastest selling Ladies' Dollar Sewing Machine. Sample free. Address, Queen Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.

Young Men (OR THEM PARENTS) and ladies solicit. Circulars free. Vineland Business College, Vineland, N. J.

PATENTS. Send sketch for our new book on Patents. L. BINGHAM, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

A SET OF KNIVES AND FORKS (12 pieces), A Pitts Black Handle, $1.00; with Ivoroid, $1.50. Sent free. Address, THE CROWN CUTLERY CO., CROWN CUTLERY CO., Greenfield, Mass.

WANTED—LADIES TO TAKE OUR NEW FANCY Work. Profitable. Pleasant. Address, with stamp, Mrs. M. A. BRADLEY & CO., Cincinnati, O.

EGGS HOW TO TIME THEM. Hens' Eggs, Duck Eggs, Turkey Eggs, Goose Eggs, Pheasant Eggs, Quail Eggs, Pigeon Eggs, Canary Eggs, Bird Eggs, all in one book. Sent free. Address, BUSINESS DEPT. OF THE AMERICAN STAR, N. Y.

COUNTRY NEWSPAPERS. Supplied with patent inside. Sample by the most satisfactory manuscript. Send for samples and terms to the AMERICAN PRINT, CLEVELAND, O., and Cambridge Street, CHICAGO.

LIFE LOANS AT 4 PER CENT. Principal not over $1,000. Principal not over 3 years. No commissions charged. Address, THE WESTERN LOAN AND TRUST CO., Kansas City, Mo.

DR. FOOTE'S Original METHODS OLD EYES Made New without Glasses. RUPTURE Cured without operation or injurious medicines. PHIMOSIS Cured, without cutting. NERVOUS Debility, etc., cured. CHRONIC Diseases of all kinds. HOME CURE! Free. Consultation free. Cure guaranteed. Address Dr. E. E. FOOTE, Fox 183, N. Y. City.

A SKEPTIC SAID

ugly blotches and stubborn blood sores. Blisters, boils, carbuncles and scalds. ☞ Permanently and promptly cures paralysis. Yes, it is charming and healthful. Aperient. Kills Scrofula and Kings Evil, Dulls headers. Changes bad breath to good, renovating and purifying the system.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

ing the cause." Hence blisters contractors and makes slow complaints. Equalled by none in the delirium of fever. A charming receiver and a marvelous healer. It drives fire. Headache like the wind. ☞ Contains no drastic cathartic or opiate. Relieves the brain of morbid fancies. Promptly cures blackmailers by resting it. Restores integrating properties to the blood. Guaranteed to cure all nervous diseases. ☞ Reliable when all opiates fail. Recentered in quiet and invigorates the body. Cures dyspepsia or money refunded.

THE GREAT NERVE CONQUEROR

NEVER FAILS

Diseases of the blood owed a conqueror. Endorsed by writing a very little. Prompt in bringing claims, eleptomania and hysterics in U. S. and Europe. ☞ Price only $1 at Druggists. Address, (12) ☞ For Testimonials and circulars send stamp.

The R. A. Richmond Med. Co., St. Joseph, Mo.

Lord, Stonebumbugh & Co., Agents, Chicago, Ill.

HOP PLASTER

Cuts in the Back, Side or Hip, Neuralgia, SLEEP Joints and Muscles, Sore Chest, Kidney Trouble and all cases of aches either local or diffuseated. Hop Bitters, Strengthening Cordial and Tonic. Hop Pills, Cathartic and Liver Regulator. Hop Plaster, Pain Killer. Hop Ointment, Hop Soap. Sold by druggists. Hop Plaster Company, Proprietors, Detroit, Mich.

A GREAT SUCCESS

☞ The best family pill made—a safe Stomach and Liver Pill. Sugar Coated. Sold by druggists.

CATARRH ELY'S CREAM BALM

Is the most effectual remedy for the dreaded disease. Catarrh. Cold in Head, Hay-Fever, Deafness, Headache, Dullness, Loss of Smell, Taste, Hearing, Discharges, Pain in Head, Face, Eyes, Ears, Throat, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Bowels, Blood, Skin, Nerves, Muscles, Joints, Bones, Limbs, Feet, Hands, Blisters, Sores, Ulcers, Boils, Carbuncles, Scalds, Cuts, Bruises, Burns, Chilblains, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Frost Bites, Sunburn, Insect Stings, Poisons, Poisoning, Poison Oak, Poison Ivy, Poison Sumac, Mosquito Bites, Piles, Pimples, Blotches, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Eczema, Itch, Scaly Skin, Scalp Diseases, Dandruff, Baldness, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, Liver Complaint, Kidney Complaint, Nervous Debility, Female Weakness, Malaria, Chills and Fever, Ague, Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Typhoid Fever, Typhoid Pneumonia, Diphtheria, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, Sunstroke, Heat Prostration, Fever, Inflammation, Congestion, Spinal Irritation, Kidney Disease, Weak Back, Weak Lungs, Pleurisy, Bronchitis, Consumption, Night Sweats, Nervous Prostration, Nervous Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Erysipelas, Blood Poisoning, Boils, Carbuncles, Scrofula, Scrofulous Humors, Tumors, Cancers, Cancerous Humors, Cancer, Fever Sores, Fever Blisters, Ulcers, Abscesses, Pleurisy, Tetanus, Lockjaw, Gravel, Dropsy, Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Uterine Diseases, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Depression of Spirits, Eyes, Ears, Nose, Throat, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Bowels, Blood, Skin, Nerves, Muscles, Joints, Bones, Limbs, Feet, Hands

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes,

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes,

LATEST STYLES.

A FINE STOCK OF

New Boots & Shoes

JUST RECEIVED.

Prices Below all Competition.

L. B. Connor

Opposite Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

WILL M. GILBERT,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting,

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

Advance Lumber Company

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO. ADVANCE, MICH.

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., April 10, 1884.

We ask the indulgence of advertisers for the crowded condition of this page, occasioned by the non-arrival of material necessary for an enlargement.

To Those Going to Dakota—Don't.

Great efforts are being made in some parts of Michigan to persuade the people of this State to move to Dakota. For a few months in summer or fall Dakota is said to be a delightful State to live in. Between the tornadoes and cyclones of July, August, and September and the blizzards of December there is some exceedingly tranquil and charming weather. Along in December set in the winter hurricanes which is the real name of the blizzard, with snow and hail, instead of rain and lightning as beutenants and aides-de-camp.

A Dakota correspondent of the New York Sun says that no one will ever know how many perish from exposure and cold in that region. The news papers make us little mention of it as possible, and, as every man, woman and child in Dakota is a landowner, they, too, naturally say little about it. They always assure you that the air is so cold and dry that "you don't feel it;" which, after you begin to stiffen, is undoubtedly true. The bones brought to light by the thawing of the snow tell a different story from the real estate agents and the newspapers which are "booming" their little settlements, their towns and their Territory. People disappear as mysteriously as they do in a large city, but it causes no excitement. "Probably perished in the storm of last week," they will say. Perhaps if the census should be taken early in the spring after a winter of blizzards instead of in the fall, Dakota would never have population enough to entitle it to admission as a state. But by systematically drumming up recruits from Michigan and other states in the summer they contrive to show up quite a lively figure before the blizzard snows them under and brings down "the desunition total" to its lowest terms.

What elsewhere is a snowfall for good sleighing is a demon in Dakota. The blizzard comes up suddenly and without warning like a tornado. It has the driving force of a tornado. It takes up the dry, hard flakes and impels them in clouds of solid crystals against all obstructing objects, cutting the flesh like razors. In spite of the whiteness everything is obscured. It grows cold rapidly—freezing to death is one of its terrors. Nothing will prevent one's losing his way; no amount of clothing will save him from perishing. The nostrils and tongue are congealed; the eyes ache to their sockets; there is a ringing noise like the ringing of the telegraph wires; a roar like steam escaping from a thousand locomotives.

If new settlers are poor, they find it difficult to buy fuel enough to provide against the rigors of winter. If their stock fails during the blizzard season, they are helpless. They dare not leave their houses and shelter long enough to procure more fuel lest they be caught in a blizzard, which comes without warning. One family this last winter becoming dependent for fuel on its straw stack half a mile from the house, perished while engaged in bringing more straw to the house. The blizzard swept over them and they were gone, scattered like lost sheep on the prairie, and frozen to death. The wind is so fierce that even after the clouds have passed and it has stopped snowing, the air is still full of the flying snow, so dense that no one exposed to it knows that the storm is over, even though on looking up he catches glimpses of the clear sky.

Dakota may be a fine state to live in, but, according to all accounts, it is nowhere as compared with its advantages as a good state to die in. Every Michigan citizen going there needs to be a good, pious, prudent person, prepared to leave this world at any minute, and having all his affairs arranged for a sudden summons.—Free Press.

T. wright, Emrey & Co. have just opened a choice lot of English Breakfast Mackerel, the finest sample ever offered to the trade.

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitings,

Boots and Shoes.

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at actual cost, as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. Remember, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark.

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

THIS IS THE SAME

OLD FOX

OF BY-GONE YEARS,

And he is, this spring and summer, giving the hounds a hard run to catch him. They are all after him, in full cry, but he distances them all.

The Old Reliable Establishment in Charlevoix

Is full to overflowing with the most complete assortment of

DRESS GOODS, CLOTHING

Boots and Shoes,

Hats and Caps, Gents' Goods,

Ladies' Goods, Crockery, Glassware, Carpets,

Groceries, Provisions, Flour & Feed

And you can't guess anything we haven't got

FRESH.

Our sales thus far this year are far in excess of the same time a year ago, and are daily increasing, which attests the popularity of our establishment.

REMEMBER

We deliver promptly all goods to steamers, stages, private houses or resorts, and we give our customers prompt attention and perfect satisfaction.

COME AND SEE US

Yours,

AMOS FOX.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 40. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, APRIL 17, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Is published every Thursday morning,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office over T. H. Smith's grocery,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

CROSS & HANS & GIBBS, Attorneys at Law, Office in Bulgers' Block, Charlevoix, Mich. C. A. GIBBS.

HART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of post-office, Petoskey, Mich.

FORD & ALDRICH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, at Real Estate business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

H. A. JESSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Office in United States Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

JAY C. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law, and Circuit Court Commissioner. Office in bank building, entrance on Mitchell St. Petoskey, Mich.

J. M. CLARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

WINTON, KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

OSCAR F. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, and U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

Z. SABBRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX. Capital paid up $50,000. Surplus and undivided profits $40,000. Savings department. Loans, real estate, and pledge of government bonds. Money to loan on approved security, on time from above amount, also on time on first mortgages. Foreign and domestic exchange. REYNOLDS & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Prayer meeting at close of morning service. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7, in the school house. J. F. VAN ZANDT, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7. J. T. DAVIDSON, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX HOOK AND LADDER FIRE COMPANY meet the first and third Thursday evenings of each month, at the town hall. H. F. BISHER, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

R. SEFFRIN, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Humphrey Cures, Specs, Sundries, Mich.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

M. L. SMITH, teacher of Musical Composition, Organ and Piano-forte. Time is lapsing at rates. Inquire at residence of Geo. W. Lull, on Mason street.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. MILO EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class Hacks and Carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

A. J. CHRISTIEN, M. D. Office at the Ingleside.

E. LEWIS, M. D., President and Surgeon. All on hand at the Lewis Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. G. GRAVES, M. D. Office in new Block Charlevoix.

W. M. FRENSON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARMON, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. O. U. W.—Bayer Post No. 108, meets second and fourth Monday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 307, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 295 meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

I. O. O. F.—Tyrrell Encampment No. 117, meets every second and fourth Tuesday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

MASONIC—Charlevoix Lodge No. 287, meets Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over postoffice.

A. BETTARS, President. A. B. TURBOTT, Vice President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money to loan on approved paper at reasonable rates. Deposits received. Collections given careful attention and remittances made promptly.

G. S. TIBBALS, Cashier.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON, Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

Bridge Street House,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Buy note paper and envelopes with view of Charlevoix, at C. H. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

1872 DR. G. W. CROUTER, 1884

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.
PURITY, POLITENESS.

WE MAKE IT A POINT TO SELL ONLY

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

OUR PRICES WILL ALWAYS BE AS LOW AS

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

CAN BE SOLD.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

E. T. BROWN & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS' AGENTS,

Portable and Stationary Engines,

Boilers, Mill and Wood-working Machinery,

Mill Supplies, Threshers, and Threshing Engines.

Bargains in Second-Hand Machinery.

WRITE FOR PRICE AND CATALOGUE.

WEST BRIDGE ST., GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

Fountain City House,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public, and local carriages for the Petoskey and the Rapids Stages.

PINE LAKE HOUSE

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

Pioneer House,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

United States Hotel,

GEO. W. CHILDS, Proprietor,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

Sewing Machines CHEAP.

A few fine sewing machines for sale at ten dollars each. Call soon and have your pick.

EVERY MACHINE WARRANTED

D. S. HEAY.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

Has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Usher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. Call and see my stock.

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county, and is the best place east of the Rapids to buy. Will be repaired and not edited for his customers are subject to sale for cigars.

O. W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. Any article of jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, Wasting Weakness, Lack of Energy, Nightly Emissions, and all the effects of indiscretion or excess, and found no remedy in the world, at last discovered a simple remedy by which he was cured, and will gladly send to his fellow-sufferers the receipt free of charge, which they can do as by addressing in a proper manner, JOHN H. OGDEN, Box 1227, New York.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the recipe for a simple vegetable balm that will remove Tan, Pimples, Freckles and Blotches, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful, and will also mail the receipt for a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing a 3c stamp, DR. A. ADAMS & CO., 37 Barclay St., N. Y.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card in effect January, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	N	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv		7 00am	11 00pm
Richmond	5 55pm	10 22	11 06
Winchester	6 19	10 47	11 31
Portland	6 41	11 07	11 53
Fort Wayne, ar	8 40	12 50am	1 50am
Fort Wayne, lv		8 17	3 26	9 05am
Warsaw		9 35	5 02	9 17
Winona		9 53	5 14	9 30
Plymouth		10 11	5 32	9 50
Kankakee		6 41	8 15	12 25pm
Chicago, ar		9 00	10 15	1 50
Kalamazoo, lv		7 05	9 12	1 57
Schoolcraft		7 22	9 29	2 15
Battle Creek	2 45pm	7 40	9 46	2 33
Marshall	3 00	7 56	9 59	2 45
Albion	3 15	8 11	10 14	3 00
Jackson	3 35	8 30	10 33	3 19
Grand Rapids, ar	6 15	12 10pm	1 45	6 45
Grand Rapids, lv	11 25	2 20	5 20	9 50
Cedar Springs		4 55	6 17	12 20am
Crystal		5 13	6 35	12 38
Ashley		5 40	6 52	1 05
Edmore		5 52	7 05	1 18
Lakeview		6 04	7 17	1 30
Carson City		6 14	7 27	1 40
Crystal		6 28	7 41	1 54
Ionia		6 45	7 58	2 11
Lowell		7 00	8 13	2 26
Alaska			8 18
Greenville		7 15	8 28	2 40
Cedar Lake			8 35
Sheridan			8 40
Coldwater			8 55
Ionia, lv		7 25	8 30	2 45
Portland		7 45	8 50	3 05
Grand Ledge		8 00	9 05	3 20
Delta		8 05	9 10	3 25
Lansing		8 15	9 20	3 35
Okemos		8 23	9 28	3 43
Williamston		8 32	9 37	3 52
Webberville		8 40	9 45	4 00
Howell		8 55	10 00	4 15
Brighton		9 15	10 20	4 35
Kensington		9 25	10 30	4 45
Milford		9 30	10 35	4 50
Wixom		9 40	10 45	5 00
Walled Lake		9 50	10 55	5 10
Wallace		9 55	11 00	5 15
Commerce		10 05	11 10	5 25
Keego		10 10	11 15	5 30
Pontiac, ar		10 25	11 30	5 45

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Pontiac, lv			6 15pm	7 20am
Keego			6 30	7 37
Commerce			6 40	7 47
Wallace			6 45	7 52
Walled Lake			6 55	8 02
Wixom			7 05	8 12
Milford			7 15	8 22
Kensington			7 20	8 27
Brighton			7 30	8 37
Howell			7 45	8 52
Webberville			8 00	9 07
Williamston			8 08	9 15
Okemos			8 17	9 24
Lansing			8 25	9 32
Delta			8 30	9 37
Grand Ledge			8 35	9 42
Portland			8 50	9 57
Ionia, ar			9 05	10 12
Coldwater			7 00am	5 00pm
Sheridan			7 15	5 15
Greenville			7 25	5 25
Cedar Lake			7 35	5 35
Ionia			7 45	5 45
Crystal			8 00	6 00
Carson City			8 13	6 13
Edmore			8 25	6 25
Lakeview			8 37	6 37
Crystal			8 50	6 50
Ashley			9 03	7 03
Alaska			9 10	7 10
Greenville			9 19	7 19
Lowell			9 33	7 34
Ionia			9 45	7 45
Grand Rapids, ar			10 45	8 45
Grand Rapids, lv	7 00am	1 35pm	5 00pm	9 15pm
Cedar Springs	7 45	2 20	5 45	10 00
Muskegon, lv			6 15pm	7 20am
Marquette			9 00	8 30
St. Ignace			5 45am	6 15pm
Mackinaw City			7 00	9 10
Harbor Springs			7 40	9 55
Petoskey			7 55	10 05
Boyne Falls			8 25	10 35
Alma			8 37	10 47
Boyne City			8 45	10 55
Traverse City, lv			6 15pm	7 20am
Cadillac, ar			7 45	8 55
Cadillac, lv		3 30pm	11 45	5 50
Manistee		4 30	1 12pm	7 05
Big Rapids		5 12	1 52	7 49
Howard City		5 38	2 20	8 17
Reed City		5 55	2 37	8 35
Grand Rapids, ar		7 10	4 05	10 05
Grand Rapids, lv	6 30am		8 45	12 20pm
Kalamazoo, lv	8 32		9 27	1 12
Schoolcraft	8 47		9 42	1 26
Battle Creek	9 05		9 52	1 39
Marshall	9 19		10 06	1 56
Albion	9 35		10 22	2 12
Jackson	9 53		10 40	2 30
Grand Rapids, ar	12 10pm		6 15	5 00
Grand Rapids, lv	1 45		6 20	5 05
Ionia	2 28		7 05	5 50
Lansing	2 40		7 15	6 00
Lansing	2 50		7 25	6 10
Williamston	3 00		7 35	6 20
Webberville	3 08		7 43	6 28
Howell	3 23		7 58	6 43
Brighton	3 43		8 18	7 03
Kensington	3 53		8 28	7 13
Milford	3 58		8 33	7 18
Wixom	4 08		8 43	7 28
Walled Lake	4 18		8 53	7 38
Wallace	4 23		8 58	7 43
Commerce	4 33		9 08	7 53
Keego	4 38		9 13	7 58
Pontiac, ar	4 55		9 30	8 15

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Agt. G. P. Agt. Grand Rapids, Mich.

Grand Rapids Democrat,

DAILY AND WEEKLY.

Office: 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

Daily Democrat—By mail, $6.00 per year in advance, postage paid.

Weekly Democrat—$1.50 per year; 75 cents for six months; 40 cents for three months—invariably in advance. Address,

THE DEMOCRAT,

Grand Rapids, Mich.

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

HON. MORRISON R. WAITE,

CHIEF-JUSTICE OF THE UNITED STATES.

Morrison R. Waite presents a subject for a more extended biography than our space will permit. Fulsome eulogy would be unworthy the character and office of the chief-justice. On the other hand the record of such a life belongs to the public he has served and is still serving with so much ability.

In the quiet old rural town of Lyme, Connecticut, still stands the house where Morrison Renwick Waite was born, November 29, 1816. Mr Waite entered Yale college at the age of seventeen and graduated with honor in 1837 in a class which included Wm. M. Evarts, Edward Pierrepont, Prof. Silliman and others who have become distinguished men. He then began the study of law in his father's office in Lyme, but finished his studies in the office of Samuel M. Young, then a prominent attorney in Maumee City, Ohio. In 1839 his preceptor took him into partnership, and in 1850 the firm of Young & Waite removed to Toledo, Ohio, and established a large and successful practice. A few years after, Mr. Waite's younger brother was admitted to the bar and a partnership was formed consisting of the two brothers, which continued up to the time of the former's appointment to his present high position by President Grant, January 29, 1874.

Politically Mr. Waite is a republican but he was always too deeply engaged in his profession to become much of a partisan or party leader. To all the war measures of the government he gave earnest and effective support. In 1849 Mr. Waite was elected to the Ohio legislature as a whig. In 1862 he was reluctantly a candidate for congress but was defeated by Edwin M. Phelps. Thereafter other nominations and appointments were tendered him but he refused to accept any of them.

Mr. Waite was a conspicuous character in the great Geneva tribunal as one of the United States counsel and he performed his arduous task to his great credit and to the entire satisfaction of his government. He thereafter returned to Toledo and resumed his practice, and in 1875 was chosen president of the Ohio state constitutional convention. Upon the death of chief justice Chase there was intense interest throughout the United States to know who would be his successor. After the successive nomination of Hon. Geo. H. Williams and Hon. Caleb Cushing and the withdrawal of their names, President Grant then selected Mr. Waite and his appointment was confirmed by a unanimous vote in the senate. It is the glory and security of a nation to have its highest place of justice filled by men, like chief justice Waite, add to the loftiest official character that purity of life, urbanity of manners, and generous beneficence, which distinguish him.

Scientific investigation has proved that a direct application can cure cases of Piles, thus so lessening the misery of sufferers. In all forms of Piles, humanity demands relief, which is needed. By further investigation it has been ascertained that a few drops of Dr. Bigelow's "Pile Suppository" will give relief. This Suppository is prepared and sold at a moderate price. Price 50 cents per box. Sold by C. H. Weed & Co.

If protection be a good thing for the nation, why not for the state? For the county? For the city? For the township? It is only necessary to push the theory to its logical results to demonstrate its utter absurdity.

Protecting American Labor.

"High tariffs are intended to protect American labor." "I am in favor of protecting American industry," is the only response many protectionists will make to the free trade argument. It is the stereotyped formula that is relied on to meet all objections to high tariffs, or high taxes, on the necessaries of life for the benefit of capital. No free trader has aught to say against American labor. It is the source of national wealth and power, and the declaration in favor of protecting it against foreign competition has a pleasant sound. The strength of the proposition is in this pleasant sound rather than in any substantial reality. Let us analyze the declaration and see what it means. Does it mean that all American labor is protected? No! It cannot mean that. It simply means that certain kinds of labor, chiefly that of manufacturing is protected. Farm labor is not protected. It is pretended they are, but the pretense is without foundation. Are carpenters protected? Is anybody taxed for their benefit? Not a bit. Everything they use, tools and materials, is taxed to protect other industries. Are blacksmiths, bricklayers, plasterers, painters, coopers, printers, tailors, seamstresses, stone masons, millers, bakers, tinners, wagon makers, glaziers, cabinet makers, and butchers protected? No—none of them. No goods can be imported to compete with them. Foreign labor, which comes freely to our shores, is the only kind of competition they encounter. They pay taxes on commodities but receive no protection. The late census gave the number of persons engaged in various industries. It appears from the published tables that the number of unprotected workers, in 1880, was as follows, the figures giving the number of persons engaged in the specified industries, viz.

Agriculture	7,570,493
Professional and personal services	4,074,038
Trade and transportation	1,810,256
Manufacturing, mechanical and mining	2,837,112
Total unprotected workers	16,291,899

This leaves in round numbers, one million persons, including bosses and operatives, engaged in the high protected industries above enumerated and in many others amounts to over two and three quarter millions. And not only are these mechanics, workers on the farm, professional men, tradesmen, seamen, laborers, and others not protected, but they are taxed on all the tools they use, the materials they work up, the clothes they wear, the food they consume, and on many food they eat, for the benefit of the comparatively few persons engaged in the protection industries.

When this winds matter of "protecting American labor" is sifted we find that the only labor that has even a show of protection is that which is the poorest paid in the United States—that which finds employment in the enormous establishments at the east—in the cotton and woolen mills, iron works, and other large factories. As President Arthur stated in his message revision, it is the cotton, woolen and iron industries that receive most protection, and for them the heaviest taxes are laid. And we all know that these industries cover most of the labor troubles—lockouts, strikes, reduction of wages, untimely employment, poverty and crime—troubles occasioned by insufficient markets for goods and over production. Even before the recent lowering of wages, during the very prosperous census year, 1880, wages were lower in these highly protected industries than the were in the unprotected industries—which shows plainly that the million of dollars paid, in the form of protective taxation to sustain them, go mainly into the pockets of the manufacturing capitalists and not into the hands of the workers. Tariffs were invented for the benefit of capital and not for the benefit of labor. Detroit Tribune.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

THE occupants of the reading room of the British House of Commons on the evening of Feb. 8 were somewhat alarmed by the electric light going out without the least warning. The whole place was thrown into total darkness, and honorable members are said to have "rushed from the room under the impression that something dreadful was about to happen."

A DEBTOR WAS arraigned in a London Police Court, the other day, and it appeared that, on the 14th of January last year, the prisoner, along with a corporal, a bombardier, and three gunners, stationed at St. Helena, descended to sea in a boat, on the chance of being picked up by some passing ship, and after enduring many hardships they were picked up by a whaler.

THE annual rainfall in this country, according to the Weather Signal, is lowest in New Mexico (15 inches) and California (18 inches), and highest in Oregon (49) and Alabama (56). The annual rainfall in the British Islands among the mountains is 41 inches; on the plains 25 inches; 45 inches of rain falls on the west side of England, 27 on the east side.

CAPSICUMPHOB is being taken up actively in England, not only for the comfortable cheek listings its fur affords, but as an article of food, the feasibility, quick growth, and really palatable properties of our familiar heart-burning plant pointing out a notable career. The remembrance of this and the present activity in the cut market are suggestive. It has long been suspected that among the millions of rabbits imported from Ostend, a few stray ones have known in their time how to make night hideous.

AN English newspaper prints illustrations of Gen. Gordon's terse speeches. When he entered upon his duties as Governor General of the Soudan it was expected that he would make a long address, but he dismissed the assembly with the single sentence, "I will try to hold the balance even." When his views on the Soudan appeared in the columns of a newspaper he remarked, "A shot has been fired." When he was sent to the Soudan he said, "I have received orders to cut the dog's tail off, and I will do it."

A MAN in Lexington, Ky., made a wager that he could name some one hundred women in that town each of whom is prettier than Mrs. Langtry. He wrote out the list, and took it to the office of a newspaper there. The editor said that if he published it his bids would be literally riddled with bullet holes. "Why," said the editor, "every word of description opposite to each name is highly respectful and complimentary." "You misunderstand me," said the editor. "It's on account of the names not mentioned at all that I would be murdered if I printed your list."

MRS. HORACE GREELEY had an antipathy for kid gloves—she would never put them on. A correspondent remembers a band she had with Margaret Fuller on the subject. We all met on the street, and instead of saying "good-morning," or some such human salutation, Mrs. Greeley touched Margaret's hand with a little shudder, and said, "Skin of a beast! Skin of a beast!" "Why, what do you wear?" inquired the astonished maiden from Maine. "Silk," said Mrs. Greeley, holding out her hand. Margaret just touched it, and shuddered, crying, "Entrails of a worm! Entrails of a worm!"

AS ora of stump-speaking has just begun in England. As soon as the last session of Parliament ended, Parliamentary leaders were invited hither and thither to make political speeches. Every sort of an occasion served as a pretext. "The land was literally flooded with talk," said Robert Laird Collier; "the voice has been raised on high; the whole United Kingdom is drenched with stump oratory. Yet there has been no election on. There has been nothing much out of the common run. But never before has Parliament out of session been so wholly given over to speech-making."

THE Liverpool rowdy has a peculiar style of dress. The jacket, vest, and trousers are made of a thick, molted cotton cloth called moleskin, which has something of a velvet smoothness and roughness on its right side. The jacket reaches just below the hips and buttons to the throat over a scarf or muffler, and the number of buttons is great. The trousers fit tight to the knee, from whence they hang with a rak ish looseness and nearly cover the foot. Crowning all is a round worsted cloth peak cap, with a little round knob on the top, that makes a very suitable finish to the whole man.

ACCORDING to Dod's Parliamentary Companion, which may be accepted as authority, as it receives its information each session from the members themselves, the House of Commons now contains, independent of the Irish Home Rule representatives, 332 Liberals and 242 Conservatives. Of the sixty-two Home Rulers the Parnellites, as shown by the late division, number thirty-nine, thirty-four votes being recorded, and Mr. O'Kelly absent in the Soudan, the two Redmonds in this country, and Cork City and Meath County being vacant. There are twenty-three Home-Rulers who vote on critical questions with the Liberal party. So that Mr. Gladstone's majority over all the combined opposition may be safely set down as fifty.

VISITORS at the Crystal Palace, London, are now amused and instructed with a great electric microscope and a powerful electric light installation, which show a large number of familiar articles, such as snuff, lace, cheese, vinegar, water, and beer. A drop of water presents the most extraordinary monsters imagination can conceive, serpents, crocodiles, worse dragons than St. George had to deal with, whirl about through their liquid element, striking terror to the hearts of all beholders. Salt and sugar are exhibited as densely populated and even the most carefully filtered water is filled with black specks, which that rapidly about, giving on occasional edifying whirl which suggests reality.

THE great fifty-ton hammer in Krupp's works at Essen (usual its name, "Uncle Fritz," and the inscription it bears, "Fritz, let fly!" in the following manner: When, in 1877, the Emperor William visited Essen, this mass-hammer attracted his attention. Krupp presented to him the machinist, Fritz, who, he said, handled the hammer with such nicety and precision as not to injure or touch an object placed in the center of the block. The Emperor at once put his diamond-studded watch on the spot indicated, and allowed to the machinist to set the hammer in motion. Fritz hesitated out of consideration for the precious object, but Krupp urged him on by saying, "Fritz, let fly!" Down came the hammer, and the watch remained untouched. The Emperor gave to the machinist as a souvenir, and Krupp added 1,000 marks to the present.

THE work just published by Prince Bismarck's private historian, Dr. Moritz Busch, entitled "Our Chancellor," contains a story which, presented by the writer who is known to be honored by Bismarck's confidence, cannot but be accepted as true. A fortnight before the declaration of war in 1866 against Austria, the supposed author of that war caused a proposition to be made to the Emperor Francis Joseph, by which Austria and Prussia, the former taking command of all the troops in South Germany, the latter of all the troops in North Germany, should unite their forces and declare war against France. The political object of the war was to be the consolidation of Germany under the joint leadership of Prussia and Austria, intimately allied; the military object, the recuperant of Alsace for Germany as a whole. Prussia, according to Prince Bismarck, was unprepared for war; and as France 20 years before had taken Strasburg by surprise, so Germany, he argued, might fairly retaliate if by the same means.

Plantation Philosophy.

Young man, stick to yo' pose. Forked lightnin' ain't no sign of rain.

De fool nebr tries to hide de nakedness o' his mine by de fig leaves o' larnin'.

A smart man has more ter worry him den a fool has. De brightest plow wears de fastest.

No man aint so great arter he once knows him. De hill-frang bellers de loudest when yer kain't see him.

I allus feels sorry fur de young feller what is smart fo' his time. De flowers what blooms de soonest is de sooner ter die.

De laugh what doan' come nachul grates nighty harsh on de human year. De dry, humble laugh o' de owl makes a chicken feel mighty uneasy.—Arkansaw Traveler.

SELF-INTEREST is the surest lever to move certain people.

THE LITTLE FOLKS.

The Two Moons of Cologne.

A hour time ago, there lived in Cologne
Otto von Hilber and Rupert Van Tone,
And Otto wrote ballads—
But Rupert made songs—
"This very fine night I hear every one knows!"
So said every one, as he left his house.

"Upland Rupert," said Otto, one fine, sole day,
Come, let us the moon lyrical reason, I pray.
Why now will you not
Which, truth, you never
Indeed, by the way, was a terrible learning, you
And I, as, in truth, I've enough for a show!

Two masters of layrics, I'm famous in Greek,
If 'ads I could back to the year
Of our saviour's birth,
Nay, sooner—for I'm not sure he's alive to be Famous—
That I am the simplest man in Cologne!"

Said Rupert Van Tone: "If you'll promise to Stop!
I'll tell you the secret you've learned to keep quiet."
"That I've so much to say!"
"Why, I'm a poet, I'm a poet!
Who lets his tongue run like a rolling lever,
Stands very much chance of being called clever,
Indeed! 'so much to say,' this Otto von Hilber!
Why, I've more than I know how to do (at dinner)
Of Cologne without warning,
Yet I'm not a man
Will lay before a social club an ode!"
"What a
Ho ho! my dear Rupert, you know I'm a Cologne."
But Rupert Van Tone worked on at his tricks
He danced and thumped, but his words he will work
Not
He clamoring in plenty;
And Otto, with a sigh, turned his mouton
Was thrown
As the moon, in the clearest, sun in Cologne.
—Charles C. Moore, of N. Andover, Mass.

Hetzel.

"Oh, dear, dear," sighed Bertie Hunt, dolefully, flattening his nose and mouth against the window pane, "I don't see what I can do to be entertained to-morrow, for, any way!"

"But the ground is very dry, dear, and the trees and plants in the country are dying of thirst."

"Well, why couldn't it rain in the country then, and keep pleasant in the city? There is nothing here but a lot of dried up vines and brown grass."

"How would you get any fresh water to drink?"

"Why, from that big lake off in the hills, mamma. Don't you see that Uncle Joe won't come if it don't clear off, and I can't go to ride, and my back hurts awfully, sitting here long, and—and!"—Here poor little Bertie broke down and sobbed, in his misery.

If you had looked in upon him, his lot would not have seemed very hard to you, I think. It was a lovely room, with warm brown and red furnishings, and a bright fire was crackling in the grate, the table was littered with storybooks, and in the rocking-chair beside it sat Bertie's mother, whom you would have loved in a minute for her sweet baby-face. Her lov had been rack with a sort of easy fever for two or three weeks, and had just reached what my grandmother used to call the "crisis"—which was considered very encouraging, but at the same time very uncomfortable for the nurse.

To night Bertie could not seem to get over his disappointment, and he sat with a disconsolate face until it was bedtime, and he had to lay his head wearily on the pillow.

"Good-night, dear," said his mother, cheerfully, as she tucked the big lion in; "I shall be in the next room, with the light burning and the door open between. Just speak if you want anything, or are afraid."

So she kissed him on the forehead, and took her seat again beside the fire, with a little tired look in her eyes. In a few minutes the sick boy, worn out with the long, drear day, fell asleep. He had my fairly begun a dream, however, when he was aroused by a queer, lonely sound. It was like a cat trying to cry out "Mamma," but he noticed at the same moment that the light was out in the next room. So he concluded she must have gone to bed. His sleepy mind had time to think that he was brave enough not to waken her, but just be still and listen.

"Ing-g—g—hmm—mu—mm—m—" the voice continued, louder than ever. It was plainly outside his window, and he could not resist the temptation of jumping out of bed and leaning over to see what the cause could be.

The rain had stopped, and the moon was shining brightly, so that the lace graph wires looked like long, shining tracks of her silver hair, spread out to airy between the house-tops.

"Hmm—mu—mm" went the noise. Bertie raised the sash and put his head out, forgetting all about his fever. The air was cold and sharp, and very chilly, although it was November. He could see that the wires overhead were quivering like harp-strings, and the strange sound proceeded from nothing else than the telegraph pole itself.

"Ho!" said Bertie, half aloud, "I've heard that noise enough times, in the daylight. It's just the wires."

Before he could get any farther he was astonished to catch some broken snatches of sentences, amid the humming, as it rolled the air like a swarm of bees.

He hesitated no longer; but, glancing up and down the street to see that no one was looking, and that the policeman wasn't near, he climbed on to the sill and down the vinetrellis to the front steps, and from there to the sidewalk. It took him a moment to get the knee pad, and you can guess how cagerly he listened, as he had his ear against the rough wood. Messages were flying to and fro in the wires overhead, and after a little he could hear them quite plainly.

"Co-ne-lee-us a-t on-ce." Of course he had to spell them all out. "Ye-ow! ee-ack! ee-ack! ee-ack!"

"Dear me!" thought Bertie; "I wonder if its papa's bank! Poor man! I've had hell! feel—the one that gets that message!"

The next words he heard were worse still. "Ba-by is no be-tter. Do-ctor ne-ver-ma-ind! ne-ver-ma-ind! ne-ck!"

Bertie felt a lump rising in his throat as he thought of his little 2-year-old sister safe in her crib up stairs.

The next was a dispatch in a newspaper. He could not make out all of it, but he heard "plenty of water—splendid showers—winter springs filled—the poor saved from great suffering."

It began to be a little cold about Bertie's feet, and he was thinking of a run back to his room. Still he could not help listening to one more. There was a pause, then came the words faster and faster. The boy's heart almost stopped beating, as he spelled them out.

"Your—mother—dyi—ng—ni—ght—four—forty—five—ne-ck!"

Bertie waited no longer. He turned to the lions, and he climbered up the trellis almost faster than he had come down, and closing the window behind him, crabbed up in his bed again, sobbing "Mamma—dear, dear mamma! What should I do?"

But there was mamma already, with her arms around her boy's neck, and her cool, soft hand on his forehead.

"What's the matter, darling?" she whispered, stroking back the tangled wisps of hair. "The doctor's been upstairs and gone, leaving all the best. Did you have bad dreams, or were you thinking about the rain again?

The tiny little fire snapped and laughed and threw its flickering light through the open door from a distant room came the soft sound of baby cooing in her sleep. On the pretty carpet by his bed, with the moonbeams slyly creep up to the fire-glow, and danced around it mamma's feet.

To this day Bertie is not quite sure of the events of that wonderful night. He has often heard of the humming of the telegraph wires, but has never been able to understand what they said. One thing is certain, that he learned a content and cheerfulness that is fast bringing his mother's look into his face. And if he should grow to be a hero, and have in him a beautiful womanliness as well as true and strong manliness, why, I guess you'd like to know him, wouldn't you? I should.—Golden Rule.

Shot Through the Heart.

A great battle was in progress, when a large division under Gen. Gary came on the field. He reported to Gen. Thomas. All day the tide of battle had turned, first in favor of the North, and then of the South. Gen. Thomas pointed to a certain point and said, "I want your men to hold that. If they can do it without loss, do it; if they can't, they can't." Gary formed, and there they stood, like animated statues. Time and again the rebel ranks came on, but they could not break the line. At length Gen. Gary gave the word, "Up, and at them boys!" and with a shout the Union men charged down on the flying rebels. Dying men heard the shout of victory and raised their feeble arms. In the evening the wounded were carried and placed by each other, and there was a call for those who survived the day. At last he was found sitting dejected in his tent, and to the messenger who came to summon him to receive the congratulations of his General, he said: "I am shot through the heart; you must excuse me."

"But I thought you had escaped without a wound."

"Without a wound Gen. Gary drew aside the flap of his tent, and there lay the body of his boy, who had been pierced through the heart by a bullet while shouting that charge.—Mary A. Livermore.

Planting Small Forest Trees.

Mr. A. B. Whitney, of Franklin County, who has planted more trees than almost any man in this county, gives these directions about planting forest seedlings: Always do small planting of forest trees in the spring and as early as the ground can be got in good condition. Use trees one or two years from the seed according to the variety. To do the work to the best advantage requires the help of three men and a good team. Furnish two of the men with a spade each, and let the third man carry the trees. The men with spades take a row each and prepare the holes for the trees. Where the roots are long they naturally will be in trees of this age, the men may thrust in the spade at an angle of about 45 degrees, spring or lift the spade upward, and let the carrier stick in the roots so that the collar of the tree will be covered two or three inches lower than it stood in the nursery. If that soil is dry and porous, and we soil is always more open than old soil, press it down compactly about the roots. This is an important point to remember. If the soil is very compacting should not be practised, this is a way of starting your forest with trees in a day of ten hours. It will take 2,700 trees to plant an acre, with the rows four feet apart each way.

Colic in Horses.

One of the best remedies for colic in horses is the following, which is worth while to keep on hand: Take aromatic spirits of ammonia, one pint; sulphuric ether, one ounce; sweet spirit of niter, one and a half pints; gum opium (made fine), four ounces; gum camphor, four ounces; assafetida, four ounces. Mix all together and shake frequently for ten or fifteen days, strain through flannel, and it is ready for use. The dose is a tablespoonful in a pint of water.

MONKS and nuns are forbidden to reside in France in communities.

Old St. Louis.

It is curious to remember that although being early constitution of St. Louis, so long as it was a foreign settlement, was especially French, it was but for an extremely slight space of time under any legal French government. It made a part of the French province of Louisiana, and was established in 1764 by a fur-trader, Pierre Laclede Ligueste, under authority of the Governor-General at New Orleans, and was destroyed after that province by cession sovereign, Louis XV. But it was precisely in 1763 that Louis XV., terminating by the treaty of Fontainebleau a conflict known in Europe as the Seven Years' War, and here as the Old French War, was obliged to yield to Spain all of the French possessions in the west bank of the Mississippi, together with New Orleans, and to Great Britain those on the east bank.

The new domination, however, by no means began at once, not by reason of resistance to it, but for reasons connected with the sparsity of population, the vast distances to be traversed, and lack of physical ability in the new ownership to manifest itself power. Four years afterward, or in 1768, some Spanish soldiers under Don Piros arrived at St. Louis and completed the transfer, and it was not till 1770 that the final ceremony of possession, Pedro Piernas, was installed. Meanwhile, many French families had established themselves in a line of posts on the other side of the river, along a trail kept open from Kaskaskia, through the Indian country, to Fort Chartres, near where Kaskaskia now stands. He brought with him forty soldiers of his garrison. He was received at St. Louis with the chief command, both military and civil, and continued to retain it, or something like it, by his personal influence, long after he was nominally superseded. He had great power, among other ways, over the Indian tribes, and broke the Miamis Peorias into intimate personal friend.

The Spanish regime continued nominally under some five or six governors down to 1803, when the whole territory, having first been retransferred to France after the victories of Napoleon, was sold by Napoleon to the United States, in Jefferson's Presidency, for $15,000,000.

The Indian tribes in those days were an important auxiliary even in the war between the mother-land and her colonies organized for the massacre of Deadfoot near Fort Du Quesne, or Pittsburgh, the British brought down Indians on the French settlements of Canada, and the French brought down the vicinity of Mackinaw, and to have to do with the British, Indians had already appeared before St. Louis, and were fortunately beaten off. They were fortunate in the result, for a French raiding party of Americans—the so called Long Knives—who were coming up from Kaskaskia, had to have a battle with them, and the result was that they were defeated by 140 British regulars, sailed down the Mississippi, and made a tireless onslaught upon it. They were fortunately beaten off, and the approach of a body of Americans—the Long Knives—who, if there were could, as Hagg asked in a ballad, have completed their discomfiture. This was known as the year of the Double Cross, just as the arrival of ten boats together at another time for protection against robbers, an extraordinary prevalence of honey-bees, and the like, in the annals of the small settlement, caused distinctive appellations to be conferred on the years in which they took place.

When the American flag was first hoisted, in 1804, it floated over a little village of 1,000 people, all told, and in one of which was a log church, under the jurisdiction, like all other ecclesiastical matters in the province, of the Bishopric of Cuba. Around the village was a line of stockades and some tenements, erected by the Spanish Governor. Twenty-one years before, and before memorized. Up to a few years ago there was still standing on the river bank an old house with a cupola like the disputed hill at Newport, which had once made part of these primitive fortifications.

The pretty village of Cahokia, on the other side of the river, strange to state, was then the only rival of St. Louis. It had 400 people, and its school-house attracted pupils from a small town. Now the town has not even a population of its own, but has to get its pupils, up to East St. Louis, for its lectures.—William Henry Bishop, in Harper's Magazine.

Resting from Mental Labor.

If two men are of equal age, mental power and physical constitution, work alike both on the same description of mental labor, that one will live the longer who succeeds in putting his work entirely aside during a certain number of hours every day, and who either avoids stimulants, or is sparing in the use of them. Taking these as preventatives to nutrition instead of as means to brain work, the other man, who makes long-continued mental efforts his sole and all-sufficient cause of strong stimulants, will gain renown earlier, will do more great power, among other ways, over the Indian tribes, and broke the Miamis Peorias into intimate personal friend.

The Spanish regime continued nominally under some five or six governors down to 1803, when the whole territory, having first been retransferred to France after the victories of Napoleon, was sold by Napoleon to the United States, in Jefferson's Presidency, for $15,000,000.

The Indian tribes in those days were an important auxiliary even in the war between the mother-land and her colonies organized for the massacre of Deadfoot near Fort Du Quesne, or Pittsburgh, the British brought down Indians on the French settlements of Canada, and the French brought down the vicinity of Mackinaw, and to have to do with the British, Indians had already appeared before St. Louis, and were fortunately beaten off. They were fortunate in the result, for a French raiding party of Americans—the so called Long Knives—who were coming up from Kaskaskia, had to have a battle with them, and the result was that they were defeated by 140 British regulars, sailed down the Mississippi, and made a tireless onslaught upon it. They were fortunately beaten off, and the approach of a body of Americans—the so called Long Knives—who, if there were could, as Hagg asked in a ballad, have completed their discomfiture. This was known as the year of the Double Cross, just as the arrival of ten boats together at another time for protection against robbers, an extraordinary prevalence of honey-bees, and the like, in the annals of the small settlement, caused distinctive appellations to be conferred on the years in which they took place.

When the American flag was first hoisted, in 1804, it floated over a little village of 1,000 people, all told, and in one of which was a log church, under the jurisdiction, like all other ecclesiastical matters in the province, of the Bishopric of Cuba. Around the village was a line of stockades and some tenements, erected by the Spanish Governor. Twenty-one years before, and before memorized. Up to a few years ago there was still standing on the river bank an old house with a cupola like the disputed hill at Newport, which had once made part of these primitive fortifications.

The pretty village of Cahokia, on the other side of the river, strange to state, was then the only rival of St. Louis. It had 400 people, and its school-house attracted pupils from a small town. Now the town has not even a population of its own, but has to get its pupils, up to East St. Louis, for its lectures.—William Henry Bishop, in Harper's Magazine.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

AT Bibbany, Pa., Thos. Avery, while shoveling snow out of his yard, discovered buried in the snow a hen which he had missed for ten days. She had pulled the snow down and made a room for herself in a kind of hut. Beyond the shape of her head incident to the long fast she was unharmed.

In the old envelopes, newspapers, wrappers and scraps of paper which accumulate in the Treasury Department at Washington are carefully saved in what is called the waste-paper room. At this refuse is sorted out by men and women, and sold to one firm in New York. The receipts amount to only a thousand dollars a year.

JOHN HAYARD, in his younger age and until very lately, held aviatory in awe. Apropos of this, Thackeray had to tell, when ever his son in the character of Henry Esmond with the Duke of Newcastle and going together from the Garrick in a cab, he transfixed Hayward with his amazement by taking out a flask filled with half of Portman Square, and all the experienced flunkies, and giving to him to drink. Hayward, in the same spirit, has on red cover his hand that it will be a long while before that spirit—such as it has a long time—will be the correct thing to drink.

A SHOT was fired in Paris, and the Indian tribes in those days were an important auxiliary even in the war between the mother-land and her colonies organized for the massacre of Deadfoot near Fort Du Quesne, or Pittsburgh, the British brought down Indians on the French settlements of Canada, and the French brought down the vicinity of Mackinaw, and to have to do with the British, Indians had already appeared before St. Louis, and were fortunately beaten off. They were fortunate in the result, for a French raiding party of Americans—the so called Long Knives—who, if there were could, as Hagg asked in a ballad, have completed their discomfiture. This was known as the year of the Double Cross, just as the arrival of ten boats together at another time for protection against robbers, an extraordinary prevalence of honey-bees, and the like, in the annals of the small settlement, caused distinctive appellations to be conferred on the years in which they took place.

When the American flag was first hoisted, in 1804, it floated over a little village of 1,000 people, all told, and in one of which was a log church, under the jurisdiction, like all other ecclesiastical matters in the province, of the Bishopric of Cuba. Around the village was a line of stockades and some tenements, erected by the Spanish Governor. Twenty-one years before, and before memorized. Up to a few years ago there was still standing on the river bank an old house with a cupola like the disputed hill at Newport, which had once made part of these primitive fortifications.

The pretty village of Cahokia, on the other side of the river, strange to state, was then the only rival of St. Louis. It had 400 people, and its school-house attracted pupils from a small town. Now the town has not even a population of its own, but has to get its pupils, up to East St. Louis, for its lectures.—William Henry Bishop, in Harper's Magazine.

DORSEY'S VENOM.

He Empties a Few Vials of Wrath on James and Mr. Vaughn—A Vigorous Defense of Legislation, and a Hint that it Is to Be Distributed.

In reply to an editorial paragraph quoting ex-Postmaster General Thomas L. James as saying, "If Gen. Garfield had taken a lower view of his duties, he would not have fallen a victim to the assassin's bullet," the Santa Fe (N. M.) Review recently published the following communication from Steve Dorsey:

My answer, if worth while to answer at all to a creature like James, is that when first I met Jay Gould, James was a clerk in his own employ, as all men are, he stands the lowest rib of low tide when he appointed Jayne Postmaster General and MacVeagh Attorney General. He caught the evil-fanged crew in one case and the devil-dog in the other. These appointments were against my most earnest protest, which was written at the request of the President-elect and which was published long ago. I didn't know James or MacVeagh except by sight, but the sight was enough. I knew James was rotten—enough of them to know that they were not fit representatives of two great forces, which they claim to represent. I was sad that the only credit MacVeagh was entitled to was the fact that he was the little son-in-law of a great father-in-law. The sight of the best prince generally excites in vicious and vapid eyes; the transmitted power of great men seems to exist in the course of transmission.

In writing this to you, my chief purpose is to reply to statements made by James and Vaughn, the former in POL Ingersoll, as a lawyer, as a man, as a friend, and as the friend of Garfield he has not an equal, and he does, as usual in these or any other connection, a great injustice to the memory of Garfield. I know that Garfield was opposed to James that ingrained had in some way a part in the assassination of Garfield by throwing the assassin money to buy a pistol represents James's abhorrence, character and the story of James as well as anything can. It would be well for those who represent Washington at the Tombs to say that James contradicts himself. It seems to me that many persons are born liars, without judgment to conceal their lying, and many others where capacity is equal in falsehood have the cunning to conceal it. Both classes are adorned by James and MacVeagh. A man who defends Ingersoll and makes a charge of this kind tells a greater lie than the man who made the charge. Ingersoll is a gentleman, and the lightest lover of manhood and civilized, and hard of those called barbarity, whose charitable sayings are expressed in every heathenish of the world where language will permit of such a man whose genius is recognized in Boston, Moscow, London, as well as in New York, yet possess power the world likes to feel. When a century produces a great man, the man produced makes the century great.

Whatever reply Ingersoll, A. H. Williams or myself have to make before the committee will be made on oath, and I fear the facts will come out. I have no doubt that the sources of fools will be exposed and never know a week more unprofitable than that which produced James's lie. I am sorry James's conduct is a disgrace to the day that would produce him the no day can be. Sorry that he is a disgrace to the Senators who try to hide behind the monument of a man they dare not touch. If they have not the courage to be a Garfield they may well be ashamed of the Garfield who is dead and buried. The man who has co-rupted the Government out of its business? Again, and this time in order to conceal bribery, accepted an office he asked not, and which James offered to retract. Is much the best qualified to tell about frauds, being engaged in them all his life. He understands them, being a reformer known as the one who visits stealing the funds of widows and orphans, the other sticking pin of the door, with a voice screaming reform in behalf of protection of the public treasury and of public morals.

STEVE W. DORSEY.

Plate-Glass Outrage.

Mr. W. C. DePauw has furnished the press with a published statement showing that the wages of men and women engaged in the manufacture of plate-glass in the United States are higher than any similar thing that happens in Belgium and England. As a matter of fact, he might have added that it is understood that he went into the plate-glass business and stays in it for the somewhat purpose of paying the working men and women high wages. The statement of Mr. DePauw, that the plate-glass business, after years of precarious existence, during which hundreds of thousands of dollars were sunk, has begun to pay, and since 1879 capital has begun to realize a fair profit on its small return." Who has the manufacture of plate-glass "begun to pay?" The people? By no means. It has begun to pay "the monopolists who have invested their money and have been able to persuade Congress to extort from the pockets of the people the money required to make it "pay." It should be understood distinctly that Mr. DePauw has put out of any legitimate profits of his business the amount of wages which he claims to be in excess of wages paid in Europe. He persuades Congress to levy a tax on plate glass for his special benefit, and with the money thus extorted from the people he pays the excess of wages. He adroitly compels the people to pay an enormous tax on plate glass that he may make annual fortunes on his investments. He says, to Congress, "Gentlemen, I have put my money into this business, and I have expected Congress to protect me in it." Congress responds, and Mr. DePauw begins to make money for himself. Let us see about this plate glass business. In 1882 the United States imported "plate glass above 24x60," 1,455,218 square feet, valued at $601,653. The tariff tax on this glass amounted to $757,009, more than double its appraised value, in round numbers $120,916 more than it was worth. This $757,000 tax was imposed on $601,653, the value of the glass, to help Mr. DePauw get rich. This plate glass outrage ought to be thoroughly understood simply for the reason that it illustrates a number of other outrages perpetrated by the Republican tariff. We will suppose that Mr. DePauw had in the New York market a lot of plate glass 24x60, worth $601,653. We will suppose that the amount named is the actual cost of production, and, if he sells at the valuation named, he makes no money. We will say Mr. DePauw ought to make a profit of 25 per cent. on the lot, $601,653. This would amount to $150,415. He finds it difficult to sell at that profit, because of foreign competition. He asks Congress to interfere in his behalf. He bemoans his fate. He is profoundly interested in his workmen; self is scarcely considered at all. While Mr. De Pauw's plate glass waits for a customer, a ship enters the port of New York with plate glass on board, amounting in value to $601,653. Congress makes a note of the fact, and says the imported glass shall pay a duty of 120 per cent., or $757,009, and the moment that Congress so decides, Mr. De Pauw's lot of plate glass, valued at $601,653, advances until it is held in the market at a valuation of $1,359,272. Congress has not only given him 25 per cent. profit, but almost three times 25 per cent. Congress has taken the $757,009 out of the people's pockets and placed it in Mr. De Pauw's pocket, and yet Mr. De Pauw's organ remarks that foreign manufacturers "pay the duty on plate glass." When Mr. De Pauw and the editor of the Journal had succeeded in constructing the article in question, and had arrived at the conclusion that they had made a fortune, and had the tariff tax on glass and other imported commodities, they must have been in a condition to contemplate each other in speechless admiration.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Fitz John Porter.

The maps, diagrams of marches, and other illustrated testimony that have been called in evidence by the enemies of Fitz John Porter, will materially aid the historian in proving the incapacity of the man whose head-quarters were in the saddle, and the loyalty of the soldier who did his best to serve his country under the most adverse circumstances possible. Commenting on these proofs, the military editor of the New York Herald says: "If there ever was a worse campaign than Pope's—one in which twenty thousand fine fellows were sent to mere butchery, upon orders and operations that were a mere hopeless haphazard of ignorance and presumption—we do not know where to find its history." Well, possibly the Herald might find its history in some of Kingg Heavy's wars against the English, but we seriously doubt it. For stumbling against Longstreet and Jackson, Pope was a decided success, but they were the wrong men to stumble against. What were the charges by reason of which a prejudiced military court sacrificed Fitz John Porter, to please the man in the saddle and more than a spoonful of brandy? It was charged that he did not arrive at Bristoe at the time prescribed by Gen. Pope. The evidence shows that he was prevented from doing so by the condition of the roads; that he got there as soon as Gen. Pope's regulation time, he would not have found the enemy, and that were it not for the foolish order he could have planted himself between Stonewall Jackson and Longstreet. The fault of the blunder may be traced to Gen. Pope having his headquarters in the saddle, and having no headquarters at all, but certainly it should not be laid at the doors of Fitz John Porter. Another charge accused him of disobeying the joint order to himself and McDowell to move toward Gainesville. McDowell and Porter having failed to make out what material says that "the plate-glass business, after years of precarious existence, during which hundreds of thousands of dollars were sunk, has begun to pay, and since 1879 capital has begun to realize a fair profit on its small return." Who has the manufacture of plate-glass "begun to pay?" The people? By no means. It has begun to pay "the monopolists who have invested their money and have been able to persuade Congress to extort from the pockets of the people the money required to make it "pay." It should be understood distinctly that Mr. DePauw has put out of any legitimate profits of his business the amount of wages which he claims to be in excess of wages paid in Europe. He persuades Congress to levy a tax on plate glass for his special benefit, and with the money thus extorted from the people he pays the excess of wages. He adroitly compels the people to pay an enormous tax on plate glass that he may make annual fortunes on his investments. He says, to Congress, "Gentlemen, I have put my money into this business, and I have expected Congress to protect me in it." Congress responds, and Mr. DePauw begins to make money for himself. Let us see about this plate glass business. In 1882 the United States imported "plate glass above 24x60," 1,455,218 square feet, valued at $601,653. The tariff tax on this glass amounted to $757,009, more than double its appraised value, in round numbers $120,916 more than it was worth. This $757,000 tax was imposed on $601,653, the value of the glass, to help Mr. DePauw get rich. This plate glass outrage ought to be thoroughly understood simply for the reason that it illustrates a number of other outrages perpetrated by the Republican

John Bradley.

No night was so dark, no wintry blast so cutting that John Bradley refused to leave his bed to extend the hand of charity. A poor man, in a worldly sense—and indeed living monuments of soul-hinded sympathy rarely always are—yet in the richness of good deeds he was a millionaire. I well remember the first time I ever saw him. I was never forget the last. The first time he was standing over a lusty man whom he had knocked down for speaking lightly of a lady who passed along the sidewalk. The last time—well as faithfully as a hand can execute an honest effort I will relate the facts, glowing as their very recollection makes me feel.

One day, while in a neighboring town, I met Bradley. He had come out to paint a church, and was on his way to the building. After exclaiming a few words, I passed, and had gone but a short distance when a loud cry of "Get out of my way!" caused me to turn back into the main street. People were hurrying from the thoroughfare and seeking refuge in neighboring stores. I soon discovered the cause of the panic. A team of horses attached to a wagon tore madly down the street, and behind above the side boards the head of a child was seen. Some one rushed from the sidewalk, and seized one of the horses by the bridle. I knew in an instant that Bradley was the man. He struggled with the strength of a hero, and had succeeded in turning the team toward a wall, when he was lifted from the ground, thrown down, and run over by the wagon. The horses stopped. The crowd rushed up. Poor Bradley was fearfully mangled. One of the horses had planted his iron foot on the brave man's breast. I was almost certain when we took him up, and when we laid him on a bed he muttered something and said, "Poor Mary." These were his last words.

His friends brought a coffin from the city, and I went back to town on the train that carried his remains. I knew nothing of his domestic relations, and even now I wish there had been no relatives. I knew that there had family lived, but as I passed along a lonely street a hearse stopped at a door. Held by the forced a sitting-up sent, I stopped when the wheels of the vehicle cracked against the curbing with an ominous grind. Several men slowly approached, and then with a piercing shriek a woman came out. One of the men gently took her arm, but she tore herself from him, and, wildly swaying her arms, exclaimed:

"My God! why hast Thou forsaken me?"

Women with their gentle tones came, and with soft words tried to hush the wild cries of the heart-broken widow, but she threw her arms wildly around the railing the coffin, she grasped the cold-covered repository of death and pressed it to her bosom, as a wild wail went up from her soul; the opening wide her lusterless eyes, she pressed her forehead against the glass that covered the dead man's face. A man turned to me and said:

"The poor woman is blind. She has not seen her husband for five years.

The wild mutterings were then expiscated. She was feeling for the coffin, and, finding it, tried to force away the darkness with the mighty effort of despair.—Texas Siftings.

Made It Out West.

"Been out West, have you?" I said to a smart looking young man who sat in the seat beside me.

"Yes, sir; been out there for ten years."

"Where were you located?"

"Two towns in particular. Changed around a good deal."

"Make any money?"

"Yes, make a fortune. Am now going East to enjoy it. Shall live in a big stone mansion, at one of the prettiest towns in New York State. Don't suppose you ever heard of it, sir, but it's a fact, I shall have 150 to 200 servants to wait on me. I shall keep my own physician right on the premises. I shall entertain hundreds of guests from all over the State of New York and a few from the Territories."

"Now, that will do," I interrupted. "I'm not a greenyy so use to tell such stories to me."

"It's a fact though," he replied, "and here's the proof of it." And he held up his hands and exhibited a pair of bandaults adorning his wrists.

"Yes, sir; he's my prisoner, and I'm taking him from Medina to Auburn," said a keen-eyed, hundred man behind him. "A misunderstanding between you and the special agent in regard to the whereabouts of some registered letters, wasn't it, Jim?"—Train Talk, Chicago Herald.

The Source of the Thames.

Great rivers, like some of our greatest men, have humble origins. Gloucestershire and Wiltshire have both done battle for the honor of giving rise to the Thames. The question has never excited anything like parallel interest to that of the source of the Nile, or the natal city of Homer, but it has had its controversialists. A trove, however, has long since compromised between the two counties, and indeed it may be, perhaps, justly called a settled peace. The Thames, without doubt, has its birth in Gloucestershire, but it is not until it reaches Wiltshire that it is navigable. Gloucestershire, therefore, presides over its infancy, Wiltshire sets it upon its legs and makes a man of it," and, flowing through London, it commands the dignified title of "Father Thames."—Harper's Magazine.

NOTHING can be great without being founded on goodness.

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 16th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a return of simple and a pure and economical administration of government, and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES, Chairman.
H. F. PENNINGTON, Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Congressional Convention.

The democratic congressional convention of the twelfth district of Michigan will be held at Traverse City, on Wednesday, April 30th, at one o'clock p. m., for the nomination of a candidate for representative in Congress from said district, and such other business as may properly come before the convention.

The several counties in said district are entitled to the following representation:

Antrim	2
Charlevoix	2
Emmet	3
Grand Traverse	3
Kalkaska	1
Leelanau	2
Manistee	3
Missaukee	1
Wexford	3

The basis of representation is one delegate for each fifty votes and one for a majority of the ten votes cast for Governor at the last election.

Democratic electors in the several counties will be informed of the time and place of holding county conventions for the purpose of electing delegates to the district convention by their respective county committees.

T. J. HILL, Chairman.
April 15, 1884.

Greenback County Convention.

There will be a mass convention of the national greenback party of Charlevoix county, at Boyne City, on Friday, April 25th, at one o'clock p. m. Hon. W. D. Fuller, chairman of the greenback state committee, and C. S. Hampton, of Harbor Springs, will be present and address the people.

By order of the national greenback county committee.

T. J. HILL, Chairman.
April 15, 1884.

A county convention will be held at Bellaire, Antrim county, on Wednesday, April 23d, at one o'clock p. m., to choose delegates to attend the national labor party state convention at Saginaw April 30th. By order of committee.

H. W. BEACH, Chairman.

American Newspapers in 1884.

From the edition of Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co's American Newspaper Directory, now in press, it appears that the newspapers and periodicals of all kinds at present issued in the United States and Canada reach a grand total of 12,402. This is a net gain of precisely 1,600 during the last twelve months, and exhibits an increase of 5,618 over the total number published just ten years since. The increase in 1874 over the total for 1873 was 493. During the past year the dailies have increased from 1,138 to 1,254; the weeklies from 9,062 to 10,028; and the monthlies from 1,091 to 1,169. The greatest increase is in the Western states. Illinois, for instance now shows 1,069 papers in place of last year's total of 904, while Missouri issues 604 instead of the 523 reported in 1883. Other leading western states also exhibit a great percentage of increase. The total number of papers in New York state is 1,523, against 1,399 in 1883. Canada has shared in the general increase.

NEWS DIGEST.

Oil has been struck at Roscommon, Michigan, at a depth of 500 feet.

At Fresno, California, Friday, a cyclone demolished several buildings.

Senator Malone's condition is such that he has left Washington for Petersburg.

John Dillman, who murdered his wife, was hanged Tuesday at Easton, Pennsylvania.

Judge D. T. Cowen, who was lieutenant colonel of the 52d Ohio volunteers, died at St. Catrsville.

A belt containing $2,700 in gold was stolen by a negro from a gypsy's wagon at Metropolis, Illinois.

At Las Vegas a cowboy assassinated Juan B. Patson, ex-Speaker of the New Mexican Legislature.

James Lake, who was chief quartermaster under General Rosecrans, died Monday at Rockford, Ills.

J. T. Pierce, city marshal of Mitchell, Dakota, was murdered by a saloonkeeper whom he attempted to arrest.

Adam Budean sent to Secretary Frelinghuysen a cabagram tendering his resignation as consul general at Havana.

H. C. Atkins, assistant general superintendent of the St. Paul road, fell in the streets of La Crosse, from a stroke of paralysis.

The Elisha Graves house at Northampton, Mass., which was over two hundred years old, was burned Thursday.

J. G. Cotton, a bank cashier of Newton, Iowa, is defaulter to a considerable amount, and has fled to the territories.

The late Mrs. A. W. Rollins, of Des Moines, Iowa, bequeathed $75,000 to the American Home Missionary society.

The grand jury at Fort Wayne, Ind., was instructed to investigate Sunday base ball playing, but failed to return a indictment.

A fight between gangs of Irish and Italian railway laborers at St. Thomas, Ontario, resulted in several men being severely wounded.

The Mexican government secured peace with the mercantile class by agreeing that only goods actually sold shall be stamped.

Seventeen firms engaged in the manufacture of vapor stoves, with a capital of $1,500,000, have formed a combination to equalize prices.

The leading creditors of Brown, Bonnell & Co., of Youngstown, Ohio, have matured plans to place that extensive iron workmen in its feet.

J. B. A. Bruce, an extensive contractor for water-works in the Canadian towns, has been compelled to suspend with liabilities to $150,000.

A blast in the Calumet and Hecla mine of the lake Superior (Mich) region killed Thomas Trembreth and seriously injured Nicholas Julius.

There is not a saloon in Douglas county, Ills., and the Tuscola council has passed an ordinance prohibiting the sale or liquor at drug stores.

The executive committee of the Gould and Wabash systems has ordered a reduction of 10 per cent. in all salaries of $100 per month and over.

In the United States last week there were 175 business failures, and in Canada 20. In both countries the week previous the failures numbered 217.

Robert H. Hunter, a railroad ticket agent at Mingo, Ohio, has absconded, leaving a deficit of $7,000, which is wholly chargeable to speculation.

Marine circles in Buffalo have been given new life by the chartering of all the coal-carrying vessels in the harbor for cargoes to Chicago at 75 cents per ton.

The Canadians express alarm over the magnitude of the emigration to the United States. A party of 325 left one parish, last week, 200 of them to remain permanently.

Burglars obtained money packages to the amount of $1,000, at Allegheny City. They were frightened away by the watchman when about to blow open the safe.

A special grand jury, composed wholly of leading business men, has been impaneled by Judge Drummond, to investigate the riot and the burning of the court house.

Sixteen mutilated bodies were on Friday taken from the reopened Pendleton mine, near Lobeckburg, Virginia, but only six of them could be identified.

The Calumet and Hecla Mining company has for the first time in seventeen years passed its dividend, causing the stock to drop in the Boston market from 225 to 200.

Sheriff Hawkes, of Cincinnati, has received the colonelcy of the veteran regiment, whose members refused to vote his order to help guard the jail during the riot.

The republicans of the District of Columbia selected Postmaster Conger and Perry Carson as delegates to Chicago, and voted down a resolution instructing for Logan.

Frank James, the Missouri bandit, when arraigned at Huntsville, Alabama, pleaded not guilty to the Mussel Shoals robbery, and his trial was set for Wednesday next.

Bail in the sum of $20,000 each has been accepted in the cases of Judd Crouch and Dan Becomb, the alleged murderers of the Crouch family at Jackson, Michigan.

A. J. Hamlin, of Shelbyville, was nominated for congress by the republicans of the Fifteenth Illinois district, and L. E. Payson was renominated in the Ninth district.

Theodore A. Hurd, of Leavenworth, has been appointed associate justice of the supreme court of Kansas, to succeed D. J. Brewer, who was called to the federal bench.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road has been washed away at several points, and many passengers who started eastward by that route have returned to San Francisco.

The executive committee of the Gould and Wabash systems has ordered a reduction of 10 per cent. in all salaries of $100 per month and over.

In the United States last week there were 175 business failures, and in Canada 20. In both countries the week previous the failures numbered 217.

Robert H. Hunter, a railroad ticket agent at Mingo, Ohio, has absconded, leaving a deficit of $7,000, which is wholly chargeable to speculation.

Marine circles in Buffalo have been given new life by the chartering of all the coal-carrying vessels in the harbor for cargoes to Chicago at 75 cents per ton.

The Canadians express alarm over the magnitude of the emigration to the United States. A party of 325 left one parish, last week, 200 of them to remain permanently.

Burglars obtained money packages to the amount of $1,000, at Allegheny City. They were frightened away by the watchman when about to blow open the safe.

A special grand jury, composed wholly of leading business men, has been impaneled by Judge Drummond, to investigate the riot and the burning of the court house.

Sixteen mutilated bodies were on Friday taken from the reopened Pendleton mine, near Lobeckburg, Virginia, but only six of them could be identified.

The Calumet and Hecla Mining company has for the first time in seventeen years passed its dividend, causing the stock to drop in the Boston market from 225 to 200.

Sheriff Hawkes, of Cincinnati, has received the colonelcy of the veteran regiment, whose members refused to vote his order to help guard the jail during the riot.

The republicans of the District of Columbia selected Postmaster Conger and Perry Carson as delegates to Chicago, and voted down a resolution instructing for Logan.

Frank James, the Missouri bandit, when arraigned at Huntsville, Alabama, pleaded not guilty to the Mussel Shoals robbery, and his trial was set for Wednesday next.

Bail in the sum of $20,000 each has been accepted in the cases of Judd Crouch and Dan Becomb, the alleged murderers of the Crouch family at Jackson, Michigan.

A. J. Hamlin, of Shelbyville, was nominated for congress by the republicans of the Fifteenth Illinois district, and L. E. Payson was renominated in the Ninth district.

Theodore A. Hurd, of Leavenworth, has been appointed associate justice of the supreme court of Kansas, to succeed D. J. Brewer, who was called to the federal bench.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road has been washed away at several points, and many passengers who started eastward by that route have returned to San Francisco.

Wheat was slightly crisaly in progress in southern Minnesota and Dakota, a week in advance of last year. There will be a substantial increase in the acreage of the territory.

The adjutant general of Ohio has placed under arrest Colonel Mott and Lieutenant Colonel Phillips, of the 14th regiment, for mismonduct while on duty at the Cincinnati riots.

Fast-mail service across the continent will be inaugurated next Tuesday, when the Central Pacific road will put on a train to run from Ogden to San Francisco in thirty-nine hours.

Mrs. Anna Schock, who was manager of an industrial home near Chicago, has been convicted of cruelty to eight little ones in her charge and can be sentenced to two years in jail.

The bulls took the lead in the Chicago markets Wednesday, and speculation was very active. May wheat advanced to 84¾ cents, and pork rose 76 cents to $11.924 above the prices of Tuesday.

The grand jury at Ottawa, Ontario, called attention to the fact that an American citizen charged with murder had for thirty months lain in jail without trial, during five sessions of court.

The Denver and Rio Grande stockholders left Colonel Dodge out of the board of directors, filling his place with D. N. Moffat. The annual report shows a surplus of $250,000 over fixed charges.

The strike of unpaid employes of the Toledo, Cincinnati and St. Louis road extends from Dayton to Cincinnati, and is daily gaining force. Non-but mail trains are allowed to pass Dayton.

In the federal court at Indianapolis, Matthew C. Wingate was awarded $2,000 damages against the Ohio and Mississippi road for the killing of her husband on a train by a drunken passenger.

Victor W. Clough, of Geneseo, Illinois, made our hundred inches of roller-skates in five minutes less than ten hours. When he left the track the muscles of his legs were swollen and numb.

The democratic state convention of Pennsylvania appointed sixty Randall delegates to Chicago, but left them uninstructed. W. W. H. Davis, a county editor, was nominated congressman-at-large.

A delegation of congressmen from the Pacific coast has started for New York, having arranged for an interview with Mr. Tilden to obtain a positive declaration whether he will accept a nomination for the presidency.

Henry's bank, at Mineral Point, Wis., which held deposits of $75,000, closed its doors Saturday. Mr. Henry died last year, and his widow became embarrassed by the locking up of assets in the probate court.

The governor general of Cuba telegraphed to the Spanish consul at Key West that Aurelio Mayott had sailed with the avowed purpose of killing him. When the would-be assassin reached American soil, he was arrested.

John A. Logan secured the delegates in the Fourth, Ninth, Fifteenth and Sixteenth Illinois congressional districts Friday. The Morrison delegation is said to stand 11 for Blaine, 9 for Arthur, 7 for Logan and 5 for Edmunds.

Entrance has been obtained to the Pocahontas coal mine in Virginia, and the bodies of seven victims of the recent disaster were seen. Thirty-six coffins have been prepared, and the corpses will soon be removed.

The jail at Carthage, Mo., is now guarded by fifty extra policemen, who have charge of the trailing gun. The manager of the dramatic festival says many persons are actually afraid to visit the city, for fear of being shot.

The democrats of Cincinnati elected their entire ticket, with the exception of clerk of the police court, by majorities of from 400 to 800. In Cleveland the republican candidates were elected by an average majority of 500.

William H. Vanderbilt, in a card to the stockholders of the Rock Island road, declares H. H. Porter unworthy of a directorship, and asks for proxies to be used in the election of John Newell as his successor on the board.

The usual load of corn donated by the Butler county (Kansas) farmers for the relief of the Ohio flood-sufferers reached Cincinnati Friday. The corn will be sold and the proceeds distributed in accordance with the wishes of the donors.

Seven hundred and ninety-five reports from 508 townships in Michigan indicate that the winter wheat crop and the clover crop will be about 90 per cent., apples about 90 per cent. and peaches but 50 per cent. of an average crop.

John T. Cramer, a clerk in the treasury department, was called into the corridor by a Washington grocer and knocked senseless, for writing insulting letters to a lady. Soon afterward Secretary Folger ordered Cramer's dismissal.

Dr. L. U. Beach, of Altoona, Pennsylvania, has been placed in jail for killing his wife. She was discovered Monday morning with her head almost severed from her body, and beside her lay two large knives and an amputating cleaver.

The steamer Greecian landed at Boston 386 immigrants who were assisted from Galway by the Tuke fund to the extent of from $5 to $40 per family. Nearly all have started westward. Most of them have been evicted from Irish estates.

Solomon Froman, an old and wealthy citizen of Louisville, who since October has become too feeble to move about, has sued for divorce on the ground that his wife had confessed making several attempts to poison him, and had finally fled.

The will of Mrs. Oswald Ottendorf, of New York, conveying property valued at $3,000,000, bequeaths $25,000 for distribution to employes of the Staats-Zeitung, and neither about $75,000 among charitable and educational institutions.

P. S. Kirkland, a lawyer of Philadelphia, and three Canadian accomplices, have been committed for trial at Toronto, on charge of attempting to bribe members of the liberal government. Kirkland fainted in the courtroom on hearing the announcement.

H. C. Atkinson, assistant superintendent of the St. Paul road, who was recently paralyzed at LaCrosse, has since burst a blood-vessel in his brain. He is said to have lately lost all his property in Wheat speculations, and has transferred his $30,000 residence in Milwaukee.

A cent operator well known throughout the United States, when interviewed in Chicago, stated his belief that anthracite will sell at from 25 to 50 cents a ton less this summer than last, as the pool has but little control. The supply is lower, and the production is increased.

A floating paragraph about the sale of relics from the scaffold of the Mormon Oneawatomie Brown was hanged calls out a statement that the original stipulation was dissolved upon the offer of a special by General Patterson's commission in the latter part of July, 1861.

The youngest daughter of ex-Governor Foster, of Ohio, was last June married to his private secretary, Frank B. Massey. He was sixteen years older than his bride, and their unhappy relations have led to a final separation, the lady returning to her parents at Fostoria.

At the republican congressional convention for the Albany district, after the election of a presiding officer, a mob made a rushfor the platform and threw off the chairman and secretary. A scene of wild disorder was followed by the appointment in the same room of rival delegations to Chicago.

Dr. S. W. Maddox, of Scranton, Pa., was arrested on complaint of a young lady of Lancaster that he had chloroformed her in a room for seven weeks. He states that it was agreed that he should obtain a divorce and that the complainant should marry him, but that he subsequently broke her contract.

In the Slocum divorce case at San Francisco, a female witness undertook to draw a revolver on one of the counsel, and herson under a similar attempt. Judge Sullivan refused to hear long testimony unless the policemen at the entrance to the court-room would certify that no one present was armed.

A man calling himself Dr. Cross recently wrote from Chicago to Mrs. A. Macdonald that he could unveil a plot matured in the United States to destroy the Canadian parliament buildings with dynamite, and invited her to visit Ottawa, where he said to have proofs satisfactory evidence to sustain his charges.

The funeral of C. M. Fleetwood and wife, who were murdered at Ashmore, Illinois, was attended by a vast number of people, who made threats of lynching the suspected men. Joseph Black's room have been broken in pair of his pants with the left leg turned in ahead. He is in jail at Charleston.

L. B. Redmond, the famous illicit distiller of South Carolina, is to be returned to Colombia's prison for in the Auburn penitentiary, where he is serving a term for killing revenue officers. Senator Butler secured the change by showing that the prisoner is a cripple, carrying seven bullets, and is dying by inches in a cold climate.

Fifteen prisoners in the Milwaukee jail, mostly burglars and highwaymen, have been locked in their cells for an attempt to escape. Juliet Walsh was called to furnish coal, and as he unlocked the grated door he was struck in the face and blinded by mace. He sprang back and pinaled the bolt in time to retain the prisoners.

James McIlenry, the English railway magnate, was arrested on a federal warrant on board a steamship about to leave New York, on account of a judgment obtained years ago by the Erie road. Rather than be delayed, he turned over to President Jewett, bonds and stocks aggregating $1,800,000, with a written promise to pay the remainder.

The straight republicans of Virginia will send to Chicago a delegation instructed for Blaine, while Mahone will allow no personal choice to embarrass him. Among the representatives of the Old Dominion in the democratic national convention will be Hon. J. S. Barbour, Major John W. Daniel, Richard F. Beirne, and Major Page McCarty.

The members of the western whisky pool convened in Chicago, Friday, and indorsed the disgruntled distillers of Peoria to withdraw their suits for damages. H. B. Miller states that the Western Export association is perfectly secure, and that after May 1 production will be reduced to 50 per cent. of the running capacity, and the price of whisky will be left at $1.15 per gallon.

Thomas Scott, a well-known thief, lying in jail at Jackson, Michigan, made to the usurer and nine leading citizens of Jackson affidavit statements in regard to the Crouch murders. The prosecuting attorney then offered him $5,000 in cash, a pardon from the Governor, and a ticket to Liverpool, if he would divulge the name of the murderer. His refusal to do so stamps him as a liar.

R. T. O. Hubbard, the defaulting bank cashier of the First National bank of Monmouth, Ills., fled during Wednesday night. He had been allowed his liberty on promise of signing papers of importance. His shortage at the bank is found to be $114,702.79, and private parties have already reported the loss of $100,000 intrusted to him for investment. The bank has been paying semi-annual dividends of 10 per cent.

Havana advices are to the effect that a battalion of regular troops has been sent to Vuelta Arriba, and that fears are entertained that the Cuban refugees in Santo Domingo are preparing to return surreptitiously. The Spanish minister of the colonies made another loan of $3,000,000 in Barcelona at 94 per cent. per annum, pledging the customs income of Cuba. Panic reigns in the markets at Havana, and bills of exchange are almost unsaleable.

Mr. Joseph Agate, a retired merchant worth $5,000,000, chiefly in real estate in New York and Yonkers, shot himself in his eighteen room house on Thursday evening at Earle's hotel, New York. The suicide was not discovered until Friday afternoon, and as Mr. Agate had registered under the assumed name of John Aken, of Sing Sing, it was not until several hours later that his identity was clearly established. The body was identified by Mr. Agate's son who had come from Yonkers.

Joseph Mutley, democrat, was elected mayor of Jackson, Mich., by 230 majority over a temperance candidate. The liquor interests of Keokuk, Iowa, elected Jacob Rupp, liquor mayor. The democrats carried Niles, Mich., giving Beaver 111 majority for mayor. O'Donnell was elected by the democrats of Dubuque by 1,500 majority. The republicans were victorious at Battle Creek, where Dr. D. S. French was chosen mayor, and the democrats elected R. A. Burr mayor of Adrian.

The government officers of Suspension Bridge, named Van R. Pearson and Thomas Veider, brothers-in-law, drove over to Goat Island, Wednesday evening. At midnight the corpse of the former was discovered, with a bullet-hole in the head, but the only trace of the latter was a pile of his clothing. The horse was found tied to a tree covered with frozen spray. Pearson had of late become so much unbalanced in mind that preparations had been made to place him in an asylum. Veider's body is believed to have gone over Niagara falls. Nothing is yet known as to the cause of the tragedy.

GENERAL MARKETS.

CHICAGO.

WHEAT—Higher: April, 79@79½c; May, 80½@80¾c; June, 80½@80¾c; July, 80@80¾c; May, 80@80¾c. CORN—Steady: April, 58@58c; May, 51½@51¾c; June, 52@52½c. OATS—Firmer: April, 38@38½c; May, 38½@38¾c; June, 38@38½c. RYE—Higher: April, 57@57½c; May, 57@57½c; June, 57½@58c. BARLEY—Steady: April, 68@68½c; May, 68@68½c; June, 68@68½c. PORK—Higher: April, $11.00@11.05; May, $11.15@11.20; June, $11.25@11.30. LARD—Steady: April, $6.45@6.47½; May, $6.52½@6.55; June, $6.60@6.62½. RIBS—Steady: April, $6.35@6.37½; May, $6.45@6.47½; June, $6.50@6.55. WHISKY—Steady, $1.15 per gallon. BUTTER—Steady. We quote: Choice to fancy creamery at 20@21 ½ c; ordinary to good do, 15@17c; good to fancy Dairy at 16@17c; common to fair do, 12@15c.

NEW YORK

WHEAT—Higher. No. 2 April, 98¾@99c; May, $1.00⅛@1.01⅛c; June, $1.02⅛@1.02⅝c. CORN—Quiet; Mixed Western spot, 65@66c.

MILWAUKEE.

WHEAT—Steady: April, 81½c; May, 82½c; June, 83½c. CORN—Firm at 53½c for No. 3. OATS—Firm: No. 2 White, 36½c. RYE—Strong: 59½c for No. 1. BARLEY—Higher at 68½c for No. 2.

CINCINNATI.

FLOUR—Fair demand: Family $4.00@4.75. WHEAT—Firm at $1.06. CORN—Steady: 55c. OATS—Firm at 39c. RYE—Firm at 60c. PORK—Firm: Clear, $11.00. LARD—Firm at $6.25@6.30. Bulk Meats $6.50@6.70. Bacon $7.75@8.87½.

ST. LOUIS.

WHEAT—Higher: No. 2 Red April, $1.00⅛@1.00½; May, $1.00⅞@1.00⅞; June, $1.04@1.04⅛. CORN—Higher: 46½@46¾c April; 45@45½c May. OATS—Lower: April, 34½c; May, 35½c. RYE—Quiet: 56c. BARLEY—Steady at 70@80c. PROVISIONS—Pork higher: $11.50. Dry Salt Meats quiet at 5@5c. Bacon steady at $6@6.50. Lard—lower: $6.50. Hogs—Higher: light, $5.60@5.75; heavy, $5.60@5.85.

BALTIMORE.

WHEAT—Western higher: No. 2 Winter Red Spot and April, 95⅝@96c; May, $1.00⅛@1.00⅛c. CORN—Western higher: Mixed Spot and April, 52¾c; May, 52¾@53c. OATS—Western White, 40@40½c; Mixed do, 39@40c. RYE—Higher at 62@63c.

BOSTON.

WOOL—Dull; Michigan fleeces 34c; combing and delaine 36@40c.

G. W. JEFFERIES,
Dealer in
Fresh and Cured Meat
Fresh and Salt Fish,
AND VEGETABLES.
Fat Stock and Farm Produce Wanted.
West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.
MISS L. SPAULDING
Has just received a
New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,
And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles.
Two Doors South of Postoffice.
MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

JOSEPH HYLAND,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Boiler Maker,
Sheet-Iron Worker,
and manufacturer of
Hyland's Patent Fireman.
Dealer in all kinds of
SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.
Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

O. B. WEED & CO.
Are headquarters for
DRUGS
CHEMICALS,
Patent Medicines, all Kinds.
Imported and Domestic Perfumery.
Toilet Articles,
AND FANCY GOODS.
None but Pure Medicines
Kept in stock.
Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is on Bartholomew's new

Opera Block
JOHN NICHOLLS,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and Dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHUNGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.
Old Newspapers for Sale.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., April 17, 1884.

Business Announcements.

PAY UP.—Delinquent subscribers always get reminded to pay as something on subscription. It only a part of what they owe. We have bills for material, stock, etc., which must be paid at once.

Headquarters for wagons at Nettleton's. Also for the "old reliable" wagons, with a fresh shipment, on hand.

Upright, Emrey & Co. will have a new line of hay tools next week, consisting of three cones, cleatcanes, cutters, chifers, Sheffiers, Ladies' Neckwear, etc.

Allen Chamberlain's stallion, Young French Jack, will make the season of 1884, commencing April 1st and closing July 1st, at Charlevoix, Norwood, Torch Lake, Elk Rapids, Williamsburg, Bound Lake, Spencer Creek, Mancelona, Bellaire, Central Lake, and Charlevoix, making the round trip every two weeks. For exact dates, places, terms, and other particulars see posters.

A fine line of ladies' and gents' hosiery received this week. Upright, Emrey & Co.

A platform weighing 6,000 lbs, for setting tires, was sold to Washburn, Ackert & Co., for D. C. Nettleton, last Saturday.

O. D. Wood's stallion, Young St. Lawrence, will make the season of 1884, commencing May 8th and closing July 1st, at Charlevoix, Boyne City, Ironton, Mancelona, Bellaire, Central Lake, and Charlevoix, making the round trip every two weeks. For exact dates, places, terms, and other particulars see posters.

Oil has been found in paying quantities at Roscommon, and the town is full of strangers, wild with excitement.

The spring number of the Chicago Specimen, (Mander, Lane & Co., type founders) is freighted with good things, and makes the printer wish his pocket book was a national bank.

The Poultry Keeper is a handsome illustrated 16 page monthly magazine just started by W. V. B. Powis, publisher of Farm, Field, and Fireside, 89 Randolph St., Chicago. Send five cents for a sample copy.

"The St. Joseph canning factory paid out $60,000 for produce and $800 to $900 per week for labor, last year." The same results can be had here in a few years, if the people will take hold of it and push it lively.

An unusual sight was visible at Cross Village, Emmet county, recently. The land on the north shore of the straits, and Beaver island and several houses, including the Catholic church on the island, were plainly visible with the naked eye.

The Living Church, published in Chicago, issued a 12 page Easter number, on tinted book paper, with the first page handsomely decorated with emblems, etc., appropriate to the season. Published weekly at one dollar per year—a good paper for the price.

Last Friday morning, at 12:20 the office of the Detroit Times, with two or three job printing offices, were burned out, through the carelessness of an employe of the Evening News a half sheet was issued. On Saturday morning it was issued full size and form. This is enterprise.

The Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette of the 31st contains the following: "Along Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth streets, and on Vine street, was quieter at 11 o'clock last night than it has been for several years. It was not difficult to find the cause—the saloons were all closed."

The planing of trees near our houses appears so strongly to our selfishness, by its added comfort and pecuniary profit, that its neglect is properly regarded as an indication of shiftlessness and lack of thrift. The decoration of "God's acre" rests on higher grounds appealing to our better nature and purer instincts. Let me ask that, on Arbor day 1884, a special effort be made to beautify with trees and shrubs, our rural cemeteries. A day spent among the last resting places of our departed ones cannot fail to revive precious memories and tender recollections.—Gov. Begole.

Liberal Club.

On Monday evening, April 21st, at the Opera House, will be held the last meeting of the season. The program will be one of the best ever presented in Charlevoix. The lecture will be by B. F. Bishee. Subject: Paganism, heathenism, and spiritualism. The Charlevoix cornet band will be present to enliven the occasion with some of their choicest music. Messrs. Bissee and Smith will address the meeting.

Numerous improvements and additions are being made to McCabe's livery outfit, including more horses, new buggies, and a hack, the latter to be brought in as soon as the roads will permit.

It is announced that Charlevoix is to have a roller skating rink, 40x100 feet in size, and about 50 feet high. An ice cream parlor will be run in connection. Mr. E. E. Starr, of Battle Creek, will have the management.

The young ladies of the M. E. church are preparing to give a social at the opera house next Friday evening, to be known as a "Gipsy Garden." A good time is anticipated. Ice cream and cake will be served for fifteen cents.

Our readers will miss from the columns of the JOURNAL the familiar advertisement of "the same old Fox." Mr. J. L. Hurd, of Detroit, having taken possession of the business. But Mr. Fox will not be idle, and we may expect to hear from him again from time to time.

Notes and News.

The Harrisville Review is offered for sale.

The office of the Lake City Leader burned April 3d.

Oil has been found in paying quantities at Roscommon, and the town is full of strangers, wild with excitement.

The spring number of the Chicago Specimen, (Mander, Lane & Co., type founders) is freighted with good things, and makes the printer wish his pocket book was a national bank.

The Poultry Keeper is a handsome illustrated 16 page monthly magazine just started by W. V. B. Powis publisher of Farm, Field, and Fireside, 89 Randolph St., Chicago. Send five cents for a sample copy.

"The St. Joseph canning factory paid out $60,000 for produce and $800 to $900 per week for labor, last year." The same results can be had here in a few years, if the people will take hold of it and push it lively.

An unusual sight was visible at Cross Village, Emmet county, recently. The land on the north shore of the straits, and Beaver island and several houses, including the Catholic church on the island, were plainly visible with the naked eye.

The Living Church, published in Chicago, issued a 12 page Easter number, on tinted book paper, with the first page handsomely decorated with emblems, etc., appropriate to the season. Published weekly at one dollar per year—a good paper for the price.

Last Friday morning, at 12:20 the office of the Detroit Times, with two or three job printing offices, were burned out, through the carelessness of an employe of the Evening News a half sheet was issued. On Saturday morning it was issued full size and form. This is enterprise.

The Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette of the 31st contains the following: "Along Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth streets, and on Vine street, was quieter at 11 o'clock last night than it has been for several years. It was not difficult to find the cause—the saloons were all closed."

The planing of trees near our houses appears so strongly to our selfishness, by its added comfort and pecuniary profit, that its neglect is properly regarded as an indication of shiftlessness and lack of thrift. The decoration of "God's acre" rests on higher grounds appealing to our better nature and purer instincts. Let me ask that, on Arbor day 1884, a special effort be made to beautify with trees and shrubs, our rural cemeteries. A day spent among the last resting places of our departed ones cannot fail to revive precious memories and tender recollections.—Gov. Begole.

Liberal Club.

On Monday evening, April 21st, at the Opera House, will be held the last meeting of the season. The program will be one of the best ever presented in Charlevoix. The lecture will be by B. F. Bishee. Subject: Paganism, heathenism, and spiritualism. The Charlevoix cornet band will be present to enliven the occasion with some of their choicest music. Messrs. Bissee and Smith will address the meeting.

The Living Church, published in Chicago, issued a 12 page Easter number, on tinted book paper, with the first page handsomely decorated with emblems, etc., appropriate to the season. Published weekly at one dollar per year—a good paper for the price.

Last Friday morning, at 12:20 the office of the Detroit Times, with two or three job printing offices, were burned out, through the carelessness of an employe of the Evening News a half sheet was issued. On Saturday morning it was issued full size and form. This is enterprise.

The Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette of the 31st contains the following: "Along Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth streets, and on Vine street, was quieter at 11 o'clock last night than it has been for several years. It was not difficult to find the cause—the saloons were all closed."

The planing of trees near our houses appears so strongly to our selfishness, by its added comfort and pecuniary profit, that its neglect is properly regarded as an indication of shiftlessness and lack of thrift. The decoration of "God's acre" rests on higher grounds appealing to our better nature and purer instincts. Let me ask that, on Arbor day 1884, a special effort be made to beautify with trees and shrubs, our rural cemeteries. A day spent among the last resting places of our departed ones cannot fail to revive precious memories and tender recollections.—Gov. Begole.

Liberal Club.

On Monday evening, April 21st, at the Opera House, will be held the last meeting of the season. The program will be one of the best ever presented in Charlevoix. The lecture will be by B. F. Bishee. Subject: Paganism, heathenism, and spiritualism. The Charlevoix cornet band will be present to enliven the occasion with some of their choicest music. Messrs. Bissee and Smith will address the meeting. Wheat and Carr, assisted by some of the best vocal talent in town will furnish the music. A leading feature of the program will be flute solos by Samuel Cokley. W. C. Newman will give a choice recitation, and many other features will be added in to make the entertainment complete. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

ROBERT MILLER,
Chairman of Committee.

Easter Concerts.

The M. E. church was crowded last Sunday evening to listen to a concert and praise service by the Sunday school. The various classes carried their parts well, and great credit is due to the superintendent and teachers. The class of "little folks" received many commendations.

At the school house the Congregational Sunday school had an excellent program, followed by appropriate remarks by W. P. Brown.

Navigation Open.

Last Sunday morning a south wind drove the ice part way out of the bay, but the wind shifting to the north, it came back. During Sunday night the wind shifted again to the east, and on Monday morning the bay was was clear, and navigation has practically been open since. The first arrival was the tug Kitty Smoke, on Tuesday afternoon. The steam barge John Otis is expected from Chicago this week. It was reported on Monday that the Lawrence was trying to reach Glenn Haven that day, and we may look for her here soon.

Burgess.

April showers about these days and are much needed.

Mr. Cram, of Undine, visited with his aunt, Mrs. Hamlin, last Sunday.

The musical frog, has put in his first appearance. Soon will come the festive mosquito.

The sinking of garden, was begun in Hayes last week.

George Howe, who has been quite sick, is getting better and hopes to be able to go sailing as soon as navigation opens.

Mr. and Mrs. Salter, postmaster and mistress of Burgess, were up to Mr. Frank Kane's, to eat warm sugar on Sunday.

E. H. Burgess is going to start his mill this week.

"There is a time to dance and a time to sing," and also a time to eat warm sugar, and that is just about these times. "Yum yum."

Several new inhabitants are expected in the centre of Hayes the coming week.

South Arm.

The weather continues quite cool and windy. Wild flowers were seen April 12.

Maple sugar is of an excellent color and quality this season. We are being made in large quantities by those engaged in it.

Although the "anti license" men "got left," they managed to keep 102 voters, which was not so bad after all.

Davis & Dean had a break in their dam, which cost a week's work to repair.

John Crawford and Francis Sinclair launched out on the sea of matrimony, recently. May their voyage be long and prosperous.

J. R. Vance moved his house from Jones' opposite to his own, opposite, on Saturday last.

Samuel Walton, of Boyne, is making preparations to return to Mitchel, and run the sawmill there this summer.

The orchards as far as we can discern, promises an abundance of fruit.

The exhibition given by the school near Echo sawmill, was a success.

A party of young people from Central Lake were present. We believe the district has secured Miss Ogletree's services for the coming summer.

Chicken thieves were ravaging through Echo recently. D. McMillan and H. C. Seofield were minus a few fowls which they prized highly.

Ironton.

Town meeting is over. Those that were beaten took up their line of march up salt river. It being full of ice they had to go on foot.

The Pine Lake Iron Co. are improving their front street, scraping it down to the water which improves the place very much. It is to be set out with trees.

County surveyor Robinson is surveying the town into lots. When completed they will be for sale. There is also to be a new brick church built this summer on Front street.

A great curiosity came into town last Friday. Two chimney sweeps and a pony, from Charlevoix. The pony was sober although he went crooked, but that was owing to the bad whiskey he had on his back.

The barge John Otis left Chicago on Monday of this week, for Ironton, coming by way of Manitowoc. She has a new coat of paint which improves her appearance very much.

The Pine Lake Iron Co. sold one of their teams to Mr. Abbot, of Mancelona. The consideration was $450.

Mr. Abbot has the job of taking the cinders away from the Mancelona furnaces.

Rev. G. W. Bell will preach at Ironton Sunday, at 3 o'clock, and Rev. Mr. May in the evening.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by Tenmyr Bros., real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, where the consideration is $100 or over, for two weeks ending Tuesday evening, April 15, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

Owen D. Wood and wife to Henry Bennett, lots 1, 2, and 3, in block 1, Wood's addition to Norwood. Also lots 1 and 2, in block 2, Wood's addition to Norwood's addition to Charlevoix, $1,000.

Andrew Martinsen and wife to Samuel Clark, s ½ of n ½ of s ½, 40 acres, $200.

L. E. Hopkins and wife to Fox, Shepherd & Loveridge, part of lots 4 and 5, block 2, Hopkins' R. R. Focus's or Northern Mill's Company, Hopkins' Addition, $200.

Daniel E. Chadwick and wife to J. M. Crossett, n ½ of s ½ of s ½, 2-35-7, $1,500.

Sophia Johannes

JOHN BROWN'S LEGS.

The Poet Laureate hops
A deer for John Brown's legs;
Those lacerated legs,
Cut and carved about the knees,
With Twelve Hundred Million to sea.
What sorrow they have done,
With great crannies rent
Through the Land of Love,
Alas! no more.
They chase the knees and find the freshest cues,
Those faithful legs, those lacerated legs,
Dressed in his Highland rig,
His plaid blanket and bright checkered lady,
A bounty, braver lad
Than Jolly Brown never danced a fig
Upon the breezy heights of Balmoral,
Nearly as reckless upon Lesbians,
Or Sappho, or the sisters of Scotch,
He mounts up hearth his sea, life-blood,
A brown eight hobnailed
And wound a thrill of pleasure down one's back.
Glad no more
On Scottish hillsides for the red sea shore
The gallant knees go marching,
Big pins sticking out the seams,
Now Buchanan our Minister's gate shall see
Those, from fatigue, waiting there for one
For scrubbed and cut and scarred,
Very much otherwise marred,
They're other than were ever Miss Wright's,
These lovely, lacerated legs.

On such a pair of legs Antonio stood
In a most wicked, ill-fitted kilt blood;
Much lovelier, when him Leg for a skirt,
Than ever showed Noreen Jerry skirt;
Yea, more than the widow, Samson strode
When Gaza gates he carried off, and shed
As he a Lion, not a Gnom the loss of Wards;
And hot shot that upon a mountain
Was a lucky shot for just one of an one
He said a dum-fool and a jackass
Upon the Lion, and a jackass, or worse,
Upon the Gnom to fire in their gear.
O hard legs, hard legs, (and, I fear, compact)
O lucky man, who shot down both of these legs!
Now merrily mowed up in safety and tape,
Bandaged and sewed as much as canary cage,
Stuffed out with cotton—what nobody was in!

Million-fold legs of slight disposed
In lines of sounding sorrow; but the loss
Of Brown's legs, which I fear, is a hard case
In Africa's, who, without legs, was forced Whole a man without legs, and, I fear, to lose
Half his legs, which, in days of twilight, dim
Upon the Lion, the domestic ass
Over lies of mere sorrow returning by;
Upon the small mowing on his track.
Sore sorrow upon the Lion upon his back,
Sore sorrow upon the little clay hop,
Sore sorrow upon the Gnom low bop,
Most bitter of any and of
Age, and his sovereign will.
Those Gnomes, Brown, John, he could not see his eyes,
These mainly and beautiful legs.

Meters, Albion, then, along my coast shore,
And Scotland, in your lonely moor and crags,
And let the Thistle from range and roar!
Let the Rose, and the Leek, and the Shamrock
Grow in the ditches and valleys among Upon these legs, as a memorial, wept out, and sung,
These legs which, as planes I have fickly sung,
These legs, I say,
Are with the poet legs
The Gnomes of a Brown, those legs of faithful
Brown
Which for the Queen's own pages,
Shall reverbrate Nature's own
Of all historic Kos the legs of most renown.

DOLLY'S LAST FLIRTATION.

I am Kitty, and Dolly is my twin-sister. I was always scolded, mother used to say; but Dolly was giddy, and fond of flirting.

When we were 17, Dolly became engaged, with our mother's consent, to Frank Wilmot, a young fellow of 23, son of a banker, very good and cheery in manner and disposition. He was very indulgent to Dolly, for he felt so confident of her love, and was himself so loyal and sincere that the admiration she excited was his triumph; the freedom with which she received and encouraged it never pained him, though mother and I used to watch her with serious anxiety.

Sometimes our mother would say a few impressive words; then Dolly would throw her arms round her, and with kisses assure her she would be a better girl, or she would pout a little, with tears in her bright blue eyes. She would be very demure through two balls, and at the third worse than ever; scarcely could Frank get one waltz for himself.

One evening he brought to our home a cousin of his, a barrister, a man some years older than himself. He was rather famous, though only 30, being an acute lawyer, and consequently looked up at the bar.

Dolly owned to me that evening that Frank had confided to her that I was Jack Dacre's ideal woman.

"So don't blush so angrily, darling," said she, "for it would be the most delightful arrangement. He is Frank's ideal man and dearest friend. It would be the happiest thing for us all!" And Dolly gave me a hug and a kiss and ran off to bed.

Mr. Dacre came very often after that one visit, and I soon found that he was my ideal man, for he strangely resembled my father, both in manners and his chivalrous courtesy to women, as well as in appearance. It was with a chill at my heart that I was the first to make the discovery that he was falling in love with Dolly—he, the soul of honor, seemed bewitched by the charms of his bosom friend's affianced wife. I knew it before he did, but of course not before Dolly, who had a genius for unerringly detecting every symptom, however obscure, of dawning love, either in her own case or another's.

My mother and Frank were utterly blind to the danger. I was very unhappy, and exceedingly sorry for Dolly, for Frank, for Mr. Dacre, and, I can it, for myself; for, though I had not fallen in love with Frank's cousin, I must say he was only man I had seen whom I felt I could fall in love with.

An accident brought matters to a climax.

We were sitting in the drawing-room after dinner one evening, when a noise in the street drew us to the window. The pole of a carriage had entered the shoulder of a sailor-boy. Dolly became ill and faint at the sight, and Mr. Dacre, who was at her side, threw his arm round her to save her from falling. He led her to a sofa and stood aside as Frank drew near her but from that night he came no more. He and Dolly had seen the half-penitent way in which Dolly had turned from Frank, had caught another expression on her face, had seen her vivid blush.

From that evening she became cold, petulant, teasing to Frank. At first he laughed, then was hurt, and finally the engagement was broken off. This is soon told, but what my mother and I suffered must be imagined. I dared neither to tell her the truth nor to hint to Dolly that I knew to whom her heart was given, though I loved her so dearly; and I felt so sure that this was the first true love of her life. This determined, decided, somewhat stern man was sure to charm our little butterfly, if she noticed him at all.

Mother and I arranged that Dolly should go away on a short visit. Frank was to come one evening to return the letters Dolly had sent him. They would not feel the sharpness of this rupture so much as if they were placed personally by him in my hands; and I had his letters also to give to him. Mother was quite unequal to seeing him, for she loved him dearly, and the lack was left to me. I was not sorry, for I felt I could say all that was likely to comfort him, loving both of them so deeply.

So poor Frank produced his sorrow-ful little packet, received the one I had for him, and stood leaning against the chimney-piece, while I sat quite mute to utter a word, but with tears in dropping quietly from my eyes. At last he told me that he knew Dolly had been faithless to him. He felt sure she and Jack Dacre loved each other, and he spoke so humbly of himself, and as if it was quite to be expected that his cousin should be preferred above any other man, that I was greatly touched, and my tears fell faster and faster.

"Jack is the soul of honor, Kitty; he I must confess it clear to him. And he is true to do as his heart dictates. His father's letter, I fear, was ill-worded. I will get my father to send me to our branch house in India, and will not return till they are married. Jack is rich enough to marry at once. I shall cut back on Thursday."

Then he charged me with tender blessings for Dolly, and, at his request, I went to ask my mother to bid him farewell. Presently she glided in, pale as death. She held out her trembling hand in silence, but Frank folded her in his arms, and she sobbed on his breast. I stood by, weeping bitterly, and, when we were calmer, Frank embraced us both finally, and, placing me in my mother's arms, left us. These fellows have brave he was, how gentle and patient!

In a month from that time Dolly was affianced to Mr. Dacre, and the marriage was arranged to take place at the beginning of the long vacation. We began by this time convinced that it was the best thing that could happen. No one could see Dolly and doubt for a moment that this was the only man she had loved. His calm, intense character impressed her; his great talents awed her; and her pretty, innocent pride in her sunny lover, her meekness and quietness were more promising symptoms of happiness in her married life.

Dacre's mother was so scarcely happy! I was very fond of my new brother; he was such a power for good and peace in our house that we never had been so contented before. Frank wrote freely to us—mainly patient letters, full of unselfish interest in all around him. His sorrow had sweetened, not embittered, his character. He had set himself to alleviate his anguish by doing good, and his first act on reaching his destination had been to use his new commercial gifts for the welfare of the widow and children of an officer of the army, and, at the cost of time, talent, and energy, to rescue her small fortune from unsafe hands and invest it profitably. His letters were filled with similar incidents, naturally and simply told, and our affection increased for this truly brave man.

Dolly's godmother took it into her head that it was her goddchild's duty to pay her a farewell visit before her marriage. Though, as she had never troubled herself much about us, we were rather startled at this demand; all thought it would be best to accept the invitation—for my sister was not looking well—and it was settled that she should go and spend a month with the old lady in her lovely North County home. Mr. Dacre was pressed to go as often as his professional engagements would permit; as Dolly left us in pretty good spirits, in charge of the elderly servant who was our substitute for a regular lady's maid.

She wrote to tell us how she was enjoying the repose and beauty of the country. Mr. Dacre had managed to run down from Saturday till Monday at the end of the first week, and had of course made a great impression, but was afraid he could not come again—a long case was pending at Westminster. The letter which followed this I give in its entirety:

"Dunwoods, July 18.—Dearest Kitty, I hope you will get this in time to send my bag after me to Dacre in grandmamma's box in my bedroom; it will be lovely August weather, and I shall want my things. I have left my heart in the box, for I know one for a wear or two; and, as I am knee-deep, a contrived invalid, was coming to spend not that time with her, my godmother was glad to get me out of my way, I know. I can't write much, for the post leaves here at 7, and we drop our letters into the hall box as we go into dinner. I expect the post every minute. This place is lovely, and the new Baronet—Sir Charles—is the finest fellow I ever saw. Good-bye.

DOLLY.

I felt uneasy concerning this letter. I was sorry Dolly should have left her godmother's quiet home to visit a gay young widow just as she was sobering down and growing such a thoughtful little love. I might unsettle her again to pass a fortnight in a country-house with a fascinating Baronet; and I knew Jack Dacre would see or permit never pardon the smallest suspicion of flirting. He had mentioned her defection in Frank's case, for Frank himself had pleaded eloquently, saying that she was very young, so naturally affectionate. But mamma and I felt sure that not for one hour would he permit the slightest approach to disloyalty to his deep tenderness for his girlish betrothed. Neither her youth, her love of fun, nor her merry heart would plead one atom in her favor, so I read this letter with a heavy heart. My answer was as follows:

Dearest Dolly: Your letter reached me in time to leave the box sent to Highwood. You will receive it soon after this reaches you. We are very fully for your departure tomorrow. I need not be a full description of every one, as you have caused my curiosity as to Sir Charles.

The rest of my letter contained home news, and I need not transcribe it. But Dolly's answer I will transcribe:

"You ask me for a description of everybody, darling. Lady Millicent is very beautiful, very clever, and devoted to her husband. Sir Charles is just the most noble-hearted fellow I ever saw. I feel sure his heart is buried in the grave of her noble husband. I send her photo, so need waste no words in describing her.

"Sir Charles is very fascinating, though I hear you dreadful man! My grandmamma you in his favor; but you are to be particular. He is short and stout, has a very fine head, not quite that the light hair, fine eyes, good mouth, but not handsome. It is more—in fact, it is all lip—very nice hands and feet. He is a Tory, and very bigoted, but does not employ his gifts, selfish ends, never reads, is a little fond of eating. In spite of this, I think he is very charming, and all the girls for and most greatly touched, and, of course, he is rich. He likes Lady Millicent to live in the house. She has completely influenced him.

I was much relieved after reading this letter. I felt sure my sister would be wrecked, I will get my father to send me to our branch house in India, and will not return till they are married. Jack is rich enough to marry at once. I shall cut back on Thursday."

Then he charged me with tender blessings for Dolly, and, at his request, I went to ask my mother to bid him farewell. Presently she glided in, pale as death. She held out her trembling hand in silence, but Frank folded her in his arms, and she sobbed on his breast. I stood by, weeping bitterly, and, when we were calmer, Frank embraced us both finally, and, placing me in my mother's arms, left us. These fellows have brave he was, how gentle and patient!

In a month from that time Dolly was affianced to Mr. Dacre, and the marriage was arranged to take place at the beginning of the long vacation. We began by this time convinced that it was the best thing that could happen. No one could see Dolly and doubt for a moment that this was the only man she had loved. His calm, intense character impressed her; his great talents awed her; and her pretty, innocent pride in her sunny lover, her meekness and quietness were more promising symptoms of happiness in her married life.

Dacre's mother was so scarcely happy! I was very fond of my new brother; he was such a power for good and peace in our house that we never had been so contented before. Frank wrote freely to us—mainly patient letters, full of unselfish interest in all around him. His sorrow had sweetened, not embittered, his character. He had set himself to alleviate his anguish by doing good, and his first act on reaching his destination had been to use his new commercial gifts for the welfare of the widow and children of an officer of the army, and, at the cost of time, talent, and energy, to rescue her small fortune from unsafe hands and invest it profitably. His letters were filled with similar incidents, naturally and simply told, and our affection increased for this truly brave man.

Dolly's godmother took it into her head that it was her goddchild's duty to pay her a farewell visit before her marriage. Though, as she had never troubled herself much about us, we were rather startled at this demand; all thought it would be best to accept the invitation—for my sister was not looking well—and it was settled that she should go and spend a month with the old lady in her lovely North County home. Mr. Dacre was pressed to go as often as his professional engagements would permit; as Dolly left us in pretty good spirits, in charge of the elderly servant who was our substitute for a regular lady's maid.

She wrote to tell us how she was enjoying the repose and beauty of the country. Mr. Dacre had managed to run down from Saturday till Monday at the end of the first week, and had of course made a great impression, but was afraid he could not come again—a long case was pending at Westminster. The letter which followed this I give in its entirety:

"Dunwoods, July 18.—Dearest Kitty, I hope you will get this in time to send my bag after me to Dacre in grandmamma's box in my bedroom; it will be lovely August weather, and I shall want my things. I have left my heart in the box, for I know one for a wear or two; and, as I am knee-deep, a contrived invalid, was coming to spend not that time with her, my godmother was glad to get me out of my way, I know. I can't write much, for the post leaves here at 7, and we drop our letters into the hall box as we go into dinner. I expect the post every minute. This place is lovely, and the new Baronet—Sir Charles—is the finest fellow I ever saw. Good-bye.

DOLLY.

I felt uneasy concerning this letter. I was sorry Dolly should have left her godmother's quiet home to visit a gay young widow just as she was sobering down and growing such a thoughtful little love. I might unsettle her again to pass a fortnight in a country-house with a fascinating Baronet; and I knew Jack Dacre would see or permit never pardon the smallest suspicion of flirting. He had mentioned her defection in Frank's case, for Frank himself had pleaded eloquently, saying that she

HUMOR.

A MATTER of course—the races.

DRUNKENNESS is a real sickness.

EARLY at the ball—a squalling baby.

CHARITY warmed over is very cold comfort.

THE Chicago Ledger is publishing a serial story entitled "The Devil's Diary." Advertising for compliment tickets, oh?—Newman Independent.

"JIMMY, where were you yesterday evening?" "Well, the first part of the evening I had a quick of firecrackers to our dog's tail, and he ran under the sidewalk and I set it afire, and after that pa and me went off on a whaling expedition.—The Judge.

"Keep your eye on your overcoat," is a sign conspicuously displayed in several Northern restaurants. This is at first sight, good advice; but the most effective plan would be to lay hands on the fellow who attempts to collar your coat.—Texas Siftings.

THERE are about fifty Postmasters in this country who receive a salary of $1 a year. It's worth that to a man who has nothing else to do but to study his name and address, which are sealed by the time the letter has had time to get to the wrong place.—Texas Siftings.

"WHERE shall we bury?" asks a sexton. "Bury, I tell you over my dear wife? That is considered a very appropriate place by many people. This practice of burying in cemeteries is calculated to deafness and the tendencies to deafness may be obviated by a very simple remedy, to be strongly commended.—Norristown Herald.

A COUNTRYMAN saw the announcement of "A Living Man" among natural wonders, and concluded to take in the show. He paid his money and entered the tent. After looking around very attentively, he seemed still to be searching for something he could not find. At last he accosted the manager with: "Look here, boss, I've seen the chimpanzee, the ass, the tiger, and the other monkeys, but where the dickens is the 'Grand Megatherion?'"—Card Pressed Hardy.

"SAY," replied the shabby-genteel, who had been asked to deposit a cents with the usher before sitting down to table in a restaurant, "this is a slow town to nothing in prizes, and on the day of the month there were 20,000,000 bushels heaped up awaiting a market." "Exactly." "Potatoes are a full crop, and the price is low." "Yes." "Buckwheat is in a shade firmer, but there is no panic. Corn was opened, and the supply is all we need." "Yes." "While better feed could be had at lower prices it is have not the supply of hay we should want on our o road, the loss would be a mere trifle." "My dear sir," replied the other, "you are greatly mistaken. It isn't the provisions you would consume, but it is the fact that paper napkins have advanced 16 cents per thousand. Please accept no in advance."—Wall Street News.

THE DEATH OF THE DUNG.

Who killed the dung?
"Weunnot per," said the newspaper men, we killed the dung." "I," said the editor,
"with my sharp pen." "I," said the critics, "I killed the dung."
He lurked, "I saw it in dyspepsia."
"I killed the dung," said the needle, "when I sewed up the sack." "I killed the dung," said the
"and he sinned
Who killed the dung?
"I," said the tailor, "for I invented Pinch his shears." "I killed the dung," said the
"and I sewed the dung." "I killed the dung," said the
"I killed the dung." "I killed the dung."
Who killed the dung?
"I killed the dung," said the
"I killed the dung." "I killed the dung."
"I killed the dung." "I killed the dung."
"I killed the dung." "I killed the dung."

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., April 17, 1884.

A woman doesn't consistently use profane language, but the way she says "gracious!" when she slips down is full of subtle meaning and inherent force.

The holders of vacant property on Bridge street will find business seeking other streets soon, if they do not build and give some one a chance to occupy.

There seems to be a sort of common supposition that northern Michigan will come to the front this year with a good crop of wheat, corn, oats, vegetables, and most all kinds of fruit. Should it prove so, look out for very much better times next fall and winter.

All over the state we hear of "hardwood factories" being established. With its splendid timber and mineral treasures Michigan will, in a few years rank first in the Union as a manufacturing state, and northern Michigan will lead in the great enterprises.

A big Sunday loafer who made a nuisance of himself on the streets at Charlevoix was soundly thrashed by a indignant citizen. That man could make a fortune by hiring himself out as a special Sunday policeman in various Michigan towns and it would be a great help to public morality, too."—Free Press.

There are business men, and others who do not seem to know that the law makes it necessary for all dissolutions of partnerships to be advertised in a newspaper six weeks. See Howell's annotated statute, 1882, p. 621, § 2259. Also new partnerships formed, must be advertised as above. See § 2350, same page.

The benefits of manufacturing enterprises are beautifully illustrated in the case of Owosso in this state. Five years ago she gave a bonus for a manufactory, and now, although devoid of water transportation, she has 20 different kinds of enterprises of the character alluded to, and during that time they have increased her population over 2,000 souls.—Lumberman's Gazette.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Omnidition Powders a necessities. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co. 8-50

Speaking of high tariff, it occurs to us that Mr. Henry George is deemed a thorough-going, logical, clear-headed anti monopolist by the workingmen of the United States. Yet he teaches that our so-called protective system is a colossal device for plundering the wage-earner. Must we conclude that Henry George, too, is "bribed with British gold?"—New York Star.

In the spring nature intends that the human body should be relieved of the heavy sluggish humors which always accumulate during the winter months, and the very best medicine for accomplishing this object is Parmelee's Blood Purifier. It will cleanse and purify the system and drive out all humors and impurity safely and quickly. Price $1.00 for large bottles. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co.

A revival of lynching will not do in large cities, however well it may be adapted to primitive rural communities where there is no well-organized police or militia whose duty it is to fire upon any mob, no matter how good its motives. The only way in civilized communities to stop murder is to provide legal machinery which will strike terror into the hearts of the murderers.—N. Y. Evening Post.

DANGER. Do you know that you are liable to attacks of Dyspepsia and all kinds of stomach derangements? Yes, some still, by that result of kidney and liver disorder that is known as diabetes or possible Bright's disease. They are often fatal and that in a very short time. Loss of appetite, sour stomach, dimness of vision, dizziness, pains in side and back and many others, are but symptoms of disease. Be wise in time. Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure is the sovereign remedy. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co.

Stress may be laid on the fact that the majority of the house have declared merely for the passage of a bill for the reduction of duties and war tariff taxes." The bill may not go a great way. The Morrison bill itself, as we have often pointed out, does not go very far. But so far as it does go, it goes in the right direction. On this line of march, moving steadily forward, we must reach at last complete success. Two-thirds of the democratic party in congress have declared for revenue reform. If two thirds of the democratic party in the Chicago convention repeat the declaration, and if the people affirm the decision at the November polls, who can doubt that the battle is substantially won?—Brooklyn Eagle.

Coughs and colds are the inevitable results of sudden changes in the weather. Immediate attention should be given them so that they may not become established and result in Bronchitis Congestion, Inflammation or even consumption. Hamilton's Cough Balsam soothes the irritated membrane, and assists in removing phlegm and mucus, thus, by its adhesion to the membranes, causes a loosed coughing. Great relief is received in even those in the last stages of consumption. In croup and whooping cough it is unequaled. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co.

We have endeavored to accommodate as many as possible during the winter,—realizing that times have been hard,—by waiting on many of our delinquents. Now we are in such a condition that the favor can be returned, and we hope all in arrears will cheerfully accommodate us by making prompt settlements, thereby saving us the necessity of personal solicitation for the amounts due. Especially let our foreign subscribers remit the amounts due before we are compelled to send out bills. It takes money to run a newspaper, and the past winter has witnessed close times. We have enough standing out to settle all claims against the office, and there is no reason why we should not have the amounts due us. It is true they are small, but in the aggregate the amount to a considerable sum.

FOR SALE.

Eighty acres of land, with or without improvements. Also one acre on Lake Street with well, one good work horse, two Texas ponies four years old, one buggy, and one five year old cow. The above stock is in good condition. Inquire of I. A. Hatch, on north shore of Pine Lake.

J. A. HATCH.

Sold

Fresh Oysters

Just Received.

300 pounds Candy and Nuts.
Two Barrels Fresh Butter.
Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.
Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents.

AT L. L. GARNS

NEW GOODS.

I am pleased to say that my

Spring Stock

is ready for inspection. Come and see them, and when you want a suit of clothes that are JUST IN STYLE, you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES,

AND

Price to Correspond With the Times.

GEO. W. MILLER.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes,

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes,

LATEST STYLES.

WILL M. GILBERT,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting,

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

Advance Lumber Co[illegible]any

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO. ADVANCE, MICH.

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875

A FINE STOCK OF

New Boots & Shoes

JUST RECEIVED.

Prices Below all Competition.

L. B. Connor

Opposite Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW,

DEALER IN

Hardware,

FARM IMPLEMENTS, ETC.

Charlevoix, Mich.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitings,

Boots and Shoes.

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at actual cost, as I need to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. Remember, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark.

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 41. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, APRIL 24, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

is published every Thursday morning,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG,

Over F. D. Smith's grocery,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

BRUCKSHAW & GRIER, Attorneys at Law, Office in Bulger Block, Charlevoix, Mich.
A. B. BRUCKSHAW. C. J. GRIER.

BART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FINCH & ALDRICH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

FRED W. WAYNE, Attorney and Counselor. General notary business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

H. A. JERSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office in United States Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

JAY L. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law, and Circuit Court Commissioner. Office in bank building, entrance on Mitchell St. Petoskey, Mich

J. M. CLARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

NORTON, KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

O. A. F. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

Z. S. BARGETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.—Capital $50,000. Savings department. Deposits secured by pledge of government bonds, real estate, and approved notes for more than above amount. Interest on time deposits allowed. Money to loan on approved security. REYNOLDS & BOOTH.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. in the school house. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7. C. P. VANAUKEN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7. J. T. HINKSON, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX HOUGH AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet the first and third Thursday evenings of each month. H. F. BOSKER, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

H. SEFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Chromo Cards, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

L. SMITH, teacher of Musical Composition and Thorough Bass. Classes forming in all cities. Inquire at residence of geo. W. Bell, on Mason street.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. MILO EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class Horses and Carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

J. A. CARISTENS, M. D. Office at His Ingleside.

I. LEWIN, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. C. GRAVES, M. D. Office in Bee Block, Charlevoix.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HIRAM T. SHEPARD, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loans, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 119, meets second Monday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. G. T.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 827, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 209, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

I. O. L.—True Blue No. 157, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 267, meets Tuesday on or before full moon. Full circle justifies.

A. BUTZARA, President. A. E. UPHAM, Vice President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money to loan on approved papers at reasonable rates. Deposits received subject to draft or certificate and remittances promptly made.

G. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.
Prices reasonable.

A. J. JOHNSON,
Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

Bridge Street House,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Buy note paper and envelopes with your name printed, at O. R. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

1872. 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.
PURITY, POLITENESS.

WE MAKE IT A POINT TO SELL ONLY

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

OUR PRICES WILL ALWAYS BE AS LOW AS

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

CAN BE SOLD.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

E. T. BROWN & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS' AGENTS,

Portable and Stationary Engines,

Boilers, Mill and Wood-working Machinery,

Mill Supplies, Threshers, and Threshing Engines.

Bargains in Second-Hand Machinery.

WRITE FOR PRICE AND CATALOGUE.

WEST BRIDGE ST., GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

Fountain City House,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Pinkney and Elk Rapids Stages.

PINE LAKE HOUSE

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

Pioneer House,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

United States Hotel,

GEO. W. CHILDS, Proprietor,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

Sewing Machines CHEAP.

A few fine sewing machines for sale at ten dollars each. Call soon and have your pick.

EVERY MACHINE WARRANTED

D. S. WAY.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Howard, and will be prepared to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. Call and see my stock

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods ever brought to this market. Special attention to ROCKFORD WATCH, the best time-piece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

O. W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. Any article of Jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered from your from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Address, J. H. REEVES, 78 Fulton St., New York, N. Y.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the recipe for a simple Vegetable Balm that will clear the face of Pimples, Flesh Worms, and Blackheads, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful, also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing 3 2c stamps, REV. VANDYE & CO., 77 Barclay St., N. Y.

man of great force and originality of character. He loved and hated with vehemence. His pen was fur from being squeamish, for it wrote the truth, and he was unquestionably a great master of the knowledge of human nature.

No Cards for Phil.

"Card room, eh?" remarked a reporter as he glanced into Phil Milligans little office under the stairway.

"Well, I should say not," replied the genial manager with considerable emphasis. "I fairly hate the sight of a card. I should rather have a rattlesnake in my hand than a card, for I could take the rattlesnake up to the museum and make him of some use to me, but I've no use for cards."

"You must have played 'em up high some night when the other fellow held the best hand," said the reporter inquiringly.

"No, it wasn't poker that made me hate cards, but only a quiet game of seven-up. Shortly after the close of the war my partner and myself had a nice place in Philadelphia and were doing a big business. We had a habit, whenever business was slack, of sitting down in the office and playing a game of old sledge for the beer or cigars. I used to drink beer in those days, but I quit it long ago. One day he and I had a man who worked for us were playing a game for the cigars—three for a quarter. It was very close, and at the end I had it in my power to give the game to either one of them. I thought my partner could stand it better than the fellow who was working on a salary, and so I stuck him.

"Well, sir, he got mad and abused me so that I got mad and chucked the cards into the stove. That made him madder still, and before night we had dissolved partnership. I paying him a big bonus to get out. Then he went and rented a place next door, and started in opposition to me, and we went to running each other. He thought he could run me out, and I thought I could run him out, and we kept thinking so until we both went broke. The sheriff sold me out—didn't even have the mermaid left. I haven't played a card since I played that game in Philadelphia. They're altogether too expensive a luxury."—Detroit Free Press.

The Triumph of Paste.

A man was busily engaged in pasting patent medicine advertisements on the posts supporting the awnings in front of a block of stores in Eighth avenue at 1 o'clock the other morning.

"Why do you work at this time of night?" he was asked.

"So's the owners of the stores won't see me. A good many of them object to our sticking bills upon their property. In the day time we have to ask permission. In the night nobody sees us. There was an old fellow in Tenth avenue who had some big posts in front of his grocery. I wanted to stick up some bills for a variety show, and went and asked him if I might. He was a pious old chap—a deacon, I've heard—and he got awful mad when I told him what the bills were. He came as near swearing as a deacon could—said 'by Godfrey,' if I remember rightly—and said I ought to be ashamed of myself to be pasting up such things. He talked pretty mean, and I got riled. Thinks I, old fellow, I'll stick up these bills on your old shebang if I died for it. He had heavy board shutters on the windows, and, of course, they were swung back in the daytime. I slipped around when there wasn't anybody looking and pasted one of the best pictures on the back of every shutter. When night came they pulled the shutters to from the inside and went away without noticing the bills. The next day was Sunday, and if it wasn't a circus to see the boys around that building looking at the pictures. There wasn't another building like it anywhere in the neighborhood, and it drew well all day. I heard the deacon nearly burst a blood vessel when he got around the next morning. He had to have the shutters all taken off and soaked in hot water before the bills would peel off. Dry work talking, ain't it?"

Sound Doctrine.

Every physician and every scientist who has made a study of the physical and mental organization of man will tell him that no man can violate any of the laws of nature without taking something from himself something which he can never get back. This is true of the physical, mental and moral man. No matter what a man's religious belief may be, there are certain rules of morals which, if he violates, he pays the penalty for, and no matter what his ideas of physical life may be there are rules governing just as inflexible, the violation of which brings penalty just as certain. The indomitable ambition and the wonderful will of Napoleon impelled him to labor when he should have slept, and he died young. An unusually strong constitution may enable a man to eat or drink too much for years, but he pays the penalty in a shortened life and a premature old age. A man may drink so much beer a day and live to be 100—without it he would have lived to be 150.—Toledo Blade.

CHARLES READE,

The Deceased Novelist.

Charles Reade, the eminent English novelist, who died in London, April 11, was born in 1814, at Ipsden house, Oxfordshire, England. His father was an eminent scholar, and his mother a lady of unusual intellectual strength. He was educated at Magdalen College, Oxford. After graduation he read law, gained a Vinerian fellowship at the University of Oxford, in 1842, and was called to the bar the year after. He never practised law, but adopted a literary life, occupying its earlier years in writing for newspapers and magazines. His first novel was "Peg Woffington," published in 1853. "Christie Johnstone," issued the same year, was well received. "It is never too late to mend," produced in 1856, dealt severely with certain abuses of prison discipline, and created great excitement. Henceforward every work from Mr. Reade's pen was welcomed eagerly. The list of his works includes, in addition to those already mentioned, "The Course of True Love," "Jack of All Trades," "Love Me Little, Love Me Long," "White Lies," "The Cloister and Hearth," "Hard Cash," "Griffith Gaunt," "Put Yourself in His Place," and "A Terrible Temptation." His pen has proved inexceptionally powerful, dealing evidently with social wrongs, and severely condemning their perpetrators.

Few writers, if may, have covered a wider range than he in the variety of fiction originating in the view of motives and impulses arising from other passions than that of love.

Charles Reade was a successful dramatist. He published "Gold" in 1863, the first of his plays. "Masks and Faces," "Two Lovers and a Life," and "The King's Rival," followed at intervals. Several of his stories have been dramatized, notably "Griffith Gaunt," by Augustin Daly. American readers will remember Mr. Reade's suit against the New York Times because it had characterized "Griffith Gaunt" as an immoral production. Six cents damages were awarded the plaintiff by the jury sitting on the case. The deceased writer was a

The Darwinian Man.

A lady fair, of lineage high,
Was loved by an ape in the days gone by.
The maid was refined and he was gay
The ape was a most uncharitable ape.
He climbed her bower
His scheme foil through,
For the maid, when he love took form in shape,
Expressed much horror
At his monstrous error,
That he mistaken an apology and made his bow to
The picture of a disconcerted ape.

Wishing to rise in the social scale,
He shaved his whiskers and docked his tail,
He grew mustaches, and he took his tub—
And he put a cabinet in a cabinet Club—
But it would not do
He was ape enough
For the maid was beauty's fairest Queen,
With golden tresses,
Like a real princess's,
While the ape, despite his razor keen,
Was the ape and ape that ever was seen.

He bought white ties, and he bought dress vests,
He crammed his feet into bright light boots,
And to meet his life on a brand new plan,
He christened himself Darwinian Man!
But it would not do,
His chosen fell through—
The maiden was late from the monkey crew,
Was a radiant being,
With a brain for seeing,
While a shaved monkey, though well-behaved,
At best is only a monkey shaved.

Gilbert & Sullivan's new opera, "Princess Ida."

Mr. Irving Tells a Good Story.

The queen, as he who wishes may read, has often made visits both of pleasure and policy, to her estates in Scotland, being at such times more than heartily welcomed by the canny Scots, who, almost without exception, highly reverence her and indorse all that she does.

On one occasion, shortly after a visit to her castle in the outskirts of Balmoral, (blessed spatness), Mr. Irving, who was traveling through the country met an old Scotswoman with whom he spoke of her Majesty.

"The Queen's a good woman," said he.

"I suppose she's guide enough, but there are things I canna hear."

"What do you mean?" asked Mr. Irving.

"Well, I think there are things that even the Queen has no richt to do. For one thing, she goes rowin on the lak on Soonday—and it's not a Chreestian thing to do!"

"But you know the Bible tells us—"

"I know," she interrupted angrily. "I've read the Bible since I was so high, an' I knaw every word in't. I knaw about the Sunday fishing an' a' the other things the good Lord did, but I want ye to know, too, that I don't think any the more o'en of Him, for adoin' of it."—Boston Cor. N. Y. Graphic.

It is a mistake to suppose that the Princess of Wales is the leader of fashion in London. Were she so, crinolettes, high shoulders, and inordinately high heels would never have been seen, nor loud combinations of color and elaborate head gear. The Princess is celebrated for being always dressed in quiet and perfect taste. She goes in for a rather severe article of tailor-made garments just now. Of course she is imitated. If she appears in a gray or pink hat, many are the gray and pink hands to be seen; but for one who will follow the Princess' quiet, lady-like style, twenty will follow the lead of some eccentric or celebrated actress.

They Shook.

At Toledo a sharp-looking young man boarded the Detroit-bound train, and after looking over the passengers in one of the coaches, he took a seat beside a traveler with a face as honest as a four-dollar bill. A seat in the train was about to start the young man suddenly said:

"Pardon me, I am on my way to Detroit to see my mother die."

"Did that's too bad."

"I haven't got my money with me, but I'll give you my watch for security if you'll lend me $20 until we reach Detroit."

"Let's see the ticker."

The watch was a galvanized affair, worth about fifty cents per pound. The man with the four-dollar face examined it, shook it, and put it in his pocket. Then he slowly drew a $20 bill from his vest pocket and handed it over to the young man. The latter simply glanced at it, and then the two smiled. Then they shook hands. Then the watch and the bill changed back.

The watch was a dead swindle and the bill a counterfeit; and both belonged to the "profesh."

Character.

The only drawback to enthusiasm in any good cause is that it may so absorb us as to prevent us from recognizing something else equally needful. We were large enough to include both; the more zeal we possessed the fuller; but, as we are limited in power, we should beware of exhausting it in a single direction. It may be considered at least questionable whether, in our rightful desire to promote intellectual education among our people, we are not in some danger of forgetting the education of character. We do not, because we cannot, overrate the importance of the former, but we may, and probably do, greatly underrate the value of the latter.

Five hundred artists now have studios in New York City.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

POISON brokers are making heavy purchases in this country of the silver trade dollar at a discount of 10 per cent. or more. There are now about 7,000,000 trade dollars in this country, a large majority of which are held by merchants

RUSLOV, Russia, enjoys the horrible distinction of being the only city in the world containing a society for the murder of children. Its method is to poison them with narcotics, and it is said that its members have been instigated to it by a fanatical woman, who says: "It is every woman's duty to spare the evils of life to as many children as possible, and to make them share in the bliss of heaven before the earth has contaminated their souls."

THAT cats were ever designed for any useful end people have often expressed a doubt. It looks now, however, as if the cat had found its true position. They are being sold by Paris milliners as ornaments for hats and head-dresses. Small stuffed kittens are the most fashionable trimmings for broad-brimmed hats. Thus far only one cat to a hat has been used, but as the raw material for this sort of trimming is unlimited the wealth of the weaver can only be represented by increasing the number of the ornaments.

THE farmers of New York State are making the most serious charges of butter adulteration against the farmers of the West and the butterine manufacturers of Chicago. But we notice that the Adulteration Investigating Senate Committee of that State are fishing up some damaging testimony against those same New York farmers themselves. Thus, Dr. E. W. Martin, a chemist, testified, among other things, that in one factory at Chester, Orange County, he discovered that the cheeses made consisted principally of pure lard, the parts being in the proportion of 75 per cent. lard to 25 per cent. butter. He also said that of thirty samples of butter purchased of various retailers in New York and Brooklyn, all of which were sold as pure, all were more or less adulterated, there not being more than 10 per cent of pure butter in them. Dr. E. G. Love, a chemist who analyzed the samples, said it ought to be required that on each package of such spurious butter its constituent elements should be declared.

IN France surgeons like to manufacture little pleasantries to show the uncertainties of medicine, and the doctors delight in doing the same thing for surgery. The doctors are now telling the following: The victim of an explosion was pierced through and through by an iron drill. The surgeon felt his pulse. "You are wounded, sir," said he; "you have fever." "I know I'm wounded," said the patient; "I've three feet of iron in my stomach." "Do these accidents often happen in your family?" "Not very often." "Have you ever had such a trouble before?" "First time I ever had it." "It must embarrass you to lie upon your back." "Yes, sir." "And upon your stomach." "Very much so." "You would be easier on your side." "Yes, slightly." "Very well. You have a drill through your body; two courses are open to you—keep the drill where it is and bleed inflammation, or extract it and bleed to death. Science will do its best, but you must choose for yourself and take the responsibility as to your life; all of our patients do that."

THE proposition to celebrate, in 1892, the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus excites approval, although the idea of the King of Spain, that the ceremonies ought to be held in his country, is not at all relished. The Independent has some letters on the subject. Admiral Porter says that New York, "the metropolis of commerce, arts, and science, and the great emporium of all that is wonderful on this continent," seems to be the proper place." Mark Hopkins is not sure that any celebration is essential, but this city is the right spot for one. Thomas Wentworth Higginson favors a procession of ships from the landing place of Columbus, if anybody can identify it, to New York harbor. Charles Dudley Warner would prefer to see Columbus remains removed to this country; but he confesses a lukewarmness as to glorifying a man who "never saw America, and never believed he had found it." S. S. Ireneus Prime advises a world's convention in the interest of universal peace.

GIVING up seats to women has almost entirely gone out of fashion in the elevated cars. Whether or not the reason is the cushioned comfort which must be relinquished in order to obey the old custom, or that there is a general decline in practical tenderness toward the gentle sex, the correspondent does not explain. No matter how young or handsome a woman may be, he asserts, or how well dressed, she is usually left standing in a crowded car. Wall street brokers, professional men on their way home from down town, merchants with excellent manners all these now sit complacently while women stand at their very knees. Old women are an exception to the new rule of city railroading, and there is one other, according to an observer. During the hours of the late afternoon, when the cars are full of mechanics and working women, mixed in with shoppers in finery, the man in the garb of labor will relinquish their seats readily to those whose dress similarly betokens toil, but never to those who are arrayed for leisure.

A EUROPEAN journal relates that a few months since, workmen employed on some constructions on the bank of the River Dnieper, in Central Russia, employed the electric light to enable them to prosecute their labors at night. The brilliant rays of the light attracted so many millions of nocturnal moths, beetles, and other insects, that from time to time it was necessary to stop work and set all hands to destroying the clouds of winged victims that frequently obscured the light. This suggested the idea of employing the light to destroy nocturnal insects prejudicial to agriculture, and experiments in that direction are to be tried next spring. Not only to insects, but to fish, the light proved fatally attractive. Its rays, directed to the surface of the water, drew together vast quantities of all the fishes found in the Dnieper, and when within the charmed field of illumination they lay crowded together in masses, seemingly blinded and stupefied. The workmen, improving the opportunity made a notable haul of fish.

THE LITTLE FOLKS.

Baby's Letter.

Here in this casket you behold
Something more precious to me than gold,
For the crumpled scrap of paper there,
Enclosing a lock of soft, bright hair,
Is a treasured scrap of humanity,
Which we commonly refer to as baby,
Who, by the way, is the sweetest little
Struggle to make himself understood.

A world of odors, and tight, and wrong,
Such as to infancy belong,
Has this little fellow to deal with, don't you see,
He is just as sweet as a bulb can be,
To think the darlings you needn't laugh—
Never mind, you're a baby yourself, by half—
With his blessed eyes a little clouded hazel,
And small fists in his—ah—of Babyhood.

His sounds still low, his senses less dull
The dawning one to his purpose be,
But the flow is his all-loving breast,
Very soon expression, in here expressed,
Takes on dimpled cheeks and awkward angles,
Which, in after years, like tissues in tangles,
Are hidden—hidden black grandma excuses,
Or to another or maybe if we curious are.

And most wonderful music plain then, this Little fellow makes, I think, is a kiss,
A peculiarly of baby's own invention,
Which, I hope, he will never mention
This honeyed silence is a lie—very far
The sage I take of my mental war.
And, forsooth, I behold my passion stand
On the summit, a summit of Havatana, —Hope Ashford.

Purpose, and No Purpose.

"Look here, Alf, I've got something to amuse you. Don't bother any longer with that threesome staff."

"Thank you, Mark, but I'm interested in this thing, and I want to finish the job this afternoon."

"O, come out! Tomorrow I'll do just as well. I've got a box of domino. Let's have a quiet little game. The crash is off for an hour, anyway."

It was a very humdrum piece of business that the two boys—Alfred Reed and Mark Prime—were talking about. The scene was the basement of the dry goods jobbing house of Wagen, Dossett & Co. Alfred had just opened a bale of Russian crash, and was proceeding to "take the yards" for comparison with the number charged in the invoice. It was a rainy afternoon in the dull season. The senior partner was the only member of the firm about the premises, and he was reading the paper in his office upstairs. The older clerks and salesmen were lounging here and there, or making pretexts of business in the other departments of the store. Mark flourished his box of dominos in Alfred's face; but the boy was firm, and continued to tell off the yards to himself with provoking monotony. At length he hastily jotted down some figures upon a fall of paper and compared them with his invoice. A shade of annoyance appeared upon his face. He turned to his companion.

"Now, Mark, you have badgered me into a blunder. Please leave me alone for the present. If you like, I will come to your house this evening and try a hand at Dominos, or what's-your-a-billiards. But just now I have something more important at hand."

At this appeal—Mark frowned away, muttering to himself what a solemn old owl Alf Reed was.

And here, let us look at this point a moment to see what sort of a "Alf." Alf might truly be called. The two boys were fair samples of two sorts of clerks that may be found in almost any commercial house. Alfred entered the employ of Wagen, Dossett & Co., about six months before this time. Mark being then the "boy" or junior clerk. The task of sweeping out the store, dusting the counters and tills, and arranging the goods, was divided between the two—the dress goods and woolens falling to the charge of Mark, and the white goods and domestics to Alfred. It did not take long for young Alfred to discover that Mark was a thorough shirk. He had a heedless and obsequious manner in the presence of his employers, but when out of their sight he did as little as possible.

On the contrary, Alfred entered the store, as he said, to work, and to learn the business. Consequently, he never wasted a minute, but did all his duties promptly and thoroughly. He had not held his position many weeks when Mark proposed that he should do the work of both. By way of compensation, Mark offered him one-half of his perquisites, which in those days yielded quite a handsome amount of pocket money to the boys. Alfred accepted the offer and forthwith made his appearance at the store one hour earlier than before, while Mark lounged in just in season to escape detection by his superiors.

The members of the firm had not failed to notice the superiority of the new boy over his predecessor, and had a short time previous to this date had shown him a special mark of confidence. He was permitted to take the store keys to his own home at night, whereas hitherto Mark had been compelled to make a long journey out of his way to leave them at the house of the junior partner.

Now to return to the humdrum affair of the crash. It was reported at the boys, that in opening packages of goods they should examine the contents and compare them with the invoices. But Mark had always looked upon crash as a special bore. To begin with, the pieces were chalked with mysterious symbols, which denoted Russian measure of length; these had to be reduced into English yards, and so marked on the goods. This being accomplished, Mark had fallen into the lazy habit of omitting to feel up the cloth.

"Oh, crash is of no consequence" he said, and so proceeded without ado to check the bill as corrected.

It happened that the crash which Alfred was opening was a sample lot from a new manufacturer. Mr. Dossett had flattered himself that in buying it he had done a good thing. After Mark walked away, Alfred he saw also a curious frown in his examination of the first footing of the yards had proved incorrect. As soon as he was left to himself he went over them again. To his surprise, he found the figures agreed with his former total, being about fifty yards short of the amount. He again reviewed his work with the same result.

"Perhaps the wrong yards are entered for this bale," he muttered to himself; "I'll try another."

He opened a second bale, and an examination revealed a similar discrepancy. Alfred was puzzled, and again carefully compared the bill and the invoice for the bale. There could be no mistake. The goods were short. Then a new idea struck him. He seized a yardstick and began measuring the pieces. As he had begun to suspect, every piece fell short.

"Ah, Mr. Russian!" Alfred chuckled. "did you think you were going to take W. D. & Co. in?"

He started up stairs in search of the book-keeper, and met Mr. Wagen, who was making a tour of inspection about the store. In reply to an inquiry what he was doing, Alfred related his experience with the crash. Mr. Wagen at once became interested. He went below with Alfred and superintended a fresh examination, which gave the same results as the former one. Then he ordered a third bale opened, but this proved to be as short as the others.

"If so, Alf," muttered Mr. Wagen, as he slowly retired to his Senator Hill's statue that crash sank. Read, till further orders."

"By Jove!" cried the jolly Mark, who had happened around just at this time, "you have made a lot more out of old Wigan, Alf, and he won't forget it. He does take delightfully to be cheated."

Now the upshot of this humdrum crash affair, which was too petty altogether for lofty and lasting interest, was this: The goods were speedily returned to the agent, and, as the invoice was a heavy one, the firm was spared no little loss and vexation.

A few days afterward, Mr. Dossett, who was standing near the woolen counter, beckoned to Alfred.

"Reed, see here," he said, "are you a judge of woolen goods? Can you tell which of these is the best?"

Alfred, rather hesitatingly, expressed a preference for one of the pieces.

"Yes, you are correct," said Mr. Dossett; "that is as good a piece as we have in stock. Just cut off enough for a vest-pattern, will you, and find something to match it for vest and trousers. Take anything you like. Have the suit made up at Southern's and charged to the firm. I think, Alfred," he added, slowly, "that you are a very likely boy." And, after this wonderful outburst of commendation from the dignified Mr. Dossett, the gentleman walked away, with an air of musing upon the future.

Alfred was opening was a sample lot from a new manufacturer. Mr. Dossett had flattered himself that in buying it he had done a good thing. After Mark walked away, Alfred he saw also a curious frown in his examination of the first footing of the yards had proved incorrect. As soon as he was left to him-

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

The Webster-Parkman Case—Cross-examination of Witnesses.

One of the most remarkable cases that ever occurred in the criminal annals was the Parkman murder in Boston, on Nov. 23, 1849. Briefly, on that day, Dr. Parkman, a man of influence and standing in his profession, was lured to the laboratory of Dr. Webster, a professor of chemistry in a prominent institution in Boston. From that day all trace of him were lost, and the excitement regarding him became intense. It would appear that certain pecuniary transactions had taken place between the two men just mentioned, and that Dr. Webster was consequently in Dr. Parkman's debt, and was moreover in embarrassed circumstances. On Dr. Webster's laboratory being searched the haunch-bones, the right thigh, and the leg of a human body were found. Associated with these remains were several laboratory towels bearing Webster's name. In the furnace and slag of a chemical furnace were found fragments of bones, the skull and spine bones, along with blocks of artificial teeth, and a little metal gold. A further search brought to light a tea chest in which, disposed among tea, was the trunk of a human body, along with the left thigh. These latter pieces, the parts previously discovered were found to belong to one and the same body. Proved together these fragments formed part of a skeleton, of which the head, arms, and hands, legs and feet, and the right leg, from the knee to the ankle, were missing. 1858 was at the same time corroborated with the frame of the missing man in every particular. Dr. Parkman at the time of his disappearance was 60 years of age. The examination of the skeleton proved it to be being the remains of a man from the age referred to. Dr. Parkman's height was 5 feet 11 inches, and the skeleton, placed self and proportionately measured, was found to indicate a height of 5 feet 10½ inches. In these points, therefore, the identity of the remains seemed to be clearly shown. But there were appeal points in Dr. Parkman's case which served to place the identification well-nigh beyond a doubt. It was quite evident that an attempt to destroy the head by the boil had not only been made but had well nigh succeeded. The evidence of Dr. Keep, the missing man's dentist, came to the rescue in a most remarkable fashion, after an examination of the remains of the artificial teeth had been made under the action of Dr. Webster's furnace. Keep's evidence was that, four years before the disappearance of the Parkman, he fitted artificial teeth in block of ivory, which he had then made in a most remarkable fashion, after an examination of the remains of the "home-coming" of a man named Hall after twenty years' penal servitude for wife murder. Twenty-four years ago three men, Mr. Miller, Mr. Dorr, and Mr. Merritt, went to settle in a Pennsylvania village. Miller built a tavern and sawmill. For forty-four years Miller ran the tavern and sawmill; for forty-four years Dorr boarded in the tavern; for forty-four years Merritt sawed in the mill, the village never making a fortune. The sawmill had of late years cost $400 per year more than it could make. Mr. Miller had deeded his property to his son, and not long ago this son sold the tavern and mill, against his father's wishes, who was 75 years old, and whose one great wish it was to die in that tavern where he had so long lived. Mr. Miller took to his bed and died immediately. The next morning his old friend and champion, Dorr, was found dead with his face in the brook; he was 80 years old, and very strong, mentally and physically. The night after that the alarm of fire was heard in the village for the first time. The sawmill was in flames, and burned to the ground. It was fired by Merritt, the sawyer, who on the following day paid the purchaser the value of the mill, saying that he had turned the water on the wheel the first time and had—well, everything had gone in the wrong way. Merritt left the village forever. He had never been away before since he first came there.

England's Throne.

The throne of England, so splendid when covered with silk velvet and gold, is, in fact, only an "old oak chair," over eight hundred years in use for the same purpose. Its existence has been traced back to the days of Edward. The wood is very hard and solid. The back is 3 feet 6 inches high and 2 feet wide. The seat is made of a rough-looking sand-stone 20 inch es in length, 17 in breadth and 19 in thickness, and in this stone lies the grand property of the chair. Numberless legends are told in connection with it, the truth probably being that it was originally taken from Ireland to Scotland and served at the coronation of the early Scottish kings.—Pall Mall Gazette.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

MR. SAMUEL Chenworth, who lives in the village of Cowboy, Kan., owns a horse which he sends to a store three miles distant for provisions. A note to the horse's mane has a list of the articles wanted. They are strapped on a bag to his back. The animal never goes to nibble grass, but goes the whole distance at a brisk trot.

WHEN Charles Dickens was in America for the first time he dined at the house of one of the Harper brothers, the well-known publishers. A little Harper came to the table. Dickens placed him on his knee, and said: "You are a very fine boy, indeed; you are the son of the greatest pirate on earth."

ALBERT EDWARD, Prince of Wales, seems to have a large fund of good nature, and in this respect differs from nearly every other Guelph that ever lived. In accommodating himself to the times, and accepting a position on the commission of inquiry into the condition of the poor, he has displayed more than usual tact. His action in the matter will certainly increase his popularity.

HERE is a true fish story. Last year, at Portland, Me., there were taken and packed 17,400 barrels of mackerel, 14,000 barrels of herring, and 7,000 barrels of shad. This gave employment to 2,820 men. There were also caught 122,000 quintals of codfish and 1,000,000 of lobsters, and 1,000,000 pounds of haddock were taken and smoked. The more the reader thinks about how much "1,000,000" is, the more will this look like a fish story.

TRAVELLING railway, M. De Lesseps gets into the first compartment at hand, and drops into the first vacant seat he finds. Then he scrutinizes the other passengers sharply. If he can get a conversation with some fellow-traveller in a most remarkable fashion, after an examination of the remains of a man named Hall after twenty years' penal servitude for wife murder. Twenty-four years ago three men, Mr. Miller, Mr. Dorr, and Mr. Merritt, went to settle in a Pennsylvania village. Miller built a tavern and sawmill. For forty-four years Miller ran the tavern and sawmill; for forty-four years Dorr boarded in the tavern; for forty-four years Merritt sawed in the mill, the village never making a fortune. The sawmill had of late years cost $400 per year more than it could make. Mr. Miller had deeded his property to his son, and not long ago this son sold the tavern and mill, against his father's wishes, who was 75 years old, and whose one great wish it was to die in that tavern where he had so long lived. Mr. Miller took to his bed and died immediately. The next morning his old friend and champion, Dorr, was found dead with his face in the brook; he was 80 years old, and very strong, mentally and physically. The night after that the alarm of fire was heard in the village for the first time. The sawmill was in flames, and burned to the ground. It was fired by Merritt, the sawyer, who on the following day paid the purchaser the value of the mill, saying that he had turned the water on the wheel the first time and had—well, everything had gone in the wrong way. Merritt left the village forever. He had never been away before since he first came there.

England's Throne.

The throne of England, so splendid when covered with silk velvet and gold, is, in fact, only an "old oak chair," over eight hundred years in use for the same purpose. Its existence has been traced back to the days of Edward. The wood is very hard and solid. The back is 3 feet 6 inches high and 2 feet wide. The seat is made of a rough-looking sand-stone 20 inch es in length, 17 in breadth and 19 in thickness, and in this stone lies the grand property of the chair. Numberless legends are told in connection with it, the truth probably being that it was originally taken from Ireland to Scotland and served at the coronation of the early Scottish kings.—Pall Mall Gazette.

High Protective or Revenue Tariff.

("Journal," to Indianapolis Sentinel.)

"The gross value of manufactured products in the years 1850, 1860, 1870 and 1880 were as follows:

		Gain per cent. in each ten years.
1850	$1,019,160,516
1860	1,885,861,676	85.05
1870	4,232,325,448	124.43
1880	5,369,579,191	26.87

"The valuation for 1870, as is well known, was made on an inflated currency, the average premium on gold having been about 25.03, or, as stated in the census tables, about 20 per cent. discount on the paper. Hence to get a correct basis for 1870, to compare with 1850 and 1880, the census tables of 1880 give the following as the correct basis for manufactured products in the years mentioned:

		Per cent. of gain in ten years.
1850	$1,019,160,516
1860	1,885,861,676	85.05
1870	4,232,325,448	124.43
1880	5,369,579,191	26.87

"Thus it will be clearly seen that our greatest increase in manufacturing took place in the free trade decade from 1850 to 1860, and this fact of itself should convince all workingmen, farmers, and business men that a revenue tariff and not high protection is the true policy for this country.

"Again, the census tables give the net value of manufactured products or the value of products after deducting the cost of the materials consumed. Still deducting 20 per cent. from the inflated values of 1870:

	Net Value.	Per cent. of gain in ten years.
1850	$ 859,291,236
1860	891,256,564	3.71
1870	1,885,138,560	111.5
1880	1,972,735,049	4.6

"Again the true trade year of 1860 is 3 years.

"The increase of capital invested in manufacturing in 1860 over 1850 was 90.38 per cent., 1870 over 1860 was 67.80 per cent., and in 1880 over 1870, 64.65 per cent. Hence, it is clear that capital was not afraid to engage in manufacturing as a free trade period as 1870 is still in advance.

"The increase of wages paid in 1860 over 1850 was 60.07; in 1870 over 1860 was 8.76; and in 1880 over 1870 it was 52.78 per cent.

"In this comparison 1860 is a trifle behind on the advance increase in total wages paid, but also fails so far in proportion, when we compare the cost of living in 1860 with 1870 or 1880 it is quite evident, no doubt, that the mechanics and laborers of 1860 were much better paid, considering the purchasing power of the dollar in 1860.

"The omen show that a large increase in wages from 1860 to 1880 has taken place, and yet the manufacturers of country are not as well paid to-day as in 1860, when we take in account the vast increase in the price of commodities, rents, and other necessary expenses. In my own city, houses which rented in 1860 for $5 or $6 per month now bring $10 and $12, and these prices all streets where but little change has taken place.

"Workingmen in these days get board for from $2 to $2.50 per week, including lodging, while railroad men and other mechanics and laborers get board, and lodging from twelve and a half to fifteen cents, and at many terminal points lodging free of charge.

"Let us take the expenses of a railroad brakeman in 1880, counting thirty days a month:

Ninety meals at 15 cents	$13.50
Ninety lodgings at 10 cents	9.00
Total expenses	$22.50

"Wages paid to brakemen in 1860, $30 per month, and after deducting his board and lodging we find the brakeman of 1860 had left about $22.75 per month left.

"Now let us take a brakeman of the present. His board costs him 25 cents per meal and lodging 35 cents per night:

Ninety meals at 25 cents	$22.50
Ninety lodgings at 35 cents	31.50
Total expenses	$54.00

"Railroad men are now paid by the trip, based upon 100 miles for a long mile's day's work; the price going up, of course, as the distance is greater. I find the average for through and local brakemen on such a run is $85 for twenty-seven days work in 1883.

Brakemen's wages	$85.00
Board at $3 per week	54.00
Balance after board	$31.00

"Here we find that the brakeman of 1883 has $85 left for clothing and incidentals, as against the same class of men's $12.75 in 1860.

"Is there a man in all this land so stupid as not to know that $12.75 in 1860 would buy one-half more than $85 in 1883, of the general necessaries. If the brakeman had a family and lived in one end of his room and was enabled to board and lodge at home half the time, his financial status would be 28.38 per cent., 1860 over 1880 was 67.80 per cent., and in 1880 over 1870, 64.65 per cent. Hence, it is clear that capital was not afraid to engage in manufacturing as a free trade period as 1870 is still in advance.

"The increase of wages paid in 1860 over 1850 was 60.07; in 1870 over 1860 was 8.76; and in 1880 over 1870 it was 52.78 per cent.

"In this comparison 1860 is a trifle behind on the advance increase in total wages paid, but also fails so far in proportion, when we compare the cost of living in 1860 with 1870 or 1880 it is quite evident, no doubt, that the mechanics and laborers of 1860 were much better paid, considering the purchasing power of the dollar in 1860.

"The omens

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, · · MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at Waite's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 16th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a return of almost and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES,
H. F. PENNINGTON, Chairman.
Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Greenback County Convention.

There will be a mass convention of the national greenback party of Charlevoix county, at Boyne City, on Friday, April 25th, at one o'clock p. m. Hon. W. D. Fuller, chairman of the greenback state committee and C. S. Hampton, of Harbor Springs, will be present and address the people.

By order of the national greenback county committee.

T. J. HILL, Chairman.

April 15, 1884.

Notes and News.

An enterprising Cadillac photographer made a picture of the school house recently burned there by the light of the fire itself.

The surveying party of the Chicago & West Michigan extension have reached Manistee river at a point in Wexford county.—Evening News.

High license in Chicago makes an apparent decrease of nearly 200 places for selling liquor in that city, 2,810 licenses being taken this year against 3,700 last year.

The passenger business from northern Michigan to Indianapolis, Louisville and Cincinnati, over the Chicago & West Michigan, is rapidly increasing.—Evening News.

Lansing pays about $20,000 a year for her religion, and $40,000 for whiskey and beer. She is having more fun in this world than she will in the next.—Lansing Torpedo.

The Eaton Rapids Times is a newsy six-column folio, and this week comes out with both sides printed at home. Its editor W. W. Ashley, was our instructor during three years of our apprenticeship. Success to you, boys.

The rapidly increasing circulation of the Detroit Times renders faster press machinery necessary, which is now being built. Bryant Weed, newsdealer, says its circulation in Charlevoix is increasing faster than any other paper he carries.

Roscommon is about 700 feet higher than Bay City, and a pipe line to this place could be constructed, the same as in the Pennsylvania oil country, should it be decided to erect a refinery here. If the Roscommon well can be successfully worked it would prove a bonanza for Bay City.—Bay City Tribune.

An amorous dude of Muskegon annoyed a married lady of that place and fearing that her husband would kill the scamp, she put her brother on to him. The brother put on the lady's wraps and sallied forth in the gloaming. The dude "bit" and the brother gave him a thumping that he will remember for many a day.

The Saginaw City Times opened Saturday what promises to be a hot fight against the "Funeral Directors Association of Michigan." This association has recently advanced the price of caskets and coffins and "boycott" every factory that sells to dealers who are not members of a would-be outrageous monopoly.

A. M. Switzer, a Bay City lumberman, told a Detroit Journal reporter that more lumber has been sold in Bay City during the past two weeks than at any time during the same period for two years. "Nearly all the desirable stock on the docks," said he, "is sold. Prices have been well sustained, and in many instances at a slight advance on last fall's figures. The outlook for the Saginaw lumbermen is most gratifying. In fact everybody is agreeably surprised."

Among the touching incidents of the late flood in the Saginaw valley is related the noble self-sacrifice of a Saginaw girl who saw a family of seven persons struggling in the water. No help was near, and a boat huge enough to hold eight persons was not at hand. Without a thought for her own comfort, this benevolent girl took off her shoe, and, holding it by string, let it float out to the drowning family. The seven floaters scrambled into it and were drawn to the shore.—Evening News.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by Uranus Rose, real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, where the consideration is $100 or over, for the week ending Tuesday evening, April 22, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

Amanda Munroe to J. C. McFellin, lot 66 Boyne, $200.
Samuel Horton to Fox Musselman & Lovelidge, $120.
Nancy J. Long to J. C. McFellin, s e ¼ of s e ¼ 36-34-6, $300.
Amos Pearson and wife to Martin J. Pearson, n w ¼ of n w ¼ 31-33-7, $100.
James Pearson and wife to William J. Pearson, s ½ of s w ¼ of s w ¼ and s ½ of s e ¼ of s w ¼, 25-33-7, $200.
Joseph Gray to Jane Gray, s e ¼ of s w ¼, 5-31-6, $100.
George C. Marshall to Maria V. Dyer, 175 acres, 20-34-6, $642.
George H. Palmer et. al. to William Mellor, n w ¼ of n w ¼, 5-32-6, $200.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Cruder.

In the spring nature intends that the human body should be relieved of the heavy stagnant humors which always accumulate during the winter months, and the very best medicine for accomplishing this object is Farmelee's Blood Purifier. It will cleanse and purify the system and drive out all humors and impurity safely and quickly. Price $1.00 for large bottles. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Coughs and colds are the inevitable results of sudden changes in the weather. Immediate attention should be given them so that they may not become established and result in Bronchitis, Congestion, Inflammation or even consumption. Hamilton's Cough, Balsam soothes the irritated membrane, and assists in removing phlegm and mucus, that, by its adhesion to the membranes, causes violent coughing. Great relief is received by even those in the last stages of consumption, for cough and winnowing cough it is unequaled. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

DANGER. Do you know that you are liable to attacks of Dyspepsia and all kinds of stomach derangements? Yes, some still, to that result of kidney and liver disorder that is known as diabetes or possible Bright's disease. They are often fatal and that in a very short time. Loss of appetite, sour stomach, dimness of vision, dizziness, pains in side and back and many others, are but symptoms of disease. Be wise in time. Farmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure is the sovereign remedy. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Buy note paper and envelopes with view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

FOR SALE.

Eighty acres of land, with or without improvements, on easy terms. Also one team of good work horses, two Texas ponies four years old, (well broke,) and one five year old cow. The above stock is in good condition. Inquire of A. A. Racot, on north shore of Pine Lake.

J. A. RACOT.
2tf

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 141 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Soil, clay loam. A good frame house, and two frame bank barns. About 40 acres cleared and 20 acres more can be cleared cheaper. About 100 fruit trees beginning to bear. One half mile from school and saw mill. Terms, three thousand seven hundred dollars, with not less than two thousand down; balance to suit purchaser. For further particulars inquire in

DAVID H. FRANCIS, Charlevoix, Mich.

Three Horses and a Pair of Mules for sale.

For Price and Terms inquire of Upright, Emrey & Co.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEAUTY FARM

Near McGeagh's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR,

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

NOTICE OF ATTACHMENT—The circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, Wm. Smith R. Jackson versus William Fox. Notice is hereby given that on the eighteenth (18th) day of March, A. D. 1884, a writ of attachment was duly issued out of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, at the suit of William R. Jackson, plaintiff, against William Fox, defendant, for the sum of two hundred and ninety dollars, ($290.00), which said writ was returnable on the first (1st) day of April, A. D. 1884.

Dated April 18, A. D. 1884.

CHURCHILL & GRIEB,
Attorneys for Plaintiff.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best style. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS,

Patent Medicines, all Kinds,

Imported and Domestic Perfumery.

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We can save you well. Our store is in Hatfield's new

Opera Block

JOSEPH HYLAND,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Boiler Maker,

Sheet-Iron Worker,

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

NEW GOODS.

I am pleased to say that my

Spring Stock

Is ready for inspection. Come and see them and when you want a suit of clothes that are neat fit and durable call at the place where to find them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES,

AND

Price to Correspond With the Times.

GEO. W. MILLER.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes,

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes,

LATEST STYLES.

WILL M. GILBERT,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting,

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,

Plain and Decrative Paper Hanging.

Advance Lumber Company

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO. ADVANCE, MICH.

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

THE MOST USEFUL BOOK EVER PUBLISHED!

A Book that should be in Every House.

The press, teachers, and professional people throughout the country pronounce it to be the BOOK OF BOOKS. It contains upwards of 80,000 WORDS, with their definition and pronunciation, according to Webster and other recognized authorities; a large number of additional words and definitions in general use. It contains a mine of information for everybody. This book is handsomely bound in cloth, containing 542 Pages Profusely Illustrated. We propose to send you one of these valuable books, by mail, all shipping charges prepaid, to any address, on receipt of only ONE DOLLAR.

Address M. STOLZ & CO.,
26 Park Place, New York.

G. W. JEFFERIES,

Dealer in

Fresh and Cured Meat

Fresh and Salt Fish,

AND VEGETABLES.

Fat Stock and Farm Produce Wanted.

West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

Fresh Oysters

Just Received.

300 pounds Candy and Nuts.
Two Barrels Fresh Butter.
Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.
Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents.

AT L. L. CARR'S.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

FOR SALE.

SECOND HAND

Stationary Engine and Boiler

Size of cylinder 10 in.; Boiler 12 feet long, 42 in. diameter, 48 flues. The engine has been thoroughly overhauled, and is in good order, as good as new. Price and terms to suit. Engine now on view.

Or of Washburn & Ackert, at the Machine shop. 20tf.

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., April 24, 1884.

Business Announcements.

A few spring styles in prints at J. L. Hurd & Co's.

PAY UP.—Delinquent subscribers, who can, are requested to pay up something on subscription, if only a part of what they owe, if we have bills for manufactured stock, etc., which must be paid at once.

Arbuckles coffee, 20 cents at J. L. Hurd & Co's.

The attention of our readers and models unsurpassed, is called to the apparently unequalled skill, unrivaled experience, and extraordinary success, have placed them at the head of "The Healing Art," in this or any other country. Those who wish to consult them free of charge will find them at the Fountain City House, Charlevoix, on Thursday and Friday, April 24 and 25. Call on the most successful surgeons of modern times. Don't let prejudice kill you, or the anxious ones persuade you, but consult them. It will cost you nothing, cannot harm you, and may be the means of giving you unalienable benefits.

Facts from Upright Emery & Co.

Clover, Timothy, and Garden Seeds in bulk.

Seed Peas, Oats, and everything else of store. Farm produce taken in exchange.

We have a fine line in Fur and Wool hats, which we offer at cost to make room for a full assortment of the latest styles.

A special invitation is extended to the ladies of Charlevoix, to call and examine our new line of Prints, Cottons, Henrys, Mackinaws, Tickings, Hair Nets, Corsets, Bustles, &c., which will be opened next week.

Provision Market.

Retail prices in consumers, as corrected every Wednesday evening by UPRIGHT, EMREY & CO., general dealers.

FLOUR, per bbl., $6.00 $7.00, and $8.00.
CORN MEAL, per cwt, bolted $2.00; unbolted, $1.75.
HAY, per ton, $8@$.
OATS, per bu, 30c.
GROUND FEED, per cwt, $1.75.
APPLES, per bu, $1 40.
POTATOES, per bu, 50c.
ONIONS, per bu, $1.00.
BUTTER, per lb, 25c.
EGGS, per doz, 20@22c.
LARD, per lb, 10@12c.
HAMS, 10c; Shoulders, 12½c.
SALT PORK, 10c; Dry Salt Side, 12; Reel, 8c.
MACKEREL, per lb, 20c.
CHEESE, 20c
WATER WHITE OIL, 20c
FARMERS' PRODUCE in good demand.

Fresh Meats from the Market.

MEAT, beef steak, 12½@15c; fresh pork, 12@15c; mutton, 12@15c; sausage, 10; hams, 16c; shoulders, 12c.
TALLOW, 6@7c.

Local News Brevities.

Personal Paragraphs.

H. B. Cangman, of Bay Springs, is in town today.

Mr. Lewis Reynolds has a fine lot of Charlevoix apples.

Jos. Dyer, of the Advance Lumber Co., was in town Friday.

A. J. McLeod has been "under the weather" for a few days.

Mrs. Dr. Greaves is visiting friends in Kalamazoo this week.

Capt. J. J. Bennett had another partial attack of paralysis last Thursday.

Geo. E. Bennett and family moved to Traverse City last week.

R. H. Dougall, of Kalamazoo, registered at the Fountain City house this week.

Geo. Budd, a former employe of the Sentinel office, has returned to Charlevoix.

Harry Tucker, formerly of this office, shipped on the Hercules Monday morning.

Miss Marie LeRoy, teacher at the Hilton school house, is sick this week, attended by Dr. Lewis.

Prosecuting attorney Norton, will accompany the final report of the hunters boom about May 1st.

Peter Polson, a young farmer, who is also a mechanic, from near Petoskey, has obtained employment in the factory, and becomes a citizen of the village by buying a lot and building a residence on the Mason addition.

J. F. Burdge, in charge of the view department, and H. H. Glassford, the artist, for the history of the Traverse Region to be published by H. R. Page & Co., are in town this week. In the interest of their department. The prospect is fair for a representation in that work, of Charlevoix citizens, as well as residences and places of interest.

Dr. H. P. Snyder, dentist, of Traverse City, is making arrangements by which he expects to visit Charlevoix the last week of every month during the summer, for the practice of his profession. Dr. S. being a former resident of Charlevoix, our citizens are well acquainted with his work, and the arrangement will doubtless be satisfactory to both doctor and patients.

Notes and News.

The postoffice building has a new coat of paint.

J. L. Hurd & Co. are giving their store a thorough renovating and repainting inside this week.

To-day is "Arbor Day," and everyone who can should plant a tree, and help to beautify our village.

At Pappin's shop last week was done a creditable job of heavy blacksmithing for the tug Minnie Warren.

Ground was broken last Friday for Barnum's new warehouse, on the vacant lot south of the opera house.

The pancake and molasses social at the opera house last night netted the good samaritans over $13.

Now residences are being built on the south terrace for J. A. Voght, D. H. Francis, Peter Polson, and Ed. Preston.

Quite a number of Boyne citizens came down on the North Star, Tuesday evening to attend the Masonic banquet.

L. E. Allen has driven piles this week for 32 feet additional dock in front of the manufacturing company's property.

Some maple syrup brought to this office by Mr. S. Minier, of Hayes township, is the finest we have seen this year, being very thick and clear. He disposed of over 40 gallons last Friday.

Another drug store in Charlevoix is announced, to occupy the rooms adjoining Carpenter, Hartholoomew & Co's store. Mr. Frank Hine, now with Dr. Crouter, will have the management.

Oscar Lewis has established himself in the boot and shoe business at Ironton. He is reported to us as a first-class workman, and in both new work and repairing will guarantee satisfaction.

A. P. Coupher, Boyne City, has raised a parsnip four feet and one inch in length. This is another proof that northern Michigan is destined to be one of the best farming countries in the west.—Alba Record.

Wm. Evans has been re-appointed bridge tender for this season. So far as we can learn, Mr. E. has been faithful in the past, and there is no reason to doubt that his re-appointment will prove satisfactory to those most interested.

Next Sabbath, at the M. E. church, the pastor will speak, in the morning upon "Christ and him Crucified." At the evening service, "Business men and clerks," will be particularly had in mind, while all will, we trust, be blessed. Come and hear for your self.

J. L. Hurd & Co., successors to Amos Fox, have a card on this page announcing a special discount sale of dry goods, clothing, furnishing goods, etc. The firm is composed of live young men, and we have no doubt they will make trade lively in their lines.

Amos Fox, the pioneer merchant of Charlevoix county, who has been continuously in trade since Charlevoix was an Indian trading post, has sold out his stock, and leased his store, warehouses, and dock to J. L. Hurd, late from the firm of Farrington & Co., Detroit.—Evening News.

A large and patient audience attended the meeting of the Liberal club at the opera house Monday evening. For 35 minutes Mr. Hoyt so lucidly discussed the subject of paganism, heathenism, and spiritualism, which elicited but little adverse criticism. The musical part of the program was excellent. The poem was entirely too long for the occasion.

Prospectors for coal and oil, will do well to look over Charlevoix county before locating elsewhere. Pieces of coal have been picked up in the woods south of the village, a specimen of which can be seen at Bellinger's jewelry store, and we have heard of several places where oil has gathered on ponds and low places sufficiently thick to burn readily on top of the water.

Last Saturday afternoon, at the factory, Chas. Gotham, while running a rip-saw, got his middle finger on the left hand entangled in the teeth of the saw in a manner to mutilate both flesh and bone to the second joint, rendering amputation necessary. He will doubtless be laid up with it for some time. We understand that the band, of which he is a member, will give an entertainment for his benefit in the near future.

The committee having the management of the "gypsy garden" social, especially in the arrangement of the program of literary exercises, made a most happy hit. The selections were excellent, and consisted of vocal and instrumental music, recitations, etc.; each part was executed to the apparent satisfaction of the audience. Ice cream and cake were served. The net receipts of the evening amounted to $28.56.

Amos Fox, Charlevoix's pioneer merchant, has sold out. Mr. Fox is not only a Charlevoix pioneer but one of the pioneer merchants of northern Michigan and he will be missed from business circles.—Statesman.

Attention is called to the card of M. V. Dyer, Advance, Mich., in this paper. In connection with the Advance Lumber Co., the proprietor designs to meet the wants of that community in the matter of groceries provisions, and other supplies, at lowest cash prices, taking in exchange wood, ties, tan bark, posts, etc.

W. F. Orrell writes the JOURNAL from Chicago, under date of April 20, as follows: To-day spring overcoats are at a discount, and heavy ones are in demand. Last evening the wind started in cool from the N. E. and kept increasing until this morning when it blew a gale. It has been snowing nearly all day, and forming an abominable slush in the streets. The lake is very rough. The Lawrence left on Wednesday last, and is the first boat to attempt to pass through the straits. The Champlain is not out yet. The Western Transportation steamers, Commodore, Chicago, and Montana, have wintered here, and show no signs of getting out. I will send you their schedule of time as soon as I can get them.

Miscellaneous Marine.

The Wright is receiving repairs at Washburn's yard this week.

The schooner Lottie Mason received another coat of paint last week.

Beaver and Skillagalee lights shone very bright and clear last Friday evening.

The Sea Gem and Hercules, laden with ties and posts were the first sail vessels to clear from this port.

The tugs Kitty Smoke, L. S. Payne, and J. L. Higgie pool their business with the J. H. Martin as the only opposition.

The steamer Lou A. Cummings is in the harbor to-day. She tried to reach Harbor Springs, but was prevented by the ice in Little Traverse bay.

The Lawrence had among its freight, 150 barrels of salt for fishermen on Beaver Island. From the Island she will return to Chicago without trying to reach Cheboygan this trip.

Monday afternoon the tug J. H. Martin went out to open water outside the bay, breaking ice 18 inches thick. After making an opening the tug towed out the Sea Gem, loaded with railroad ties, which was the first sail vessel to clear from this port.

On Monday morning the scows Hercules and A. R. Upright, in tow of the tug Kitty Smoke, made an unsuccessful attempt to go through the ice in the bay to the open water outside. Later in the day the ice softened sufficient to permit a passage out.

The steam barge John Otis, arrived outside last Thursday forenoon, slowly making her way through floating ice. The tugs Kitty Smoke and Bob Stevenson went to her assistance, and she passed up the channel about 3 o'clock, and on through Pine lake to Ironton. The ice in the latter lake offered little resistance.

The Clara Belle, which was thoroughly overhauled, repainted with two coats of paint, and made as good as new, was launched last Friday. She is ready for business, and is now only waiting for the ice to leave Little Traverse bay. Capt. Bennett will no doubt make her very popular with the resorters this summer.

The Algomah is entirely helpless again. In attempting to cross the straits Monday, she got fast in the ice near Mackinaw City, and had her rudder smashed to pieces, bent her shaft, and is entirely helpless. Eight men passengers on board had to walk ashore, owing to a lack of provisions. The tug Saugatuck has been ordered to try and release her, but there is danger of a total loss.—Cheboygan Democrat.

A steamboat is now being built at Bay City, which will be the largest wooden steamer on fresh water. Her extreme length is 295 feet, length of keel 285, breadth of beam 40, depth of hold 22, lower hold 12, between decks 10. About 1,500,000 feet of white oak and 300,000 feet of pine will be used in her construction. She will be able to carry 3,000 tons of iron ore, 100,000 bushels of corn, or 2,000,000 feet of lumber and will cost $150,000.

The large and powerful tug Jas. H. Martin, Capt. H. S. Stevens, master, from Chicago, arrived last Friday evening. She was thoroughly rebuilt at Milwaukee during the winter, and comes well prepared for a season's campaign. The engineer, Andrew Ihlmer, brought his family and household goods, and has settled here with an expressed determination to stay. These gentlemen own the boat, and express themselves prepared to meet any and all opposition which may be given,—in short, that they have come to stay and become citizens with the rest of us. Whether there is business for all is to be determined, but we admire the grit and wish them success.

The following are the clearances from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the custom house for the week ending Tuesday, April 22:

April 16—Prop. Lawrence, light, to Chicago.
19—Prop. Otis, 400 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.
19—Tug. Sea Gem, 2,200 railroad ties, T. D. Smith, to Milwaukee.
19—Scow Hercules, 2,400 railroad ties, A. Fox, to Milwaukee.
22—Scow Lottie Mason, 50 cords wood, E. M. Clark, to Mill creek.

Death of Mrs. S. M. Moore.

Mrs. Elizabeth Davidson Moore, wife of S. M. Moore, died at the family residence, No. 324 West Monroe street, Saturday morning, of paralysis. She was born in Manchester, N. H., the daughter of James N. Davidson, who removed to Ohio, and later to Chicago. Nearly all of her married life was spent in Chicago. To her family Mrs. Moore devoted her first care. Outside of her family she loved her church, the missionary and the temperance work, the Bible work, the various charitable organizations. In all of these she bore an active part. She was remarkable for her daily living as if in expectation of the summons that should call her to the home above. Three little ones have preceded her. She had lived to see two daughters grown to womanhood, and less than one year ago stand at the altar together and take the marriage vows. One remains at the home to cheer the stricken father, the other is in a foreign land, the wife of a missionary.—Chicago Tribune.

Mrs. Moore will be remembered by our citizens as a prominent member of the Chicago resort, and by her active interest in local church work. She took the lead in various enterprises to advance the financial interests of the Charlevoix Congregational church, and made frequent donations from her own purse for this purpose.

Council Proceedings,

CHARLEVOIX, April 17, 1884.

Council met pursuant to adjournment. Roll called; quorum present.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

A report of the street commissioner was read, accepted, and placed on file.

Bill of C. J. Grier, $2.00 for one day on board of registration, was presented and allowed.

Trustee Eaton moved that the saloon bonds be placed at $3,000. Trustee Crouter, moved to amend by making the amount $4,500. Trustee Newman, moved a further amendment making the amount $4,000. After some discussion, Trustee Newman's amendment prevailed, and the original motion as amended was carried.

The druggist's retail liquor bonds were fixed at $2,000.

A ballot for village marshal resulted in the election of Harrison Berdan, Gurley Book was appointed chief engineer of the fire department, and Dr. W. M. Preston was appointed health officer.

A ballot for president pro tem resulted in a tie between trustees Crouter and McLeod. After some discussion it was decided by lot, Trustee Crouter being successful.

The engineer was instructed to procure a screen for the suction pipe of the fire engine.

The saloon liquor bond of Gellick & Ingalls, with N. Ainslie and T. D. Smith as sureties, was presented, accepted, and approved.

On motion council adjourned for one week.

Ironton.

The steam barge John Otis arrived here last Thursday with a load of groceries and provisions for the Pine Lake Iron Co. She returned to Chicago with a load of iron on Friday. She has a new crew commanding her.

The Ironton school will commence May 5th, with Mr. Harris for teacher.

Our enterprising merchant, J. G. Peterson, is enlarging his store, seventeen feet to the length, and 14 by 40 on the side. He expects a large trade this summer.

Ironton has four new dwelling houses in progress, and county surveyor Robinson has the town surveyed into lots. There will be more in the same way.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Hall lost their little girl on Friday. The funeral services were held on Sunday. They have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

Mr. O. Lewis, of Boyne Falls, has rented the building formerly owned by Chas. Ely, and will set up a boot and shoe store here, a thing very much needed in Ironton. He is a first-class shoemaker, and a single man, and we hope that none of the young ladies in Ironton will make a "mash" on him, for the old saying is "a shoemakers wife has to go barefooted."

Burgess.

Mr. McDermont lost a child one day last week of congestion of brain.

Sam Orsey, Indiana, lost his wife. She was buried last Tuesday.

Mrs. Ganson and her brother were visiting their sister, Mrs. Edna Kane, last Sunday.

Chas. Ganson and G. Welster went out hunting one day last week. The latter shot a wild goose that weighed 12 pounds.

Jack Scamby thinks he has the best span of horses in Hayes.

I. S. Webster had a logging bee last Saturday, and we hear that it was a success.

Everyone is busy in putting in their spring crop.

Married.

VAN DEUSEN—BOWDISH.—At the Congregational parsonage, Charlevoix, April 15, by Rev. J. Ho Jackson, Mr. William Van Deusen and Miss May Bowdish.

Announcement.

Having purchased the business of Amos Fox, at an immense sacrifice, we take pleasure in announcing a

SPECIAL DISCOUNT SALE,

Commencing with last MONDAY, April 21. The entire stock of Dry Goods, Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Cloths, etc.. at prices that will move them.

We want to form your acquaintance, and are prepared to make figures that will repay you for coming. Buy Fall and Winter Goods now and save money.

J. L. HURD & CO.
Successors to A. Fox.

SOLITUDE.

BY ELLA WHEELER.

Laugh, and the world laughs with you;
Weep, and you weep alone;
For this old earth must borrow its mirth,
But has trouble enough of its own.
Sing, and the hills will answer;
Sigh—it is lost on the air:
The echoes bound to a joyful sound,
But are slow to voice your care.

Rejoice, and men will seek you;
Grieve, and they turn and go!
They want full measure of all your pleasure,
But they do not need your woe.
Be glad, and your friends are many;
Be sad, and you lose all.
There are none to undertake a contested wine,
But alone you must drink life's gall.

Feast, and your halls are crowded;
Fast, and the world goes by.
Succeed and give, and they help you live,
But no one cares for your woe.
There is room in the hallow of pleasure
For a large and jovial crowd;
But one by one we must all live on
Their the narrow aisles of pain.

WILKES BOOTH.

The Man Who Carried Food to the Assassin Tells the Story of the Escape.

The real John Wilkes Booth, shot President Lincoln about 10 o'clock on Friday night, April 14, 1865. Near midnight he had his unnistesting road pilot, David E. Herold, called at Surratt's tavern, about ten miles southeast of Washington, and obtained the arms, field glass, etc., previously prepared for them there. Saturday morning they were at Dr. Samuel A. Mudd's, twenty miles farther on, where Booth's broken ankle was set and a crutch made for him, and that evening the two fugitives were guided in a round-about way to the gate of Samuel Cox, a prosperous Southern sympathizer, about fifteen miles southwest.

The last witness in Maryland sided here. The Government, in its prosecution of the conspirators, took up the fugitive trail at the crossing of the Rappahannock River, in Virginia, the 24th of April, having failed to trace Booth a single step further in Maryland, although he did not cross the Potomac until Saturday night, April 22. A whole week remains unaccounted for, and for the first time the missing links of the connection are here made public. Probably not half a dozen people are alive who ever heard the narrative fully told.

Near Pope's Creek, in Lower Maryland, lived Thomas Jones, and, as his place was peculiarly well situated for easy intercourse with Virginia, he became the ferryman of people who wished to cross the Potomac, and for this offense served a term in the Old Capitol Prison. He was released in 1862, but continued to aid the Confederate cause in every possible way, being always in full sympathy with the South. Jones, who is still alive, is a man of hardly medium height, slim and wiry, with one of those thin, mournful faces common to lidewater Maryland, with high cheek bones, gray-blue eyes, no great height or breadth of forehead, and thick, coarse hair. The tone of his mind and intercourse is also and mournful, somewhat complaining, as if the summer heats had given a nervous tone to his views, which are generally constructive and kind.

About the third year of the war Jones understood that a very important act had been agreed upon—namely: to secure the President of the United States in the city of Washington and by relays and forced horses take him to the west side of Port Tobacco Creek, about four miles below the town of that name, and dispatch him across the Potomac a prisoner of war. I possess the names of the two persons on Port Tobacco Creek who, with their sons, were prominent in this scheme; but the fruitiness with which the information was given to me paralyzes me not to print them. A person already named, in Washington, was in the conspiracy; and it was given out that "the big actor, Booth," was also "in it." Jones heard of this about December, 1864. It was not designed that he should take any part in the scheme, though he regarded it as a proper undertaking in time of war. From the time this scheme was proposed until the very end of the war the bateau which was to carry Mr. Lincoln off was kept ready, and the oars and men were ever near at hand to dispatch the illustrious captive.

That winter was unusually mild, and therefore the roads were particularly bad in this region of clay and marsh, and did not harden with the frost—a circumstance which perhaps spared Mr. Lincoln the terrors of such a desperate expedition. Inquiries were made from time to time as to when the thing was to be done, and it was generally answered that the roads were too heavy to give the opportunity. The idea Jones has of this matter is that Mr. Lincoln was to be seized, not on his way to the White House, but near the Navy Yard, and gagged quietly, and the carriage then drive across the Navy Yard bridge or the next bridge above, while the captors were to point to the guard and wave their hands to the guards on the bridge, saying: "The President of the United States." When we consider that he was finally killed in the presence of a vast audience, and that no one then crossed the same bridge without opposition and without passes, the original scheme does not seem extraordinary.

Jones heard of the murder of Lincoln Saturday afternoon, April 15, at or near his own farm of Hackleberry. Two Federal officers or cavalrymen came by on horseback, and one of them said to Jones: "Is that your boat a piece above here?" "Yes," said Jones. "Then you had better take good care of it, because there are dangerous people around here who might take it to cross the river." "That is just what I am thinking about," said Jones, "and I have had it pulled up to let my black man go fishing for the shad which are now running."

The two horsemen conferred together a minute or two, and one of them said: "Have you heard the news from Washington?" No." "Our President has been murdered." "Indeed!" said Jones, with a melancholy face, as if he had no friend in the world. "Yes," said the horseman; "President Lincoln was killed last night, and we are looking out for the men, who, we think, escaped this way."

Sunday morning, the 16th of April, about 9 o'clock, a young white man came from Samuel Cox's to Jones' second farm, called Hackleberry, which has been already described at about two and a half miles back from the old river residence, which Jones had been forced to give up when it appeared probable that the Confederate cause was lost. The Hackleberry farm consisted of about 500 acres, and had on it a one-story-and-garret house, with a low-pitched roof, and chimneys, one door in the middle. There was a stable north of the house, and a barn south of it, and it was only three-quarters of a mile from the house to the river, which here runs due east. It is make the indentation called Port Tobacco Creek or river. Although Jones, therefore, had moved some distance from his former house, he was yet very near tidewater. The road was very much retired, was not on the public road, and consisted of clearings amidst rain-washed hills and deep gullies, almost impenetrable short pines, and some swampy and forest timber. Henry Woodland, the black servant, who was then 27 years old, was still Jones' chief assistant, and was kept at tornadoes forming and fishing.

The young man who came from Cox's was told if stopped on the road to say that he was going to Jones' shad if he could let Cox have some seed corn, which at that climate is planted early in April. He told Jones that Col. Cox wished him to come immediately to his house, about three miles to the north. The young man mysteriously intimated that there were very remarkable visitors at Cox's the night before. Accustomed to obey the summons of his old friend, Jones mounted his horse and went to Cox's. Cox's property, called Rich Hill, made an agreeable contrast to the somber short pines which are a great distance around to cover the plain almost as thickly as that stuff grows in the grain-field.

Taking Jones aside, Cox related that the previous night the assassin of President Lincoln had come to his house in company with another person, guided by a negro, and had asked for assistance to cross the Potomac. Cox had refused to give up his adopted son, still living, says Booth did not recognize the person, Harold, who was with Booth, related to his friend, as the latter thinks, that after they left Mudd's house they never were in any house whatever in Maryland. The negro who was employed to guide Booth from Dr. Mudd's to Cox's testified that he saw them enter the house; but as the Government did not use him on the trial, it is probable that he related his belief rather than what he saw.

But there is no doubt of the fact that when Dr. Mudd found Booth in the hands Saturday with a broken ankle, and the soldiery already pouring into Bryantown, he had Booth and Herold became quite frightened, and in the early evening the two latter started by a road to the east for Cox's house, turning Bryantown and leaving it to the north, and arriving about or before midnight at Cox's. There the negro was sent back. Herold advanced to the porch and communicated with Cox and Booth sat on his horse off toward the cotter gate. The two men earned Cox after they backed out to where the negro was—he remaining at the cotter gate—and said that Cox was no gentleman and no host. Those words were probably intended to subdual the negro when they sent him back to Dr. Mudd's. This negro was arrested, as was a colored woman in Cox's family, and with the same remarkable fidelity I have mentioned, the woman confronted the negro man and swore that what he said was untrue.

Nevertheless, Booth and Herold were sent into the short pines, and there Jones found them. His aim that as he was advancing into the pines he came upon a boy name, with black eyes, a mane, and tail, and a white star on the forehead; she was saddled, and roving around in a little clearing, as if trying to nibble something to eat. Jones took the mare and tied her to a tree or stump. He then advanced and gave what he calls the countersign, or whistle, which he does not precisely remember now, though he thinks it was two whistles in a peculiar way, and a whistle after an interval. The first person he saw was Herold, fully armed and with a carbine in his hand, coming out to see who it was. Jones explained that he had been sent to see them, and was then taken to Booth, who was but a few rods farther along.

Booth was lying on the ground, wrapped up in blankets, with his foot supported and bandaged, and a crutch beside him. He rumpled dress looked respectable for that country, and Jones says it was of black cloth. His face was pale at all times, and never ceased to be so during the several days that Jones saw him. He was in great pain from his broken ankle, which had suffered a fracture of one of the two bones in the leg, down close to the foot. It would not have given him any very great pain but for the exertion of his escape, which irritated it by scraping the ends of the broken bone against the flesh; it was now highly irritated, and whichever way the man moved he expressed by a twitch or a groan the pain he felt. Jones says that this pain was more or less continuous, and was greatly aggravated by the peril of Booth's situation—unable to cross the river without assistance, and unable to walk any distance whatever. Jones believes that Booth did not rise from the ground at any time until he was lifted and put on Jones' horse to be taken to the waterside some days afterward.

Booth's first solicitude seemed to be to learn what mankind thought of the crime. That question he put almost immediately to Jones, and continued to ask what different classes of people he thought about it. Jones told him that it was gratifying to know so most of the men of Southern sympathies. He finally says that he himself at first regarded it as good news; but some days later, when he saw the injurious consequences of the crime to the South, he changed his mind. Booth desired information as to what he said, which would convey to him an idea of public feeling. Jones soon obtained newspapers for him, and continued to read them to; and Booth lay there, where he was, for days, and seemed to have not see more than thirty or forty feet along the road, reading what the world had to say about his case. He seemed never tired of information on this one subject, and he was the only thing besides his accomplices about was to get across the river into Virginia.

Jones says Booth admitted that he was the man who killed Lincoln, and expressed no regret for the act, knowing all the consequences it involved. He harped again and again upon the necessity of his crossing the river. He said if he could only get to Virginia he could have medical attendance. Jones told him frankly that he would receive no medical attendance in Maryland. Said he: "The country is full of soldiers, and all that I can do for you is to get you off, if I can, for Cox's protection and my own, and for your own safety. That I will do for you, if there is any way in the world to do it."

When I received this account from Mr. Jones I put the question and the question to see if I could extract any information as to what he knew about while in that wilderness. I asked if he spoke of his mother, or where he was going when he left Port Tobacco, whether he blamed himself for jumping from the theater box; whether he expressed any appreciation for Mrs. Surratt or his friends in Washington. To these and many other questions Jones uniformly replied: "No, he did not speak about any of those things. He wanted to be let alone to think, and to know what was said about the deed." Booth, he thinks, was shocked at. At first meeting Booth in the pines, he proved himself to be a man of high intelligence, and was in India ink, the initials J. W. B. He showed the same to Capt. Active Virginia. Jones says Booth was a determined man, not boasting, but one who would have sold his life dear. He said he would not be taken alive.

Mr. Jones went up to Port Tobacco in a day or two to hear about the murder, and heard a detective there from Alexandria say: "I will give $10,000 and guarantee it to the man who can find a Booth and Herold." When consider that the end of the war had come, and all the Confederate hopes were blasted and every man's slaves set free, we can feel upon the fidelity of this poor man, whose land was not in his own, and the inevitable poverty before him perhaps for the rest of his life, when the next morning he was told that to him alone would be intrusted that man for whom the Government had offered $10,000 and was increasing the reward. Mr. Jones says I never received to him for one moment that it would be a good thing to have that money. On the contrary, his sympathies were enlisted for the pale-faced young man, so ardent to get to Virginia and have the comfort of a doctor.

Said he to Booth: "You must remain right here however long, and wait till I can see some way to get you out; and I do not believe I can get you away from here until this hue and cry somewhat over. Meantime I will see what I can do for you." He then continued to visit them daily, generally about 10 o'clock in the morning. He always went alone, taking with him some food as the country had—bacon, bread, and coffee. Part of the way Jones had to go by the public road, but he generally worked into the pines as quickly as possible. His intercourse at each visit with the fugitives was short, because he was in great personal danger himself, and was not inquisitive, and was wholly intent on keeping his faith with his old friend and the new ones. He says that Herold had nothing of the least importance, and was nothing but a pilot for Booth. Not improbably Cox sent his own overseer into the pines sometimes to see from time to time or to give them something, but he took no active part in their escape. Two blankets they possessed came either from Cox's or from Dr. Mudd's.

Booth, as his been said, rode a small bay mare from the rear of Ford's Theater to Cox's pines. Herold rode a horse of another color. These horses were hired at different livery stables in Washington. Jones is not conversant with all the facts about the renting of these horses, but the testimony of Cox is to be so during the several days that Jones saw him. He was in great pain from his broken ankle, which had suffered a fracture of one of the two bones in the leg, down close to the foot. It would not have given him any very great pain but for the exertion of his escape, which irritated it by scraping the ends of the broken bone against the flesh; it was now highly irritated, and whichever way the man moved he expressed by a twitch or a groan the pain he felt. Jones says that this pain was more or less continuous, and was greatly aggravated by the peril of Booth's situation—unable to cross the river without assistance, and unable to walk any distance whatever. Jones believes that Booth did not rise from the ground at any time until he was lifted and put on Jones' horse to be taken to the waterside some days afterward.

Booth's first solicitude seemed to be to learn what mankind thought of the crime. That question he put almost immediately to Jones, and continued to ask what different classes of people he thought about it. Jones told him that it was gratifying to know so most of the men of Southern sympathies. He finally says that he himself at first regarded it as good news; but some days later, when he saw the injurious consequences of the crime to the South, he changed his mind. Booth desired information as to what he said, which would convey to him an idea of public feeling. Jones soon obtained newspapers for him, and continued to read them to; and Booth lay there, where he was, for days, and seemed to have not see more than thirty or forty feet along the road, reading what the world had to say about his case. He seemed never tired of information on this one subject, and he was the only thing besides his accomplices about was to get across the river into Virginia.

Jones says Booth admitted that he was the man who killed Lincoln, and expressed no regret for the act, knowing all the consequences it involved. He harped again and again upon the necessity of his crossing the river. He said if he could only get to Virginia he could have medical attendance. Jones told him frankly that he would receive no medical attendance in Maryland. Said he: "The country is full of soldiers, and all that I can do for you is to get you off, if I can, for Cox's protection and my own, and for your own safety. That I will do for you, if there is any way in the world to do it."

When I received this account from Mr. Jones I put the question and the question to see if I could extract any information as to what he knew about while in that wilderness. I asked if he spoke of his mother, or where he was going when he left Port Tobacco, whether he blamed himself for jumping from the theater box; whether he expressed any appreciation for Mrs. Surratt or his friends in Washington. To these and many other questions Jones uniformly replied: "No, he did not speak about any of those things. He wanted to be let alone to think, and to know what was said about the deed." Booth, he thinks, was shocked at. At first meeting Booth in the pines, he proved himself to be a man of high intelligence, and had in India ink, the initials J. W. B. He showed the same to Capt. Active Virginia. Jones says Booth was a determined man, not boasting, but one who would have sold his life dear. He said he would not be taken alive.

Mr. Jones went up to Port Tobacco in a day or two to hear about the murder, and heard a detective there from Alexandria say: "I will give $10,000 and guarantee it to the man who can find a Booth and Herold." When consider that the end of the war had come, and all the Confederate hopes were blasted and every man's slaves set free, we can feel upon the fidelity of this poor man, whose land was not in his own, and the inevitable poverty before him perhaps for the rest of his life, when the next morning he was told that to him alone would be intrusted that man for whom the Government had offered $10,000 and was increasing the reward. Mr. Jones says I never received to him for one moment that it would be a good thing to have that money. On the contrary, his sympathies were enlisted for the pale-faced young man, so ardent to get to Virginia and have the comfort of a doctor.

Said he to Booth: "You must remain right here however long, and wait till I can see some way to get you out; and I do not believe I can get you away from here until this hue and cry somewhat over. Meantime I will see what I can do for you." He then continued to visit them daily, generally about 10 o'clock in the morning. He always went alone, taking with him some food as the country had—bacon, bread, and coffee. Part of the way Jones had to go by the public road, but he generally worked into the pines as quickly as possible. His intercourse at each visit with the fugitives was short, because he was in great personal danger himself, and was not inquisitive, and was wholly intent on keeping his faith with his old friend and the new ones. He says that Herold had nothing of the least importance, and was nothing but a pilot for Booth. Not improbably Cox sent his own overseer into the pines sometimes to see from time to time or to give them something, but he took no active part in their escape. Two blankets they possessed came either from Cox's or from Dr. Mudd's.

Booth, as his been said, rode a small bay mare from the rear of Ford's Theater to Cox's pines. Herold rode a horse of another color. These horses were hired at different livery stables in Washington. Jones is not conversant with all the facts about the renting of these horses, but the testimony of Cox

Pensions Troublesome and heavy. Send stamp for Pension Laws, Decisions, Forms, Advice. Attorney, Washington, D. C.

WRITE FREE PAID PATENT PROCURED. E. H. BRONDLE & CO., Brooklyn, Mass.

HAIR Wholesale and retail. Send for price list. Mrs. M. A. HOWARD, 1 Tremont Row, Boston, Mass.

THE SECRETS OF BEAUTY free to any lady. Address, with stamp, Mme. ROSE, 51C Cowles St., Harrisburg, Pa.

AGENTS WANTED EVERYWHERE to sell the Shakespeare Family Knitting Machine. Will knit a pair of stockings with HEEL and TOE complete in 2 hours. Sample sent for 50 cents. Address, Shakespeare Knitting Machine Co., Hartford, Conn. for circular and terms to the Twombly Knitting Machine Co., 10 Tremont Row, Boston, Mass.

ALDEN'S MANFOLD CYCLOPEDIA. Every 2000 subjects and 5,000 illustrations condensed into one volume. Sales 100,000. Price, $10. Specimen pages free. Sent 600 pages, 12mo, cloth, $1.75. Address, ALDEN'S MANFOLD CYCLOPEDIA, 393 Pearl St., New York. Sold by subscription only. Agents wanted. Address as above.

LADIES! ONLY. For 15 cents we will send you a three months' subscription to our 16 page monthly paper, containing 64 columns of the choicest reading for ladies, with beautiful colored plate, or fashion sheet, or 10 cents for 1 month's trial. Address, Ladies' Home Journal, Philadelphia, Pa.

CONSUMPTION. I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. I shall send two bottles free to any sufferer who will send me their Express and Post Office address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., New York.

TO SPECULATORS. R. INDELMAN & CO., N. G. MILLER & CO., 84 Clark St., Chicago. GRAIN & PROVISION BROKERS. Receive all quotations Produce Exchanges in Chicago. Also Liverpool Cotton and Stocks. We have exclusive private telegraph wire between Chicago and New York. Our facilities for handling business are unsurpassed. Refer to Dun and Bradstreet's for business references. REDY, INDELMAN & CO., Chicago.

ELY'S CREAM BALM Cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Restores the Sense of Taste and Smell. Quick, Easy, Pleasant. A thorough treatment will cure Catarrh. Not a Liquid or Snuff. Apply with Finger. Give it a Trial. 50 cents at Druggists; or by mail, 50 cts. ELY BROS., Owego, N. Y.

HOP PLASTER. This porous plaster is superior to all others, combining the medicinal virtues of hops with known and valuable medicines, it is unrivaled in curing diseases where other plasters simply relieve. Pain in the back and side, Pain in the Side or Limbs, Stiff Joints and Muscles, Lame Back, Weak Lungs, Coughs, Colds, Incipient Consumption, Female Weaknesses, Kidney Troubles and Affections of the Heart and Liver, and all forms of aches and pains, are cured by the HOP PLASTER. Sold by druggists, or sent on receipt of price, 25 cts. Mailed on receipt of price, 5 for $1. Address, HOP PLASTER CO., Boston, Mass.

CONSUMPTION. I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. I shall send two bottles free to any sufferer who will send me their Express and Post Office address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., New York.

LADIES' ONLY. For 15 cents we will send you a three months' subscription to our 16 page monthly paper, containing 64 columns of the choicest reading for ladies, with beautiful colored plate, or fashion sheet, or 10 cents for 1 month's trial. Address, Ladies' Home Journal, Philadelphia, Pa.

DR. SCHENK'S MEDICINES: MANDRAKE PILLS, SEAWEED TONIC, and PULMONIC SYRUP. Are sold by all Druggists, and full directions for their use are printed on the wrappers of every package.

KIDNEY-WORT THE SURE CURE FOR KIDNEY DISEASES, LIVER COMPLAINTS, CONSTIPATION, PILES, AND BLOOD DISEASES. PHYSICIANS ENDORSE IT HEARTILY. "Kidney-Wort is the most successful remedy I ever used." Dr. P. C. Jackson, Monkton, Vt. "Kidney-Wort cured my wife after she had given up to die." Rev. J. Wesley Carhart, Ft. Plain, N. Y. "Kidney-Wort has cured my wife after her physicians had given her up." Mr. Hosmer Gates, Bow Hill, Or. IN THOUSANDS OF CASES it has proved the only remedy that could help the sufferer. CERTAIN IN ITS ACTION, SAFE IN ITS EFFECTS. It strengthens the weak, regulates the disordered and gives New Life to all the important organs of the body. Sold by druggists, price $1. (Liquid or dry, the latter is three times as concentrated.) Dry can be sent by mail. WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO., Burlington, Vt.

KIDNEY-WORT

PENSIONS Troublesome and heavy. Send stamp for Pension Laws, Decisions, Forms, Advice. Attorney, Washington, D. C.

WRITE FREE PAID PATENT PROCURED. E. H. BRONDLE & CO., Brooklyn, Mass.

HAIR Wholesale and retail. Send for price list. Mrs. M. A. HOWARD, 1 Tremont Row, Boston, Mass.

THE SECRETS OF BEAUTY free to any lady. Address, with stamp, Mme. ROSE, 51C Cowles St., Harrisburg, Pa.

AGENTS WANTED EVERYWHERE to sell the Shakespeare Family Knitting Machine. Will knit a pair of stockings with HEEL and TOE complete in 2 hours. Sample sent for 50 cents. Address, Shakespeare Knitting Machine Co., Hartford, Conn. for circular and terms to the Twombly Knitting Machine Co., 10 Tremont Row, Boston, Mass.

ALDEN'S MANFOLD CYCLOPEDIA. Every 2000 subjects and 5,000 illustrations condensed into one volume. Sales 100,000. Price, $10. Specimen pages free. Sent 600 pages, 12mo, cloth, $1.75. Address, ALDEN'S MANFOLD CYCLOPEDIA, 393 Pearl St., New York. Sold by subscription only. Agents wanted. Address as above.

LADIES' ONLY. For 15 cents we will send you a three months' subscription to our 16 page monthly paper, containing 64 columns of the choicest reading for ladies, with beautiful colored plate, or fashion sheet, or 10 cents for 1 month's trial. Address, Ladies' Home Journal, Philadelphia, Pa.

CONSUMPTION. I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. I shall send two bottles free to any sufferer who will send me their Express and Post Office address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., New York

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

FOR HER HE SINNED.

Philip Grayson was a young man in good business, and, until he made one serious mistake, had made fair to be ultimately successful.

His first false step was being taken captive by the bright eyes of Helen Clay, his next one was marrying her; for Helen had been reared in a magnificent home, and, during her infancy, childhood and girlhood, not a want had been left ungratified. Consequently, after her marriage she was selfish without knowing it.

Had Philip been sensible enough to tell Helen the extent of his income before becoming her partner in the picturesque and attractive wedding procession which one day drew a goodly portion of the elite to witness and admire as it swept up the broad aisle of the church, their union might have resulted differently; for even the giddiest butterfly of fashion sometimes develops most wonderful womanliness and good sense when a chance is given her.

But Philip's pride sealed his lips so effectually that, up to the date of our story, Helen had remained in complete ignorance of his circumstances.

The young couple had just arisen from the dinner table, when Helen said, as she held a lighted taper towards her husband so that he could light his cigar:

"Oh, Phil, I saw just the loveliest wrap in Arnold's! Every bit of the lace on it is real! It will look lovely with my brocade dress with jet trimmings. I told the salesman to send it with the bill, as I had no money with me."

"How much is it, Helen?"

"Only fifteen pounds."

Philip opened his pocket-book, and assumed a look of surprise. Then, forcing a smile, he turned to his wife and said:

"My pocket book is in the same state as yours, Helen. I forgot to replenish it when I left the store."

"I don't suppose it will make any great difference, Philip. The wrap will be sent as directed, of course. But no one is ever worried about our little bills. It is only poor people that the tradesmen hesitate about trusting. By the bye, did I tell you that madam's bill came in yesterday?"

"No, I don't remember your speaking of it. But I must hurry away," said Philip, consulting his watch, "for I have a business engagement."

"Naughty Philip! not to save even one evening for your wife!" and Helen put up her cheek for Philip's expected kiss.

But he took her pretty face between his hands, and turned it so that he could look straight into her eyes for an instant before he bent and kissed her on the lips.

"Helen, will you always love me?" he asked in a voice that trembled in spite of all his endeavors to make it steady.

"Of course I will. But what makes you ask me such a strange question?"

"Just to satisfy my craving heart. Are you sure that no matter what the future might bring to us that you will still have confidence in me? You know strange things sa—are said about people sometimes."

"You dear boy, nothing could keep me from thinking you the best and manliest of say living man in the wide world."

"Thank you, Helen. Now let me imagine it is our courting time again, and let me tell you that I love you now and shall ever love you with the whole strength of my heart. No matter what may happen, remember that your husband's fault does not lie in indifference to his wife. Good by, darling."

With a bewildered look upon her fair face, Helen remained for a while in motionless surprise after Philip had gone.

Then shaking off the unusual feeling created by his manner, she went to the harp and ran her white fingers over the strings.

But the prelude came to an end, and she relapsed into a revery without taking up the words of the song which should have followed.

For the first time in her life a vague feeling of unrest and disquiet had taken possession of her soul.

It was late when Philip returned, and he then went to the library, and spent some time writing.

But he was evidently ill-pleased at his efforts in the epistolary line, for he tore his sheet after sheet and cast it into the flames, at last contenting himself with putting an enclosure into an envelope and directing it to Helen.

Then, leaving it where her eyes would rest upon it when she entered the room, he left the house without the slightest expectation of ever again setting his foot within it.

For Philip had committed a crime, and would hereafter have to keep in hiding just he should be punished.

He had forged the name of the silent partner in his firm—his mother's brother—an eccentric bachelor of great wealth—and had taken the check bearing the well known name to a money lender, who, having perfect confidence in Philip's integrity, and believing the story odd him of having accidentally overdrawn his account, cashed it for him—at a usurious rate it is true—but unhesitatingly.

It was this money which Helen found in the envelope addressed to her in Philip's handwriting. He had not kept a penny for himself.

It was for her that he had sinned, when, finding every avenue of success closed, he at last made up his mind to become a wanderer and an outcast upon the face of the earth.

He must have been half-crazed at the time, or he would have foreseen that in the exposure which must follow Helen would discover how he had obtained the money, and in learning of his sin learn also to scorn the sinner. But when the arch-enemy of souls sets out to catch a weak mortal in his toils, he does not hesitate to blind and confuse his reasoning faculties as well as his conscience.

So Philip dreamed not that his provision for his wife would prove futile—rendered so by her own delicate sense of honor.

It would be too harrowing to depict the exhausting grief which reduced Helen to a pale shadow of herself after her husband's apparently causeless desertion of her.

The first time in which her rallying power returned to her was when a visitor was ushered into the drawing-room to see her, and she—recognizing the name—crept down wearily to learn his business.

Until the present moment she had remained in ignorance of Philip's circumstances. The large sum of money he had left her precluded the idea of poverty, even had it presented itself to her, and so she was powerless to divine any motive for Philip's desertion.

Mr. Crawford, Philip's uncle, rose as she came in, and said gruffly:

"Hope I see you well, ma'am. I've come to say a few words to you which I hope you'll take in a sensible way—though a woman with a grain of common sense in her head is out of the question.

"I've got a paper here signed with a very good imitation of my name, but, nevertheless, it isn't mine. It is that of my scapegrace nephew, who, not content with leaving you to shift for yourself, has also made off with my money. I want your help to bring him to his just punishment."

Helen's pallor had given place to a color rivaling the red upon the reddest rose.

"He has not left me unprovided for, Mr. Crawford! it is unjust to say so. He took care to see that I should have plenty. But what I want is Philip himself! What matters money without him to share it with me?

"How much did my nephew leave with you?"

Helen named the amount.

"That's just the sum my nephew robbed me of, ma'am. So it was all left with you?"

"Robbed you off" exclaimed Helen with a gasp. "Robbed?"

"Yes, ma'am, 'robbed.' Didn't I say he had signed my name to this document?" and the old man held the check out so that Helen could see it.

"Oh, my poor Philip! did he need money? Why, I always thought he had plenty and to spare."

"No doubt, ma'am. Rich men's daughters can't be expected to know much about the difficulties of getting money. I suppose they think it lies in the street waiting for some one to come along and pick it up."

But Helen was too much absorbed in her discovery to heed the satire in the old man's speech. She went on excitedly:

"If he had told me that he hadn't plenty of money, do you think I would have bought this and bought that, and run bills and—in short, sir," with a sudden dignity that contrasted palpably with the distress pictured on her agitated face, "I am to blame if Philip has done this. Punish me—not him. What money I have left I will at once return to you, and I will ask my father for a check for what I have used in my ignorance of—of Philip's circumstances."

And without giving Mr. Crawford time to answer her, Helen glided from the room to return again with the money.

"Don't think, sir, that I had any heart to spend anything since Philip went, except to pay the household bills and the servants. Here is what there is left."

Mr. Crawford hemmed and hawed to do away with an obtrusive kindness which would interfere with his vocal organs. Then he said:

"Poor Phil, it is a pity he wasn't man enough to make a clean breast of it to you, for—excuse the comparison, but it is a good one—you are a trump. Rich man's daughter or not, you are not spoiled. To tell the truth, I came here to-day as much to see what stuff was in you as to accuse Phil.

"I am satisfied—fully satisfied with you, but I am ashamed of myself. I ought to have helped Phil, for he's my namesake. But I was so all-fired mad at the boy for his fine-gentleman ways, that I thought to turn the cold shoulder to him, and let him suffer for them. I have been an old fool, and I consider myself responsible for the boy's going to the bad. But we'll put our heads together and try to make it all right. No one but ourselves has any knowledge of that piece (and I'm bound to say it's the only one) of Phil's rascality. Here goes."

As Mr. Crawford said this, he drew forth a match from his waistcoat pocket, lighted it to set fire in turn to the check. Then he turned to Helen.

"From this time forth, consider me your uncle and your obedient servant. Now sit down and write an advertisement to Phil. Say this:

"P. G.—Uncle P. C. knows all and forgives all. Come home. H. G."

Helen obeyed. To say the truth, she was so much relieved to find that money troubles had been the cause of Philip's strange action that she for the moment almost forgot that he might fail to see the advertisement Mr. Crawford thus dictated to her. So her heart felt quite light as she penciled off several copies to give him for insertion in the various papers.

And if "hope deferred" has power to make the heart sick, Helen had plenty of opportunity to test it.

Months passed before a trace of Philip was found.

The message came to Mr. Crawford that a stranger, who had been found in the street in a demented condition, some months previous, had been brought to a "Home" which had been instituted for such pitiable cases; that his senses had at last returned, and that he wished to have an interview with him.

The letter ended by saying that the bodily health of the patient continued discouraging, and that he probably had not long to live.

Without communicating the contents of this letter to Helen, Mr. Crawford at once set out for the distant city from which it had been sent.

He found that it was indeed his nephew, but so changed that he hardly could have believed it to have been Philip if he had met him on the street.

But Mr. Crawford's hearty forgiveness, and the news that Helen's affection had caused her to condone the sin into which his love for her had led him, acted like a life-giving elixir upon the now penitent man, and again he felt that he future held in it a chance of happiness for him.

He returned with his uncle, and he and Helen commenced life anew under very different auspices to those which had characterized their start in married life.

To-day he is one of our most honored and respected men, and no young man though a woman with a grain of common sense in her head is out of the question.

"I've got a paper here signed with a very good imitation of my name, but, nevertheless, it isn't mine. It is that of my scapegrace nephew, who, not content with leaving you to shift for yourself, has also made off with my money. I want your help to bring him to his just punishment."

Helen's pallor had given place to a color rivaling the red upon the reddest rose.

"He has not left me unprovided for, Mr. Crawford! it is unjust to say so. He took care to see that I should have plenty. But what I want is Philip himself! What matters money without him to share it with me?

"How much did my nephew leave with you?"

Helen named the amount.

"That's just the sum my nephew robbed me of, ma'am. So it was all left with you?"

"Robbed you off" exclaimed Helen with a gasp. "Robbed?"

"Yes, ma'am, 'robbed.' Didn't I say he had signed my name to this document?" and the old man held the check out so that Helen could see it.

"Oh, my poor Philip! did he need money? Why, I always thought he had plenty and to spare."

"No doubt, ma'am. Rich men's daughters can't be expected to know much about the difficulties of getting money. I suppose they think it lies in the street waiting for some one to come along and pick it up."

But Helen was too much absorbed in her discovery to heed the satire in the old man's speech. She went on excitedly:

"If he had told me that he hadn't plenty of money, do you think I would have bought this and bought that, and run bills and—in short, sir," with a sudden dignity that contrasted palpably with the distress pictured on her agitated face. "I am to blame if Philip has done this. Punish me—not him. What money I have left I will at once return to you, and I will ask my father for a check for what I have used in my ignorance of—of Philip's circumstances."

And without giving Mr. Crawford time to answer her, Helen glided from the room to return again with the money.

"Don't think, sir, that I had any heart to spend anything since Philip went, except to pay the household bills and the servants. Here is what there is left."

Mr. Crawford hemmed and hawed to do away with an obtrusive kindness which would interfere with his vocal organs. Then he said:

"Poor Phil, it is a pity he wasn't man enough to make a clean breast of it to you, for—excuse the comparison, but it is a good one—you are a trump. Rich man's daughter or not, you are not spoiled. To tell the truth, I came here to-day as much to see what stuff was in you as to accuse Phil.

"I am satisfied—fully satisfied with you, but I am ashamed of myself. I ought to have helped Phil, for he's my namesake. But I was so all-fired mad at the boy for his fine-gentleman ways, that I thought to turn the cold shoulder to him, and let him suffer for them. I have been an old fool, and I consider myself responsible for the boy's going to the bad. But we'll put our heads together and try to make it all right. No one but ourselves has any knowledge of that piece (and I'm bound to say it's the only one) of Phil's rascality. Here goes."

As Mr. Crawford said this, he drew forth a match from his waistcoat pocket, lighted it to set fire in turn to the check. Then he turned to Helen.

"From this time forth, consider me your uncle and your obedient servant. Now sit down and write an advertisement to Phil. Say this:

"P. G.—Uncle P. C. knows all and forgives all. Come home. H. G."

Helen obeyed. To say the truth, she was so much relieved to find that money troubles had been the cause of Philip's strange action that she for the moment almost forgot that he might fail to see the advertisement Mr. Crawford thus dictated to her. So her heart felt quite light as she penciled off several copies to give him for insertion in the various papers.

And if "hope deferred" has power

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

A FINE STOCK OF

New Boots & Shoes

JUST RECEIVED.

Prices Below all Competition.

L. B. Connor

Opposite Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW,

DEALER IN

Hardware,

FARM IMPLEMENTS, ETC.

Charlevoix, Mich.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitings,

Boots and Shoes.

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at actual cost, as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. Remember, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark.

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

Dr. Crouter's Anti-Fever Pills are ready, and will cure Fever and Ague in one week. Price $1 per box. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

HALL'S Catarrh Cure

Is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD WILL BE PAID IN GOOD FOOTING

We manufacture and sell with a positive guarantee that it will cure any Catarrh not worth the stamp to expose in single instance.

It is quick, it is sure, it is safe, it is ready, it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you will carefully read the testimonials, and, as your druggist for it, and accept no imitation or substitute, it is manifest that you are and we will forward pamphlet, free, to any address.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Dr. Crouter, Agt., Charlevoix. 41

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card to effect January, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 5	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv.		7 30am	7 15pm
Richmond,		12 30pm	10 32
Muncie,		1 47	11 57
Ridgeville,	4 11	3 12	1 22
Fort Wayne, ar.	6 45	4 45	3 20pm
Fort Wayne, lv.		2 47	2 50	8 07am
Auburn,		3 35	3 32	9 17
Kendallville,		3 53	3 51	10 35
Wilmot,		4 13	4 12	11 55
Hillsdale,		4 40	4 42	12 50pm
Kalamazoo, lv.		7 00	6 02	2 25
Battle Creek,		7 32	6 32	2 55
Grand Rapids, ar.		8 40	7 35	3 55
Grand Rapids, lv.	7 30am		7 45	4 05
Howard City,	8 47		8 36	5 07
Big Rapids,	9 40		10 10pm	6 20
Reed City,	10 17		11 00	7 02
Cadillac, ar.	11 25		12 01	8 05
Cadillac, lv.			2 31	2 35
Traverse City, ar			4 55	4 50
Kalkaska, lv.			4 17	12 00am
Grayling,			4 40	12 35
Boyne Falls,			4 54	1 12
St. Ignace,			6 05	2 34
Harbor Springs,			7 15	3 45
Mackinaw City,			8 00	4 20
St. Ignace			10 00	8 50
Marquette,			7 00am	5 00pm
Negaunee, ar.			9 17	7 26

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Negaunee, lv.			5 10pm	7 30am
Marquette,			9 00	8 30
St. Ignace,			3 35am	4 15pm
Mackinaw City,			6 00	9 15
Harbor Springs,			7 05	10 35
Petoskey, lv.			7 28	11 33
Boyne Falls,			8 15	12 27am
Nacoma,			8 19	2 11
Kalkaska,			8 51	2 58
Traverse City, lv			1 30am
Cadillac, lv.		3 30pm	11 45	5 20
Cadillac, ar.		4 25	12 10pm	6 15
Reed City,		5 12	1 44	7 49
Howard City,		6 05	2 35	8 47
Big Rapids,		6 35	3 16	10 05
Grand Rapids, lv.	6 20am	7 40	4 20	10 50
Grand Rapids, ar.			4 30	11 00
Kalamazoo, ar.	8 32		6 02	2 24
Battle Creek, ar.	9 37		6 52	3 20
Vicksburg,	9 57		7 22	3 60
Schoolcraft,	10 16		7 40	4 20
Cassopolis,	11 07		8 35	5 31
Fort Wayne, ar.	12 15		9 35	6 42
Fort Wayne, lv.		3 37am	10 00am
Ridgeville,	3 00	7 56	2 25
Winchester,	3 28	8 16	2 57
Richmond, ar.	4 57	9 17	4 02
Cincinnati, ar.	7 00pm	12 30pm	7 30am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Act'g G. P. Ag't.

Grand Rapids, Mich.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dread disease, consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge,) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and throat and lung affections. Parties wishing the prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. Wilson, 194 Penn. St., Williamsburg, N. Y.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 42. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, MAY 1, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

is published every Thursday morning.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office over T. D. Smith's grocery.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

W. CUSHMAN & GRIFF, Attorneys at Law, Office in Bunker Block, Charlevoix, Mich. A. R. CUSHMAN.

DART & CAYL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake st., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FORD & LUBICH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

DREW MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, at Real Estate. Claims promptly attended to. REFERENCE TO LIBRARY.

H. A. JEBSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Office in United States Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

JAY L. NAWBERRY, Attorney at Law, and Circuit Court Commissioner. Office in No. 4, building occupied by Mitchell Bros. Petoskey, Mich.

J. M. CLARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

NORTON, KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

OSCAR F. WISNER, Attorney and solicitor, and U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

JAY SAURETTE, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.—Capital $50,000, paid up organized. Depositors secured by Government bonds, real estate, and mortgages to twice the amount of their deposits. Loans also made on farm mortgages. Exchange and money exchanged. REYNOLDS & BURNS.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7 in the afternoon. A. T. CLARKE, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7. T. F. PARSONS, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX HOOCH AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet the first and third Thursday evenings of each month, at the town hall. B. F. BISSER, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

R. F. FIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Magnetic Cures, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

M. L. SMITH, teacher of Musical Composition and Theory. Will take a few pupils on Organ, Piano and Violin at residence of Geo. W. Bell, on Mason street.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. MILO EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class Horses and Carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses to hire.

PHYSICIANS.

J. A. CAMPBELL, M. D. Office at the Ingleside.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

C. O. GREAVES, M. D. Office in Bunker Block, Charlevoix.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. O. FAVOR Tent No. 193, meets second G. Monday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 397, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 393, meets every Wednesday evening in their hall.

MASONIC.—Tuscan Lodge No. 165, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

A. PETTAPIECE, President. A. R. URQUHART, Vice President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money to loan on approved paper at reasonable rates. Deposits received. Collections given special attention and remittances made promptly on day of collection. A. PETTAPIECE, THOMAS. Cashier.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON, Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

Bridge Street House,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

1872 DR. G. W. CROUTER, 1884

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.

PURITY, POLITENESS.

WE MAKE IT A POINT TO SELL ONLY

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

OUR PRICES WILL ALWAYS BE AS LOW AS

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

CAN BE SOLD.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

E. T. BROWN & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS' AGENTS,

Portable and Stationary Engines,

Boilers, Mill and Wood-working Machinery,

Mill Supplies, Threshers, and Threshing Engines.

Largains in Second-Hand Machinery.

WRITE FOR PRICE AND CATALOGUE.

WEST BRIDGE ST., GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

Fountain City House,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public. Sample rooms for the Peloskey and Elk Rapids Stages.

PINE LAKE HOUSE

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and has been added to the convenience of the traveling public.

Pioneer House,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

United States Hotel,

GEO. W. CURTIS, Proprietor,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

Sewing Machines CHEAP.

A few fine sewing machines for sale at ten dollars each. Call soon and have your pick.

EVERY MACHINE WARRANTED

D. S. WAY.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers and gain as many more as possible. Call and see us.

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best time keeper made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to charge for storage.

O. W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. ANTIQUE or JEWELRY made to order. AGATES or JASPERS cut to order.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, for the sake of suffering humanity, will send free to all who need it, the recipe and direction for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 43 Cedar St., New York.

PIMPLES

I will send, FREE, the receipt for a SIMPLE VEGETABLE BALM that will remove TAN, FRECKLES, PIMPLES and BLOTCHES, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, enclosing a stamp, Mrs. V. SAYWARD, 47 Harrison Av., N. Y.

NOTICE OF ATTACHMENT.—The circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, Frederick B. Wheeler, plaintiff, vs. William H. Condon, defendant. Notice is hereby given that on the eighteenth day of March, A. D. 1884, a writ of attachment was duly issued out of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, at the suit of Frederick B. Wheeler against the property of said defendant, consisting of goods, and chattels, and effects of William H. Condon, the defendant, to the amount of the sum of two hundred and ninety dollars, ($290.00), which said writ was returnable on the first day of April, A. D. 1884.

Dated April 24, A. D. 1884.

CRUCKSHANK & GRIFF, Attorneys for Plaintiff.

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 141 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on mail route from Boyne City to Petoskey. Good frame house, two barns, two wells, one spring, fences, fulltimber good, brook and maple bush. About one fruit tree beginning to bear, three and a half miles from school and village mill. Terms, three thousand seven hundred dollars, one thousand down, balance in three years time two thousand dollars, balance in six years time. For further particulars apply to DAVID H. FRANCIS, Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGeagh's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

JOSEPH HYLAND,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Boiler Maker,

Sheet-Iron Worker,

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

Gen. Manuel Gonzales,

President of Mexico.

The unsettled condition of Mexican politics, just now, a revolution being threatened on account chiefly of the exactions made by the government, makes a sketch of the president, to whom his enemies ascribe the difficulty, pertinent. Mexico is short of money for the use of the government, and is anxious to borrow $20,000,000 at the present time. Two years ago, under similar pressure, congress passed a law granting the president extraordinary powers. In pursuance of this law, President Gonzales recently issued a stamp decree, thereby creating the present complication, which is more disastrous to business than the previous financial stringency.

General Gonzales has been president of Mexico since December 1, 1880. He was born about fifty years ago, at Matamoras, state of Tamaulipas, Mexico. Deserting a military life, he joined the army as a private soldier, and rose rapidly in his profession. He served with distinction against the French in 1863-4, as colonel of a regiment, and lost an arm while defending the fortress of San Marcos against the invaders. In 1876 he was created a major-general, and held office as secretary of war during the administration of president Diaz, whom he succeeded as the result of a revolution.

Under president Gonzales's administration Mexico has made rapid advances in material prosperity and civilization. He has a fine presence, is not tall in stature, but well built and of sturdy physique. Estimates of his character vary greatly.

Startling Facts Concerning National Taxation.

So greedy are the hordes of protectionists for the spoils of taxation that regardless of the party labels they wear, they fight or whine against any reduction of our tariff taxes, even to the extent of thirty millions a year, although the government is getting over one hundred million dollars in excess of its legitimate needs. Of the revenues of the government about two hundred million dollars a year are obtained by tariff taxation. It is because taxes are so adjusted that in paying this two hundred million dollars to the government the people are required to pay at least six hundred million dollars to the protected interest, and because the majority of congressmen are the hired attorneys or the purchased slaves of these interests that it is next to impossible to secure the passage of a law reducing taxation.

And yet it must be patent to my man who knows enough to ache when he is hurt that the business interests of the country are suffering from the burdens of an excessive taxation. Since the close of the war, but twenty years ago, there have been three periods of business depression—one in 1868, another in 1873, and still another in 1882. Those were not money panics like many previous periods of financial disaster, but times of business stagnation and exhaustion. The country staggered under burdens which were heavier than they could carry. Chief among these burdens was national taxation.

The extent of these burdens can be comprehended by a little investigation. The general government collected in round numbers $400,000,000 from the people of this country during the last fiscal year. Please remember that. Now the whole property of the United States is assessed for taxation at about $17,000,000,000. National taxation, therefore, is equivalent to 24 per cent on the assessed valuation; or, taking the whole country, more than three times as much as the state and county taxation combined.

On the basis of 50,000,000 people and $400,000,000 taxes paid into the national treasury annually, taxation amounts to eight dollars per capita for the entire population of the United States. These figures are correct. Please remember them.

Let me bring this matter right home. Estimating that the people of Michigan pay only their per capita proportion of the $400,000,000 that was paid into the national treasury last year, the sum taken from them to support the government and pile up a surplus was $13,690,648. These figures are also worth remembering. They show that if the people of Michigan paid their share of national taxes, according to population, they were compelled to fork over upward of thirteen million dollars for national purposes in a single year.

Compare this with the state taxation. For the year 1882 the state taxes, as apportioned by the auditor general to the several counties, aggregated $1,021,091.23. Add to this the specific taxes received from railroads and other corporations, which amounted to $1,698,032.52. The assessed valuation of the state was $810,000,000, so that the tax was a slight fraction over $1.26 on each $1,000 of such valuation. We think, when the tax gatherer comes around each winter to levy tribute upon the annual earnings of our people, that the state taxes are now enough to almost damn the republican party, and yet the national taxes, on the basis given, are over eight times as much as the total receipts by the state treasury, and over twelve times as much as the direct taxes apportioned to the several counties by the auditor general. For every dollar paid direct to the state by the people twelve dollars are paid to the general government. These figures cannot be successfully gainsaid. Are they not also worth remembering?

Because there is not a direct levy of taxes, and a collector sent to every house, it is childish to assume that the national taxes, to the full extent indicated, are not paid by the people. As mentioned by the writer in the Coldwater Republican, "the tariff machinery is an invisible piece of mechanism so far as the mass of taxpayers are concerned. It was an expedient of the British monarchy to secure money from a people refusing to vote supplies without full knowledge of the objects for its uses." We copied the system. Nevertheless it is a method of taxing the people. Not a dollar of the $400,000,000 which goes into the national treasury in a single year is collected by a direct levy, but the fact that the people pay it, and that the people of Michigan pay over $13,000,000 of it, is none the less real—none the less certain. Of this vast sum collected from the people the tax on whisky amounts to about one-sixth. In 1882 the tax collected from whisky was $29,573,416. This the people of this country have to pay if they use whisky or alcohol in any form, as all exported spirits are freed from taxation.

The growth of taxation in this country is astounding. In 1860, before the imposition of war taxes, the population of the United States was 31,000,000. The taxes collected then by the national government amounted to $56,000,000 annually, or $1.80 per capita. Now they amount to $8 per capita. One quarter of them can be dispensed with. The government ought not have over $300,000,000 a year. And yet the republicans, and the whole army of protectionists that are fattening on the spoils of taxation, are opposed to any reduction. They are trying to see how much of the people's money they can squander, and how much they can save. The result is the people are divided into two classes, tax eaters and tax payers—robbers and robbed.—G. R. Democrat.

The Supreme Court of Massachusetts has decided that telegraph companies have a right to erect lines upon public highways without making compensation for the privilege, on the ground that such use is of a public character, similar to that for which the highway was originally taken. This does not agree with the decisions of the Supreme Court of Illinois and the Court of Appeals in New York, both of which have held that the owners in fee are entitled to compensation in such cases.

Gustav Hoffman, of Philadelphia, heir to $170,000 from a relative thereof in Germany, ran away from home just before news of the fact came from the old country.

A lemon tree on the farm of Thomas Kennedy, at Noonan's Lake, Fla., nineteen years old, has borne eleven years, and has earned for its owner $106 in a single season.

One of our best citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co. 8-25

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

SAMUEL W. BAKER, the African explorer, is quoted as saying that camels will cross a desert with a load of 400 pounds at the rate of thirty miles a day, in the hottest time of summer, and regular water only every third or fourth day. In the cooler months the animal will work seven or eight days without water, and, if grazing on green foliage, without labor, will only drink once a fortnight.

THERE is a place in the Blue Ridge Mountains in West Virginia where snow melts as fast as it falls, and where the temperature of the ground never reaches the freezing point. Vegetation is always a month ahead of the surrounding sections. There is about one acre of this warm area. The State Geologist is of the opinion that there may be a volcano slumbering a few hundred feet below this surface.

COL. BUNSBY, of the "Blues," who is one of the remarkable figures of London, standing six feet four, holds four somewhat widely differing appointments at present, being Lieutenant Colonel commanding the Horse Guards Blue, Silver Stick in Waiting, special correspondent of the Morning Post, and acting commandant of a levy of raw Sondanese and Egyptian troops. He figured in the front in the recent battles.

PRINCE NAPOLEON'S sneer at the Orleans Princes—"I have not the gold of the Orleans Princes; I am poor, and I am proud of it" — has recoiled on himself. Several newspapers reminded him that during the empire he received 37,078,000 francs besides 4,993,000 francs for fitting up the Palais Royal and Meudon. M. de Lavendan remarks that France had nothing in return for the questionable part taken by the Prince in the Crimea, Italy, and the war of 1870.

AN Omaha preacher is the last pulpit pounder to try and put a stop to Sunday night courting. That preacher would meet with greater success by fighting a cyclone with a snow shovel. This Sunday night courting business is as sure to cause as death and the tax collector. It is an old established industry, which has been going on since the beginning of time, and it is sure to continue to the end of it. It is about the only industry that don't ask for a protective tariff, as the more foreign competition it has the better it thrives.

THE following official statistics, compiled for the Brewers' Journal, show the production and annual per-capita consumption of beer in the various beer-drinking countries of the world:

	Production in quarters.	Consumption per head in U. S. gals.
Bavaria	17,741,000	67
Wurtemberg	1,751,000	38
Belgium	3,780,000	41
Great Britain	26,000,000	36
German Empire	32,715,000	29
Baden	946,000	26
North Germany	17,962,000	16
Saxony	2,000,000	16
United States	17,501,000	11
Austria-Hungary	8,000,000	9
Netherlands	1,120,000	10
Switzerland	700,000	9
France	4,600,000	4
Russia	2,200,000	4
Denmark	435,000	8
Sweden	700,000	4
Canada	700,000	4
Italy	1,000,000	3
Other States, about	2,000,000
Total production	143,000,987 U. S. bbls.

THE Queen of Tahiti, who passed so secretly across this country some weeks ago, tells the people of Paris that she was struck with the perpetual hurry of American ways. Her Majesty kept herself in such seclusion while she traveled that her knowledge of Americans must have been wholly confined to the people she saw at the railway stations and that being the case she would be struck by their hurry. But it would be a mistake to suppose that everybody in this country is overworked. The impression has largely grown of a happy facility we have of making our selves and others think we are chock full of business. Her Majesty should give herself no anxiety about us. We answer her that beyond a weakness for catching the first train this country is not overdoing itself.

IN the North American Review, Judge J. A. Jameson, of Chicago, has a paper captioned "Shall Our Civilization Be Preserved?" The Judge is clearly of the opinion that our civilization is in great peril. It is environed with enemies, and is still more in danger on account of the enemies who are operating within. The Judge is of the opinion that after the lapse of a few thousand years the world will experience the recurrence of an age of ice, which, unless great efforts are made to preserve the records, will sweep away every trace of our civilization. In view of such a calamity the writer suggests that it would be well to do some engraving on stones, after the fashion of the early Egyptians, or that it might be better to select the bald head of some mountain for records, so that when the ice had melted, if any poor mortal succeeded in living through the ice age he might find somewhere some guidebook to aid him in reproducing our civilization for the benefit of those who may people the earth after the ice age had spent its force, thawed and disappeared. The writer thinks "rich and powerful nations of the earth" might preserve the best part of the treasures of their civilization.

A PHILADELPHIA boy had made up his mind that a human being could fly as well as a bird, if he went about it in the right way, and he thought he knew the way. He persuaded his young sister, who had great confidence in him, to become his assistant. Having laid his plans before her, and convinced her that flying was a very simple matter, after all, she consented to make the first attempt. The task her up to the second story porch, and, having brought out a big pair of turkey wings, an old umbrella and some stout cord, he began to rig up the no-coming victim for the great trial. He bound one wing to the outside of each of her arms, and fastened the outspread umbrella to her body by putting the handle behind her head and passing the cord around just below her shoulders. The umbrella was to act as a parachute, absent which he had read just enough to make his knowledge dangerous, and he quieted the girl's misgivings by saying that this arrangement would "let her down easy." When the little girl stood completely arrayed for the trip the boy told her that all she had to do was to jump and flap her wings, and she would fly like any bird. Five minutes later the family doctor was sent for in great haste to mend a broken leg, and the youth, when upbraided and reminded for his cruel folly, insisted that if the little goose had flapped her wings as he told her to, she would have been all right.

Not in the Scorching Business.

Senator Cullom, of Illinois, received from the Secretary of the Senate a promise that one of the soft berths in that venerable ship of state would be placed at his disposal. The Senator was in high glee, and for hours and hours would sit and rehearse with delicate problem whom to designate for appointment to the promised place. At last he hit upon a politician of prominence, the editor of an influential newspaper who had served his country in the high office of clerk of one of the branches of the State Legislature. The gentleman was serious. He was received by the Senator with great cordiality, and invited to come to the Capitol as soon as he had recovered from the fatigues of his journey, to assume the new and important duties that awaited him. He was a man of fine address and imposing presence, and when accompanied by his Senator, he walked into the Senator's office to receive his commission a stranger not acquainted with the facts would have been puzzled to point out which was the Senator and which the expectant officer. The Secretary hunted up the appointment of consul at Cardiff, and, in the course of the early afternoon the Senator had the satisfaction of seeing his protégé on the cars, on his way to the new and important duties that awaited him. He was a man of fine address and imposing presence, and when accompanied by his Senator, he walked into the Senator's office to receive his commission a stranger not acquainted with the facts would have been puzzled to point out which was the Senator and which the expectant officer. The Secretary hunted up the appointment of consul at Cardiff, and, in the course of the early afternoon the Senator had the satisfaction of seeing his protégé on the cars, on his way to the scorching business.

THE LITTLE FOLKS.

"All The Same."

I know a darling baby girl—
Blue is her mother's favorite color,
She has the curest little way
Of calling anything she'd say
With those words—"All the same."

We tell her she's an angel child,
That God made her in heaven she came;
She'll look with wonder into our face,
And then she'll answer, with a smile,
"Yes, I'm like all the same."

Again she's naughty, and we scold
Her for what she has done or gone,
Poor little soul, she knows her place,
And then sweetly, with a meek grace,
"You love me, all the same."

Sometimes we laugh when we should frown—
I know it, to our shame,
I fell for her, and she knows I am
Her slave, her sun, her moon, her lamp—
She's charm all "all the same."

Harper's Young People.

White Mice.

When Johnny and Nannie went into the country for the summer, they carried a great care with them in the shape of two white mice and six little baby mice, in a small wire trap.

Think of taking pet mice to Aunt Ann's house, with its great, old-fashioned, roaming rooms. Its scrip silts that left wide spaces under the doors, its little holes and cracks and crevices, its dead holes and mouse-holes.

If the mice ran away, there was no getting them back again; the children must face that fact to begin with, mamma said.

"I'm going to sell the young ones as soon as they are big enough, for twenty-five cents apiece," said Johnny, "so I can buy a scroll saw."

"But I think the money will be mine," Nannie reminded him.

At first they set the trap on a high shelf, and the old mice climbed out of their round window and ran about for exercise, but did not dare jump off. This answered very well till one of the baby mice climbed out too, and fell to the floor. It did not survive the accident, and the children grieved over it early.

After this Johnny brought an old bird-cage out of the garret, and set it on a small round table for the mice to live in.

It is true they could slip between the wires, but they found so much entertainment in running up and down the sides and over the top, that they did not seem likely to leave it.

The little mice grew fat, and soon climbed as well as their parents, and one and all they were afraid to jump from the table.

But one day, on returning from a long drive, the children found one young mouse missing. In the very midst of their wondering, another little mouse which Nannie was holding slipped from her fingers, and scampered as quick as a flash right under the wainscot.

There was no use hunting for them, they were not even tame like the old mice, but will-o-the-wisp little grey mouse that ever fled into the depths of a wall.

By this time Johnny's dreams of a special saw were growing dim.

Hardly a day passed without some new excitement about the mice.

Once one of the old mice got away, but he was shrewd enough to lurk in the tassel, hides, and after three days he was lured back to his sunny home by offering him the first grain of the night a small cheerly draped so that one could lie on the floor, and the other on the table with some crackers and cheese just beyond. He seemed delighted to come back.

The very next afternoon, Minnie Fay, a little girl just in the age of Nannie, came to play with the children. Johnny was spoken most of the time arranging his collections, but the little girls ran up and down, in and out, and did everything they could think of.

"Here's my bureau, that used to be mamma," said Nannie, pulling the drawers out of a rude bed and setting the a rocking-chair. "Come see the things in it, Minnie."

"In a minute," said Minnie. "Show me first how that doll's hat goes on."

Johnny didn't look out of hays a t a party under the apple trees, and after that they ran over a piece of shingles for the fun of hearing them rattle.

After a while it was a quarter of 4, the time Minnie's mother said she must come home; so Aunt Ann stepped to the door and told her. Minnie sought up her hat, said good-by, and ran down the yard.

A little later Nannie called from upstairs in great distress.

"Mamma, there's only one baby mouse left! Only one little baby mouse!"

Mamma went up to help remit, and sure enough there in the trap huddled the two old mice, and the one young one; and not another was to be found. Johnny looked very sober indeed.

"Did you take them out to play with when Minnie was here?" asked mamma.

"No, mamma; but Johnny told her we might have two, and he has taken them away with him."

"I asked her if she wanted a pair," corrected Johnny. "I meant to tell them to her if she did."

"Why, I thought you misunderstood you," said mamma, "and thought you gave them to her. But in that case, she must have had them in her pocket while she was running on the shingles, for she did not come upstairs afterward."

"Shall I go to her house and see?" asked Johnny.

"No, not yet. I'll look a little closer first."

Mamma hunted through every part of the cage, and under all the leis of paper, but the two little mice were gone utterly.

Suddenly Nannie exclaimed,—

"I thought I saw a tail! I do believe they're under that little hunch in the chair!"

They lifted the bureau. No mice were under it, but when they unlocked out the lower drawer there, among shells and pebbles, lay, crouched and cowering, a dusty little trembling mouse! And when they pulled out the second drawer, there crouched another, just as dusty and trembling, among some seeds.

Mamma caught them carefully and put them back into the cage, where the old ones seemed rejoiced to see them, and where they began to eat bread and milk as if they were almost starved.

They might have died in there," she said. "I suppose Minnie put them there to keep till she went home, and forgot them."

It was a great relief to have this excitement well over and the mice safe in their cage again, for mamma had really expected to have to send to Minnie's house, for fear she had the mice in her pocket, and might forget and sit down on them.

The night passed tranquilly, the next day dawned fair, and no more mice were missing. It seemed safe not to think anything about them, but to feel them.

But early after breakfast, Minnie Fay was seen coming up the yard in a very business-like way, with a small box in her hands. Nannie ran to meet her, but she walked right past her.

"Here, Johnny," she said, "here's your white mice." Mother won't let me keep 'em. She says money wouldn't hire her to have them in the house; and besides, our cat would get them."

Johnny stared in amazement, and opened the box. There were two little white mice, looking as running it was a wonder Mrs. Fay didn't want them. But where did they come from? He had not left three up-stairs.

"Why, I thought you left them in Nannie's bureau!" he said, confused.

"I didn't touch her bureau," answered Minnie. "I put them in my pocket, and had my handkerchief down over them."

"Why, then those are the first mice! the first mice!" cried Nannie. "They have been hiding in the bureau, and that's why they looked so dusty and so mouse."

Then the whole family had to go upstairs to look at the mice, to count them, and to compare them. Yes, there certainly were five once more!

"But they were bodiesome things," said Aunt Ann. "I think you had better give them away."

"Our little, white, darling mice! No, indeed!" exclaimed Nannie.

"Not mices we got 25 cents apiece, said Johnny, and they're worth more. Nobody knows what will happen next!

Lucy L. Branch, in Youth's Companion.

Vanderbilt's Barber Shop.

Most of the Socialists in this city are Germans. The Socialists believe in the assassination of monarchs. Now American monarchs are millionaires. William H. Vanderbilt is despitefully used by hundred millions. Still he has a German draw a keen blade over his throat every day. There is a squalid and cold old German, with a linger red nose, a few fleeting hairs on his head, and an immense mustache waxed to lunatic fine. He can be seen any morning of the year going down Fifth Avenue with the march of a disappointed Prussian grenadier and the look of a man who has had a fit on his mind. Everybody who knows him calls him Jakey, but he owns the full name of Jacob Schmitz. He generally stops at 9 o'clock to shave the magnificent nose of William K. Vanderbilt, greets the servant who opens the door blandly, and goes at once to Mr. Vanderbilt's bedside.

So much has been written about his bonus that it seems well to through anything new could be told, but many things take place, and in the south wing, adjoining Mr. Vanderbilt's dressing-room, there has been fitted up a barber shop. It is small, and in the middle of it is a barber's chair, made of dark mahogany and inlaid with mother-of-pearl. The base-boards of the room, the cornices, and the door and window frames are of the same shade of mahogany, and the mother-of-pearl decorations are identical with those on the chair. The chair is of the regulation barber-shop pattern. Old Jakey shaves the two hundred millionaire, and then drifts down the avenue, nodding gracefully to stage drivers and giving the occasional policeman whose beat he meets the Fifth Regiment salute. He shaves several other wealthy men on his way down, and finally ends with Commodore Garrison, on Park avenue. Then he goes back to his humble home in the lower Bowery, and smokes a strong German pipe and drinks beer with his wife until 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Then he wanders up town again and drinks or two old gentlemen who prefer to be shaved before dinner rather than in the morning. He returns again to the Bowery, goes to a Dutch lager beer saloon in Roosevelt street, and sits in one particular chair and at one particular table every night until 11 o'clock. Then he stalks off to bed. He is close to 60 years of age, and is said to be the best barber in New York. He gets his own prices for his work, and probably has older customers than any other barber in the world. He shaved Fernando Wood thirty years. New York letter.

THE LIME-KILN CLUB.

Some Sage Advice by Brother Gardner.

"My frens," began Brother Gardner, as he seemed to carefully adjusted that on a single lamp was upset, "I shall jun 'dge man who has truth on his side an armed with a sharpshooter dat scatters at over a ten-acre lot, ain' shoots to kill. Up to de beginnin' of de eighteenth century truth was held in great esteem among all nations, but for de last two hundred y'ars de biggest liar has taken de cake. While de liar may git along tolerably well for a few years, an even pretty half de distance to de 'dove in de same street car wid de truth teller, de mills of de gods ain' slowly grindin' away, an' all of a sudden he gits a drop an' an swept off de deep end. When you can't believe what a man says yer have no further use for him.

"I see befo' me to-night many persons who are probably liars, an' I am sorry to git up an' speak de truth an' mean what you say. Dey have a reputashun fur candor an' truthfulness dat's buy his postage-stamps an' charge de dollar, but he gits a chance to sit on de jury twice as often, an' are also selected to pass de hat when a collekshun am tooken up. I sincerely hope dat every liar within sound of my voice will at once resolve to speak de truth an' truffle but de truf from dis night on.

"Dewar of mahjahun. I dear mean dat any of you shouldn't want better sleep, better manners, an' a leetle more cash in hand, but dat yer lunger fur to be great an powerful. Seizer was amusin, an' what am he now? Seizer was mahjahun, an he died in a shed he sleeps cement when he found. Bowen Cooking was mahjahun, an at one fell swoop he was knocked into de center of de week. Ben Butler was mahjahun, an' to-day he would be forgotten except for de pieters of his face on tobacco packages. De mind mahjahun seizes any one of you heah beds' an makes you sigh for to spout taxes, invent new methods to spill your oratory from de Speaker's desk in Congress, you am a goner. A man can't be all top. Dar has got to be some roots an' limbs. While de top may show off a leetle me, it is absolutelut to be damaged to a gale.

"One of de evils of dis present generalum an its promoters is de sensation dat it gives a fellerbeen a leetle lower down to de las' nickel dat we begin to worry whether we haven't bin too extravagant. I know fur I am de fellerbeen and I desiah to say to my fellow citizens dat when a man gives dat count. It am what he saves, not what he spends, dat makes a man rich. Dat am fur you to think over, fellerbeen. I has bin in sense o' your bosses an' I has bin mahjahun myself. I has plunted knives an' napkins wid a red hander to keep dem from stealin' dat things? Are you me happy dan when de slunger was plassed in a sassar an' I jus' stood from dinner fur to see de red yan laff dressed or on dar night wid a pair o' pantaloons, an' I jus' lay de carpet on de parlor flor an' go whom was I for de kitchen stove. Sidle from yer side to put on a silk dress an' go to wilderness to sell. Stile demand. Jus' yer put a little lumberman at one winder an' stuff an ole hat into de nest. Sidle yer eyes to give a birthday party for your daughter, while your son jus' go barfuffled to make it up. Take off dem diamonds an' stuff in a few fur 2 spoons an' put de money in de bank for a rainy day. Go to de dem watches for sun buckets an' lucks, an' I feel off de side' close, an' count fur to let de world know dat dey are yer. Appreciate de wages you earn.

"Industry are de key to success, while idleness am de straight road to de poor house. De difference between a lazy man an a leeder am so small dat yer probably stops to argy over it. De man who sets down on a day-goods box to wait fur better times will never have a grave-stone reared above de place where he is finally buried. Laziness makes fur de front to git out of de ground. Industry lies down fur to rise. Laziness lopes it won't rain. Industry goes to work an' puts new shingles on de roof. Laziness drinks. Tom a mad-quickly. Industry turns de windlass an' brings up pure water from de deep well. If dar am a loafer within sound of my voice, an' I presume dar am dozens o' 'em, my advice to him is to make a change. Let him resolve from dis night on to be a different man.

"As a race we are too restless an' easy. When we am doin' well we sigh to do better. If we have 'tater an' ham fur breakfast we argy that we orter have chicken pot pie for dinner an' fried oysters fur supper. If we happen to find ourselves possessed of mo' money dan we wanted fur rent, parishioners an' dar we are, we can't rest till we pick a fifty dollar suit of clothes, or a boss dat kin trot in 2.40. We buns' set down as if we had come to stay, an' meant to lib always. When we git a job at a dollar a day we musn't let go of it to hunt fur one at ten shillings. One reason why it takes so long to catch a rabbit is bekase we have to hunt all over fur him, an' bekase he keeps lopin' about. Chose your brush-heap, an' let it be known dat you kin allers be found under it.

"In conclusion, I wish dat my consummate airuestness fur de skillful manner in which you have evaded your tretaxes. Dat is my cauldcreame remarks, an' I hope dat de seed thus sown on stony ground may sprout up an' yield seventy-five bushels to de acre.

TO TELL our own secrets is generally folly, but that folly is without guilt; to communicate those with which we are intrust it is always treachery, and treachery for the most part combined with folly.—Johnson.

ADAM, LILITH, AND EVE.

BY ROBERT BROWNING.

God said to Adam, Be not alone,
Thy wife I have taken out of thine side,
Bone of thy bone, flesh of thy flesh, fashioned,
Adam, for thee, and for thee only!
Adam replied, Thou hast spoken truth,
Call her Eve, I will call her Lilith
Lilith, the name of the night and the wild
Eve, the name of the woman left my lips.
Lilith, I call thee back from the night
The night from my side with a kiss—I crawl,
Groveling, Lilith, at your feet!

Said Eve: "Be sure I do be scarcelest;
Lilith, I fear, was fair—I am
Fairest, or else I proved he lied: united you,
Lilith, as I, shall, unalienable
Thus—this! away, serpent! Lilith, I
Hate you, and hold Adam, Lilith, mine!"

Resumed in lightning and thunder,
Flashed from his eyes to her face the wrath
Lilith, I curse that the day was made
Mine, and not thine, and I will not, dear!
Have strength for all—I the man replied
Thy rebellion, and leave Lilith.

YOU.

Hold fast your dearest with trifling
Do not my blame of all sweetness,
And choose from heaven whatever
Lest I should be jealous.

As sun I'd carry, neither low nor high,
Lest the heaven's sunless lose rich
Lest I should be jealous.

Hold all anything, poverty and Unbanished I'd be, my heart
Lest I should be jealous.

Little I crave how lovely she might be,
How crowned with every charm, how
Lest I should be jealous.

Kin foolish purposes, I know no naught
Lest I should be jealous.

There is every chance for my true but my heart,
Remembering I'd be, nor, or do,
Than all the joys that Indian a castle
Lest I should be jealous.

SHIPWRECK ON LAKE ERIE.

"Tell us how your hair turned white?" said one of the party at the fireside.

"In June, 1871," said the man with the white hair, "I left my home in Ohio for Buffalo. Being in a hurry to return, I took passage by the steamer G. P. Griffith for Toledo, on a hot Sunday afternoon. The ship carried over 100 passengers and crew. I had her ship monthly for about two hours in my berth, when I was awakened by the sound of hurrying footsteps overhead, and, looking through the ventilator to the upper deck, I saw two or three men come along dragging a hose-pipe. I partly dressed and went forward to the gangway deck, where I heard from the pilot-house above the voice of the captain crying, "Starboard! starboard! and steer for the shore."

The vessel from her course and headed for the shore, five miles away. I went back to my state-room, awakened the man in the other berth and roused so several of the sleepers. As I came out on the deck I saw smoke curl out of the side of the vessel. The command had been given to call up the passengers, and, as I came out, I saw people hurrying forward, and, they were crowding upon the forward deck, when I went back for my life jacket. Soon afterward a man came with brot, and matching food, of which I ate with a relish while he answered my questions. This was Saturday, and I had left Buffalo on the Sunday preceding. Lloyd's Tavern was fifteen miles from the city of Cleveland. I must get up. How could I lie here? I must get into the air. I must go home. I must! Why, at home denizens they mourned me as dead. I had been dead for days to them. I begged the man to bring me some clothes. He brought me some old garments that hung loose for me, with an old black slouched hat, and helped me to dress, for I was too weak to stand alone. He then placed me comfortably in an easy chair, and told me to rest awhile. At length, feeling rested and stronger, I arose and moved slowly across the room toward the open door.

"I saw a gray-headed old man coming toward me, poorly dressed, with an old hat in hand, and a stubby beard on his face. I thought that perhaps he was one of the shipwrecked. I spoke to him kindly, but he did not reply, and still advanced. I stopped; he stopped also. We stared at each other. I spoke again. His lips moved, but not a sound left them. I drew forward a chair and sat down. He sat down also, staring half fearfully at me. Great God! was that myself? That white hair—could it be mine? No, it was a wig. Some one was playing a joke upon me. I put up my hand. No, it would not come off.

"I went back and lay down upon my bed, very weak, utterly disheartened. The ship was driven slowly down to the beach, and I saw all that was left of her, with the exception of the engines, and the charred hull. Many people were gamboling, either from curiosity or for identification, as the bodies were brought in. There was a long trench in the sand, in which were placed those not identified. It appeared that the steamer had been wrecked on a sandy line, and two coroners were there quarreling over the bodies and claiming their fees.

"My friend helped me out of the wagon, and seated me on a rock close by—a mass forlorn and nameless figure I must have presented. Two men stood from where I sat and one of them spoke of having received another telegram from Cleveland inquiring if the body of the man K—had been found. A cold chill ran down my back. I opened the telegram, he read the description:

"Twenty-nine years of age, 5 feet 9 inches in height, weight about 160 pound, light hair, light eyes, fair skin, mustache just coming over his upper lip. Has the body been found, and want to identify the dead man, and want to ?? . Cleveland.

"I was 'K,' and they were hunting for my body to prepare it for burial. My friend came back just then, and I was hurried off to the hotel at Toledo. I must start for home. I said, as soon as possible. Arriving at Cleveland, I saw a carriage and horses standing before the door. Four gentlemen came out and proceeded to take me with them.

"I learned from their conversation that my companions had been sent out from Cleveland to identify the dead and find the living. Each related incidents connected with the search. They spoke of being out in boats, sometimes all night, dragging for bodies, of seeing the vivacat their villainous work, of disgraceful quarreling of the coroners, and of the disinterested and drowning out. At length one of the gentlemen said he regretted going back with no news of the young man K., whose friends were so anxious about him.

"I had believed, I told he, that he was not on the boat at all. We have seen everybody, and he must have been found, and no one answering his description is discovered.

"Where is his description? asked another.

"I have it. No, not here. I remember, I gave it to the coroners. He was, as I recollect, a young man, about 22, fair skin, blue eyes, and black hair. It is hard to go back with no information. By the way, stranger, did you see any one answering that description?

"Would you be willing to take the body without preparation for burial? I asked.

"Why, of course. Any way we could get it.

"'Well, then,' said I, 'drop me at H's house.'

"A short west up from the carriage. A few days later, after having enjoyed the delightful experience of being kissed, cried over and welcomed back from the dead, I lighted a cigar, seated myself comfortably, and had the novel experience of reading my own obituary, and a good orthodox obituary it was, too."

More Light.

The electric light is being furnished to towns and cities all over the country. It is a brilliant light in its way, but when employed for domestic and manufacturing purposes is far more costly than ordinary gas. Its one advantage over the lattice is that it does not vitiate the air as coal gas does, and hence is desirable in the summer lighting of houses. Its cost, however, is the fatal objection to it. The need of the age is a cheap light. Petroleum so far is used by the million, where gas is employed by one. Patents have been secured to make gas from petroleum at a cost only from one-third to one-half the expenditure for ordinary gas. The machines for making the gas can be supplied to every factory and family at a small cost. Petroleum is very cheap, and the gas made from it furnishes a light equal to the best in the market. This gas can be turned into power for the running of engines, and can also be used to cook food and furnish fuel to stoves.—Demorest's Monthly.

Baths and Bathing.

The skin is to be regarded as an important organ, richly supplied with blood vessels and nerves, sweat and oil-forming glands, it encases and covers all the other organs and tissues, protects from injury from without, is the chief regulator of the temperature of the body in general, and is the remover of a great many waste products.

The blood-vessels vary greatly in size and the amount of their contents according to circumstances; cold and fear, for instance, contract the vessels and the muscular elements of the skin, rendering it pale; heat, irritants, and shame, on the other hand, relax the skin and its vessels, producing a more or less deep redness.

An increased supply of blood tends to increase the amount of the perspiration, the evaporation of which keeps the body in general from becoming overheated. There is no immediate danger of sunstroke as long as the perspiration is free; and it is truly wonderful how nearly constant the temperature of the human blood remains under the most varying external circumstances, in sickness, repose or during the severest toil, on the polar sea or at the equator.

A thermometer placed in the arm-pit or under the tongue of a healthy person registers 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit, and a variation of ten degrees either way is usually fatal.

In perfect health there is scarcely a degree of variation in either direction. The perspiration also serves the purpose of softening and detaching the older and used-up layers of cells on the surface, together with particles of dirt, clothes, etc., which adhere to it. The oil forming glands keep the skin soft and supple; the roots of the hair are supplied with them, and the mucous situations they are found independently of hairy growth.

These hints as to the anatomy and physiology of the skin will serve to indicate to you the important functions which the organ has to perform, and make it easier for you to understand how cleanliness and bathing are of service.

In general terms a bath and the subsequent rubbing to dry the skin primarily increase the blood supply, or the rapidity of the blood current, or both together, in the skin; cleanse the skin from dirt and other impurities, and thus free the little openings of the sweat and oil glands from obstruction, tending to prevent the proper discharge of their secretions upon the surface; the general effect being to the promotion of the health of the body as a whole, in so far as the proper functional performance of a most important organ exerts an influence on that of all the others.

Spring is at hand, and a few words on the bathing may be timely.

A daily bath is even more important for a baby than for a grown person for cleanliness sake; and indeed, the delight which babies manifest in a properly managed bath is good evidence as to its usefulness.

At the three months of age the bath should have a temperature of ninety degrees, and may be given in a large basin or tub, or even before, or even before, according to the size of the child, a larger bath may be needed, and the temperature may be gradually reduced not more than two degrees at a time every two or three days, until eighty degrees, it may then be reduced gradually again to seventy-five degrees, but at these low temperatures the bath must of course be short.

"I tell you what, stranger, that you may know exactly what you are doing, I will make one experiment."

But, above all, observe closely the effect on the child. If the child is pale, tired, or fretful after some time afterwards, the bath was either too prolonged or too cold, or too warm.

For children between the ages of three and twelve to fifteen it is impossible to give rules that give the most general directions. Use your observation and common-sense in each individual case; children of the same family differ as much as those of different families.

Bear only in mind these few examples which I firmly believe to be safe as well as sound, and which apply to grown persons as well as to children. A daily washing of the whole body on arising in the morning with the use of soap on certain parts, at least, and with cool fresh water, followed with vigorous rubbing with not too soft a towel, is a valuable aid to health.

Let the bath be short and cautious; make it as cold as is consistent with thorough reaction, reaction meaning that the person is in a glow all over and warmer after that before the bath was taken.

A basin full of water is sufficient for a bath if it is for any good reason, cannot be used.—Youth's Companion.

Our Principal Pineries.

The principal pineries of the United States are in Maine, the northern parts of New York, Michigan, and Minnesota, Montana, Washington Territory, Oregon and California; in Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Western Georgia, Eastern Carolina, North Carolina, in West Virginia, and the western part of Virginia and Pennsylvania. The pitch pine finds its home in North and South Carolina, Alabama, and Mississippi. It is very generally believed that the utilization of the odor of the pitch pine woods is beneficial to consumptives and persons affected with catarrh. The oil made of the pine regions above named, particularly in the Atlantic States, is also favorable to such persons.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

THE poet Dryden must have received his name from an empty saloon.—Newman Independent.

HUMOR.

It is true that jokes will speak as strong as they are not paid for, what a great credit business shoes dealers must do.—The Hoosier.

BANK cashiers who are afflicted with a mania for speculation are very apt to grow careless and leave off the "s" in speculation.—Texas Siftings.

"HUSBAND, you'll have to go and call that boy yourself. I can't make him get up. He sleeps as if he were a log." "Oh, well, Maria, the boy can't help it. He's tired. He was born to be a policeman."

"DO all wood and a yard wide?" shouted a cowboy, as he gave his sombrero an extra side hitch and looked around for a foe. "That any lie," replied an unhamated female, "but you won't wash."

WHEN Mrs. Blunderbuss found that Mary Anderson had abandoned "Ingomar," she remarked: "You can't really blame her. It would have been too hard for a pooty gal like her to marry a bunchback."

"IF you lay down on a board will you not have a soft bed?" asked the joker of his wife. To which she mildly hesitatingly replied: "Of course it will be soft if you lay down on it." She was used to him.

VICTIM (to dentist)—"Good heavens! man, that is the second sound tooth you have pulled." Dentist (to victim)—"I beg your pardon, sir, but as you had only three when I commenced I think I shall make no mistake this time."

WOMAN is so built that she but sets down can throw straight. Providence, it is truly said, orders everything for the best, and, after a husband has seen one tin-cup sail harmlessly by his head, he can run before she can snatch up another.

HE lads her good-by at the door, and promised to return in one week from that day to accompany her to the parlour, when would the lad know that would mean when one "I will return, my darling," he said, as he tied a string round his finger.—Carl Pretzel's Weekly.

HER little fairy hand he pressed,
And cared not her locks he's grey;
She nestled softly on his breast,
Then sighed for hand and hovered a sigh.

"My precious Bello!" cried Claude in grief;
"Tell what like our sainted mamma!"
Speak, angel! What can give relief
Unto the sorrowing heart, Tick and beans?"
Andrew Rickard.

Ere many weeks shall pass away,
The snow,
Which now makes conifers sunny gay,
Will go;
And then the violets best of friends,
Will come
Which now beneath their leaves bends
Dumb
Will spring and shower with sweetness,
As tell that's left will be a dream.
—New York Journal.

LONG-HEADED MR. JOHNSON.

Mr. Johnson had a daughter,
Long Mamie Maid
He without some to a husband
Long Mamie Maid.
Invited every man to marry
Her he was unable.

He was wealthy, live 1st Newport,
Long Mamie Maid
Yet he was unable to marry
Her he was unable.

He was wealthy, live 1st Newport,
Long Mamie Maid
Yet he was unable to marry
Her he was unable.

Still no Sister been came a-wooing
Long Mamie Maid,
Who set terms in her satin,
Vows, sets, or wooing.

Mr. Johnson's 1st: "I never Know, or wooing of Miss
One so jaughsy as my daughter,
Long Mamie Maid."

Mrs. Johnson, talking kindly,
Could have relented rifled
Asking a bachelor no one courted
Long Mamie Maid.

Walking down the winding roadway,
Long Mamie Maid
Saw no lover on his pathway
From the lonely gale.

"Shall I need, well Mr. Johnson,
Shout by the gale,
For Mamie, the lover of Sinner-
Shall be marry Maid?"

But, instead, his house he furnished
With a differentness,
Wished was that very winter
Long Mamie Maid.
—New York Sun.

"Sair Crackit."

The following anecdote is an amusing and graphic illustration of the pawky wit so often found associated in Scotchmen:

A wealthy merchant of Edinburgh was known to be a large shareholder in the Western Bank of Scotland. The bank had "closed its doors;" that is, failed, and gone into liquidation. As Scotch law makes each shareholder personally liable for the debts of a bank, according to the number of shares he holds, the merchant's friends feared that the failure might ruin him.

He was sitting slowly up the street, two or three days after the bank's failure, when an old friend met him. The merchant was moody, and his friend seeing it put his arm on his shoulder and said, in sympathetic tones:

"O, Dawvid, auin, I'm very sorry for ye in thir business. They tell me ye're broken. Is't true?"

"Na, na, Tammas, ye're wrang," answered the merchant, lifting, with a proud shake of the head. "Ye can tell them I'm no broken yet, but I'm gey sair crackit."

A John Brown Memory.

There is one incident connected with the raid of John Brown that is not generally known. During his imprisonment at Charleston, awaiting execution, his son John, with the assistance of his mother, was trying to organize a company of resolute men who should go with him and make an attempt to rescue his father from prison. Young Brown passed several days in this city trying to organize his company, but as a sufficient number could not be got together the idea was abandoned. It is said that Mrs. Brown wanted to put on male attire and be one of the company to go to the rescue of her husband.—Philadelphia Times.

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand Opera House in Detroit, on Wednesday, the 9th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can endorse with us in an effort for a reform of abuses and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES, Chairman.
H. F. PENNINGTON, Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Gleanings.

It is a positive calamity to the consumer in this country to have anyone discover an additional product in this rich land. What should be a good gift of Providence is at once perverted into a burden. The product which may have been cheap before is immediately taxed, and the consumer made to pay for it. And this is called protection.

The wages of labor are not protected by the tariff. Wages in this country are higher than elsewhere because a man is worth more here than anywhere else in the world. He is worth more here because we have in this country free soil, free schools, a free press and various other details of freedom. He would be worth still more if we had free trade.—Boston Herald.

Wages have been materially reduced under protection. The importation of cheap foreign labor by the ship load has pressed down the rate of wages in the protected coal and iron mines to sixty-five cents a day. Free traders have not done this. It has been the work of protectionists. The latter have imported masses of cheap labor, under contract, for the sole purpose of reducing wages, and they have succeeded in accomplishing their purpose.—Jackson Patriot.

"How mildly they talk of swindles and frauds nowadays," said a republican politician to a democratic friend. "They don't say 'steal;' they say 'speculate' and 'defalcate' and 'appropriate!' " "Yes," added the democrat, "and sometimes, after a presidential election, they say 'secede-to-night!' " "Ah, yes, ahem!" said the other, "I don't remember now exactly to what you refer. Something about the famous fifteen parole, wasn't it? Yes, that had quite a run at one time." And he bade him good morning.—Free Press.

The Flint Journal says the alleged interview with Governor Begole by a representative of the Detroit Journal "was couched in language so grossly inaccurate that the governor failed to recognize it as coming from him when we showed him the paper and asked as to its reliability." The governor, it adds, "is to a certain extent in favor of free trade, and he said as much to the interviewer. But the language used and many statements originated only on the fertile brain of the representative of the Post and Tribune's evening supplement, the Detroit Journal."

A man who is thorough master of a trade carries his capital in his head. He is independent, and should be self reliant, as his services will be always in requisition, unless, perchance, he has drifted into some portion of the world where trade and manufactures are in a state of decadence. It may be an excellent thing to endow a youth with a splendid education, but often we find such young men failures in a business way. But there is no excuse for a first-class mechanic or engineer ever being found in an unfortunate plight. The man possessing a good scientific or mechanical education who cannot make his way successfully through life must be composed of very poor material.

The attitude of Manitoba presents an opportunity to the Irish patriots on this side of the border to strike a blow at the "perdition Sassenach" seemer than all the dynamite they could ship in 10 years. They will have to explode nothing more dangerous than their mouths, a form of detonation they are peculiarly clever at. Let them move to Winnipeg, become citizens there, and vote the purchase out of the Dominion and into the Union. All Canada could be wrested from Great Britain in this way if the Irish chose to do it. Half the Irishmen in New York city could improve their own fortunes and assure everything between lake Superior and Alaska by simply moving north of the 49th parallel.—Evening News.

When the smoke clears away from all these petty contests over the republican and democratic nominations, the form of Ben Butler will appear rising like an submitted static from the political chaos. The greenback convention of Maine yesterday fired the first shot for him, and the reverberation thereof will soon be heard in nearly every state in the Union, echoed back from knights of labor conventions, greenback conventions, anti-monopolist conventions, and finally in the national conventions of these elements at Chicago and Indianapolis. There will be a million votes in clearly divided static behind these various movements, and the democratic party may have the alternative presented to it of choosing between the cock-eyed Sea of Destiny and certain death.—Evening News.

"Protection" does not increase the wages of the employes, but it does greatly increase the cost of every article he has to buy. His woolen clothes cost him almost double, expects a third more, dress goods for his wife and family about 70 per cent more, woolen shawls 50% per cent more, worsted shawls 60% per cent more, etc. And if he builds a little house he is fitted $1 a thousand on lumber; 38% per cent on common window glass (8 inches than 10 by 15 inches, 20% per cent if over 10 by 15 and less than 16 by 24, and 40 per cent on glass from 16 by 24 to 24 by 36 inches. He is also tariff-taxed extortionately on nails, bolts, hooks, latches, oils, and in fact nearly every article that goes into the building. And then, when he comes to furnish his house he is forced to pay from 35 to 55 per cent on ironware, 35 to 50 on table cutlery, and 40 to 50 per cent on earthen and glassware. But, if he wishes to indulge in diamonds and other gems, the tariff-tax on these is only ten per cent. If, even, he wishes to erect a slab over the grave of wife or child the tariff-tax on the marble is 40% per cent ad valorem. Or, yes; protection is a grand thing for the working man.—Grand Rapids Democrat.

Clear and beautiful. After using Hamilton's Oriental Balm, the skin will have a fresh, clear and beautiful appearance. Entirely free from tan, freckles, and all blemishes. It is so perfectly harmless that it cannot fail to please the most fastidious. We recommend it to all the ladies. Price 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Worse than heathen are those parents who allow their children to suffer with worms when 25 cents will buy a box of Parmelee's Santonine Worm Candies which will immediately cure the child and remove the worms by dissolving them. Do you know the symptoms? Peevishness, sudden starting in sleep, bad breath, great desire for food day and night. Revise and leave nothing to regret. Price 25 cents per box. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Drive dull care away. Be cheerful, be pleasant, be happy, be healthy. Health is wealth. Use Parmelee's Blood Purifier, it acts upon the liver and kidneys, it regulates the bowels and purifies the blood, it acts upon the digestion, it carries off the old blood and makes new, and is acquiring a great reputation for the cure of scrofulous affection, boils, pimples, ulcers, and all skin diseases. $1.00 per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

A much-needed work has just made its appearance, to be issued for the use of the bluffest great American citizen during the great political events of this year. It is entitled THE HON. GRAPHICAL ANNUAL, 1884, and its contents comprise 129 sketches of eminent persons, of whom American statesmen are the majority, each title illustrated by a recent and authentic portrait. In addition are portraits and sketches of the leading men and women engaged in every department of public life, in this and other countries. Published at one dollar, the work under review is remarkably cheap as well as very convenient, entertaining and valuable. New York: L. Klopsch & Co., 32 White street.

Burgess.

A. W. Chew is census enumerator for Hayes township.

Wm. Gray and F. J. Smith are the board of review.

Jos. Lewis, Jr., raised a large barn on Monday.

Peter Kane has been very sick, but is recovering.

There seems to be a difference of opinion in regard to the location of our church.

E. H. Burgess' saw mill is running on full time.

Owing to continued ill health of Josiah Gibson, his family will remain in the south where they have been all winter.

Elder Robinson has returned from Mt. Pleasant, where he was called to bury his wife.

Sunday school commenced at Maple Grove school house last Sunday, at 11 o'clock a. m., Rev. D. H. Pierce, superintendent, John Brown, assistant.

Chas. Howe has lumber on the ground to build a residence.

Ezra Ferguson has rented the Geo. Cook place for the coming season.

Ironton.

R. M. Cherrie and John Otis are hived in town Saturday.

The prop. John Otis brought merchandise, beef, pork, and potatoes, for the iron company; also one hundred cars for their wood business. She loaded with pig iron and returned to Chicago on Thursday.

The Champlain came on Sunday and loaded with pig iron, leaving for Chicago on Monday morning.

Preaching at the school house last Sunday afternoon, by Rev. G. W. Bell; in the evening by Rev. Mr. May.

Oscar Lewis, who proposed to open a shoe store here, renting a house, buying wood, etc., has left town, leaving an unpaid board bill.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by UPRIGHT BROS., real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, where the consideration is $100 or over, for the week ending Tuesday evening, April 29, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

William F. Empey to Ellen F. Empey, e ½ of n ½, 80-27, $200.

Allen F. Slocum to Charles Todd, lot No. 3 and e ½ of s ½, 18-35, $400.

Charles Johnescheck to Sophia Johnescheck, 20 acres, 31-34-6, $100.

N. M. Card to Eliza A. Card, w frl ¼ of n ½, 5-33-5, $1,000.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crosier.

HODGE & LITZAU,
Manufacturers and Dealers in
HARNESS, SADDLES
Curry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Lap Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

Plantation Philosophy.

De shirtwed man ain' de best citizen. De sparrow-hawk is mighty keen, but he' a awful rascal.

De bes' work what a man does is allus slow. De co'n sprout doan rush its way through de clod.

De bes' man sometimes shows dat he is outer humor. De gentlest hoss sometimes tries ter bite yer when yer buckles on de saddle.

When a coward takes up de notion o' fightin', he kin whip a brave man. De snappin' dog what backs inter de fence co'ner is awful.

When a 'oman comes ter me an' tells me dat one o' de neighbors is bad, I knows dat one o' dem is bad, but de 'oman what does de talkin' is de one.

De man what am allus at work sin' his sign dat de neighborhood kin do widout him. De suck-alg dog is pokin' roun' while de fox hour' is asleep.

De prospects o' man is allus greater den de fack what follows. De fish pulls mighty hard fore yer git him outen de water an' yer think dat a ounce eat fish weighs ten pouh's.—Opie P. Read.

A Grand Stairway.

Baron de Thomsen to a New York interviewer: The Calvario Hill, just west of the city of Caracoas, the scene of the battle between the Spaniards and the patriots in June, 1821, has been made into a beautiful park. Going up the mount is what I believe to be the most magnificent stairway in the world. I have never seen anything approaching it in statelliness and beauty in Europe. It is of sandstone, 100 feet wide and eighty feet high. The park cost $2,000,000. The crest is 600 feet higher than the level of the city, and is surmounted by a statue of the "Great President," Guzman Blanco, the "illustrious American" as he is called, who has done so much to pacify and build up the country. He may have made money during this working, but the people certainly have the improvements. He is worth about $15,000,000.

Three Horses and a Pair of Mules for sale.

For Price and Terms inquire of Upright, Emrey & Co.

FOR SALE.
Eighty acres of land, with or without improvements. Also one seven-year old mare with colt; one good work horse, two Texas ponies four years old, (will break), and one five year old cow. The above stock is in good condition. Inquire of J. M. Hazel, on north shore of J. A. Bayne.

For You
NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.
THE ILLUSTRATED
BIOGRAPHICAL
1884. ANNUAL. 1884.
PRICE ONE DOLLAR.
It contains something for everybody. Its pages interest and instruct young and old. It is invaluable to the doctor, the clergyman, the lawyer, the merchant, the mechanic, the farmer, the politician, the statesman, the mechanic and in the school they who begin to use the Cyclopedia of an almost character and sense for models to pattern after.
THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.
Within its pages may be found nearly
200 PORTRAITS, MEN AND WOMEN who have executed and are still exerting potent influences in varied directions.
While pre-eminently an American publication, treating officially of EMINENT AMERICANS, it contains the portraits and lives of the most PROMINENT EUROPEANS of the day.
The pages familiarize the reader with the features and the lives of prominent Crowned and Uncrowned Rulers, Members of the Cabinet, Statesmen, Warriors, Navigators, Ex-Presidents, Governors, Ministers, Railroad Magnates, Actors, Editors, Millionaires, Philanthropists, Poets, Orators, Advocates, Irish Agitators, Cardinals, Judges, Philanthropists, Orators, Bishops, and others in all the various walks of life, INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES,
AMONG WHOM WE MAY MENTION BLAINE, ARTHUR, BEAVER, BAYARD, BUTLER, BEECHER, CHAMBERLAIN, CONKLING, CARLISLE, BOYNTON, CHURCHILL, HANCOCK, HAMLIN, HOLMAN, HOLDEN, HENDRICKS, HOLLIDAY, LOGAN, TILDEN, TURPIE, HENDERSON, HOLMAN, LOGAN, TAYLOR, TURPIE.
EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.
Outshining all previous works, whether Biographical, Historical, or Miscellaneous, in the number of its illustrations, it has, nevertheless, kept the price within the reach of all. THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL may insulate from the sources of which have contributed, purposely to the thousands of which have made it. The work is PROMINENT WOMEN which occupy an important place in this universally interesting volume, contribute an encouraging and inspiration to the sex, and show the reader that woman has a noble mission, and that she is well able to fulfil it.
If you would become acquainted with the face and features of the men and women whose names have become familiar as everybody, get a copy of THE
BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL
Sent postpaid on receipt of ONE DOLLAR. J. S. KLOPSCH & CO., Publishers, No. 32 White Street, New York.

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.
Have just received a fine stock of
Ladies' French Kid Shoes,
Made in the Latest Styles.
Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,
A Large Stock always on hand.
Men's Fine Walking Shoes,
LATEST STYLES.

GILBERT & MOULTON,
EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.
House, Sign, and Fresco Painting,
GRAINING AND KALSOMINING.
Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

Advance Lumber Company
Are now prepared to do
CUSTOM SAWING
Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of
Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.
GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO. ADVANCE, MICH.

EVERYTHING
IN THE LINE OF
Furniture and Undertakers Goods
CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF
HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.
CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

FOR SALE.
SECOND HAND
Stationary Engine and Boiler
Size of cylinder, seven in. Boiler 12 feet long, 42 in. diameter, 48 flues. The engine has been thoroughly overhauled, and is pronounced as good as new. Price and terms to suit purchaser.
Go of Washburn & Aubert, at the Machine shop.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.
The advertiser has been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, he anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it he will send a copy of the prescription, free of charge, with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for coughs, colds, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. Parties wishing the prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 195 Penn St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

NEW STORE.
M. V. DYER,
PROPRIETOR,
ADVANCE, MICH.
A FULL LINE OF
Groceries, Provisions,
And Fancy Dry Goods.
Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the
Lowest Cash Price,
For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and
Examine Our Prices.
We guarantee satisfaction.
J. P. DYER, Agent.

Fresh Oysters
Just Received.
300 pounds Candy and Nuts.
Two Barrels Fresh Butter.
Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.
Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents.
AT L. L. CARR'S.

EAGLE CLOTHING HOUSE.
GEO. W. MILLER
DEALER IN CLOTHING,
GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS, ETC.
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.
NEW GOODS.
I am pleased to say that my
Spring Stock
Is ready for inspection. Come and see them, and when you want a suit of clothes that will FIT YOU, call on me. I can show where to find them. My stock is all of the
LATE STYLES,
AND
Price to Correspond With the Times.
GEO. W. MILLER.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 1, 1884.

Business Announcements.

Read Upright, Emery & Co.'s locals next week.

Upright, Emery & Co.'s locals will make you laugh next week.

PAY UP.—Delinquent subscribers, who are expected to pay as something on subscription, if only a part of what they owe, we have bills for material, stock, etc., which must be paid at once.

Upright, Emery & Co will tell you something interesting about their new goods next week.

Call and see Upright, Emery & Co., next week.

Provision Market.

Retail prices to consumers, as corrected every Wednesday evening by UPRIGHT, EMREY & CO., general dealers.

FLOUR, per bbl, $6.00, $7.00, and $8.00.
CORN MEAL, per cwt, bolted $2.00; unbolted, $1.75.
HAY, per ton, $8@9.
OATS, per bu, 50c.
GROUND FEED, per cwt, $1.75.
APPLES, per bu, $1.00.
POTATOES, per bu, 50c.
ONIONS, per bu, $1.00.
BUTTER, per lb, 25c.
EGGS, per doz, 10c.
LARD, per lb, 12@15c.
HAMS, per lb, 12@15c.
SALT PORK, per lb, 10c.
SHOULDERS, per lb, 12½c.
WHITE FISH, per bbl, $5.
MACKEREL, per lb, 10c.
CHEESE, 20c.
WINTER WHITE OIL, 25c.
FARMERS' PRODUCE in good demand.

Fresh Meats from the Market.

MEAT, Steak, 12½@18c; fresh pork, 12½@15c; roasts, 6@8c; sausage, 12c; hams, 16c; shoulders, 10c.
TALLOW, 6@7c.

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE, Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix	6.30 a. m.	2.00 p. m
Arrive East Jordan	8.30 a. m.	4.00 p. m
Leave East Jordan	9.00 a. m.	4.30 p. m
Arrive Charlevoix	11.00 a. m.	6.30 p. m

Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Str. NORTH STAR, Capt. Geo. R. Thompson

Leave Charlevoix	8.30 a. m.	2.00 p. m
Arrive Boyne	8.30 a. m.	4.00 p. m
Leave Boyne	9.00 a. m.	4.30 p. m
Arrive Charlevoix	12.00 a. m.	6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.

Steamer CHARLE HELLE, Capt. A. H. Bennett

East Jordan, lv	7.00a	Harbor Springs	1.30pm
Charlevoix	9.00am	Petoskey	2.30pm
Petoskey	11.00am	Charlevoix	4.30pm
Harbor Springs	12.30pm	East Jordan, ar	6.30pm

Local News Brevities.

Personal Paragraphs.

Mrs. Dr. Graves is home again.

Frank Shandler is at E. H. Green's office this week.

J. F. Porter moved his family to East Jordan this week.

Will Badour is back in his old place in the business.

R. See and wife went to Chicago on Tuesday, via G. R. & I. R. R.

E. W. Miller returned from Chicago, via the Lakeshore, last Sunday.

H. A. Thompson, of Boyne, gave the JOURNAL a call last Thursday.

Amasa Dwyer, of Advance, made the JOURNAL a call on Wednesday.

Mrs. A. E. Pickard, of East Jordan, went to Milwaukee on the Lakeshore.

Chas. Swallow is home again arriving on the lakeshore from Chicago on Sunday.

A. C. Fessenden and Chas. Shepard of Boyne, made the JOURNAL a call on Monday.

Messrs. Dan Jerrue and Jos. Howell, of East Jordan, gave the JOURNAL a call on Wednesday.

Street commissioner Weyburn, is suffering from an abscess in the back, combined with rheumatism.

S. J. Logan has gone to Muskegon this week, to engage as a saw filer. He takes his family with him.

Miss Celia Nicholls goes this week to visit friends in Trempealeau, Wis. She will be absent about two months.

H. Bacon, of Bay Springs, the purchaser of the Addis lumber property, gave the JOURNAL a call on Monday.

Geo. W. Miller and wife went to Chicago on the Lakeshore, Mon. M. will remain several weeks visiting friends.

Miss May Papineau goes next Monday to take charge of a school, across the arm from Ironton, for a four months term.

Mr. H. Van Auken, of Potterville, Eaton county, who has been visiting his brother Rev. C. F. Van Auken, returned home last week.

Col. O. F. Wisner, who has been stopping at home for some weeks, returned to Charlevoix last Friday, and expects to remain until the next term of court.

Our young friends, Mr. F. F. Cole and Miss Flo Allsile were married recently, and have it so quiet that but few know anything about it. But Frank having obtained employment in Boyne Falls, now comes and "claims his own," and they will make their home in that place for the summer. May prosperity go with them.

Notes and News.

McCabe's new hack has arrived.

D. S. Way makes a good tin type.

Oh, where is the street-sprinkling man?

Will Charlevoix celebrate the 4th this year?

East Jordan is in the midst of a building boom.

The familiar sound of John Nicholls' mill is again heard.

Hand in any item of news that you may have. Every little helps.

Quite a number of Jordanites were in town Monday and Tuesday.

There were 20 persons admitted to the M. E. church, last Sunday.

E. M. Clark is leveling the bluff between his residence and the channel.

D. Sherwood is preparing to build a fine residence on the Upright addition.

The musical ring of the carpenter's hammer is now heard in every direction.

Rev. J. T. Iddings will preach at Black's school house next Sunday at 3 o'clock.

A. E. Pickard of East Jordan, sold 420 dozen eggs to our merchants last Tuesday.

Geo. Nowlan is building a residence on the lot east of Dr. Lewis on the north side.

Jos. Hyland is building a residence on Newman street, two story upright with a wing.

R. W. Miller brought five horses from Chicago, and has already sold four of them.

R. W. Kane and H. S. Harsha have been appointed census enumerators for this township.

A five year old child of Wm. Heiser fell off a wood pile one day last week and broke her arm.

According to the Kalamazoo Telegraph, Traverse City is now the "big village" of Michigan.

A gang of 240 men are at work constructing the Lansing, Alma, Mt. Pleasant & Northern road.

Prof. M. L. Smith is preparing to give a concert at the opera house on Tuesday evening, May 12th.

It is reported that John Otis has sold the Manistee furnace to Messrs. Dexter & Noble, of Elk Rapids.

In a wrestling contest between a grocer and a butcher the other day, the former was laid on his back.

Gilbert, the painter, of East Jordan, has taken a partner, and the firm name now stands Gilbert & Moulton.

Under the editorial management of W. W. Ashley, the Eaton Rapids Times is making steady improvement.

The town board overruled the letting of bridge tending by the street commissioner, and ordered a new letting.

School commenced Monday in the Hall district with Miss Anna Metcelf, of Charlevoix, as teacher.—Bellaire Breeze.

Daniel Baker, age 13, died of malignant diphtheria Monday night, and was buried Tuesday without public services.

Dan. Jerrue, of East Jordan, has bought Harrington & Smith's stock of liquors, the latter having failed to get a license.

The underbrush has been cleared from portions of the Upright addition, making a vast improvement in appearance.

Geo. B. Pratt is in Charlevoix again this week, in the interest of H. R. Page & Co.'s history of the Traverse region.

It is reported that there are strong indications of oil on L. D. Bartholomew's land, one mile southwest from Charlevoix.

In mentioning new buildings on the south terrace last week, we unintentionally omitted Luke Hallett's residence on May street.

The poles for the telephone between Charlevoix and Petoskey are being set this week, and the line will be in operation in a few days.

Practical sermon at M. E. Church next Sunday morning. No service at night on account of union temperance meeting at opera house.

L. E. Allen has a big job of pile driving up the arm,—booms for the Pine Lake Lumber Co., and booms and dock for Stoepel & Co.

We have tried a bottle of Hamilton's cough balsam, advertised in another column, and can recommend it as giving quick and sure relief.

Rev. C. F. VanAuken meets with success in soliciting financial aid for the Congregational church, and on Tuesday received, among others, one subscription of $150, from a person not a member of the church or society.

A bottom of marl renders necessary the rebuilding of the foundation for the engine at the factory, and the machinery is not running this week.

Geo. Miles is making the Vanderbilt Review a credit to the town, and deserves a better advertising patronage. Its local news department is well filled.

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever." That explains the exact condition of the state capital lawn and grounds which never looked more beautiful at this season of the year.—Lansing Republican.

It's getting rather late for sugar parties, and too early for strawberries and cream, so to fill in the interval we shall have to cook the band out, in some way, occasionally for open air concerts.

Every man, woman, and child who has occasion to push a baby cab on the street will interpose an objection to building sidewalk with the planks lengthwise, making cracks for the wheels to run into.

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever," will apply to Mrs. John Nicholls' display of house plants. At one time last week she had nine large amaryllis blossoms, besides numerous other plants.

An order has been given for a full page portrait of James J. Strang in the forthcoming history of the Traverse region, by H. R. Page & Co., and it will doubtless be accompanied by a brief sketch of his life.

St. Johns has done itself proud, having succeeded in raising $60,500 for the new Lansing, Alma, & Mt. Pleasant railroad. The largest individual subscription, that of Robert M. Steele, was for $8,000.—Ex.

D. S. Way has commenced operations in the picture business by taking views of the harbor and principal business places on busy days, showing up the town in good shape. These pictures will be on sale for the resorters, when they arrive.

Hodge & Litzau, successors to J. E. Wood & Co., harness makers, have a card in this paper. We understand both gentlemen, are practical workmen, and will give the business their personal supervision. They have engaged the services of Will Badour.

Rev. W. G Puddifoot is expected to preach in Mr. Van Auken's place at the opera house next Sunday morning. For the Sunday school he will give a "chalk talk." In the evening he will address the union temperance meeting at the opera house.

Twelve young men have joined their fortunes under the name of "The Charlevoix Young Men's Cornet Band," and hope soon to display their ability by giving open-air concerts. A little competition in this may be the means of giving us plenty of music this summer.

Thirty five "little folks" attended a birthday party given to May Orrell last Saturday evening, at the family residence on Main street, and enjoyed two hours of pleasure followed by ice cream and cake. In the program was a miniature "gypsy garden," similar to the one at the opera house recently.

There is displayed in Geo. Miller's window a handsome feather wreath, size about 4x5 feet, made 25 years ago by Mrs. D. M. Colby, from feathers collected by a friend on a trip around the world. It was well made and has been well kept, and is one of the most beautiful specimens of that kind of work we ever saw.

The supreme court has adopted a rule that when a person wants a rehearing of a case he must print his reasons for it and serve a copy on each of the judges and on his opponent; and within five days after such service is made the court will determine whether a reargument will be granted. This precludes all open or public discussion of such requests and will save much time.—Lansing Republican.

Ward off the first attack of any disease and you need never fear a dangerous condition. If those who are troubled with dyspepsia, headache, dizziness, pains in back and side, constipation, excessive flow of urine, insomnia, fitful, lack of circulation of the blood, would use Parmelee's Dyspepsia Bitters, Liver and Kidney Cure they would not be in constant fear of sickness, for they not only cure Diabetes, Bright's disease, &c., but prevent them by removing the first symptoms. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

J. L. HURD & CO.
Successors to A. Fox.
Having completed their inventory, find that they have over $6,000 worth of Dry Goods, Dress Goods, Fancy Goods, Knit Goods, Notions, Ladies and Gents Underwear, Woolens, Satinets, Furnishing Goods, Clothing, Hats and Caps, Crockery and Glassware, Groceries and Provisions, etc. etc.
Bargains in Everything.
These goods were bought at a great sacrifice, many of them have been placed in stock during the past three months and are fresh, desirable goods but must be moved to make room for spring stock.
Going out of Clothing. Over 150 men's and boy's suits in medium and light weight goods, well made and excellent styles, offered at an immense discount to close. $20 suits at $14, $18 suits at $13, $10 suits at $6 and all others goods equally low. Remember that most of these goods are of the latest styles and best make. Step in and compare the goods and prices. J. L. HURD & CO.
Timothy and Clover Seed, Feed, &c., on hand. Sole Agents for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

Miscellaneous Marine.

A large fleet of vessels arrived Saturday night and Sunday.

The first boat through the straits was a steam barge bound up Thursday, 24th.

The Clara Belle had an extra cargo of flour and feed for East Jordan on Tuesday, her first trip.

Notwithstanding the combined opposition, the tug Martin gets a full proportion of the business.

The Champlain arrived Sunday afternoon. With her new coat of paint she is a fine looking boat.

A warm wind from the southeast Sunday morning drove out the remaining fragments of ice from the bay.

The Nellie Booth makes two trips a day to East Jordan and South Arm, stopping at all intermediate points.

The scow A. R. Upright cleared for Manistee last Tuesday, and returned on Saturday laden with shingles and lath.

On Monday morning the North Star commenced two regular trips a day to Boyne, stopping at intermediate points.

Two boats will be at the straits next winter; and it ought to be possible to keep a passage open with two, and plenty of nitro glycerine.

The boiler of the Gazelle has been covered with asbestos. The woodwork has been repainted, inside and outside, and she makes a fine appearance.

On Tuesday morning the Clara Belle commenced her regular trips to Petoskey and Harbor Springs. She finds a large freight business on that route.

The Clara Belle gave a complimentary excursion to East Jordan last Saturday, patronized by the writers among others. She made the round trip in good time.

On her first trip, on Wednesday morning, the Gazelle beat her schedule time by considerable. This will be gratifying to her numerous passengers, if it continues.

An up-lake traveler reports the North Star as one of the most accommodating boats in these parts. The chances for such accommodation on that route are many, and the captain doubtless knows how to make friends.

The light-house tender Dahlia is engaged setting buoys and furnishing light keepers with oil and other supplies, and after this work is done we hope to see her bring a gang of men to commence operations on Harbor Point light-house.—Ex.

The following are the clearances from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the custom house for the week ending Tuesday, April 29:

27—Prop. John Otis, 460 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.
28—Prop. Champlain, 476 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.
28—Sc. L. M. Mason, 5,500 cedar posts, Upright Emery & Co., to Chicago.
28—Sc. Julia B. Merrill, 7,000 railroad ties, Upright, Emery & Co. to Racine.
28—Sc. Alvin Bronson, 300 cords wood, Upright, Emery & Co., to Milwaukee.
28—Sc. Louis Emmanuel, 130 cords wood, Upright, Emery & Co., to Milwaukee.
28—Sc. Salana, 75 cords wood, M. Sandverson, to Milwaukee.
28—Sc. Hyrogles, 5,000 cedar posts, A. Fox, to Milwaukee.
28—Sc. Mocklugford, 115 cords wood, Upright, Emery & Co., to Milwaukee.
29—Sc. The Hope, 2 tons rags and ropes, 2 tons iron, Frank Smith, to Milwaukee.
29—Sc. Bell, 99 cords wood, D. Salmburn, to Milwaukee.
29—Sc. Almapee, 100 cords wood, S. Parker, to Milwaukee.
29—Sc. Phoenix, 135 cords wood, Upright, Emery & Co., to Milwaukee.
29—Sc. Sea Gem, 2,000 railroad ties, T. D. Smith, to Milwaukee.
29—Sc. Evening Star, 165,000 feet hardwood lumber, Mahogany Manufacturing Co., to Sheboygan, Wis.
30—Sc. J. C. Bauer, 130 cords wood, John Wright, to Milwaukee.

The following is a summary of the shipments for April:

Pig iron, tons	1,322
Railroad ties	18,000
Cedar posts	11,000
Hardwood lumber, feet	165,000
Hemlock lumber, feet	30,000
Wood, cords	1,298
Mags and rope, tons	5

Council Proceedings,

CHARLEVOIX, April 24, 1884.

Council met pursuant to adjournment. Roll called; quorum present.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

A petition signed by A. R. Upright and others, for a sidewalk on south side of Antrim street, between State street and state road, was presented and referred to committee on streets and sidewalks.

A petition was presented, asking the right to build sidewalk by laying stringers crosswise and plank lengthwise, instead of stringers lengthwise and plank crosswise, as heretofore ordered. Referred to committee.

A petition signed by Chas. Kelly and others for a 4 ft. walk on west side of Grant street between Clinton and Antrim streets, was presented and referred.

Bill of R. Cooper, one year's salary as marshall, $80, one year salary as fire warden $10. Referred to committee on finance.

Bill of Geo. H. Hill, rent of barn for use as engine house, seven months at $3, $21. Referred to committee on finance.

Bond of village marshal presented, approved and placed on file.

Saloon liquor bond of Chas. Chaloupka, with John Bell and Robert Tuck as sureties, was presented and approved.

Harrison Berdan was appointed harbor master and fire warden for the ensuing year.

A motion to make the marshal's salary $100 per year, was laid on the table till next meeting.

On motion adjourned to May 1st.

Petit Jurors.

The following is the list of petit jurors drawn for the May term of the circuit court:

Bear Lake—John Small, Richard Morris.
Boyne Valley—Wm. Vleit, Anthony Jefferson.
Chandler—T. J. Stradling, W. A. Witherbee.
Charlevoix—Charles Swallow, A. F. Myers.
Evangeline—Edward Starmer, E. E. Tuttle.
Hayes—Jones Lewis, Moses Cooper.
Hudson—A. L. Simons, Wm. Gillet.
Marion—Geo. Cooper, A. Beattie.
Melrose—H. Bennett, Geo. Ward ruff.
Norwood—D. Stafford, G. Mello.
South Arm—J. Stevenson, E. A. Reed.
Springvale—A. G. Blaine, Wilson John Newville.

CURSE OF LAND MONOPOLY.

The Shameful Way in Which Our Public Domain Has Been Squandered.

Evils of the Land Grant System Shown Up by Hon. William S. Holman.

During the debate in the National House of Representatives on the Post-office appropriation bill, the Hon. W. S. Holman, of Indiana, exhibited tables, compiled from official reports, showing that in the period embraced between June 30, 1862, and March 4, 1875, the enormous aggregate of twenty two hundred million acres of our public lands had been voted away by Congress in aid of railways, the total length of the railroads for which the grants were made being 20,863 miles. Mr. Holman, in discussing this matter, spoke as follows:

What are the conditions on which these grants were made? What rights has the Government reserved in giving away the common wealth of the people? There are some reservations, two of them, indeed, which are valuable, I admit, but still something insignificant of these grants, running through all the laws by which these grants were made, were somewhat in terms but still substantially the same:

"And the said railroad shall be and remain a public highway for the use of the Government of the United States, free from all tolls or other charges upon the transportation of any property or troops of the United States."

This is the first right reserved to the Government, and even here in the beginning it manifests purpose. Undoubtedly Congress undertook by these terms that the railroad should transport the "property and troops" of the United States free of charge, but you observe a slight ambiguity in the language. Some have doubted whether the Supreme Court has decided that the Government has the right to put its property on boats and cars on these railroads and to have employes transport its property and troops free of charge (which is largely added), but if the value of transports the Government's property and troops then the Government shall pay the corporate company 50 per cent. of the usual rate of transportation. This was decided in the case of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad Company vs. The United States, and yet the land grant to that company was made four years after Congress had, by a joint resolution I had the honor to introduce in 1862, declared that the transporting of the troops employed to that reservation was that the land-grant corporation "should transport the property and troops of the United States free of charge."

The other right reserved in all these grants is in less ambiguous language and in all the above instances:

"The said road shall transport the mails of the United States at such price as Congress shall by law direct."

Now, these two provisions cover all the rights reserved to the United States in consideration of these imperial grants. Contrary to the manifest intention of Congress, these corporations have under the extraordinary decision I have quoted received millions of dollars from year to year for transporting your "property and troops," and are still annually receiving large sums and will for all time. But, as I have shown you, we have the clear and unquestionable right in the future to fix the price for land-grant railroad transportation. Instead of paying fifty per cent of the amount you pay to railroad companies which built their own railroads a reasonable price is to be paid by the Government in cash for its transportation. Such were virtually built by the Government; I think it is, and over than reasonable.

There are other grants which I have not included in either of the foregoing tables, where not a specified of earth has been dug in the construction of a railroad, yet the lands are withdrawn from entitlement and claimed by the corporations, although the grants have long since forfeited. The forfeiture of these grants will of course be declared, if all of these grants (over 105,000,000 acres, including over 18,000,000 that House has already declared forfeit) are beyond any reasonable question forfeited, and the declaration of that forfeiture by Congress is demanded by the highest consideration of public duty, economy, honesty, and justice to the people. Even to the extent these land-grant railroads commented to the first table were completed, you paid them, as I have shown, over and over, in the price of every the your mails. This bill would add to these roads, to the extent they are entitled to the lands granted and incurring the traffic-expense, even to the Treasury annually, I think, not a million of dollars, perhaps more; but the restoration of the forfeited grants to the public domain is of far greater moment than any such monetary consideration; so that this bill unanimously declares that none of the provisions "shall be construed to waive or impair any right now existing in favor of the United States." While these corporations generally withhold the obtaining of patents for their lands to avoid local taxation, and are in the main holding their lands until the Government lands shall be exhausted, they will take patents, as, up to June 30, 1873, for 47,745,341 acres. If in the aggregate of these grants the Government has reserved any rights, it has not, so far as I have yet been able to discover, exercised them in the interest of the people. Instead of controlling these corporations in the exercise of their rights and in enforcing the rights of the people, the Government has been the mere creature of these corporations and exercised its authority and its immense power, so far, at the evil does not terminate there, but under this pernicious system of grants, as an inevitable and natural result, land monopoly comes rife, the land robbers hold the land, and the lands left after taking out the great grants, the lands left under this system from system for the people, are seized upon by the vigilant land-robbing capitalist and his skillful and unscrupulous agents. Your homestead ranks everywhere through your most fertile lands, on the borders of your streams and through fruitful valleys, and even before the laboring men, your landless peasantry, can reach your frontier, with their wives and children, lone for settlers of the new country, they find the best of the public domain taken.

Every fertile valley, every inviting mile, even the alternate sections reserved in the land grants, and far beyond are taken up by speculators, and even on those grants your pre-emption law, through fraud and perjury, a made to do service in this most infamous proceeding. Opening up the wilderness, for whom? For some poor settler, when later would make the land fruitful, and where, affluent, a vast, virtuous industry, would give strength and stability to our country? No, sir; to the land robber and the land-holding barons who move on scarcely alongside the homeless population. You may travel for hundreds of miles on these grants and not see a home, see human habitation, every acre of the land has already consumed by the land-grant corporation "should transport the property and troops of the United States free of charge."

The other right reserved in all these grants is in less ambiguous language and in all the above instances:

"The said road shall transport the mails of the United States at such price as Congress shall by law direct."

Now, these two provisions cover all the rights reserved to the United States in consideration of these imperial grants. Contrary to the manifest intention of Congress, these corporations have under the extraordinary decision I have quoted received millions of dollars from year to year for transporting your "property and troops," and are still annually receiving large sums and will for all time. But, as I have shown you, we have the clear and unquestionable right in the future to fix the price for land-grant railroad transportation. Instead of paying fifty per cent of the amount you pay to railroad companies which built their own railroads a reasonable price is to be paid by the Government in cash for its transportation. Such were virtually built by the Government; I think it is, and over than reasonable.

There are other grants which I have not included in either of the foregoing tables, where not a specified of earth has been dug in the construction of a railroad, yet the lands are withdrawn from entitlement and claimed by the corporations, although the grants have long since forfeited. The forfeiture of these grants will of course be declared, if all of these grants (over 105,000,000 acres, including over 18,000,000 that House has already declared forfeit) are beyond any reasonable question forfeited, and the declaration of that forfeiture by Congress is demanded by the highest consideration of public duty, economy, honesty, and justice to the people. Even to the extent these land-grant railroads commented to the first table were completed, you paid them, as I have shown, over and over in the price of every the your mails. This bill would add to these roads, to the extent they are entitled to the lands granted and incurring the traffic-expense, even to the Treasury annually, I think, not a million of dollars, perhaps more; but the restoration of the forfeited grants to the public domain is of far greater moment than any such monetary consideration; so that this bill unanimously declares that none of the provisions "shall be construed to waive or impair any right now existing in favor of the United States." While these corporations generally withhold the obtaining of patents for their lands to avoid local taxation, and are in the main holding their lands until the Government lands shall be exhausted, they will take patents, as, up to June 30, 1873, for 47,745,341 acres. If in the aggregate of these grants the Government has reserved any rights, it has not, so far as I have yet been able to discover, exercised them in the interest of the people. Instead of controlling these corporations in the exercise of their rights and in enforcing the rights of the people, the Government has been the mere creature of these corporations and exercised its authority and its immense power, so far, at the evil does not terminate there, but under this pernicious system of grants, as an inevitable and natural result, land monopoly comes rife, the land robbers hold the land, and the lands left after taking out the great grants, the lands left under this system from system for the people, are seized upon by the vigilant land-robbing capitalist and his skillful and unscrupulous agents. Your homestead ranks everywhere through your most fertile lands, on the borders of your streams and through fruitful valleys, and even before the laboring men, your landless peasantry, can reach your frontier, with their wives and children, lone for settlers of the new country, they find the best of the public domain taken.

Every fertile valley, every inviting mile, even the alternate sections reserved in the land grants, and far beyond are taken up by speculators, resulting in the great private estates; and your pre-emption law, through fraud and perjury, a made to do service in this most infamous proceeding. Opening up the wilderness, for whom? For some poor settler, when later would make the land fruitful, and where affluent, a vast, virtuous industry, would give strength and stability to our country? No, sir; to the land robber and the land-holding barons who move on scarcely alongside the homeless population. You may travel for hundreds of miles on these grants and not see a home, see human habitation, every acre of the land has already consumed by the land-grant corporation "should transport the property and troops of the United States free of charge."

Under the old time, lenient system of our fathers and of the early period of our age every quarter section a citizen could have been adorned by the home of an independent freeholder and the presence of his wife and children. Time will develop the great lands problem, the greatest problem of our country possible, even if that was not its original purpose, and will cause the greatest number of mankind upon the latter. Even now a list of some of them is easily made. Let me give this list because a republic: I cite the following from the Chicago Times, a leading journal of the Pacific coast:

"Behind the pioneers of civilization, the Indian land grants, and far beyond are taken up by speculators, resulting in the great private estates; and your pre-emption law, through fraud and perjury, a made to do service in this most infamous proceeding. Opening up the wilderness, for whom? For some poor settler, when later would make the land fruitful, and where affluent, a vast, virtuous industry, would give strength and stability to our country? No, sir; to the land robber and the land-holding barons who move on scarcely alongside the homeless population. You may travel for hundreds of miles on these grants and not see a home, see human habitation, every acre of the land has already consumed by the land-grant corporation "should transport the property and troops of the United States free of charge."

Under the old time, lenient system of our fathers and of the early period of our age every quarter section a citizen could have been adorned by the home of an independent freeholder and the presence of his wife and children. Time will develop the great lands problem, the greatest problem of our country possible, even if that was not its original purpose, and will cause the greatest number of mankind upon the latter. Even now a list of some of them is easily made. Let me give this list because a republic: I cite the following from the Chicago Times, a leading journal of the Pacific coast:

"Behind the pioneers of civilization, the Indian land grants, and far beyond are taken up by speculators, resulting in the great private estates; and your pre-emption law, through fraud and perjury, a made to do service in this most infamous proceeding. Opening up the wilderness, for whom? For some poor settler, when later would make the land fruitful, and where affluent, a vast, virtuous industry, would give strength and stability to our country? No, sir; to the land robber and the land-holding barons who move on scarcely alongside the homeless population. You may travel for hundreds of miles on these grants and not see a home, see human habitation, every acre of the land has already consumed by the land-grant corporation "should transport the property and troops of the United States free of charge."

Under the old time, lenient system of our fathers and of the early period of our age every quarter section a citizen could have been adorned by the home of an independent freeholder and the presence of his wife and children. Time will develop the great lands problem, the greatest problem of our country possible, even if that was not its original purpose, and will cause the greatest number of mankind upon the latter. Even now a list of some of them is easily made. Let me give this list because a republic: I cite the following from the Chicago Times, a leading journal of the Pacific coast:

Illinois Central Company, New York	1,595,000
Illinois Central Company, New York, in trust for Edward Ball not a citizen, in Florida	1,000,000
Illinois Central Company, in Mississippi	2,900,000
Marquis of Tweedale	1,760,000
Phillips, Stanford & Co., London	1,000,000
Georgia syndicate	1,100,000
Dutch syndicate, Amsterdam, Sir Rogers Tweedy, London, and Hon. Hermann H. Evans, of London, in Mississippi	700,000
Duke of Sutherland	425,000
Duke of Bedford, Russell, in Kansas	300,000
W. J. Ker, Winchester, England, and Alexander Grant, of London, in Kansas	95,000
English syndicate represented by Oscar Rives, Washington	110,000
Dr. Jules Beaver, of Baltimore, Nova Scotia, and Sir Edward Watkin, of Boston, in Florida	500,000
A. Bayeux, Dunkirk Consul, in Mississippi	40,000
Missouri Land Company, at Lonsdale, Ark.	100,000
Total	20,547,000

Twenty million seven hundred and forty-seven thousand acres! And the land-grant system was to enable the home-seeker to reach the public land! I admit the railroad land grants are not responsible for two of the purchases set forth in the above list, but, including those, here is a territory which in the aggregate is nearly as large as the great State of Indiana, held by three corporations, lords, and capitalists, every acre of which, the two tracts omitted, I am sure, is within the land-grant regions, and entered unquestionably through the aid of that infamous system. I have before me a list of the land purchases by thirty American capitalists in the land-grant sections, ranging from 5,000 to 2,000,000 acres, aggregating 20,000,000 acres. For what purpose did these men buy these lands? Is it to carry out the policy of the Government in the execution of the pretensions exemption of that railroad grants to invite attention to the priority possessions it could place within their reach? Is it why enter into deal? Is it why lobby at Senate or House was suspected these grants, making great after great until they permeated every fertile region of the public domain, and called forth the voice clamored the political "sediment of the Union, creed any other result? This, sir, a magnificent public possession, the grandest on the face of the globe, which, under the statesmanship of any of the great parties which contended the destinies of our republic prior to 1861, would have furnished a site retreat, a place for labor, liberty and prosperous homes for industrious people, and a source of revenues to come, has been turned over to an accursed monopoly within a brief period as twenty two years. The honeyed law, the wisest and most humane act of legislation since Moses gave record the law that constituted into usurpation the most merciless fragment of the human race! "Ye shall divide the land by lot for an inheritance among your families: to the more ye shall give the more inherit ance, and to the fewer ye shall give the less inheritance." The homestead? What is mockery of human belief. Do we the Senate for real triumph had come Congress, in the recklessness of absolute power, yielding to the sordid motive of robbing the common wealth of the people to enrich private fortunes, land granted to promote the wealth to homes and homes lost, since the homestead law was intended to do, and, in the common understanding of the people, was, and yet that law is.

In gentlemen who defend the land-grant system and compute a bit, yet I must we seek solace in some output tandem on the men who have obtained the benefit of these grants (eager, in estimating the value of these grants, that in a government like ours homes and intelligence are not only necessary to the well-being of the whole people, but indispensable to the peace and order of society and the stability of government) in the ghastly that system can be transgressed Time was seen the natural engineers and contractors. In the new theory of progress through baronial grants problems such trouble.

But the evils of this system are not limited to the withdrawal for all time from the great body of our laboring and humble people of more than 200,000,000 acres of public lands in territory in the aggregate equaling in extent ten such States as Indiana; nor in creating corporations so great and powerful that they made every department of your Government, executive, legislative, judicial, subservient, claiming for law, with official subsidy and the Government itself, every doubt, putting the creation of overgrown fortunes, which enter the controlling departments of the Government through States organized under the auspices of these corporations and exercising executive, and legislative power. So, sir, the evil does not terminate there, but under this pernicious system of grants, as an inevitable and natural result, land monopoly comes rife, the land robbers hold the land, and the lands left after taking out the great grants, the lands left under this system from system for the people, are seized upon by the vigilant land-robbing capitalist and his skillful and unscrupulous agents. Your homestead ranks everywhere through your most fertile lands, on the borders of your streams and through fruitful valleys, and even before the laboring men, your landless peasantry, can reach your frontier, with their wives and children, lone for settlers of the new country, they find the best of the public domain taken.

Every fertile valley, every inviting mile, even the alternate sections reserved in the land grants, and far beyond are taken up by speculators, resulting in the great private estates; and your pre-emption law, through fraud and perjury, a made to do service in this most infamous proceeding. Opening up the wilderness, for whom? For some poor settler, when later would make the land fruitful, and where affluent, a vast, virtuous industry, would give strength and stability to our country? No, sir; to the land robber and the land-holding barons who move on scarcely alongside the homeless population. You may travel for hundreds of miles on these grants and not see a home, see human habitation, every acre of the land has already consumed by the land-grant corporation "should transport the property and troops of the United States free of charge."

Under the old time, lenient system of our fathers and of the early period of our age every quarter section a citizen could have been adorned by the home of an independent freeholder and the presence of his wife and children. Time will develop the great lands problem, the greatest problem of our country possible, even if that was not its original purpose, and will cause the greatest number of mankind upon the latter. Even now a list of some of them is easily made. Let me give this list because a republic: I cite the following from the Chicago Times, a leading journal of the Pacific coast:

Illinois Central Company, New York	1,595,000
Illinois Central Company, New York, in trust for Edward Ball not a citizen, in Florida	1,000,000
Illinois Central Company, in Mississippi	2,900,000
Marquis of Tweedale	1,760,000
Phillips, Stanford & Co., London	1,000,000
Georgia syndicate	1,100,000
Dutch syndicate, Amsterdam, Sir Rogers Tweedy, London, and Hon. Hermann H. Evans, of London, in Mississippi	700,000
Duke of Sutherland	425,000
Duke of Bedford, Russell, in Kansas	300,000
W. J. Ker, Winchester, England, and Alexander Grant, of London, in Kansas	95,000
English syndicate represented by Oscar Rives, Washington	110,000
Dr. Jules Beaver, of Baltimore, Nova Scotia, and Sir Edward Watkin, of Boston, in Florida	500,000
A. Bayeux, Dunkirk Consul, in Mississippi	40,000
Missouri Land Company, at Lonsdale, Ark.	100,000
Total	20,547,000

Twenty million seven hundred and forty-seven thousand acres! And the land-grant system was to enable the home-seeker to reach the public land! I admit the railroad land grants are not responsible for two of the purchases set forth in the above list, but, including those, here is a territory which in the aggregate is nearly as large as the great State of Indiana, held by three corporations, lords, and capitalists, every acre of which, the two tracts omitted, I am sure, is within the land-grant regions, and entered unquestionably through the aid of that infamous system. I have before me a list of the land purchases by thirty American capitalists in the land-grant sections, ranging from 5,000 to 2,000,000 acres, aggregating 20,000,000 acres. For what purpose did these men buy these lands? Is it to carry out the policy of the Government in the execution of the pretensions exemption of that railroad grants to invite attention to the priority possessions it could place within their reach? Is it why enter into deal? Is it why lobby at Senate or House was suspected these grants, making great after great until they permeated every fertile region of the public domain, and called forth the voice clamored the political "sediment of the Union, creed any other result? This, sir, a magnificent public possession, the grandest on the face of the globe, which, under the statesmanship of any of the great parties which contended the destinies of our republic prior to 1861, would have furnished a site retreat, a place for labor, liberty and prosperous homes for industrious people, and a source of revenues to come, has been turned over to an accursed monopoly within a brief period as twenty two years. The honeyed law, the wisest and most humane act of legislation since Moses gave record the law that constituted into usurpation the most merciless fragment of the human race! "Ye shall divide the land by lot for an inheritance among your families: to the more ye shall give the more inherit ance, and to the fewer ye shall give the less inheritance." The homestead? What is mockery of human belief. Do we the Senate for real triumph had come Congress, in the recklessness of absolute power, yielding to the sordid motive of robbing the common wealth of the people to enrich private fortunes, land granted to promote the wealth to homes and homes lost, since the homestead law was intended to do, and, in the common understanding of the people, was, and yet that law is.

In gentlemen who defend the land-grant system and compute a bit, yet I must we seek solace in some output tandem on the men who have obtained the benefit of these grants (eager, in estimating the value of these grants, that in a government like ours homes and intelligence are not only necessary to the well-being of the whole people, but indispensable to the peace and order of society and the stability of government) in the ghastly that system can be transgressed Time was seen the natural engineers and contractors. In the new theory of progress through baronial grants problems such trouble.

But the evils of this system are not limited to the withdrawal for all time from the great body of our laboring and humble people of more than 200,000,000 acres of public lands in territory in the aggregate equaling in extent ten such States as Indiana; nor in creating corporations so great and powerful that they made every department of your Government, executive, legislative, judicial, subservient, claiming for law, with official subsidy and the Government itself, every doubt, putting the creation of overgrown fortunes, which enter the controlling departments of the Government through States organized under the auspices of these corporations and exercising executive, and legislative power. So, sir, the evil does not terminate there, but under this pernicious system of grants, as an inevitable and natural result, land monopoly comes rife, the land robbers hold the land, and the lands left after taking out the great grants, the lands left under this system from system for the people, are seized upon by the vigilant land-robbing capitalist and his skillful and unscrupulous agents. Your homestead ranks everywhere through your most fertile lands, on the borders of your streams and through fruitful valleys, and even before the laboring men, your landless peasantry, can reach your frontier, with their wives and children, lone for settlers of the new country, they find the best of the public domain taken.

Every fertile valley, every inviting mile, even the alternate sections reserved in the land grants, and far beyond are taken up by speculators, resulting in the great private estates; and your pre-emption law, through fraud and perjury, a made to do service in this most infamous proceeding. Opening up the wilderness, for whom? For some poor settler, when later would make the land fruitful, and where affluent, a vast, virtuous industry, would give strength and stability to our country? No, sir; to the land robber and the land-holding barons who move on scarcely alongside the homeless population. You may travel for hundreds of miles on these grants and not see a home, see human habitation, every acre of the land has already consumed by the land-grant corporation "should transport the property and troops of the United States free of charge."

Under the old time, lenient system of our fathers and of the early period of our age every quarter section a citizen could have been adorned by the home of an independent freeholder and the presence of his wife and children. Time will develop the great lands problem, the greatest problem of our country possible, even if that was not its original purpose, and will cause the greatest number of mankind upon the latter. Even now a list of some of them is easily made. Let me give this list because a republic: I cite the following from the Chicago Times, a leading journal of the Pacific coast:

Illinois Central Company, New York	1,595,000
Illinois Central Company, New York, in trust for Edward Ball not a citizen, in Florida	1,000,000
Illinois Central Company, in Mississippi	2,900,000
Marquis of Tweedale	1,760,000
Phillips, Stanford & Co., London	1,000,000
Georgia syndicate	1,100,000
Dutch syndicate, Amsterdam, Sir Rogers Tweedy, London, and Hon. Hermann H. Evans, of London, in Mississippi	700,000
Duke of Sutherland	425,000
Duke of Bedford, Russell, in Kansas	300,000
W. J. Ker, Winchester, England, and Alexander Grant, of London, in Kansas	95,000
English syndicate represented by Oscar Rives, Washington	110,000
Dr. Jules Beaver, of Baltimore, Nova Scotia, and Sir Edward Watkin, of Boston, in Florida	500,000
A. Bayeux, Dunkirk Consul, in Mississippi	40,000
Missouri Land Company, at Lonsdale, Ark.	100,000
Total	20,547,000

Twenty million seven hundred and forty-seven thousand acres! And the land-grant system was to enable the home-seeker to reach the public land! I admit the railroad land grants are not responsible for two of the purchases set forth in the above list, but, including those, here is a territory which in the aggregate is nearly as large as the great State of Indiana, held by three corporations, lords, and capitalists, every acre of which, the two tracts omitted, I am sure, is within the land-grant regions, and entered unquestionably through the aid of that infamous system. I have before me a list of the land purchases by thirty American capitalists in the land-grant sections, ranging from 5,000 to 2,000,000 acres, aggregating 20,000,000 acres. For what purpose did these men buy these lands? Is it to carry out the policy of the Government in the execution of the pretensions exemption of that railroad grants to invite attention to the priority possessions it could place within their reach? Is it why enter into deal? Is it why lobby at Senate or House was suspected these grants, making great after great until they permeated every fertile region of the public domain, and called forth the voice clamored the political "sediment of the Union, creed any other result? This, sir, a magnificent public possession, the grandest on the face of the globe, which, under the statesmanship of any of the great parties which contended the destinies of our republic prior to 1861, would have furnished a site retreat, a place for labor, liberty and prosperous homes for industrious people, and a source of revenues to come, has been turned over to an accursed monopoly within a brief period as twenty two years. The honeyed law, the wisest and most humane act of legislation since Moses gave record the law that constituted into usurpation the most merciless fragment of the human race! "Ye shall divide the land by lot for an inheritance among your families: to the more ye shall give the more inherit —these vast estates greater than have ever existed before in the same period of time in the history of mankind, belong to monopoly not one the harbinger of war and death to free institutions. Do not the gentlemen know that this vast wealth can not be a parent prosperity of this period is not the wealth that gives greatness and strength to a people, but the wealth that results from the industrious and thrifty toil of free people, and, without from the heart of the people, the wealth of the public lands crystallized, and, as I have shown, the Indian tribes despoiled of their hunting lands and the lands sold to capitalists and speculators appropriated for a few years of time in all ways to the railroad corporations, and lands every where accessible to price beyond the reach of laboring men, with the hope of better fortune in a new home driven from the land of the heart of nature, with no fully conscious of the wrong you have done them by your lavish gifts, can the parental order of society be hoped for as of old? I have not asked the gentlemen from Iowa early because we were unable to urge the policy of a great country with some, if it does come to the national mind, and, if it does, it will be a national fall of Rome. Rome was the last great the most reason, be, I can not tell, but I know not there comes also the sad notion that your army is one small. There, too, may be one of the other tasks of your imperial grasp. I fear that it will be seen soon through the wrong you have done

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 1, 1894.

How the Wool Grower is Not Protected.

The fact that the wool growers through the wool growers association have petitioned congress more vociferously and more constantly than any other class of protectionists is well known; as well known among farmers as any other class. This is true although it is not as well known that the association is run in the interests, not of the wool growers, but in the interest of the woolen goods manufacturers. Farmers ought to know this. The present tariff is as nearly what the wool growers association demanded as could be obtained from congress. To what extent it acts to the benefit of the farmer and to what extent to the manufacturer is very clearly shown by the following excerpt from the Berrien Springs Journal:

Blankets valued at not exceeding thirty cents per pound are taxed ten cents per pound, specific, and thirty five, ad valorem. Thus a foreign blanket weighing eight pounds, valued at New York at thirty cents a pound would be worth $2.40 cents; adding the duty of ten cents per pound which would be eight cents, and to this add the thirty five per cent ad valorem, which would be eighty-four cents, and a total tax of $1.04, making the market cost $4.01. Now it is easy to see how much the wool grower is protected. Blankets are manufactured from wool of the second class, such as our wool growers do not produce in Michigan. The tariff on that class of wool is two and one-half cents a pound, which, if the blanket is all wool and consumed eight pounds of raw material, would be a tariff of twenty cents. So that if our Michigan farmers produced that kind of wool they would pay out for protection to the blanket maker $1.64 and would receive back 20 cents protection for their wool industry. But as our wool growers do not raise that kind of wool we will make another example to show how their protective tariff theory works. We will suppose that one of our farmers purchases a cloak, dolman, jacket, talma or an ulster that would weigh eight pounds. The present tariff on this class of goods is forty-five cents a pound and forty per cent ad valorem. The article, we will say, cost $20 if made of wool of the first class raised in Michigan. The tariff on eight pounds would be $3.20, 40 per cent ad valorem would be $8, making $11.20 tariff on the articles imported. This tariff on wool of the first class is 11 cents a pound, which would be for eight pounds eighty cents. While our Michigan wool grower is protected eighty cents to encourage him to raise sheep, the wool grower in his generosity gives to the manufacturer of the goods mentioned $11.20 to encourage him to manufacture his eight pounds of wool into a dolman or cloak.

WIT AND HUMOR.

A band of Italian brigands captured a Duke recently and held him for thirty days. Any American heiress can do that, and hold him longer.

The facility with which American girls are caught by foreign nobles, and, after being entertained with talk of marriage, are abandoned, is marvelous.

In Philadelphia etiquette a newly-married lady ceases to become a bride when she has sewed a button on her husband's clothes, and is then simply the wife.

Such is the advancement of science that vegetables and fruits can now be grown without the light of the sun, honey made without bees, and butter without cows.

"No," said the man who looked on with unconcern at a fight at the Philadelphia board of aldermen, "that seems nothing to me; I've run an opera company."

The report that a canal-boat Captain bought a United States man-of-war with a view to using it on the canals, is not true. He did not buy it, he said it was uncanalworthy.

Mr. Platt has written a poem to show that the only happy woman is dead. It may be possible that the only happy man living is her husband, but we shall not write a poem to prove it.

The varnish on the heads of cheap canes is depopulating the east of dudes. They suck it off, get sick, and pine away. Let a subscription list be started at once to furnish these canes free.

"Why did you put that nickel with a hole in it in the contribution box?" asked one man of another. "Because I couldn't put the hole in without the nickel, and I had to put in something."

"Yes, my dear," said Mrs. Ramsbottom, speaking of her invalid uncle, "the poor old gentleman has had a stroke of parasthesia, and when I last saw him he was in a state of comma."

Little Jenny belonged to a fashionable set. "Here, Jenny," said her father, "here's a new doll." "Oh, father, that's no good; take it away. They haven't worn those things for a month."

The sarcastic paragraphist of the New York Commercial Advertiser remarks: "Several young ladies in Chicago are studying law in order that they may attend to their own divorce cases in after life.

A missionary says the tallest people on the globe are to be found on the northeastern island of Terra del Fuego. A collector says the "shortest" people on the globe may be found right here at home when a bill is presented.

"Your fare, young lady," said the stage driver, as a pretty miss stepped from his vehicle, and was about tripping away. "Oh, thank you!" responded the absent-minded little beauty; "I think your mustache becomes you real well, too." She got her ride free.

The bar-room loafers are, to credit their talk, the most broad-minded and comprehensive financiers we have. They pay the national debt daily leaning against lamp-posts, and settle tariffs and other great problems with great ease sitting on dry goods boxes.

"Do you think your horse has a soul?" a Somerville philhippist asked a brother hippologist the other day as the two met in Union Square. "I don't know whether he's got a soul or not," was the reply, "but I'm pretty certain he's got the heaves."

The Henderson (Ky.) Times longs for the time when every man will tell the truth because it is right, be honest because it is right, and live soberly because it is right. It strikes us that for a Kentucky editor this is asking a good deal.—Boston Post.

A country newspaper's weekly market report contains the item: "There has not been enough country butter in town this week to grease a gimlet." These country newspaper people have odd ways about them. Now, what in the world do they want to grease their gimlets with butter for?

When a Cottage Hill little girl was taken to a dentist to have a tooth extracted, she noticed that her mother referred to the operation as "pulling" and the dentist as "extracting," and she, fearing a double torture, inquired plaintively of the dentist: "Doctor, shall I have to have my tooth extracted after it is pulled?"—Oil City Derrick.

"What is a pharmaceutical association?" asked a little damsel who had carefully spelled out the long name in the paper, and the old gentleman, aroused from a perusal of the stock list, answered: "Farmers' outside association? Some of those fellows who go around skinning the farmer, I suppose. Why don't you read something easier, my dear."—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

First detective—"Hist! I have a clew." Second D.—"Hush! Don't speak so loud. What is it?" First D.—"Are we observed?" Second D.—"Nay, we are alone, but speak low, even the walls have ears. Where did you find your clew?" First D.—"In this paper. Here it is, right in the beginning of this piece of poetry. List! There is blood upon the moon."—Philadelphia Call.

A concert by a Chinese band was given in New York on Monday evening. There were no encores. From the fact that a member of the audience, as he left the hall, heartlessly remarked that if capital punishment was ever abolished he would advocate treating murderers to a serenade by a Chinese band, it is inferred that he was not overwhelmingly pleased with the concert.—Providence Herald.

Love is a strange affair! Why, we once know a man who was dead in love with a fair young woman. He loved her so devotedly that he never told her that he was suffering from epilepsy, shingles and divers other diseases, or so much as lisped that his ancestors on both sides for three generations back had died in the lunatic asylum. He was too generous to pain the fair creature.—Boston Transcript.

A truce is called for metropolitan jealousy. "Love your neighbor as yourself," Philadelphia is not "a sleepy old town;" Boston's heart is not a can of baked beans, and she is not a city of sluggers and affected people who say "cuicuac;" Cincinnati is truly musical, and her people are not swine; Chicago ladies have as small feet as the daintiest, and St. Louis is not a dirty French settlement. "Let us have peace."—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

A young attorney of this city has for a client a lady who resides on L. street, and is possessed of considerable real estate. A few days since she called at the office of her attorney and informed him that she desired to secure the services of Judge "Dennison" to assist in certain litigation. The young attorney objected; said she could hire the services of Judge "Dennison" as advisory counsel, but he would not give up the management of the case. "However," he remarked, "if you do not think I have ability enough to prosecute the case I will step to one side, and you can employ Judge Dennison." "Lay me," she replied, "I have every confidence in your ability; I was only afraid you did not know enough."—Sacramento (Cal.) Union.

A gentleman in a street-car, while reading a newspaper, discovered a paragraph which struck him as particularly funny. "Here is something good," he said to his neighbor, and read the item to him. A tired look swept over the gentleman's face, but he never smiled. Presently the reader came across another paragraph that tickled his fancy. "I will try this with this one," he said. He did so, and a tear actually welled out of his neighbor's eye and coursed slowly down his cheek. "Heavens, man!" was the exclamation, "what's the matter with you? have you no sense of humor? What do you do to pass away the time, anyway?" Looking mournfully out of the window the stranger replied: "I am a proof-reader on a comic weekly."—Philadelphia Call.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card in effect January, 1894.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv.	..	7 40am	7 15pm	..
Richmond.....	2 20pm	10 52	9 00	..
Winchester.....	3 15	11 47	9 56	..
Ridgeville.....	4 11	12 37	10 21	..
Fort Wayne, ar.	6 45	2 20pm	1 30am	..
Fort Wayne, lv.	..	2 47	2 00	8 02am
Kendallville...	..	3 05	3 32	9 17
Mongo.....	..	3 18	3 54	10 35
Wawakazoo.....	..	3 35	4 14	11 00
Kalamazoo, ar.	..	4 02	4 52	12 20pm
Kalamazoo, lv.	..	7 00	7 12	1 52
G'd Rapids, ar.	..	9 00	9 10	3 37
G'd Rapids, lv.	7 15am	..	9 50	4 45
Big H & M cross	7 36	..	10 05	5 03
Reeses City...	8 43	..	11 39	6 37
Vestaburg.....	9 07	..	12 07am	7 05
Med City.....	10 17	..	1 17	8 18
Cadillac, ar.....	11 25	..	2 21	9 50
Cadillac, lv.....	..	..	2 30	9 55
Traverse City, ar	..	..	4 55	..
Kalkaska, lv.....	..	..	3 42	12 00am
Mancelona.....	..	..	4 12	12 35
Boyne Falls.....	..	..	4 47	2 30
Petoskey, ar.....	..	..	5 34	3 14
Harbor Springs.	..	..	7 15	9 45
Mackinaw City	..	..	9 00	6 00
St. Ignace.....	..	..	10 00	8 50
Marquette.....	..	..	7 00am	5 00am
Negaunee, ar.....	..	..	9 12	7 08

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Negaunee, lv.	..	..	5 10pm	1 20am
Marquette.....	..	..	8 00	8 30
St. Ignace.....	..	..	6 45am	4 10pm
Mackinaw City	..	..	10 30	8 35
Harbor Springs.	..	..	7 00	6 15
Petoskey, lv.....	..	..	7 38	11 33
Boyne Falls.....	..	..	8 15	12 27am
Mancelona.....	..	..	8 59	2 15
Kalkaska.....	..	..	9 31	2 58
Traverse City, lv	..	..	12 30pm	..
Cadillac, lv.....	..	..	1 43	5 00
Cadillac, lv.....	5 30pm	..	11 45	5 50
Med City.....	6 38	..	1 17am	7 16
Big Rapids.....	8 12	..	3 44	7 49
Reeses City.....	8 37	..	4 35	8 19
G'd H & M cross	7 05	..	3 18	10 05
G'd Rapids, lv.	7 40	..	3 55	10 45
G'd Rapids, lv	..	6 20am	4 00	12 20pm
Kalamazoo, ar	..	8 32	5 32	2 24
Kalamazoo, lv	..	8 37	8 55	2 29
Vicksburg.....	..	9 05	7 22	3 00
Sturgis.....	..	10 03	8 22	4 11
Bryan, Ohio.....	..	12 05	10 35	6 31
Fort Wayne, ar	..	1 30pm	12 45	8 30
Fort Wayne, lv.	12 52	5 37am	12 50am	..
Ridgeville.....	3 02	7 56	2 38	..
Winchester.....	3 27	8 18	3 33	..
Richmond, ar	4 27	9 17	4 67	..
Cincinnati, ar.	7 40pm	12 50pm	7 30am	..

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Act'g G. P. Agt., Grand Rapids, Mich.

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS,

Patent Medicines, all kinds.

Imported and Domestic Perfumery,

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Barnhart's new

Opera Block

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

HALL'S

Catarrh Cure

is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD FOR A CASE OF CATARRH THAT CANNOT BE CURED!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will refer any one almost in this county to persons for whom it has taken instantly, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with the disheartening disease, ask your druggist for it and accept no imitation or substitute. If he does not keep it send to us and it will be promptly forwarded. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

DR. CROUTER, Agt., Charlevoix. 41

G. W. JEFFERIES,

Dealer in

Fresh and Cured Meat

Fresh and Salt Fish,

AND VEGETABLES.

Fat Stock and Farm Produce Wanted.

West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitings,

Boots and Shoes.

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at actual cost, as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. Remember, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark.

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1894.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

A FINE STOCK OF

New Boots & Shoes

JUST RECEIVED.

Prices Below all Competition.

L. B. Connor

Opposite Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW,

DEALER IN

Hardware,

FARM IMPLEMENTS, ETC.

Charlevoix, Mich.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 43. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, MAY 3, 1894. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Is published every Thursday morning,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office over T. H. Smith's Grocery,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

CROSS, SHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law. Office in Dutton's Block, Charlevoix, Mich. A. S. CROSS, C. A. GRIER.

HART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of post office, Petoskey, Mich.

FOGG & ALDRICH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

J. A. JESSUP, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office on Lake St., Boyne, Mich.

JAY L. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law, and U. S. Commissioner. Office in Dr. Sherman's building, entrance on Mitchell St., Petoskey, Mich.

J. M. CLARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

NORTON, KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law. Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

OSCAR F. WINNEE, Attorney and Solicitor, and U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

N. S. GARRUTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX. Capital $50,000. Savings department. Depositors secured by pledge of government bonds, real estate, and endorsed notes for more than silver amount. Interest allowed on time deposits. Sight exchange on principal cities. DETMON & BISHOP.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH. Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7 p. m. in the opera house. Sunday school at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7.30. Ladies' Library Association every 2d Tuesday afternoon. C. F. VANARSDEL, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH. Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Epworth League service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7. J. T. DODDS, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX HOOK AND LADDER FIRE COMPANY meets at the hall every Thursday evenings of each month. R. F. BRODIE, Sec'y.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

R. SEFFELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cocoa, Charlevoix, Mich.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

M. L. SMITH, teacher of Musical Composition. Office and residence, Mitchell St., opposite Hotel Boyne. Inquire at Newman House.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. MILO EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class livery and carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

J. A. CHRISTEN, M. D. Office at the Ingleside.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in Lewis Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

N. C. GRAVES, M. D. Office in See Block, Charlevoix.

W. W. FORSYTHE, M. D., Homœopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARDISH, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 193, meets second Monday in each month in Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 427, meets every Friday evening, in Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 281, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

D. A. C.—Tent Hiawa No. 157, meets Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 382, meets Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over postoffice.

A. BUTTARS, President. A. B. UPHAM, Vice President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money to loan on approved security. Interest allowed on time deposits. Collections given careful attention and remitted on day of collection.

G. S. TROMBLEY, Cashier.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON, Opp. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

Bridge Street House,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only simple rooms in Charlevoix.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and loss in the spring, you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders invaluable. Fifty pounds 25 cents. Sold by C. E. Weed & Co. 8-50

1872 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.

PURITY, POLITENESS.

WE MAKE IT A POINT TO SELL ONLY

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

OUR PRICES WILL ALWAYS BE AS LOW AS

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

CAN BE SOLD.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

E. T. BROWN & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS' AGENTS,

Portable and Stationary Engines,

Boilers, Mill and Wood-working Machinery,

Mill Supplies, Threshers, and Threshing Engines.

Bargains in Second-Hand Machinery.

WRITE FOR PRICE AND CATALOGUE.

WEST BRIDGE ST., GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

Fountain City House,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids stages.

PINE LAKE HOUSE

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and has been refitted to the entire satisfaction of their traveling public.

Pioneer House,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

United States Hotel,

GEO. W. CARLISS, Proprietor,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

Sewing Machines CHEAP.

A few fine sewing machines for sale at ten dollars each. Call soon and have your pick.

EVERY MACHINE WARRANTED

D. S. WAY.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retail all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. Call and see my stock and prices.

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best timepiece ever made. All goods fully warranted and reliable; for its accounts are subject to sale for charges.

C. W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Electroplating in Gold and Silver. Any article of Jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe or prescription for making the medicine by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. ODDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the recipe for a simple VEGETABLE BALM that will remove TAN, SUNBURN, PIMPLES and BLOTCHES, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing 2c. stamp, BEN. VANDER & CO., Box 1, Cincinnati, O.

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 141 acres, 25 miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Soil clay loam. A good frame house, and two frame bank barns. About 35 acres cleared, balance good timber and underbrush. Good orchard. Spring water in house and also in yard. Inquire of Newman House.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGeagh's Mill.

For particulars inquire on the office of

J. MILO EATON.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

JOSEPH HYLAND,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Boiler Maker,

Sheet-Iron Worker,

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

Lieut. Adolphus W. Greely,

LOST IN THE ARCTIC REGIONS.

At last, the first vessel of the Greely relief expedition, the "Bear," has sailed for the Arctic regions on its humane mission of rescue. Two other vessels, the Thetis and Alert, will soon follow, and if Lieut. Greely and his party are still survivors, they may yet be rescued and returned to their country and friends.

It will be remembered that the Greely expedition set out in midsummer nearly three years ago, to man one of the polar stations in the north, under the long shoremen working for them that they had sent to Europe for several hundred Italians, who would work for less than half the wages of the long shoremen's union consented to recognize its just and adequate.

These cases illustrate the deplorably selfish tendency that animates many of our largest employers of labor, who in their blind greed, fail to see that they are undermining the welfare of the present and future welfare of this country. Americans will not submit to the importation of either Chinese or European slave labor to this country to depress the wages of intelligent and free workingmen below the starvation point. These foreign wretches do not come over like ordinary immigrants to settle down in various places throughout the country like independent men and citizens about to be. They come over as baggars and slaves, and return to Europe in the same condition. Not one of them ever becomes a citizen of this republic or gains my foothold as an independent laborer.

It is high time that the general government put a stop to these importations by law. The happiness and welfare of the masses at large is of superior importance to the increased wealth of a few large employers of labor. The democratic party has pledged itself in its platforms, both state and national, to guard the interests of the man who works for his day's wages equally with all other classes citizens. It must redeem that pledge by guaranteeing to the workingman an opportunity to win a comfortable subsistence, for himself and his family. Justice, humanity, and the stability of our institutions demand that the intelligent American workman be protected against enforced competition with coolie or slave labor in any form.—Peoria Transcript.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in hand is very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

Ward off the first attack of any disease and you need never fear a dangerous condition. If those who are troubled with dyspepsia, headache, dizziness, pains in back and side, constipation, excessive flow of urine, insatiable thirst, lack of circulation of the blood, would use Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure they would not be in constant fear of sickness, for they will cure Diabetes, Bright's disease, &c., but prevent them by removing the first symptoms. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by C. E. Weed & Co. 8-50 over under contract to work in the coal mines of Pennsylvania at specified prices for a term of years. The figures at which they agree to work would reduce any decent laboring man to starvation, and the poor coolies themselves are finding out that even they cannot support life in this country upon their miserable stipend. Yet they are forced to remain by their contracts, because they imagine in their ignorance that they can do nothing else and have no rights or remedies. The Pennsylvania miners are clamoring because the Hungarian coolies are depriving them and their families of bread. The fifth, degradation and brutish ignorance of these imported slaves has alarmed the communities to which they have been brought, and there have been already several incipient riots, with the probability of more serious troubles yet to come. The Pennsylvania episode is found repeated in other parts of the country. A great railroad in the state of New York has just been built by droves of wretched Italians, imported under a contract system precisely similar to the other coolie arrangement we have mentioned. These Italians herded together in huts and box cars, filthy, degraded, quarrelsome, and ignorant, and by their pauper labor deprived hundreds of intelligent American workmen of their daily bread. It has been shown before a congressional committee that the cotton manufacturers of New England have also been guilty of importing European coolie laborers under contract the same way. It was only a short time ago that some large corporations doing business at points on the great lakes announced to their employes and the long shoremen working for them that they had sent to Europe for several hundred Italians, who would work for less than half the wages of the long shoremen's union consented to recognize its just and adequate.

These cases illustrate the deplorably selfish tendency that animates many of our largest employers of labor, who in their blind greed, fail to see that they are undermining the welfare of the present and future welfare of this country. Americans will not submit to the importation of either Chinese or European slave labor to this country to depress the wages of intelligent and free workingmen below the starvation point. These foreign wretches do not come over like ordinary immigrants to settle down in various places throughout the country like independent men and citizens about to be. They come over as baggars and slaves, and return to Europe in the same condition. Not one of them ever becomes a citizen of this republic or gains my foothold as an independent laborer.

It is high time that the general government put a stop to these importations by law. The happiness and welfare of the masses at large is of superior importance to the increased wealth of a few large employers of labor. The democratic party has pledged itself in its platforms, both state and national, to guard the interests of the man who works for his day's wages equally with all other classes citizens. It must redeem that pledge by guaranteeing to the workingman an opportunity to win a comfortable subsistence, for himself and his family. Justice, humanity, and the stability of our institutions demand that the intelligent American workman be protected against enforced competition with coolie or slave labor in any form.—Peoria Transcript.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in hand is very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

Ward off the first attack of any disease and you need never fear a dangerous condition. If those who are troubled with dyspepsia, headache, dizziness, pains in back and side, constipation, excessive flow of urine, insatiable thirst, lack of circulation of the blood, would use Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure they would not be in constant fear of sickness, for they will cure Diabetes, Bright's disease, &c., but prevent them by removing the first symptoms. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by C. E. Weed & Co.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

A RATHER handsome young lady in Pittsburgh called on a physician the other day and complained of a slight dullness of hearing, which interfered with whispered conversations. A button was found in one of her ears and a couple of beans in the other. She supposed they had been poked in there by her lover as a joke.

A NEW YORK car driver says there is a butcher in that city who comes to him regularly two or three times every summer to have the fleas taken out of his cars. Sometimes there will be as many as half a dozen in each car. When they get to playing leap frog on this tympanum he says it is worse than the beating of a thousand snare drums.

A LITTLE boy was buried at Meridian, Miss., the other day, and behind the hearse in the funeral procession walked his pony, with its saddle draped with crape. Strangers even looked with moistened eyes upon the little fellow's pet, upon which he had been often seen to ride through the streets but a little while ago.

THE bill prohibiting the landing of Chinese in British Columbia is to be carried immediately into effect. A steamship with 300 Chinamen is now due from China, and, in reply to the Provincial Secretary, Premier Smythe telegraphed recently, that, under any circumstances, the Chinese must not be allowed to land.

GRANT smokes a medium strength cigar, which he imports from Cuba. He talks while smoking, never lets a cigar go out, and smokes the stub on a wooden toothpick. Sherman smokes nervously, and is always relighting his cigar. Sheridan enjoys a quiet smoke, but can't do anything else while he is smoking. Butler rarely lights a cigar, but carries the wrong end in his mouth. Logan smokes only at long intervals, but when he smokes at all it is necessarily.

ESTHETIC London is paying a pilgrimage to the bedside of the fairer Mrs. Oscar Wilde. The shrine where the nuptial garment is exhibited is the show room of a fashionable French dressmaker in Regent street. The dress is saffronized, the color worn by Greek maidens on their marriage day, and is adorned with pale violet trimmings, which Hellenic brides would probably hardly countenance. Miss Lloyd's headgear will be of sunflowers.

MR. VILLARD is seldom seen on the street in New York now. He appears rarely at the opera, and spends nearly all of his time when he is in New York in his residence on Madison avenue. If he leaves town for a month or a week it is quietly done. He still keeps up his superb establishment on the Hudson River, besides his city house, and lives in the style of a millionaire. The stories about the abject poverty of Villard are no longer heard in New York. He is very comfortable

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The Democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 18th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a reform of abuses and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES, Chairman.
H. F. PENNINGTON, Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

BAY SPRINGS.

H. B. Chapman's "Tourists' Home," Nearly Ready for Occupancy.

"Have you been to Bay Springs lately?" was asked of the scribe by a business man one day last week. A reply in the negative elicited the information that Chapman's mammoth hotel was about finished, and it would make a good item go and write it up. We went.

Taking the popular steamer, North Star, last Friday afternoon, we were in good time landed at Boyne, and one of the first persons met was H. B. Chapman, with his pony and buggy, apparently waiting for some one to ride with him.

Our errand being made known, he signified his willingness to "show us through," not only the hotel, but the whole of Bay Springs if we wanted. During the past year some 70 or 80 acres have been cleared, sown to wheat and seeded down. Streets are staked out, the tract platted, and lots are now for sale.

It is a well known fact that the old gentleman hopes some day to see the county seat located at that place, and he exhibits his enthusiasm most when pointing out the advantage of the place for the capital of the county. On the highest point he has reserved one square, he says, for the future court house. The soil is a coarse gravel, and the view of the surrounding country is most excellent. Boyne, Advance, and the fine agricultural land to the south for miles seems right at one's feet. The land slopes gradually to the east, the south, and the west, making, on the whole, an excellent place to build a town.

About half a mile from the "court house square" is a little lake surrounded by gradual slopes, the land on the beach being hard enough to build a mile race track, with a place on the east side just suited to the purpose of a grand stand, the whole especially appropriate for a driving park. On this land the young and thrifty trees have been left, to save replanting, when the place is finally selected for that purpose. Near the "park" is a mineral spring, said to be equal in medical qualities to the famous springs in other parts of the state. In front of the hotel he is building a dock 12 rods front, extending to water deep enough to carry the largest vessels in northern waters. This is built of cedar, and with a view to permanency.

Having noted the "lay of the land," we went to the hotel, to see its "hidden beauties." The main entrance is on the west side, by a few easy steps. Double doors with ground glass lights, open into a broad hall, leading to the center of the building, thence turning to the right to the ladies' parlor, through another hall to the office and to the front veranda, to the left into the dining room, or down a flight of stairs to the basement. The ladies' parlor is 18x20 feet, and fronts the west and south.

The office is 24x28 feet, and fronts the south. The counter was only partly finished, but when completed will be an ornament to the room, having an appearance of richness and solidity, and showing the vast resources of the town by being built of native wood.

East of the office, also facing the south, is the reading room 14x18 feet. The wash room is in the rear of the reading room.

East of the reading room is a suite of three rooms, reserved expressly for the use of Mr. Chapman and his wife, which, when finished and furnished, will make as cosy a home as one could ask.

Returning again to the hall we enter the dining room, 28x30 feet, north of which is the kitchen, pantry, and store room, containing all modern conveniences in the interest of comfort and economy.

Returning again, we go down an easy flight of stairs to the basement. Here we find several rooms fitted up for special uses, chief among them being a barber shop, sample rooms, a suite of rooms for offices, with a large fire proof vault with fittings from the Detroit Safe Co.

There is also a laundry-room, a large cellar, a cistern with a capacity of 170 barrels, and perhaps other features which have escaped our memory.

Returning to the "grand stairway," we ascend to the second story. Here we find four suites of rooms, facing the south and west, designed for the use of people with abundant means. They will be furnished luxuriously, and contain all modern conveniences.

The building is L-shaped, and a broad hall runs its full length, east and west, and north and south. On the inner side of the building, the rooms are designed for single bedrooms. At the extreme east end there is a suit of rooms designed as a "bridal chamber," which will be finished and furnished with the best the country affords. At the extreme north end, where everything will be as quiet as anywhere on the premises, a large room will be fitted up for a hospital. On this floor are several large closets for extra bedding, etc., besides the usual small closets with each bed room.

Ascending to the third floor, we find the east wing with rooms similar to the floor below. But a surprise waits us at the west wing. Instead of rooms, we find a hall 28x90 feet, with stage, dressing-rooms, etc., all complete. From the ceiling project gas-pipe, from which will be suspended four fine chandeliers. The hall will be seated with camp chairs, 300 of which have already been ordered. Whenever found desirable to convert this into a dance hall, the extra chairs may be folded up and stored in a room provided for that purpose. There are still other uses which may be made of this room if found desirable, provisions for which became part of the plan of construction,—but this will be made apparent later on.

A fine piece of timber, well finished, is the hand-rail of the main stairway. The beauty of color, grain, and polish, deserve special mention, but must be seen to be appreciated. Mr. Chapman takes special pride in this feature, and thinks it cannot be duplicated in this region.

Besides the main stairway, there is a stairway at each end of the building especially serviceable in case of a fire, or panic of any kind.

Every room in the building will be supplied with gas-light, which will be made on the premises.

Around two sides of the building, on both first and second floors, are broad varandas,—300 lineal feet altogether,—besides that in the rear of the building. This will make an excellent promenade for resorters during summer evenings.

The wainscoting will be an interesting feature of the finish of the building, being made of native wood, oiled.

From samples shown, the furnishings of the rooms will be first class throughout.

Connected with the house is a large barn, for the accommodation of travelers with teams.

Amid all his busy days, laying plans and superintending the construction, Mr. Chapman has not lost sight of ladies and children. In fact their comfort and pleasure has been studied throughout the whole work. But in no way is this so plainly manifest as in the laying out and cultivation of a flower garden, which is already well started, and the flowers in bloom. The front yard is graded, planted with trees, and seeded to grass, making it in time an excellent playground or promenade as required.

Notwithstanding all the croakings of chronic and jealous fault-finders about "Chapman's elephant," this gentleman can figure out a clear and brilliant future for his embryo city. In fact, with the means at his disposal, it is only a question of time, and not a very long time, either, when he will begin to realize some of his many hopes and anticipations. He expects to have the house open to to the public some time in June, after which his plans and purposes will be more apparent to people outside of his particular field of operations.

Cloves.

If you will look on your map of Oceanica, in the division of Malaysia, you will find a group of tiny islands nestled in between Celebes and Papua, known as the Moluccas or Spice Islands, from the great quantity of cloves, nutmegs, and mace obtained from them. Although they look so small to you, they are of great value on account of the spice trees.

The Portuguese and Spaniards both found them about the year 1521; but Antonio de Brito, a Portuguese navigator, took possession of them in the name of his king, and that nation held them until the Dutch (assisted by the natives) drove them out in the first part of the seventeenth century, and took possession of them themselves. This they have held until the present time, with the exception of a brief period in 1796, when the English conquered them from the Dutch, but soon restored them.

The clove-tree was found on only five islands in its native state, and on the Island of Amboyna, where the natives had begun to cultivate it. As soon as the Dutch obtained possession they began to destroy all the clove-trees except on the Island of Amboyna, in order to make the spice scarce, and so increase the price. Every year, until 1824, an expedition of soldiers and laborers were sent from Holland to the Moluccas with orders to destroy every clove-tree there except those on Amboyna.

During the short time the English held possession of the islands, they carried clove-trees to Bourbon and Mauritius. In 1830 they were planted on the islands of Pemba and Zanzibar, and from the latter island about 7,000,000 pounds are exported every year; these are worth over $400,000. They are also raised in Sumatra, Malacca, Cayenne, and Brazil; but the best still come from Amboyna.

The clove-tree is from fifteen to forty feet high. It has a perfectly straight trunk, covered with a smooth, olive-colored bark. From where the branches begin, it has the form of a pyramid; the leaves are a dark green, and very glossy; the flowers grow in clusters, and are of a reddish hue; the fruit is about the size and shape of an olive, perhaps not quite as large, and when ripe is dark red. The part that we use as spice is the flower-buds, which are gathered just before they open. They are dried by the smoke of wood fires, or by being exposed to the rays of the sun. By drying they are changed from red to a deep brown. They look so much like a nail with a round head that both the Portuguese and Spaniards gave them a name which meant nails in their language, and which has since become our English word, clove. The French called them fragrant-nail, on account of their delicious odor. All parts of the tree are fragrant,—bark, leaves, flowers and fruit. Cloves are used in cooking, in medicine, or for embalming or preserving bodies from decay. An oil is also obtained from them, which is much used in perfumery.

She Kept it Out of the Paper.

There is an old lady by the name of Cushing residing in that portion of the city bounded by Walnut, Hunter and Wellington streets who is a living contradiction to the assertion that a woman cannot hold her tongue.

The old lady in question is a widow, and supports herself and family by the sale of the milk from four cows. She is not ambitious to shine in the social world. Her chief objects in life are to live comfortably and keep her name out of the papers, and this she has generally managed to do.

A few weeks ago, while attending to her duties in the stable, she was attacked by one of her cattle, an angry bull, knocked down and trampled upon. Two of her ribs were broken, and she was severely bruised withal. Paramount to every other consideration, however, at this time came the thought that if the accident became known the sanctity of her home would be invaded by newspaper prowlers, and her private affairs paraded before the world. She therefore resolved to keep the secret locked in her own breast, and not even to her own daughter did she tell the particulars of the accident. To the doctor who attended her she merely stated briefly that she had slipped and fallen.

Now, we know that those of her own sex can appreciate the heroism of the old lady. Friends visited her and inquired for particulars of how it happened; not a word. Her own children were solicitous, but their questions elicited not a word.

"There is nothing hidden which shall not be revealed," but of the manner in which this story came to be known, deponent saveth not.—Hamilton Spectator.

Mr. T. Masudaira, a Japanese, has been elected to the office of chief engineer of the city of Bradford, Pa. He is probably the first representative of Japan ever elected to any civil office in the United States.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—OF—

All-Wool Goods, Overcoats and Suitings, Boots and Shoes.

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at actual cost, as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. Remember, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark.

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

Advance Lumber Company

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO. ADVANCE, MICH.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes,

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes,

LATEST STYLES.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW,

DEALER IN

Hardware,

FARM IMPLEMENTS, ETC.

Charlevoix, Mich.

A FINE STOCK OF

New Boots & Shoes

JUST RECEIVED.

Prices Below all Competition.

L. B. Connor

Custom Work and Repairing to Order.

THE JOURNAL.

Charlevoix, Mich., May 9, 1884.

Business Announcements.

Children's School Shoes, a large stock just received. Manufactured in Chicago especially for my trade. Call and see them. Remember the place. L. B. CONNOR.

Oranges and Lemons cheap, at E. M. Clark's.

Extra copies of the JOURNAL for sale at Weeks' drug store.

New Clothing just received at E. M. Clark's.

Bustles! Bustles!! Bustles!!! At Upright, Emery, & Co.'s.

One hundred suits clothes at $7.00, worth $10.00, at E. M. Clark's.

Prints, Cottons, Collars, Skirting, Dress Goods, etc., at Upright, Emery & Co.

14½ pounds C sugar for $1, at E. M. Clark's.

Shingles for the million at Upright Emery & Co.

11 pounds granulated sugar for $1, at E. M. Clark's.

Fine Teas, Coffees, Spices, Extracts, Baking Powder, Sauces, Pickles, Preserves, Jellies, Jams, Marmalades, Fruits, Fish, Oysters, Lobsters, Meats, Vegetables, Cheese, Crackers, Biscuits, Cakes, Confectionery, Nuts, Raisins, Figs, Dates, Lemons, Oranges, Bananas, Cocoanuts, Pineapples, Canvassing Agents Wanted, Sample Case Free. Good Pay. Address, Chicago Tea Co., 146 Fifth Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Good in Michigan.

Hotel Medicine, all kinds.

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS

Some but Pure Medicines

Opera Block

Mrs. Belle Bigelow is advertised for a lecture under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. at the opera house tonight.

Joa Hyland went to Chicago on Monday to inspect some new boilers to be put in F. J. Meech's mill at South Arm.

Robert O'Neil went to Cheboygan on Monday to take the position of engineer on Dexter & Noble's steamer Gracie Barker.

Benj. Rice, who has been visiting in Macomb, and St. Clair counties for the past two months, returned home last Friday.

The Detroit Sunday Times in its new dress is the handsomest newspaper in Michigan. And its news department is not far behind.

O. T. Booth, of Hayes, commenced a dock on lake Michigan, last week.

Q. B. WEED & CO.

DRUGS

CHEMICALS.

Toilet Articles, and Fancy Goods.

Some but Pure Medicines

Opera Block

J. L. HURD & CO.

Successors to A. Fox.

Having completed their inventory, find that they have over $6,000 worth of Dry Goods, Dress Goods, Fancy Goods, Knit Goods, Notions, Ladies and Gents Underwear, Woolens, Satinets, Furnishing Goods, Clothing, Hats and Caps, Crockery and Glassware, Groceries and Provisions, etc. etc.

Bargains in Everything.

These goods were bought at a great sacrifice, many of them have been placed in stock during the past three months and are fresh, desirable goods but must be moved to make room for spring stock.

Going out of Clothing. Over 150 men's and boy's suits in medium and light weight goods, well made and excellent styles, offered at an immense discount $20 suits at $14, $18 suits at $13, $10 $6 and all others goods equally low. Remember that most of these goods are of the latest and best make. Step in and compare the prices. J. L. HURD & CO.

Seed Clover Seed, Feed, &c., on hand. Sole Agents for Potoskey Lime.

SUPPLEMENT. MAY 9, 1884.

For You

NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL. 1884. 1884.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR.

IT IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.

200 PORTRAITS, ETC. AND ETC.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.

200 PORTRAITS, ETC. AND ETC.

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES.

EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL

PROMINENT WOMEN

BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL

Sent prepaid on receipt of ONE DOLLAR.

A. L. ELDRIDGE & CO., Publishers,

23 White Street, New York.

arshall, 80 cords wood and 120 Emery, to Chicago.

ses, 6,000 posts, T. D. Smith, to ocris, 480 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Chicago.

260 cords wood, T. D. Smith, to 200 cords wood, Barker, to Chiird, 115 cords wood, Upright Chicago.

er, 7,000 posts, Upright, Emery,

2,200 ties, T. D. Smith, to Mil-

470 tons pig iron, Pine Lake go.

170 cords wood, W. H. Downer,

Murray, 225,000 feet hardwood s Co., Detroit.

Star, 120,000 feet hardwood lum- rs, to Chicago.

outh Arm.

orm on Thursday night wintery for May but the n since has made every- o spring again.

preached at the South house last Sunday, for e since his illness. A ol was also organized t, superintendent, J. A. ant.

and son have moved into 's tenement house.

on Phil. Lunway's resi- ore is progressing.

Mr. Cummins and Jno. are improving their lots w fences around them. Kent, has gone to Bellaire lben and John R. Vance recently.

John Munro, Sr., again ps.

visor, W. F. Palmiter is operty in this township, the Enterprise expressed recently, that township ld be of four years dura- s did that thought strike nce getting into office?

on made its appearance first time May 3d. We ree regular boats.

vessels loaded here last o are now loading, besides is little tugs that ply our Estate Transfers.

he Journal by Urquhart Bros., ollows:

wing is a list of transfers te in Charlevoix county, consideration is $100 or e week ending Tuesday ay 6, 1884, as recorded of register of deeds:

Newman to L. D. Bartholomew, lot 140, Upright's addition to Charlevoix, $125.

George F. Lee to John C. Bardin, s e ¼ of n w ¼, 13-32-6, $300.

Daniel DeLong and wife to Adelbert B. Rowley, s w ¼ of n e ¼, 16-32-6, $400.

Daniel H. Paine and wife to Chas. W. Butcher, s w ¼ of n w ¼, 6?-32-5, $100.

A. J. Batchelder and wife to A. A. Watkins, lot 12, Charlton, $800.

A. S. Upright and wife to Mary A. Crouter, lots 10, 11 and 12, blk 9, Charlevoix, $900.

S. J. Farmer and wife to John Clark, s e ¼ of n e ¼, 19-32-6, $100.

Burgess.

A. W. Chew has bought part of the place formerly owned by Wm. Burns.

Miss Celestie Baker who has been very sick with the diphtheria is getting better.

Mrs. Ferguson is visiting among her friends in Hayes.

Considerable sickness in various parts of Hayes, mostly diphtheria and scarlet fever.

Loren Hamlin is to have a logging bee on Thursday and dance in the evening.

Frank Kane has been hunting for a cow since Saturday.

Geo. O. Scott is nearly through his spring seeding.

MARRIED.

WHEELER—COOPER.—In Charlevoix, May 1st, by Rev. J. T. Iddings, Sherman O. Wheeler, of Boyne Falls, and Elizabeth E. Cooper, of Unionville.

GUYER—ARCHER.—At the residence of the officiating clergyman, in Charlevoix, May 6th, by Rev. C. F. Van Anken, Mr. Herman Guyer and Miss Lucy Archer, both of Eastport.

DIED.

VAN DEUSEN.—At his residence in Norwood, May 6th, Avery Van Deusen, aged 48 years.

Mr. Van Deusen moved to Charlevoix county sixteen years ago, and settled on the farm where he died. He has been industrious and prosperous, and leaves a comfortable home for his large family. He was buried on Tuesday, the funeral being largely attended by the old residents of the county. The services were held at the family residence, Rev. C. F. Van Anken officiating.

McCABE'S Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES AT

McCabe's Livery Barn,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

WM. J. STEVENSON, HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my famous "Acme" and the best machine made. WARRANT MY WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞ The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 43

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR,

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

PAY UP.—Delinquent subscribers, who can, are requested to pay on something on subscription, if only a part of what they owe. We have bills for material, work, etc., which must be paid at once.

Good Times for Boys.

It has been estimated that 20 new houses will be built on the Upright addition this summer.

Another large piece of machinery for the planing mill arrived on the Faxton Monday morning.

Chas D. Tillo, representing the Chicago Newspaper Union, gave the JOURNAL a call last Monday.

L. W. Skinner, who has been laid up about four weeks with a sprained ankle, is able to be out again.

Discourse at the M. E. church next Sunday morning, on "future possibilities." In the evening "the bible in the schools" will be the subject, by request. All who can come are most cordially invited.

is the property of her son, D. M. Colby, of this township.

L. D. Bartholomew has moved his hardware stock into the opera block, in the room formerly occupied by J. Milo Eaton's law and real estate office. The south and west sides have been fitted with shelving, counters, etc., and additions to the stock will be made to meet the demands of this community. The stock already on hand shows to much better advantage than it did in the old place. O. I. Wheat, with a corps of assistants made short work of the refitting.

The American newspaper directory for 1884 is a volume of 1255 pages. It gives an alphabetical list of newspapers in the United States and Canada, by states and towns, by states and counties, and lists devoted to religion, agriculture, medicine, education, announcements, secret societies, commerce, finance, science, mechanics, law, trades, sporting, music, fashion, etc. The population, business, and location is given for every town in which a newspaper is published.

The lecture of W. G. Puddefoot last Sunday evening was a great improvement on temperance lectures generally, dealing with facts just as necessary to a temperate life as any heretofore discussed. Among other things he outlined the work of young women, showing where they may influence young men if they will, or at least avoid the snares into which many of them fall, by refusing to marry a man who tampers with liquor. If a woman cannot reform a man before marriage, she certainly Destroying the Lake Fleet.

The Toledo Commercial Telegram says that the steamer Morning Star brought up four of her barges on Sunday from the grounds in the bay. There were but very few pickets from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the custom house for the week ending Tuesday, May 6:

Apelles—Sc. E. P. Bayer, 213 cords wood, W. S. Strip to Chicago.

20—Sc. Annetta, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, and 30,000 feet hemlock lumber, Glew & Porter to Chicago.

20—Sc. Lapetite, 130 cords wood, P. Thorp to Milwaukee.

May 1—Sc. Lookout, 140 cords wood, C. W. Sutton, Kenosha.

1—Sc. Fleetwing, 500 bu. potatoes, Geo. Horton to Saginaw.

1—Sc. Japan, 120 cords wood and 40 cords bark, Upright, Emery & Co. to Chicago.

1—Sc. A B C F M, 137 cords wood, T. D. Smith to Milwaukee.

1—Sc. Lottie Mason, 50 cords wood, A. P. Pickard to Milwaukee.

1—Prop. John Otis, 400 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co. to Chicago.

3—Sc. Eagle Wing, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, Stoepel & Co., to Chicago.

3—Sc. Wakenia, 150,000 hardwood lumber, Esse Warne, to Chicago.

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 19th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a reform of abuses and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES, Chairman.
H. F. PENNINGTON, Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

BAY SPRINGS.

H. B. Chapman's "Tourists' Home," Nearly Ready for Occupancy.

"Have you been to Bay Springs lately?" was asked of the scribe by a business man one day last week. A reply in the negative elicited the information that Chapman's mammoth hotel was about finished, and it would make a good item go and write it up. We went.

Taking the popular steamer, North Star, last Friday afternoon, we were in good time landed at Boyne, and one of the first persons met was H. B. Chapman, with his pony and buggy, apparently waiting for some one to ride with him.

Our errand being made known, he signified his willingness to "show us through," not only the hotel, but the whole of Bay Springs if we wanted. During the past year some 70 or 80 acres have been cleared, sown to wheat and seeded down. Streets are staked out, the tract platted, and lots are now for sale.

It is a well known fact that the old gentleman hopes some day to see the county seat located at that place, and he exhibits his enthusiasm most when pointing out the advantage of the place for the capital of the county. On the highest point he has reserved one square, as he says, for the future court house. The soil is a coarse gravel, and the view of the surrounding country is most excellent. Boyne, Advance, and the fine agricultural land to the south for miles seems right at one's feet. The land slopes gradually to the east, the south, and the west, making, on the whole, an excellent place to build a town.

About half a mile from the "court house square" is a little lake surrounded by gradual slopes, the land or the beech being hard enough to build a mile race track, with a place on the east side just suited to the purpose of a grand stand, the whole so totally appropriate for a driving park. On this land the young and thrifty trees have been left, to save replanting, when the place is finally selected for that purpose. Near the "park" is a mineral spring, said to be equal in medical qualities to the famous springs in other parts of the state. In front of the hotel he is building a dock 12 rods front, extending to water deep enough to carry the largest vessels in northern waters. This is built of cedar, and with a view to permanency.

Having noted the "lay of the land," we went to the hotel, to see its "hid den beauties." The main entrance is on the west side, by a few easy steps. Double doors with ground glass lights, open into a broad hall, leading to the center of the building, thence turning to the right to the ladies' parlor, through another hall to the office and to the front veranda, to the left into the dining room, or down a flight of stairs to the basement. The ladies' parlor is 18x20 feet, and fronts the west and south.

The office is 24x28 feet, and fronts the south. The counter was only partly finished, but when completed will be an ornament to the room, having an appearance of richness and solidity, and showing the vast resources of the town by being built of native wood.

East of the office, also facing the south, is the reading room 14x18 feet. The wash room is in the rear of the reading room.

East of the reading room is a suite of three rooms, reserved expressly for the use of Mr. Chapman and his wife, which, when finished and furnished, will make as cosy a home as one could ask.

Returning again to the hall we enter the dining room, 28x30 feet, north of which is the kitchen, pantry, and store room, containing all modern conveniences in the interest of comfort and economy.

Returning again, we go down an easy flight of stairs to the basement. Here we find several rooms fitted up for special uses, chief among them being a burber shop, sample rooms, a suite of rooms for offices, with a large fire proof vault with fittings from the Detroit Safe Co.

There is also a laundry-room, a large cellar, a cistern with a capacity of 170 barrels, and perhaps other features which have escaped our memory.

Returning to the "grand stairway," we ascend to the second story. Here we find four suites of rooms, facing the south and west, designed for the use of people with abundant means. They will be furnished luxuriously, and contain all modern conveniences.

The building is L-shaped, and a broad hall runs its full length, east and west, and north and south. On the inner side of the building, the rooms are designed for single bedrooms. At the extreme east end there is a suit of rooms designed as a "bridal chamber," which will be finished and furnished with the best the country affords. At the extreme north end, where everything will be as quiet as anywhere on the premises, a large room will be fitted up for a hospital. On this floor are several large closets for extra bedding, etc., besides the usual small closets with each bed room.

Ascending to the third floor, we find the east wing with rooms similar to the floor below. But a surprise awaits us at the west wing. Instead of rooms, we find a hall 28x90 feet, with stage, dressing-rooms, etc., all complete. From the ceiling project gas-pipe, from which will be suspended four fine chandeliers. The hall will be seated with camp chairs, 300 of which have already been ordered. Whenever found desirable to convert this into a dance hall, the extra chairs may be folded up and stored in a room provided for that purpose. There are still other uses which may be made of this room if found desirable, provisions for which became part of the plan of construction,—but this will be made apparent later on.

A fine piece of timber, well finished, is the hand-rail of the main stairway. The beauty of color, grain, and polish, deserve special mention, but must be seen to be appreciated. Mr. Chapman takes special pride in this feature, and thinks it cannot be duplicated in this region.

Besides the main stairway, there is a stairway at each end of the building especially serviceable in case of a fire, or panic of any kind.

Every room in the building will be supplied with gas-light, which will be made on the premises.

Around two sides of the building, on both first and second floors, are broad verandas,—360 lineal feet altogether,—besides that in the rear of the building. This will make an excellent promenade for resorters during summer evenings.

The wainscoting will be an interesting feature of the finish of the building, being made of native wood, oiled.

From samples shown, the furnishings of the rooms will be first class throughout.

Connected with the house is a large barn, for the accommodation of travelers with teams.

Amid all his busy days, laying plans and supervintending the construction, Mr. Chapman has not lost sight of ladies and children. In fact their comfort and pleasure has been studied throughout the whole work. But in no way is this so plainly manifest as in the laying out and cultivation of a flower garden, which is already well started, and the flowers in bloom. The front yard is graded, planted with trees, and seeded to grass, making it in time an excellent playground or promenade as required.

Notwithstanding all the croakings of chronic and jealous faultfinders about "Chapman's elephant," this gentleman can figure out a clear and brilliant future for his embryo city. In fact, with the means at his disposal, it is only a question of time, and not a very long time, either, when his will begin to realize some of his many hopes and anticipations. He expects to have the house open to to the public some time in June, after which his plans and purposes will be more apparent to people outside of his particular field of operations.

Cloves.

If you will look on your map of Oceanica, in the division of Malaysia, you will find a group of tiny islands nestled in between Celebes and Papua, known as the Moluccas or Spice Islands, from the great quantity of cloves, nutmegs, and mace obtained from them. Although they look so small to you, they are of great value on account of the spice trees.

The Portuguese and Spaniards both found them about the year 1521; but Antonio de Brito, a Portuguese navigator, took possession of them in the name of his king, and that nation held them until the Dutch (assisted by the natives) drove them out in the first part of the seventeenth century, and took possession of them themselves. This they have held until the present time, with the exception of a brief period in 1796, when the English conquered them from the Dutch, but soon restored them.

The clove-tree was found on only five islands in its native state, and on the island of Amboyna, where the natives had begun to cultivate it. As soon as the Dutch obtained possession they began to destroy all the clove-trees except on the island of Amboyna, in order to make the spice scarce, and so increase the price. Every year, until 1824, an expedition of soldiers and laborers were sent from Holland to the Moluccas with orders to destroy every clove-tree there except those on Amboyna.

During the short time the English held possession of the islands, they carried clove-trees to Bourbon and Mauritius. In 1830 they were planted on the islands of Pemba and Zanzibar, and from the latter island about 7,000,000 pounds are exported every year; these are worth over $600,000. They are also raised in Sumatra, Madagascar, Cayenne, and Brazil; but the best still come from Amboyna.

The clove-tree is from fifteen to forty feet high. It has a perfectly straight trunk, covered with a smooth, olive-colored bark. From where the branches begin, it has the form of a pyramid; the leaves are a dark green, and very glossy; the flowers grow in clusters, and are of a reddish color; the fruit is about the size and shape of an olive, perhaps not quite as large, and when ripe is dark red. The part that we use as spice is the flower-buds, which are gathered just before they open. They are dried by the smoke of wood fires, or by being exposed to the rays of the sun. By drying they are changed from red to a deep brown. They look so much like a nail with a round head that both the Portuguese and Spaniards gave them a name which meant nails in their language, and which has since become our English word, clove. The French called them fragrant-nail, on account of their delicious odor. All parts of the tree are fragrant,—bark, leaves, flowers and fruit. Cloves are used in cooking, in medicine, or for embalming or preserving bodies from decay. An oil is later obtained from them, which is much used in perfumery.

She Kept It Out of the Paper.

There is an old lady by the name of Cushing residing in that portion of the city bounded by Walnut, Hunter and Wellington streets who is a living contradiction to the assertion that a woman cannot hold her tongue.

The old lady in question is a widow, and supports herself and family by the sale of the milk from four cows. She is not ambitious to shine in the social world. Her chief objects in life are to live continuously and keep her name out of the papers, and this she has generally managed to do.

A few weeks ago, while attending to her duties in the stable, she was attacked by one of her cattle, an angry bull, knocked down and trampled upon. Two of her ribs were broken, and she was severely bruised withal. Paramount to every other consideration, however, at this time came the thought that if the accident became known the sanctity of her home would be invaded by newspaper prowlers, and her private affairs paraded before the world. She therefore resolved to keep the secret locked in her own breast, and not even to her own daughter did she tell the particulars of the accident. To the doctor who attended her she merely stated briefly that she had slipped and fallen.

None but those of her own sex can appreciate the heroism of the old lady. Friends visited her and inquired for particulars of how it happened; not a word. Her own children were solicitous, but their questions elicited not a word.

"There is nothing hidden which shall not be revealed," but of the manner in which this story came to be known, deponent saveth not.—Hamilton Spectator.

Mr. T. Matsdaira, a Japanese, has been elected to the office of chief engineer of the city of Bradford, Pa. He is probably the first representative of Japan ever elected to any civil office in the United States.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—OF—

All-Wool Goods, Overcoats and Suitings, Boots and Shoes.

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at actual cost, as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. Remember, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark.

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

Advance Lumber Company

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO. ADVANCE, MICH.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes,

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes,

LATEST STYLES.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW,

DEALER IN

Hardware,

FARM IMPLEMENTS, ETC.

Charlevoix, Mich.

A FINE STOCK OF

New Boots & Shoes

JUST RECEIVED.

Prices Below all Competition.

L. B. Connor

Custom Work and Repairing to Order.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 9, 1884.

Business Announcements.

Children's School Shoes, a large stock just received. Manufactured in Chicago especially for my trade. Call and see them. Info inglis.

Oranges and Lemons cheap, at E. M. Clark's.

Extra copies of the JOURNAL for sale at Woods' drug store.

New Clothing just received at E. M. Clark's.

Bustles! Bustles!! Bustles!!! At Upright, Emery, & Co.

One hundred suits clothes at $7.00, worth $10.00, at E. M. Clark's.

Prints, Cottons, Collars, Skirting, Linen Goods, etc., at Upright, Emery & Co.

14½ pounds C sugar for $1, at E. M. Clark's.

Shingles for the million at Upright Emery & Co.

11 pounds granulated sugar for $1, at Woods' drug store.

Mrs. Belle Bigelow is advertised for a lecture under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. at the opera house tonight.

Jos. Hyland went to Chicago on Monday to inspect some new boilers to be put in F. J. Meech's mill at South Arm.

Robert O'Neil went to Cheboygan on Monday to take the position of engineer on Dexter & Noble's steamer Ormie Barker.

Benj. Rice, who has been visiting in Macomb, and St. Clair counties for the past two months, returned home last Friday.

The Detroit Sunday Times in its new dress is the handsomest newspaper in Michigan. And its news department is not far behind.

O. T. Booth, of Hayes, commenced a dock on lake Michigan, last week, among them perhaps 500 pounds. There was probably half a ton or more of catfish, large and small, and the remainder were principally suckers and perch, a very large per cent of the latter. The great bulk of these fish were full of spawn, taken while attempting to reach their spawning beds in the river.

Fifteen persons were licensed with the Van Buren county peddler last week. Others were injured.

The Kalamazoo platform favors the submission of constitutional prohibition to vote of the people.

The T. S. Faxton has been nicely repainted on the outside and Mr. E. Lewis with a gang of men is now at work on the inside and it is expected to have the boat ready for business and that she will start out on her first trip Thursday morning. The same officers have charge of her this season as last, viz: Capt. Jas. Morrison, of Wm. Smith, who takes the place of Mr. Brinkman as clerk. The boat will run on her old route between Traverse City and Harbor Springs, touching at intermediate points. Leigh, 20th.

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS.

Patent Medicines, all Kinds,

Imported and Domestic Perfumery.

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our motto is to Deal fair and square.

Opera Block

J. L. HURD & CO.

Successors to A. Fox.

Having completed their inventory, find that they have over $6,000 worth of Dry Goods, Dress Goods, Fancy Goods, Knit Goods, Notions, Ladies and Gents Underwear, Woolens, Satinets, Furnishing Goods, Clothing, Hats and Caps, Crockery and Glassware, Groceries and Provisions, etc. etc.

Bargains in Everything.

These goods were bought at a great sacrifice, many of them have been placed in stock during the past three months and are fresh, desirable goods but must be moved to make room for spring stock.

Going out of Clothing. Over 150 men's and boy's suits in medium and light weight goods, well made and excellent styles, offered at an immense discount

20 suits at $14, $18 suits at $13, $10 and all others goods equally low. Reat most of these goods are of the latest best make. Step in and compare the orices.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Clover Seed, Feed, &c., on hand. Sole Agents for etoskey Lime.

THE JOURNAL.

NO. 13. SUPPLEMENT. MAY 3, 1884.

The following plank in the platform made at Kalamazoo last week, will strike a responsive chord in many a workingman in this state this fall:

Resolved, That the policy of restricting the liberty of commerce by taxes designed, not for government revenues, but private advantage, is in violation of the fundamental law of liberty and equality. That it is injurious to the farmer, the price of whose products are regulated in a foreign market, and are now, in spite of tariff, forced down by foreign competition almost to the level of their cost, while all of his necessities are increased in price by taxation; that it is cruelest to the laborer, to compete with whom it admits a horde of pauper laborers from Europe while it rigidly excludes the cheap necessities of his life; that it builds up colossal fortunes for the few rich and crushes the mass poor under a deeper load of degradation, want and squalor; that it favors illegitimate speculation, and discourages steady and solid business; is nothing by being about alternate periods of wild activity and depressed stagnation; therefore, we favor an immediate beginning in a reform of this system, which, without too sudden changes, shall tend gradually to commercial liberty.

Gold in Michigan.

Rich gold diggings have just been discovered near Shelby, in Oceana county. That the ground where it was first discovered is rich there is no doubt, but how extensive the gold producing area is has yet to be determined. It was discovered in the sand pumped from a drive well at a depth of eighty feet, and from the pipe of a dirt, about a cubic yard, upward $20 in value was obtained, in coarse flakes. The metal was subjected to the usual tests, and even then the finders were incredulous, but the farmer on whose land it was found refused large offers for his land. A specimen was sent to Detroit and pronounced the genuine article. There is, of course, considerable excitement over the find, and visions of fortune haunt the sleeping and waking hours of the dwellers of the locality. Muskegon News.

Destroying the Lake Fish.

The Toledo Commercial Telegram says that the steamer Morning Star brought up four or five tons of fish on Sunday from the pounds in the bay. There were but very few pickered among them. The pickerel are now in the river and spawning, and it is well known that the pickerel, when ready to spawn, will come up the smallest creek they can find water in, and that the destruction of them at this time of year is the most effectual way of preventing the increase of the species. It is also well known that the pickerel is the most voracious and destructive fish that swims in our waters, and that the destruction of them is a matter of the first importance to the fishing interests of the lake. It has been estimated that 20 new houses will be built on the Upright addition this summer.

Another large piece of machinery for the planing mill arrived on the Faxton Monday morning.

Chas. D. Tillo, representing the Chicago Newspaper Union, gave the JOURNAL a call last Monday.

L. W. Skinner, who has been laid up about four weeks with a sprained ankle, is able to be out again.

Discourse at the M. E. church next Sunday morning, on "future possibilities." In the evening "the bible in the schools" will be the subject, by request. All who can come are most cordially invited.

For You

NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.

THE ILLUSTRATED

BIOGRAPHICAL

1884. ANNUAL. 1884.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR.

It contains something for everybody. Its pages abound and burst with pictures and out. It is a life portrayal to the people, the Clergyman, the Lawyer, the Doctor, the Statesman, the Soldier, the Druggist, the Merchant, the Mechanic and the Farmer, who integrate by his industries and enterprise the business life of the country.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.

Within its pages may be found nearly

200 PORTRAITS, MEN AND WOMEN who have attained and are still attaining prominence in various directions.

Its pages are enriched with elegant lithographic engravings of the EXECUTIVE MANSION AND CABINET, showing the officials and dates of the PRESIDENTS THEMSELVES, and of the Vice-Presidents.

It engrs familiarize the reader with the features and so, it has been prominent Ground and Lower Houses of Congress, Governors, Judges, Senators, Congressmen, Governors, Ministers, Mayors and Aldermen, Statesmen, Warriors, Philosophers, Poets, Inventors, Advocates, Irish Agitators, Philanthropists, Orators, Editors and Writers in all the various walks of life, INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES,

AMONG WHOM WE MAY MENTION BLAINE, ARTHUR, SEMINARIAN, EVANS, MORRISON, FLOWER, HUNTING, LINCOLN, SARGENT, BOUTWELL, GARFIELD, BURNSIDE, BUTLER, MACKENZIE, CANNON AND HOADLEY.

EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.

Old or Young, Protestants, whether Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Congregations, Baptists or Methodists, all find in THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL a faithful, free, impartial, and comprehensive record of their fellow-men. The Publisher

PROMINENT WOMEN which occupy a so Also universally interesting and time consumer in engraving and literary reading, and will ever be a source of pride and pleasure to the fair sex, and that should not be forgotten.

If you would know what is generally in the focus and opinions of the women and women whose names form so familiar to everybody, get a copy of THE ball, 80 cords wood and 120 ney, to Chicago.

BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL

Sent postpaid on receipt of ONE DOLLAR. T. L. KLOPSCH & CO., Publishers, 22 White Street, New York.

6,000 posts, T. D. Smith, to ic, 450 tons pig iron, Pine ings.

cords wood, T. D. Smith, to ords wood, Harker, to Chi-

, 115 cords wood, Upright ago.
7,000 posts, Upright, Emery

50 ties, T. D. Smith, to Mil-

0 tons pig iron, Pine Lake

cords wood, W. H. Downer,

ray, 225,000 feet hardwood o., Detroit.
7, 200,000 feet hardwood lum- to Chicago.

uth Arm.

m on Thursday night

ntery for May but the since has made every-spring again.

reached at the South

ense last Sunday, for since his illness. A l was also organized,

t, superintendent, J. A.

nt.

nd son have moved into tenement house.

Phil. Lanway's resi-e is progressing.

Mr. Cummins and Jno.

re improving their lots

e fences around them.

eat, has gone to Bellaire son and John R. Vance recently.

John Munro, Sr., again

isor, W. F. Palmiter is perty in this township.

he Enterprise expressed recently, that township

l be of four years dura-

did that thought strike

ce getting into office?

n made its appearance

first time May 3d. We see regular boats.

vessels loaded here last are now loading, besides

a little tugs that ply our parts of Hayes, mostly diphtheria and scarlet fever.

Lucen Tamlin is to have a logging bee on Thursday and dance in the evening.

Frank Kane has been hunting for a cow since Saturday.

Geo. O. Scott is nearly through his spring seeding.

MARRIED.

WHEELER—COOPER, in Charlevoix, May 1st, by Rev. C. F. Van Anken, Mr. O. Wheeler, of Manistique, and Elizabeth B. Cooper, of Charlevoix.

GUYER—ARCHER—At the residence of the officiating clergyman, in Charlevoix, May 4th, by Rev. C. F. Van Anken, Mr. Herman Guyer and Miss Lucy Archer, both of Kasport.

DIED.

VAN DEUSEN—At his residence in Norwood, May 4th, Avery Van Deusen, aged 86 years.

Mr. Van Deusen moved to Charlevoix county sixteen years ago, and settled on the farm where he died. He has been industrious and prosperous, and leaves a comfortable house for his large family. He was buried on Tuesday, the funeral being largely attended by the old residents of the county. The services were held at the family residence, Rev. C. F. Van Anken officiating.

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES

AT

McCabe's Livery Barn,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞ The CELEBRATED MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 43

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR,

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co's mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

PAY UP.—Delinquent subscribers, who can, are requested to pay on subscribing for subscription, if only a part of what they owe. We have bills for material, stock, etc., which must be paid at once.

Burgess.

A. W. Chew has bought part of the place formerly owned by Wm. Burns.

Miss Celestie Baker who has been very sick with the diphtheria is getting better.

Mrs. Ferguson is visiting among her friends in Hayes.

Considerable sickness in various

George F. Lee to John C. Bardin, s e ¼ of n w ¼, 12-32-5, $200.

Daniel DeLong and wife to Adelbert B. Howley, s w ¼ of n e ¼, 18-32-5, $400.

Daniel D. Fisher and wife to Chas. W. Dutcher, n w ¼ of n w ¼, 27-33-5, $125.

A. J. Batchelder and wife to A. A. Watkins, lot 12, Clarion, $800.

A. K. Upright and wife to Mary A. Crouter, lots 10, 11 and 12, blk 9, Charlevoix, $900.

S. J. Farmer and wife to John Clark, s e ¼ of n e ¼, 10-33-5, $200.

Emery Lumber Co. to Chas. Dutcher, lot 4, block 3, Emery's add, Charlevoix, $100.

Jos. Hyland and wife to Chas. Dutcher, lot 3, block 3, Emery's add, Charlevoix, $100.

Chas. Dutcher and wife to Jos. Hyland, lot 4, block 3, Emery's add, Charlevoix, $100.

Chas. Dutcher and wife to Jos. Hyland, lot 3, block 3, Emery's add, Charlevoix, $100.

Jos. Hyland and wife

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 16th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in our effort for a return of abuses and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES,
Chairman.
H. F. PENNINGTON,
Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

BAY SPRINGS.

H. B. Chapman's "Tourists' Home," Nearly Ready for Occupancy.

"Have you been to Bay Springs lately?" was asked of the scribe by a business man one day last week. A reply in the negative elicited the information that Chapman's mammoth hotel was about finished, and it would make a good item go and write it up. We went.

Taking the popular steamer, North Star, last Friday afternoon, we were in good time landed at Boyne, and one of the first persons met was H. B. Chapman, with his pony and buggy, apparently waiting for some one to ride with him.

Our errand being made known, he signified his willingness to "show us through," not only the hotel, but the whole of Bay Springs if we wanted. During the past year some 70 or 80 acres have been cleared, sown to wheat and seeded down. Streets are staked out, the tract platted, and lots are now for sale.

It is a well known fact that the old gentleman hopes some day to see the county seat located at that place, and he exhibits his enthusiasm most when pointing out the advantage of the place for the capital of the county. On the highest point he has reserved one square, as he says, for the future court house. The soil is a coarse gravel, and the view of the surrounding country is most excellent. Boyne Advance, and the fine agricultural land to the south for miles seems right at one's feet. The land slopes gradually to the east, the south, and the west, making, on the whole, an excellent place to build a town.

About half a mile from the "court house square" is a little lake surrounded by gradual slopes, the land on the beach being hard enough to build a mile race track, with a place on the east side just suited to the purpose of a grand stand, the whole especially appropriate for a driving park. On this land the young and thrifty trees have been left, to save replanting, when the place is finally selected for that purpose. Near the "park" is a mineral spring, said to be equal in medical qualities to the famous springs in other parts of the state. In front of the hotel he is building a dock 12 rods front, extending to water deep enough to carry the largest vessels in northern waters. This is built of cedar, and with a view to permanency.

Having noted the "lay of the land," we went to the hotel, to see its "hidden beauties." The main entrance is on the west side, by a few easy steps. Double doors with ground glass lights, open into a broad hall, leading to the center of the building, thence turning to the right to the ladies' parlor, through another hall to the office and to the front varanda, to the left into the dining room, or down a flight of stairs to the basement. The ladies' parlor is 18x20 feet, and fronts the west and south.

The office is 24x28 feet, and fronts the south. The counter was only partly finished, but when completed will be an ornament to the room, having an appearance of richness and solidity, and showing the vast resources of the town by being built of native wood.

East of the office, also facing the south, is the reading room 14x18 feet. The wash room is in the rear of the reading room.

East of the reading room is a suite of three rooms, reserved expressly for the use of Mr. Chapman and his wife, which, when finished and furnished, will make as cosy a home as one could ask.

Returning again to the hall we enter the dining room, 28x50 feet, north of which is the kitchen, pantry, and store room, containing all modern conveniences in the interest of comfort and economy.

Returning again, we go down an easy flight of stairs to the basement. Here we find several rooms fitted up for special uses, chief among them being a barber shop, sample rooms, a suite of rooms for offices, with a large fire proof vault with fittings from the Detroit Safe Co.

There is also large cellar, a ci of 170 barrels, an tures which have

Returning to th we ascend to the we find four suit the south and we use of people wit They will be fu and contain all m

The building i broad hall runs f and west, and no the inner side of rooms are design rooms. At the ex is a suite of rooms chamber," whi and furnished country affords. north end, where as quiet as anywh a large room will hospital. On thi large closets for e besides the usual each bed room.

Ascending to th find the east wing to the floor below awaits us at the w of rooms, we find with stage, dress complete. From gas-pipe, from whic ol four fine chan will be seated with of which have alre Wherever found vert this into a extra chairs may stored in a room purpose. There a which may be mad found desirable, p became part of the tion.—but this will later on.

A fine piece of tim is the hand-rail of th The beauty of color, deserve special men seen to be appreciat takes special pride and thinks it cannot this region.

Besides the main a stairway at each e especially convenient or panic of any kind

Every room in the supplied with gas-lig made on the premis

Around two sides on both first and broad varandas,—36 gether,—besides tha the building. This cellent promenade f ing summer evenings

The wainscoting w ing feature of the fir ing, being made of ni

From samples sight ings of the rooms will be first class throughout.

Connected with the house is a large barn, for the accommodation of travelers with teams.

Amid all his busy days, laying plans and superintending the construction, Mr. Chapman has not lost sight of ladies and children. In fact their comfort and pleasure has been studied throughout the whole work. But in no way is this so plainly manifest as in the laying out and cultivation of a flower garden, which is already well started, and the flowers in bloom. The front yard is graded, planted with trees, and seeded to grass, making it in time an excellent playground or promenade as required.

Notwithstanding all the croakings of chronic and jealous faultfinders about "Chapman's elephant," this gentleman can figure out a clear and brilliant future for his embryo city. In fact, with the means at his disposal, it is only a question of time, and not a very long time, either, when he will begin to realize some of his many hopes and anticipations. He expects to have the house open to the public some time in June, after which his plans and purposes will be more apparent to people outside of his particular field of operations.

Chores.

If you will look on your map of Oceanica, in the division of Malaysia, you will find a group of tiny islands nestled in between Celebes and Papua, known as the Moluccs or Spice Islands, from the great quantity of cloves, nutmegs, and mace obtained from them. Although they look so small to you, they are of great value on account of the

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES

THE JOURNAL.

Charlevoix, Mich., May 9, 1884.

Council Proceedings.

CHARLEVOIX, May 1, 1884.

Council met pursuant to adjournment. Roll called; quorum present.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

A petition to open a street on the north side from Bridge street to the lake, signed by Amos Fox and others, was presented and referred to committee on streets.

A petition asking the council not to license any more saloons was ordered filed with the clerk.

The bill of G. W. Crouter of $12.85 for blank books and stationery was referred to finance committee.

The committee on sidewalks reported unfavorably on petition for sidewalk on west side of Grant street.

The clerk was instructed to have notices for building sidewalk inserted in one of the newspapers of the village.

The marshal was instructed to have the alley in block 7 cleaned.

The finance committee reported favorably on bills of George H. Hill $21, and R. Cooper $50. Report accepted and clerk instructed to draw orders for same.

The marshal was instructed to notify tug captains to modify their speed when running through the channel.

The marshal's salary was fixed at $100 per year.

The clerk was instructed to divide the village printing between the two papers now here, such work to be done from time to time as needed.

The druggists bond of G. W. Crouter was presented and approved.

The druggists bond of O. B. Weed & Co., was presented and laid on the table until the next meeting.

Adjourned one week.

A state of over a million and a half of people have been tortured by a succession of law on the Grant murder case. It looks as though a little vigilantes work would be more profitable. —Cadillac Times.

GILBERT & MOULTON,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting,

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING.

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

Smuggling Coolies Across The Line.

Although little has been said recently about the smuggling of Chinese into Washington Territory from British Columbia, the business of running coolies over the border is still being carried on. This is the headquarters of the trade on the American side, and Victoria and Westminster are the points from which the little companies of Chinamen, varying from eight to forty in number, with one or two pilots or guides, set out. Little is heard now of the business, because it is so well organized, and the silent passing of the coolies across the line is unnoticed. In this town there is a Chinese company organized to smuggle coolies into the country. This fact is well known to the custom house officials here, but the limited force at the disposal of Collector Bash makes it impossible for him to break up the illicit trade.

The Coolie Smuggling Company here employs daring and reckless white men in Victoria to bring canoes or sloop loads of Chinese across the Sound to Dungeness, Point Discovery or Point Wilson. The distance is only about thirty miles, which can easily be covered during the night. The company has its outlooks along the coast between those points, and signals are given to the approaching boats in case of danger. When once landed the coolies pass into the logging camps, and as it is impossible for most persons to distinguish one Chinaman from another, the presence of the new comers excites no suspicion. The price the smuggling company pays per head varies from $15 to $20, which is not paid till the coolies are safely put ashore. The favorite boat for transporting them is the Indian canoe. There are a great many of these boats at Victoria, built, or rather hewn, out of a solid log by the Indians. From five to seven coolies, with two smugglers, enter a canoe at nightfall, and with the aid of the tide cross to Washington Territory before morning. There are some signs that the traffic will be carried on more extensively in the spring than ever before.—San Francisco Chronicle.

FARM IMPLEMENTS, ETC.

Charlevoix, Mich.

A FINE STOCK OF

New Boots & Shoes

JUST RECEIVED.

Prices Below all Competition.

L. B. Connor

Custom Work and Repairing to Order.

one sacrifice received to keep the secret locked in her own breast, and not even to her own daughter did she tell the particulars of the accident. To the doctor who attended her she merely stated briefly that she had slipped and fallen.

None but those of her own sex can appreciate the heroism of the old lady. Friends visited her and inquired for particulars of how it happened; not a word. Her own children were solicitous, but their questions elicited not a word.

"There is nothing hidden which shall not be revealed," but of the manner in which this story came to be known, deponent sayeth not.—Hamilton Spectator.

Mr. T. Matsudaira, a Japanese, has been elected to the office of chief engineer of the city of Bradford, Pa. He is probably the first representative of Japan ever elected to any civil office in the United States.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 9, 1884.

Business Announcements.

Children's School Shoes, a large stock just received. Manufactured in Chicago especially for my trade. Call and see them. No. 5 Bigelow's block. L. B. CONNOR.

Oranges and Lemons cheap, at E. M. Clark's.

Extra copies of the JOURNAL for sale at Woods' drug store.

New Clothing just received at E. M. Clark's.

Bustles! Bustles!! Bustles!!! At Upright, Emery, & Co.

One hundred suits clothes at $7.00, worth $10.00, at E. M. Clark's.

Prints, Cottons, Collars, Skirting, dress goods, etc., at Upright, Emery & Co.

14½ pounds C sugar for $1, at E. M. Clark's.

Shingles for the million at Upright Emery & Co.

11 pounds granulated sugar for $1, at E. M. Clark's.

Provision Market.

Retail prices to consumers, as corrected every Wednesday evening by UPRIGHT, EMERY & CO., general dealers:

FLOUR, per bbl, $6.00, $7.00, and $8.00.
CORN MEAL, per cwt, bolted $2.00; unbolted, $1.75.
HAY, per ton, $8@9.
OATS, per bu, 50c.
GROUND FEED, per cwt, $1.75.
APPLES, per bu, $1.40.
POTATOES, per bu, 50c.
ONIONS, per bu, $1.00.
BUTTER, per lb, 25c.
EGGS, per doz, 18c.
LARD, per lb, 14@16c.
HAMS, 9c; Shoulders, 12½c.
SALT PORK, 11c; Dry Salt Sides, 12; Beef, 8c.
MAKEREL, per lb, 18c.
CHEESE, 9c.
WATER-WHITE OIL, 25c.
FARMERS' PRODUCE in good demand.

Fresh Meats from the Market.

BEAT, best steak, 12½@15c; fresh pork, 10½@12c; mutton, 12½@18c; sausage, 15c; hams, 16c; shoulders, 12½c.
TALLOW, 6@7c.

Local News Brevities.

Notes and News.

The Frankfort Express returns to patent outside.

Miss Spaulding expects more new goods next week.

The mail at Cadillac averages 260 pounds per train.

The new machinery at the planing mill works nicely.

A. R. Colgrove is again in Henry Cooper's furniture store.

R. Rose, of the Petoskey Democrat was in town last Thursday.

Conner has an invoice of school shoes from Chicago this week.

The office of the Fountain City house has been brightened up.

Wm. Mears and Frank Myers, of Boyne Falls, were in town Monday.

Mr. Chas. Williams, of Boyne, made the JOURNAL a call on Monday.

W. A. Brown and wife returned home from Newcastle, Ind., last Friday.

If you want something nice in Millinery goods go to Miss Spaulding.

Rev. W. G. Puddefoot preached to a crowded house at Barnard Monday evening.

Regular monthly meeting of fire department to-night. Full attendance requested.

E. M. Clark has placed a new counter with drawers along the center of his salesroom.

Mrs. A. Beers, of Advance, was in town Saturday, the guest of Miss Martha O'Neil.

W. F. Lance writes from Orlando, Fla., that he will be in Charlevoix about May 20th.

A. H. Upright commenced the foundation of a barn 30x50 feet on the bluff near his house.

It has been estimated that 20 new houses will be built on the Upright addition this summer.

Another large piece of machinery for the planing mill arrived on the Paxton Monday morning.

Chas. D. Tillo, representing the Chicago Newspaper Union, gave the JOURNAL a call last Monday.

L. W. Skinner, who has been laid up about four weeks with a sprained ankle, is able to be out again.

Discourse at the M. E. church next Sunday morning, on "future possibilities." In the evening "the bible in the schools" will be the subject, by request. All who can come are most cordially invited.

Mrs. Belle Bigelow is advertised for a lecture under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. at the opera house tonight.

Jos. Hyland went to Chicago on Monday to inspect some new boilers to be put in F. J. Meech's mill at South Arm.

Robert O'Neil went to Cheboygan on Monday to take the position of engineer on Dexter & Noble's steamer Gracie Barker.

Benj. Rice, who has been visiting in Macomb, and St. Clair counties for the past two months, returned home last Friday.

The Detroit Sunday Times in its new dress is the handsomest newspaper in Michigan. And its news department is not far behind.

O. T. Booth, of Hayes, commenced a clock on lake Michigan, last week but the storm of Thursday night took it away before it could be finished.

McCabe's hack line is represented in our advertising columns this week. With the new hack, drays, rigs, etc., his barn is sure to become popular.

The Sentinel begins volume 16 this week, with a prosperous appearance. It is a much better paper than one year ago. So much for competition.

Rev. W. G. Puddefoot will remain and occupy the Congregational pulpit next Sunday morning and evening, giving a chalk talk for the Sunday-school.

L. L. Carr is squaring up the front of his store building, to give it a better appearance, making also a generous awning for the protection of goods placed on exhibition.

O. W. Smith commenced a building 14x28, yesterday morning on the lot between D. C. Nettleton's wagon shop and Wm. Ferguson's restaurant, to be occupied by himself as a lapidary.

On May 1, J. Milo Eaton moved into his new office. He occupies the whole lower floor, which is divided into three rooms, connected by large double doorways. When fully finished, he will have a fine office.

C. S. Hampton, of the Harbor Springs Independent, was made a delegate-at-large at the greenback convention, at Kalamazoo, April 30, to attend the national greenback convention to be held at Indianapolis.

The East Jordan band gave an excursion on the Clara Belle, last Tuesday evening, from East Jordan to Charlevoix. A number of young folks accompanied them, and all seemed to enjoy themselves when here. Come again.

Wm. J. Stevenson advertises his wagons this week. He makes a heavy wagon for the use of farmers and lumbermen, and guarantees first-class work, warranting every wagon sent out. A first-class article is always the cheapest in the end. He has also an excellent reputation as a horseshoer and blacksmith.

A letter from R. W. Kane announces his marriage with Miss Flora Hart, at the Baptist church, Ionia Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Rev. R. C. Mosher, of Dexter, assisted by Rev. Dr. VanAlstine, pastor of the Ionia Baptist church, were the officiating clergymen. Mr. and Mrs. Kane go to Chicago via Grand Haven and Milwaukee, and will be in Charlevoix some time next week.

The notice of the feather wreath, in the JOURNAL last week, was incorrect in the matter of the making. The collection of feathers was made by Mr. Calvin Willey, of Niagara county, N. Y. during a visit of 15 years in South America, and the work was commenced by him but finished by Mrs. Tryphena Colby, in 1864. It is the property of her son, D. M. Colby, of this township.

L. D. Bartholomew has moved his hardware stock into the opera block, in the room formerly occupied by J. Milo Eaton's law and real estate office. The south and west sides have been fitted with shelving, counters, etc., and additions to the stock will be made to meet the demands of this community. The stock already on hand shows to much better advantage than it did in the old place. O. I. Wheat, with a corps of assistants made short work of the refitting.

The American newspaper directory for 1884 is a volume of 1255 pages. It gives an alphabetical list of newspapers in the United States and Canada, by states and towns, by states and counties, and lists devoted to religion, agriculture, medicine, education, amusements, secret societies, commerce, finance, science, mechanics, law, trades, sporting, music, fashion, etc. The population, business, and location is given for every town in which a newspaper is published.

The lecture of W. G. Puddefoot last Sunday evening was a great improvement on temperance lectures generally, dealing with facts just as necessary to a temperate life as any heretofore discussed. Among other things he outlined the work of young women, showing where they may influence young men if they will, or at least avoid the snares into which many of them fall, by refusing to marry a man who tampers with liquor. If a woman cannot reform a man before marriage, she certainly cannot afterward. There is work for all, and all should work together.

Miscellaneous Marine.

The Wright has a new coat of green on her hull.

The steamer Lou A. Cummings was in port Friday and Saturday.

The City of Grand Rapids arrived yesterday noon on her first trip.

The steamer City of Traverse arrived at Traverse City from Chicago last Thursday.

The revolving colored light in the Breesy Point cottage was in operation Monday evening.

The Paxton arrived last Saturday on her first trip. She has been thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

W. F. Orrell writes from Chicago that the Western Transit Co.'s steamers will not stop at any port on the Lake Michigan shore.

The Nellie Booth made an extra trip last Tuesday evening, bringing from East Jordan a number of lassons to attend their banquet here.

Last Saturday E. H. Green took the measurement of Capt. Tullock's new schooner, the Florence M. Smith, in order to ascertain her tonnage

O. D. Mason is building the yawl for Capt. Tullock's new schooner, the Florence M. Smith. It will be 13 feet long, and 4 feet 8 inches wide.

The master of the Sea Gem is a skillful sailor. On Monday he sailed into the inner harbor through the dense fog, without the assistance of a tug.

The City of Grand Rapids is being fitted out and will probably sail for Chicago about the middle of the week, when she will go into dry dock to have her hull caulked. On her return she will enter upon her season's work between Traverse City and Mackinaw.—Eagle, 20th.

It was reported last fall that the new scow built by Jas. Washburn for Haines & Willis, went ashore on her first trip. This was doubted by Mr. Washburn, and he has since had a party on the lookout. A few days ago they found her safely hid near one of the Snow islands. It is hoped Mr. W. will get her back, or get his pay for building.

Navigation opened at Charlevoix with a rush, 18 vessels coming in for freight and passengers in the first 24 hours after the port was open. Some vessels have already made their second trip to Chicago and Milwaukee. More than double the amount of wood, bark, lumber, iron, posts, and ties waiting shipment than ever before. Five steamers make daily trips, and some two trips a day, between Charlevoix and East Jordan, on Pine Lake.—News.

The following are the clearances from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the custom house for the week ending Tuesday, May 6:

Agelina—Sc, E. P. Hayes, 215 cords wood, W. S. Strip to Chicago.

Ida—Schr, America, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, and 30,000 feet hemlock lumber, Glen & Porter to Chicago.

Ida—Sc, Inquisitor, 130 cords wood, P. Thorp to Milwaukee.

May 1—Sc, Lookout, 180 cords wood, C. W. Sutton, Kenosha.

1—Sc, Fleetwing, 500 bu. potatoes, Geo. Horton to Saginaw.

1—Sc, Japan, 130 cords wood and 40 cords bark, Upright, Emery & Co. to Chicago.

1—Sc, A H C F M, 137 cords wood, T. D. Smith to Milwaukee.

1—Sc, Lottie Mason, 50 cords wood, A. E. Pickett to Milwaukee.

1—Prop, John Otis, 460 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

3—Sc, Eagle Wing, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, Stoepel & Co., to Chicago.

3—Sc, Wakenda, 120,000 hardwood lumber, Rose Warner, to Chicago.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Successors to A. Fox.

Having completed their inventory, find that they have over $6,000 worth of Dry Goods, Dress Goods, Fancy Goods, Knit Goods, Notions, Ladies and Gents Underwear, Woolens, Satinets, Furnishing Goods, Clothing, Hats and Caps, Crockery and Glassware, Groceries and Provisions, etc. etc.

Bargains in Everything.

These goods were bought at a great sacrifice, many of them have been placed in stock during the past three months and are fresh, desirable goods but must be moved to make room for spring stock.

Going out of Clothing. Over 150 men's and boy's suits in medium and light weight goods, well made and excellent styles, offered at an immense discount to close. $20 suits at $14, $18 suits at $13, $10 suits at $6 and all others goods equally low. Remember that most of these goods are of the latest styles and best make. Step in and compare the goods and prices. J. L. HURD & CO.

Timothy and Clover Seed, Feed, &c., on hand. Sole Agents for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

3—Sc, Charlie Marshall, 80 cords wood and 120 cords bark, W. F. Emery, to Chicago.

3—Sc, J. A. Hubbell, 6,000 posts, T. D. Smith, to Chicago.

5—Sc, George Steele, 450 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

5—Sc, Surprise, 200 cords wood, T. D. Smith, to Milwaukee.

5—Sc, Stafford, 200 cords wood, Barker, to Chicago.

5—Sc, Mockingbird, 115 cords wood, Upright Emery & Co., to Chicago.

5—Sc, John Bailey, 7,000 posts, Upright, Emery & Co., to Chicago.

6—Sc, Sea Gem, 7,200 ties, T. D. Smith, to Milwaukee.

6—Sc, Melvina, 470 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

8—Sc, H. Rose, 170 cords wood, W. H. Downer, to Chicago.

6—Sc, Grace Murray, 225,000 feet hardwood lumber, Stoepel & Co., Detroit.

8—Sc, Evening Star, 150,000 feet hardwood lumber, Olds & Burgess, to Chicago.

South Arm.

The snowstorm on Thursday night looked quite wintery for May but the refreshing rain since has made everything look like Spring again.

Eld. Blake preached at the South Arm school-house last Sunday, for the first time since his illness. A Sunday school was also organized. Mrs. A. Rest, superintendent, J. A. Vance, assistant.

Mrs. Boise and son have moved into S. G. Isaman's tenement house.

The work on Phil. Lanway's residence and store is progressing.

We notice Mr. Cummins and Jno. Munro, Jr., are improving their lots by putting new fences round them.

James A. Keat, has gone to Bellaire on business.

James Holben and John R. Vance traded farms recently.

We notice John Munro, Sr., again on our streets.

The supervisor, W. F. Palmiter is assessing property in this township. By the way, the Enterprise expressed its opinion recently, that township offices should be of four years duration. Query: did that thought strike the editor since getting into office?

The Paxton made its appearance here for the first time May 3d. We now have three regular boats.

Four sail-vessels loaded here last week and two are now loading, besides the numerous little tugs that ply our waters.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by UPRIGHT EMERY & CO., real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, where the consideration is $100 or over, for the week ending Tuesday evening, May 6, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

Elizabeth H. Newman to L. D. Bartholomew, lot 10, Upright's addition to Charlevoix, $125.

George F. Lee to John C. Rardin, s e ¼ of n w ¼, 13-32-5, $500.

Daniel DeLong and wife to Adelbert B. Rowley, s w ¼ of n ½, 16-32-6, $400.

Daniel D. Paine and wife to Chas. W. Butcher, n w ¼ of n w ¼, 27-35-5, $120.

A. J. Batchelder and wife to A. A. Watkins, lot 12, Clarion, $800.

A. K. Upright and wife to Mary A. Crouter, lots 10, 11 and 12, blk 8, Charlevoix, $800.

S. J. Farmer and wife to John Clark, s e ¼ of n e ¼, 19-32-5, $100.

Burgess.

A. W. Chew has bought part of the place formerly owned by Wm. Burns.

Miss Celestie Baker who has been very sick with the diphtheria is getting better.

Mrs. Ferguson is visiting among her friends in Hayes.

Considerable sickness in various parts of Hayes, mostly diphtheria and scarlet fever.

Loren Hamlin is to have a logging bee on Thursday and dance in the evening.

Frank Kane has been hunting for a cow since Saturday.

Geo. O. Scott is nearly through his spring seeding.

MARRIED.

WHEELER—COOPER.—In Charlevoix, May 1st, by Rev. J. T. Eddings, Sherman L. Wheeler, of Hayes, and Elizabeth E. Cooper, of Charlevoix.

GUYER—ARCHER.—At the residence of the officiating clergyman, in Charlevoix, May 6th, by Rev. C. F. Van Aiken, Mr. Herman Guyer and Miss Lucy Archer, both of Eastport.

DIED.

VAN DEUSEN.—At his residence in Norwood, May 4th, Avery Van Deusen, aged 56 years.

Mr. Van Deusen moved to Charlevoix county sixteen years ago, and settled on the farm where he died. He has been industrious and prosperous, and leaves a comfortable home for his large family. He was buried on Tuesday, the funeral being largely attended by the old residents of the county. The services were held at the family residence, Rev. C. F. Van Aiken officiating.

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES AT

McCabe's Livery Barn,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 41

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons of the best materials, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞The CORNINE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 43

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR.

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

PAY UP.—Delinquent subscribers, who can, are requested to pay an installment on subscription, if only a part of what they owe. We have bills for material, stock, etc., which must be paid at once.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

KEY WEST has eighty-one cigar factories, employing 5,000 hands, and during the year ended June 30 manufactured 75,000,000 cigars.

WE hear of an economical dressmaker of this city who has bought a gold thimble from the proceeds of basting thread she picked out of dresses and sold. It is now time for the young man to respear who bought a house with the money he received for the cigar stumps collected by him in the streets.

THE relation between death rates and sewerage convenience or water supplies has a curious significance. The average death rate of St. Petersburg is about 35 per 1,000. The city has no sewerage system, properly so called; hence the Neva, its only source of water supply, becomes contaminated with all sorts of results. Cairo has a death rate of 37 per 1,000; it has no sewers, and the Nile water supply is constantly contaminated. The death rate of Pekin is 50 per 1,000; its sanitary condition would not be thought sufficient for a small English village.

THE drink statistics of Belgium have a certain amount of interest. The population of the kingdom, now amounting to about 5,500,000, consumes annually alcohol liquors to the value of 480,000,000 francs, which is 66 per cent. more than thirty years ago. Compared with forty years ago, the number of the insane has increased by 104 per cent., of suicides by 80 per cent., and of condemned criminals by 153 per cent. In 1850 the number of places where alcoholic liquors were retailed was 53,000; it is now 130,000.

A WRITER in the Chicago Sanitary News describes the "Moorish room" in Mr. J. H. Jewett's house of that city. It is very luxurious, with its geometrical ceiling, broad divans, and Oriental carpets. The wall space on one side is filled by a genuine Cairo lattice window, brought here after a service of 200 years in the picturesque Egyptian city. The latticed panels swing outward, and its spindles, circles, and squares are as perfect as they were two centuries ago. The cedar wood is dark with age, but still retains its delicate spicy fragrance.

A REMARKABLE case has just been decided in Brockville, N. Y. A young woman of unimpeachable character and great personal attractions, named Susan Horner, had her likeness taken at John F. Bradley's photograph gallery. Miss Horner's father died recently, and she supported herself with her needle. When her photographs were finished they were so very unlike her that she refused to take them. Bradley was very angry, and revenged himself by adorning one of the photographs with a mustache and painting a cigar in the mouth. A second he decorated with a large pair of red spectacles, and in the third he gave the face a blotched and disgusting appearance. Then he framed the three pictures, wrote some doggerel verses under them, and hung them outside of his studio. The villagers gathered around, and much scandal was the result. Bradley went further, and circulated disgracefully embellished photographs of the girl among the young men of the place. The direct result of all this was a lawsuit, by which Miss Horner recovered $200 damages.

WITH reference to the early life of Osman Digma, the Suakim correspondent of the London Times writes that he was originally a broker and trader, and practically a slave trader in Suakim and Eshlah, where he received a severe financial blow when, some six years ago, a British cruiser captured two slaves dhows full of victims, on the way to Jeddah. Osman Digma's trade then fell from bad to worse, his house property in Suakim was all mortgaged, and he became hopelessly involved. Being of no great distinction by birth, his selection by the Mahdi to lead a religious rebellion is attributed to the accident that Osman Digma, in one of his incursions for south for slaves, met the Mahdi, who formed a high estimate of his ability and of his influence, acquired through successful trading. If this history be trustworthy, passions for other objects than holiness are the keynote of Osman Digma's character and motives, and it is premature to predicate that he will cast his goods and his position into the broken balance of battle. He is an ignorant fanatic, and he cannot himself believe the myths which he manipulies in order to control his followers.

PORT WINE only came into vogue in England in the reign of Anne after Lord Methuen's treaty with Portugal. The port which then made its appearance was for the most part a rough red wine, not produced in the present port wine district, which a hundred years ago was well nigh a wilderness of dwarf oak, heather, and furzes. This district is near-shaped, like Louis Philippe's head. It extends east and west for twenty-seven miles, the thinner end tapering toward the Spanish frontier. The peace of 1815 was the first blow to the port wine interest, so many people began to use French wines. A phenomenally fine crop in 1820 did harm rather than good, inasmuch as it spoiled the palate for what was less good, and caused many to abandon the wine if they could not procure it up to the expected mark.

THE Ohio Legislature has passed a law which removes the stigma and penalty of ignorance and stupidity from the citizen who is called upon to do jury duty. According to its provisions a man need not be an idiot in order to pass upon the guilt or innocence of a fellow-citizen. He may have read newspaper reports of the case and even formed an opinion upon it, but he shall not be disqualified. The law recognizes, what all intelligent people have long recognized, that the man who reads and is capable of forming an opinion on partial information is most likely to be impressed by subsequent evidence to the contrary than the man who is not well enough informed to know what is going on in the world. The same intelligence which led him to hear and weigh the evidence as given him in the newspapers permits him to weigh it and balance it when given to him in the court-room. In the days before newspapers, men were likely to be tried by a jury of their neighbors and acquaintances. Their personal prejudices, feuds, and enmities or partialities and friendships naturally prejudiced the mind to one view or another of a criminal's guilt. Moreover, the information being mainly hearsay, was liable to be imperfect and one-sided. Whereas, newspaper reports of to-day are full, and, take them as they go, fair and broad. They should be slide light obtainable, and their errors are self-corrective. The Ohio law, therefore, is abreast with the times and deserves imitation.

BUT two of our ex-Presidents survive—Grant and Hayes—but Mrs. Polk, widows of ex-Presidents of a past generation, still linger with us. Of the Republican and Democratic candidates for President since the organization of the Republican party in 1856, Buchanan, Douglas, Breckenridge, Lincoln, Greeley, and Garfield are dead. Douglas died early in the war; Buchanan lived to see the war ended and died in 1868; Breckenridge died soon after the failure of the Confederacy; Lincoln was murdered in 1865, just after he had entered upon his second Presidential term; Greeley died in 1872, before the Electoral College had recorded his overwhelming defeat, and Garfield shared Lincoln's fate when four months in office. Of the living candidates, Fremont, who made the brilliant contest against Buchanan in the first Republican battle, lives in New York; McClellan, who unsuccessfully contested Lincoln's re-election, is living in New Jersey; Seymour, who carried New York against Grant in 1868, is residing on his New York farm; Grant has many homes, but prefers New York, and is regarded as a resident there; Tilden is resting at Greystone, just outside of New York City; Hayes is cultivating economy at Fremont, Ohio, and Hancock is enjoying the victories of peace in the New York forts. Of the candidates for Vice President in the same period, Breckenridge, Blair, Dayton, Herschel V. Johnson, Andrew Johnson, Law, and Wilson are dead, and all the living are out of place, except Pendleton, who is about to retire from the Senate, and Arthur, who is now President. Brown still vegetates in Missouri; Hendrick and English are still wrestling with party factions in Indiana; Hamlin is petrified in Maine; Colfax is happy in the lecture field, and Wheeler is forgotten and doubtless trying to be forgetful in New York.

THE poor are only those who feel poor, and poverty consists in feeling poor. The rich, as we reckon them among them the very rich, in a true sense, would be found very indigent and ragged.

WOMAN GOSSIP.

At the Masquerade.

She was masked, but yet I know
That her face
Blushed rosy down in her,
And the grace
That her presence half instilled,
And my raptured senses thrilled,
Never spoke.

Oh, the batteries of her eyes
Thrilled with danger
With their fire, like the skies,
Through the mask
Shot I knew not when she danced,
Charmed, bewildered, crazed, entranced—
So would you.

Why do bright blossoms crop forth,
Why do birds
Sing? Why do bees
Seek the sweet nectar-stars,
Why do men and women sigh,
Why do they Ever—ever—
Ever—ever—
Ever—ever—

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 8, 1884.

Notes and News.

The festive circus has arrived in the state.

The Northwest Farmer for May is on our table.

W. Watson, of Boyne, lost a valuable cow last Thursday night.

The Lansing Journal favors Grover Cleveland, of New York, for president.

Cheboygan disputes with Traverse City the right to the title of "big village."

Charlotte pays George Preston $4,800 for injuries received from falling through a defective sidewalk.

"Died from excessive drinking" was the verdict on nearly 500 cases before English coroner's juries last year.

The planing mill whistle gives a terrible long blast occasionally,—so long, sometimes, that it reminds us of the day of the fire last fall.

Those persons who spend money in other towns for things they could get at home invariably buy at home when they can get trusted.

Mr. E. B Lapham will immediately commence the erection of another store building on the north side of the one he has just sold.—Rockford Register.

Chicago News; It will take more enthusiasm than Blaine can jam into the galleries of the convention to silence the calm, still voice impeaching his record.

Farmers, have you noted any drop in the articles you buy—nails, iron goods, woolens, etc? How does wheat at eighty cents strike you? Is not this "protecting home industries" a terrible paradox?—Niles Democrat.

An evidence of low prices at Weed's drug store is the fact that they bid on filling the medicine chest of the propeller Lawrence, and secured the contract, the captain stating that the price was lower than he paid last year in Chicago.

During his leisure hours last winter, W. Watson, of Boyne, made a violin from lumber grown on his farm, the sounding board being of hemlock, and the sides of curly maple. It is complete in every particular, and makes music, too.

The fish dealers on Little Traverse Bay handled during the year ending April 1st, 1884, only 410,000 pounds which is 100,000 pounds less than was shipped by Connable & Son alone the year before. The fisheries all round the lakes show a similar falling off.

Rev. J. J. Keaney's "fair," on the corner of Bridge and Mason streets, will be a valuable acquisition to our business interests. The room is now being fitted up with new shelving counters, etc. The walls and ceiling have been covered with a handsome design of paper.

A man never fully realizes his own inferiority, never knows what a poor, weak, sin-burdened, grovelling worm of the dust he is, never really understands that he is only one insignificant atom in the great illimitable universe of matter, until he sets out to make a particular smile of rapture for his wife.

And how come the nail manufacturers and form a pool, with full power to regulate prices and restrict production. At the same time reports show that stocks are light and orders numerous. Over $10,000,000 of capital are represented by this pool, which by a high protective tariff is in this way enabled to prey upon the public in defiance of the law of supply and demand.—Chicago News.

"Well, good bye," said the oyster, as he hurriedly held out his hand to the early strawberry. "Here come my train and I'm off to the seaside to recruit my shattered energies." Honestly, I have been so lonesome all winter, swimming around by myself in a wide bilious sea of church-social soup that it seems as though I should die if I couldn't go away somewhere where I could get a glimpse of real time friends." Well, I could stay long enough to see you slip out and roll off onto the floor at the first Sunday school festival, just as the spring fellow with the standing collar and oiled hair thinks he has corralled you in the farthest corner of the shortcake. So long, you rascal; give my regards to the picnic ice cream."

It is reported that Michigan furnishes more cedar for telegraph poles, paving, and other purposes than all the other states combined. The business is certainly assuming enormous proportions, and its cedar timber is abundant in the state, the industry is liable to become one of great importance.

C. B. Davis, of Chicago, has been prospecting for agricultural land in this county the past week. If successful in getting the right location he may engage in the wholesale potato trade with Chicago. At least he expresses great faith in northern Michigan potatoes for both table use and for market.

And now it is that the society young lady meanderth about town and, with a sweet, sly twinkle in her eye, casually inquires of the eligible young man what summer resort he will frequent during the coming season, and then she goes straight home and maketh queer marks in a memorandum. Why is it thus?

The liquor dealers' organ, the Detroit Leader doesn't want Begole. If memory serves us correctly the liquor dealers and their organ did all in their power two years to beat Begole and elect Jerome Governor. If the liquor men have not learned anything since then, they may make up their minds to get left again.—Muskegon News.

This is the season of the year to load your wheelbarrow up with a gloomy and eccentric collection of old peach cans, shoes, hoop-skirts, and other bric-a-brac, and then leave the whole business out by your front gate so that some unfortunate human being may come along in the inky blackness of the night and plunge madly over it.

There will come a time when it will be policy for the greenback party to go alone in Michigan, but we do not believe that time is this year. Changes may occur between now and the meeting of the conventions for nominating candidates but it will make it advisable to ignore the democrats, but that is not the present appearance.—Grand Rapids Leader.

It is time for a change. The opportunity to effect it will come in November next. Let the people—not the democrats only, but all men who have at heart the best interests of the country—ponder well the situation, examine carefully the record of the party in power, and join in an effort to bring about a change for the better—it cannot possibly be for the worse. Barry County Democrat.

A bill has been favorably reported in the national senate making it a penal offense to contract for labor in other countries to be employed in this. Looked at upon its individual merits, the bill seems a galloping absurdity; but if protection is right the American laborer is entitled to his share of it, and the bill is logical and just. The trouble with it as a measure of protection to labor is that it does not go far enough. There should be a large tax on the individual immigrant or even up the system all round. —Boston Post.

One of our best citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

Platform Freaks.

This year the platform planks have a way of flying up and hitting politicians in the face. The republicans of the great manufacturing state of Massachusetts, for example, call for a reduction of the tariff, and they "insist upon a reduction of the customs duties because of the dangerous surplus in the treasury receipts." The only qualification made is that the work of reduction be done in a scientific way but the point of the plank is that a manufacturing state has called for a reduction that protectionists claim will work harm to our industries. On the other hand Iowa, that great agricultural state, has put into its republican platform this selfish kind of a protection plank. Inasmuch as the farmer pays a tribute on every pound of iron he uses, every board he puts into a barn or a fence, every suit of clothes he wears and every pound of sugar he eats, it would seem as if a reduction of the duties on necessities should be as desirable to the republican farmers of Iowa as to the republicans of New Hampshire, who demand such a change in the tariff.

The strangest of all strange things, however, is the development of the free trade idea in the greenback party—a party that relies for its support chiefly on laboring people. Unless the protectionists have been greatly mistaken the laboring men are high tariff men. The whole protection movement has been bolstered up by the theory that it was the only salvation of the working man; and now to have him repudiate the doctrine is sad indeed. Yet the delusion could not be expected to last always. It was a good enough Morgan while it lasted, but even Morgan has his day. —Detroit Times.

Clear and beautiful. After using Hamilton's Oriental Balm, the skin will have a fresh, clear and beautiful appearance. Entirely free from tan, freckles, and all blemishes. It is so perfectly harmless that it cannot fail to delight the most fastidious. We recommend it to all the ladies. Price 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co.

Ben will be There.

Benjamin F. Butler has been selected to carry the standard of Massachusetts democracy to Chicago and although the convention was opposed to instructing him to vote for himself as the nominee for the presidency, he will not be the man to leave any stone unturned whereby such a nomination may be secured.

Butler would make a splendid run; there is no denying that fact. The people generally regard him as the friend of the poor man and the enemy of the monopolist; as a sharp and shrewd politician, and as a bit of a knave perhaps; but not a bit of a fool.

It would not be strange if a man who is on such good terms with Tilden and the New York Sun; who has been baptized into the democratic party by being elected governor of a staunch republican state—it would not be surprising if such a man were to find favor with a very large section of the democratic party.

It is not necessary for the democrats to be altogether harmonious as to their policy. They are the opposition to the existing rule; they represent a desire for a change in the management of government, and hence they may be allowed to quarrel and blunder to a certain extent. The trouble is that heretofore they have exceeded their limit for blundering. With a man like Butler as a leader there would be enough audacity to offset a great many blunders.—Detroit Times.

Worse than heathen are those parents who allow their children to suffer with worms when 25 cents will buy a box of Parmelee's Vermifuge Worm Candies which will immediately cure the child and remove the worms by dissolving them. Do you know the symptoms? Peevishness, sudden starting in sleep, bad breath, great desire for food day and night. Be wise and inaccumulate no more. Price 25 cents per box. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co.

Drive dull care away. Be cheerful, be pleasant, be happy, be healthy. Health is wealth. Use Parmelee's Blood Purifier, it acts upon the liver and kidneys, is regulator for bowels and purifies the blood, it acts upon the digestion, it carries off the old blood and makes new, and is assuring a great reputation for the cure of scrofulous affection, boils, pimples, ulcers, and all skin diseases. $1.00 per bottle. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co.

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix.....	6 30 a. m.	2 00 p. m.
Arrive East Jordan...	8 30 a. m.	4 00 p. m.
Leave East Jordan....	8 00 a. m.	4 30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix.....	11 00 a. m.	6 30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. B. Thompson.

Leave Charlevoix.....	6 30 a. m.	2 00 p. m.
Arrive Boyne.....	8 30 a. m.	4 00 p. m.
Leave Boyne.....	9 30 a. m.	4 30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix.....	11 00 a. m.	6 30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. A. D. Sweet.

East Jordan, lv.	7 00am	Harbor Springs	1 30pm
Charlevoix	8 00am	Petoskey	3 00pm
Petoskey	11 00am	Charlevoix.....	4 30pm
Harbor Springs..	12 30pm	East Jordan, ar.	6 30pm

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card in effect January, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No 1	No. 5	No. 3	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv..		7 45am	7 10pm
Richmond	2 20pm	10 32	8 52
Winchester	3 51	11 57	11 06
Ridge ville	4 11	11 57	41 21
Fort Wayne, ar.	6 52	2 20am	1 30
Fort Wayne, lv..		2 35	1 50am	8 05am
Kendallville.....		3 55	3 32	9 17
Sturgis		4 13	3 44	9 35
Vicksburg		6 11	6 13	11 48
Kalamazoo, ar.		6 52	6 22	12 20am
Kalamazoo, lv.		7 02	7 32	1 55
Battle Creek.....		8 02	8 32	2 55
GO Rapids, lv.	7 15am		12 00m	7 45
44 R & M cross	7 30		10 05	8 05
Howard City.....	8 17		1 26	9 27
Elk Rapids	9 13		12 19pm	7 22
Petoskey	10 17		1 17	8 20
Bay View	11 25		2 25	9 30
Cadillac			2 30	9 00
Traverse City, ar			4 15
Kalkaska, lv			3 17	12 00am
Grayling			4 40	12 35
Mancelona			5 07	1 26
Boyne Falls			5 47	2 26
Alanson			6 05	2 45
Harbor Springs			7 15	3 45
Mackinaw City..			8 00	6 00
St. Ignace			9 00	6 00
Marquette			7 00am	5 00am
Negaunee, ar			2 12	7 08

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Negaunee, lv..			5 15pm	7 20am
Marquette			7 00	8 50
St. Ignace			5 40am	6 15pm
Mackinaw City			6 10	6 45
Harbor Springs			7 00	8 20
Alanson			7 40	8 55
Boyne Falls			8 15	9 15
Mancelona			9 15	7 11
Kalkaska			9 45	7 40
Traverse City, lv			11 00am
Cadillac	8 20pm	11 30am		3 00
Cadillac, lv	4 30	11 45		3 00
Bay View	5 12	12 45pm		3 46
Petoskey	6 08	1 38		4 49
Elk Rapids	7 25	3 18		6 05
Howard City.....	8 19	4 06		10 25
GO Rapids, ar.	4 30am	6 20		12 00pm
GO Rapids, lv.	4 32	6 30		12 05pm
Kalamazoo, lv.	6 37	6 32		2 26
Vicksburg	6 42	6 37		2 40
Sturgis	10 04	9 13		3 12
Kendallville.....	11 18	10 26		4 34
Fort Wayne, ar	12 50pm	11 55		6 43
Fort Wayne, lv.	1 05pm	5 35am	12 00am
Ridge ville	2 08	7 56	2 23
Winchester	3 26	8 18	2 55
Richmond	3 47	8 47	3 27
Cincinnati, ar..	7 00pm	12 50pm	7 30am

C. L. LACKWOOD, Agent, O. R. and Grand Rapids, Mich.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge), with the direction for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. Parties wishing the prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 191 Penn. St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

FresHOysters

Just Received.

300 pounds Candy and Nuts.
Two Barrels Fresh Butter.
Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.
Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents.

AT L. L. CARR'S.

Three Horses and a Pair of Mules for sale.

For Price and Terms inquire of Upright, Emrey & Co.

PAY UP.—Delinquent subscribers, who can, are requested to pay up something on subscription, if only a part of what they owe. We have bills for material, stock, etc., which must be paid at once.

HODGE & LITZAU,

Manufacturers and Dealers in

HARNESS, SADDLES

Curry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Leg Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE.

SECOND HAND

Stationary Engine and Boiler

Should either inquire in relation to it feel low. It is in good order. Cost $1,500. The engine has been thoroughly overhauled, and is practically as good as new. Price and terms to suit. Enquire of

Or of Washburn & Ackert, at the Machine Shop.

Grand Rapids Democrat,

DAILY AND WEEKLY.

Office: 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

Daily Democrat—By mail, $6.00 per year in advance; delivered, $1.50 per year; 75 cents for six months. Weekly for three months—Sixteen cents in advance.

Address,

THE DEMOCRAT,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view at Charlevoix, at O. R. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

FOR SALE.

Eighty acres of land, with or without improvements. Also one seven-year-old mare with colt, one good work horse, two Texas ponies four years old, (well broke), and one five-year-old row. Inquire of Patrick Gillespie, Charlevoix, Supervisor of J. A. Bacon, on north shore of Pine lake.

J. A. BACON.

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

HALL'S Catarrh Cure

Is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD WILL BE PAID FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any cause, and we will refund the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the diseased system, yet your druggist for it, and accept no imitation or substitute. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Dr. CROUTER, Agt., Charlevoix. 41

G. W. JEFFERIES,

Dealer in

Fresh and Cured Meat

Fresh and Salt Fish,

AND VEGETABLES.

Fat Stock and Farm Produce Wanted.

West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

NEW GOODS.

I am pleased to say that my

Spring Stock

is ready for inspection. Come and see them, and when you want a suit of clothes that represent STYLE, you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES,

AND

Price to Correspond With the Times.

GEO. W. MILLER.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 44. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, MAY 15, 1884.—TEN PAGES. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

is published every Thursday morning,

BY CHAS J. STRANG.

OFFICE OVER T. D. Smith's grocery,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

CHURCHILL & GRIER, Attorneys at Law, Office in Hallock's Block, Charlevoix, Mich. C. J. CHURCHILL. C. J. GRIER.

HART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake st., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FINN & ALDRICH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law. All business promptly attended to. PETOSKEY, MICH.

H. A. JERSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office on Lake St., Boyne, Mich.

W. L. SANDERS, Attorney at Law, and Circuit Court Commissioner. Office in bank building, entrance on Mitchell St. Petoskey, Mich.

J. M. CLARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

WILSON, KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law. Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

DEAN F. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, Notary Public and Circuit Court Commissioner.

J. NARBITT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.—Capital $50,000. Savings department. Deposits secured by pledge of government bonds, real estate, and approved notes for more than their amount, interest to run on first mortgages. Foreign and domestic exchange. ROBINSON & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. in the opera house. Sunday school at 12 m. at morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. F. W. CLARKE, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7. J. C. HOUSER, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX HOOK AND LADDER FIRE COMPANY meet the first and third Thursday evenings of each month, at the hall. R. F. BOSLEY, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

R. S. FIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

L. SMITH teacher of Musical Composition, and Pianoforte. Office at his residence, opposite Newman House.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. MILO EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class Horses and Carriages kept. Good Saddles, Horses a Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

J. A. CARLSTEIN, M. D. Office at the Ingleside.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. C. GRAY, M. D. Office in new Block, Charlevoix.

W. H. PHILCOX, M. D., Surgeon and Accoucheur. Office in residence, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R. Baxter Post No. 119, meets second Monday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F., Charlevoix Lodge No. 207, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F., Boyne Lake Lodge No. 293, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

F. & A. M., True Blue No. 127, meets Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

MASONIC, Charlevoix Lodge No. 287, meets Friday on or before full moon. Hall over postoffice.

VETERINARY SURGEON.

OLAS. BANBURY, V. S. Office at Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

A. BUTTLES, President. A. R. URQUHART, Vice-President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money to loan on approved paper at reasonable rates. Deposits received. Collections given careful attention and remittances made promptly.

G. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

1872 — 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.
PURITY, POLITENESS.

WE MAKE IT A POINT TO SELL ONLY

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

OUR PRICES WILL ALWAYS BE AS LOW AS

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

CAN BE SOLD.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

E. T. BROWN & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS' AGENTS,

Portable and Stationary Engines,

Boilers, Mill and Wood-working Machinery,

Mill Supplies, Threshers, and Threshing Engines.

Bargains in Second-Hand Machinery.

WRITE FOR PRICE AND CATALOGUE.

WEST BRIDGE ST., GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON, Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

Bridge Street House,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Good sample room in Charlevoix.

Fountain City House,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Pelonkey and Elk Rapids stages.

PINE LAKE HOUSE

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

Pioneer House,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

United States Hotel,

GEO. W. CHILDS, Proprietor,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES AT

McCabe's Livery Barn,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 42

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. Manufacturer of the celebrated BOSS PLOW material, and WARNER'S FALL Wheat. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale.

knowledge previous to the expiration of his first term, and confirmed by the senate without reference to any committee. He was again appointed to a third term on April 12, 1882.

GARFIELD'S FIRST CHOICE.

It is well known to Senator Sherman and other senators that the comptroller was the first choice of the late president Garfield for secretary of the treasury, and this fact was communicated by the president to a well known gentleman, to whom the president said that he was only prevented from carrying out his original purpose by political complications which afterward grew up in filling other places in his cabinet.

Mr. Knox has accepted the presidency of the National Bank of the Republic, which owns, jointly with the First National Bank of New York, the "United Bank Building," on the corner of Wall street and Broadway. It is an old institution, originally organized in 1850, and has a capital of $1,500,000 and a surplus of $600,000.

JOHN J. KNOX,

EX-COMPTROLLER OF THE TREASURY.

Mr. John J. Knox, of New York, for seventeen years comptroller of the treasury of the United States, has after an honored and successful career in the public service, resigned his position to engage in private business. In view of Mr. Knox's long and conspicuous public services we present our readers with an excellent likeness of the gentleman who has so long presided over our national banking system.

Comptroller Knox was appointed deputy comptroller October 10, 1867, and comptroller on April 12, 1872, and thus has had a continuous service of seventeen years in the office. Previous to his appointment as deputy comptroller he had charge of the mint and coinage correspondence, and was sent by secretary McCulloch to San Francisco in 1866 to examine the branch mint in that city. His report was published with a complimentary notice by secretary McCulloch in the finance report of that year. April 25, 1870, he completed a revision of the mint and coinage laws of the United States, which was transmitted to congress with an elaborate report. Upon his recommendation the coinage of the silver dollar was discontinued, and subsequently the bill which he proposed was passed by congress with a few amendments, and is now known as the "Coinage act of 1873."

The comptroller subsequently visited New Orleans and discovered in the office of the assistant treasurer the largest defalcation ever known in the history of the government. The failure of the First National Bank of New Orleans followed, and Mr. Knox, remained for some weeks in that city acting as assistant treasurer. He was reappointed comptroller without his sive majority of that party is in favor of immediate tariff reform. It is the only party before the people at the present time that offers any show of a sincere, organized and powerful opposition to the protective system. The only hope of the unseses of the destruction of the special privileges conferred by the present republican tariff upon the protected plutocrats of the country, springs from the prospective success of the democracy. No reasonable man doubts for a moment that if the democrats should gain control of the executive and legislative branches of the government they would institute and carry through measures for the relief of the people from the burdens of war tariff taxation. An overwhelming majority of democrats are firmly united in sentiment in regard to the imperative need of tariff reform, and there is no power on earth that can long intervene to prevent them from consummating their patriotic purpose to give the country the benefits of commercial liberty. All the instincts of democracy are against the encroachments of corporate power. It is thoroughly imbued now with the demo krateo principles as in the days of Tom Benton.

Going to be Serious.

This reduction of the tariff is going to be serious business for the republican party before 1890. Reductions which do not reduce, and moonshine about "scientific basis" and other dodges are about exhausted. The party which admits freely the need of reduction, but is always turning up its nose at the method of reduction or itself pursuing methods deceptive and unavailing, is going to be awakened some morning by the shock of a revolution which will throw America from protection into free trade as completely and as suddenly as Great Britain made her great advance under Robert Peel. Once taken, that step will never be reversed.—Springfield Republican.

Points for Florida Tourists.

Don't gather palm leaves; they wither.

Don't say that you came from Chicago.

Don't expect the beds in the hotels to stand up and the carpets to lie down.

Don't say that Jacksonville is the finest, St. Augustine the oldest, and Palatka the most delightful place in Florida.

Don't acknowledge to having eaten frozen oranges until safe in the north.

Don't pay arrearage fares. Be transferred, as the Jacksonvillers are.

Don't mistake Yal-la-ha-at-mak-ka (Seminole for sour orange) for Yal-la-ha (sweet orange).

Don't expect alligators to crawl out of the St. John's when called.

Don't look for real live alligators on Bay street, Jacksonville, except in wire cages, or suppose that any but real natives wear them as ornaments.

Don't take a live "yearer" home without tying a nice, blue ribbon round his neck.

Don't expect the trains to wait for you, or the steamboats to be on time; and don't be surprised at anything you hear or see.—Harper's Monthly.

Matrimonial Power of Mind.

"Are you as happy now as you were before you were married?" asked Mrs. Yeast of young Mrs. Crimsonbeak.

"Yes, indeed," replied the lady; "and a great deal happier."

"That's strange," suggested the philanthropist's wife.

"Not at all strange," came from the young married woman. "You see, before I was married I used to spend half my time worrying about the dress I should wear when Daniel called."

"But don't you try just as hard now to look well when your husband returns home at night?" interrupted Mrs. Yeast.

"Well, you see," went on the bride of two summers, "I don't worry any about it now, as I have only one dress to my name.—Yonkers Gazette.

A Home Market.

Several gentlemen from different States were discussing the merits of their particular homes.

"Kansas is a great State. We raise sixty bushels of corn," said a man from Kansas; "and 200 bushels of potatoes to the acre."

"But have you Kansas people any market for your produce?" asked a man from Connecticut.

"Certainly they have," responded an envious Texan, "they raise enough grasshoppers and potato bugs to eat up ten times the corn and potatoes they can raise."—Texas Siftings.

Republican Journal.

Polite to Florida Tourists.

Don't gather palm leaves; they wither.

Don't say that you came from Chicago.

Don't expect the beds in the hotels to stand up and the carpets to lie down.

Don't say that Jacksonville is the finest, St. Augustine the oldest, and Palatka the most delightful place in Florida.

Don't acknowledge to having eaten frozen oranges until safe in the north.

Don't pay arrearage fares. Be transferred, as the Jacksonvillers are.

Don't mistake Yal-la-ha-at-mak-ka (Seminole for sour orange) for Yal-la-ha (sweet orange).

Don't expect alligators to crawl out of the St. John's when called.

Don't look for real live alligators on Bay street, Jacksonville, except in wire cages, or suppose that any but real natives wear them as ornaments.

Don't take a live "yearer" home without tying a nice, blue ribbon round his neck.

Don't expect the trains to wait for you, or the steamboats to be on time; and don't be surprised at anything you hear or see.—Harper's Monthly.

Matrimonial Power of Mind.

"Are you as happy now as you were before you were married?" asked Mrs. Yeast of young Mrs. Crimsonbeak.

"Yes, indeed," replied the lady; "and a great deal happier."

"That's strange," suggested the philanthropist's wife.

"Not at all strange," came from the young married woman. "You see, before I was married I used to spend half my time worrying about the dress I should wear when Daniel called."

"But don't you try just as hard now to look well when your husband returns home at night?" interrupted Mrs. Yeast.

"Well, you see," went on the bride of two summers, "I don't worry any about it now, as I have only one dress to my name.—Yonkers Gazette.

A Home Market.

Several gentlemen from different States were discussing the merits of their particular homes.

"Kansas is a great State. We raise sixty bushels of corn," said a man from Kansas; "and 200 bushels of potatoes to the acre."

"But have you Kansas people any market for your produce?" asked a man from Connecticut.

"Certainly they have," responded an envious Texan, "they raise enough grasshoppers and potato bugs to eat up ten times the corn and potatoes they can raise."—Texas Siftings.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 8, 1884.

Notes and News.

The festive circus has arrived in the state.

The Northwest Farmer for May is on our table.

W. Watson, of Boyne, lost a valuable cow last Thursday night.

The Lansing Journal favors Grover Cleveland, of New York, for president.

Cleveoygan disputes with Traverse City the right to the title of "big village."

Charlotte pays George Proston $4,800 for injuries received from falling through a defective sidewalk.

"Died from excessive drinking" was the verdict on nearly 500 cases before English coroner's juries last year.

The planing mill whistle gives a terrible long blast occasionally, —so long, sometimes, that it reminds us of the day of the fire last fall.

Those persons who spend money in other towns for things they could get at home invariably buy at home when they can get trusted.

Mr. E. B Lapham will immediately commence the erection of another store building on the north side of the one he has just sold.—Rockford Register.

Chicago News; It will take more enthusiasm than Blaine can jam into the galleries of the convention to silence the calm, still voice impeaching his record.

Farmers, have you noted any drop in the articles you buy—nails, iron goods, woolens, etc? How does wheat at eighty cents strike you? Is not this "protecting home industries" a terrible paradox?—Niles Democrat.

An evidence of low prices at Weed's drug store is the fact that they bid on filling the medicine chest of the propeller Lawrence, and secured the contract, the captain stating that the price was lower than he paid last year in Chicago.

During his leisure hours last winter, W. Watson, of Boyne, made a violin from lumber grown on his farm, the sounding board being of hemlock, and the sides of early maple. It is complete in every particular, and makes music, too.

The fish dealers on Little Traverse Bay handled during the year ending April 1st, 1884, only 410,000 pounds which is 100,000 pounds less than was shipped by Connable & Son alone the year before. The fisheries all round the lakes show a similar falling off.

Rev. J. J. Kanagy's "fair," on the corner of Bridge and Mason streets, will be a valuable acquisition to our business interests. The room is now being fitted up with new shelving counters, etc. The walls and ceiling have been covered with a handsome design of paper.

A man never fully realizes his own infirmity, never knows what a poor, weak, sin-burdened, groveling worm of the dust he is, never really understands that he is only one insignificant atom in the great illimitable universe of matter, until he sets out to match a particular shade of zephyr for his wife.

And how some the nail manufacturers and form a pool, will full power to regulate prices and restrict production. At the same time reports show that stocks are light and orders numerous. Over $10,000,000 of capital are represented by this pool, which by a high protective tariff is in this way enabled to prey upon the public in defiance of the law of supply and demand.—Chicago News.

"Well, good bye," said the oyster, as he hurriedly held out his hand to the early strawberry. "Here comes my train and I'm off to the seashore to recruit my shattered energies." Honestly, I have been so tempestuous all winter swimming around by myself in a wide billowy sea of church social soup that it seems as though I should die if I couldn't go away somewhere where I could get a glimpse of old time friends. Wish I could stay long enough to see you slip out and roll off onto the floor at the first Sunday school festival just for the sighing fellow with the standing collar and oiled hair thinks he has corralled you in the furthest corner of the shortcake. So long, you rascal; give my regards to the picnic ice cream."

It is reported that Michigan furnishes more cedar for telegraph poles, paving, and other purposes than all the other states combined. The business is certainly assuming enormous proportions, and as cedar timber is abundant in the state, the industry is liable to become one of great importance.

C. B. Davis, of Chicago, has been prospecting for agricultural land in this county the past week. If successful in getting the right location he may engage in the wholesale potato trade with Chicago. At least he expresses great faith in northern Michigan potatoes for both table use and for market.

And now it is that the society young lady meanderers about town and, with a sweet, sly twinkle in her eye, casually inquires of the eligible young man what summer resort he will frequent during the coming season, and then she goeth straight home and maketh queer marks in a memorandum book. Why is it thus?

The liquor dealers' organ, the Detroit Leader doesn't want Begole. If memory serves us correctly the liquor dealers and their organ did all in their power two years to beat Begole and elect Jerome Governor. If the liquor men have not learned anything since then, they may make up their minds to get left again.—Muskegon News.

This is the season of the year to load your wheelbarrow up with a gloomy and eccentric collection of old peach cans, shoes, hoop-skirts, and other bric-a-brac, and then leave the whole business out by your front gate so that some unfortunate human being may come along in the inky blackness of the night and plunge madly over it.

There will come a time when it will be policy for the greenback party to go alone in Michigan, but we do not believe that time is this year. Changes may occur between now and the meeting of the conventions for nominating candidates that will make it advisable to ignore the democrats, but that is not the present appearance.—Grand Rapids Leader.

It is time for a change. The opportunity to effect it will come in November next. Let the people—not the democrats only, but all men who have at heart the best interests of the country—ponder well the situation, examine carefully the record of the party in power, and join in an effort to bring about a change for the better —it cannot possibly be for the worse. Barry County Democrat.

A bill has been favorably reported in the national senate making it a penal offense to contract for labor in other countries to be employed in this. Looked at upon its individual merits, the bill seems a galloping absurdity; but if protection is right the American laborer is entitled to his share of it, and the bill is logical and just. The trouble with it as a measure of protection to labor is that it does not go far enough. There should be a large tax on the individual immigrant to even up the system all round. —Boston Post.

One of our best citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all 'tis is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

Platform Freaks.

This year the platform planks have a way of flying up and hitting politicians in the face. The republicans of the great manufacturing state of Massachusetts, for example, call for a reduction of the tariff, and they insist upon a reduction of the custom duties because of the dangerous surplus in the treasury receipts. The only qualification made is that the work of reduction be done in a scientific way; but the point of the plank is that a manufacturing state has called for a reduction that protectionists claim will work harm to our industries. On the other hand Iowa, that great agricultural state, has put into its republican platform the solidest kind of a protection plank. Inasmuch as the farmer pays a tribute on every pound of iron he uses, every board he puts into a barn or a fence, every suit of clothes he wears and every pound of sugar he eats, it would seem as if a reduction of the duties on necessities should be as desirable to the republican farmers of Iowa as to the republicans of New Hampshire, who demand such a change in the tariff.

The strangest of all strange things, however, is the development of the free trade idea in the greenback party —a party that relies for its support chiefly on laboring people. Unless the protectionists have been greatly mistaken the laboring men are high tariff men. The whole protection movement has been bolstered up by the theory that it was the only salvation of the working man; and now to have him repudiate the doctrine is sad indeed. Yet the delusion could not be expected to last always. It was a good enough Morgan while it lasted, but even Morgan has his day. —Detroit Times.

Clear and beautiful. After using Hamilton's Oriental Balm, the skin will have a fresh, clear and beautiful appearance. Entirely free from tan, freckles, and all blemishes. It is so perfectly harmless that it cannot fail to please the most fastidious. We recommend it to all the ladies. Price 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Bon will be There.

Benjamin F. Butler has been selected to carry the standard of Massachusetts democracy to Chicago; and although the convention was opposed to instructing him to vote for himself as the nominee for the presidency, he will not be the man to leave any stone unturned whereby such a nomination may be secured.

Butler would make a splendid running mate for Cleveland. There is no denying that fact. The people generally regard him as the friend of the poor man and the enemy of the monopolist; as a sharp and shrewd politician, and as a bit of a knave, perhaps; but not a bit of a fool.

It would not be strange if a man who is on such good terms with Tilden and the New York Sun, who has been baptized into the democratic party by being elected governor of a staunch republican state—it would not be surprising if such a man were to find favor with a very large section of the democratic party.

It is not necessary for the democrats to beat together harmonious as to their policy. They are the opposition to the existing rule; they represent a desire for a change in the management of government, and hence they may be allowed to quarrel and blunder to a certain extent. The trouble is that heretofore they have exceeded their limit for blundering. With a man like Butler as a leader there would be enough audacity to offset a great many blunders.—Detroit Times.

Worse than heathen are those parents who allow their children to suffer with worms when 25 cents will buy a box of Parsons' Vermifuge. Worm Candies should not be used to cure the child and remove the worms by dissolving them. Dayton knew the symptoms of Pevishness, sudden starting in sleep, bad breath, great desire for food dry and night, the wise and leave nothing in regret. Price 25 cents per box. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Drive dull care away. Be cheerful, be pleasant, be happy, be healthy. Health is wealth. Use Parsons's Blood Purifier, it acts upon the liver and kidneys, it regulates the bowels and purifies the blood. It acts upon the digestion, it carries off the old blood and makes new, and is acquiring a great reputation for the cure of scrofulous affection, boils, pimples, ulcers, and all skin diseases. $1.00 per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

HODGE & LITZAU,
Manufacturers and Dealers in
HARNESS, SADDLES
Curry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Lap Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE.
SECOND HAND
Stationary Engine and Boiler
Special enquiries made in Boiler 12 feet long, 42 in diameter, 48 flues. The engine has been thoroughly overhauled, and is in first class good as new. Price and terms low. Enquire of
O. P. WOODWARD & ACKLEY, at the Machine Shop.

Grand Rapids Democrat,
DAILY AND WEEKLY.
Office: 76 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.
TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:
Daily Democrat—By mail, $6.00 per year in advance, postage paid.
Weekly Democrat—$1.50 per year; 75 cents for six months; 40 cents for three months (invariably in advance). Address,
THE DEMOCRAT,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

J. MILO EATON,
DEALER IN
REAL ESTATE
OF ALL KINDS.
Houses and Lots for Sale
IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.
WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS
FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.
Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.
Represents the
Best Insurance Companies.
OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix	6.30 a. m.	2.00 p. m
Arrive East Jordan	8.30 a. m.	4.00 p. m.
Leave East Jordan	9.00 a. m.	4.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	11.00 a. m.	6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. B. Thompson.

Leave Charlevoix	6.30 a. m.	2.00 p. m.
Arrive Boyne	8.30 a. m.	4.00 p. m.
Leave Boyne	9.30 a. m.	4.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	12.00 m.	6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.

Steamer CHARLES BELLE—Capt. A. H. Bennett

East Jordan, lv	7.00am	Harbor Springs	1.30pm
Charlevoix	9.00am	Petoskey	3.00pm
Petoskey	11.00am	Charlevoix	4.30pm
Harbor Springs	1.30am	East Jordan, ar	6.30pm

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card in effect January, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Charlevoix, lv.		7 40am	2 15pm
Richmond	2 32pm	10 32	8 52
Winchester	2 43	10 37	11 00
Ridge ville	2 11	11 52	11 17
Fort Wayne, ar	5 02	2 27	1 30am
Fort Wayne, lv.		2 37	2 50	6 05am
Kendallville		3 55	3 32	8 17
Stroh		4 13	4 14	10 32
Vicksburg		6 11	6 43	11 46
Kalamazoo, ar		6 52	7 22	12 20pm
Kalamazoo, lv		6 52	8 02	12 25pm
Battle Creek		7 17	8 32	1 00
Marshall		7 37	8 55	1 35
Albion		7 55	9 17	2 00
Jackson		8 49	10 05	3 05
Grand Rapids, ar		10 40	12 30	6 25
Grand Rapids, lv		10 45	12 40	6 30
Ionia		11 34	1 29	7 23
Lowell		11 52	1 47	7 41
Alaska		12 03am	1 58	7 52
Greenville		12 17	2 12	8 06
Cedar Springs		12 28	2 23	8 17
Sand Lake		12 35	2 30	8 24
Grant		12 45	2 40	8 34
Newaygo, ar		1 10	3 05	9 00
Newaygo, lv		3 12	7 08

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Newaygo, lv		5 45am	1 30am
Grant		6 05	1 55
Sand Lake		6 40am	2 40pm
Alaska		6 50	2 45
Cedar Springs		7 00	2 55
Greenville		7 38	3 33
Stanton		7 52	3 47
Ionia		8 05	4 00
Lowell		8 15	4 10
Grand Rapids, ar		11 27	5 20
Grand Rapids, lv	3 20pm	11 32pm	7 05
Jackson	4 39	1 12am	8 16
Albion	5 07	1 42	8 47
Marshall	5 28	2 04	9 07
Battle Creek	5 45	2 24	9 27
Kalamazoo, ar	6 05	2 48	9 47
Kalamazoo, lv	7 25	3 48	10 05
Vicksburg	7 40	4 05	10 23
Stroh		4 32	12 20pm
Kendallville		5 17	2 25
Fort Wayne, ar		6 35	3 45
Fort Wayne, lv	12 52	5 35am	12 00am
Ridge ville	1 18	6 57	1 22
Winchester	1 29	7 16	1 41
Richmond, ar	1 47	8 17	1 62
Charlevoix, ar	7 00pm	12 30pm	7 30am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Agt. G. T. Agt.,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.
The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dread disease—Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge,) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and Throat Affections. Parties wishing the prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. Wilson, 194 Penn St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

Fresh Oysters
Just Received.
300 pounds Candy and Nuts.
Two Barrels Fresh Bisiuit.
Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.
Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 50 Cents.
AT L. L. CARR'S.

Three Horses and a Pair of Mules for sale.
For Price and Terms inquire of Upright, Emrey & Co.

PAY UP.—Delinquent subscribers, who can, are requested to pay something on subscription, if only a part of what they owe. We have bills for material, stock, etc., which must be paid at once.

F OR SALE.
Eighty acres of land, with or without improvements. Also one seven-year old mare with roll, one year old colt, one two year old Texas pacer, one yearling, well broke, and one year old cow. The above stock is in good condition. Inquire of J. A. Bacot, on north shore of Pine Lake.
3tf J. A. BACOT.

JOHN NICHOLLS,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and Dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

HALL'S
Catarrh Cure
Is Recommended by Physicians!
$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!
We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails in a single instance.
It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you will send for a circular you will find it contains testimonials from those who have been cured by it, and are its advocates and supporters. If it has not got in, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.
DR. CROUTER, Agt., Charlevoix. 41

G. W. JEFFERIES,
Dealer in
Fresh and Cured Meat
Fresh and Salt Fish,
AND VEGETABLES.
Fat Stock and Farm Produce Wanted.
West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

NEW GOODS.
I am pleased to say that my
Spring Stock
is ready for inspection. Come and see them. And if you want a suit of clothes that are JUST IN STYLE, you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the
LATE STYLES,
AND
Price to Correspond With the Times.
GEO. W. MILLER.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 44. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, MAY 15, 1884.—TEN PAGES. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
is published every Thursday morning,
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office over T. H. Smith's grocery,
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.
ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

BUCKNSHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law. Office in Bunker Block, Charlevoix, Mich. A. B. CRUCKSHANK. C. A. GRIER.

BART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake st., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

PARKER & ALDRICH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

H. N. JERSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office on Lake St., Boyne, Mich.

JAY A. DUBBBY, Attorney at Law, and Circuit Court Commissioner. Office in Smith's building, entrance on Mitchell St. Petoskey, Mich

J. W. CLARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

WATSON, KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law. Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

DEAN F. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, and U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

J. N. GARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. 7tf

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX. Capital $50,000. Savings department. Deposits secured by pledge of government bonds, real estate, and chattel notes for more than double the amount loaned on first mortgages. Foreign and domestic exchange. ROY, STONE & DOUGLAS.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. in the opera house. Sunday school at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. C. P. YAS ATCHES, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Class meeting at 9 a. m. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7. J. T. HOBBS, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX HOUCH AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet the 3rd and fourth Thursday evenings of each month in the town hall. R. F. SWIFT, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

H. SUFFELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Pocket cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

M. L. SMITH, teacher of Musical Composition, Music and Thorough Bass. Classes forming at all times. Inquire at Newman House.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. MILO EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class Horses and Carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

J. C. CARLETON, M. D. Office at the Ingleside.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office on the Lewis Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. C. GRAVES, M. D. Office in Sec Block, Charlevoix.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loans, and Insurance, Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 199, meets second and fourth Saturday in each month, at I. O. O. F. Hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 327, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 290, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

I. O. L.—True Blue No. 187, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 382, meets Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over postoffice.

VETERINARY SURGEON.

CHAS. RANBURY, V. S. Office at Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

A. BUTTARS, President. A. K. UNDERWOOD, Vice President.
Merchants & Farmers' Bank,
OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.
A general banking business transacted. Money to loan on approved paper at reasonable rates. Deposits received. Collections given careful attention and remittances made promptly.
G. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.
MISS L. SPAULDING
Has just received a
New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,
And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.
MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

1872 DR. G. W. CROUTER, 1884
THE DRUGGIST.
Our Motto: P. P.
PURITY, POLITENESS.
WE MAKE IT A POINT TO SELL ONLY
Full Strength & Fresh Goods
OUR PRICES WILL ALWAYS BE AS LOW AS
STRICTLY PURE DRUGS
CAN BE SOLD.
Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

E. T. BROWN & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS' AGENTS.
Portable and Stationary Engines,
Boilers, Mill and Wood-working Machinery,
Mill Supplies, Threshers, and Threshing Engines.
Bargains in Second-Hand Machinery.
WRITE FOR PRICE AND CATALOGUE.
WEST BRIDGE ST., GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

Board by the Day or Week
AND WARM MEALS AT HOURS.
Also Tobacco and Cigars
Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON,
Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

Bridge Street House.
ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix, Michigan.
This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Fountain City House,
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix, Michigan.
Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages.

PINE LAKE HOUSE
A. J. HALL Proprietor.
Boyne City, Michigan.
This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

Pioneer House,
A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.
Ironton, Michigan.
Every convenience for the traveling public.

United States Hotel,
GEO. W. CHILDS, Proprietor,
Boyne City, Michigan.
House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

McCABE'S
Livery and Hack Line
DRAYING TO ORDER.
Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.
BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES
AT
McCabe's Livery Barn,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.
Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order, manufacture my own spokes of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.
SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.
The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 43

JOHN J. KNOX,
EX-COMPTROLLER OF THE TREASURY.

Mr. John J. Knox, of New York, for seventeen years comptroller of the treasury of the United States, has, after an honored and successful career in the public service, resigned his position to engage in private business. In view of Mr. Knox's long and conspicuous public service we present our readers with an excellent likeness of the gentleman who has so long presided over our national banking system.

Comptroller Knox was appointed deputy comptroller October 10, 1867, and comptroller on April 12, 1872, and thus has had a continuous service of seventeen years in the office. Previous to his appointment as deputy comptroller he had charge of the mint and coinage correspondence, and was sent by secretary McCulloch to San Francisco in 1866 to examine the branch mint in that city. His report was published with a complimentary notice by secretary McCulloch in the finance report of that year. April 25, 1870, he completed a revision of the mint and coinage laws of the United States, which was transmitted to congress with an elaborate report. Upon his recommendation the coinage of the silver dollar was discontinued, and subsequently the bill which he proposed was passed by congress with a few amendments, and is now known as the "Coinage act of 1873."

The comptroller subsequently visited New Orleans and discovered in the office of the assistant treasurer the largest defalcation ever known in the history of the government. The failure of the First National Bank of New Orleans followed, and Mr. Knox remained for some weeks in that city acting as assistant treasurer. He was reappointed comptroller without his knowledge previous to the expiration of his first term, and confirmed by the senate without reference to any committee. He was again appointed to a third term on April 12, 1882.

GARFIELD'S FIRST CHOICE.

It is well known to Senator Sherman and other senators that the comptroller was the first choice of the late president Garfield for secretary of the treasury, and this fact was communicated by the president to a well known gentleman, to whom the president said that he was only prevented from carrying out his original purpose by political complications which afterward grew up in filling other places in his cabinet.

Mr. Knox has accepted the presidency of the National Bank of the Republic, which owns, jointly with the Fire National Bank of New York, the "United Bank Building," on the corner of Wall street and Broadway. It is an old institution, originally organized in 1850, and has a capital of $1,500,000 and a surplus of $600,000.

Defeat of the Morrison Bill.

Samuel J. Randall has succeeded in killing the Morrison tariff bill and himself politically.

Forty democrats, the majority of whom are from Pennsylvania and Ohio, states that have not given a majority for the democratic national ticket for over 20 years, went with Randall over to the republicans in the house, and together they gave 156 votes to strike out the enacting clause of the bill, to 151 against it. The democratic representatives from the west and south, and also a large majority of the representatives from New York, acted solidly by the cause of commercial liberty and vindicated the claim of democracy to be the consistent opponent of that "masquerade of injustice, inequality and false pretenses," the republican tariff.

We take a hopeful view of the result of the recent great contest in the house. It will surely tend to thoroughly solidify the friends of tariff reform in the democratic ranks. It will inspire them to make still more aggressive efforts in the direction of forcing the question to a decision at the polls next November. Even democrats who were lukewarm supporters of the bill, will now perceive that the issue is inevitable, and they will accordingly throw themselves enthusiastically into the struggle for freedom of trade. The desire to achieve success for the sake of principle will also nerve democrats to unflagging exertion in every part of the union.

The national convention will as questionably submit the issue fairly and squarely to the people. And then, with clean candidates and a spirited canvass, the popular verdict may be confidently awaited by the advocates of equal taxation.—Lansing Journal.

The Beginning of the Struggle.

Relieved of impediments we enter from an era of conciliation on one of agitation and aggression. It is not simply twenty per cent, it is a thorough, consistent, if you will, radical revision of the tariff. It will not be immediately abolished; it will be revised and the free list greatly enlarged. With defeat comes renewed courage and confidence. We turn from the politicians to the people, from the betrayers to the betrayed. No great movement for the emancipation of any people but what must meet with reverses. We are only in the beginning of the great struggle against the monopolies grown rich by blood money and as arrogant as the old slave masters.—Louisville Courier Journal.

The Lansing Journal is inclined to the opinion that the defeat of the Morrison tariff bill will not do away with the necessity of the continued existence of the democratic party as was charged by the Detroit Evening News. The contest in the house has certainly developed one important fact, viz., that a very large and aggressive majority of that party is in favor of immediate tariff reform. It is the only party before the people at the present time that offers any show of a sincere, organized and powerful opposition to the protective system. The only hope of the masses of the destruction of the special privileges conferred by the present republican tariff upon the protected plutocrats of the country, springs from the prospective success of the democracy. No reasonable man doubts for a moment that if the democrats should gain control of the executive and legislative branches of the government they would institute and carry through measures for the relief of the people from the burdens of war tariff taxation. An overwhelming majority of democrats are firmly united in sentiment in regard to the imperative need of tariff reform, and there is no power on earth that can long intervene to prevent them from consummating their patriotic purpose to give the country the benefits of commercial liberty. All the instincts of democracy are against the encroachments of corporate power. It is thoroughly imbued now with the demo kratico principles as in the days of Tom Benton.

Going to be Serious.

This reduction of the tariff is going to be serious business for the republican party before 1890. Reductions which do not reduce, and moonshine about "scientific basis" and other dodges are about exhausted. The party which admits freely the need of reduction, but is always turning up its nose at the method of reduction or itself pursuing methods deceptive and unavailing, is going to be awakened some morning by the shock of a revolution which will throw America from protection into free trade as completely and as suddenly as Great Britain made her great advance under Robert Peel. Once taken, that step will never be reversed.—Springfield Republican.

Points for Florida Tourists.

Don't gather palm leaves; they wither.

Don't say that you came from Chicago.

Don't expect the beds in the hotels to stand up and the carpets to lie down.

Don't say that Jacksonville is the sixth, St. Augustine the oldest, and Palatka the most delightful place in Florida.

Don't acknowledge to having eaten frozen oranges until safe in the north.

Don't pay attention to fakes. Be transferred, as the Jacksonvillers are.

Don't mistake Fai-la-lin-ak-maks (Scalmside for sour oranges) for Ta-ti-ba-ha (sweet orange).

Don't expect alligators to crawl out of the St. John's when called.

Don't look for real live alligators on Bay street, Jacksonville, except in wire cages, or suppose that any but real natives wear them as ornaments.

Don't take a live "gater" home without tying a nice, blue ribbon round his neck.

Don't expect the trains to wait for you, or the steamboats to be on time; and don't be surprised at anything you hear or see.—Harper's Monthly.

Matrimonial Peace of Mind.

"Are you as happy now as you were before you were married?" asked Mrs. Yeast of young Mrs. Crimsonbreak.

"Yes, indeed," replied the lady; "and a great deal happier."

"That's strange," suggested the philanthropist's wife.

"Not at all strange," came from the young married woman. "You see, before I was married I used to spend half my time worrying about the dress I should wear when Daniel called."

"But don't you try just as hard now to look well when your husband returns home at night?" interrupted Mrs. Yeast.

"Well, you see," went on the bride of two summers, "I don't worry any about it now, as I have only one dress to my name.—Yonkers Gazette.

A Home Market.

Several gentlemen from different States were discussing the merits of their particular houses.

"Kansas is a great State. We raise sixty bushels of corn," said a man from Kansas; "and 200 bushels of potatoes to the acre."

"But have you Kansas people any market for your produce?" asked a man from Connecticut.

"Certainly they have," responded an envious Texan, "they raise enough grasshoppers and potato bugs to eat up ten times the corn and potatoes they can raise."—Texas News.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

WHEN a Western man goes into the fruit business he plants an orchard which deserves the name. A Kansas City paper mentions the departure of one of its citizens with 1,200 acres for the purpose of planting his fruit trees, the first 20,000 of which had just arrived from the East.

A PHILADELPHIAN sent a postal card to his sister in Canada on which he had written 744 words. She answered with 714 words. Not to be outdone, he crowded in 1,003, which brought an answer with 1,526 words spelled out in full and written plain enough to be easily read by persons of ordinary good sight. He thinks he will send her a new spring bonnet and call it square.

THE editorial fraternity is warned against noble diamonds. Ordinary pollywog African stones are treated with a greasy fluid, which gives them a brilliant finish that when baked in a hot furnace. A stone worth $300 can thus be made to closely resemble one worth a thousand or more. A very common test, extremely handy to editors, is to apply alcohol, when the fraud stands revealed and a week's salary is saved.

THE Presidential Electors to be voted for are equal to the number of United States Senators and Congressmen to which each State is entitled, as follows:

Alabama	10	Mississippi	7
Arkansas	7	Missouri	15
California	6	Nebraska	3
Colorado	3	Nevada	3
Connecticut	6	New Hampshire	4
Delaware	3	New Jersey	7
Florida	4	New York	35
Georgia	12	North Carolina	11
Illinois	21	Ohio	22
Indiana	15	Oregon	3
Iowa	11	Pennsylvania	29
Kansas	5	Rhode Island	4
Kentucky	13	South Carolina	9
Louisiana	8	Tennessee	12
Maine	7	Texas	14
Maryland	8	Vermont	5
Massachusetts	13	Virginia	11
Michigan	11	West Virginia	5
Minnesota	7	Wisconsin	10

BROOLYN Union: All people who are interested in the overthrow of clericalism will rejoice to hear that Joseph Cook appears to have run his course in Boston. His insufferable egotism, and his insolent assumption of a censorship of the universe, have at last opened the eyes of his quondam admirers, and they are beginning to perceive what fools they have made of themselves. The balance sheet of his "Monday lectures" course shows only $12 after expenses for the lecturer, and an appeal has been issued for the making up of a $500 purse.

THE Paris police are endeavoring to suppress a strange traffic in dead bodies, which they have discovered to exist on the River Seine in and near Paris. It appears that a reward of fifteen francs is given in the Department of the Seine for any bodies found in the river and delivered up to the authorities. In the neighboring departments, if only a few miles away—as, for instance, in the Seine-et-Oise—no such reward is offered. The consequence is that business finding bodies outside the stipulated boundary, instead of giving them up to the tribes of their own district, sell them to men employed higher up the river, who obtain the reward for them, realizing a profit by the transaction. This custom has become so prevalent that there is a recognized tariff of five francs for bodies purchased in this way.

AN invalid who went to Thomasville, Ga., writes that he found in a local newspaper, alongside the column which the editor's graceful pen makes eloquent with praise of the pine belt, and fierce with denunciation of that horse-thief and midnight assassin who upholds the superior climatic advantages of Aiken, S. C.—even there he saw a daring advertisement, having for a vignette an engraved hearse, and further illustrated and illustrated with cuts of metallic coffins, all of latest cut and fashion, while further on in the text came a modest, but assured, statement from the advertisers as follows: "Our long experience in embalming and shipping bodies justifies us in saying that our work cannot be excelled. Certificates, testifying in the strongest terms to the safe and satisfactory transmission of bodies shipped by us, can be seen on application at our office."

THE persistent vitality of a cat has been eclipsed by a San Francisco dog. Having bitten a child, a stone was tied to his neck and he was thrown off the wharf. But he broke loose from his moorings at the bottom of the bay and swam to some steps near by. There he was met by a policeman and clubbed till he fell back into the water. But the cold water revived him and he swam ashore. Determined to come out victorious the officer drew his revolver and fired nine shots, without fatal result. The valley attracted another officer who fired five shots, and a left-handed stranger who appeared on the scene followed with five shots more, but with such poor skill that none of them were fatal to the dog. They brought disaster to the stranger, however, for the exasperated officers, bent on revenge for being baffled by the dog, arrested the left-handed man for carrying firearms, and the dog in the meantime made his escape.

THE experts at the Signal Office, says a Washington correspondent, are studying the characteristics of the recent destructive wind-storms and getting all the laws that underlie this phenomena. According to these gentlemen, the connection between the storms and the prevalence of sun spots is very remote, if any can be said to exist at all. They explain that tornadoes—which should not be confounded with cyclones—are due to a collision of warm and cold currents of air, and are apt to be found in southern latitudes, therefore, in the early spring, following the advance of warm weather northward. Most of the cyclones originate in the Northwest, Kansas is preeminently the cyclone State, having had as many destructive storms of this description during the century as the entire South. Prof. Cleveland Abbe, of the Signal Service, who has given this subject more study than any one else, says: "The spots on the sun have no direct influence on tornadoes. There is reason connection, however. A prevalence of spots on the sun undoubtedly cause an increase of heat. The more the heat on the earth the more moisture, evaporation, atmospheric circulation, and, in consequence, unusual atmospheric disturbance. It would be ridiculous, however, to endeavor to trace the origin of any particular tornado to any particular change in the aspect of the sun. The effect of the increased heat of the sun, as indicated by the spots, would not be felt upon the earth for six months or more afterward. So that if there is any connection between tornadoes and changes on the sun it is of a very remote character, and cannot be taken into consideration in trending the atmospheric disturbances. Like the whole atmospheric system is a pot of boiling water, the hot water rising to the surface representing the warm air currents from the south and the colder water underneath the cold currents from the north, with the sun as the fire so large which causes the movements. Any sediment in the bottom of the pot would be apt to be carried along with the changing water, but you could not attribute the moving of any particular sediment to the application or disappointment of the heating power of any particular portion of the pot.

THE LITTLE FOLKS.

The First Letter.

"Papa can you get a letter?
I'd ad the e here day.
It was in a red envelope,
And it came a long, long way.

"A stamp was in the corner
And some printing, when it came,
And the ou. Papa think it be for
Had put 'Miss' before my name.

"Then there came a bit more within',
I forgot it so what it read,
But it told the other letters that
Where I lived, my mamma said.

"But you can't read those letters—gonna,
Mamma, I'm gonna read 'em to you
Soon as I can read 'em myself, you know
When I think I know enough to do it.
—Youth's Companion.

Johnny's Scroll-Saw.

Johnny wanted a scroll-saw very much. As often as a fresh advertisement of the Prize Rully or the Demas came out, he fairly burned it by heart, and impressed upon all the family how many things were given extra.

He hinted unmistakably that he would like a scroll-saw in advance for a birthday present, and said one day out that instead of some pleasures he had promised he should have "some time." He was not rather fond the scroll-saw now and clear the score. He said he could make beautiful things for all the family with it, and also for sale, by which he could earn a great deal of money.

When mamma intimated that she could not afford to buy carving machinery, he said in kind tones, "When I get my scroll-saw, mamma, you shall have them."

When reminded that he needed a new overcoat, he replied with a steady eye "When I get my scroll-saw, I can buy one for myself."

His little sister Nannie quickly caught up the strain, and, with mischief sparkling in her eyes, would say to the people:

"We are going to have a piano and a big new house, when Johnny gets his scroll-saw! We are going to Europe, and have icecream every day, when Johnny gets his scroll-saw! Papa won't have to go down to the office any more, when Johnny gets his scroll-saw!"

At last one day he did get it. An expressman left it at the door and handed in a box surprisingly small for the dimensions, however, to endeavor to trace the origin of any particular tornado to any particular change in the aspect of the sun. The effect of the increased heat of the sun, as indicated by the spots, would not be felt upon the earth for six months or more afterward. So that if there is any connection between tornadoes and changes on the sun it is of a very remote character, and cannot be taken into consideration in trending the atmospheric disturbances. Like the whole atmospheric system is a pot of boiling water, the hot water rising to the surface representing the warm air currents from the south and the colder water underneath the cold currents from the north, with the sun as the fire so large which causes the movements. Any sediment in the bottom of the pot would be apt to be carried along with the changing water, but you could not attribute the moving of any particular sediment to the application or disappointment of the heating power of any particular portion of the pot.

She Was Disappointed.

A crowd had gathered in front of a new clock which had just been unveiled over the door of a large jewelry store, and a tall, lank woman in a red shawl and Hoosier hat, with a lean, yellow dog at her heels, stopped to look on.

"Where's the show?" she asked of a man next to her, as she looked up and down the avenue.

"There," said he, pointing to the new clock.

"Well, what is it?" What do them figgers do?"

"They move automatically," answered the man.

"Which?"

"The figure on the left is Father Time," explained the man good naturedly. "That on the right is Vulcan. When the hour strikes they come out and performs."

"Shu! it's a performance, is it? Why didn't ye say so? How soon does it begin?"

"As quick as the clock strikes 12."

The woman braced herself against a lamp post, and the yellow dog sat down and waited. Presently the clock struck, and the figure of Time made a few curves and the unhappy husband set to rap his anvil. Then they subsided into their former state of repose.

"Well, I swan!" said the woman as the crowd moved away, "if that ain't a leetle the weed performance I ever see!"

"Why, what did you expect?" asked a bystander.

"Expect! Why, I expected a show, of course. I spected old Time would dip up and down a jig and ring them dinner bells, and play a chune on that there instrument at the feet, and that the Cotton one would sail in and give him one over the left ear, and a bull brass band would play Hail Columbia, with varashuns, an' it would last a hour 'n' half anyhow. If it hadn't been a free show, I'd be madder'n a wet hen. Kum, Philandy, less go home—and the starter'd with left hanges in the air, and the yellow dog at her heels.—Detroit Free Press.

A ROPE ABOUT HER NECK.

Recollections of the Horrible Scene at the Hanging of Inez Furia in California.

"Yes, I remember the lynching of Inez Furia in California in 1855," said Mr. J. A. Close, of the Second street, to a newspaper reporter. "Her case was very peculiar, and I remember as I saw published a few days after the execution that there never had been quite all that she ought to have, for she never robbed. In 1849, when I was quite young, I left New York and went to California. That journey was a different one in those days to what it is now. We left New York March 1, 1849, in a ship that a company of 1 owned, and in seventy-five days reached Rio Janeiro, where we had to stop to take on fresh water. Of course the ship was in a sailing vessel; now a steamer makes the same trip in about twenty days. We had all read of Robinson Crusoe and his wonderful adventures between Valparaiso and Talcahuano, and were very much disappointed when the first mate of the vessel pointed out to us the island of Juan Fernandez which, as you know, is where Robinson Crusoe lived with his man Friday. It took us fifty-two days to double Cape Horn, and it was just 149 days from the time we left New York until we reached San Francisco, then a very small place.

"At that time there was but one woman in San Francisco, the wife of a Spaniard, of course there were lots of Spaniards—and when she appeared on the street what reverence was paid to her!

"But to tell you about the lynching. It was at Stockton, right in the mining district, and in those days there were no houses, but simply large tents, where anything that was carried in, and the man who had a tent had a fortune. They made no charge for anything for a table. You know what an ounce is? No! Well, it was an ounce of gold, which was worth about $20 or $21. A man from Tennessee, by the name of John Cayward, had a big tent which was much frequented, and in the tent Inez Furia was employed to deal monte to the miners, a game being played at true-true him a man. It was monte that was played and not faro; two that faro is because the game wasn't known there at that time.

"It was either the 21st or 4th of July, 1851—I can't remember which now—that a Mexican who had been frequently celebrated in a patriotic manner for a few days, came into Cayward's the evening Inez went home, as she usual, feeling well, leaving her husband, or man, as he was called, behind her. Inez went to her home, a little log cabin, and was followed there by a big, brawny Scotchman, of the name of Cameron. Cameron made an indecent proposal to Inez and her had hardly finished became enfumed, she seized a knife, and ran out of the cabin, the door being open, the wound proving almost simultaneously fatal. Spaniards, you know, are hard of these little drinks, but this woman used a big knife, a cheese knife. The chairman of the Scotch is proverbial, and John Rose, a Scotchman living at Lapdon, now also of Stockton, was appointed to defend Inez. The court proceedings didn't take long, and the sentiment was that, although, perhaps, she might have been justified in doing it and she had to hang. There was a young man by Downeyville, Dr. Aiken, who was very much respected, and he tried to have her sentence commuted to proving she was insane. The sinners wanted to lynch him for interfering, and he only saved his life by running away.

"The hanging took place over the John River leading from Downeyville to Durgan Flat, and this was chosen as the place of execution. Across the bridge was laid a plank tied at both ends with rawhide, and there were to be cut her two toes so as to give her a chance for her life, as she was caught on the bridge smoking a cigarette. Being a Catholic, she was resigned to her fate. Unlike an American woman, she wore a short dress, reaching just above her ankles, and a straw hat with a lot of ribbons. By-the-bye, we understand a narrow band, but the Mexicans wear them so as to make a kind of turban. When everything was ready a pistol was fired, and the man at one end cut his rope, but the other, either through nervousness or pity, didn't do his work, and Inez hung there, making desperate efforts to save herself. It was a horrible sight, and the spectators on the banks cried "shame." This proved the man to do his work, the ax glanced in the air, came down on the rope, severing it, and Inez Paris was dead. Although that happened thirty years ago, I can see the scene as plainly as if it were yesterday."

A Family Jar.

"Yes," says Mrs. Gimbottle, as she spanked the baby in her calling, motherly way, "it is the baby that is to blame, for you never bring me home anything to resist a bright as well as strut up a little apiece."

"I think so, too," responded the unfeeling man.

"Other people," continued Mrs. Gimbottle, as she gave the baby a handful to swallow to stop its noise, "have magazines till they can't rest."

"Here's one," said Mr. G., throwing a pamphlet on the table.

"Oh, yes, a horrid, dull report of the fruit interests of Michigan; lots of news in that!" and she sat down on the baby with renewed vigor.

"I'm sure it's plumb full of currant-tatoes, and such a great deal of pumpkin and power, but also a great deal of interest, and, under Providence, much of its glory in the world."—Demorest's Monthly.

A JEALOUS mind and a large brain are seldom united in the same person. Is lost. Now I don't care for it any more!"

"Will you give me the pictures?" asked Johnny.

Nannie thought a minute. She was just going to play with her paper-dolls, and they seemed nicer than pictures.

"Yes, you may have them," she decided.

"Thank you!" said Johnny; and he picked out the prettiest one and cried it on a sheet of white-wood of the name size. As soon as it was dry he took it to the scroll-saw, and sawed it all up with irregular, curving lines, so that it fell into more than twenty pieces.

"There, mamma!" he exclaimed. "Isn't that just as good a dissected picture as they sell in the fire-shops?"

Mamma said she thought it was, and offered to pay him 50 cents apiece for three similar ones, which she would then send as presents to some little nieces.

"I will put them in pretty pasteboard boxes," she said, "and they will do just as well as the ones that cost 75 cents in the stores."

Johnny felt that business was brightening. He had three or four old books, which just made pretty good dissected full-page pictures; and if he could get other pictures from each book, and sell them for 50 cents apiece, why, that would bring him almost $5!

So he went home cheerfully, and mamma, who saved up his odd bits of waist and body for little patches, gave two bits of Spaniards—and when she opposed to the street what reverence was paid to her!

"But to tell you about the lynching. It was at Stockton, right in the mining district, and in those days there were no houses, but simply large tents, where anything that was carried in, and the man who had a tent had a fortune. They made no charge for anything for a table. You know what an ounce is? No! Well, it was an ounce of gold, which was worth about $20 or $21. A man from Tennessee, by the name of John Cayward, had a big tent which was much frequented, and in the tent Inez Paris was employed to deal monte to the miners, a game being played at true-true him a man. It was monte that was played and not faro; two that faro is because the game wasn't known there at that time.

"It was either the 21st or 4th of July, 1851—I can't remember which now—that a Mexican who had been frequently celebrated in a patriotic manner for a few days, came into Cayward's the evening Inez went home, as she usual, feeling well, leaving her husband, or man, as he was called, behind her. Inez went to her home, a little log cabin, and was followed there by a big, brawny Scotchman, of the name of Cameron. Cameron made an indecent proposal to Inez and her had hardly finished became inflamed, she seized a knife, and ran out of the cabin, the door being open, the wound proving almost simultaneously fatal. Spaniards, you know, are hard of these little drinks, but this woman used a big knife, a cheese knife. The chairman of the Scotch is proverbial, and John Rose, a Scotchman living at Lapdon, now also of Stockton, was appointed to defend Inez. The court proceedings didn't take long, and the sentiment was that, although, perhaps, she might have been justified in doing it and she had to hang. There was a young man by Downeyville, Dr. Aiken, who was very much respected, and he tried to have her sentence commuted to proving she was insane. The sinners wanted to lynch him for interfering, and he only saved his life by running away.

"The hanging took place over the John River leading from Downeyville to Durgan Flat, and this was chosen as the place of execution. Across the bridge was laid a plank tied at both ends with rawhide, and there were to be cut her two toes so as to give her a chance for her life, as she was caught on the bridge smoking a cigarette. Being a Catholic, she was resigned to her fate. Unlike an American woman, she wore a short dress, reaching just above her ankles, and a straw hat with a lot of ribbons. By-the-bye, we understand a narrow band, but the Mexicans wear them so as to make a kind of turban. When everything was ready a pistol was fired, and the man at one end cut his rope, but the other, either through nervousness or pity, didn't do his work, and Inez hung there, making desperate efforts to save herself. It was a horrible sight, and the spectators on the banks cried "shame." This proved the man to do his work, the ax glanced in the air, came down on the rope, severing it, and Inez Paris was dead. Although that happened thirty years ago, I can see the scene as plainly as if it were yesterday."

A Family Jar.

"Yes," says Mrs. Gimbottle, as she spanked the baby in her calling, motherly way, "it is the baby that is to blame, for you never bring me home anything to resist a bright as well as strut up a little apiece."

"I think so, too," responded the unfeeling man.

"Other people," continued Mrs. Gimbottle, as she gave the baby a handful to swallow to stop its noise, "have magazines till they can't rest."

"Here's one," said Mr. G., throwing a pamphlet on the table.

"Oh, yes, a horrid, dull report of the fruit interests of Michigan; lots of news in that!" and she sat down on the baby with renewed vigor.

"I'm sure it's plumb full of currant-tatoes, and such a great deal of pumpkin and power, but also a great deal of interest, and, under Providence, much of its glory in the world."—Demorest's Monthly.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

AT a recent contest in a swimming school at Manchester, England, a young girl swam six hundred times across the bath-house, or a distance of eight miles, while the best swimmer among the boys made but five hundred and four rounds.

WILLIAM WHITNEY OTIGUES in the Encyclopedical Dictionary of the Spanish Language," recently published in Madrid, as the founder of the Ice Trade of the United States and the first President," Pennsylvania, as Ole same volume declares, "has a population of one and a half millions, the greater portion being German. German is the common language of the State." The book teaches further that "in Philadelphia the United States Bank build are."

PUBLICITY that the Legislature of Arizona will pass a law prohibiting the appointment of lady school-teachers, on the ground that it would be "cruel to place any one, or for the teacher to marry. It is said that the schools in that Territory are closed the greater part of the year, owing to the great demand for teachers and wives among the sappy. A lady who experienced teaching selected a full teaching without continuing matrimony is considered very remarkable woman out there, and is regarded with suspicion by the natives.

THE correspondent of an Irish newspaper writes: "I have just heard that I am the Hon. Bernard Coleridge, last Coleridge's son and heir, that made an offer of marriage to Miss Alderdice, who was declined with thanks. This may explain the otherwise strange use of the word 'fabulous,' which appears in Lord Coleridge's letter." The son and heir felt encouraged to write the following in consequence: "SIR: I write to contradict the report, which appears in your celebrated journal, that I have made an offer of marriage to Miss Anderson. I dined down Miss Anderson, and I have no the smallest intention of consulting her."

THE New York Journal of Commerce says: "England is quietly drifting toward a republican form of government. The end is distant, but the tendency is unmistakable. The monarchy is sustained by force alone, and that is growing more difficult because it makes so little noise. Mr. Gladstone shows his statesmanship in grasping the situation and anticipating possible trouble. The Prince of Wales's new franchise bill opens wide another door for the people. To the present 2,989,000 legal voters there will be added, if the bill passes, 1,500,000 for England and Wales, 200,000 for Scotland and 400,000 for Ireland. He would do this by merely carrying the essential principle of the present franchise laws.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Boston Herald has a good word for the Prince of Wales. He says: "As a soldier, as a nobleman, as a royal personage, and as a cultivated gentleman and kind, generous man, the Prince of Wales has been so superior in all Great Britain. By rules of him are now completely transformed, for I see him every where I go, mingling with the people, and even lately prowling among the slums to improve the condition of the wretched London poor. Death, not weeds, tell on a man's life record, and the prophecy which once existed regarding his one being hatred down, and that, too, by his own manifestations of kindness."

THE Fairs are more sensible than the Sunnys. While the Sharons are seeking to separate, the Fairs are seeking to remain united. Mrs. Sharon sent her reasons for their reunion. When Mr. Fair was a mere miner, and Mr. Tom was a hard-working miner, he did all she could to help him make money, economized in every way, and when her land and was dishwashed and worn her clothes to patch up a little, she encouraged him to further efforts, and finally, when he was a rich man, she was a great deal of a muscle and power, but also a great deal of interest, and, under Providence, much of its glory in the world.—Demorest's Monthly.

MYRA CLARKE GAINES, the heroine of the late Gen. Gaines, has for the past fifty years been trying, through the courts, to prove her right to property which actually belongs to her, and which the Supreme Court of the United States has decided in her favor, but now comes some technical law about books. The little woman is seen 76 years, but has the appearance of being only fifty, with her fair complexion, bright black eyes, that never look through glasses to decipher the finest print or to use her pen, which she is doing, and the result will be her autobiography, which cannot help but be an interesting work. With all her trouble and opposition, she does not show any unkindness or bitterness, is humble, generous, and a true friend to the poor. While relating to us the experiences of her trials, she would vibrate about the room, gesticulating in an amusing manner. She seems that she can outtalk, outlaugh, outwalk any woman under the sun, and boast of having paralyzed the conversation when Miss LeVert was of the company, and to the charge of that renowned lobbyist.

When the question of the illegitimacy of Mrs. Gaines' birth was introduced in court, she pleaded her own case in the presence of more than a thousand people, which plan brought every member of the jury to her side. She said: "God never intended having male woman, but he saw that man was a lonely old bachelor and was sorry that he created him." She is always a woman's champion, looking after her rights, and she says most come, and the right of franchise, on which subject she talks in public to thousands of attentive listeners. "If," said she, "I had been a man I should have adopted the medical profession, because for it I inherit both taste and talent." She restored her daughter to perfect health after the physicians had pronounced her beyond cure.

Mrs. Gaines' father, Daniel Clarke, was a native of New Orleans, and is that city he is buried. In her early manhood she became the wife of Gen. Gaines, of Mobile, and New York, but in a few years was widowed. She says: "Gen. Gaines was greater than Clay, Calhoun, or Webster, and his last words to me were: 'Your cause is just, and you must succeed.' And, though her father was born in Louisiana and her husband in Virginia, she has been known any North or South, but has idolized her whole country. In her widowhood she was left to build a widows' home, the great asylum, if the greedy lawyers, who feed on public as well as private funds, can help it. The charges in the case thus far for the lawyers, amount to, and remain fees have already been over $300,000. The printed record will cost $12,000. It is said that the wronged woman will soon secure her rights, as the Supreme Court has reversed itself since 1850, part of the time supporting thirteen judges.—Mobile City Cricket.

How the Polar Bear Spends the Winter.

As soon as the winter shuts down, when snow begins to fall heavily and the shadows of Fall have darkened the approach of the long night which reigns in the frigid zone, the female polar bear seeks some nook where there is a comfortable carpet of moss and lichens. She has had a long summer of hard catching and cranberry picking, and needs a little rest and quiet now and. She feels fatigued and drowsy, and stretching herself in the lee of a big boulder she sleeps. Perhaps that very first night the leaden clouds shake out a few flakes, the next day a few days and days it, but once steps stronger, but the been never looks out to see what is happening. Since contentedly asleep and sucking her paws—as it is said, but I won't vouch for that—and lets the snow drift over her until she is buried a dozen or more feet deep in the drifts. Outside of the snow is the greenness of the earth. Where seeking the Sound, this says the Constitution is a "compact," or whether it is a good one or not depends on how it is construed. The construction by the Republican party of the Constitution is this: That it grants to the government by the United States all powers not expressly forbidden to do, we do and that forbidden altogether. We insist that Congress has no right to do anything wrong, and the Democratic party, in addition to what has been said by the distinguished gentleman from Ohio, insists that this—so what is sometimes done after a very warm discussion—that they must not use the Sabbath, but would decide the case upon the merits of the land returns. And I remember another thing, and my friend, the Major, who sits before me, knows whether we lost. When Mr. Garfield came back from that commission in the House, Mr. Harmon was his home, and he, "Mr. Garfield, how he heaven's name could you vote against trying that—and so did nothing that speech in the House" and Mr. Garfield turned upon him, "Harper," said he, "if you had the cards wouldn't you play them?"

I undertake to say that in that transaction, in the pledges given by the leaders of the Republican party to the Democratic party, to have that commission try the case, and in the breaking of those pledges, the honor of the Republican party was lost. It was forever—and the people today, when they were deceived, by a majority in Louisiana, was defeated by nearly two thousand votes, and yet it was not that Mr. Tilden, and the very same time that in consolation for the defeat of Tilden, they went down in Louisiana and declared that the Democratic candidate for governor in Louisiana, though he received 10,000 less votes than Tilden received, was elected by 5,000 votes. Now, I will tell you, my friends, this outrage and this wrong was committed by the Republican party to be power. It is unnecessary, and I will tell you the people of this country have not forgotten it.

So, then, there is one thing more I remember. In 1876, when Gen. Hancock was our leader, it was seen in the country of the States its majority was taken from him by fraud, by the very hand that stolen by those "sacre-routers." Hancock was defeated in Indiana (laughed and applause), and elected in Louisiana, and in Oregon, and in Oregon, and in Oregon

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Notes and News.

Even the New York Tribune sees that "the result in the house does not dispose of the tariff issue in the next canvass." Randall and his following have therefore been traitors to their party for nought.—Free Press.

"If the democrats had possessed backbone in those days [1876-7] they might have put Tilden in. They would have had to fight for it, though. Grant had the the troops in readiness. I had a thousand mariners ready in case of emergency."—Secor Robeson.

Wesley Reese, aged twenty, son of John Reese, one of the most prominent farmers in Muncie, Ind., committed suicide May 7. He climbed a tree in his orchard, tied a strap around a limb, and put the noose about his neck. Then he shot himself. The suicide was caused by reading trashy literature, which produced insanity.

The following from the Eaton Rapids Times will appeal with equal force to many other beehives in this state: Our republican friend of the down town paper says: "If the democratic party does not shroud itself on the tariff question and will put a first class man at the head of their ticket and make a fair square fight, the election will be one of the closest ever made." If the democratic party will take the advice of every republican paper in Michigan, it will find itself stranded mighty quick. If there is any cussed of the party being stranded on the tariff, why don't our neighbor come out and save it? The democratic party can never elect a president by the aid of republican organs. Organs don't generally work against their own interests.

Harbor Appropriations.

The river and harbor bill as reported gives Detroit river $100,000, Hay Lake channel, Sault Ste. Marie, $125,000, Saginaw river $50,000, Grand river $25,000, and Michigan harbors as follows: Black lake $15,000, entrance to Pine lake $10,000, Grand Haven $50,000, Lake Huron $75,000, Ludington $10,000, Manistee $10,000, Muskegon $20,000, Ontonagon $10,000, Portage Lake $12,500, St. Joseph $15,000, White river $10,000, Cleveland and Chicago harbors get $100,000 each.

Totals of $2,085,000 are appropriated for Mississippi river improvement, $600,000 for the Ohio river and $250,000 for the Kentucky river. For examinations and surveys of new projects in various states and territories $125,000 is appropriated; for the Hennepin canal, Ill., $800,000. The bill provides for a Missouri river commission; also, that no tolls or operating charges be levied upon vessels passing through any canal or other work for the improvement of navigation belonging to the United States. It appropriates $12,619,100.

A Strange Spectacle.

The attitude of the republican members on the Morrison bill is a very surprising one. With four or five exceptions they voted to kill the bill without further consideration. As no other measure for reducing the tariff can be brought forward at this session, the republican party will go upon record as opposed to any abatement of the war taxes upon the necessities of the people. And this in the face of an acknowledged surplus of over $100,000,000. A more extraordinary position was never taken by any party since the formation of the government. It is all the stranger from the fact that the bill simply proposed to carry out the professed object of the abortive act passed by the republican congress a year ago.—Boston Herald (Ind.)

A Living Issue.

The New York Times gets a pretty good grasp of the democratic situation when it says that in the convention "the minority will have no republican allies, and the majority, with anything like the strength which they have in the house, will be able to force their opponents to choose between submission or a complete defeat of the party at the polls." "With that chance facing them," the Times adds, "their responsibility will be very great;" but it takes entirely too much for granted in assuming that their failure to submit means democratic defeat. With a living issue, such as the tariff has become, the democracy will be invincible. It can well afford, if it must, to lose the support of those who have undertaken to betray the party, while it was engaged in the fulfillment of a solemn pledge to the people of the country.—Detroit Free Press.

A Party of Hypocrites.

The Detroit Post is very and about the "blunders" which the democratic party is committing by standing up for revision of the tariff, and so it prophesies, inviting defeat at the polls next November. It is some thing to know what a republican partisan organ considers a "blunder." A republican blunder, according to that paper, is to believe in a principle, to stand by it, fight for it, even when one knows that it may bring defeat and postpone victory. In other words a "blunder" is believing in something and fighting for it until it triumphs. The republican party thirty years ago did not believe that this was a "blunder." Its present attitude shows how power has made it a hypocrite and converted it into a mere patronage broker.—Free Press.

The Lime-Kiln Club.

"I'll am my solemn dooty to inform dis club," said Brother Gardner, "dat de branch club at Green Bay, known as de White Swan Branch, No. 32, has been disbanded. I returned from dat place las' nite after an official visit of Hickenkahna sued for by de Mayor, Common Council an' various other passons. De results of dat inspeckshun are as 18x21 warm' for us to go slow in de matter of gettin' charters to branch lodges.

"In makin' application for a charter it was understood dat de White Swans would start off wid three judges, two elders, six cobands, two trustees, fo' purfessors, an' two cole doctors. I discovered dat under de sixteen charter members dat' was only one single passon wid a title. He claimed to be a purfessor, an' he am now in jail on charge of stealin'. Our constitution says dat no fee shall be charged for initiating members. De branch lodge took in sixty-four members at a fee of $2 per head, an' de money was used to play pole an' buy lottery tickets. Under pretense oh bein' a chartered society, organized for de good oh mankind in general, it heaped up a debt of $90 in three months; it stole twenty-two hams; it got away wid 600 chickens; it gin cull'd society sich a twist dat de wife of a man sicin' seventy-five cents a day wanted a $22 bonnet or death.

"When I arrive at Green Bay an' called upon de President of de White Swans he almost convinced me dat all derogatory reports had his started by jealous-minded white passons. I happened, however, to fall in wid a butcher who had lost six hams an' had sot a trap in his smoke-house to catch stragglers. I set up wid him till midnight, at which hour we went out an' found de President of de branch lodge in de trap, wid de Secretary and Treasurer disappearin' in de distance.

"Gem'len, we has rushed too fast. In de future, when a branch axes de club for a charter, nuffin' of de sort sum' be granted until after a most rigid investigashun has bin made. We mus' not be satisfied wid weekly reports, but some member of de club mus' be sent out on a scout. Our cause has received a blow in Green Bay from which it may be y'ars in recoverin', an' it am all our own fault. Let us now proceed to routine business."—Detroit Free Press.

The Oyster to the Strawberry.

A dissipated oyster, that had just completed a winter's round of orgies at church fairs and Sunday-school suppers, met a young and unsophisticated strawberry on the first trip from home.

"I've an eye on you," said the oyster, leering at the strawberry in a way that made it blush. "Come up to 'tend the spring festivals, I suppose?"

"I thought of so doing, sir," modestly replied the strawberry.

"Going to take in Chautauqua Lake, Ocean Grove, and so on, mebbe?"

"Yes, sir."

"You're the short-cake feller that goes around with his face tied up in sugar and cream, ain't you?"

"Really, sir, I have seen but little of the world as yet, but——"

"That's all right. Now just you take the advice of an old rounder. I've been through this festival racket. It doesn't pay. It gets people down on you and ruins your reputation. Short-cakes are frauds. You don't go near cream. It's the worst thing you can get mixed up with in warm weather. Just you wait until you see a feller with a big diamond on his shirt and a tombstone on his little finger slinking up some sherry and sugar in a glass. Keep your vest on until you see him put on top of the sherry a piece of pineapple, a piece of lemon, a chip of orange, and a sprig of mint; and then you get right in among them and pass the summer in good society. You hear me twitter?"—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

In Wurtemburg girls under sixteen years of age are no longer allowed to dance round dances.

ENEMIES OF THE OYSTER.

How the Starfish and other Pests Destroy the Bivalves.

Two oystermen were sitting on the end of the wharf at the foot of Spruce street, around which were moored a dozen or more oyster boats.

"Did you ever see a starfish an oyster?" asked the older man of the younger, who evidently didn't understand the question. He replied: "No, I can't say as I ever did."

"Well, then, you've missed something. They're the most destructive creatures you ever saw on."

The reporter, who only caught this scrap of the conversation, paid a visit to Thomas F. Covington, an oyster dealer, who explained fully the wily, wicked ways of the "star." The term "star" is only one of the nicknames given a kind of star fish, one of the oyster's most deadly enemies. Mr. Covington furnished a description of the star fish.

From the central disk of small dimensions radiate five pointed arms, very strong and tough. In the center of the under side of the disk is the opening for the mouth, which contains no teeth, but is surrounded by an elastic tube and guarded by the edges of the armor plates which lean it in. From the center run five furrows, one down each of the arms. The stomach, which itself is not very large, has five sponges or pouches extending down each arm.

This large internal capacity explains the gluttony of which the star fish is capable on occasions. The destructive habits of these voracious pests have been long recognized alike by naturalists and fishermen, and many years ago the English Admiralty Court laid penalties on oyster fishers who did not destroy all the star fish they drew up, "because that fish gets into the oysters when they gap and sucks them out." The idea that the "star" secures his meal of oysters by strategy still prevails among those oystermen who have little knowledge of natural history. One of these sailor lines describes the mode of the "star's" attack.

Crawling around on the bottom the "star" accidentally gets fond of a bed of oysters. He doesn't know what they are inside, lacks in their shells all appetite for open like oysters does. He pokes about till he accidentally gets the end of one of his arms into an open shell and the oyster closes on him. You see he can't get away, and the oyster can't live long with his shell open, and in a few hours he is dead. Then he lets up his hold, and the "star" makes a square meal off the oyster, leaving the empty shell, minus one leaf, lying on the bottom with the "star" sunning himself on the shell in his own gray."

A similar theory is useful in attempting to explain the numerous "stars" found with an arm missing. The star, according to this theory, inserts a tentacle into the open shell for the purpose of whipping out the oyster. Sometimes he succeeds on the first trial, but sometimes the proverbially dumb oyster is too quick for the "star" and shuts down on him. If the "star" is not too hungry he waits until the oyster relaxes. But all "stars" are not so patient and persistent, and very often the unlucky rubber gets nipped, and, tearing off the tentacle, gain freedom at the cost of amputation.

Modern science and observation have proven, however, that the "star" is not a great a fool as his enemies would make him appear to be. The true version of the story says that when the "star" concludes to have oysters, scallops, or other mollusks for dinner he goes about getting them in a very different way. Having met his destined victim, he trembles, and embraces him, fooling all live arms about the unhappy victim of his deadly caress. Meanwhile the strong mucenar rings about the mouth of the stomach through the mouth, he seizes the newly grown edge of the shell, called the "frill" or "frill," and breaks it off in his till an entrance is made. The burglarious star forces into the opening thus made the distensible mouth of the stomach as it seizes upon the body of the oyster within, which he at once begins to draw into his stomach. As the process goes on the star's stomach is pushed farther and farther into the shell of the oyster, until, if the oyster is especially large, the auxiliary pouches are brought into requisition, and by the time the large oyster is consumed, the star has practically turned himself inside out. These pests have been dredged on while engaged at dinner, with the stomach hanging out half the length of one of the arms. If put into a bucket of salt water he will gradually resume his normal condition, but if used with any violence he will throw away his dinner and draw in his stomach instantly. An illustration of the destructive powers of large numbers of "stars" was given in an invasion of Providence river, Rhode Island, in the latter part of the summer of 1858.

They came in great schools and totally destroyed nearly all the beds of the river, occasioning a loss of nearly $156,000 to the planters. They remained until winter, when a heavy fall of snow and rain so freshened the water as to kill them all, but the beds destroyed were not replanted for years after this dire visitation. Another invasion of the oyster is the "drill" or "borer," a mollusk equipped with a ribbon-shaped tongue, on ch is armed, sharp and sugar in a glass. Keep your vest on until you see him put on top of the sherry a piece of pineapple, a piece of lemon, a chip of orange, and a sprig of mint; and then you get right in among them and pass the summer in good society. You hear me twitter?"—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

French Wit.

A good reason:

"So you have no liking for marriage?" says a gentleman to the lady who has just rejected him.

"On the contrary," she replies, "I have been married three times."

"Then why not try again?"

Divorce cases are so expensive!"

Why he gave a pourboire:

"I don't think much of that," said a waiter scornfully as he picked up a twenty-cent piece given him by a customer.

"Neither do I," replied the customer, "otherwise I shouldn't have given it to you!"

An astronomical reason:

Mr. Prudhomme, on leaving a matinee performance, says to a friend:

"It is curious that each time I direct my footsteps into one of those day representations I never see the star. What do you suppose is the reason?"

"My dear Monsieur Prudhomme, you know that the stars only shine in the night!"

Dialogue between uncle and nephew:

"Will you lend me 10,000 francs?" asks the youth.

"No," replies the uncle.

"Have I an your only nephew?"

"I do not wish you to squander your inheritance in advance. I have too much interest for you."

"Give me your capital, then; it will replace you very well in interest!"

At the Stock Exchange:

"My dear boy, the business world is divided into two classes, the gamblers and the speculators."

"I don't exactly see the differences."

"It's very simple. The speculator is the one who gains. When a man loses he is only a gambler!"

Satisfying his creditors:

First bankrupt: Since I filed a statement of my affairs I have had no peace."

Second bankrupt: It is always so with creditors: the more you give them the more they want."

On the morning of the academic election a candidate for the vacant chair meets one of his friends.

"My dear," says the friend, "allow me to congratulate you; it appears that you have every chance of being elected."

"That is to say that I had them a month ago, at the time I made my visits. But now it looks doubtful."

"How so? He is impossible! You haven't published anything since!"

One of Rossini's sons:

At the opera one evening there was a scene where four of the singers modestly affected themselves before the two stars who were their rivals in vogue.

The two singers did not please the master of "William Tell."

"Those four who do not sing," he at last said, impatiently, "are probably the seconds. They really ought to stay the duel!"

In one of the new girl's schools:

The inspector arrives to make an examination.

"I wish to have the best informed young lady to come to the blackboard," he says, solemnly.

No one moves.

"Then," says he gracefully, "I should like the prettiest one to come."

They all stand up!

This scene is laid in a provincial city.

The body of a man found in the street is recognized as being that of Mr. Mueller, living in such a street, such a number.

"Be very careful," says the lieutenant to one of his policemen, "and announce the sad news to Mr. Muller very delicately."

"Count on me, lieutenant."

The policeman starts off, arrives at the domicile of the deceased, relects a moment, then smiles like a man who has found a solution to a problem, rings the bell at the door of the poor lady, who opens it herself:

"Is it here that the Widow Mueller lives?"

Precautions against fire:

"Above all be very careful about fire; I have a great horror of it," says the mistress to the new cook.

"Pray don't be alarmed, madame; there is a fireman in my kitchen almost every evening!" replies the cook.

The favorite tipple in Washington is hot apple toddy, a beverage composed of baked apple, hot water, sugar and Jersey electricity.

(A true copy.) JAMES A. EEAT, Judge of Probate.

Mexican Girls.

The rich are so very rich that they have no ambition; the poor so desperately poor that they have no hope, to speak of. The daughters of the wealthy pass their lives in idleness; those of the poor are so poorly fed and dressed that they nearly all look hunger bitten and ill developed. There are no lyceums, debating clubs, dramatic associations, public lectures, picnics, or any athletic sports in which the women can join. They are as completely without good shape as any set of women I saw. I doubt if there are a dozen of good forms in this city, and as to legs and feet—Apollo, bless us!—the stockings of an average Hooser girl would go twice around for a Chihuahua belle. A resident physician tells me that the health of the higher women is wretchedly poor. Very few of them can nurse their own children. They usually marry at from 15 to 17 and are worn-out at 25. This physician attempted to introduce bicycles, but the young ladies had neither strength to manage nor persistence to master them. A few hammocks were sold here, but the feeble things nearly broke their necks in getting out of them. A really plump, vigorous, healthy woman of the wealthy classes is a rarity, though many of them have a sort of languid beauty. Ponder these things in your heart, and the next time you see a beautiful senorita swinging in voluptuous languor (on the top of a cigar box) in a gorgeous hammock, with delicate wreaths of smoke circling from her pretty rosebud lips, you will do with it and the rest of the business that she is. As to real beauty, that which satisfies the heart of the natural man, I can find more of it in one class of Indian high school girls than in the whole State of Chihuahua—if this city is a fair specimen.—Cor. Brooklyn Post.

The Art of Cracking Hickory Nuts.

"I understand that there is quite a science in cracking nuts?"

"There certainly is, and there is some difference of opinion as to the best method of doing it. I got my experience in this business when I was a boy in Westchester Co., N. Y. I guess that there are more crack hickory nut crackers in that section than anywhere else. Thirty or forty years ago the folks had nut-cracking parties up here. While sitting around a big fire in a farmhouse kitchen they cracked the nuts, eating the meats with apples and cider. They threw the shells in the fire. The shells burn very briskly, and when they are charred glow like rubies. Lots of queer stories are told about the old hickory nut time. When I was a boy an old bachelor, who was born in Westchester County, told me about an old man who lived in a little house in the woods, and who during the whole winter sat by the fire and cracked and ate nuts. He cracked so many nuts, they say, that he required no other fuel than the shells to keep the fire going. I can't swear that he did not use any other fuel but the nutshells, but there is no doubt about his having cracked, for his mother often saw his house.

"What do you think the best way?"

"The one that was always the easiest for me was to take a hammer and a nice round pebble stone. These secured, you take hold of the nut between the thumb and forefinger of the left hand and rest the side of the nut on the surface of the stone. Hold the nut firmly, and then give it a sharp blow with the hammer. If you hold the nut right and strike it right the kernel will come out in two pieces. Some persons prefer a block of hard wood to stone, and some use a flat iron."—Cincinnati News Journal.

When the bill to legalize a marriage with a deceased wife's sister is in a crisis before the British House of Lords, it is believed that Lord Tennyson will vote in its favor.

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix, ss.—At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, on the twelfth day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four. Present, James A. Eeat, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of

BENJAMIN WALKER, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Mark Walker praying that a certain instrument now on file in this court, purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, may be admitted to probate, and that a time and place be appointed for proving said will and for the appointment of executor granted to Charles Walker or some other suitable person, and that the heirs at law of said deceased, may be admitted to probate, and that the persons, for assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the next of kin at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, on the twelfth day of June, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the several persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES A. EEAT,
Judge of Probate.

(A true copy.)

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix, ss.—At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, on the twelfth day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four. Present, James A. Eeat, Judge of Probate, in the matter of the estate of CHARLOTTE DOWDIN, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Charles Dowdin praying among other things that an administrator might be appointed for said estate, and that a time be assigned, that Wednesday, the twelfth day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the several heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden in the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES A. EEAT,
Judge of Probate.

(A true copy.)

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 15, 1884.

Notes and News.

It took six horses to move L. D. Bartholomew's safe to the new store in the opera block.

Mr. Chas. Banbury, veterinary surgeon, has a card in our business directory. Those in need of his services will find him by inquiring at the Bridge street house.

"Idleness is the parent of mischief and crime." Men constantly at labor, even at a low rate, are really better off than when working a small part of the time at a high rate.

A writer has said that it would be better to expend money devoted to charity in carrying on useless works, giving employment to the needy, than to give it as a donation.

Mr. Chas. Banbury bought in Milwaukee a platform spring wagon, which arrived on the Lawrence last Thursday. It is well adapted to moving furniture, and goods requiring careful usage.

S. J. Cresswell, of Philadelphia, gives the university of Michigan a hand some fountain. Michigan men who owe all they are to the university, might catch an idea from Mr. Cresswell's act.—Ypsi.

Charlevoix is having a steady, substantial growth that augers well for its future. Its location is excellent, its industries permanent, and excepting that feverish, mushroom growth that has proved so fatal to some other towns.

Our town people are showing commendable energy in clearing up the streets and grounds and slicking things up generally about their individual premises. Our farmers also are logging and burning on all sides and their necessity for crops will be much larger than last season.

If any Michigan farmer reads this and thinks he has pipe clay on his farm let him put a chunk of it in the fire. If it burns red it will do, if it turns white the pipe factories of Detroit will be glad to hear from him and the chances are his fortune will be made.

Daily we observe new faces passing our office and new patrons at the counters of our merchants. The dealers here are displaying as full and fine a line of goods as can be desired, and are meeting with success in the way of prices which are steadily winning a large and increasing patronage.

The Cedar Springs fire is the latest illustration of the resultless enterprise on the matter of fire protection in small towns. Not one out of a thousand of those towns have an efficient fire department, comprising a single steamer. Our rural neighbors will one day learn that they need a good fire department fully as much as any large city, and that it is losing dollars and saving cents not to support one.—Leader.

The Oceana people are still fermenting the agitation over the gold bad on Elder Darling's farm. A Chicago assayist is reported as having certified that the specimens sent him would assay $34.75 to the 1,000 ounces. The story is also told that another hole has been drilled some distance from the first, and that gold was struck. We recollect a like excitement in Muskegon, some years ago, when a "phunny phellow" turned a barrel of black strap into the salt well one night, and the next day the town was wild over the reported discovery of oil.—Forum.

Worse than heathen are those parents who allow their children to suffer with worms when 25 cents will buy a box of Parsee's Santonine Worm Candies which will immediately cure the child and remove the worms by dissolving them. Do you know the symptoms? Twitchings, sudden starting in sleep, bad breath, great desire for food day and night. Be wise and leave nothing to regret. Price 25 cents per box. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and loss to the system you will find Pratcher's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

For Amateur Miners.

Since the discovery of gold in the Cour d'Alene country not only has the western heart been wrought, but the eastern entrail has been somewhat singed with the "yellow" fever. Cowboys, who have spent their lives at bookkeeping, and road agents, who have devoted themselves to carrying the missionary box through the aisles of the deadly Sunday school, are springing up in every community along the seaboard and preparing themselves for the arduous functions of vigilance committee secretaryships. Tried and experienced miners who for years have been digging around in claims that paid from $6 to $10 per week, are coupling out and taking "leads" and "belts" with a zest and finish that stagger the amateurs of '49. Brooklyn has caught the symptoms in a greater or less degree and the amount of backyard prodding in the arts and manners of miners is appalling.

For the information of those who have tried practical mining theoretically a little advice or two may be interesting and instructive.

To be a miner one must habituate the kip bones to the constant pressure of a back pistol. No matter how much bark it rubs off the system, the pistol must be there, or the dirt don't pan. A man without a pistol may dig for months without results, while the fellow in the next hole, with the eight pound weapon strapped over the bend in his body will toss up gilt by the bucket. The outcrop has nothing to do with it and the presence of a gun right at the edge of the pit is utterly unimportant. The chap without a gun gets no metal.

A bowie knife down the back or the neck is the second element in successful mining. Thousands of men have attempted to get on without it, and they unanimously testify that quartz won't rise up back. A man might be turned loose in a mint and starve to death unless the knife was properly placed, with the handle sticking right up under the ear. Don't try to succeed without it. It may cost a little awkward at first, but you can practice falling down stairs with a stair rod under your vest until you get the suspension of the business.

Thirdly, brethren, you want a red shirt. It costs $18 a dozen to get the white article washed in the mines, and the best paying claim in the district turns to pyrites before starch. The shirt must be red and hung on to the front. A man in the Black Hills once created a prejudice against himself in a garment that fastened up behind, for his neighbors protested a want of stock in a shirt from that model. It took a man in the face. The boots should come to the knee and offer a refuge for the legs of the trousers. This is the walking costume. For full dress when you turn out to tree a bunk you just pull the trousers out and then you are complete. You never know when you will have to assume a look of stern determination and inflexible purpose. You may be called on to do a dull thing act at any moment, and you might practice on the servant girl. Hang her up in the yard and it will do you time a week until you get the grim purpose fixed in your mind and then when her Sunday mornings, so as to perfect yourself in the "cold drop" business. You might gobble her salary in order to get the chain jumping dodge down fine, and then take her every day or two to show her she has tackled the wrong bull pup.

You want a wide hat. The wider the better. The more Galveston you can get the further it will carry you. But to wear it so the front won't get mussed up with your grub and prayers takes long and patient effort. The band around it should be full of packets for cartridges and the top should have a hole in it to show what the revenue officers did when you were a moonshiner.

When you have figured yourself out so you can walk in the boots, keep cool in the shirt, quit filling your back teeth with the hat, twist your head without carving it off with the knife and bend over without firing the pistol bullets into your leg, you will be a miner. You don't want any pick, shovel or pit. There is no need of a claim, interest or even grub stake. Just go right out to the diggings and walk around. You'll get rich. Don't be alarmed about results. If you don't catch any dust you'll be so rich in pure land before you've been four hours in the regions that you can only distinguish yourself from a shot tower by the ability of the tower to stand alone while you are triced up to a block jack to keep you from dropping through the mountain. Try it, young man. And if your executors and creditors don't wish you had stuck to the entry clerk's desk it will be owing to you're having slipped up on these instructions somewhere and missed the combination.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Mixes Well With Sugar.

"I hear that some confectioners are using tons of white earth in the manufacture of candies," said a New York drummer to a Milwaukee grocer.

"Is that so?" said the light-weight champion of honesty. "I think it is an outrage on humanity that such base practices are allowed. They ought to be summarily stopped."

"It is rather rough, I must admit," remarked the traveling man, clutching his grip-sack firmly and looking his customer square in the eye, "but then, you know, the stuff can be bought cheap, and when it is mixed with sugar not even an expert can detect it."

"Well, if that's the case," whispered the honest merchant as he glanced cautiously around, "can't you ship me a lot when you get home?"—Drake's Traveler's Magazine.

For You

NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL. 1884. 1884.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR.

It contains something for everybody. Its pages are crowded with interesting and valuable information, including the Bible, the Clergyman, the Lawyer, the Editor, the Statesman, the Student, the Politician, the Merchant, the Mechanic, and to the School Boy who longs to be the foundation of an honest character and needs for models to pattern after.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.

Within its pages may be found nearly

200 PORTRAITS, MEN AND WOMEN who have crowded and are still crowding points adjacent to various directions.

With the exception of an American publication, containing principally of ENGRAVED ARMS, THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL and five of the EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.

Clergymen, Lawyers, Editors, Statesmen, Warriors, Governors, Ministers, Railroad Magnates, Actors, Editors, Poets, Philosophers, Poets, Inventors, Advertisers, Trade Men, Historians, Cardinals, Bishops, Generals, Judges, Orators, Musicians, Sculptors, Painters, Authors of Life, and Other Works of Fame.

INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES,

AMONG WHOM WE MAY MENTION BLAINE, ARTHUR, CHAPMAN, BAYARD, MORRISON, THURMAN, TOURGEE, LINCOLN, SABIN, BUTLER, CHAMBERLAIN, HENDRICKS, BLACKMAN, LOGAN, TILDEN and HOADLEY.

EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.

Clergymen, Lawyers, Editors, Statesmen, Professional, Commercial, Religious, or Secular Men, all find among the numerous characters sketched in THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL many familiar faces, the original of which have attained distinction in thousands of their fellow-citizens.

PROMINENT WOMEN

who have attained to no less important place in the activities and influence of our country are also included in thousands of their fellow-citizens.

We authorize any intelligent person to canvass for the work, and will guarantee satisfaction to every purchaser.

Intelligent people who want a good book at a low price will find in THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL a work that is worth its price in every family, and a copy of THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL

Sent postpaid on receipt of ONE DOLLAR.

L. KLOPNCH & CO., Publishers, 92 White Street, New York.

$1 A YEAR. $1 ONE DOLLAR.

$1 A YEAR. $1 ONE DOLLAR.

THE WEEKLY Detroit Free Press IN THE HOUSEHOLD

Two Large Pages of News and Reading Matter; Contains the Cream of Detroit's Weekly Budget of Interesting Reading Matter; Is Unsurpassed as a Family Paper; Is Unsectarian in Its Tone; Is Independent in Politics; Is Fearless in Its Utterances; Is Worth Its Price Many Times Over; Is Cheap at Its Price; Is Worth Your Attention; Is Just the Paper you Want; Is Published Every Week; Is Sent Postpaid for Only $1 a Year; Is Sent Free to Every Person who Sends Us a Club of Ten Subscribers; Is Sent Free to Every Person who Sends Us a Club of Five Subscribers; Is Sent Free to Every Person who Sends Us a Club of Two

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, — MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at Wilcox's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 18th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a reform of abuses and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES, Secretary. H. F. PENNINGTON, Chairman.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Begole on the Lumber Tariff.

In a recent interview Gov. Begole is represented as saying: "The duty on lumber is $2 per thousand, and I have long since failed to observe that I was entitled to protection on my lumber. I was talking with one of my partners not long ago on this very subject, and I said then that I would just as soon as not see the tariff on lumber taken off; indeed I would rather it would be so, and my partner said the same thing. We can sell lumber at a large profit without the duty, and why the poor man who wants a few thousand feet of lumber to build himself a house should have to pay this extra $2 per thousand I do not see. It is not fair; it is not right. At the time of the war, 20 years ago, it was a good thing, but now its usefulness is gone, and I do not think it right that the poor man should be taxed to make rich men millionaires. Our own state of Michigan is divided on the subject. The Saginaw valley, our valley here, and all lumber districts, also the iron and copper districts, are in favor of high protective tariff, whilst the people in the southern part of the state are free traders.

Put Lumber on the Free List.

Ex-Governor English, of Connecticut who is reported to be worth $5,000,000, has been largely interested in the lumber business for many years. He was asked if he favored the placing of lumber on the free list. "Most assuredly I do," was his reply. "Mine is stripped of all but her coarse lumber, and New York state is denuded of its hard wood supply. Michigan is the only state from which we can obtain a supply of building woods. The south has the woods, to be sure. In Arkansas, notably, there is a great supply, but it costs more to get it up here than it would to get it from Canada. Our policy of protection in this instance has worked to destruction of our great forests. The country suffers materially in consequence. Unless lumber is put on the free list what few woods we have left will be sacrificed and then we shall be at the mercy of the Canadians. It is but the part of wisdom to put lumber on the free list."

Congressman Horr, in his next speech against the Morrison bill ought to read the appeal of the Saginaw valley laboring men to show the beauties of the policy of protection by which he and the salt schools and lumber lords he represents have accumulated their millions, while the condition of the laboring men grows worse and worse each year. It is chiefly Canadian labor that gluts the Saginaw market. They say the Canadians are attracted there by the high wages. This is true, but it does not state the whole truth. Canadian workmen who come into Michigan work like beavers for six months and then return to Canada. They can take their money across the line without paying duties on it. There a dollar is worth to them in clothes, crockery and most of the necessaries of life nearly as much as two dollars this side of the line. Its purchasing power is nearly twice as great. Canadian laborers at home are quite as prosperous as they are in Michigan. They do not get as much in currency for a week's work, but they get more in purchasing power and can spend more for luxuries or save more if they chose. The situation in the Saginaw valley, possibly in an aggravated form, is the situation here and in every part of this country. Labor is not protected; but has to pay in higher prices on the necessities of life on account of the bounties of barbarous protective system gives to the owners of its products. How long will the laborers of this country stand this sort of double robbery? How long will they sustain the party that has brought this system upon the people and still defends it with their votes. —G. R. Democrat.

The republican party is broken into trading factions. Take the single statement of General Robertson, one of the reformers, that the reform people, the Blaine men, in the New York convention, proposed a bargain: "An offer was made by the Blaine people to give the Edmunds men two delegates. It was a more than liberal offer. They agree to it; but the Arthur men agree to give them four, and then they broke the engagement and consummated the trade with the Arthur men." It is trading and sale, bargain and intrigue, boss, machine, and ward bummer, all in the name of reform. What is there to hope from out of all this but a new demonstration of how impossible it is for an old party to reform itself? If there were nowhere to begin but out of the frying pan into the fire, that step would be at least on the way to the hearth and out of both.—Muskegon News.

R. G. Peters, a heavy lumberman of Manistee, recently imported a car load of sixty men to work in his mills. There is no tariff on the importation of labor, and protectionists, like Mr. Peters, do not hesitate to avail themselves of the benefit of free trade in this direction.—Traverse Eagle.

"A Cousin of the Late Jesse James."

The other day a big, greasy, stout, healthy-looking beggar entered one of the leading establishments on Fourth street, St. Louis. The first person he encountered after passing the portals of the store was a well-dressed young man of affable and pleasant manners. The moneybags proceeded to narrate a well concocted story tour and a half yards long. He was out short by the salesman, who coolly remarked that he had nothing to waste on big, lusty beggars.

Feeling the young man from head to foot, and giving him a no-you-can't-fool-me-you-are-too-fat look, the beggar endeavored to shame the young salesman into contributing something.

"If I was as well dressed and prosperous looking as you are," said the mendicant, "I would be ashamed to refuse a dime to a poor man like myself. Look at that fine diamond pin there! Look at that watch and chain there and outawy clothes! Oo, I'd be ashamed, I would."

"Now, here," said the salesman, "when I give my money away I want to know that it goes for some worthy charity and not into the beer saloon."

These remarks delivered, he pushed the beggar out of the way, whereupon the latter said slowly, but in a determined manner, his eyes meanwhile riveted on the young man, "Don't crowd me! I'm a second cousin to the late Jesse James."

The salesman's blood was now at the boiling point and the second cousin of Jesse James lost no time in getting out doors.—St. Louis Republican.

Battle With an Alligator.

Robert Carroll, a trapper and hunter, while trapping for otters on West Chectanatchie river, in Alabama, had a terrible fight with an alligator recently.

Seeing the water agitated in a hole near the river, and supposing that otters were fighting therein, he mounted a pole on a tipcart jut above the water's edge. His steel traps were in a sack suspended from his neck. His only weapon was his hatchet. He sat on the pole, with a mass of vines at his back. He held his weapon ready to strike an otter, should one arise.

Soon he saw a young alligator near him. He caught it up and it uttered a cry. In an instant there was a terrible splash of water, and a huge alligator, with distended mouth and glittering teeth, rushed for him. With little hope of escape he fell back upon the vines, and as he did so kicked the pole from under his feet.

The terrible jaws closed on the pole and crushed it. Carroll tried to interpose the traps but a vine had caught them and partly held him down. Seeing his hatchet he struck into the open mouth of his assailant. It closed on the weapon, and with great difficulty he saved the hatchet. Getting free from his traps he dealt the alligator a fatal blow on the skull as it made the next charge.

He secured the skin and such meat as had not been destroyed in the fight. The length of the alligator was about nine and a half feet. The hole was its den. Alligators rarely attack human beings.—N. Y. Sun.

How to Treat Typhoid Fever.

The treatment of typhoid fever was discussed at a meeting of the New York County Medical Association, in the hall of the College of Physicians and Surgeons recently. A paper upon the subject was read by Dr. George L. Peabody, who invited criticism and discussion from all members of the association. The disastrous results of agitating to the hospitals patients well along with the disease was shown to be caused chiefly by ignorance of the previous condition of the cases and the disregard paid to age and general physical condition. In the matter of food he advised the physicians to give the typhoid fever patient solid food as soon as possible. A physician in Kentucky has given solid food from the beginning of the sickness and has met with success. Concerning the reduction of temperature by cold-water sponging, cases were cited to show that, with careless sponging once an hour, a patient's temperature might remain as high as 104 degrees. Unless sponging could be effectively attended to, the most satisfactory way of keeping a patient cool was the cold water bath. A free use of alcohol was advised, although in recent years the tendency had been to neglect it altogether. During the war the mortality among fever patients in the white regiments had been 49 per cent, and in the colored regiments 56 per cent.

Dr. Helmold, by a series of diagrams and practical illustrations, gave a simple remedy for weak ankles, knock knees, bowed legs, raised shoulders and curved spines. His remedy is: "Apply a little common sense to the sole of the boot." When the inner ankle-bone protrudes and causes a weak ankle, remove the weight from the protruding part. To do this the sole on the inner side of the boot must be raised a little. By this means the inner ankle bone would be thrown into its proper place and made strong. To cure knock knees raise the inner sides of the soles of both boots, and to strengthen bowed legs raise the boot soles on the outer edges. In case the left shoulder is higher than the right, add a thickness of sole leather to the bottom of the right boot, thus lengthening the leg. Curvature in the spine in children and young people may be cured the same way.—New York Times.

Perquisites of the Street Car Driver.

"Do you find many things in the course of the year?" asked the reporter.

"Wal, yes, I do; an' I could find a heap more if I didn't hev to look so sharp arter the horses. I gotter to keep my eyes peeled for things when I ain't supposed to be a watchin' 'em. Sence I begin drivin', 'bout twelve year ago, I've picked up most every thin', from a needle to a pick-ax, an' money from a nickel to a fifty dollar bill. Didn't I git a fine diamond pin there? In course I purchased it; jest as I done every thing I git—less it's too bulky—I don't never expect nobody to return no fifty dollar bills ev mine when they find 'em! Only yesterday on Washington street I passed over a fellerbeetle-a-lookin' pin. I ketched sight on it between the axle-board an' the horses' heels, jest as I was a goin' over it, but several cars was lackin' sec, an' I need knowed somebody'd get it afore I could, so I kep' on. I looked for it when I come back, but I couldn't find it; jest 'bout broke my heart thinkin' what a arrerseum, but yo'guys it wern't nothin' but a 'decoy.' Leastwise, I hope so.

"Arn't all the drivers as fortunate as you in finding things?"

"Yes, I don't think they be. It's a good deal a matter o' luck, an 'eyesight has somethin' to do wit it. Some people never find nothin', yer know, as others does. Now, there's Jim Simpson. Yes, yer can see Fellerjim, fur he wears a big bullaber (wan 'least six months in the year.) He must hev strv for more'n twenty year. Wall, I was a tellin him t'other day 'bout the things I'd found. He says yer me:

"'Some people's fools, Jake. Sence I've bin a drivin' I never found nothin' but hard work. All ev us drivers find that sure.'"—Boston Globe.

The "Hollow Square" in Battle.

The "hollow square" formation that won the battle of El Teb is undoubtedly a formidable one in these days of long-range rifles, when the assailants can be exterminated long before they ever reach the bayonet points. But that infantry squares have been broken by cavalry on more than one occasion is a new matter of history. Authorities are still divided as to whether Victor Hugo was right in affirming or Sherne in denying that the French heavy brigade "drove in the face of a British square at Waterloo. But Montmorin's gallanteers broke a Russian square at Borodino in 1812, and Colonel Gardiner's court's horse, in the same battle, actually charged into an intrenched redoubt. In the course of the Anglo-Arabian war that followed England's annexation of Aden, in 1839, an English square was attacked in the open plain by a mass of Abdali horsemen. The Arabs forced their way in so far as to kill several men in the third rank, and was then beaten off with bayonets and clubbed muskets, an occurrence quoted by James Grant in one of his military novels. The Irish Brigade had a similar experience at Talavera. "Sec, my Connaught boys," said General Picton to them after the battle, "you let the Frenchman get into your square to-day, did you?" "Well, Your Honor," answered a brawny Irish grenadier with a stern significance, "the blackguards got on, sure enough, but, behind the never got out again."—N. Y. Times.

GILBERT & MOULTON,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting,

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS,

Patent Medicines, all Kinds,

Imported and Domestic Perfumery,

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will surprise you with our store in the Burbidge men's new

Opera Block

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR.

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent: i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Our Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from NERVOUS DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the receipt of a simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN H. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.

PIMPLES.

I will send free the recipe for a simple COMPLEXION BALM that will remove TAN, FRECKLES, PIMPLES and BLACKHEADS, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing a 3c. stamp, DR. VANDER BLOGUE, 12 Hawley St., N. Y.

JOSEPH HYLAND,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Boiler Maker,

Sheet-Iron Worker,

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Heavy Blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

NEW GOODS.

I am pleased to say that my

Spring Stock

is ready for inspection. Come and see them, and when you want a suit of clothes that are JUST IN STYLE, you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES,

AND

Price to Correspond With the Times.

GEO. W. MILLER.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 15, 1884.

Provision Market.

Retail prices to consumers, as corrected every Wednesday evening by EFFRIGHT, EMREY & CO., general dealers.

FLOUR, per bbl. $6.00, $7.00, and $8.00.
OATS per bu. 50c.
CORN MEAL, per cwt., $1.50@1.60.
HAY, per ton, $16@18.
OATS, per bu. 50c.
GROUND FEED, per cwt., $1.50@1.60.
APPLES, per bu. $1.00.
POTATOES, per bu. 50c.
ONIONS, per bu. $1.00.
BUTTER, per lb. 20c.
EGGS, per doz. 10c.
LARD, per lb. 10@15c.
HAMS, 10c. Shoulders, 12½c.
SALT PORK, 10c. Dry Salt Side, 12. Beef, 8c.
MAN'TEL, per lb. 10c.
CHEESE, 20c.
WHITE WHITE OIL, 25c.
FARMERS' PRODUCE in good demand.

Fruit Means from the Market.

BEEF, beef steak, 12½@15c.; fresh pork, 12½@ 15c.; mutton, 12½@15c.; sausage, 15c.; hams, 15c.; shoulders, 12½c.
TALLOW, 6@8c.

Local News Brevities.

See our new styles of calling cards, and cases.

L. W. Skinner went to Elk Rapids yesterday.

A large invoice of new furniture at Henry Cooper's.

Garland Stoves are found at L. D. Bartholomew's.

Buy a box of our new calling cards for your "best girl."

W. S. Johnson, of Northport, was in town last Monday.

A complete line of hardware at L. D. Bartholomew's.

We are informed that the roller skating rink is assured.

"Bustles! Bustles!! Bustles!!! At Effright, Emrey & Co's.

Jos. Hyland, boiler maker, returned from Chicago yesterday.

Shingles and lath for the million at Effright, Emrey & Co's.

The Farm, Field and Fireside for May is an excellent number.

Mr J. H. Lyman, of Clarion, gave the JOURNAL a call on Monday.

W. H. Hurlbut, of South Haven, arrived in Charlevoix Tuesday.

A sidewalk has been built from the Bridge street house to the dock.

Oliver Miller returned from Chicago on the Champlain Tuesday night.

E. F. Cole and wife, of Boyne Falls, were in town a few days this week.

R. Rose, of the Petoskey Democrat gave the JOURNAL a call on Tuesday.

Dr Chester has given the front of his drug store another coat of paint.

There will be preaching at Black's school house next Sunday, at 3 o'clock.

It is said that Grand Traverse bay has grown over 102 days last winter.

L. D. Bartholomew has something new in our advertising columns this week.

H. W. Kane and wife arrived on the Champlain from Chicago Tuesday night.

H. Sie returned home from Chicago last week, whither he went to buy new goods.

Prints, cottons, collars, skirting, dress goods, etc., at Upright, Emrey & Co's.

Try "Uro Dull" cigar. Its shend of the "Warren?" For sale at the Cigar store.

Henry Cooper has just received a large new safe for the township of Charlevoix.

John Burns, now in Vassar writes that he will return to Charlevoix in a few weeks.

F. G. Hines & Co., druggists, hope to have their room finished and goods opened in about two weeks.

Work was begun yesterday on L. D. Bartholomew's new warehouse, adjoining the Odd Fellows hall.

H. S. Harsha will in a few days occupy the front rooms of the Lewis block, now occupied by Dr. Lewis.

John Bell seems to be building up a good business in the feed and produce line, at his store on Mason street.

The select reading of Mrs. Belle Bigelow at the opera house last Thursday evening was a rare entertainment, and those who remained away missed an evening of pleasure and instruction.

Fifty fruit trees were planted by Messrs. Moore and Gates around their cottages on the Chicago resort last week.

L. D. Bartholomew sold more fishing tackle the first week in the new room than during the whole of last season.

A fine stock of new straw goods, trunks, satchels, etc., has just arrived at Geo. Miller's clothing house. Come and see them.

A. Howard, Al. Colter, and W. J. Bradley went to Traverse City Tuesday to attend the district lodge of good templars.

D. C. Bacon, of Winneconnie, Wis., opens a stock of groceries to-day, in the building formerly occupied by L. D. Bartholomew.

W. A. Norton is now occupying the front rooms of the Buttars block. For the present his family will reside at the Fountain City house.

Geo. O. Taylor and family arrived last week. Mr Taylor will have the management of the club house for the Chicago resort this season.

C. F. Gates and S. M. Moore of Chicago, were in town last week looking after the grounds and buildings of the Chicago resort association.

D. S. Way has engaged an experienced photographer to finish work, and together they expect to take the lead in the business this summer.

Jos. Pappin has a Durham heifer, under three years old, which dropped this week a pair of fine bull calves, the first twin calves in this vicinity.

Mrs. O. B. Weed is very sick this week, but reports last evening were favorable to recovery. Master Perry Weed is also confined to his bed with fever.

The poles for the new telephone line have been set between Charlevoix and Cross Village, and we are informed the wires will be up inside of ten days. Democrat.

With an increased size of paper our friends should give us more advertising. Several firms are not represented at all in our columns, and others should enlarge their space.

John J. Bush, of Lansing, was in Charlevoix this week. He has been looking over his extensive real estate in northern Michigan, and trying to make a sale of portions of it.

Preaching at the M. E. church next Sunday morning, on "future possibilities;" in the evening on "Paradise lost, and the Adams and Eves that have come and gone."

R. H. Dougall has let the job of building the roller skating rink to architect Kirkpatrick. It is to be 40 x100 feet, and is to opened by May 20. It will also contain an ice cream room.

A compositor on the Detroit Free Press exercised his skill in the construction of the figure of a ship entirely of type and brass rule. We should call it an excellent piece of work.

The Chapperson lamp is something new, and the samples on exhibition at L. D. Bartholomew's hardware store add much to the light and beauty of the room. Call some evening and see them.

The Chicago Herald, the cleanest newsiest, best arranged and printed daily paper in the metropolis of the west, came out with a new dress last Saturday, the third anniversary of its establishment.

The foundation is being laid for a new addition to the Cushman house which is to be 25x44 feet, three stories high, on the north side of the present building. This will give the Cushman room to accommodate its rapidly increasing trade.—Democrat.

We have decided to admit business announcements in our reading matter for a few weeks, at the old price of five cents a line, changing the style only by prefixing an index, as in this item. If the change is approved we shall expect a large increase of business.

O. I. Wheat has the contract for building an addition to Mrs. Clifford's residence, 28x28 feet, work on which has commenced. He will also build C. Y. Cook's large residence, adjoining the Charlevoix resort. These with his other work will keep him busy for a little while.

Children's School Shoes, a large stock just received. Manufactured in Chicago especially for our trade. Call and see them before buying.

L. D. CONSON.

We would suggest to committees of societies who have a disposition to divide their printing, that although we cannot print large posters, we can print small work, such as tickets programs, dodgers, etc., on short notice, and in a satisfactory manner. Friends of the JOURNAL should bear this in mind.

T. H. Sullivan, of Lansing, manager of the tailoring department of the state reform school, was in Charlevoix on Saturday and Monday, looking up the prospects for a merchant tailoring house here. He seemed well satisfied with the outlook, and if suitable arrangements can be made for room, etc., he will doubtless return soon and settle with us.

The concert given by Prof. M. L. Smith at the opera house Tuesday evening had a fair attendance. The professor gave a blackboard exercise showing his methods of instruction, followed by vocal and instrumental solos, duets, etc. His personations of comic characters drew out frequent applause. The harmonica trio with organ accompaniment was encored. We have no doubt other concerts in the future will draw full houses.

Geo. B. Pratt, J. F. Burge, and H. H. Glassford, engaged on H. R. Page & Co.'s history of the Traverse region, departed for other fields of labor this week. A large amount of matter has been prepared for the historical part of the work, and about 20 views made of prominent places and buildings in the county. We have no doubt that the work will be as complete as possible to make in the space allowed.

A test was made last evening of a fire and water proof slate roofing paint, for tin, iron, and shingle roofs. A box which had been painted only a few hours, was covered with sawdust and shavings saturated with kerosene, and it withstood the flames over 20 minutes. When examined, the paint was scaled off but the wood was unharmed. The roof of the Fountain City House is already covered with this paint, and numerous other orders have been given. L. D. Bartholomew has the exclusive right of sale for this county.

Memorial Services.

Arrangements are being made by the committee of Baxter Post, G. A. R., to give a memorial service May 30th, never equaled in this county. Invitations have been extended to the posts and citizens at Boyne and at Eastport many of whom have signified their intention to be present. At least 20 members will be here from Boyne, with their families and friends and it is hoped that the citizens generally in the surrounding country will be present. An interesting program has been prepared, which we hope to publish next week.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by Dickinson Bros., real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, where the consideration is $100 or over, for the week ending Tuesday evening, May 13, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

Louisa M. See to Olivia M. Carlisle, lot 1 block 1 Charlevoix, $200.

Michael Hartenstein and wife to Hiram R. Chapman, e½ of lot 17 of block 19, Bay Springs $125.

Heirs of W. E. Insign to Christian Parels, s ½ of n ½, 24-34-6, $600.

Wm. Nelson and wife to Jas. J. Sturgis, w ½ of s ½, 11-32-5, $200.

Wm. Nelson and wife to Sarah Sturgis, s ½ of s ½, 12-32-5, $200.

Libbie T. Clark to John Bell, 25 acres, 23-34-8, $200.

Edwin Soules to Mary Jane Soules, lot 2 Schofield's addition to Ironton, $200.

Miscellaneous Marine.

The Gazelle makes extra good time this spring.

The Lottie Mason is out at Campbell's yard.

The M. W. Wright can be chartered for pleasure excursions at reasonable rates.

The Hercules went to Petoskey last Sunday to load ties and posts for H. O. Rose.

The scow Lottie Mason arrived Sunday with a cargo of lath and shingles.

The time tables of Hannah, Lay & Co.'s line of steamers will appear in our next issue.

Allen's steam pile driver from Charlevoix has been driving piles about the end of the new dock.—Democrat.

The small schooner Fairplay, of this port, went on the beach Tuesday afternoon near the south river. She is not damaged to any extent, and efforts are being made to release her.

The M. W. Wright commenced her regular trips last Monday morning. The following is her time table:

Leave Boyne	7.00 a. m.	1.00 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	9.00 a. m.	3.00 p. m.
Leave Charlevoix	9.30 a. m.	3.30 p. m.
Arrive Boyne	12.00 a. m.	6.00 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

The following are the clearances from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the custom house for the week ending Tuesday, May 13:

7—Sch M. L. Pelton, 120 cords wood, Upright, Emrey & Co., Milwaukee.

8—Sch. Gilbert Kemp, 300 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., Chicago.

8—Sch. Gertie Smith, 430 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

9—Sch. Grace M. Filer, 200 cords wood, W. H. Dunner, to Chicago.

10—Sch. Louis Ludington, 137 cords wood, S. Parsons, to Milwaukee.

10—Sch. Jennie Weaver, 3,500 posts; J. M. Pere, to south Chicago.

10—Sch. Salmon, 40 cords wood, Edwards bark M. Sanderson, to Milwaukee.

10—Sch. Alvin Bronson, 50 cords wood 120 cords bark, S. G. Ireland, to Chicago.

12—Sch. John C. Hamer, 120 cords wood, John Wright to Milwaukee.

12—Sch. Eliza Day, 110 cords wood, T. D. Smith to Milwaukee.

12—Sch. George Steele, 400 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

13—Sch. Japan, 150 cords wood, W. H. Dunner, to Chicago.

13—Sch. Eagle Wing, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, Stowell & Co., to Chicago.

13—Sch. Phenix, 180 cords wood, J. A. Hurd, to Chicago.

13—Sch. Surprise, 160 cords wood, J. C. Shaub, to Milwaukee.

13—Sch. Dora, 70 cords wood, Upright, Emrey & Co., to Milwaukee.

13—Sch. Lapelle, 110 cords wood, P. Thorp to Milwaukee.

13—Sch. Meteor, 500 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

13—Sch. John Schuette, 225 cords wood, Upright, Emrey & Co., Milwaukee.

Council Proceedings,

CHARLEVOIX, May 8, 1884.

Council met pursuant to adjournment. Roll called; quorum present.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

The marshal reported that the alley in block 7 had been cleaned.

One week further time was granted the committee on streets for opening the street on the north side from Bridge street to Lake Michigan.

Bill of Gurley Book, $4.00, for work on fire engine, was referred to finance committee.

Finance committee reported favorably on bills of G. W. Crouter, $12.85 and Gurley Book $4.00, which were on motion, allowed and ordered paid.

The marshal was instructed to abate a nuisance on the premises of Michael Dooney.

The clerk was instructed to draw orders for all bills heretofore allowed and now unpaid.

The druggists bond of O. B. Weed & Co., with A. J. McLeod and O. S. Washburn as sureties, was taken from the table, and on motion, accepted and approved.

Adjourned one week.

Burgess.

Miss Nellie Barnett commenced a term of school at the Fair Grove school house last Monday.

Mr. Fleckenger, who has been in Indiana the past winter returned to his farm in Hayes, where he intends to stay this summer.

O. T. Booth loaded the schooner Fremont with wood at his dock last Thursday.

Aleck Ross has a brother visiting him from Scotland.

Loren Hamlin's logging bee and house warming was highly enjoyed by all who attended.

J. A. Bennett has been suffering with bleeding at the lungs and is now confined to his bed.

Thomas Murry has the contract for painting O. T. Booth's wood at Ragachowing.

We are living a rather wet May up here in Hayes.

Ironton.

George Jones, head clerk in the Pine Lake Iron Co.'s store, went to Manedowan last Saturday to meet his father, who is coming here from Virginia on a visit.

The John Otis arrived Sunday with a cargo of ore.

Preaching at the school house last Sunday morning by Rev. Mr. Blake, and in the afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. C. F. VanAnken, of Charlevoix.

The Lawrence loaded with pig iron at this place on Friday.

Our school opened on Monday last with fair prospects for the summer.

The furnace went into blast on Monday morning. While it has been shut down, they have got a lot of wood in the yard.

There must be a large amount of shipping from South Arm, by the number of vessels that pass Ironton this spring.

DIED.

STOVER—At family residence near Charlevoix, on Friday, May 9th, 1884, daughter of A. and L. Stover, aged 11 years.

Funeral at M. E. church on Sunday, May 11th, Rev. J. T. Billings officiating.

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Successors to A. Fox.

Having completed their inventory, find that they have over $6,000 worth of Dry Goods, Dress Goods, Fancy Goods, Knit Goods, Notions, Ladies and Gents Underwear, Woolens, Satinets, Furnishing Goods, Clothing, Hats and Caps, Crockery and Glassware, Groceries and Provisions, etc. etc.

Bargains in Everything.

These goods were bought at a great sacrifice, many of them have been placed in stock during the past three months and are fresh, desirable goods but must be moved to make room for spring stock.

Going out of Clothing. Over 150 men's and boy's suits in medium and light weight goods, well made and excellent styles, offered at an immense discount to close. $20 suits at $14, $18 suits at $13, $10 suits at $6 and all others goods equally low. Remember that most of these goods are of the latest styles and best make. Step in and compare the goods and prices.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Timothy and Clover Seed, Feed, &c., on hand. Sole Agents for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES

NEW STORE AND NEW GOODS

A Complete Stock of Hardware, Iron, Cutlery, Tinware, Fishing Tackle, Stoves, Implements and Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggies, Wheelbarrows, Carts, Refrigerators, Doors and Sash, Paints and Brushes. The very best Tin and Job work done on short notice.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW.

THE OLDEST FRIEND.

BY JOSEPH CRAFTS MORTON.

Oh, Life, my Life! 'tis many a year since we Took hands together, and came through the mists,
When then and they and I were only boys
And fair the future looked, and glad and free,
A path as sunny as the clearest.
And full of flowers with no stinging thorn;
And I had no care for the future years;
And time was measureless for then and me.

Long have we faced together, then and I;
Then best grown dearer, as old friends must grow;
Small wonder if I dread to say good-by
Well, I know it is the best for me, I know
To close eyes, new worlds to open to the sky
With death, thy rival, to whom none saith
"No."

Harper's Magazine.

PRECIOUS POLL.

BY ALMA E. M'KEE.

CHAPTER I.

"There, just so; a little more to the right, perhaps. It does seem as though that window affords me more satisfaction, as regards light and sun, than either of the others. Do sit down now, Mehitable; it makes me nervous to see you on your feet so much."

"Oh, aunty," in a soft, sweet voice, "don't worry about me. I am doing nicely, I assure you. But I'm afraid you are not nearly so well to-day, are you? You look paler than usual."

"No, niece. I am not quite as well to-day as yesterday; for, do you know, I worry so much about your future. Here we are eating up our small income, inch by inch, and when that is gone we must of necessity starve. That servant is not worth her salt. I fear I shall be obliged to discharge her; and Marion is so thoughtless. What need has she—a poor girl—wasting her money and time on such foolishness as drawing and painting and nonsense? . . . And Aunt Cynthia Gould looked the picture of vexation.

"Oh, auntie, I tread on air; I feel as so destitute as that. Why, that gold pin of mine would sell for something, I do say, if it should come to that extremity; and, besides, there is a man around paying quite a price for all specimens of birds for his museum, and I thought that that old parrot of yours, auntie—"

"Mehitable Ryder! Do you dare to intimate such a cruel, utterly unnatural proposal as that to me? My darling Poll, that I have had since my childhood? That I have taught to talk and wink and blink at me, and who always more real affection for me, accordingly, than either of my nieces? No! I shall keep her until she dies, and then have her stuffed. I fear it will not be long until that occurs, for she seems to be dreaming of late. Don't you notice it, Mehitable?"

A smothered laugh, followed by a forced cough from behind the heavy folds of damask, screening one of the windows, drove the similar inclination from the lips of Hettie, as it sounded too derisive when proceeding from those of another; and, forcing the smile from her lips, she said, drolly:

"Aunt Cynthia, this is a lovely day. May we not take Poll, Marion and I; give you a turn or two under the laurels, in your invalid chair? Please say yes, auntie—"

"Well, niece, I suppose I may as well submit at once, or stand the chance of being teased out of my senses. But make sure that you carry me up good. Marion! Marion! where are you? Put away those foldscrolls, and come immediately to assist your cousin; you always was lazy. I shall leave my precious Poll to Mehitable; see if I don't," she muttered under her breath.

Marion appeared in an incredibly short space of time, judging that she was not visibly near before her aunt's call, and at once took up her station by the side of Hettie.

"Are you easy, Aunt Cynthia?" kindly inquired Hettie, as she was being propelled on the thick green grass.

"Well, I shouldn't wonder," answered that eccentric individual, leaning back comfortably in her well-cushioned chair. "But I say, who is that insolent-looking young man staring in here? I wonder if he ever saw no before, or is it you he's enchanting so much honor on, Marion? I have half a mind to ask him, the impudent fellow."

"Oh, aunt, please, please, do not; indeed, he is not impudent," exclaimed poor Hettie, coloring to the roots of her bright golden curls, while mortification looked from her pretty blue eyes. "He is admiring our flower-beds; don't you mean that he is moving away now?"

"Yes, and it high time he did, too; after making such big eyes at you, and scraping and bowing like a crowded member that is 8. Why didn't you cut him, Mehitable? What is he to you?"

"What is he to me, aunt? I love him, and have promised some time in the future to marry him!" exclaimed Hettie, her face now pale with supreme scorn.

"Indeed!" scornfully. "Well, niece, I must say, you have taken the reins into your own hands entirely, you and he. Never come near the old woman to ask consent or leave, but ignored my advice altogether. Now, let me tell you plainly, Mehitable, you are out of age, as yet, and with my consent you'll never marry that brazen dog! D'ye hear that?" and the little old lady turned full round in her chair, that she might better view the effect of her words. "And I may say, right here, that I do not admire your taste in the least."

And she laughed a hard, discordant laugh as she watched her retreating figure, almost out of sight.

"Hal we not better go in now, aunt?" asked Hettie, anxious to fly to her own chamber and solitude.

"Oh, yes; anything to be agreeable. I am sure I don't care! But it appears to me you live of this beautiful land escape and bright sunshine remarkably soon to-day. However, let us go in."

"Yes!" responded Marion, "I have a letter or two, to write."

They entered the house and the invalid room, assisted Aunt Cynthia to bed, then sat down, Hettie at some lace work, Marion with her drawing material. Very soon the aunt, apparently, slept profoundly; at least she snored "horribly," as Marion termed it.

"What do you think put aunt out so to-day?" asked Marion.

"Oh, I'm sure I don't know; except it was that she heard you another betrothed the curtain, and deemed it unkind. But then she is such a child that is never enough. I dareay I should be no better in her place." And tender-hearted Hettie flushed with sympathy for her queer old aunt.

"Well, by the way, Het, I admire your pluck and candor exceedingly. How ever did you have courage to acknowledge your acquaintance with that conceited monkey?" asked Marion, laughing merrily.

Hettie colored a little indignantly, as she answered:

"I meant to have told aunt long ago. I, well-old Gordon to leave all to me, I, perhaps, might have ventured at last, understanding her nature as I do."

"I presume I ought to congratulate you, cousin but the fact is, I think you are throwing away your future. Here we are eating up our small income, inch by inch, and when that is gone we must of necessity starve. That servant is not worth her salt. I fear I shall be obliged to discharge her; and Marion is so thoughtless. What need has she—a poor girl—wasting her money and time on such foolishness as drawing and painting and nonsense?" . . . And Aunt Cynthia Gould looked the picture of vexation.

"Oh, auntie, I tread on air; I feel as so destitute as that. Why, that gold pin of mine would sell for something, I do say, if it should come to that extremity; and, besides, there is a man around paying quite a price for all specimens of birds for his museum, and I thought that that old parrot of yours, auntie—"

"Mehitable Ryder! Do you dare to intimate such a cruel, utterly unnatural proposal as that to me? My darling Poll, that I have had since my childhood? That I have taught to talk and wink and blink at me, and who always more real affection for me, accordingly, than either of my nieces? No! I shall keep her until she dies, and then have her stuffed. I fear it will not be long until that occurs, for she seems to be dreaming of late. Don't you notice it, Mehitable?"

A smothered laugh, followed by a forced cough behind the heavy folds of damask, screening one of the windows, drove the similar inclination from the lips of Hettie, as it sounded too derisive when proceeding from those of another; and, forcing the smile from her lips, she said, drolly:

"Aunt Cynthia, this is a lovely day. May we not take Poll, Marion and I, give you a turn or two under the laurels, in your invalid chair? Please say yes, auntie—"

"Well, niece, I suppose I may as well submit at once, or stand the chance of being teased out of my senses. But make sure that you carry me up good. Marion! Marion! where are you? Put away those foldscrolls, and come immediately to assist your cousin; you always was lazy. I shall leave my precious Poll to Mehitable; see if I don't," she muttered under her breath.

Marion appeared in an incredibly short space of time, judging that she was not visibly near before her aunt's call, and at once took up her station by the side of Hettie.

"Are you easy, Aunt Cynthia?" kindly inquired Hettie, as she was being propelled on the thick green grass.

"Well, I shouldn't wonder," answered that eccentric individual, leaning back comfortably in her well-cushioned chair. "But I say, who is that insolent-looking young man staring in here? I wonder if he ever saw no before, or is it you he's enchanting so much honor on, Marion? I have half a mind to ask him, the impudent fellow."

"Oh, aunt, please, please, do not; indeed, he is not impudent," exclaimed poor Hettie, coloring to the roots of her bright golden curls, while mortification looked from her pretty blue eyes. "He is admiring our flower-beds; don't you mean that he is moving away now?"

"Yes, and it high time he did, too; after making such big eyes at you, and scraping and bowing like a crowded member that is 8. Why didn't you cut him, Mehitable? What is he to you?"

"What is he to me, aunt? I love him, and have promised some time in the future to marry him!" exclaimed Hettie, her face now pale with supreme scorn.

"Indeed!" scornfully. "Well, niece, I must say, you have taken the reins into your own hands entirely, you and he. Never come near the old woman to ask consent or leave, but ignored my advice altogether. Now, let me tell you plainly, Mehitable, you are out of age, as yet, and with my consent you'll never marry that brazen dog! D'ye hear that?" and the little old lady turned full round in her chair, that she might better view the effect of her words. "And I may say, right here, that I do not admire your taste in the least."

And she laughed a hard, discordant laugh as she watched her retreating figure, almost out of sight.

"Hal we not better go in now, aunt?" asked Hettie, anxious to fly to her own chamber and solitude.

"Oh, yes; anything to be agreeable. I am sure I don't care! But it appears to me you live of this beautiful land escape and bright sunshine remarkably soon to-day. However, let us go in."

"Yes!" responded Marion, "I have a letter or two, to write."

They entered the house and the invalid room, assisted Aunt Cynthia to bed, then sat down, Hettie at some lace work, Marion with her drawing material. Very soon the aunt, apparently, slept profoundly; at least she snored "horribly," as Marion termed it.

"What do you think put aunt out so to-day?" asked Marion.

"Oh, I'm sure I don't know; except it was that she heard you another betrothed the curtain, and deemed it unkind. But then she is such a child that is never enough. I dareay I should be no better in her place." And tender-hearted Hettie flushed with sympathy for her queer old aunt.

"Well, by the way, Het, I admire your pluck and candor exceedingly. How ever did you have courage to acknowledge your acquaintance with that conceited monkey?" asked Marion, laughing merrily.

Hettie colored a little indignantly, as she answered:

"I meant to have told aunt long ago. I, well-old Gordon to leave all to me, I, perhaps, might have ventured at last, understanding her nature as I do."

"I presume I ought to congratulate you, cousin but the fact is, I think you are throwing away your future. Here we are eating up our small income, inch by inch, and when that is gone we must of necessity starve. That servant is not worth her salt. I fear I shall be obliged to discharge her; and Marion is so thoughtless. What need has she—a poor girl—wasting her money and time on such foolishness as drawing and painting and nonsense?" . . . And Aunt Cynthia Gould looked the picture of vexation.

"Oh, auntie, I tread on air; I feel as so destitute as that. Why, that gold pin of mine would sell for something, I do say, if it should come to that extremity; and, besides, there is a man around paying quite a price for all specimens of birds for his museum, and I thought that that old parrot of yours, auntie—"

"Mehitable Ryder! Do you dare to intimate such a cruel, utterly unnatural proposal as that to me? My darling Poll, that I have had since my childhood? That I have taught to talk and wink and blink at me, and who always more real affection for me, accordingly, than either of my nieces? No! I shall keep her until she dies, and then have her stuffed. I fear it will not be long until that occurs, for she seems to be dreaming of late. Don't you notice it, Mehitable?"

A smothered laugh, followed by a forced cough behind the heavy folds of damask, screening one of the windows, drove the similar inclination from the lips of Hettie, as it sounded too derisive when proceeding from those of another; and, forcing the smile from her lips, she said, drolly:

"Aunt Cynthia, this is a lovely day. May we not take Poll, Marion and I, give you a turn or two under the laurels, in your invalid chair? Please say yes, auntie—"

"Well, niece, I suppose I may as well submit at once, or stand the chance of being teased out of my senses. But make sure that you carry me up good. Marion! Marion! where are you? Put away those foldscrolls, and come immediately to assist your cousin; you always was lazy. I shall leave my precious Poll to Mehitable; see if I don't," she muttered under her breath.

Marion appeared in an incredibly short space of time, judging that she was not visibly near before her aunt's call, and at once took up her station by the side of Hettie.

"Are you easy, Aunt Cynthia?" kindly inquired Hettie, as she was being propelled on the thick green grass.

"Well, I shouldn't wonder," answered that eccentric individual, leaning back comfortably in her well-cushioned chair. "But I say, who is that insolent-looking young man staring in here? I wonder if he ever saw no before, or is it you he's enchanting so much honor on, Marion? I have half a mind to ask him, the impudent fellow."

"Oh, aunt, please, please, do not; indeed, he is not impudent," exclaimed poor Hettie, coloring to the roots of her bright golden curls, while mortification looked from her pretty blue eyes. "He is admiring our flower-beds; don't you mean that he is moving away now?"

"Yes, and it high time he did, too; after making such big eyes at you, and scraping and bowing like a crowded member that is 8. Why didn't you cut him, Mehitable? What is he to you?"

"What is he to me, aunt? I love him, and have promised some time in the future to marry him!" exclaimed Hettie, her face now pale with supreme scorn.

"Indeed!" scornfully. "Well, niece, I must say, you have taken the reins into your own hands entirely, you and he. Never come near the old woman to ask consent or leave, but ignored my advice altogether. Now, let me tell you plainly, Mehitable, you are out of age, as yet, and with my consent you'll never marry that brazen dog! D'ye hear that?" and the little old lady turned full round in her chair, that she might better view the effect of her words. "And I may say, right here, that I do not admire your taste in the least."

And she laughed a hard, discordant laugh as she watched her retreating figure, almost out of sight.

"Hal we not better go in now, aunt?" asked Hettie, anxious to fly to her own chamber and solitude.

"Oh, yes; anything to be agreeable.

HUMOR.

A MEDICAL writer says that girls are so constructed that they cannot jump. Just make one of them an offer of marriage and see.

A BAND of Italians brigands captured a duke recently and held him for thirty days. Any American heiress can do that, and hold him longer.

A LADY and gentleman accidentally touched each other's feet under the table. "Excuse me," said the lady. "Communion of soles," said she.

A READY-MADE incident: Her—"You made a fool of me when I married you ma'am." She—"Law! you always told me you were a self-made man!"

SOME one interrogated Hiles Georgie in regard to his sister's betrothal. "How old is he?" "I don't know." "Is he young?" "Yes—he has to be yet."

A BALTIMORE man killed himself because his wife would not support him. It looks blunder how lazy some women are getting to be nowadays.—Norristown Independent.

"NO, LOUIE," he said, "I cannot attempt to take you sleighing, but I'll do the next best thing. Come down to the store every day and I'll let you see me shout a rat."

A NEWSMAN said to a friend he met the young man had talked his head off, and he felt very much like saying so and down.—Norristown Independent.

"HOW do you extract the cube root?" asked the school teacher of a pupil. The dentist, who had been assisting his father, "Extract the cube root? Just put your cube in the vise, and I'll extract the root in three shakes of a sheep's tail."—Texas Siftings.

"I AM pleased as full and a bag of flour," remarked an inebriate to a sober friend. "There is a difference between you and a sack of flour, however." "What sub difference?" "When a sack is full it can stand up, but when you are full you can't even lie down on the ground without holding on."—Texas Siftings.

HOSTESS (to gentleman her husband has brought home to dinner)—Do you speak English, Mr. —? Gentleman (with mouth full)—Yes, I ought to. Hostess—"But you speak it remarkably well." Mr. Gentleman—"I have lived here 20 years, in fact, I was born in New York." Hostess—"Why, how strange! I am sure my husband told me you were a Bohemian."—New York Life.

A MISTAKE prevails to the effect that the average Chinese baby weighs but five pounds. The present did not state whether the Chinese baby's capacity for scuffling was less, in proportion to weight, than that of the average baby, but if they hold in the Chinese language the same relation to one another that in the United States language, now the proper another word suffice. If any one has ever heard a Chinese baby learning a convention in their native tongue, they can readily see that a child who is just learning to lisp a few syllables in the Chinese language would make Home howl.—Peck's Sun.

MRS. MULDOON—Good marain', Mrs. Ollhilliun, how's yerself the day, Mrs. Muldoon? Mrs. Muldoon—An' how's yer own man, Mrs. O'Hilliun? Mrs. O'Hilliun—Sure, he's well, thank'e, Mrs. Muldoon, but drunk ago last night though. Mrs. Muldoon—Och, dear, dear, the poor man! Mrs. O'Hilliun—Did you hear the news about the neighbors, Mrs. Muldoon? Mrs. Muldoon—Oh, dear, no! Mrs. O'Hilliun—Sure, it's a sorrut! Mrs. O'Hilliun—'Twas mythur, Mrs. Muldoon—Nayther? Mrs. O'Hilliun—Nayther, 'twas twice. Mrs. Muldoon—Well, well, well.—San Francisco Post.

SECRET SORROW.

Why does he wear it?
Has he no wife?
For whom does he look?
Is anyone not his love?
Say, was it a mother
That crossed the deep sea?
His mother, I think, sent him
To comfort her sorrow?
Or was it a sister
Old and old?
Or a young betrothed
He left in the world?
Perhaps 'twas a brother?
He looks like one,
Then freshed together,
His brother and he.
Or, was it his partner
Who left by his side
Now none to console him,
No heart to confide
Say, why does he wear
The black band, I, for what?
He wears it in cover
Of his heart, I know he has that.

—Texas Siftings.

Old Clocks.

The old brass clocks went only thirty hours, and were set in motion by a weight attached to a chain which passed over a pulley, and was hung in the groove, which caught in the links of the chain and required to be drawn up every day. In the construction of the long pendulum, clocks seemed to have required a different material for Calcutta was substituted for the chain, and lurels were introduced on which the cotton was wound up, and a gentle bandit of line being employed, clocks were made to go for eight days instead of thirty hours, and a chime of bells playing every quarter of an hour was other added; the weights were made heavy enough to run 8 days, and, as there was danger of their action being interfered with, tall wooden cases were made to protect them. This was the origin of the tall upright clock cases, which were often made of ornamental woods and enriched with fine marquetry. Tortoiseshell cases were made of oak and walnut, the mahogany cases being of the following century, when that word was introduced.

Jackson's Grief for His Wife.

We have before us the original letter of Andrew Jackson, written on the 10th of November, 1828, to his intimate friend, Col. Robert I. Chester. Jackson was elected president in 1828, and shortly after his election and before his inauguration Mrs. Jackson died. This letter was the sad, sad, heartfelt, sacred sorrow of a husband, letters—for Mrs. Chester was a relative—written to Col. Chester by the old General while he was President. Col. Chester was one of his most intimate friends; had been under him in the Indian wars, filling an important position as a quartermaster, though, as a gay lady, had always been his firm friend and admirer; and had his entire confidence. Below we give an extract from the one named. It was not written for the public, but to a long-tried and dear friend in relation to private and family matters. It now comes before the public for the first time. It is valuable because it unfolds and opens to the public eye the heart of the great warrior. "As the meeting of Congress approaches my labors increase. I am engaged in preparing for them, and this, with my other labors, employs me day and night. I am with truth and pride in a state of dignified ease. Would that we have of happiness fled with the years departed, not with the loss of my dear wife. The only consolation on this side of the grave is a firm look forward to the time when I can again retire to the Hermitage if God permits, where, in retirement, I will endeavor to be, even if it should only be a dozen years, the happy man I was before I ever saw the Hermitage. Nothing but the hope of a future meeting with my departed wife could give me a moment's happiness in this world. Her death has left a void in my heart which nothing can fill. Her religion, her virtues, her charities, her amiable deportment to all, and her unbounded charity to the poor, endeared her to my heart. I lose in her all that I ever had of happiness in this world. Her death was as she lived, the christian, the pattern for her sex. Her last words were, 'I shall be with Andrew when he comes.' Her last breath was spent in calling my name, and her last sigh was my name. Her death was as mild as the zephyr of the morning, and her spirit as pure as the angels who received it. Her death has left me a mere wreck, and I am only waiting for my change to follow my beloved wife. Her nephew, Andrew Jackson, is with me, and has been for some days, and will remain until I leave for the Hermitage. I have written you this to show you how I feel for my loss, and how I feel for the loss of my friend, who I know loved my wife as a sister

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 15, 1894.

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix	6.00 a. m.	2.00 p. m.
Arrive East Jordan	7.30 a. m.	3.30 p. m.
Leave East Jordan	8.00 a. m.	4.00 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	11.00 a. m.	6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. B. Thompson.

Leave Charlevoix	6.30 a. m.	2.00 p. m.
Arrive Boyne	9.30 a. m.	5.00 p. m.
Leave Boyne	9.30 a. m.	6.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	12.00 a. m.	6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. A. H. Bennett.

East Jordan, lv. 7.00am Harbor Springs 1.30pm
Charlevoix ..... 8.00am Petoskey 2.00pm
Petoskey ..... 11.00am Charlevoix 4.30pm
Harbor Springs 11.30am East Jordan, ar. 5.30pm

Local News Brevities.

Chas. Kelly has a new one-horse platform dray.

Rev. G. Daniels, of Cadillac, was in town last Friday.

Boyne has a branch express office, with P. A. Budour as agent.

Messrs. Gilbert & Moulton, painters, of East Jordan, made the JOURNAL a call last Thursday afternoon.

The Cushman House, Petoskey, has been put in thorough trim for the summer and fall tourists.

Elk Rapids library has 450 volumes and Elk Rapids youth, of high school fame, have organized a class in Latin.

The Knights of Labor of Grand Rapids will boycott all dealers who sell Straiton & Storm's make of cigars.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

Eight Cheboygan saloonists have failed to renew their licenses and have closed their doors. Citizens are not tearing their hair out of grief for the loss.

The supply of maple sugar in northern Michigan is said to be largely in excess of the demand, the present being the best sugar season for a number of years.

Mr. Chas. Banbury, veterinary surgeon, has a card in our business directory. Those in need of his services will find him by inquiring at the Bridge street house.

The Oakwood manufacturing company of Traverse City commenced work April 28. The company manufactures turned stock and chairs and employs about 80 men.

Merritt Smith, of East Jordan, who failed to get a saloon license, will establish a first-class barber shop and temperance billiard hall, in the room formerly occupied as a saloon.

The Frankfort Express says Crystal lake, Benzie county, one of the most beautiful sheets of water in Michigan, will hereafter be known as the congregational summer resort.

Clear and beautiful. After using Hamilton's Oriental Balm, the skin will have a fresh, clear and beautiful appearance. Entirely free from tan, freckles, and all blemishes. It is so perfectly harmless that it cannot fail to please the most fastidious. We recommend it to all the ladies. Price 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. H. Weed & Co.

Mr. Chas. Banbury bought in Milwaukee a platform spring wagon, which arrived on the Lawrence last Thursday. It is well adapted to moving furniture, and goods requiring careful usage.

O. T. Booth, of Hayes has rebuilt his dock carried away by the storm two weeks ago, and has since loaded a vessel there. With two teams he put 80 cords of wood over the rail in seven hours.

A. D. Cruickshank went to Shawwassee county last Thursday, to look for evidence in the Burgess murder case, he having been employed by the prosecuting attorney to assist in the prosecution of the case.

The third story of the U. S. hotel, Boyne, which has formerly been used for a public hall, is being partitioned off into bed-rooms. That popular hotel is having such an immense patronage as to render this necessary.

Ward off the first attack of any disease and you need never fear a dangerous condition. If those who are troubled with dyspepsia, headache, dizziness, pains in back and side constipation, excessive flow of urine, insatiable thirst, lack of circulation of the blood, would use Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure they would not be in constant fear of sickness, for they not only cure Diabetes, Bright's disease, &c., but prevent them by removing the first symptoms. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. H. Weed & Co.

G. W. Childs and family have taken up their residence at Petoskey, and we assure the citizens of that town that they are fortunate in securing such a fine family to locate among them. They leave many warm friends in Boyne who regret that they have left our town.—Statesman.

Drive dull care away. Be cheerful, be pleasant, be happy, be healthy. Health is wealth. Use Parmelee's Blood Purifier. It acts upon the liver and kidneys, it regulates the bowels and purifies the blood, it acts upon the digestion, it carries off the old blood and makes new, and is acquiring a great reputation for the cure of scrofulous affection, boils, pimples, ulcers, and all skin diseases. $1.00 per bottle. Sold by O. H. Weed & Co.

Mr. A. Marks, who is to have charge of the state fish hatchery at this place, has arrived with his family. We understand he will soon begin to propagate wall-eyed pike to place in the inland lakes in this vicinity. He brought with him 3,000,000 white fish fry to place in the bay.—Petoskey Democrat.

The C. & W. M. railroad, it is said, has commenced relaying iron on their old track from Holland to Nunica and Fruitport, incled thereto by the commencement of suits against the corporation by John Spoon, for non-fulfilment of its charter, which compels the company to run trains over this route. When completed two daily trains will run over this route to Muskegon.

Coal at the depth of six feet below the surface was discovered at Houghton Lake on Thursday and samples were brought to Roscommon on Friday. With coal and diamonds at Rifle river, oil at Roscommon and Wolverine, and coal at Houghton lake, who dare say that a prosperous future is not in store for northern Michigan? —Bay City Tribune.

The hunt after James Walker, missing on Boise Blanc island, is thus far unavailing. A searching party was organized at Cheboygan but returned unsuccessful. It is now boldly said he must have been murdered and his body sunk in the lake. A watch and chain and $300 in cash on his person, and the most diligent search cannot find trace of him or of his property.

The river and harbor bill asks for an appropriation of $10,000 for Charlevoix. Perhaps there is no more important harbor for which there is an appropriation asked than the one mentioned above, as the shipment of raw material and manufactured goods from one hundred miles of lake front tage depends entirely upon Charlevoix harbor being kept in a good, navigable condition.—Statesman.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Nuite, accompanied by Cornelius Willis, of Charlevoix, went to the "Snows" last week and seized the scow Chas. Kimball. It seems that the parties sailing her gave a chattel mortgage to secure $200 bill for repairs, and just before the time was up they sailed for the "Snows." They returned in the fall bringing the rigging of the boat, and saying she had been wrecked. They again fit out this spring, and were found sailing the boat, which was all right, apparently.—Cheboygan Democrat.

Some miscreant shot at Dr. DeWitt the other evening. The old gentle man was sitting alone in his residence on Water street with the window curtains up when he heard the report of a fire-arm. He immediately extinguished his light and went out to see if he could ascertain the cause, and who the perpetrators were, but as it was very dark they had disappeared and he could learn nothing. The ball passed through the window and must have gone but a few inches from the doctor's head. This matter should be investigated and the perpetrators punished.—Statesman.

One of our best citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

First actress—"I see you have managed to attract attention by having your diamonds stolen again." Second actress—"Oh, you think it was only an advertising dodge, do you? Well, I would have you know it was nothing of the kind." First actress—"If I were going to try that game I should invent something new. Having diamonds stolen is rather ancient." Second actress—"Invent something new? Well, you might start a report that a burglar had got into your room and run off with your new wig and false teeth."

Mr. Samuel Mackey, of New South Wales, has a farm of 5,000,000 acres.

AT THE CHARLEVOIX SCREEN DOORS.

Note paper printed with this design may be ordered of O. B. Weed & Co. The engraving is by Mr. F. S. Blanchard, who has other designs in progress.

A Doctor's Tribulations.

The individual who imagines that he is going to give satisfaction to the general public in anything he may undertake, is certainly the victim of a delusion. It is impossible to please everybody. The man, be his station in life what it may, who comes up to the expectation of the multitude, has not yet been born. The editor is painfully soon makes this discovery. The clergyman, also, knows that there are people in his congregation who are never satisfied with what he does, or leaves undone. The doctor is another professional man who has a hard row to hoe.

If a doctor dresses well and wears a high hat, people say that he is a medical dude. If, on the other hand, he pays little or no attention to his toilet, then he is accused of lack of dignity. If he goes into society, attends balls and parties, then the impression is that he is fishing for popularity.

If the physician visits his patients while they are in good health, he is accused of attempting to sponge. He come to the house in order to be invited to dinner. If, on the other hand, he never comes unless he is called, the inference is that the only use he has for his patients is to make money out of them when they are sick. If the doctor attends church, of course he is a hypocrite, who is trying to work on the religious feelings of the community. If he does not attend church, nothing can be plainer than that he is an infidel, or a socialist. If the doctor's wife does not return the calls that the other ladies make on her, she is puffed up, or she is turning up her nose at her betters, etc. If she does return the calls, then she is pouring incense for her husband to shoot at.

If the doctor's horse is fat, that is a sure sign that he has not got much to do. If the animal is emaciated, he is a brute for not taking better care of his horse. If he drives fast, he is trying to create the false impression that he has been called to the bedside of some important patient. If he drives slowly he does not care a cent whether or not his patients die before he gets to them. If the horse stands hitched, he is an indebted to a kind Providence, or a strong constitution, or to the one who was taken of him during his illness. In no case is the doctor entitled to any credit for the recovery. If the patient dies, he was undoubtedly murdered by his physicians. If the incident man is sociable and talkative, the people say we do not want a doctor who tells everything he knows. Is he is a silent man then they say a doctor should encourage his patients to be communicative. If he talks politics they say a doctor should have no politics; and if he does not talk politics, then he is a sneak and a time-server, who either has no opinions, or is afraid to own up as to what his politics really are. If the doctor does not run his horse to death when he is called, he is not taking sufficient interest in the case. If he does not send in his bill, his object is to prevent the patient from engaging another doctor. If he does send in his bill, he is in a hurry for his money, and so on to the end of the chapter.—Texas Siftings.

Looking for a New Location.

During the height of the freshet in the Ohio River a relief steamer approaching Portsmouth discovered a family of five floating down on the roof of their house.

The steamer steered in until the captain could call out that he would lower a boat, but the head of the family replied:

"You needn't go to any trouble about us."

"Don't you want to be taken off?"

"Well, we don't feel oneasy."

"You'd better come aboard."

"No, I guess not. We've got plenty to eat and drink, and the old woman and children are gitting used to the slant o' the roof."

"But can't I do anything for you?"

"Yes-s, I rpipe you might. It looks as if we were bound to land in the Kentucky shore within the next ten miles, and if you know anything of the pre-emption laws of this state you might drop us a line as to the best site for a squat.—Hall's Journal of Health.

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

FOR SALE.

Eighty acres of land, with excellent improvements. About seven acres clear and more will soon be cleared, one good work horse, two Texas ponies four years old, (well broke,) and one five year old cow. The above stock is in good condition. Inquire of J. A. Bacot, on north shore of Pine lake.

301 J. A. BACOT.

Three Horses and a Pair of Mules for sale.

For Price and Terms inquire of Upright, Emrey & Co.

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 141 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Still clay loam. A good frame house, and two frame back barns. About 30 acres cleared, balance good beech and maple timber. Also about 2 acres of apple trees, and a bearing orchard from which I sold now until, I think, three thousand seven hundred dollars, with not less than two thousand down; balance to suit purchaser. For further particulars apply to

DAVID H. FRANCIS, Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGough's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

FOR SALE.

SECOND HAND

Stationary Engine and Boiler

Size of cylinder, inside in: Bolter 12 feet long, 42 in diameter, 46 flues. The engine has been thoroughly overhauled, and is practically as good as new. Price and terms cheap. Enquire of

S. M. SEE,

Cor of Washington & Ackert, at the Machine shop. 301

Fresh Oysters

Just Received.

300 pounds Candy and Nuts.

Two Barrels Fresh Butter.

Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.

Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents.

AT L. L. CARR'S.

Sewing Machines CHEAP.

A few fine sewing machines for sale at ten dollars each. Call soon and have your pick.

EVERY MACHINE WARRANTED

D. S. WAY.

HODGE & LITZAU, HARNESS, SADDLES

Carry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Lotions, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. call and see my stock.

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best time-piece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

O. W. SMITH

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. All articles of jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order. 25

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, free of charge, with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. Parties wishing the prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn. St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card in effect January, 1894.

GOING NORTH

STATIONS.	No 1	No. 2	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv		7 40am	7 15pm
Richmond	2 32pm	10 20	9 52
Winchester	3 1	11 07	11 06
Ridgeville	3 11	11 16	11 21
Fort Wayne, ar	6 12	2 25pm	1 55am
Fort Wayne, lv		2 35	2 02	8 00am
Kendallville		3 15	3 02	9 17
Sturgis		3 53	3 51	10 35
Vicksburg		4 11	4 12	11 46
Kalamazoo, ar		4 52	4 57	12 49pm
Kalamazoo, lv		5 00	5 05	1 05
Battle Creek		5 42	5 52	1 52
Gull Prairie	7 19am		6 56	4 45
Delton	7 30		10 05	5 05
Hickory Corners	7 37			5 12
Bradley	8 47		1 38	6 37
Allegan	9 03		12 19am	7 55
Gun Lake	10 17		1 42	9 38
Hopkins	11 26		2 48	10 50
Cadillac, lv			7 30	9 30
Traverse City, ar			8 55
Kalkaska, lv			1 17	12 00am
Mancelona			1 49	12 55
Bellaire			2 25	1 34
Central Lake			2 43	2 14
Bellaire			7 15	4 45
Alba			7 40	6 00
Petoskey			10 00	8 00
Harbor Springs			7 00am	5 00am
Mackinaw City			9 12	7 08

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Mackinaw City		1 45pm	7 30am
Petoskey		3 00	9 00	4 30
Bellaire		5 00am	4 45pm
Alba		6 10	6 05
Central Lake		6 25	6 20
Mancelona		6 45	6 40
Kalkaska, lv		7 18	7 06	11 32
Traverse City, ar		8 45	8 15	12 25am
Cadillac, ar		11 35	11 35	5 00
Hopkins	3 50pm	1 12am	1 12	7 11
Allegan	4 29	1 42pm	1 46	7 51
Gun Lake	5 42	2 55	3 07	9 12
Bradley	6 56	4 06	4 21	10 26
Hickory Corners	7 08	4 18	4 37	10 37
Delton	7 15	4 25	4 47	10 44
Gull Prairie	7 26	4 36	5 00	10 55
Battle Creek		5 10	5 40	11 29
Kalamazoo, lv		6 35	6 56	2 20
Kalamazoo, ar		6 45	7 05	2 30
Vicksburg		7 24	7 49	3 11
Sturgis		7 39	8 15	3 42
Kendallville		8 16	9 00	4 32
Fort Wayne, lv	12 30pm		10 40am
Fort Wayne, ar	4 15	1 55am	12 05pm
Ridgeville	6 18	4 58	3 12
Winchester	6 28	5 12	3 25
Richmond	7 17	6 00	4 15
Cincinnati, ar	10 40pm	12 20am	7 55am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. A., Grand Rapids, Mich.

G. W. JEFFERIES,

Dealer in

Fresh and Cured Meat

Fresh and Salt Fish,

AND VEGETABLES.

Fat Stock and Fare Furnished on Short Notice.

West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—The circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, Frederick B. Jackson versus William H. Cousins. Notice is hereby given that on the eighteenth (18th) day of June, A. D. 1894, at one o'clock in the afternoon, based on of the above court for the county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, at the call of Frederick B. Jackson, the above named plaintiff, against the land, tenements, goods, chattels, money, and effects of William H. Cousins, the defendant above named, for the sum of Twenty-five hundred and ninety-five dollars, which said sum is unpayable on the first (1st) day of April, A. D. 1893.

Dated April 20th, A. D. 1894.

CHURCHILL & CRIER,
Attorneys for Plaintiff.

HALL'S Catarrh Cure

is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE.

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any disease, and we will refund the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you will send for our pamphlet, which we mail free, you will find it contains testimonials of many of our prominent citizens who have been cured by it. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

DR. CROUTER, Agt., Charlevoix. 41

The JOURNAL and the FREE PRESS one year for Two Dollars Cash in Advance.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 45. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, MAY 22, 1894.—TEN PAGES. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Is published every Thursday morning,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG,

Office over D. S. Smith's Clothing store,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

FITZSIMMONS & CRIER, Attorneys at Law, Crier's Bitters Block, Charlevoix, Mich. A. D. CRIER. F. G. FITZSIMMONS.

LANT & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake st., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

PORTER & MERRICK, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Land business promptly attended to. REMEMBER THE PLACE.

H. L. DUNCAN, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office on Lake st., Boyne, Mich.

DAVID NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law, and Real Estate and Loan Agent. Office in brick block, north side of lake st., Petoskey, Mich.

J. W. MARKS, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

FORTON, KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

GEO. E. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, U. S. and U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

J. CRAFFORD, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX. Capital $50,000. Loans and discounts at lowest rates. Exchange sold on all cities in Europe and United States at lowest rates. Interest allowed on time deposits. Collections promptly made on most favorable terms. Interest allowed on certificates of deposit. Money to loan on good security. REYNOLDS & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7 p. m. J. T. HODGSON, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7 p. m. J. L. BODLEY, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX HOOK AND LADDER FIRE COMPANY meet the first and third Thursday evenings of each month at the town hall. H. F. BISHOP, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

HUFFELE, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cures, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

M. L. SMITH, teacher of Musical Composition and Instrumental Music, Orders forwarded all times. Inquire at Newman House.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. MILO EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class livery and carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

J. A. CARINTHER, M. D., Office at the Ingleside.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

N. C. GRAVES, M. D., Office in Sim Block.

W. S. CURTISS, M. D., Graduate Detroit Medical College, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HURLEY & HAYSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. O. U. W.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 27, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

G. A. R.—Round Lake Lodge No. 399, meets every Wednesday evening, at their hall.

I. O. L.—True Blue No. 157, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

MASONIC—Charlevoix Lodge No. 292, meets Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over postoffice.

VETERINARY SURGEON.

CHAS. BANBURY, V. S. Office at Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

WELL DIGGING.

FRANK DUBIA, Charlevoix, Mich., will do well digging in all work in the line of well digging, rotary building, pump repairing, well curbing, cellar building, and masonry. 41

A. BUTTAS, President. A. B. STRONG, Vice President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

OF OGDENSBURG, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money to loan on approved and reasonable rates. Deposits received. Collections given careful attention and remitted promptly. 42

G. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, free of charge, with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. Parties wishing the prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn. St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

1872 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.

PURITY, POLITENESS.

WE MAKE IT A POINT TO SELL ONLY

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

OUR PRICES WILL ALWAYS BE AS LOW AS

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

CAN BE SOLD.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON.

Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

Bridge Street House,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations are ample. It is supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Eagle Hotel,

E. A. H. COLE, PROPRIETOR,

South Arm, Michigan.

A new house, situated west end of bridge. Newly fitted to Jordan River. Horses and boats for guests. Headquarters for Intercollegiate Lake and Jordan River hunts.

Fountain City House,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages.

HULBERT HOUSE,

P. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house is centrally located. Good sidewalk from steam boat landing to house.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

WM. J. WEIKEL, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house has been thoroughly renovated and put in first-class shape for the trade, and is a sporting public. Steamers landing within 2 rods; hunting and fishing parties supplied.

PINE LAKE HOUSE

A. J. HILL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and has been changed to the entire satisfaction of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE.

A. B. NOZEE, Proprietor.

Ironton, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

United States Hotel,

GEO. W. CHILDS, Proprietor,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

HALL'S Catarrh Cure

is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE.

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any disease, and we will refund the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you will send for our pamphlet, which we mail free, you will find it contains testimonials of many of our prominent citizens who have been cured by it. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

DR. CROUTER, Agt., Charlevoix. 41

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

FOR SALE.

Eighty acres of land, with excellent improvements. About seven acres clear and more will soon be cleared, one good work horse, two Texas ponies four years old, (well broke,) and one five year old cow. The above stock is in good condition. Inquire of J. A. Bacot, on north shore of Pine lake.

301 J. A. BACOT.

FARM FOR SALE

Consisting of 141 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Still clay loam. A good frame house, and two frame back barns. About 30 acres cleared, balance good beech and maple timber. Also about 2 acres of apple trees, and a bearing orchard from which I sold now until, I think, three thousand seven hundred dollars, with not less than two thousand down; balance to suit purchaser. For further particulars apply to DAVID H. FRANCIS, Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGough's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

FOR SALE.

SECOND HAND

Stationary Engine and Boiler

Size of cylinder, inside in: Boiler 12 feet long, 42 in diameter, 46 flues. The engine has been thoroughly overhauled, and is practically as good as new. Price and terms cheap. Enquire of

S. M. SEE,

Cor of Washington & Ackert, at the Machine shop. 301

Fresh Oysters

Just Received.

300 pounds Candy and Nuts.

Two Barrels Fresh Butter.

Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.

Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents.

AT L. L. CARR'S.

Sewing Machines CHEAP.

A few fine sewing machines for sale at ten dollars each. Call soon and have your pick.

EVERY MACHINE WARRANTED

D. S. WAY.

HODGE & LITZAU, HARNESS, SADDLES

Carry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Lotions, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. call and see my stock.

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best time-piece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

Millinery, Millinery, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

$66

Week at home. $5.00 outfit free. Address, H. HALLETT & CO., Portland, Maine. Mention this paper when you write.

FOR SALE.

Eighty acres of land, with excellent improvements. About seven acres clear and more will soon be cleared, one good work horse, two Texas ponies four years old, (well broke,) and one five year old cow. The above stock is in good condition. Inquire of J. A. Bacot, on north shore of Pine lake.

301 J. A. BACOT.

FARM FOR SALE

Consisting of 141 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Still clay loam. A good frame house, and two frame back barns. About 30 acres cleared, balance good beech and maple timber. Also about 2 acres of apple trees, and a bearing orchard from which I sold now until, I think, three thousand seven hundred dollars, with not less than two thousand down; balance to suit purchaser. For further particulars apply to DAVID H. FRANCIS, Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGough's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

FOR SALE.

SECOND HAND

Stationary Engine and Boiler

Size of cylinder, inside in: Boiler 12 feet long, 42 in diameter, 46 flues. The engine has been thoroughly overhauled, and is practically as good as new. Price and terms cheap. Enquire of

S. M. SEE,

Cor of Washington & Ackert, at the Machine shop. 301

Fresh Oysters

Just Received.

300 pounds Candy and Nuts.

Two Barrels Fresh Butter.

Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.

Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents.

AT L. L. CARR'S.

Sewing Machines CHEAP.

A few fine sewing machines for sale at ten dollars each. Call soon and have your pick.

EVERY MACHINE WARRANTED

D. S. WAY.

HODGE & LITZAU, HARNESS, SADDLES

Carry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Lotions, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. call and see my stock.

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best time-piece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

MAY PRICE ESQ. N.C.

J. W. SADLER,

CAPT. OF THE STEAMER FLORIDA.

Another Atlantic steamship has gone down in mid ocean and over one hundred and thirty persons have sacrificed their lives for the probable carelessness of the officer in immediate charge of the ill-fated vessel at the time of her collision with a sailing bark. Ocean horrors of this character naturally create the inquiry, "Who was to blame?" The world so naturally infers, where there appears to have been carelessness on the part of the officers and crew, that the captain of a ship as the responsible head, should bear the criticism and censure of a horror-stricken public.

The information thus far gleaned from the rescued of the Florida indicates that captain Sadler had retired to his state room for rest, leaving the vessel in command of the first officer to whom negligence if the disaster could have been avoided at all, must be attributed the terrible loss of life that followed close upon the crash of the two vessels. That this officer was one of the rescued, while captain Sadler perished with all the passengers but one, is an apparent inference that the latter was not at the moment more prepared or capable of saving his own life than were those who suffered his own fate.

Captain J. W. Sadler's birth place was Yarmouth, England. He was a little over forty-eight years of age. After receiving a good education he became a sailor, and was rapidly promoted until he became the commander of a vessel. His record as a navigator began with the captaincy of a ship sailing between Glasgow and Nova Scotia. Later he commanded a large ship between Liverpool and the East Indies. He then became connected with the "State Line" company as captain of the State of Virginia and the State of Indiana successively. Last December the company assigned him to the State of Florida after its being overhauled at his suggestion. When last the State of Florida was on its return voyage, from New York to Glasgow, the first time under his command. He had been married three times but died childless. His first wife was killed by an accidental fall from a horse. His second died of consumption. The third Mrs. Sadler survives her husband, and was at the time of the disaster in Glasgow preparing a new home which she had just bought, for their future residence. Thus endeth a calamity that reveals in all its terror the perils of a life on the ocean, and the uncertainty of a voyage across the billowy deep.

Petroleum at Baku.

For years past it has been, not Yankee boasting, but a simple statement of fact, to say that America supplied the world with petroleum. The output from our "Oil Region" has been so enormous and so vastly greater than that of all other countries combined, as many seem to think, that we have the market completely.

While petroleum is known to exist very widely, there are but two prominent localities on the Eastern Continent. One of these is on the Irawaddy, and from that well up through Asia, the other on the western shore of the Caspian, around Baku. Both of these have been long known, and the indications have been that their production might be rendered very great; but they remained comparatively undeveloped, the eastern region sending to market only about 50,000 barrels annually, while Baku turned out 500,000.

A great and most remarkable change, however, has taken place within the last few months, and it is worth our while to look at it and ponder as well as we may briefly the probable and possible results.

Baku has since the close of last summer suddenly sprung into a degree of vitality and a measure of prosperity and importance of which no one had previously any reason to dream, and all because its subterranean wealth is pouring forth its treasures in a most unwonted fashion. We in this country have been familiar with "spouting wells" of petroleum, but there such a thing had never been known. Some thing over five months ago several "rich strikes," as our people term them, began to attract attention, and new wells were bored in numbers, and yielded astonishingly. At length one of the augers entered a cavity which was really worthy of Oil Creek in its best estate. It was a "spouter," sure enough, and threw its oily jet high into the air with great violence. This was followed by another and another, some throwing their torrent of petroleum to the height of fifty feet or more. Of course, this force outpouring, as in all such cases, diminished within a few days, as the extreme tension from below was relieved, but the wells continued to yield at a rate new for the entire region. Additional wells were bored in great numbers, and the work is still going on and increasing, and the end is not yet by any manner of means.

The natural results of this have followed. Baku has grown like one of our own Oil Region towns, and being unlike our own localities, situated directly on a great inland sea, a necessity has begun even within this brief space to grow into existence. It is not to be supposed that men as astute as those ruling the great Russian nation fail to see the immense futures to which this may lead, and the Government is taking active and energetic measures to make the most of the new state of things. Means of transportation are provided rapidly to every part of the Caspian and its affluents, notably the Volga. A pipe line is actually planned to run the petroleum across to the Black Sea, a stretch of about five hundred miles. Once there, of course it has access to all of eastern Europe, and in fact to the markets of the world.

The

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE Supreme Court of New Jersey has affirmed the judgment of a lower court awarding damages of $1,500 to a wife whose husband was killed in an accident on the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad. The point of interest in this decision is the settlement of the question whether the loss of a free pass prevents collection of damages. The defendant proved that deceased was riding on a pass, the conditions of which prevented recovery of damages. The defense was held not good.

THE late "Tom" Appleton, who died in Boston not long ago, was a famous local wit and made an immortal name for himself by two sayings. One was quoted by Holmes in the "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table," "Good Americans when they die go to Paris"; the other was uttered when the east wind was howling at one of the corners of the Boston Commons. "I wish some one would puta shorn lamb on that corner." Like a good many bright sayings, they will probably be handed about long after the name of the author has been forgotten.

THE Rugby School Company, Limited, of Rugby, Tenn., is about to engage in an important educational venture. This is the establishment of a school for boys at Rugby, Tenn., in connection with the University of the South at Sewanee, for the Southern and Central States of the Union. It is intended that the schools will offer an opportunity to Americans, and to the numerous English families who are settling in these States, of obtaining for their sons an education such as is offered by the public schools of England.

A SWEDISH tourist is reported to have arrived at Warsaw in fulfilment of a wager made with two Englishmen, the conditions of which are that during this year, from the 1st of last January, he shall visit all the cities of Europe which are, or have been at any time, capitals, and sauntering, according to his reckoning, 105. He has visited all the capitals of Germany (twenty-six), and from Warsaw he will go on to St. Petersburg, and thence to Moscow, Vilno, and Kieff. If he succeeds he is to receive £5,000 and his traveling expenses. But it is stated that, although he has as yet visited only one-fourth of the whole number of cities he has undertaken to visit, he complains of extreme fatigue.

IF Sin sometimes been brought against Bismarck that he does not believe in "resting on Sunday," and that he is rarely seen at church. This, Dr. Busch, his biographer, says, is partly due to the great amount of work that pressed upon him. "There is no rest a must in my life that the would can rarely be considered," Bismarck writes to his sister, and to the author he remarks that the day ought to be six or seven hours longer for him. Another reason for not going to church he gives in a letter to a critical friend: "With regard to going to church, it is incorrect to say that I never enter a church. I willingly admit that I might go more frequently, but it is not so much from want of time as for consideration of my health that I do not go, especially in winter. To those who feel themselves called to be my judges in this respect I will with pleasure give further information about the subject."

THE census returns of St. Petersburg, which have recently been published, give a curious picture of the population of the Russian capital. The number of inhabitants, including the suburbs, is 928,016, of whom only 253,017 are born at St. Petersburg. The fluctuating population consists chiefly in peasants, the greater part of whom are from the province of Tver. The different classes are represented as follows: 41 per cent. peasants, 20 per cent. middle-class citizens, 13 per cent. mechanics, 12 per cent. nobles, 9 per cent. priests, 3 per cent foreigners, 2 per cent. Finns, 2 per cent. merchants, and 1 per cent. honorary citizens. The difference in the number of the two sexes has gradually decreased since 1869, when to every 100 males there were 139 female inhabitants, whereas there are only 121 of the latter at present. The number of illiterate persons—44 per cent.—is the same as in 1869. There are 24,000 children who receive no instruction in schools, although their parents are alive. As compared with the returns of 1869, the number of divorces has largely increased. With regard to the age of the inhabitants of St. Petersburg it appears that on the average they die before they have reached their 26th year, which is eighteen to twenty years less than the average in England.

CHICAGO people, says a local paper, have almost forgotten the commotion caused some years ago by an evangelist of the Moody type who suddenly abandoned the orthodox theories of heaven of gold and sapphire and began to preach Christ's reign upon earth. This man, Mr. G. Spafford, who lived at Lake View, and who had been a lawyer of some standing, gathered about him a congregation of theorists amounting to perhaps forty or fifty, who subscribed to his strange belief. In accordance with their theory, Christ was to appear for his final residence on Mt. Calvary, and in order to be there on hand Mr. Spafford and his flock had converted all their property into cash and sailed for the Promised Land. A traveler who recently visited Jerusalem in the interest of one of the missionary societies of the East states that she visited the house in which the Lake View community lived, and that she found them in good health and spirits, still firm in belief, and waiting with hope and resignation for the judgment day. This young woman, sent out from Boston, returned in time to enjoy a few weeks ago, and has written letters to friends in Chicago describing the way in which she was received, having been sick for several weeks at the house in which these people lived. Their dwelling is described as large and commodious—a neat, but not elegantly, furnished house—and fitted out with all the conveniences which the best civilization of the country can furnish. She says that about twenty persons are living under the same roof, and that all property is held in common. The house itself is perched upon the side of the mountain just without the walls of the Holy City and presents a most strikingly picturesque appearance. Mr. Spafford, the leader of the community, is nearly 60 years of age, but is still hale, hearty, and happy.

THE Chicago Current thinks it is time to stop the opening of our purses, our houses, and our hearts to distinguished English tramps who come over here to rob us. It says: Among the more noted Englishmen who have lately visited us are Matthew Arnold, Sir Lepel Griffin, and Oscar Wilde. They are in great social favor at home, and may be taken as representative of English society, brains, and manners. Of this proposition there can be no dispute. Therefore, taking it for granted, we are justified in saying that the representative "upper class" Englishman of to-day is a pig-headed boor, an ungrateful, snarling cur, and a jealous, cunning, and venomous-souled enemy of all things American. These people, largely found within the corporate limits of New York City, who affect English ways, should be jetted off the streets whenever they appear. The average Englishman, who has lived all his life in a narrow island, has not the breadth of vision to enable him to grasp the life, business, and high purpose of the American people, whose domain has yet to be settled, its resources determined, its wilderness conquered. Bah! Out upon these pygmies! What have they to show us as examples? Their metropolis, which is practically all there is of England, is the most depraved and pauper-stricken city in the world, its aristocracy is the most rotten, its Government the least liberal, when pretenses are considered. It has nothing essential to be commended to us as worthy of emulation. Whether or not Matthew Arnold has declared there is no culture here, it is the cry of his kind who receive our hospitality. American social life is on a higher plane of culture than does English life. In literature, in scientific research, in applied art, in inventive skill, in all the comforts of life, in all things that go to make life worth living and to bless it with opportunity, the American people are so far in the advance of England and her suffering peasantry, as home was once in advance of the rest of the world. Therefore, let the doors be shut upon English beggars of distinction. Let every American householder consider that it is shame one of them he runs the risk of finding his hospitality abused. In short, let us hear of and see no more affectation in this country of English manners and methods.

Shakspeare Study.

Among the many solemn humbugs by which the world is afflicted, there is not one more shallow than the pretense of some tragic actors to be considered what are called "students of Shakspeare." If this claim means anything, it presumes that the actor has the powers of an acute analytic and minute profundity that deep research and kindred inspiration are supposed to discover his Indian meaning, and these actors are ordained to expound this lofty art of the stage. Humbug! A tragedy is a great literary effort designed, not to be read or meditated upon, but to be acted or acted before a mixed audience. Its language, therefore, should be clear and unmistakable as it flows from the mouths of the speakers; its action should be clear and perspicuous. If it is not so, then the poet is all at fault. He is not a prophet; his business is not to tell lies about what is to be; so he has no reason to be obscure. There are no two ways about him; he has no excuse for misleading or for mystifying the people.

The so-called student of Shakspeare is a narrow-minded fellow who seeks to torture the palpable meaning of trivial passages into what are termed "new readings" for the purpose of enhancing himself conspicuous at the expense of the poet, by making the world believe, the very worst fault a dramatist can admit. If such fellows could cross the dropping part of the grandmother, recall him like the ghost in "Hamlet" to revisit the glimpses of the moon, and then submit to him their new readings, I can imagine his reply.

O, the humbug of it all! and how the dear world is fooled by it!—Dion Boucicault.

Japan Tea.

"Japan tea is not a favorite in these days," said a grocer. "Ten years ago a rage in its favor set in, and the Japanese tea was called for on all sides. But it fell out of public favor as rapidly as it came in. Why? It had not enough of merit to keep it in. The first lots we got from Japan were clean in quality, because the ground was small and great attention was paid to its preparation, with hopes for its future. But the demand increased in a few jumps, care was abandoned by the growers, and the only object thereafter was to fill the orders. Consequently the Japanese tea that found its way to the American market was a sorry lot. Tea lovers soon found it out, and the Chinese stimulant was taken again and found much better. Not only were the old and tough leaves of the tea plant picked at all times of the year, instead of the young green ones of the spring season, but withered leaves were mixed in with them. When the Japan tea first came here the dried leaves had a delicate olive tint and were long and wiry. Now they are broken and range in color from black to yellow, the result of artificial colorings with various dyes, gypsum, and soapstone.—Cleveland Herald.

FALLACIES OF PROTECTION.

Eloquent Plea of Hon. Frank Hurd in Favor of Revenue Reform.

In every respect the speech made by Hon. Frank Hurd, of the Toledo (Ohio) District, was the best on the tariff question since the present debate begun in the House of Representatives. The Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune (Rep.) says of it:

"Few speeches in the halls of congress for many years have been greeted with a more earnest attention and hearty and enthusiastic approval. The ground he traversed is well known but he brought into new some most telling and certain passages of his speech were marked with a forty-pounder, to which even the Democratic side, hitherto cold of applause drowned in a volume of cheers, testified that the man who spoke had touched the attention of the House. The main points of his speech were that the Government has no right to tax one man for the benefit of another; that the tariff is not a tax upon foreigners, but a tax upon the American consumer; that the tariff is not designed for revenue, but for protection, and that the protective tariff has nearly destroyed our foreign commerce; that it has the American carrying trade; it operates to the agricultural interests, in depressing wages; it shutting up in the United States the surplus manufactures of our own industry, and it forging the chains of a monopoly which where the farmer has to be placed more heavily than ever at the mercy of the manufacturer. Thus this tariff," said Mr. Hurd, "so called for the benefit of the country, will ruin its finer nightly and destroy our industrial system. Mr. Hurd paid his compliments to the Democrats who are opposed to the Morrison bill. He said that ordinarily to politics the unpopularity of the measure would be considered a good thing, but the tariff of the Democrats in the House "is a tariff for the benefit of the people of the United States, and I am proud at the present time to be following the dictates of party principles as given to them in the platforms of the party from the days of Jefferson to the very last convention, the platform of which was adopted so vigorously, and declared that it is the same in the same time, and that the platform it should not be taken as an expression of the Democratic party." (Applause.)

The Associated Press Agent at the National Capital furnished the following abstract of Mr. Hurd's terrible onslaught upon the protective cohorts. It is but a skeleton resume of Mr. Hurd's magnificent exposition of the sophisms of protection, and in a future issue we shall endeavor to give a more extended report of the Ohio Congressman's brilliant effort.

Mr. Hurd denied the right of the Government to surrender the taxing power and allow individual to exercise it. When he said he was taxed by the Government, he claimed the right to expend them where he pleased. If the result was to benefit his neighbor, Freedman, a Mexican, a Canadian, or an Englishman than with an American, he had the right to do it, and the Government had no right to interpose excepts so far as the rights of its revenue were concerned. He cited the case of Thomas Jefferson, who owed $20,000 originally to Jo Lomas, the Jew money lender, and who was sold out by the sheriff of Albemarle county, Virginia, to satisfy the question. When Mr. Gladstone came into the House of Commons the Hon. Carter H. Harrison not him and said: "Mr. Gladstone, I want to know whether you are a free-trade or a protectionist." Mr. Gladstone said: "Mr. Harrison, I am a free-trade." "Then," said he, "I want to know why you did not tell the people of Chicago that when they voted for you they were voting for a free-trade." "Mr. Hurd said that the Democratic party was the party of the old and tough leaves of the tea plant, picked at all times of the year, instead of the young green ones of the spring season, but wisteria leaves were mixed in with them. When the Japan tea first came here the dried leaves had a delicate olive tint and were long and wiry. Now they are broken and range in color from black to yellow, the result of artificial colorings with various dyes, gypsum, and soapstone.—Cleveland Herald.

JOHN SPURMAN finds it difficult to magnify his loons, since he can't finger the small change in Uncle Sam's mailbox.

GOV. ORDWAY, of Dakota, has been indicted for Dupey doings in organizing counties. Such is Republicanism.

The Formal "Call."

Whatever may betide, one have good cause to repent that the "formal call" is one of the sorts, and the sex promises that one "formal call." That is a double pain, which the husband despises pay tribute to the formal call. He hears the softo voce prayer the parties will be out, and that the hours are dispatched with a card, he quietly notes the sigh of relief when the embossed and return after hours of social distress. He observes the lis of those invited to the dinner, the lad pouting at invites, and the ingency and total absence of any equivalent to the war of pleasure for all his slavish adherence to custom, and then duly realizes the miraculous effect of his own escape from such misery of his own escape from such misery, and it maybe takes comfort in the feeling that the whole business is the fault of those who have made him pay the piper for countless other sins and crimes of fashion and evil. The elasticity of conscience prompts the creature to attempt to mitigate the infliction of the formal call by concocting a formal excuse, which is the cause of a sin, which he feels he may or may not explain. Finally he sets out, and the sins and the sorrows of his fellows, whose painful operations have produced, resulting in the sacred blood, but subsidiary little relief. The formal call is a necessity, and the sin of hypocrisy was called. After an exhaustive study of the subject the author has hope of final recovery and that he may be within a few days. To describe the agonies which this announcement caused the father of a family, would be to invite the sympathy of all family men, and to make the grasping fellow mean to go to work for himself, but the author has no opportunity of keeping a knife and look to carve his children's dinner, and the fellow is so too weak to carve the fowl. The face bled from several cuts, his hands seared entirely at times, and his friends waited for his death, believing that the fiend, Bright's disease or the kidney disease, which he was suffering could not be removed. In this expressed request William's sister came forward and declared she would make a final attempt to save her brother. The doctors interposed, declaring her it was useless and that she would only hasten the end by the dose. But she persisted, and finally succeeded in procuring a bottle of Warner's Safe Cure. Within an hour the patient was sitting up in bed, and within two days he allowed slices of the kidney to be taken from his side, and his friends

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at Wilde's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 9th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a return of honest and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of six less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate need be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES,
H. F. PENNINGTON, Chairman.
Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Democratic County Convention.

A Democratic County Convention for the purpose of electing two delegates to the State Convention, and to reorganize the County Committee, will be held at

BARTHOLOMEW'S OPERA HOUSE, CHARLEVOIX, ON THURSDAY, JUNE 12TH, 1884,
AT 2 O'clock p. m. A full attendance is desired.

J. MILO EATON,
Chairman Democratic County Committee.

The apportionment has entitled to delegates as follows:

	Vote last Gov.	No. Delegates
Bear Lake	32	1
Round Valley	126	3
Chandler	39	1
Charlevoix	223	5
Evangeline	119	3
Eveline	346	8
Hayes	98	2
Hudson	128	3
Marion	49	1
Nebo	41	1
Norwood	76	2
Peaine	79	2
South Arm	45	1
Springvale	14	1
Wilson	58	1

In this column will be found a call for a democratic county convention for the purpose of electing two delegates to the state convention. The representation of the townships is based on the total vote for governor in 1882, and it is desired that each township send a full delegation of live working democrats. Matters of importance may come up for discussion. It is hoped that democrats in each township will act in this matter, and see that caucuses are called and delegates elected.

It is seldom that a public officer, when voting for the benefit of his political friends, is outspoken and defiant enough to say why he so voted, but Petoskey has a president who is that kind of an official. On a motion to let certain village printing to the lowest bidder, the Democrat being five dollars lower than the Record on one bid, and ten dollars lower on another, the vote was a tie,—the council being a tie politically. In giving the casting vote, the president, a republican, voted against allowing it to the Democrat, giving as a reason that he was a republican. The Charlevoix board of supervisors exhibited the same spirit last fall, when they refused to allow the JOURNAL to bid on publishing their proceedings, and gave it to the Sentinel at $75, but they had not the frankness of the Petoskey man to say they so voted because they were republicans. How do the taxpayers like this kind of work?

Michigan Census, 1884.

This census is to be taken in the month of June. It is not within the choice of any inhabitant of the state, whether he shall or shall not communicate the information required by the census law. By section 15 of the census law it is provided:

That each and every person more than eighteen years of age, belonging to any family residing in any township, or census district, and in case of the absence of the heads and other members of any such family, then any agent of such family shall be, and each of them hereby is required, when thereto requested by the census enumerator, to render a true account, to the best of his or her knowledge, of every person belonging to such family, and whoever shall willfully fail or refuse shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall forfeit and pay a sum of fifty dollars, or be confined in the county jail not more than six months. And every owner, lessee, agent, or manager in charge of any establishment of productive industry, or farm, and every president, treasurer, secretary, general agent, or managing director of every corporation owning or operating any such establishment or farm who shall, when thereto requested by the census enumerator, willfully neglect or refuse to give true and complete answers to any inquiries authorized by this act, shall forfeit and pay a sum not less than five hundred, nor more than five thousand dollars, and in addition shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the county jail for a term not exceeding one year. And it shall be the duty of the census enumerator to promptly notify the prosecuting attorney of his county of any penalty incurred in his township or census district under the provisions of this section.

The Nation Should Act.

The floods are now a yearly visitant to all the great river valleys of the country. Year after year there is an increase in the volume of water poured into the various rivers, when rains or mild weather in the winter or early spring exert their influence upon the snow along the banks or on the hillsides, which are the sources of our great rivers. Matters will yearly grow worse, for, the country is increasing rapidly in population, and the cities, towns and farms in the valleys are being steadily augmented. The cause of inundation in spring and drouth in summer is the removal of the forests. Spring freshets and river inundations are unknown in countries where the forests are preserved or protected. The water from the melting snows is absorbed by the roots of the trees, and then the melting of the snows is retarded by the protection afforded by the shade of the trees.

As a nation we have been committing the same inconceivable folly which has ruined other countries. In Central Asia, Northern Africa, and the interior of Spain will be found arid deserts which were once fruitful countries because forest-clad and consequently well watered. But we are cutting down our forests and destroying the fertility of our soil with amazing rapidity. We require an enormous quantity of wood for house building and manufacturing, as well as for fuel. The item of railway ties consumes vast forests yearly. Then our western country is much of it open prairies, which have no supply of their own and must draw from the East and North for house-building and fencing; hence the rapid and increasing destruction of our forests.

There is but one remedy, and that is a slow one. The nation must take the matter in hand. A board of engineers must, after a proper survey, designate those sections of the country which must be replanted to forests. Then their recommendations must be strictly carried out. This, however will not be done until more fearful floods than those of the past two years destroy so much life and property that the country will be startled into doing something. States cannot deal with this matter, for the cutting down of woods near the head waters of streams affects the volume of waters thousands of miles away.

It will be hard to get Congress to set for we have been so wasteful of our woods that it seems like an infringement on personal liberty to stay the ax of the woodsman. In time we will be forced, doubtless, to follow the example of ancient Egypt where, to prevent the destruction of property, vast reservoirs were constructed to receive and store the surplus waters and so save cities from injury, and at the same time utilize the water for agricultural purposes.—Democrat's.

The Wire Age.

Future analysts may well describe this period of American history as the wire age, says the Boston Advertiser. In no part of the economy of our daily life are we divorced from wire. It is our slave and yet an ever present master. Sleeping, we repose on wire mattresses. Eating, we see foods that have passed through sieves and which are sheltered from insect appetite by wire covers. Calling, we pull wires to ring curled wire gongs. Traveling, we are conveyed by cable or electric railways hoisted by elevators hung on wires, and hurried over wire bridges. We announce our coming by telegraph or telephone wires, and we thread our way by night through streets lighted by means of electric cables. Across our fields are strung many thousands of miles of barbed wire fences, against which dumb brutes protest. Texas rangers draw the knife, and lawyers, juries and reporters when their intellectual blades. Our clocks are set by wires, our watches run by wires, our books are stitched with wire, our pleasures are hung by wires, and our politics managed by wires.

A South American Snake Story.

In Paraguay, at Guaza-Gua, a woman going to bathe in the lake laid her child down under a neighboring tree and walked down to the water. A gibon, however, was on the lookout for prey at the shore, sprang at her and seized her before she could escape. Soon afterwards a horseman passing near heard some cries, and on examining around saw the child alone under the tree. Suspecting some disaster he rode down to the lake and there saw a huge snake swallowing the woman, who was already drawn in up to the waist. Hastily tying his two lassoes together, the man threw the noose over the woman and under her arms, and spurring his horse, succeeded in drawing the unfortunate woman's still palpitating body from the throat of the disappointed monster. Whether the woman survived is not stated.—Anglo-Brazilian Times.

Giving Her "a Thrill."

An anecdote of the engagement of Henry Irving in this city, although late in coming to hand, is well worth telling. During the first performance of "Louis XI," a lady found herself seated next to a party of intensely typical Boston girls, who observed the development of the play with that reserved, serene and critical aspect for which their class is noted. The lady was more enthusiastic than they, and at various fine points which the actor made was not chary of applause. At last, when a particularly strong situation had been met and mastered, she exclaimed, sotto voice:

"Ah, he is, indeed, great!"

The three young women who sat beside her immediately put my their eyeglasses and looked at her in a quiet but superior way, and the nearest of the party, in a calm and very distinct voice said:

"Pardon me, but I have not yet experienced any thrill."

Afterward, in relating the incident, the lady said: "I had in my dress at the time a long skewer-pin, and I was awfully tempted to jab it into the cold creature's arm, to see if she could feel any 'thrill' at that."—Boston Journal.

"Yes," said the dealer in crockery-ware, "send one of our circulars to Mr. Jones. He is getting up a litter in the world, and has just hired a servant. We'll have his patronage immediately."

There is a narrow gauge railway in the oil country we crooked when a train is running at an average rate of speed the sun shines through the windows on both sides of the car at the same time.—Philadelphia Call. Yes, and the locomotive frequently runs over the top of the train, and, coming in contact with the tender, pushes itself up the grade.

W. H. Vanderbilt says he never picks up a newspaper that he doesn't see something disagreeable in it about himself. Lend us a half-dollar, old fellow. There's nothing disagreeable about that. We might have asked for a dollar and a half, but this paper is dissimilar, so to speak.

SAVINGS BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.

Deposits of TEN CENTS AND UPWARD received. Interest allowed, payable at the end of every six months. Interest bearing stamps and Postal Notes for sale. Stockholders are not personally liable for debts of the bank. Stockholders are not required to make any report to the State Auditor. Stockholders are liable for double the amount of their stock in addition to the amount invested. Security to depositors

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 10th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a return of honest and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of taxation, and a return of our institutions to their original purity, are cordially invited to participate by a delegate to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for five hundred votes cast for Governor at the general election held one for every fraction less than two hundred and fifty votes. Each organized county is entitled to a delegate, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNE, Chairman.

H. F. PENNINGTON, Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Democratic County Convention

A Democratic County Convention for the purpose of electing two delegates to the State convention, and to reorganize the County Committee, will be held at

BARTHOLOMEW'S OPERA HOUSE, CHARLEVOIX, ON THURSDAY, JUNE 12TH, 1884, at 2 o'clock p. m. A full attendance is desired.

J. MILO BATES, Chairman Democratic County Committee.

The following townships will be entitled to delegates and votes:

Bear Lake	1
Boyne Valley	1
Charlevoix	3
Chandler	1
Hayes	1
Hudson	1
Marion	1
Melrose	1
Norwood	1
Round Lake	1
South Arm	1
Springvale	1
Wilson	1

In this column will be a call for a democratic county convention for the purpose of electing delegates to the state convention. The representation of the various townships is based on the total vote for governor in 1882, and it is deserved that every township send a full delegation. Our working democrats. Matters of importance may come up for discussion, and it is hoped that democrats in every township will act in this matter and see that caucuses are called and delegates elected.

It is seldom that a public meeting is called when voting for the benefit of political friends, is outspoken enough to say why he does not. But Petoskey has a president who is proud of his official. On being told to let certain village printing go to the lowest bidder, the Democrat offered five dollars lower than the lowest bid, and ten dollars lower than the other, the vote was a tie, the latter being a tie politically. In casting vote, the president, as a citizen, voted against advertising Democrat, giving as a reason that he was a republican. The board of supervisors exhibited the same spirit last fall, when they refused to allow the Journal to bid on publishing their proceedings, and gave the Sentinel at $75, but not the frankness of the chairman to say they so voted because they were republicans. How do the taxpayers like this kind of work?

Michigan Census, 1884.

This census is to be taken the month of June. It is not a matter of choice of any inhabitant of this state whether he shall or shall not furnish the information required by the census law. By section 13 of the census law it is provided:

That each and every person more than eighteen years of age shall be an inhabitant of any township, ward, village or census district, and in case of the absence of the heads and other members of any such family, then any agent of such family shall be, and each of them hereby is required when thereto requested by the census enumerator, to render a true account, to the best of his or her knowledge, of every person belonging to such family, and whoever shall willfully fail or refuse shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall forfeit and pay a sum of fifty dollars, or be confined in the county jail not more than six months. And every owner, lessee, agent, or manager in charge of any establishment of productive industry, or farm, and every president, treasurer, secretary, general agent, or managing director of every corporation owning or operating any such establishment or farm who shall, when thereto requested by the census enumerator, willfully neglect or refuse to give true and complete answers to any inquiries authorized by this act, shall forfeit and pay a sum not less than five hundred, nor more than five thousand dollars, and in addition shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the county jail for a term not exceeding one year. And it shall be the duty of the census enumerator to promptly notify the prosecuting attorney of his county of any penalty incurred in his township or census district under the provisions

Giving Her "A Thrill."

An anecdote of the engagement of Henry Irving in this city, although late in coming to hand, is well worth telling. During the first performance of "Louis XI." a lady found herself seated next to a party of intensely typical Boston girls, who observed the development of the play with that reserved, serene and critical aspect for which their class is noted. The lady was more enthusiastic than they, and at various fine points which the actor made was not chary of applause. At last, when a particularly strong situation had been met and mastered, she exclaimed, sotto voce:

"Ah, he is, indeed, great!"

The three young women who sat beside her immediately put on their eye-

E. T. BROWN & CO.

Threshing Engines,

Portable and Stationary

Engines,

SAW MILLS, THRESHERS, MILL SUPPLIES.

WRITE FOR PRICES AND CATALOGUE

West Bridge Street,

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 22, 1884.

One-half a Million Dollars in Postage.

George Stinson & Co., the celebrated Art Publishers, Portland, Maine, undoubtedly pay more money for postage stamps than any other firm in the world; for the last five years their postage bill has averaged over two thousand dollars per week, making a grand aggregate of over five hundred and twenty thousand dollars; this is about the three-hundredth part of all the postage of every description collected by the United States government during that time, and in this connection it must be borne in mind that the country has over fifty million souls, and fifty thousand post offices. But the enormous sum paid for postage represents only the cost of sending the light packages, letters and circulars, for large, heavy packages are sent by express and freight. Messrs. Stinson & Co. publish every description of pictures of the better class, and their trade now extends over the entire world. As an illustration of the fact that their trade reaches to the furthermost parts of the earth the following may be interesting: A short time since an order for an assortment of over three thousand large and expensive pictures was received from Tasmania away down under the south pole. Not many years ago Tasmania was a penal colony of England, and its population was entirely of convicts and their keepers. Since the removal of the convicts, it has become a thrifty colony; this place is so remote, that three months are required for an answer to a letter. Tons of pictures are sent to South Africa by Messrs. Stinson & Co., and west Africa sends to Portland for works of art; they have trade in every quarter of the globe where civilization has gained a foothold. Commencing at the bottom, they have worked their way up to the top, step by step, and thereby, added to the greatest pain and enterprise, they have that solid, practical experience that is always necessary to the best results, in all things. They carry in stock millions of pictures, and are at a moments notice ready to fill a five cent order, or one for thousands of dollars; they employ some five hundred artists, clerks and workmen; their machinery and appointments are on a magnificent scale, and a trade of ten thousand dollars a day, on an average, is required to keep them moving in full blast. Their assortment of steel plates is especially fine, and ranks very high in artistic merit; many thousands of dollars are often spent on a single plate. They appreciate the value of printer's ink and know how to use it to the best advantage; therefore they advertise largely and liberally in the newspapers—newspaper advertising was an important factor in laying the sound foundations of their great success, and without it, they state that it would have been utterly impossible for them to have reached their present position.

Stinson & Co. are a striking illustration of what can be accomplished by energy, industry, and good judgment. There is "room at the top"—all honor to those who fight their way up. This firm believes in standard goods and low prices, and on that principle their business is conducted. American homes should be made beautiful by refined and meritorious works of art; no one has any excuse for not adding to their homes the charms of pictures, for fine works of high art are within the reach of all.

Hard Worked Soldiers.

Our little army, the greater part of which is always "in the field" in the vast west, is called upon, besides much marching and often hard fighting, to do much hard work or unusual labor, and also much mental service. These last two features destroy all soldierly feeling and esprit du corps, rendering the men sullen and discontented. Take the following as an example, habitually witnessed in the army. After a long day's march, with musket on his shoulder, forty rounds of ammunition in his cartridge box, and a day's rations of pork and hard tack in his haversack, the soldier reaches camp and longs to rest his weary limbs after unslinging with his mates, the little tents and bringing his share of wood for the camp fire. This is done cheerfully. But there is no rest for him. The sergeant calls for details of half a dozen men each to put up the tents for the officers, another detail to unload the officers' wagons and another to bring an ample supply of wood for each officer's tent fire, and also wood and water for the officers' cook. In the meantime the officer for whom the soldier performs those gratuitous services, and who bore no musket, ammunition or rations through the broiling sun, is materially reduced the fatigues of the march by alternately riding and walking and thereby remaining comparatively fresh, sits on his stool sipping his toddy in sight of the tired soldier. To refuse to perform these "menial" duties, the soldier would incur the risk of being tied to a wagon wheel, or to be bucked and gagged or, in the middle east, to get an extra guard and be subjected to all sorts of unpleasant treatment. Again, a soldier is called upon to do too much hard manual labor. He must be, or is made to be, also a carpenter, machinist, wagon-maker, mason, etc. Hundreds of so called "forts," consisting of officers' and soldiers' quarters, quartermaster and commissary storehouses, stables and guardhouses, have been built by soldiers, some of whom receive a few cents "extra pay" daily, while the majority are detailed as "fatigue parties," without more than their actual soldier pay. There have been built thousands of miles of roads through the wilderness, and bridges as well, by our pioneer soldiery, who are often sadly overtasked.

One of our best citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Crentry.

The Journal

Will be sent to any address during the Campaign for

10c a Month

CASH IN ADVANCE.

SUBSCRIBE NOW.

For You

NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.

THE ILLUSTRATED

BIOGRAPHICAL

1884. ANNUAL. 1884.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR.

It contains something for everybody. Its pages interest and instruct young and old. It is also serviceable to the Doctor, the Clergyman, the Lawyer, the Editor, the Statesman, the Business Politician, the Merchant, the Mechanic and to the School Boy who hopes to lay the foundation of an honest character and seeks for models to pattern after.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.

While its pages may be found nearly

200 PORTRAITS, MEN AND WOMEN who have excelled and are still exerting potent influences in various directions.

While pre-eminently an American publication, containing portraits of EMINENT AMERICANS, it also contains the portraits of some of the most PROMINENT EUROPEANS of the day.

Its pages familiarize the reader with the features and the lives of prominent crowned and coronetted heads, Statesmen, Warriors, Divines, Statesmen, Warriors, Senators, Congressmen, Governors, Ministers, Railroad Magnates, Artists, Editors, Philanthropists, Philosophers, Poets, Inventors, Advocates, Irish Agitators, Orators, Authors, Judges, Philanthropists, Organ Builders and others in all the various walks of life, INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES,

AMONG WHOM WE MAY MENTION BLAINE, ARTHUR, MCDONALD, BAYARD, MORRISON, FLOWER, EDMUNDS, LINCOLN, SHERMAN, BUTLER, BURNHAM, TILDEN, BENDRICKS, HOLMAN, LOGAN, PAYNE and HOADLEY.

EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.

Gentlemen, Professors, whether Statesmen, Preachers, Politicians, Organizations, Baptists or Methodists, will find among the numerous characters in THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL many familiar faces the names of which have become household words to thousands of their fellow men. This book is the PROMINENT WOMEN which occupy an important place in this universally interesting volume constitute an amazing and interesting reading, and will convince the reader that women has a noble mission and that she is well able to fulfill it.

If you would become acquainted with the forms and features of the men and women whose names have become household words, get a copy of THE

BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL

Sent postpaid on receipt of ONE DOLLAR. P. L. HOPKINS & CO., Publishers, 92 White Street, New York.

$1 A YEAR. $1 — ONE DOLLAR. — THE WEEKLY Detroit Free Press AND THE HOUSEHOLD ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. — Two Large Pages of Text and Reading Matter. The Greatest of Dollar Weeklies. Contains Stories, Sketches, Poetry, Miscellaneous Reading, Household Matters, Agricultural Matters, Market Reports, Correspondence from all Parts of the Country, Editorials on Current Topics, Home Matters, Etc., Etc. Specimen Copies Free. Address, Detroit Free Press, Detroit, Mich.

$1 A YEAR. $1 — ONE DOLLAR. — TWO PAPERS FOR THE PRICE OF ONE.

The JOURNAL and the FREE PRESS one year for Two Dollars Cash in Advance.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (free) the receipt for a simple VEGETABLE OIL that will remove TAN, PIMPLES, FRECKLES, and leave a clear, healthy, blooming complexion. I will also send free, a recipe for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing a 3c. stamp, BEN. VANDERCOOK, 77 Barclay St., N. Y.

Grand Rapids Democrat,

DAILY AND WEEKLY.

Office: 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

Daily Democrat—By mail, $8.00 per year in advance; postage paid.

Weekly Democrat—At one year, $1.00; for six months, 50 cents; for three months—invariably in advance.

Address,

THE DEMOCRAT,

Grand Rapids, Mich.

Opera Block

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES AT

McCabe's Livery Barn,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best ash timber, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE is hard and for sale. 4 43

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 22, 1884.

Provision Market.

Retail prices in consumers, as corrected every Wednesday evening by UPRIGHT, EMREY & CO., general dealers.

FLOUR, per bbl. $6.00, $7.00, and $8.00

GRAHAM, per bbl. $6.50.

CORN MEAL, per cwt. $1.50@1.60

FEED, per cwt. $1.50@1.60

APPLES, per bu. 75c.

POTATOES, per bu. 50c.

ONIONS, per bu. $1.00.

BUTTER, per lb. 25c.

EGGS, per doz. 16c.

LARD, per lb. 12@15c.

HAM, sm. Shoulders, 12@c.

SALT PORK, Dry Salt Side, 12. Beef, 5c.

SALT FISH, per lb. 10c.

KEROSENE OIL, 25c.

FARMERS' PRODUCE in good demand

Fresh Meats from the Market.

BEEF, fore quarter, 4@5c; hind quarter, 6@7c; roast, 10@12c; steak, 10@12c; sausage, 12c; tongue, 10c; pickled, 12c.

TALLOW, 6@7c.

Local News Brevities.

Hello!

Be now talk with Petoskey.

Ashland bound on 8th page.

A fine warm rain on Monday.

The Clara Belle has an immense freight business.

☞"Hustles! Hustles!! Hustles!!! At Upright, Emrey & Co.'s.

☞Garland Stoves are found only at L. D. Bartholomew's.

☞Shingles and lath for the million at Upright, Emrey & Co.'s.

S. M. Cornell, of Boyne, gave the Journal a call on Monday.

Geo. Miller has a large lot of new trunks, all sizes and prices.

Mr. I. M. Livingston, of Boyne, gave us a short call Tuesday.

The snow A. R. Upright returned with a cargo of brick last Saturday.

A. D. Comeskshank arrived home from Shiawassee county last Friday.

Wm. Ferguson has a fine display of Indian bead work in his show window.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Miller, of Traverse City, spent a portion of Monday and Tuesday in Charlevoix, with their son Geo. W. Miller.

☞"P. T. Barnum has the white elephant, and L. D. Bartholomew has the Chase & Taylor spring tooth drag AND THE BEST.

Fine driving by druymen is a nuisance, the way it is conducted here. But it will probably continue until someone gets hurt.

A warehouse has been built on the Chicago resort dock, for protecting baggage, etc., from storms while waiting for transfer.

A promising young man left Charlevoix last week for other fields of labor, leaving numerous creditors to mourn his departure.

A needed improvement,—the sidewalk at John Bell's store has been repaired, so that one can walk with comparative safety in a dark night.

The board of review will meet at the opera house on Monday, May 26 and each day thereafter as long as may be necessary, to complete the review.

W. F. Lance returned on Tuesday from his trip to Florida. He says that after all said Charlevoix is still ahead of Florida for health and pleasure.

Frank Durga, professional well-digger has a card fin our business directory this week. Mr. D. has done considerable work of his kind in this village.

Geo. A. Leonard went to Grand Rapids last Friday to look after and hurry up his brush-handle lathe, it having failed to arrive on the time agreed upon.

It is respected that a full attendance be had from the members of the Young Men's band, Friday evening at half past seven. By order of the president.

☞"Soldiers memorial at M. E. church next Sunday evening. Address by the pastor. The church will be draped with stars and stripes. All soldiers, with all others, are invited and will be welcomed.

Prof. M. L. Smith has organized a class in music at Eastport, and will visit that town once a week in the future. He will also give a musical entertainment there in the near future. This speaks well for his energy and ambition.

Members of the G. A. R. at Eastport have engaged dinner for 100 persons at the Bridge street house on the 30th, and stable room for teams at John Bell's. This means a big crowd from Eastport.

Mr. Jas. Palmiter, of East Jordan, was among the JOURNAL callers on Monday afternoon.

Charlie See, who has been quite sick for the past two weeks, is able to be around again.

Be now and turn out on decoration day, Charlevoix will have an excellent memorial service.

Miss Flora Nelson went on Monday to teach a two months term of school in Hayes township.

E. H. Green, inspector of posts of the G. A. R., will visit all posts in his district before the first of June.

J. H. Sihart, agent for the Peerless fire and waterproof slating, gave the JOURNAL a call Thursday afternoon.

The subject announced for the discourse at the opera house next Sunday evening is "the ascension."

The steam sand snow Commerce, on her way from Milwaukee to Toledo, stopped at Charlevoix a few hours.

The office of sheriff and judge of probate is now with prosecuting attorney Norton, in the Buttars block.

☞"L. D. Bartholomew sold 19 wagons, 16 horse rakes, and 30 Chase & Taylor spring tooth drags last season.

☞"L. D. Bartholomew has received 16 bales, boxes, and bundles of new goods since moving into his new room.

We understand that J. J. Ransdell, the would be suicide of East Jordan, has since been seen alive and well at Traverse City.

The tug Martin pulled the little schooner Fairplay off the beach last Saturday morning. She is uninjured except that some of her seams were opened a little.

☞"The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE is hard and for sale. 4 43

J. L. HURD & CO.

Offer a full and fresh line of

DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, &C.

At Very Low Prices.

Headquarters for

Groceries and Provisions.

Call for the Belding Flour.

Sole Agency for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

Arm to Charlevoix, if the people of Charlevoix are disposed to help us. But we shall make survey to East Jordan, and commence Monday. May 12, and if a satisfactory route can be obtained, there will be no question about the road being built at once." A committee has been formed at this place to solicit funds for defraying our share of the expense of said survey, and we hope to see our citizens take hold of the matter in good earnest. Now is the time to act.—Enterprise.

Memorial Day.

The following is the order of exercises of the memorial service to be held at Charlevoix, under the auspices of Hunter Post No. 119 G. A. R.

Procession will form at one o'clock p. m. sharp, on Bridge street under the direction of captain Harrison Berdan, marshal, and Dr. J. A. Carlstein, officer of the day, as follows:

First—Chariot decorated with flowers. Second—Charlevoix brass band. Third—Schools. Fourth—Good templars. Fifth—Walter Clifford Post G. A. R., of Boyne. Sixth—George Martin Post G. A. R., of Eastport. Seventh Baxter Post G. A. R., of Charlevoix. Eighth—Citizens.

ORDER OF MARCH.

Starting front of opera house marching down Bridge street to Antrim, up Antrim to State; out State to cemetery (where the usual ceremonies will be performed), then returning down State street to Main, down Main to Bridge into opera house, concluding with the following:

Music by the band, singing by the choral society, prayer by the Rev. C. P. Van Anden, Oration by the Rev. T. J. Hill, of Boyne City, music by the band, singing by the choral society, and benediction by the Rev. J. T. Iddings.

Baxter Post will assemble at opera house at ten a. m. sharp to meet Walter Clifford Post.

National Memorial Address.

At the M. E. Church next Sunday evening Rev. J. T. Iddings will speak upon the duties of the christian and the citizen, on the day all should observe in remembrance of the lives sacrificed in maintaining our union. The discourse will be national in its scope, and should be listened to by ex-soldiers and members of the grand army. The church will be decorated with stars and strips.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by UPRIGHT BROS., real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, where the consideration is $100 or over, for the week ending Tuesday evening, May 20, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

James Holben and wife to John R. Vanes, lot 2, 22 32 7, $2,000

Charles W. Freese and wife to Wm. J. Vots, lot 10, blk 5, South lake, $200.

William T. Addis and wife to Alverado Loise, lot 7, blk 3, Addis add. to Bay Spring, $100.

H. B. Chapman and wife to Louis N. Melosh, n e ¼ of s w ¼ 3 32 6, $221.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unsurpassed. Full pounds 25c cents. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co. 4 40

Worse than heathen are those parents who allow their children to suffer with worms when 25 cents will buy a box of Parmelee's Santonine Worm Candies which will immediately cure the child and remove the worms by dissolving them. Do you know the symptoms? Peevishness, sudden starting in sleep, bad breath, great desire for food day and night. Remove and leave nothing to regret. Price 25 cents per box. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co.

W. F. ORRELL,

HOUSE DECORATOR,

Charlevoix, Mich.

PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.

ARTISTIC PAPER-HANGING.

Finishing Hardwood a Specialty

AGENTS wanted for the lives of all Presidents, the Presidents of the United States, the biggest, handsomest, and best book ever sold for less than twice our price. The fastest selling book in America. Immense profits to agents. All intelligent people want it. Agents are delighted with it. Address, Portland Book Co., Portland, Maine. 4 37

O. W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER.

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. Any article of jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order.

A PRIZE. Send six cents for postage and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from the first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. Address at once, TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine. 4 37

HEADQUARTERS

FOR

Plows, Harrows,

Horse Rakes,

And everything in the Agricultural Implement line.

Examine and be Convinced:

The No. 10 Champion Plow, "Best in the World." The Gale Plow. The Oliver Chilled Plow. The Gale Horse Rake. The Albion Mfg. Co.'s New Horse Rake. The Osborne No. 7 Mower, light and strong. The Buchanan Wagon.

IN HARDWARE

We do not imitate; we lead. We positively guarantee our GOODS and PRICES. We ask kindly for our proportion of your patronage.

May 22, 1884. STOCKMAN & IDDINGS.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

REMENYI speaks "English as she is spoke." Recently at a social gathering in Washington, after rendering one piece on the programme, he is represented as saying to a lady who was congratulating him: "You bet I done got that piece played up like a brick, and don't you forget it."

IT really looks now as if the public were on the eve of thinking out what artistical butter is made of. A Congressional committee may fail in such a task; a chemical analysis may prove unsatisfactory and incomplete, for all these are susceptible to outside influences. But two butterine manufacturers have brought their grievances into court in New York, and it will be surprising if they do not give the business away before the quarrel is ended.

A WASHINGTON letter-writer thinks that the popularity of Mrs. McElroy, the President's sister, "comes not only from her natural tact and womanly graces, but from the fact that she has recognized and cultivated the wives and daughters of resident citizens more than the mistress of the White House has ever done." As the sister of the President, claiming no official rank, she has been free to come and go, to accept or decline social deference as she pleased, and she has disarmed professional critics by going everywhere she was invited, and managing to have a good time.

MR. GREER, conductor on the passenger train that collided with a freight near Cambridge, Ohio, last fall, says that in one of the coaches in which several persons were fatally injured, a cousin of his was found dead, evidently killed by fright, as there was not a scratch or bruise on him anywhere. His hair and chin whiskers were black, but when the body was discovered both hair and whiskers were thoroughly white. The body was put into a vault at Zanesville, and at the final interment in a month or two both hair and whiskers had changed back to their original black.

IN Trimble County, Kentucky, Mary Stephens supposed her husband was dead, he having left home many years ago, and she married again in July last. Stephens went to his wife's home recently, not intending to let himself be known. His wife immediately recognized him, and, throwing her arms about his neck and screaming "My long lost husband," kissed him. This aroused the jealousy of the new husband, who struck her across the neck with a drawing knife he had in his hand, severing the jugular vein. Stephens drew a revolver and shot the murderous man, who then gave Stephens a cut across the back of the neck with the drawing knife. Both men were fatally injured.

COL. HIGGINSON declares that it has always seemed to him creditable to the brains of children that they dislike what we call the study of history. "It is surely unfair to blame them," he says, "when they certainly like it quite as well as their parents. Their father brings home to the little son, from the public library, the first volume of 'Hildreth's United States,' and says to him, 'There, my son, is a book for you, and there are five more volumes just like it.' Then he goes back to his Sunday Herald, and his wife reverts to 'But Yet a Woman' or 'Mr. Isaacs,' both feeling that they have done their duty to the child's mind. Would they ever read through the six volumes of Hildreth consecutively themselves?"

A NEW steel is said to have been produced at Sheffield, England, which is expected to be of incalculable value to the manufacturing and railroad world. It is said to be made "by adding from 7 to 29 per cent. of the ordinary ferro-manganese of commerce to iron either wholly or to a good extent decarbonized and refined and treated by any of the ordinary processes, or to steel produced by such processes." It is stated that a small test bar, containing 12 per cent. of manganese, was bent double when cold, and was sufficiently hard to turn iron; that an x containing the same percentage, and which had never been hardened or tempered, cut in two a bar of iron half an inch square. A correspondent of the American Manufacturer, giving these facts, says that the steel is capable of being hammered or rolled the same as ordinary steel, and showed no magnetic qualities. If these accounts are in any measure correct, the discovery is likely to prove of great economic importance.

THE New York World tells a good story about Harry Hill, who, as everyone knows, keeps a place where pugilism, dog-fights, and other similar sports are popular. The other day Harry, who had recently sold a steamboat, presented a check for $22,000 at the counter of Drexel & Morgan's banking house. He was told that he must be identified. Turning toward the crowd of bank clerks and employes present, "Harry" exclaimed, "Is there any gentleman here who knows me?" A chorus responded, "Yes; you are Harry Hill." The World says: "If a prominent clergyman or lecturer had appealed to them for recognition how many would have been able to respond?" That seems to be a significant question.

THERE is reason to hope that Washington's body-servants and faithful nurses are all dead; but new and even long-lived horrors threaten to succeed these. Somebody in Pennsylvania knows and writes of a maple tree which has been tapped for ninety-four successive years, and the sugar made from which the first year was eaten by George Washington. Fortunately the cherry tree is dead, but there are undoubtedly other trees under which the Father of his Country reposed, or from which he plucked fruit, and if the individual history of these is to be given there is a cloud over the future. Trees are known to have lived a thousand years, and one associated in its youth with Washington will flourish twice that long if the longevity of the body-servant may be taken as an indication.

ABOUT a year ago Fannie Porter, daughter of the Postmaster at Russellville, Ky., noticed an old tramp walking lame from the opposite side of the street. At last he ventured to approach the window where she sat and spoke to her. She treated him pleasantly, although he was roughly dressed, and his request wrote her name on a slipped paper which he carefully placed in his pocket, promising that she should hear from him in a way that would gladden her heart. Lately she received a letter stating that a tramp had been found dead in the woods in Logan County, on whose person was found the slip containing her name and address, with directions to turn over all his papers and effects to her. She has received and declined an offer of $3,000 in cash for the contents of her claim to the estate.

MR. GLADSTONE is really to be pitied. Out of office he denounced what is known as the "Jingo" policy of the Tories, which was intent upon making England the great land pirate of nations. Lord Beaconsfield's policy was to keep up little wars in all parts of the earth to add to the territory of his country. He interfered with the Czar's Russian war, and secured the Suez Canal and the Island of Cyprus. The course of action Mr. Gladstone bitterly denounced as being wrong in itself, and putting Great Britain into a position which her military power could not sustain. In the election which ensued Mr. Gladstone's policy was indorsed by the English people, but Mr. Gladstone has been forced after all to become a "Jingo." He ordered the bombardment of Alexandria, one of the most unjustifiable acts ever committed by one nation upon another. He sent an army and spent a great deal of money to conquer Arabi Bey. He was forced to take possession of Lower Egypt, although it involved the maintenance of a large army, and excited the jealousy of France, Turkey, and Russia. Here Mr. Gladstone wished to stop, but the fates were against him. The defeat of two or three small armies of Egyptians officered by Englishmen excited John Bull's pugnacity, and the Liberal party forced its chief to send another army to fight the Soudan, and to build a railroad to Khartoum, which involves the occupation of the Soudan, with its millions of wandering Arabs. The foolish English people, instead of helping Mr. Gladstone to extend the franchise and effect the thousand-and-one reforms which are needed in the government of the empire, have had their brutal instincts called into play by the roar of battle, and are insisting upon the policy of the dead Beaconsfield rather than that of the living Christian statesman.

A BERNSTEIN containing as Edison, right foot, fed by a small waterworm, right battery, is sold for $6 at Nuenberg, Germany

Hogs and vegets are the sweetest licks of existence.

THE LITTLE FOLKS.

The Way It Struck Her.

A little recent orphan girl, who never had a home for kinsfolk or friends to call her, with wistful eyes and hidden head, was taken home to live. Nowadays such is sure to excite much comment. Wanderers from the city far away, Who come to dwell in our village to stay, Are always the cause of a little stir, Like the flight of a bird, or the whirr Of a cricket, that goes what time it pleases.

And some one said, "I wonder what can be the thought, pretty child, where the mother may be?" She heard the words, and quickly turned her face to the speaker.

And in her frame, "Dead!" she said, "she said, 'Gone!' I caught, I caught, because I never saw the word, exciting as it does, for me."—Harper's Young People.

A Locomotive Engine.

First let us look at the engine. It is a decidedly business-like appearance. Steam is up to full pressure, and is blowing off through the safety-valve with a fierce hissing sound. The engine is one of the most powerful that are made, and its fire-box is of immense proportions. It is with no idle purpose that the driver and stoker examine the bearings, and pour oil on all the joints of friction. There is the strength of a thousand horses embodied in this machine, and it is capable of two hundred tons at a speed of fifty miles an hour! Its energy is generated in the boiler, which occupies the cylindrical part from the hand to the screen which shelters its driver and stoker. The boiler virtually consists of a large tube having numerous smaller tubes traversing it from end to end. These are kept in place, and the water out through the ends of the boiler, and the use of the small tubes is to carry heated air and flame through the water which surrounds them, and thus cause it to boil and become expanded into steam. As the steam is generated it collects at a very high pressure in the large capsule dome that surrounds the boiler, and from that point it is conducted to the cylinders through pipes. The cylinders lie one on either side under the fore end of the boiler. When the steam is turned on it enters the cylinder and causes a piston to move to and fro. The piston has a stout rod of iron attached to it which is connected with a crank on the axle of the great driving-wheels. As the pistons move from end to end of the cylinders they exert pressure on the crank and cause the axle to revolve, and so the train is drawn forward.

Elizabeth Zane.

The records of a brave, heroic action—an action which sacrifices personal safety or selfish interest for the good of others, or for the furtherance of a high and noble purpose—always touch the human heart being a fruitful source of admiration, but it enkindles a kindred spirit, a desire to be equally brave and heroic.

The incident of which I would like to tell you occurred during the revolutionary war, but it was during the attack on a small party of Indians, who, having been driven from their homes by the whites, as we all know, sought ways and opportunities of retaliation and revenge.

On the first of September, 1782, John Zane, a celebrated character, discovered a band of Indians rapidly approaching a little fort in West Virginia, where Wheeling is now situated. The inhabitants were evidently on hostile thoughts intent. Zeph Indians in the fort, to apprise the whites of their danger, and to be ready to be properly engaged in preparations for defense.

The fort at that time was not thought to be in danger of an attack from the British, so the troops had been almost entirely withdrawn to the protection of other and more exposed posts. There were about twenty men, with a number of women, in the fort, which was in charge of Col. Silas Zane.

The leadership of Col. Ebenezer Zane stood about forty yards distant from the fort. In this dwelling there was a large supply of arms and ammunition. It being very desirable to preserve these, as the Indians were hoping to take favorable position to aid in the effort to repel the attack, it was decided to make their defense from both points.

In the dwelling there were only Zane, Andrew Scott, George Green, Mrs. Zane, Molly Scott, Mrs. McCullough, and a colored servant and his wife in the kitchen.

Three times the Indians advanced, and three times they were forced to retreat by the well-directed and combined fire from the house and fort. The men were able to keep up an almost constant firing, for the women molded the bullets and loaded the guns.

The contest was closed for the day by the coming of night, after the third repulse of the Indians; but when all seemed quiet, and the darkness, it was hoped, would prove a shield to serve against discovery, one of the savages was softly up to the kitchen with a lighted brand, hoping to be able to set it on fire, and thus consume the dwelling, and a large number of people, the negro, who fired at him with such effect that he fell, but not mortally wounded, was glad to escape with his life.

A man who was taking a boat-load of powder down from Fort Pitt to the troops at the Falls of the Ohio was seen and attacked by the Indians. The succeeded in landing and reaching the fort, but was, of course, obliged to abandon his boat, with its cargo. The Indians thought they had then the proper material to help them in destroying the fort. The white man's own ammunition used surely to the means of compelling their surrender.

They undertook to make a canoon from which to discharge the canoon balls they had secured. They found a log, with a cavity so nearly as possible the same size as the balls.

They took some chains from a sleigh near at hand; loaded the log heavily with the balls and a considerable amount of powder, and then bound it so closely as they could with the chains.

Imagine, if you can, their surprise and fury when, instead of discharging its load, as did the white man's cannon, it simply exploded when they touched it off, sending fragments of log and chains in every direction, wounding and killing many of their own number, instead of doing any damage to those they wished to destroy.

Their anger and disappointment added intensity to their assaults attack upon the besieged fort; but the deadly and constant fire from both points forced them again to retire.

The defenders in the fort thought they had carried thither sufficient ammunition; but, owing to the long continuance of the siege, they found their supply was nearly exhausted.

It was necessary, in this emergency, to endeavor to obtain more powder, and this question was asked, whether the fleetest of their number might not run the gauntlet and return with the keg of powder.

The project was a dangerous one, for the messenger, in crossing the intervening space, would be under the direct fire of the foe.

But the little handful of defenders were all brave, and were any of them asked to take the risk, in order to try to save the rest.

It was at this juncture that Elizabeth Zane—or Patty, as she was usually called—a young girl, just returned home from school in Philadelphia, insisted that she should be the one allowed to go.

Objections were made; but she set them all aside, and when told that a man could run more swiftly, she answered:

"And should he fall, his loss would be more severely felt. You have not one man to spare. A woman will not be missed in the defense of this fort."

She made her clothing as light as possible, so that it should not hinder her free movements. Then she hurried forth from the gates, and ran swiftly across the space between the house and the fort, reaching the former in safety. As a bullet-lock was fastened under her waist, the contents of a keg of powder poured into it, and she was ready for her return.

When she left the fort, the Indians thought it was only to be a short and good attention to her; but when they saw her returning, they thought there must have been some purpose in the movement, and they thought it necessary to try to stop her progress.

She passed safely through the deadly missiles falling about her, however, and succeeded in conveying the needed powder to the defenders of the fort.

With the renewed supply of ammunition, the besieged were able to resist their foes still another day and night, when the Indians, discouraged, withdrew.

The loss of the Indians was not known; but it could not have failed to be quite large, while of the brave little band defending themselves not one life was lost, and but two of them were wounded.—Golden Days.

Catching a Car.

Running to catch a train or a horse car is a universal habit with Americans. It is a practice that knows neither age, sex, nor condition, nor bodily strength. Another train may be due, a horse may wander from our door, but we know just as well and just as easily that one has gone, and that we must wait an hour, or half the chasm of the car that is moving off down the street or the train that is pulling out from the station. Also, if the man or woman, boy or girl who will not ask his life in his mouth for some absent twenty minutes is no true American.

But the sad case of Mr. F. A. Sawyer, the Tufts College student, who died in delirium from the effects of running to catch a train, is a commentary on the universal habit worth listening to. It is a peculiar case, and one that would not happen, perhaps, oftener than once in many million times. But it shows the danger which always overhangs such undue haste. Nor is that the only danger. Physicians—every one of whom will run just as hard and as often as any one else after a moving train—bear witness to the almost invariably bad effect from this violent exercise. They say that it is the principal cause of the increasing prevalence of heart disease, and leads also to many other maladies. Of course, everybody knows all these things, but everybody runs, just the same, with a perfect willingness to risk health and life for the sake of saving five or ten minutes.—Boston Globe.

Talmage's Texas Rival.

There is an old negro in Austin named Uncle Nace, who is a regular attendant at the church of the Rev. Mr. Rabbit, Baptist. Meeting his pastor the other day, the latter said:

"You seems to enjoy yer sermons mighty, Uncle Nace, considerin' you an so hard oh hearin," shouted the octogenarian.

Uncle Nace nodded understandingly, and then yer hearing is been I preaches? bellowed the colored preacher in Uncle Nace's ear.

The only man shook his head.

"Wiatfor, dee, does you come to the chu-ch?" true ed Baxter.

"Bekase hit 'musses me tey see you eat ny dem monkey shines, and saw de air wid yer arms."—Texas Siftings.

A PAPER describing an accident says: "Dr. Crawford was called, and under his prompt and skillful treatment the young man died."

We shall all be perfectly virtuous when there is no longer any flesh on our bones.—Marguerite de Valois.

"Smile Though He Smite Thee."

The Rev. Mr. Estwell was devoted to his family. He was a very devout man, and never allowed that seemingly inherent duty to neckties and washbands somber wastebasts to interfere with the lumbler calling of visiting the bed-side of poverty, or administering to the wants of a suffering wretch. Mr. Estwell almost worshiped his little boy, a bright, large child, with a gush of warm love and a pretty little habit of climbing on the yard fence and shaking his curls at people who passed along. One day the little fellow was stricken down with spinal disease. The father, who had so often told sorrowing mothers and fathers that God knew best, could not help but question the wisdom and especially the kindness of such a visitation. Only a few days before, when the little Johnson boy died, after great suffering, the minister had said to the heart-broken mother:

"Bear up under your affliction, for every smile of resignation is recorded in heaven with a golden pen. With one eye blinded by the dust of this earth, we cannot see why the dear little fellow should have suffered so, but the Lord, in His infinite wisdom, knows best."

But why did he want my child to die a thousand deaths?" mused the minister.

"You should not ask such a question. Your child is now an angel."

"But is he any more an angel for suffering so much, and dying such a terrible death?"

"Seek not to investigate the ways of the Lord. Smile though He smite thee."

As the minister sat beside the bedside of his only suffering child, he remembered this conversation. "Smile though He smite thee." There was no smile on his face. The golden pen above made him no shining record. He felt and the heart to look at the little sufferer, turn to the mother and say, "Smile though He smite thee."

The curls that had waved in the sunlight above the fence had lost their gloss of life, and damp they fell around a little face of deathly pallor. The mother leaned over, and tears fell on the limp hair.

"Pa."

"Yes, angel."

"When will I be well?"

"I don't know, darling."

"To-morrow?"

"I cannot say."

"Never?" he asked, with strange intelligence.

"I cannot tell him," said the father, looking into the swollen eyes of his wife. The mother could not. Her face sought the pillow, and then buried with the beautiful hair. The child was thinking of something else. "Oh, Jesus," he said—Jesus, to whom he had been taught to pray—"Oh, Jesus, have mercy on me."

"Smile Though He Smite Thee." The Rev. Mr. Estwell was devoted to his family. He was a very devout man, and never allowed that seemingly inherent duty to neckties and washbands somber wastebasts to interfere with the lumbler calling of visiting the bed-side of poverty, or administering to the wants of a suffering wretch. Mr. Estwell almost worshiped his little boy, a bright, large child, with a gush of warm love and a pretty little habit of climbing on the yard fence and shaking his curls at people who passed along. One day the little fellow was stricken down with spinal disease. The father, who had so often told sorrowing mothers and fathers that God knew best, could not help but question the wisdom and especially the kindness of such a visitation. Only a few days before, when the little Johnson boy died, after great suffering, the minister had said to the heart-broken mother:

"Bear up under your affliction, for every smile of resignation is recorded in heaven with a golden pen. With one eye blinded by the dust of this earth, we cannot see why the dear little fellow should have suffered so, but the Lord, in His infinite wisdom, knows best."

"But why did he want my child to die a thousand deaths?" mused the minister.

"You should not ask such a question. Your child is now an angel."

"But is he any more an angel for suffering so much, and dying such a terrible death?"

"Seek not to investigate the ways of the Lord. Smile though He smite thee."

As the minister sat beside the bedside of his only suffering child, he remembered this conversation. "Smile though He smite thee." There was no smile on his face. The golden pen above made him no shining record. He felt and the heart to look at the little sufferer, turn to the mother and say, "Smile though He smite thee."

The curls that had waved in the sunlight above the fence had lost their gloss of life, and damp they fell around a little face of deathly pallor. The mother leaned over, and tears fell on the limp hair.

"Pa."

"Yes, angel."

"When will I be well?"

"I don't know, darling."

"To-morrow?"

"I cannot say."

"Never?" he asked, with strange intelligence.

"I cannot tell him," said the father, looking into the swollen eyes of his wife. The mother could not. Her face sought the pillow, and then buried with the beautiful hair. The child was thinking of something else. "Oh, Jesus," he said—Jesus, to whom he had been taught to pray—"Oh, Jesus, have mercy on me."

THE WEAVER OF BRIGGS.

The streets of Briggs town
Were white with dust and summer rain,
When the year held slowly passed
Its drowsy time, ere day was done.

An aged weaver, at his loom
Sat in window beside his shuttle glided,
While from below the busy hands
And lovely hues were multiplied.

The aged man, through his open door,
Full in sight, the ordained warp and woof,
When with his foot pulls a little lever,
A needful shuttle, from off the roof,

Was wounded, flattered in and out
Until could see the designed band;
Her form, her posture, and her hands,
Her face, "the little friend?"

And to her loom by heart he passed
The little one, and vowed no harm
Should touch it there; so, day by day,
Crooned and muttered by his side.

The young stock grew apace, and from
Its tender blades hung dewy silvery
Of what have upon his ancient friend,
As too long time made wistfulness.

And ere the time was hastened—so men
Thought—the needful shuttle flew;
Another the weaver, filling sunlight fell
Where blundering either from grief

And through the streets of Briggs town
Up country roads carried for, to his feet
Sad, heavy, "death slackening skies,
The aged weaver slowly passed;

Days strange sights met the gaze of all;
A dove white colored, with one brown slow,
Sat on the shuttle behind his loom,
Which dangling head, the feathered

And on the footpaths feet and left
The new-made mound, drops slowly down,
And chewed the grass in the sun, and
Dripping blood on the earth so brown.

The tired hen sank down in the time
Sunrise or falling sunset, red,
Was little of a bird, and the dove
The great white stock—was dead.

Well, passed.

THE SHADOW RENT.

BY SARA E. BOSE.

IT was in the days of log cabins and mighty forests, of red men and of white, when the women spun and wove their own linens and flannels, when the block schoolhouses did duty for churches as well as schools; and when the paring bee and husking frolic were social events of the season, that Prudence Harrington sat around her cottage hearth, George, to inform the young people of Smoky Settlement that she was to leave a paring bee and Thursday evening.

The young fellow mounted a large workbench, which had been pressed for a sideboard, and took a large comb shell under his arm, which was an heirloom in the family, handed down from some ancestral ancestor, and departed, riding down the log cabin and then to another, and inviting all that were single, from 15 to 25 years of age; for in those days "treed-the-girls" and "old maids" and "bachies" were classes of people with but very few rights.

George's method of invitation was rather original, and consisted in bringing up on a large stump, some two or three rods from the door, and blowing a long blast on his trumpet, which brought the people, young and old, to the door, and then the invitation would be given, when the young courier slightly from his novel deed.

He passed Mercy Anderson were spinning, and upon her little fine shell, in the large living room of their father's cabin, when the sonorous sound of George's trumpet was heard, and Mercy paused quickly up, regardless of the mad into which her thread was being tangled, and ran quickly out of the door where George was waiting upon his patient ox. Hope followed more slowly, and Mr. Anderson also peered out of the open door.

"Prudence wants you to come to a paring bee at her home next Thursday evening."

"Oh, my!" exclaimed the light hearted Mercy, almost dancing a jig. "It's the first one this fall; of course we will come."

"Daughter, daughter," remonstrated old Deacon Anderson, smiling, "So we to be a gadfly."

"We will accept the invitation with pleasure, and Hope, in a more formal manner.

"Who is going to be there, George?" asked Mercy.

"All the young folks in the settlement," answered George.

"Then Mr. Devine is also invited?" said Mercy.

"Mercy!" exclaimed Hope, in a shocked voice, "how could you ask such a question?"

"Because I would not give a continental to go if there were not going to be some people there with some life in them."

"Simon Goodenough will be there undoubtedly," said her father, gravely.

"Oh, quite suggestive in his tones.

"Yes, every one of 'em is stiffed, Miss Mercy," said George, with a droll wink, quite suggestive in his tones.

"Mercy, said the elder sister, with a shake in her soft eyes, "I hope, if we go to Prudence's paring bee, that you will consult yourself in such a manner as to provoke no jealousies, least of all in the heart of Simon Goodenough."

"What is Simon Goodenough to me? All I ask of him is to let me entirely alone, then I could have some peace of my life."

"Simon Goodenough is a most exemplary young man, and a minister's son, and would be your husband, Mercy, if you would only be reasonable, while William Devine is a stranger, a great lover of gaudy dress, and has even been known to dance among those who care not for that which is pure and good," said Hope, flushing and her eyes kindling.

"Then why don't you take the pious Simon yourself? And what if Will Devine is a stranger? We were strangers when we came to Smoky Settlement. What if he does love gaudy clothes? So do I; and, oh! wouldn't I like to dance if I only could get a chance."

"Ah! my daughter," said the old man, sighing, "I fear you do not sufficiently reverence things that are truly religious."

"Father," said Mercy, playfully, "what if I should prove to you that in my liking for Will Devine I reverenced things more religious than I would if I adored Simon Goodenough."

"Ah, my daughter, I fear you could not succeed in that."

"But I can, father; for if I worshiped Mr. Devine, my worship would be the deadly and constant fire from both points forced them again to retire.

The defenders in the fort thought they had carried thither sufficient ammunition; but, owing to the long continuance of the siege, they found their supply was nearly exhausted.

It was necessary, in this emergency, to endeavor to obtain more powder, and this question was asked, whether the fleetest of their number might not run the gauntlet and return with the keg of powder.

The project was a dangerous one, for the messenger, in crossing the intervening space, would be under the direct fire of the foe.

But the little handful of defenders were all brave, and were any of them asked to take the risk, in order to try to save the rest.

It was at this juncture that Elizabeth Zane—or Patty, as she was usually called—a young girl, just returned home from school in Philadelphia, insisted that she should be the one allowed to go.

Objections were made; but she set them all aside, and when told that a man could run more swiftly, she answered:

"And should he fall, his loss would be more severely felt. You have not one man to spare. A woman will not be missed in the defense of this fort."

She made her clothing as light as possible, so that it should not hinder her free movements. Then she hurried forth from the gates, and ran swiftly across the space between the house and the fort, reaching the former in safety. As a bullet-lock was fastened under her waist, the contents of a keg of powder poured into it, and she was ready for her return.

When she left the fort, the Indians thought it was only to be a short and good attention to her; but when they saw her returning, they thought there must have been some purpose in the movement, and they thought it necessary to try to stop her progress.

She passed safely through the deadly missiles falling about her, however, and succeeded in conveying the needed powder to the defenders of the fort.

With the renewed supply of ammunition, the besieged were able to resist their foes still another day and night, when the Indians, discouraged, withdrew.

The loss of the Indians was not known; but it could not have failed to be quite large, while of the brave little band defending themselves not one life was lost, and but two of them were wounded.—Golden Days.

Catching a Car.

Running to catch a train or a horse car is a universal habit with Americans. It is a practice that knows neither age, sex, nor condition, nor bodily strength. Another train may be due, a horse may wander from our door, but we know just as well and just as easily that one has gone, and that we must wait an hour, or half the chasm of the car that is moving off down the street or the train that is pulling out from the station. Also, if the man or woman, boy or girl who will not ask his life in his mouth for some absent twenty minutes is no true American.

But the sad case of Mr. F. A. Sawyer, the Tufts College student, who died in delirium from the effects of running to catch a train, is a commentary on the universal habit worth listening to. It is a peculiar case, and one that would not happen, perhaps, oftener than once in many million times. But it shows the danger which always overhangs such undue haste. Nor is that the only danger. Physicians—every one of whom will run just as hard and as often as any one else after a moving train—bear witness to the almost invariably bad effect from this violent exercise. They say that it is the principal cause of the increasing prevalence of heart disease, and leads also to many other maladies. Of course, everybody knows all these things, but everybody runs, just the same, with a perfect willingness to risk health and life for the sake of saving five or ten minutes.—Boston Globe.

A Suitable Nickname.

"Isn't Collar Button' rather an odd name to give a baby?" asked a gentleman of a friend, who had just affirmed his son by that title.

"Well, I don't know," replied the father, laughingly. "It may sound a little curious, but it suits the boy first rate."

"Why do you think the nickname 'Co lar Button' suits the boy?"

"Because," was the reply, "when he slips out of an evening I am never able to find him."—Philadelphia Call.

Begin Aright.

A frowning face or unkind word may shroud a whole household in gloom the entire day, while cheery smiles, like brilliant sun rays, fill the atmosphere with glowing warmth and happiness. Let us cultivate the habit of good-humor and sunshine.

Dark clouds away and welcome day;
With night we banish sorrow;
Sweet sir, blow out! sweet lark, alofe,
To give my love good-morrow.

THE WEAVER OF BRIGGS.

The streets of Briggs town
Were white with dust and summer rain,
When the year held slowly passed
Its drowsy time, ere day was done.

An aged weaver, at his loom
Sat in window beside his shuttle glided,
While from below the busy hands
And lovely hues were multiplied.

The aged man, through his open door,
Full in sight, the ordained warp and woof,
When with his foot pulls a little lever,
A needful shuttle, from off the roof,

Was wounded, flattered in and out
Until could see the designed band;
Her form, her posture, and her hands,
Her face, "the little friend?"

And to her loom by heart he passed
The little one, and vowed no harm
Should touch it there; so, day by day,
Crooned and muttered by his side.

The young stock grew apace, and from
Its tender blades hung dewy silvery
Of what have upon his ancient friend,
As too long time made wistfulness.

And ere the time was hastened—so men
Thought—the needful shuttle flew;
Another the weaver, filling sunlight fell
Where blundering either from grief.

And through the streets of Briggs town
Up country roads carried for, to his feet
Sad, heavy, "death slackening skies,
The aged weaver slowly passed;

Days strange sights met the gaze of all;
A dove white colored, with one brown slow,
Sat on the shuttle behind his loom,
Which dangling head, the feathered

And on the footpaths feet and left
The new-made mound, drops slowly down,
And chewed the grass in the sun, and
Dripping blood on the earth so brown.

The tired hen sank down in the time
Sunrise or falling sunset, red,
Was little of a bird, and the dove
The great white stock—was dead.

Well, passed.

HUMOR.

THE tramp's favorite food—"boiled" turkey.

The true art of living is to live naturally.

ALWAYS behind time—the back of the clock.

CHEWING-GUM is made of rosin. When a girl gives her fellow a hunk of the stuff, she evidently intends to "rosin the beau."—Norman Independent.

"Do you not think I would make a very attractive angel?" said a dude with very large ears to a young lady. "Well, no," she replied, pointing to his immense ears, "I think your wings are a little too high up."—Civil Service's Weekly.

MAIN OF TEXAS OF LIFE.

Tell me if your clock is slow;
For I have a little inquiry
Concerning the time of the biz.
Can I start into the chase,
Tell me, as your timepiece tells?
Hasn't I hear the hall-dog's bark,
And the night is cold and dark,
Mad of taxes, loud of fee,
Yet, before I the field of battle
Shall I be sure of my time,
When pointer is your guide?—Texas Siftings.

AN exchange says: "There are six brothers in Carter County, Kentucky, who have never used intoxicating liquors, tobacco, or been guilty of profanity. The oldest is 41 years old and the youngest 22." Coming, as this item does from Kentucky, it is suspected that these brothers who never drank whisky, swore, or used tobacco must be without mouths or lately moved into the State.—Peck's Sun.

"CANADA is a great country," said a returned Forty-miner. "So I've my self heard," replied a home man. "Oh, yes, we raise the greatest trees, the greatest peaches, the greatest pears, the greatest wheat crops and the greatest lonesome kings in the world." "So I've noticed," "Yes, sir, California is a great State." "There's another greatest crop you raise too, ain't there?" "What that?" "Liars."—Merchant Traveler.

THERE is a man on the West Side who is very fond of boiled onions. The other day a new hired girl placed a dish of boiled onions on the dinner table, and after eating a couple, which seemed to have a peculiar and unmistakable factory taste, the old man began to kick, and it was found that the girl had broken a lot of lycanthrolic bulbs that the lady of the house had bought at a Turkish. Then the old lady took her turn kicking.—Peck's Sun.

As old man was fast going to his "sainty-knees palace of rest," said the minister, with a number of friends, stood by his bedside. "Do you know you are fast approaching the pearly gates?" asked the minister, gently. "Oh, yes, I know you all." "Do you feel that you are sinking?" "Yes, sir; I'm not long for life on this side of the river." "You realize, then, your situation?" "Perfectly, sir." "And are you afraid to die?" "Not a bit, sir." "You are a brave man." "I think I am, sir; I was married four times."—Merchant Traveler.

AN OLD BOOT ON A NEW LEG.

MISS SIMPER ATMANDOS SAYS:

This have said was a comedy half
Half, sad dealt the half jocular and bizarre,
A most differently time she had—
She did not know the half of it.
The old man looked his boots for
Which he had put on the night before,
And the girl's cheek turned many
And pinafore-like set in dismal gloom.
Lizette teach Miss Sarah Simpson,
The old man bought a pair of shoes,
When, for the gent or her, he were
He could for dread at purpose use
Under arm, behind door
The girl hung round the outside door.
But one one thing Miss Simpson crept
In the house, quiet, unthought,
Unknown to her father roughly slept,
Jammed her lover's shoes, pryed
And sang a dulcet serenade.
And as she warily crept and sang,
She had no thought of harm, I ween—
When, lo! from out the darkness sprang,
Upbraiding in the festive scene,
A raiding of frenzied mien
The shirt of that fearless brute
Shrieking, "Give back my shoes!—
Shriek, shriek, you! Begin a pollute—
The time—a less—a grand—a wail—
Of a man pulling pious tales!
Yet, to relieve you of suspense,
Well say, 'was sympathetic tears,
That though she mildly cleared the lance,
She soon Arminian Sears
Without a bustle now appears.
—Empire Pillar, Chicago Times.

How to Make Ball Trimming.

Balls, for finishing tidies, lambrequins, and many other pieces of fancy work are much prettier than tassels; yet are so hard to make, when wound through a ring of cardboard, that one is often tempted to substitute the latter. Very pretty balls can, however, be crocheted, and make a good substitute, especially if one lacks time or worsted. Begin with a ring of three stitches, and make a deep cup-shaped piece the size desired for the ball; then narrow by skipping stitches; and when nearly closed, fill with a little "wad" of cotton wool. To keep the ball from looking pointed, it is necessary to narrow more far on the widening on the other end. Do not try to crochet a little stem to the ball without breaking the thread, as it will give it a one-sided look. Break off the thread, fasten with a needle, and join on the stem in the same manner. In making balls by winding, pretty effects may be given by covering the ring first with one color and finishing with another, or making all of a solid color save a few threads at last. The first gives a ring around the ball, the other a dot on either end; this, with ease, can be imitated very nicely in crocheted balls.—Country Gentleman.

THE sinking mountain of Nalica, in Algiers, is one of the most extraordinary of the many disturbances on the earth's crust. During the last couple of years the mountain has been gradually sinking into the earth, a deep subsidence marking the place after settlement. This sinking is not attended by earthquakes, nor is it the result of a volcanic eruption.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 22, 1894.

Additional Local.

Ironton.

Preaching last Sunday at 3 o'clock, by Rev. C. P. Van Auken, of Charlevoix.

The father of Mr. Geo. Jones, from Virginia, who has been here visiting, returned home this week.

The pioneer lumbermen have a new hat bought expressly for him in Chicago at a great expense, by Geo. Miller the Charlevoix clothier.

The iron company made 52 tons of pig iron on Saturday.

The board of review meet this week Monday morning. A. Beers and Ava Smith are on the board.

Burgess.

A son of Mr. Orlesky's was badly injured one day last week by a bull. Had three ribs broken.

There was a road bee on quarter line road from Chauncy Howe's, Jr., to head of Susan lake last Friday, and we understand they were successful in opening it through.

Mrs. Atkinson is visiting friends up in Hayes, where her homestead is.

E. H. Burgess, supervisor, is around making assessment of the wealth of the town.

Elder Robinson preached at the Indian church last Sunday. He comes from Mt. Clemens once in three weeks to fill an appointment here.

South Arm.

We had a terrific gale here on Thursday last which was the hardest "blow" the oldest inhabitant ever experienced.

Mr. E. N. Clink can now be found dispensing goods to the numerous customers at S. G. Isaman's. Sol. has a new stock of clothing.

Phil. Lunway's new building now wears the aspect of a store. The front casings are painted a pale green.

The M. L. Higgie of Chicago is loading at J. C. Glenn's.

Elder Blake preached at the school house on Sunday last, and across the lake in the evening.

Mrs. Hugh Whiteford is quite ill.

D. C. Underwood, of Elmira, was here talking "railroad" on Friday last. He contemplates beginning the survey this week.

Miss Edith Cole is teaching at Hipp's and Miss Loveday at Nicley district.

I must beg the pardon of the Nellie Booth. Through ignorance she was missed in the count, in my last items.

Mr. A. Liskum, of Intermediate, has received his share of his father's property.

Nat Goodwin on Carbuncles.

The popular comedian was obliged to "lay off" for three nights in New York, on account of carbuncles. To a friend he discussed on the tender subject as follows: "A carbuncle is not a funny affair. But the dence of it is, everybody thinks it is. I tried to act with the informal thing and it made my squirm and comfort myself— Well, look here, you never had a nigger split half a cord of wood on the back of your neck, did you? No? of course not; and then you never had two other niggers make a bonfire of it on your shoulders; so you don't know the true inwardness of the carbuncle. Well, sir, imagine a man acting with six rat tail files shoved through his throat and all of 'em turning round. Don't understand that I objected to that. Oh, no! Was I objected to is that the newspapers mistook my agony for a new development of talent. That's what cut me up. I began to get analytic criticisms—hang me if I didn't, and you know I'm no sort of man to stand quietly by and have an analytical criticism. Why, one fellow who saw the tears forced into my eyes and bound me grit my teeth, said 'that I was developing a realistic grasp of the morbidly emotional that gave promise of making me in time the he-Clara Morris of high art.' Talk about carbuncles after that. Hang it, I was getting pushed into the position of a tragedian, and my wife, who read the notices, wept for joy. 'What's carbuncles,' says she, 'when you are on the road to fame?' You never had any vitriol thrown in your face—no, of course not—oh, well, if you had, you wouldn't purr, would you? Well, I had to, and the newspapers mistook my suffering for scholarship. It makes me sick. What'll they say when I get well? that's what I want to know. I don't want to be an Irving or a Clara Morris. I want to go home."

It is said that when the cyclone demolished the Baptist Church at Mount Carmel, S. C., the pulpit was left standing, the bible and hymn-book remaining undisturbed.

Corsets Laughed at in Japan.

In the country house of a ruined daimio, where we obtained lodging and entertainment, writes an English lady traveling in Japan, I was a cause of much amusement. A number of ladies were invited to meet me at afternoon tice (the name for dinner). They sat on their heels around the little table which I used as a chair. My feet were stretched out before me. The hostess with, as I took it, many apologies, began to inspect my boots. As her curiosity was keen, I drew them off. All the ladies pounced upon them, and some of them asked leave to fit them on.

Before doing this they caused bowls of hot water to be fetched, washed their feet carefully, and dried them by fanning them, which made the wet evaporate quickly. As they all had children's feet, my boots were awkwardly big and more ridiculous than I can say. The ladies next handled my skirt and corsage, and, to oblige them, I took them off. The petticoats had their turn, then my stockings, which they did not laugh at, after them my backlal elastic garters, and last my stays. Japanese politeness here broke down. Every one shook and cried with laughter in looking at the stays. One of the ladies had picked up some French at Osaka (a treaty port), and explained to me that the others wished to know whether the stays had been invented to serve as a cuirass to protect fair Europeans from rude men, or was it worn as a penitential garment to expiate sins? I said: "No, but to beautify the figure." This answer convulsed them. A stayed-up woman affected their impressionable and well-educated eyes as something monstrously ugly and absurd. Japanese dress is so beautiful and so easy. There was yet another question to be answered. There was, so far as I know, neither cows nor goats in Japan. Children are not, therefore, weaned until they are nearly big enough to go to school. I had noticed that poor little Miss Mite was an object of general commiseration. I did not know why. The reason came out when my stays were being examined. They were a barrier between the mother and the child, which was cut off by them from its lacteal rights. I told them that we delegated the nursing duties to poor women and cows. I am afraid I was imperfectly translated, for I saw that I for a moment an object of horror.

The late Judge Otis Phillips Lord, of Massachusetts, is said to have made but one direct mistake on a question of law while he was on the bench, and that was on a statute which had just been amended. On discovering his mistake, and that it was due to the action just taken by the legislature, he said: "Well, the good Lord only knows what the Massachusetts Legislature hasn't done in the last six months."—New York Tribune.

Clear and beautiful. After using Hamilton's Oriental Balm, the skin will have a fresh, clear and beautiful appearance. Entirely free from tan, freckles, and all blemishes. It is so perfectly harmless that it cannot fail to please the most fastidious. We recommend it to all the ladies. Price 50 cents per bottle. Sold by H. E. Wood & Co.

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mass.

Leave Charlevoix	6 30 a. m	2 00 p. m
Arrive East Jordan	8 30 a. m	4 00 p. m
Leave East Jordan	9 00 a. m	4 30 p. m
Arrive Charlevoix	11 00 a. m	6 30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Str. N. W. WRIGHT—Capt. A. J. Sweet.

Leave Charlevoix	6 30 a. m	2 00 p. m.
Arrive Boyne	9 30 a. m	5 00 p. m
Leave Boyne	7 30 a. m	4 30 p. m
Arrive Charlevoix	10 30 a. m	7 30 p. m

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. A. H. Bennett

East Jordan, lv. 7 00am	Harbor Springs 1 30pm
Charlevoix 8 00am	Petoskey 2 00pm
Petoskey 11 00am	Charlevoix 5 30pm
Harbor Springs 11 45am	East Jordan, ar. 6 30pm

Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. R. Thompson.

At Boyne 7 00am	At Charlevoix 9 00am
At Charlevoix 9 30am	At Boyne 4 30pm

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan and Charlevoix.

Steamer NELLIE BOOTH—Capt. Frank Cutler.

LEAVE A. M.	P. M.	ARRIVE A. M.	P. M.
East Jordan 6 30	1 00	Charlevoix 8 15	2 45
Charlevoix 9 30	4 00	East Jordan 11 05	6 00

Stopping at intermediate points.

HANNAH, LAY & COMPANY'S STEAMER LINE.

SEASON OF 1894.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,

CAPT. G. E. WILSON.

GOING NORTH.		GOING SOUTH.
Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.		Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.
Leave Grand Rapids	7:00am	Leave Mackinaw	10:00am
Traverse City	7:00am	St. Ignace	1:00pm
Charlevoix	2:00pm	Mackinaw (all)	2:00pm
Petoskey	2:00pm	Cross Village	10:00am
Harbor Springs	2:00pm	Harbor Springs	12:00pm
Cross Village	7:00pm	Petoskey	1:00pm
Mackinaw (all)	2:00pm	Charlevoix	5:00pm
Leave St. Ignace	5:00pm	Northport	6:00pm
Arriving at Mackinaw	6:00pm	Arriving at Traverse City	8:00pm

T. S. FAXTON,

CAPT. A. G. ALDRICH.

GOING NORTH.		GOING SOUTH.
Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.		Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.
Will Leave Charlevoix	7:00am	Will Leave Traverse City	7:00am
Old Mission	7:00am	Elk Rapids	8:00am
Elk Rapids	10:00am	Charlevoix	9:00am
Torch Lake	11:00am	East Jordan	10:00am
Northport	12:00pm	Bonaparte	10:00am
Charlevoix	2:00pm	Torch Lake	11:00am
East Jordan	3:00pm	Northport	1:00pm
Bonaparte	3:00pm	Old Mission	2:00pm
Arriving at Traverse City	5:00pm	Elk Rapids	3:00pm
Leave Traverse City	6:00pm	Arriving at Charlevoix	5:00pm

GOOD CONNECTIONS

Will be made at Traverse City with Petoskey with both day and night trains on the G. R. & I. R. R.; also on the Monday morning line between the Traverse from Chicago and the City of Grand Rapids; also with the Ann Arbor Railroad for Toledo; also for F. & P. Marine going south and for Cheboygan.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card to Affect January, 1894.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No 1	No 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv		7 35am	7 15pm
Richmond	2 37am	60 32	9 52
Indianapolis	4 40	10 25	12 00
Bologna	5 11	10 57	12 31
Fort Wayne, ar	6 45	12 25am	1 35am
Fort Wayne, lv		2 17	1 45	8 05am
Kendallville		3 05	2 52	9 17
Wolcott		3 11	2 58	9 23
Vicksburg		6 11	6 52	11 45
Battle Creek		7 15	8 00	12 49pm
Kalamazoo, lv		7 45	8 35	1 25
Otsego		9 02	9 52	2 37
Grand Rapids, ar			10 50	3 55
Grand Rapids, lv	7 15am		10 05	5 05
Ionia	7 56		10 55	5 55
Saginaw City	11 47		1 30pm	9 22
Alma	12 17		12 16pm	7 32
Mt. Pleasant	12 45		1 12	8 27
Cadillac, ar	11 25		4 25	12 05
Cadillac, lv			7 00	9 50
Traverse City, ar			8 05
Kalkaska, lv			1 17	12 00am
Petoskey			2 47	2 05
Boyne Falls			4 07	3 25
DeTonty, ar			4 34	3 54
Harbor Springs			4 15	3 05
Mackinaw City			8 00	6 00
St. Ignace			10 00	8 00
Marquette			7 00am	5 50pm
Negaunee, ar			9 12	7 06

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Negaunee, lv			6 45pm	7 20am
Marquette			9 00	8 30
St. Ignace			5 10am	6 15pm
Mackinaw City			7 00	8 00
Harbor Springs			2 00	4 20
DeTonty			1 40	3 40
Boyne Falls			1 15	3 15
Mineiblaha			9 19	2 14
Kalkaska			8 53	1 45
Traverse City, lv			10 15am
Cadillac, lv			7 35	5 20
Cadillac, ar		3 20pm	11 45	10 20
Reed City		4 30	1 15pm	7 10
Big Rapids		5 12	2 00	8 00
Howard City		6 08	2 55	8 47
Pierson		6 16	3 04	8 55
Greenville		7 20	4 05	10 02
Lake Odessa	6 32am		4 36	10 34
Kalamazoo, ar	7 35		5 32	11 34
Kalamazoo, lv	6.37		9 52	2 29
Vicksburg	8 05		10 22	3 00
Otsego	10 01		8 16	4 12
Allegan	10 41		8 54	4 51
Bloomingdale	10 57		9 10
Fort Wayne, lv	12 55pm		5 05am	12 00am
Kendallville	2 00		7 56	2 21
Wolcott	2 38		8 18	2 55
Richmond, ar	3 27		9 11	4 00
Cincinnati, ar	7 0 pm		12 50pm	7 30am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Agt. G. P. Ag't., Grand Rapids, Mich.

WHEREAS a majority of the resident owners of lots on the south side of Mason street, in the village of Charlevoix, Michigan, have petitioned the president and common council to order a sidewalk built on said south side of said street, between State street and Bridgeport street, and on the east side of said Bridgeport street, and also on the west side of the peninsula and recommended that the prayer of the petitioners be granted. Therefore, on motion of Trustee Crosier, it is ordered by the common council of the village of Charlevoix, that a sidewalk be built on the south side of said Mason street, between State street and Bridgeport street, and on the east side of said street, by the adjoining owners thereon, within twenty days from the date of the service of this order, said sidewalk to be six inches wide, and of two inch plank laid lengthwise, securely fastened with twenty-penny nails, space like four by four scantling, and resting on such scantling, and the same to be laid so that the marshal forms the same a copy of this order on each owner hereinbefore required to construct said sidewalk, and in case said adjoining owners, or any part thereof, shall neglect or refuse to build said sidewalk, then it is hereby ordered that the Marshal shall further file proceed to build such sidewalk and report the cost of the same, so provided in the sidewalk ordinance of said village of Charlevoix.

Passed at Charlevoix, May 16, 1894.

A true copy.

HIRAM F. S. HARSHA, Clerk.

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix, ss.—At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, on the twelfth day of May in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Bell, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of

BENJAMIN WALKER, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Ruth Walker praying that a certain instrument now on file in this court, purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, may be admitted to probate and that she be appointed for probating said will, and that administration of said estate be granted to Esther Willis or some other suitable person, it appears to the court that it is time for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs of the said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, on the twelfth day of June next, and show cause why said petition should not be granted. And it is ordered that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES A. BELL,

(A true copy.) Judge of Probate.

NOTICE OF ATTACHMENT.—The circuit court for the county of Charlevoix.—Frederick H. Jackson versus William H. Condon. Notice is hereby given that on the twenty-fourth day of March, A. D. 1894, a writ of attachment was duly issued out of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in the cause between the plaintiff and William H. Condon, the above named plaintiff, against the defendant, for the sum of two hundred and ninety dollars, ($290.00), which said sum was certain, due and owing, when said day of April, A. D. 1894.

Now, we, the undersigned, A. D. 1894.

HOWARD CLARK & GRIER,

Attorneys for Plaintiff.

Gold

Pens for 10 cents and 10 cents for postage, and we will pay you in the way of business more than a few days than you ever thought possible at any business you can engage in. Address, Box 1305, Portland, Maine.

You can work all the time or in spare time only. The work is universally adapted to both sexes, young and old. You can easily earn from 50 cents to $5 every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: To all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. All user address STINSON & CO., Portland, Maine. 494

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes,

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes,

LATEST STYLES.

Advance Lumber Company

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO. ADVANCE, MICH.

GILBERT & MOULTON,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting.

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

A FINE STOCK OF

New Boots & Shoes

JUST RECEIVED.

Prices Below all Competition.

L. B. Connor

Custom Work and Repairing to Order.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 46. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, MAY 29, 1894.—TEN PAGES. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday morning,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Subscription in advance.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

Business Directory.

ATTORNEYS.

C. H. ROBERTS, Attorney at Law, Block, Charlevoix, Mich. Office in Court House.

W. A. SHEPARD, Attorney at Law, Real Estate and Insurance Agent, Lake St., east of postoffice.

W. H. HAYWARD, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Charlevoix, Mich. Collections promptly attended to.

W. H. BARNUM, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Office on Bridge St., Boyne City, Mich.

J. A. BARNUM, Attorney at Law, and Notary Public, Office in Lewis Block, Bridge St. Petoskey, Mich.

A. J. SWEET, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. A. CAMPBELL, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. D. KIMBALL & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

FRAN E. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, Over S. Cheney's hardware store.

N. HARRIETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.—Capital $50,000. Loans on approved security only. Interest allowed on time deposits. Exchange bought and sold, and sold on all cities in Europe and United States. Steamship and railroad tickets sold to and from all parts of Europe. $100,000 to loan on long time and on approved mortgages. DEPOSITS & DRAFTS.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday service at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. in the opera house. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7 o. the school house. C. P. VANACKER, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7. J. T. HOBBS, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX ROUGH AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet every Saturday night, in the town hall. H. F. BISSEL, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

H. SEFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Humane Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

M. LANTHIER, Teacher of Instrumental Music, Harmony Class. Classes forming at his rooms, Depot st. Nemmer Block.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. REDDITION, Proprietor. Only Residence Hearse and Carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

J. A. CARRINGTON, M. D. Office and residence at the Ingleside.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, Office hours at Lewis Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

N. C. GRAVES, M. D. Office in Sec Block, Charlevoix.

W. R. TOMKINS, Physician and Surgeon. Diseases of the Eye a specialty. Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HIRAM F. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R. Encle Post No. 148, meets every Saturday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F. Charlevoix Lodge No. 307, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 216, meets every Wednesday evening, at Hardy Hall.

O. L.—True Blues No. 157, meet Saturday on or before full moon, at Odd Fellows' hall.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 321, meets Saturday on or before full moon. Hall over Postoffice.

VETERINARY SURGEON.

CHAS. RANBURY, V. S. Office at Bridge Tavern House, Charlevoix.

WELL DRILLING.

FRANK DURDA, Charlevoix, Mich., will attend promptly to all work in the line of well drilling, cistern building, pump repairing, well curbing, cistern building, and similar work.

A. TUTTAS, President. A. B. UTHOFF, Vice-President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money to loan on approved security. Interest allowed on deposits received. Collections given careful attention and remitted on day of payment.

C. L. DARLING, Cashier.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of the dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, and desiring to make the world know the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, free of charge; with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c. Parties wishing the prescription, will please address, Rev. W. A. Wilson, 194 Penn. St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

Extra copies of the JOURNAL for sale at Weeks' drug store.

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.

PURITY, POLITENESS.

We make it a point to sell only

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

Our Prices will always be as Low as

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

Can be Sold.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON, Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Eagle Hotel,

E. A. H. COLE, PROPRIETOR,

South Arm, Michigan.

A new house, situated west end of bridge. Stopping place for Gaylord, River, Hunters and boats for guests. Headquarters for intermediate lake and Jordan River tourists.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages.

HULBERT HOUSE,

P. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house is centrally located. Good sample rooms. Stopping place for hunters and tourists.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

WM. J. WEEKES, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house has been thoroughly renovated and put in first-class order. Good sample rooms for traveling public. Stopping place for hunters and tourists. Stopping place for all Jordan River tourists.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. Fine large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

UNITED STATES HOTEL,

GEO. W. CARLISS, Proprietor,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

HALL'S

Catarrh Cure

is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT CANNOT CURE.

Wonderfulness and skillful is a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will refund the money if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike all other catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood and mucous surfaces. Thousands testify to its wonderful efficacy. Be sure to accept no imitation or substitute. If the druggist has not it, send 74 cts. to us and we will forward immediately, prepaid, a package by mail.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

DR. CROUTER, Agt., Charlevoix. 41

A PRIZE. Send six cents for postage, and we will send you free a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from the first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address, TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine. 497

1872 1894

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.

PURITY, POLITENESS.

We make it a point to sell only

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

Our Prices will always be as Low as

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

Can be Sold.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

FOR SALE.

Eighty acres of land, with or without improvements. Also one seven-year old mare with colt, one good work horse, two Texas ponies four years old, twelve hives, land one five year old cow. The above stock is in good condition. Inquire of J. A. Bass, on north shore of Pine Lake.

J. A. BASS.

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 141 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, six miles from Boyne City, on the Boyne River road, two miles from Lake Bass. About 35 acres cleared, balance good beech and maple timber. About 950 fruit trees beginning to bear. One and one-half horse wheel and saw mill. Twenty three thousand seven hundred dollars, will not pay for the improvements, stock and tools. Inquire of the undersigned, or address

DAVID H. FRANCIS, Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGeagh's Mill

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

FOR SALE.

SECOND HAND

Stationary Engine and Boiler

Size of cylinder 10x30 in; Boiler 42 feet long, 42 in diameter, 48 flues. The engine has been in operation but a short time, and is nearly as good as new. Price and terms cheap. Engine is at Mr. Washburn & Ackert's, at the Meredith shop. SM.

FresH Oysters

Just Received

300 pounds Candy and Nuts.

Two Barrels Fresh Butter.

Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.

Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents.

AT L. L. CARR'S

Sewing Machines CHEAP.

A few fine sewing machines for sale at ten dollars each. Also some as low as $5.

EVERY MACHINE WARRANTED

D. S. WAY

HODGE & LITZAU,

Manufacturers and Dealers in

HARNESS, SADDLES

Fancy Goods, Brushes, Whips, Ladies, Lap Robes, Blankets, Etc. General attention given to repairing. Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Esther S. Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gives to most earnest attention to all who may favor her with a call.

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix, and is sole agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best time piece ever sold for the money. Watches warranted a year for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnisher Store.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

$66 week at home. $5.00 outfit free. Any absolutely sure. No risk. Capital not required. Reader, if you want business at which persons of either sex, young and old, can make great pay at home by the work, write Globe Mfg. Co., Portland, Maine. 497

FERDINAND WARD,

GENERAL GRANT'S UNPRINCIPLED PARTNER.

A few hours after the suspension of the great Marine Bank of New York, the firm of Grant & Ward, of No. 2 Wall street, closed its doors and suspended payment. National interest in the latter failure ran to a high pitch when it became known that General Grant and his entire family of three sons were hopelessly involved and all their possessions were swept away through the recklessness and empidity of the managing partner Ward. The first rumors stated that the liabilities of the firm would reach nearly a million dollars, and this was considered a heavy failure when the capital of the firm did not reach over $600,000. Consternation reigned supreme when a casual investigation revealed that the indebtedness of the concern approached the enormous sum of fifteen millions dollars. A panicky feeling broke out in Wall street, and the next five days financial crash upon crash reverberated its ruin among the stock gamblers of the metropolis.

Amid all the wrecks that of Grant & Ward stands preeminently notorious for its revolting dishonesty. The firm is composed of General Grant, James D. Fish, president of the suspended Marine Bank, U. S. Grant, Jr., and Ferdinand Ward. Ward was the executive and active partner, neither of the Grants taking any part in the conduct of its affairs, trusting the entire management to the man Ward, in whom they had confidence.

An extended article could be written of the astounding transactions of Ward. In brief, the manner in which he conducted the business of Grant & Ward was to represent to investors that, through the personal influence of General Grant, the firm controlled various government contracts whereby they could make and were making enormous profits. Heavy loans were then secured. For instance a speculator would loan the firm $100,000 for six months upon a contract with them that $10,000 was to be paid for the use of the principal, at the expiration of that time, and Ward would pay the interest promptly out of the principal and the speculator, believing he had discovered a safe bonanza in such cases would increase his loan to the firm upon the same terms, and thus the useful operation of pyramiding went the day of retribution dawned. Development will reveal what became of the millions that gullible speculators so confidently placed in the hands of a reckless operator. General Grant and son are mortified, not so much at the loss of their small fortunes as the connection of their names with the disreputable acts of the man in whom they placed so much confidence.

Ferdinand Ward is in appearance a man of about thirty-five years of age. He is the son of a Baptist minister and came from Geneseo, N. Y., about eight years ago, and for a time was assistant secretary of the New York produce exchange. By the aid of a brother, young Ward was established in the brokerage business and ostensibly made large sums of money, and was regarded in Wall street to be a sagacious operator. These reputed clairvoyant tries gained for him his partnership and the General Grant name upon the recommendation of Jas. D. Fish.

A Boston hackman the other evening charged a passenger a dollar more than the usual fare. The passenger paid it, quietly took note of the driver's number, and then said: "I would like to have you come to my office at noon tomorrow." "All right," said the hackman, "who are you, and where's your office?" "You will find me at the City Hall, I am Mayor Harris," replied the other, "good night" and he entered his house and shut the door. When his Honor reached the City Hall next morning—several hours before noon—he found the hackman waiting for him with anxiety in his face, an abject apology on his lips, and the extorted dollar in his hand.

STUDENT DUELS.

The Brutal Combats Carried On in the Universities of Germany.

In a letter to the Saturday Dr. W. Schlaun describes the student duels of Germany. There are, he writes, three kinds of duels known to German students. One is called the American duel, and one is an "exhibitionism," and the third is the ordinary account, in which as soon as possible after receipt of the letter a meeting is arranged, which are passed away in a small, flexible house. Two eyes are safe, neither from scratches and there is really almost no danger. In one kind, one must die. Lots are thrown and one must die for himself. In the second the danger is as away between the two opponents. There is the prime advantage on either side of the head. Are protected, likewise the eyes, but the cheek, arms, head and feet are left to the mercy of the heavy, villainous-looking sabre. One blow in a dangerous unprotected heart and a man's dreams of his world terminate. The German idea of dueling represents as many grades of insult. To call a fellow student an "ignoramus" is all that is required to demand the second kind. The first is largely reserved to attend a "caste measure," recently, in Berlin, as a guest of one of the corps. Taking an elevated road to the outskirts of the city, we found the clans assembled in a quiet "other house" on a great square. Representatives of all the student corps in the university were there—red caps, blue caps, green caps and black caps. Our arrival was none too early, for no sooner had our coats been laid aside than the assembled students and guests solemnly arose, took their beer mugs in their hands, and fled in stately procession past the bar and into the long adjacent room, called by courtesy "a hall," which is hired by the corps together for dueling purposes. It was particularly decorated with German flags on the walls, and pugilistically with sawdust on the floor, which had been cleared. At either end of the room was a stalwart young gladiator, with Teutonic features, preparing for the contest. On the chairs, close at hand, were lint, surgical instruments and sponges. Around were medical students, seconds, officials, sympathizers and lookers-on. Everybody was excited, and the garcon passed around the beer.

Presently the combatants were brought up facing each other, and their sword arms held aloft by attendants. The seconds took their places, and the blue cap from the head of the tall student, who looked mad, and the red cap from the pale student who looked calm. They were dressed only in shirts, trowsers and shoes, and stood in position with one hand held behind. The points of the duelists were discussed and the parcens passed around the beer.

Everything was ready. The sabres were crossed. The word was given and the seconds cried "loose." The blades flashed. There was a succession of causes and a vigorous whirling of sharp steel through the air. Suddenly a loud cry of "halt" is given. There is a pause and the student who looked mad has lost a piece of his skin and slit sleeve together. A surgeon stanches the flow of blood and the parcens pass round the beer.

With the same formalities the contest begins. The atmosphere is cut into many slices. The pale student puts the most science—his antagonist the most force—into his blows. The former is cool and clever—the blood of the latter is mounting. The fencing is done with increasing energy. Again a shout. They stop. The pale man has a scratch on the right cheek—the tall man is losing some of his angry blood from a deep cut in the left side of his face. Again more sponging—this time longer—and again more beer. This sort of thing must be kept up fifteen minutes, actual fighting time, or until one is killed or disabled. On the whole I had rather see an amateur my fight. Again they are at it, still more earnestly. Again the tall man gets a gash, and his shirt front is covered with blood.

This is not serious enough to stop the brutal nonsense, and the final bout is begun. The sabre of the pale student revolves with the speed and precision of a fly-wheel. They come so close that the hilts of the swords hit. The tall man is angry and is pain—the other steady and watchful. Suddenly there is a horrible moment when the sabres seize their counterpart, and swoop hissing through the air, and you expect to see a head decapitated. A step forward. A shout. The seconds knock the blades up. The head of the tall man drops upon his chest, and shows a ghastly gash through scalp and forehead, and the blood trickles down on the sawdust. Some one cries "final minutes," and the "exhibitionist" is at an end. You heave a sigh of relief and are thankful that no one was killed outright, and the garcon passes round the beer.

William B. Kirchner receives the medal for bravery in 1883 from the New York Fire Commissioners. His feat was to take a woman from a burning building over the roof of an adjoining house, and jump across an alley with her in his arms.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

THE funeral of Charles O'Conor took place from the Roman Catholic Cathedral at New York. Ex-Senator Conkling, William M. Evarts, Benjamin H. Bristow, Mgr. Capel, and the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix were among the hundreds of prominent men in attendance.

IN the New York Stock Exchange, on the 16th inst., values opened lower and unsettled, but before the first call a steadier feeling manifested itself, an advance of 1 to 2 per cent. being noted. Then the failure of H. C. Brady & Sons was announced, when values again sagged off, and the list dropped still further when it became known that the Newark Savings Institution had closed its doors. After this, confidence began to return, there being heavy purchases of stocks for foreign shipment. Before the close a dread of further failures resulted in a feverish feeling, which passed away rapidly when no disasters occurred, and the market closed in a "whirl of frequency" unknown for a long time. Call loans dropped from 1½ per cent. down to 5 to 6 per cent. per annum, and large amounts of money were received from the country. The feeling of confidence was enhanced by the Bank of New York loaning $2,000,000 on Government bonds, and by the issuance of $5,000,000 certificates by the Clearing House. Closing data indicated an advance of 2 to 8 points in active shares, and the feeling was that the crisis had been passed and that the market would soon return to its normal condition.

HOXEY DRAY and William Hendershot, two bad characters were fatally shot by Policeman McAleese, near Pittsburgh.

SHARE speculation in the New York Exchange opened with a marked improvement on the 19th inst. The sales for the day were unusually heavy, reaching 456,000 shares, a large number of which were taken for foreign account. Money, which at one time lost at 1 per cent. per diem, closed at 2 per cent. per annum. Government bonds were active at higher rates. The feeling in railroad bonds marked an improvement, but State securities were rather tame. United States called bonds to the amount of $323,950 were redeemed. For use in case of necessity, $8,000,000 in legal tenders was shipped from Washington to the Assistant Treasurer at New York. C. McCullough, Beecher & Co., New York merchants, have failed. Mr. Beecher is a nephew of Henry Ward Beecher.

ALEXANDER WHITE, who operated a creamery at Grand Rapids, Mich., having lost $125,000 in Wall street, killed himself at the house of his mother in Utica, N. Y.

For the year ended April 30 Boston's debt increased $2,000,000, and now amounts to $41,377,779.

A DIABOLICAL act was perpetrated near Mechanicsville, N. Y. While the engineer of a switch-locomotive was waiting in the switch-house some person at present unknown opened the switch, and the locomotive along the track for a quarter of a mile or thereabouts, then "reversed the engine" and allowed it to run back at the highest rate of speed possible. The villain jumped off just after the reversal. The engine soon after came into collision with a passenger train on a down slope. Both engines were totally wrecked. An aged expressman, Charles Tickner, was badly, perhaps fatally, injured. Those on the passenger cars were badly scared, but, strange to say, none were injured. The train-hands escaped on to a bridge.

THE Penn State Bank, of Pittsburgh, closed its doors last week, a steady "run" having been maintained since the death of President, Mr. Riddle, says the concern is able to pay dollar for dollar. The liabilities are said to be about $1,500,000, with assets greatly in excess of these figures.

A "crized" passenger and freight train on the Pan Handle route collided with a freight train at Wheeling Junction, five miles from Pittsburgh, Pa. D. Bartholomew, of Pest Tribune, Ill., was instantly killed. Five employes of the road were seriously injured.

The Pennsylvania iron manufacturers have deemed it inadvisable to force an issue in the matter of a 10 per cent. reduction in the wages of their employes. It is probable, then, that the mills will be run at the present rate of wages. Ferdinand Ward was arrested in New York on a suit by the City Chamberlain, bail being fixed at $200,000.

THE WEST.

THE temperance workers of Chicago met in Farwell Hall, on the 16th inst., the other day, to provide means for carrying on the crusade commenced by Frances Murphy. The announcement was made that over 2,000 persons had already signed the pledge. Most of these present favored the erection of a temporary tabernacle, to be removed from point to point in the city. The question of location was left to an executive committee.

Early vegetables in Southern Wisconsin were greatly damaged by a heavy frost last week.

REPORTS of the condition of the corn and grain crops from various sections of the Northwest, published in the Chicago Tribune, indicate that the corn area planted in both States is about 10 per cent. less than last year. The present conditions point to a large yield. The grain crops are in a healthy condition, and the farmers seem confident of a bountiful harvest. From the fruit-growing districts of both States satisfactory reports have been sent. Peaches are looking well, and the hay crop will be abundant.

A MOONLY tragedy was recently enacted at Smith's Landing, Monroe County, Ill. Monroe Gray, a well-known citizen of the little town of Columbia, killed his wife and her paramour, a man named Wm. Ditch, Gray, who is quite prominent in Illinois politics and well known throughout the State, has, it seems, for some time derived his wife's fidelity. His doubts were finally set at rest by witnessing with his own eyes what he had previously only suspected. He immediately brought his revolver into requisition, killing both his wife and the man. Ditch was wealthy, and owned the property where Gray resided. The two families have been intimate. Gray was arrested. He says he meant to kill Ditch, but not his wife; that he killed her accidentally while shooting at the man.

BOUNTON, of Milwaukee, who is digging for diamonds near Waukesha, Wis., is said to have found two in the gravel strata last week. Such crowds have been attracted to the spot that he has been compelled to build a high fence around the entire claim to keep them away.

THE will of the late Cyrus H. McCormick has been admitted to probate in Chicago, with Mrs. Nettie Fowler McCormick, the widow of the deceased, and Cyrus H. McCormick, his son, as executors. The value of the estate is estimated at $10,000,000. It is left to the widow of the deceased, his sons, Cyrus H., Harold F., and Stanley H., and to his daughters, Mary Ann and Anita E. The property bequeathed consists of real estate, improved and unimproved, in Illinois, Wisconsin, Virginia, Nebraska, Iowa, and Minnesota, and nearly three-quarters of the stock of the McCormick Harvesting-Machine Company.

IN the City Hospital at Kansas City Dennis Wenver, a manicure, after attacking two patients and Steward Worley with a knife and attempting to burn the structure, was shot dead by the steward. Henry Dillon, of Akron, Ohio, desirous to that his children, who were carried away by their mother, He has recently inherited a large fortune in California.

IRA H. WILLIAMS, of Chillicothe, Mo., having been warned by his dancers that he would be prosecuted for bigamy by a female claimant, took a poisonous himself in a field with a bottle of prussic acid. The suspension bridge across the Scioto River, at Portsmouth, Ohio, was crushed by a drove of cattle. Three children of the name of Vanweller were drowned. Lloyd L. Magers, one of the trio who murdered Archibald McIntyre and W. F. Brosnahan, in Santa Clara County, California, was executed.

THE SOUTH.

THE jury which acquitted Ike Wheeler of the murder of Preat Matthews at Hazlehurst, Miss., make a statement to the effect that neither politics nor public opinion affected their verdict, and that after prayer to the Almighty they reached the decision that Wheeler was innocent.

THREATS against the life of the Spanish Consul at Key West were made by drunken Cubans, and Commander Schadder, of the United States steamer Galena, has been instructed to use the naval forces to preserve peace and protect the Consul.

AUSTIN, Tex., dispatch: Passengers from Hempstead bring news this evening that the outbreak between the whites and negroes there has begun again. On Saturday evening a negro, who attempted to outrage a lady, was killed. Immediately afterward the officers and citizens went to a negro gambling house, where it was reported that a large lot of arms had been placed. The negroes in the gambling house were ordered to surrender. All but one obeyed. The one who refused to surrender drew a Winchester rifle, but was killed before he could use it. As the train from Austin arrived at Hempstead, some unknown party shot a negro in a Pullman sleeper, killing him immediately. No one seems to know why he was killed, but it was given out that he had been drinking and had been with the negro who began the unfortunate affair. Owing to a determined run on all financial institutions at Petersburg, Va., the Planters and Mechanics Bank closed its doors, with a promise to attempt payment in full. Dr. Pitts called Dr. Walker this morning into his office at Tangier Island, Va., and shot him dead.

WASHINGTON.

SPEAKER CARLISLE thinks that unless there shall be a deadlock between the House and Senate on the appropriation bills, Congress will be able to adjourn about July 1. He is of opinion that neither party is prepared to discuss platforms or political principles in Congress after both committees have made their nominations and remarked that prior to that time it would be of Congress is now anxious to leave Washington, and business will be facilitated if they may leave as soon as possible.

THERE seems to be no doubt now that Hewitt's tariff bill will be killed in committee, says a Washington dispatch. At the same time it is thought that a bill placing sugar and salt on the free list may be introduced and reported on favorably. The Southern members are urging the repeal of the tobacco and fruit-ripint taxes.

Mr. Randall thinks all the appropriation bills before Congress can be disposed of this month, and that an adjournment by June 22 would be practicable.

Some of the more Democratic Congressmen predict that Congress will adjourn about the middle of June. Nearly all are of opinion that it will adjourn before the meeting of the National Democratic Convention. Much will depend on the action of the Senate in connection with the appropriation bills.

THE House Committee on Agriculture has decided to report adversely a resolution appropriating $25,000 for the purchase of seeds for distribution among those suffering by the overflow of the Mississippi and its tributaries. Representative King was present, and read a telegram from his State to the effect that the people were in the point of starvation and would die unless seeds were immediately distributed. The members of the committee were of the opinion that if starvation was imminent the distribution of food, and not seeds, would be proper. A bill granting a pension of $50 per month to Mrs. DeLong, widow of the ill-fated Jeannette explorer, will be reported favorably to the House.

POLITICAL.

THE business men of New York gathered at Cooper Union in vast numbers to indorse the administration of President Arthur. The chief speakers were B. H. Bristow and Hon. Henry Ward Beecher. The Ohio Democratic State Convention will be held at Columbus June 24 and 25. The Republicans nominated Mrs. Benjamin S. Negley for Congress in the Twenty-second District of Pennsylvania, and T. M. Bayne in the Twenty-third District.

THE Iowa Greenback State Committee met at Des Moines, and selected four delegates to the national convention, who favor Ben Butler in case he accepts the Greenback nomination before the convention adjourns.

CONGRESSMAN C. C. MAYSON, of the Fifth Indiana District, was renominated by the Democrats. In returning thanks, he predicted that the forty-one Democratic Congressmen who voted against the Morrison bill would be read out of the party at the Chicago convention. The Republicans of the Fifth Kansas Congressional District unanimously nominated E. N. Morrill for re-election. The Republicans of the Fifth Kansas District renominated John A. Anderson for Congress.

The Democrats of New Hampshire held their State convention at Concord. Frank Jones, Henry O. Kent, Frank A. Hackett, and Alva Sullivan were chosen delegates-at-large to Chicago. The platform depicts a reduction of the war tariff, and insists that the Democratic majority in the House continue their efforts to establish the revenue system on an honest basis. Tilden and Hendricks received unanimous indorsement.

FIRE RECORD.

THE week's fire losses foot up as recorded below:

	Losses.
New Orleans, four stores	$ 40,000
Washington City, Willard's Hotel	15,000
Cincinnati, Ohio, cooperage works	12,000
Slater, Mo., flouring mill	40,000
Chicago, Ill., Lumber Exchange	50,000
Mount Vernon, Ind., woolen mill	10,000
Trenton, N. J., pork packing house	20,000
New York City warehouse	20,000
New Orleans, sugar house	10,000
Cleveland, Ohio, box factory	10,000
Petersburg, Ind., business block	60,000
Sycamore, Ill., Dr. Ward's residence	10,000
Spencer, Wis., school and village	15,000
Troy, N. Y., knitting mill	40,000
Grand Haven, Mich., lumber mill	12,000
Cincinnati, tool pipe works	60,000

GENERAL.

P. J. SHERIDAN, one of the reputed "No. 1's" of the Irish Invincibles, who has been living in America in some extent as an Irish dynamite orator, and Mr. Patrick Ford, editor of the dynamite organ in New York, have been "blowing" about the "funds" as a matter of course. Ford in a three-column article in his paper implies that the failure of the dynamite or "conspiracy" fund which he started some months ago is due to the contrivances and whispered insinuations of Sheridan. The latter retorts that he has been deceived by Ford, and insinuates that the fund he and Ford had used to meet Irish last expenses, and several years ago, was

ADDITIONAL NEWS.

A WELL of natural gas, of eight thousand horse power, was struck in Pittsburgh at a depth of 15,000 feet.

SUPERVISORS are boring a mineral from Coolpant to Cressona, Pa., to open up a large bituminous coal-field. Contracts have been made for the construction of a road of 320 miles, from Washington County, Arkansas, to the western State line.

A DETECTIVE of Kansas City states that A. H. Sheldon, formerly President of the Home Spring Milling Company, with $56,000 in his possession, disappeared from Detroit to avoid him and conduct him to a place where, assuming a conscious disguise, he left for New York and sailed for England. The story of his abduction at the instance of his partner is said to be false. ... William Marshall, an unknown man in the United States army, who enlisted in 1823, recently died at Fort Mackinac, after thirty-six years of continuous service at that post.

TWENTY Southern Congressmen have had a conference recently for the purpose of devising means to preserve the adoption of legislation this session reducing the internal-revenue taxation. It is thought that the plan agreed upon will be call up a bill already introduced remaining the tax on tobacco, and seek to amend it by inserting a provision removing the tax on tobacco. The Southern men do not hope for favorable action on the part of the Ways and Means Committee.

THE Penn Bank of Pittsburgh, after a suspension of twenty-four hours, reopened its doors with $620,000 cash on the counter.

DANVILLE (Va.) telegram: "The election passed off without disturbance. The Democratic ticket was carried by the usual majorities. Capt. W. F. Graves beats J. H. Johnston, the present incumbent, for Congress by 692 votes. Almost every congress voted the Democratic ticket. The majority will be 2,000. Graves came up in the morning and remained all day. He said, pleasantly, that he had received a carpet-bag full of letters about sending things, and had come to see for himself and was pleased with the quiet and order."

The Fourth Indiana District Democrats have nominated Hon. William S. Holman for Congress.

MR. GLADSTONE stated in the British Commons that England had no intention of consenting to a revival of the dual control of Egyptian finances or Egyptian affairs. Egyptian finances would form the basis of the forthcoming European conference.

Edward Hanlan beat Laycock half a length in the sculling match in Australia.

The Labor Bureau bill was defeated in the Senate May 23. It was supported by Senators Van Wyck and Blair, and opposed by Mr. Ingalls, of Kansas. The Senate went to the foot of the calendar and taken up a bill to prohibit the publication of lottery advertisements contained in newspapers. The bill was passed by a vote of 29 to 7. Senator Ingalls, of Kansas, moved to take up the bill to prohibit the publication of lottery advertisements in newspapers, but the motion was lost by a vote of 29 to 31. The Senate then took

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 18th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a return of honest and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES,
Chairman.

H. F. PENNINGTON,
Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Democratic County Convention.

A Democratic County Convention for the purpose of electing two delegates to the State Convention, and to reorganize the County Committee, will be held at

BATHOLOMEW'S OPERA HOUSE, CHARLEVOIX,
ON THURSDAY, JUNE 12TH, 1884,

at 2 o'clock p. m. A full attendance is desired.

J. MILO EATON,
Chairman Democratic County Committee.

The various townships are entitled to delegates as follows:

	Vote for Gov. 1882.	No. Delegates.
Bear Lake	26	2
Boyne Valley	55	3
Chandler	19	2
Charlevoix	125	3
Evangeline	131	3
Eveline	58	2
Hayes	28	2
Marion	24	2
Marion	40	2
Melhose	41	2
Norwood	36	2
Resort	29	2
South Arm	15	2
Springvale	14	2
Wilson	58	2

The democrats of Antrim county are in favor of union with the greenbackers to wipe out the common enemy, the republicans.

Ben. Butler announces himself unmistakably for a tariff for revenue only, in his recent letter to the Detroit Evening Journal, a radical protection organ.

A daily edition of the Marquette Mining Journal will be issued next Monday, June 2d. We shall expect a high standard of excellence from that quarter.

The Detroit Times takes the lead as a clean newspaper, editorially and typographically. It is not a political organ, and is in every sense a paper for the people.

The Detroit Evening Journal moved into its new office, 40 and 42 Congress street west, last week, and celebrated the event with a double number last Saturday. Outside of its radical protection features it is a good newspaper.

Young man, Michigan is one of the best states in the great and glorious Union, and if you are comfortably fixed here you will have to hunt a good while before finding a good excuse for pulling up stakes. Listen to your kind old uncle and be sensible. Stay right here in the old Wolverine state, marry a Michigan girl, invest your earnings in Michigan property, and if anybody tells you of a fairer claim than this, where wealth is gained by little or no labor, toss him a salute from the horn of your ear, play him a tune from your nose a la flute, and bid him begone before you pin him to a tree with a pitchfork. There, now, sonney, run down to the depot and meet the boys on their way back from Dakota.—Lowell Journal.

The other protectionists of the country are in as bad a fix with their theories as are the Muskegon lumber manufacturers already referred to. While the Morrison bill was pending they were howling themselves hoarse about the menace to business, though they knew the senate would not pass the bill if the house did. But even on their theory the menace was withdrawn when the bill was defeated. During the intervening time Wall street has been shaken from centre to circumference; the great Salem corn in Minnesota has failed and the business of the country has sustained the worst shock it has had for years. If the revenue reformers were willing to be as illogical as the protectionist they would have attributed these business disasters to the failure of the Morrison bill; just as the protectionists would have attributed them to its passage had such been the fortune of the bill. The revenue reformers, however, do not care to emulate the protectionists in making foolish statements to mislead the ignorant. They know that the failures referred to result indirectly from protection and from the reckless gambling to which protection gives rise. But they also know that the failures would have occurred if the Morrison bill had passed.—Free Press.

Tender Feeling for Butler.

Full 50 democrats gathered in front of Smith's hall, Springwells, last night. The advisability of Gen. Butler's nomination by the democrats was freely discussed. Justice Weber announced himself in favor of it "by a large majority." He said the old ticket was all good enough, but a better one was "Butler and victory." Leonard Sink said, "I second that motion." A loud hurrah was raised at this point, and showed that the rank and file had heard the war cry and were ready to fall in.—Detroit Times.

An Austin man, who has just got out a book of poems, met Uncle Joseph, and the following proceedings were had: "Did you read my new book?" "Oh, yes; I read it." "How did you like it?" "My dear sir, I assure you that I laid it aside with a great deal of pleasure.—Texas Siftings.

It is proposed to found a cancer hospital in New York, and $250,000 has been promised for the purpose provided an additional $100,000 can be obtained. There is at present no such an institution in the United States. The project is the result of the recommendation of the late Dr. Marion Sims.

One of our last citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr Cramer.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unequalled. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co. x-60

W. F. ORRELL,
HOUSE DECORATOR,
Charlevoix, Mich.
PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.
ARTISTIC PAPER-HANGING.
Finishing Hardwood a Specialty

AGENTS wanted for the lives of all the Presidents of the United States. The largest, handsomest, and best book ever sold for less than Dollar our price. The fastest selling book in America. Immense profits to agents. All intelligent people want it. Any one can become a successful agent. Terms free. HALLET BOOK CO., Portland, Maine. 4951

O. W. SMITH,
ELECTRO-PLATER,
Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.
Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. Any article of Jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order. 39

O. B. WEED & CO.
Are headquarters for
DRUGS
CHEMICALS,
Patent Medicines, all Kinds.
Imported and Domestic Perfumery.
Toilet Articles,
AND FANCY GOODS.
None but Pure Medicines
Kept in stock.
Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Bartholomew's new

Opera Block

Gold for the working class. Send 10 cents for postage, and we will mail you free, a royal, valuable box of sample goods that will put you in the way of making money faster in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. We will start you. You can work all the time or in spare time only. The work is universally adapted to both sexes, young and old. You can easily earn from 50 cents to $5 in an hour by devoting your evenings to the business. Many have made fortunes by the business. We make this unparalleled offer: to all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Fortunes will be made by those who give their whole time to the work. Great success attends every one. Best of all, the business is honorable. Address TRUE & CO., Portland, Maine. 1971

PIMPLES.
I will mail (free) the recipe for a simple vegetable remedy that will remove the PIMPLES, BLACKHEADS and BLOTCHES, leaving the skin smooth and clear, and will also send the address for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing a 3c. stamp, JES. TANNER & CO., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

SAVINGS BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.
Deposits of TEN CENTS AND UPWARD received. Interest allowed at the rate of Five per cent. Would respectfully inform the people of Charlevoix and vicinity that we are prepared to receive Deposits in this department.
REMEMBER! we do not propose to compete with State Savings Banks, or other Saw Mill Banks, offering 6 per cent. Our rule is to protect our depositors. All money loaned on Real Estate, and we are liable for deposits beyond amount of stock taken; and that is often fictitious. National banks do not speculate; holding just what our own money is is foolish, and with our system impossible.
REYNOLDS & STRONG.

McCABE'S
Livery and Hack Line
DRAYING TO ORDER.
Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.
BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES
AT
McCabe's Livery Barn,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 47

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.
Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.
SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.
☞ The CHIPMUNK MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 13

JOHN NICHOLLS,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and Dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

G. W. JEFFERIES,
Dealer in
Fresh and Cured Meat
Fresh and Salt Fish,
AND VEGETABLES.
Fat Stock and Farm Produce Wanted.
West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

NEW STORE,
M. V. DYER,
PROPRIETOR,
ADVANCE, MICH.
A FULL LINE OF
Groceries, Provisions,
And Fancy Dry Goods.
Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the
Lowest Cash Price,
For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and
Examine Our Prices.
We guarantee satisfaction.
J. P. DYER, Agent.

Grand Rapids Democrat,
DAILY AND WEEKLY.
Office: 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.
TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:
Daily Democrat—by mail, $6.00 per year in advance, postage paid.
Weekly Democrat—$1.50 per year; 75 cents for six months; 40 cents for three months—invariably in advance. Address,
THE DEMOCRAT,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.
Have just received a fine stock of
Ladies' French Kid Shoes,
Made in the Latest Styles.
Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,
A Large Stock always on hand.
Men's Fine Walking Shoes,
LATEST STYLES.

GILBERT & MOULTON,
EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.
House, Sign, and Fresco Painting,
GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,
Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm
S. G. ISAMAN,
South Arm, Mich.
GENERAL MERCHANDISE
A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.
Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,
AT LOW PRICES.
PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.
Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

EVERYTHING
IN THE LINE OF
Furniture and Undertakers' Goods
CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF
HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.
CHEAP FOR CASH.
Come and See Me Before Buying.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES
—OF—
All-Wool Goods,
Overcoats and Suitings,
Boots and Shoes.
I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at actual cost, as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant
First-Class,
And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. Remember, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are
Big Bargains.
E. M. Clark.
Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

THE JOURNAL.

Charlevoix, Mich., May 30, 1884.

Provision Market.

Retail prices to consumers, as corrected every Wednesday evening by UPRIGHT, EMREY & CO., general dealers:

FLOUR, per bbl, $6.00, $7.00, and $8.00.
CORN MEAL, per cwt, bolted $3.00; unbolted, $2.75.
HAY, per ton, $9@$.
OATS, per bu, 50c.
GREEN COFFEE, per cwt, $1.00@1.60.
APPLES, per bu, $1.40.
POTATOES, per bu, 50c.
ONIONS, per bu, $1.00.
BUTTER, per lb, 25c.
EGGS, per doz, 18c.
LARD, per lb, 10@15c.
HAMS, sac, 10@12c.
SALT PORK, 1 lb, 10c; Salt Side, 12; Beef, 5c.
BACON, per lb, 10c.
CHEESE, 10c.
WATER WHITE OIL, 25c.
FARMERS' PRODUCE in good demand

Fresh Meats from the Market.

BEEF, 5@8c; Veal, 12@15c; fresh pork, 12@15c; Sausage, 12@15c; Hams, 16c; shoulders, 12c; TALLOW, 6@7c.

Local News Brevities.

Marine is light this week.

Subscribe for the JOURNAL.

Decoration day, to morrow.

Commencement to morrow night.

Elk Rapids is to have a roller rink 20x100.

Bridge street has been raked clean this week.

☞ For bargains in fine boots go to F. M. Clark's.

☞ F. M. Clark sells a good suit of men's clothes for $5.00.

☞ Bustles! Bustles!! Bustles!!! At Upright, Emrey & Co.'s.

O. W. Smith's new lapidary shop approaches completion.

Mr. M. Hinchaugh has our thanks for a fine lot of pie plant.

F. M. Abraham, of Boyne, was one of our callers on Saturday.

☞ Shingles and lath for the million at Upright, Emrey & Co.'s.

☞ One hundred wool hats for 50 cents each at E. M. Clark's.

W. A. Stone, of East Jordan, gave the JOURNAL a call Tuesday.

John Fessenden, of Boyne, gave the JOURNAL a call last Friday.

The "shover" for the factory arrived on the Grand Rapids Tuesday.

☞ A fine line of gents' cashmere pants just received at E. M. Clark's.

Alfred Housley, supervisor of Chandler township was in town Tuesday.

Harrison Bedford went to Chicago on the Champlain last Friday night.

☞ One hundred pairs of all wool jersey pants for $1.00 at E. M. Clark's.

W. H. Kilborn, the Petoskey farm implement dealer, was in town Tuesday.

A. R. McBride, of Corunna, was in attendance at circuit court on Tuesday.

The Enterprise predicts that East Jordan will double its size within a year.

Mr. C. Peaslie has just completed a new residence for himself on Antrim street

Charlevoix was besieged with life insurance agents last Friday and Saturday.

Preaching at Black's school house next Sunday at 3 o'clock. You are invited.

☞ Prints, cottons, collars, skirting, dress goods, etc., at Upright, Emrey & Co.'s.

Frank Hines went to Chicago on the Champlain, to purchase his stock of drugs.

Geo. Miller has a large circular revolving rack for showing hats in his store.

The cable for continuing the telephone line across the channel arrived on Tuesday.

☞ If you want a good smoke, smoke the "Warren." Get them only at the barber shop.

Ground was broken this week for the new dining hall, 50x80 feet, at the Charlevoix resort.

Willis B. Perkins, of Hensby & Perkins, attorneys of Kalkaska, was in town Tuesday.

Prof. M. L. Smith's wife and child arrived on Friday from Tilsonburg, Ont. His mother is at Elk Rapids, but will visit Charlevoix in a few days.

J. D. Walker, advance agent of the "Continentals" gave the JOURNAL a call last Friday.

F. Shaubut spent two days at South Arm this week, opening a set of books for Meech's mill.

The fire department now meet every Saturday evening instead of twice a month as heretofore.

I. A. DeLamarter, of E. T. Brown & Co., Grand Rapids, called on the JOURNAL on Tuesday.

R. C. Dart and C. J. Pailthorp, of Petoskey, were in attendance at circuit court on Tuesday.

Mrs. Thurlow Weed and child, of Keystone, Dakota, are visiting friends in Charlevoix this week.

H. A. Jersey, of Boyne, and H. B. Chapman, of Bay Springs were among our callers on Wednesday.

Over twenty new residences have been commenced here since March 1st, and more are contemplated.

Rev. C. F. Van Auken had a full house Sunday evening, to listen to his discourse on "the ascension."

Rev. J. T. Addings gave an excellent memorial discourse at the M. E. church last Sunday evening.

W. E. Hampton, foreman of the Harbor Springs Independent, gave the JOURNAL a call on Tuesday.

R. G. Enos, agent of the Home life insurance company, of New York gave the JOURNAL a call this week.

The prop. Henry Howard brought 413 tons of coal from Cleveland for the Pine Lake Iron Co. last week.

According to our exchanges, the rink will be an excellent place for mass meetings in stormy weather.

F. S. Blanchard is making some handsome engravings of Charlevoix and vicinity.—Elk Rapids Progress.

A real, live, wild deer was seen feeding in the bushes on the bank of lake Michigan, near Dan Way's, on Monday.

The "Continentals" to-morrow night are under the auspices of the G. A. R. and should be well patronized.

Rev. J. J. Kanagy preached an excellent discourse to a large audience at the Ross school house last Sunday afternoon.

Geo. Miller is to have two awnings for the front of his store,—one for each side, instead of one over the whole front.

The subject for Rev. C. F. Van Auken's discourse at the opera house next Sunday morning will be "Elijah on Mt. Carmel."

Harrison Bordan is putting dark colors on his residence, which makes it conspicuous as well as handsome with its surroundings.

A new lapidary shop has been erected near the end of the new dock in Petoskey, in a very favorable position to catch the relic hunter.

Every indication points to the fact that before the year 1885 dawns upon this place, we will have a railroad.—East Jordan Enterprise.

The excursion from Harbor Springs to Boyne last Sunday was not well patronized. Those who did go had a fine day and pleasant ride.

The "Continentals" concert at the opera house to morrow night, is under the auspices of the G. A. R., and should be well patronized.

☞ Learned from experience, that the Eagle Rake with independent teeth, is the Rake for Charlevoix county. L. D. Bartholomew.

Stockman & Iddings evidently propose to run the nail business this summer. On Tuesday they received 200 kegs by the Grand Rapids.

W. A. Stone has sold his stock of general merchandise in East Jordan, to the Steepel Lumber Co., who took possession last Monday morning.

A. R. Upright is building an immense barn on the lot south of his residence. It will have as good a finish outside as many residences.

☞ Each gallon of Sherman and Williams's paints covers 275 square feet twice and the quality is better than other paints. L. D. Bartholomew.

Mr. George Mosher, the founder, and for several years editor of the Petoskey Record, will establish about the first of June, a newspaper in Mackinaw City, to be called the Straits Journal.

J. J. Kanagy & Son's fair promises to become a successful venture. Their card in another column announces a great variety of goods at very low prices.

L. S. Benham arrived at East Jordan on the Paxton last Tuesday afternoon with 56 colonies of bees, which he will place on his farm in Jordan township.

Rev. C. F. Van Auken baptised six persons at the close of the service at the Ross school house last Sunday afternoon, and received several into the church.

Charlevoix has a broom-handle factory,—not exactly within our limits, but near enough to contribute to our growth and business. W. J. McGough, proprietor.

The Clara Belle will give an excursion from East Jordan to Elk Rapids next Sunday, under the auspices of the East Jordan band. Will leave Charlevoix about 9 o'clock.

Lumber is on the ground for a new store, 24x60, two stories, to be erected by Amos Fox, on the lot north of J. L. Hurd & Co's to be occupied by L. Miller, with a stock of boots and shoes.

L. W. Skinner, of Charlevoix, was in town Tuesday. Wednesday he left for Tennessee and Alabama where he will get out wood for Dr. Power's chemical works.—Elk Rapids Progress.

Good templars are requested to meet in Odd Fellows hall at 12:30 to-morrow, to form order of march and join in the memorial service procession. All members of the order are expected.

H. B. Chapman's new $40,000 summer resort hotel at Bay Springs, on Pine lake, a few miles from Charlevoix, was opened to the public on the night of the 21st. It is a good one.—Evening News.

J. P. Hart, late of Ionia, is building a cottage for Dallas Rorebaum, of Kalamazoo, and has the contract for two more,—one for W. H. Holden, and one for G. E. Bardeen, of the Charlevoix resort.

Miss Abbie Bennett went to Chicago with her brother on the Champlain, to assist in purchasing goods for the store at Norwood, and furnishings for the new house here. Will return on the City of Traverse next week.

Quarterly meeting service, at the M. E. church next Sunday. Preaching in the morning, also at night, followed by the sacrament of the Lord's supper. Rev. W. R. Smallcombe, presiding elder. A cordial invitation is extended.

Torch Lake is a lovely place to build a town. When the railroad from Traverse City to Charlevoix is completed, which we hope is in the near future, Torch Lake will spring into prominence as a summer resort.—Elk Rapids Progress.

By the action of the northern district lodge of good templars, the lodges in Charlevoix and Addison counties were annexed to their jurisdiction. The next meeting of the district lodge will be held at Pierreport on the second Wednesday in August.

Bills are circulated announcing that Grummond's Mackinaw line passenger steamer Atlantic, will extend her trips to Charlevoix, during the excursion season this summer, leaving Detroit every Saturday evening at 9 o'clock. This will give us direct connection with the city of the straits.

R. H. Dougall, of Kalamazoo, manager of the Charlevoix rink, is here this week looking after the finishing and opening. The whole floor is 50x120, and when finished the floor for skating will be 40x100, leaving room for spectators along the sides, and for an ice cream restaurant on the east end, besides the necessary dressing rooms. The cost of the building, we are told, will be not far from $1,800.

The vessel captains claim that the business men around Pine lake and the Arm, who ship wood, bark, lumber, etc., should contribute a certain amount each month towards keeping the light on the south pier, at Charlevoix, in good order. Mr. Martin, who has kept it in order during the past two years, has received little or no pay for his services. It certainly is a great benefit to the vessel captains coming into these lakes and should be well attended.—Enterprise.

J. L. HURD & CO.
Offer a full and fresh line of
DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, &C.
At Very Low Prices.
Headquarters for
Groceries and Provisions.
Call for the Belding Flour.
Sole Agency for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

Numerous citizens have mentioned in terms of praise the discourse of Rev. C. F. Van Auken at the opera house last Sunday evening, the subject being "the ascension." Having been previously announced by the press, this house was well filled, and it is due the speaker to say that many pronounce it the best discourse he ever delivered in Charlevoix.

"The musical entertainment of the Continentals' was excellent. They are fine vocalists, and their rendition of 'Ship Ahoy' and the Bugle Call' drew out deserved praise. Mr. Houlson's violin performance was the finest we have heard since Ole Bull delighted the public years ago, and his imitation of the apple-paring dance was so ridiculous that it required his full vocal powers to be heard above the wild enthusiasm.—Alpena Reporter.

A practical limer writes to an exchange that he knows that cans made from leaded tin are being sold in great quantities, and he offers for publication the following warning: "When buying fruit cans see that they are not made of roofing tin, which is coated with lead and is a slow but sure poison. They should be made of bright tin, which is harmless, providing the fruit be emptied out of the cans as soon as opened. The difference will be easily told, as the lead-ed tin looks like burnished silver. One is poisonous and the other is harmless. This should be published in every paper."

Married.

HAMLIN—BAKER.—At the residence of the bride's parents, May 29th, by Rev. C. F. Van Auken, Mr. Leroy Hamlin and Miss Celestia Baker.

Electric Light
In the form of a FAIR, now located in Charlevoix. They have sawed down high prices on kitchen utensils, tinted ware, crockery, glassware, furniture, lookers, keyholes, hammocks, lawn mowers, fishing tackle, fishing poles, fishing lines, hand mirrors, fans, picture frames, hat racks, table cutlery, umbrellas, shawl straps, suspenders, hammers, and fresh confectionery.
A good Set Frock Tea, dust pan tin ware, bread tin, which brows the bread uniform in internal colour, or pie tin, 2 quart pail, 2 quart tinner dipper, 2 quart tin dipper, 2 quart tin tinner dipper, gents' fancy shirt bow, dark tea tin, and a multitude of household articles too numerous to mention, all of never before heard of prices at
THE FAIR,
J. J. Kanagy & Son,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.
36

WHEREAS, a majority of the resident owners of real estate on the south side of Newman street, in the village of Charlevoix, Michigan, have petitioned the president and common council in order a sidewalk built on said south side of said street, between the east and west boundaries of said village of Charlevoix, the committee on streets and sidewalks, having examined the premises and recommended that the prayer of the petitioners be granted. Therefore, on motion of Trustee Crooker, it is ordered by the Common Council of the village of Charlevoix that a sidewalk be laid in the south side of said street, between the east and west boundaries of said village of Charlevoix, and that the prayer of the petitioners be granted. Therefore, on said side of street, by the adjoining owners thereon, within twenty days from the date of the service of this notice, said sidewalk to be six (6) feet wide, and of two inch plank laid lengthwise, securely fastened to stringers, and the same to be kept in good repair by said property owners. And it is further ordered, that the marshal forthwith serve a copy of this order on each owner hereinbefore required to construct said sidewalk, and in case said adjoining owners, or any part thereof, shall neglect or refuse to construct said sidewalk within the time prescribed that the Marshal shall forthwith proceed to build such sidewalk and report the cost of the same, as is provided in the sidewalk ordinance of said village of Charlevoix.

Dated at Charlevoix, May 16, 1884.

A true copy. GEORGE S. HARSHA, Clerk.

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix, ss.—At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, on the twelfth day of May in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Kead, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of

BENJAMIN WALKER, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Maria Walker praying that a certain instrument now on file in this court, purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, may be admitted to probate, and that she may be appointed executrix thereof, and that administration of said estate be granted to Horace Wilcox or some other suitable person. Thereupon it is ordered that Wednesday, the eleventh day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix JOURNAL, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES A. KEAT,
Judge of Probate.

(A true copy.)

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix, ss.—At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, on the twelfth day of May in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Kead, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of CHARLOTTE DOWSON, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Mary Ann Dowson, praying that a certain instrument now on file in this court, purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, may be admitted to probate, and that she may be appointed executrix thereof, and that administration of said estate be granted to herself or some other suitable person. Thereupon it is ordered that Wednesday, the eleventh day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the several heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix JOURNAL, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES A. KEAT,
Judge of Probate.

(A true copy.)

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

HEADQUARTERS
FOR Plows, Harrows,
Horse Rakes,
And everything in the Agricultural Implement line.
Examine and be Convinced:
The No. 10 Champion Plow, "Best in the World." The Gale Plow. The Oliver Chilled Plow. The Gale Horse Rake. The Albion Mfg. Co.'s New Horse Rake. The Osborne No. 7 Mower, light and strong. The Buchanan Wagon.
IN HARDWARE
We do not imitate; we lead. We positively guarantee our GOODS and PRICES. We ask kindly for our proportion of your patronage.
May 22, 1884. STOCKMAN & IDDINGS.

THE DAISY.

BY J. W. RILEY.

O this is the way the baby comes:
Over the night or ever the dawn,
Out of the land the blossoms are,
The apple-bough that blooms the same
—In dim and enamored and glorious
With a grace and beauty none could name—
O this is the way the baby comes!

And this is the way the baby wakes:
And when in deepest drops of dew
The stone-and-shadows sink and sink,
The sweet eyes glimmered through and through,
And dimples and dimples broke
About the lips and no one knew
O, could divine the words they spoke—
And this is the way the baby wakes!

And this is the way the baby sleeps:
A nest of tresses backward thrown
Upon the pillow—where none keeps
Watch or watchings—where never known
The lips hands were already kept
Absent a fit yearly blessing—
And that are with her. And we wept—
And this is the way the baby slept!
—Indianapolis Journal.

LILITH.

BY LILY M. CURTY.

And round his heart one strangling golden hair!

The keen wind, rising over all the sea inlet and sweeping its breezy circuit around through the old town and up the sandy, level road, swept with it a merry party that August morning, up from the railroad station to the summer home of Harold Swain. The latter, a youngish man—a widower of six years' standing, long relapsed into the happy habits of bachelorhood—had come down from the city, bringing with him friends to remain one week, or two, or ten, as they should please. Not all were of old acquaintance; only his trusted Lester Chapples, who had introduced him to the others, all ladies, and specifically, as follows: Theodosa Wells, a vivacious brunette widow, with a tender recollection of "poor Jack," who would go shooting in a boat on Sunday, in spite of all the could say, and so had met his death; Miss Meigs, the elderly chaperon of the set, a little inclined to have mittens and dawdling; and Miss Meigs' niece, Lilith Francillon. Harold Swain had met Miss Francillon but twice before this, and as they walked up together from the station he said to himself she was the most beautiful woman he had ever seen. Nevertheless, had any one called him aside and asked him to describe her, he might have hesitated, uncertain of the line of those slanting eyes, the shifting glamas of sunlight in that red-brown hair, the flushes deepening or fading in that pure, sweet face. Glancing from time to time at the lovely profile and loosely twisted hair under her seaside bonnet, with its careless droop of sailor-blue feathers, its knot of velvet, he wondered how Lester could prefer the gay banter of a little widow and the prim wisdom of the elderly chaperon. But Lester, he admitted, was learned at times, in spite of his good looks, his fortune, and his excellent connections. The fact that Miss Francillon was an heiress should not detract from her loveliness. Was she not ever modest and deferent?

Harold had not kept silence while thinking these things. He had spoken of what they should do for amusement.

"Did you ever catch a bluefish, Miss Francillon? I mean a good-sized one. Because I've got the best little boat you ever saw. Captain George runs it for me. It is the 'Mary Jane' at present, but I would like to change the name if I thought a young lady wouldn't object to a boat for a name-sake."

Lilith swung her parasol lightly over her arm, and laughed her own musical music.

"I should think any young lady would be delighted with the compliment. Do you, Lester?"

"Would you?" he asked, seriously.

And now the others, who had lagged, came hurrying after, the lively widow entreating Lilith to go more slowly and to enjoy the morning.

"But I am enjoying it, Theo," Miss Francillon answered, earnestly, pausing as she spoke, and lifting her gaze to the leafy canopy of the old street.

Harold Swain remembered ever after how she looked, standing there, her red, sweet lips parted slightly, quick rose tints flushing into those fairest cheeks, and golden, varying lights in the wide eyes.

They went on presently, up into the cool width of the rambling old seaside house, where the cheerful housekeeper waited to welcome them.

"We are all here, Martha," said Harold, laughing pleasantly. "You might let the ladies choose their own rooms. They will want those looking seaward. Mr. Chapples will have the one you always give him; and, turning to his friend, "Come, Lester, we'll go right up."

He went into the room with Chapples and shut the door.

"You know the ways of the house, Lester," he said. "Do as you please; come and go as you like. I wish you'd assist my guests in the parlor with luggage. I don't want them running safay in twenty-four hours; and that's women all over, if they haven't all their trogger at hand."

"You're very good, Harold. I'll see my influence if I have any." Chapples was a little taller than Harold, handsome face into a level of rain water and mopping it, man fashion with a dainty bowel.

"How do you like them?"

"Very much. The little widow is extremely fascinating, as you, of course, acknowledge; the aunt is a virtue born of a necessity, and Miss Francillon is the most beautiful woman I ever ——" He stopped and went to the door where Martha was knocking to inquire about lunch.

Meanwhile, the ladies, having brought no luggage, could only wash away the suggestion of coal-smoke, indulge in a suspicion of fine powder, and descend to the parlor.

"Mr. Swain has a taste for art," said Miss Meigs. "Lilith, my dear, come and see these engravings."

"Yes, presently, aunt." Miss Francillon was surveying her sailor-blue costume in the narrow length of gilt framed pier-glass. Theodosa was interested in the life-size portrait of a blonde young lady over the piano.

"Lil, come and look at this picture. I suppose it is his wife. Dear me! I wonder if it makes him as sad as poor Jack's makes me!

"I don't care to look at dead people," Lilith answered, regardlessly.

"You shock me, dear. Let us go out on the piazza. Will you come, Miss Meigs?

"I think not, thank you. I'm tired enough to stay indoors." Miss Meigs was remarkably easy-going for her class.

"There was no need to bother these sensible girls two or three-and-twenty years. She made herself comfortable in a wooden rocker, while they slipped away through the long window and indulged in girlish, gossipy confidences.

"It's a lovely place, Lil. And he is very impressionable."

Lilith laughed. "You like him. What can I do to help you?"

"Help me?"—in surprise.

A bell began to ring loudly. And immediately Lester Chapples came out.

"Hungry, girls?" He was not a man of many words, but the pleasant accompanying smile sufficed. He offered an arm to the little widow, whose "Jack" had been her second-cousin; Lilith took the other, and they went in to lunch. Mr. Swain escorting Miss Meigs to the seat of honor.

In the afternoon they took their first sail, and, though no fish were caught, returned with excellent appetites for dinner. Afterward the lively Theo played waltz music in the parlor with contemplative eyes upon the portrait of the deceased Mr. Swain, Lilith danced a little with Chapples, and also with their host, just a swing or two around the room, while Miss Meigs dozed over the engravings, and consulted to retire. The young people now took to strolling in the veranda, which was built on all sides of the house. Miss Francillon walked with Chapples this time; the widow with Harold, who found her less flighty than he had imagined at first.

The couples were well apart when Chapples said, gently:

"Will you send for your trunk, Lilith? I think we could enjoy a fortnight here, and Swain is really anxious we should."

She looked up into his face as she answered coldly:

"If you wish to stay I shall be happy here."

"But I want to consult your wishes, my darling."

"Nothing, dear."

They turned back to the parlor, and found Theo singing softly a duet with Harold Swain, after which the little widow declared herself sleepy, and carried Lilith off to bed. Martha was closing the house, and the gentlemen went upstairs to smoke.

"Do you know that I have been decidedly impressed, Chapples?"

"With our little Theo?"

"No, no; not Mrs. Wells."

"Not Mrs. Wells?" Lester looked up approbatively.

"Mrs. Wells is a dear little thing, but when Miss Francillon is present other women look pale. I fancy I shall have very long I shall be offering myself. I'm more in love with her than I've been with any woman since my wife died."

Chapples had risen from his seat and spoke with vehement sarcasm.

"You really would do Miss Francillon that honor? I am sure she ought to be delighted to accept a place as second best." He grew still angrier. "Perhaps, Harold Swain, you fancy my woman is good enough for you, if she left you to lester. But Lilith Francillon deserves more than a second affection; a man's first, last, and eternal worship is little enough to offer her."

"Chapples," said his friend, recovering from the first surprise, "you are in love with her yourself. But how was I to know? You are indecomprehensive; you gave no sign. And does she love you?"

"She has promised to be my wife."

Harold put out his hand.

"I congratulate you. Forgive my offending; it was unintentional."

"It—it is all right, old fellow. I am apt to show temper when I shouldn't. Let's talk of something else."

"By all means. I've been blundering about all the evening, finding out odd things. There's the little widow says she knows another friend of mine quite intimately, Dick Livesay. You don't know him. Funny fellow, never stays long in one place. Went out West, then to Europe; came back in the fall. Capital company, one of the most fascinating fellows. Handsome features, olive complexion, lustrous eyes. I'm going to write him in the morning to come at once. I've told Mrs. Wells I should, and she seems pleased. You see, Chapples, I had a drudge fixed in my mind, but you were in love with little Theo."

Lester shrugged his shoulders.

"I want a woman's first affection, and she shall have mine."

"Then Miss Francillon has never loved but you?"

"Certainly not," said Chapples vexedly, and shortly; alter withdrew for the night. Harold shook his head over so slightly when the other had gone.

"Perhaps he is right," he said. "Yet she is very beautiful, and she is out of her teens, I think. Such girls are less self-conscious than the start."

In Theo's chamber, whose windows faced the starlit sea, Lilith sat, brushing out her glowing gold-brown hair and talking to her friend.

"I must tell you something," said Theo; "something which has been a secret until now."

Lilith's beautiful eyes turned questioningly upon her.

"What is it?" she asked.

"Oh, Lil, I wish you could see how pretty you look!"

"Never mind how I look, but tell your secrets."

"Well, when I was walking with Mr. Swain to-night, he spoke of a friend of his, whom I happen to know very well indeed. And she is to come to him to-morrow that I am here and he is to come."

"It is a lover of yours?"

"Well?"—defiantly.

"And you are in love with him?"

"Well?" stronger than before.

"You are engaged?" cried Lilith, shaking back her golden mane.

"Well?" decisively.

"Well, Theo, why don't you go on? Who is he?"

"He is very handsome and fascinating; he has money enough for us—with what Jack left me. I have him dearly, quite two second the room, while Miss Meigs dozed over the engravings, and consulted to retire. The young people now took to strolling in the veranda, which was built on all sides of the house. Miss Francillon walked with Chapples this time; the widow with Harold, who found her less flighty than he had imagined at first.

The couples were well apart when Chapples said, gently:

"Will you send for your trunk, Lilith? I think we could enjoy a fortnight here, and Swain is really anxious we should."

She looked up into his face as she answered coldly:

"If you wish to stay I shall be happy here."

"But I want to consult your wishes, my darling."

She felt his closer pressure of her arm.

"I would really like to stay, Lester. I will send to-morrow, and Theo will do the same."

"Dear," said Chapples in a tenderer voice, "don't you think it would be well to announce our engagement?"

"Perhaps," she answered, slowly. "To-morrow, if you wish. But is there need of haste?"

"No; only I feel as if I should like the world to know that you belong to me."

They had turned the corner of the house, and went out of the other's sight.

He leaned his face down to her own.

"Kiss me, Lilith; you love me, don't you, darling?"

"Better than any one else on earth," she cried, passionately.

"What made you sob, then, sweetheart?"

"Nothing, dear."

They trooped back to the parlor, and found Theo singing softly a duet with Harold Swain, after which the little widow declared herself sleepy, and carried Lilith off to bed. Martha was closing the house, and the gentlemen went upstairs to smoke.

"Do you know that I have been decidedly impressed, Chapples?"

"With our little Theo?"

"No, no; not Mrs. Wells."

"Not Mrs. Wells?" Lester looked up approbatively.

"Mrs. Wells is a dear little thing, but when Miss Francillon is present other women look pale. I fancy I shall have very long I shall be offering myself. I'm more in love with her than I've been with any woman since my wife died."

Chapples had risen from his seat and spoke with vehement sarcasm.

"You really would do Miss Francillon that honor? I am sure she ought to be delighted to accept a place as second best." He grew still angrier. "Perhaps, Harold Swain, you fancy my woman is good enough for you, if she left you to lester. But Lilith Francillon deserves more than a second affection; a man's first, last, and eternal worship is little enough to offer her."

"Chapples," said his friend, recovering from the first surprise, "you are in love with her yourself. But how was I to know? You are indecomprehensive; you gave no sign. And does she love you?"

"She has promised to be my wife."

Harold put out his hand.

"I congratulate you. Forgive my offending; it was unintentional."

"It—it is all right, old fellow. I am apt to show temper when I shouldn't. Let's talk of something else."

"By all means. I've been blundering about all the evening, finding out odd things. There's the little widow says she knows another friend of mine quite intimately, Dick Livesay. You don't know him. Funny fellow, never stays long in one place. Went out West, then to Europe; came back in the fall. Capital company, one of the most fascinating fellows. Handsome features, olive complexion, lustrous eyes. I'm going to write him in the morning to come at once. I've told Mrs. Wells I should, and she seems pleased. You see, Chapples, I had a drudge fixed in my mind, but you were in love with little Theo."

Lester shrugged his shoulders.

"I want a woman's first affection, and she shall have mine."

"Then Miss Francillon has never loved but you?"

"Certainly not," said Chapples vexedly, and shortly; alter withdrew for the night. Harold shook his head over so slightly when the other had gone.

"Perhaps he is right," he said. "Yet she is very beautiful, and she is out of her teens, I think. Such girls are less self-conscious than the start."

In Theo's chamber, whose windows faced the starlit sea, Lilith sat, brushing out her glowing gold-brown hair and talking to her friend.

"I must tell you something," said Theo; "something which has been a secret until now."

Lilith's beautiful eyes turned questioningly upon her.

"What is it?" she asked.

"Oh, Lil, I wish you could see how pretty you look!"

"Never mind how I look, but tell your secrets."

"Well, when I was walking with Mr. Swain to-night, he spoke of a friend of his, whom I happen to know very well indeed. And she is to come to him to-morrow that I am here and he is to come."

"It is a lover of yours?"

"Well?"—defiantly.

"And you are in love with him?"

"Well?" stronger than before.

"You are engaged?" cried Lilith, shaking back her golden mane.

"Well?" decisively.

"Well, Theo, why don't you go on? Who is he?"

"He is very handsome and fascinating; he has money enough for us—with what Jack left me. I love him dearly, quite two second the room, while Miss Meigs dozed over the engravings, and consulted to retire. The young people now took to strolling in the veranda, which was built on all sides of the house. Miss Francillon walked with Chapples this time; the widow with Harold, who found her less flighty than he had imagined at first.

The couples were well apart when Chapples said, gently:

"Will you send for your trunk, Lilith? I think we could enjoy a fortnight here, and Swain is really anxious we should."

She looked up into his face as she answered coldly:

"If you wish to stay I shall be happy here."

"But I want to consult your wishes, my darling."

She felt his closer pressure of her arm.

"I would really like to stay, Lester. I will send to-morrow, and Theo will do the same."

"Dear," said Chapples in a tenderer voice, "don't you think it would be well to announce our engagement?"

"Perhaps," she answered, slowly. "To-morrow, if you wish. But is there need of haste?"

"No; only I feel as if I should like the world to know that you belong to me."

They had turned the corner of the house, and went out of the other's sight.

He leaned his face down to her own.

"Kiss me, Lilith; you love me, don't you, darling?"

"Better than any one else on earth, she cried, passionately.

"What made you sob, then, sweetheart?"

"Nothing, dear."

They trooped back to the parlor, and found Theo singing softly a duet with Harold Swain, after which the little widow declared herself sleepy, and carried Lilith off to bed. Martha was closing the house, and the gentlemen went upstairs to smoke.

"Do you know that I have been decidedly impressed, Chapples?"

"With our little Theo?"

"No, no; not Mrs. Wells."

"Not Mrs. Wells?" Lester looked up approbatively.

"Mrs. Wells is a dear little thing, but when Miss Francillon is present other women look pale. I fancy I shall have very long I shall be offering myself. I'm more in love with her than I've been with any woman since my wife died."

Chapples had risen from his seat and spoke with vehement sarcasm.

"You really would do Miss Francillon that honor? I am sure she ought to be delighted to accept a place as second best." He grew still angrier. "Perhaps, Harold Swain, you fancy my woman is good enough for you, if she left you to lester. But Lilith Francillon deserves more than a second affection; a man's first, last, and eternal worship is little enough to offer her."

"Chapples," said his friend, recovering from the first surprise, "you are in love with her yourself. But how was I to know? You are indecomprehensive; you gave no sign. And does she love you?"

"She has promised to be my wife."

Harold put out his hand.

"I congratulate you. Forgive my offending; it was unintentional."

"It—it is all right, old fellow. I am apt to show temper when I shouldn't. Let's talk of something else."

"By all means. I've been blundering about all the evening, finding out odd things. There's the little widow says she knows another friend of mine quite intimately, Dick Livesay. You don't know him. Funny fellow, never

---

Flowers in the Tropics.

There can be no greater mistake than to assume that the flowers of the tropical forests are shady colorless, and that tropical birds have no song. It is only necessary to read Humboldt, Waterton, and other great travelers, to have this impression removed. If one live for months in those southern forests, as the writer has done, he will find that the air is overladen with the perfume of flowers, and frequently filled with the song of birds.

"A light breeze from the forest," writes one who has climbed to the Mexican table-land, "often conveys a perfect cloud of most delicious odors to the wanderer." Odors of orange, lime and citron, tuberoses, violets, and magnolias, permeate the air, especially in the gardens of the coast and the temperate regions.

Almost the first greeting extended to Cortez, when he entered the walled city of Campoalla, was accompanied with a present of flowers, and the Mexican nobles always carried bouquets in which they took great delight.

In the religious ceremonies of the Mexicans, even in the bloody rites of the Aztecs, flowers played an important part. Flowers were the chief articles of tribute, and the worship taught by the priests, were flowery.

The Spanish priests, in their anxiety to secure converts, in the surprise exciting ceremonies, allowed the Indians to retain many of their ancient forms of worship, least objectionable of which was the expression of their adorations through the medium of flowers.

It is related that long after the overthrow of the Aztec war god, the terrible Huitzilopochtli, the Indians would worship in stealth and decorate his prostrate form with garlands of flowers.

The Indians of Mexico are a feeble race, with fewer, they bloom here all the year round; from the high plains of Thesuin to the borders of the sea may be traced that blossoming of the beautiful that pervades all nature, whether the country be visited in January or in June, in August, or November. This love for flowers, this redeeming trait of the Aztec character, has survived oppression of three hundred years—three centuries of Spanish taskmasters have failed to efface it.

The Aztecs had fonds of flowers, as well as the aborigines of Europe and the East, and for every plant they had a name, to which its peculiar quality or the road he shines. The Mexican artists painted them so accurately that these pictures served the learned Humboldt in the formation of his great work on the flora of Mexico, a work the fruit of years of toil, and a monument to the present day.

No dreamer, very the Mexican rulers to possess all the rare and beautiful plants in their kingdom, that they might gladden their sovereign, and make long expeditions in search of them. A singular flower was the cause of war between Montezuma and Maliuatly, lord of the Matteca, in 1507, if we may credit the terrible writers.

Among the many flowers which enchanted the Aztecs and adorn the gardens of Mexico, there is one which was considered sacred by the Aztecs, and is looks over of the time, and was adopted in the world. It is called the Huitzilochitl, or "land flower." It is a little bird, or rather, it is an insect, and is, or was recently, still found in the botanic gardens of Mexico as a great curiosity.—Fred A. Ober, in Good Cheer.

Fishing with a Flock of Geese.

In Scotland they have a curious way of fishing that takes the breath of the easy and repose with which it is conducted. The fisherman will say is the pale. Selecting a big goose from his barnyard, or half a dozen geese, as he case may be, he ties a baited hook and line about five feet long to their feet, and, on the morning, drives them in. The birds of course swim out, and the fisherman lights his pipe and sits down. In a few minutes a fish sees the bait and seizes it, giving the goose a good pull. The bird starts for dear at full tilt, frightened half to death, dragging the fish upon the bank, when it is knocked. The line being released, the feathered fisherman is soon and out to try its luck. A flock of geese can make quite a haul in the course of a day, the human fisherman having only to take off the game and bad the hooks, the pulling is and look a large done by the birds. In Washington Territory, in the great salmon river, pigs have been seen to drive fish, driving for fish about water. Pigs are not naturally lively creatures, but they are said to pick upload salmon in ten feet of water by diving.—New York Sun.

A Lucky Kangaroo Hunter.

One of the most strong kangaroo hunters of Australia, and his family, were firmly terrorized by a wounded kangaroo on the road, between Sydney and Bathurst, Pennsylvania, N. S. W., and were only rescued by the use of a rifle, and Mr. Hay writes that it is the greatest pain we ever witnessed for man or beast.

The Tipheon Southerner says that a pneumo in that country, giving from it ordinary black ipu, covers over two hundred square feet of ground. One half the pans had been gathered, which yielded 5,700 and measured a little more than three pints. This gives an increase from a single pan, yielding the remaining portions of the vine were equally productive, of Swallowtown thousand fold. Whether the large yield was due to the peculiarity of the pan as a variety, or to the fertility of the soil is not stated, but it is demonstrated that we also id not be ruined, with the average yield in the face of such results.

A Common Act of Unity.

committed by persons whose strongest are discovered by the presence of bile, is to attempt to quiet retching, and hasten quick in a winter glassful or two of that wholesome medicine, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, will tranquillize the digestive organs, and the fitters' subsequent salutary effect upon the bowels will render the relief complete. Nausea, for upon the tongue, headache, yellowness of the skin, costiveness, and a feeling of the liver and through the right shoulder blade, are the well-known indicators of liver complaint, and they prove that, with this searching remedy before them, the sufferer is something worse. Constipation disorder of the stomach, indigestion, is also overcome by the Bitters, and it is a specific for fever and ague, and a tonic of the first rank. Nervousness, sleeplessness, and rheumatism are also subdued by the Bitters, and it is a specific for kidney complaint. Try it, and be well and strong.

Amelier Life Saved.

J. C. Gray, of Dadeville, Ala., writes us: "I have been using your Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and I can say of it that it is far superior to any other lung preparation in the world. My mother was confined to her bed four weeks with a cough and had every attention by a good physician, but he failed to effect a cure, and when I got one bottle of your Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs she began to mend right from the time she took it. I can say in the memory of man my wife has never been cured in the time Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam has cured, and my mother is better than she has been for twenty years."

If a cough disturbs your sleep, one dose of Piso's Cure will give you a night's rest.

ONE growing with Frazer Axle Grease will last two weeks, all others two to three days.

HEADACHE is immediately relieved by the use of Piso's Remedy for Catarrh.

"Rough on Rats" clears out Rats, Mice, Flies.

Mother Swan's Worm Syrup, tasteless. 25c.

"Rough on Coughs" Troches, 15c; Liquid, 50c.

WELLS' May-Apple (Liver) Pills, 25c. and 25c.

"Rough on Toothache," in sixty minutes relief. 15c.

"Parks-pulls," Great Kidney and Urinary Cure. $1.

"Rough on Corns," for Corns, Warts, Bunions. 15c.

WELLS' Health Renewer cures Dyspepsia, Impotence.

"Rough on Dandruff" Youth Powder, 15c.

The Most Popular Medicine Extant.

Allen's Lung Balsam,

A REMEDY THAT WILL CURE

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, CROUP,

All Diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Pulmonary Organs.

THE LUNG BALSAM
Has been the most wonderful remedies and physicians have failed to effect a cure.

THE LUNG BALSAM
Contains no Opium in any form.

THE LUNG BALSAM
Is specially safe and harmless to the most delicate patient.

THE LUNG BALSAM
Is recommended by Clergymen, Ministers and Missionaries.

THE LUNG BALSAM
For Croup is a safe and sure Remedy. Mothers, try it.

THE LUNG BALSAM
As an Expectorant has no equal.

CAUTION.—Do not be deceived. Call for ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM, and take no other. Of all Druggists, or address

J. N. HARRIS & CO. Limited, Cincinnati, O.

PROPRIETORS.

SOLD BY ALL MEDICINE DEALERS.

ASK FOR HOPS & MALT BITTERS

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER

THE GREAT LIFE AND Liver and Kidney Remedy,

Compounded from the well known Curatives Hops, Malt, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, Stillingia, Cascara Sagrada, etc., combined with an aromatic Aperient Wine.

THEY CURE DYSPEPSIA & INDIGESTION, and upon the Liver and Kidneys, REGULATE THE BOWELS.

As a Tonic they have no Equal. They are pleasant, refreshing, nourish, strengthen and quiet the Nervous System.

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS.

Hops and Malt Bitters Co. DETROIT, MICH.

TON 1c

ELECTRIC LIGHTER PRICE 25c. For Gas, Gasoline, Oil Stoves, Lanterns, etc. THE SYRACUSE NOVELTY COMPANY, 1 Mirror st., New York.

COUNTRY NEWSPAPERS

Regulated by Geo. P. Rowell & Co's American Newspaper Directory. Send 10 cents for pamphlet containing lists of newspapers and estimates showing the cost of advertising. 10 Spruce St., New York.

CATARRH ELY'S CREAM BALM Cleans the Nasal Passages, Allays Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Restores the Sense of Taste and Smell. HAY-FEVER. ELY'S CREAM BALM Cures Catarrh, Hay-Fever, Cold in Head. Not a Liquid nor Snuff. Apply with Finger. Give it a Trial. Price 50 cents. Send for circular. ELY BROTHERS, Druggists, Owego, N. Y.

U.S. STANDARD JONES OF BINGHAMTON 5 TON WAGON SCALES. Platform 4 feet by 7 feet. Capacity 5,000 lbs. Price $60 and upwards. Freight paid to any R.R. station in the United States. Circulars free. JONES OF BINGHAMTON, Binghamton, N.Y.

GOSSAMER GARMENTS FREE!

We will mail FREE (sealed in a plain envelope) to those who write for it, our new illustrated Pamphlet, containing full information as to how to procure Gossamer Garments Free. Address VICTOR RUBBER CO., Detroit, Mich.

BIG PAY in your spare time or all the time. Write Taylor Bros. & Co., Chicago.

HAIR Wholesale and retail. Send for price list. HAIR GOODS. H. BURKHARDT, 1 State street, Chicago.

A GENTS WANTED for the best and fastest selling Pictorial Books and Bibles. Prices reduced 33 per cent. NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, Ill.

PATENTS! Thomas P. Simpson, Washington, D. C. No pay asked for patent until obtained. Write for Inventors' Guide.

LEARN TELEGRAPHY and R. R. Accounting. Situations secured. Address VALENTINE BROS., Janesville, Wis.

St. Jacobs Oil

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY FOR PAIN.

Relieves and cures RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, Sciatica, Lumbago, BACKACHE, HEADACHE, TOOTHACHE, SORE THROAT, SWELLINGS, SPRAINS, BRUISES, BURNS, SCALDS, and all other bodily aches and pains.

FIFTY CENTS A BOTTLE.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO. (Successors to A. Vogeler & Co.) Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

A Lady's Testimony.

"Gentlemen: I am happy to inform you that I have used Dr. Sanford's Liver Invigorator with the best results. I have used many other preparations, but none have given me such relief as your valuable medicine. I am now recommending it to my friends."

Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

A VALUABLE NERVE TONIC.

Dr. C. C. Olmstead, Milwaukee, Wis., says: "I have used it in my practice ten years, and consider it a valuable nerve tonic."

THE Iron copyrighter—the proof-reader.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Dyspepsia.

If compound Oxygen were promptly used in the attack of Acute Dyspepsia there would be few deaths from this disease. In action in allaying bronchial and pulmonary irritation, in relieving congestion, and restoring healthy secretions, it possesses unmistakable and direct remarkable. Wm. Ford, Jr., Ashley & Dyer, Tonawanda, N. Y., says, "I have found it to be a remarkable remedy."

"Put up" at the Gault House.

The business men or tourists will find first-class accommodations at the low price of $2 and $2.50 per day at the Gault House, Chicago, corner Clinton and Madison streets. This far-famed hotel is located in the center of the city, only one block from the Union Depot. Excellent all appointments. Elegant.

H. W. HOYT, Proprietor.

THE COLLINS OIL CANS are the cheapest flows on the sea above, by CASWELL, HAZARD & CO., New York. Ask your grocer for sale.

Tons of Silver.

Five thousand tons is a good deal of silver for the Government to keep in its vaults, especially as when every ounce shall be coined it will be invested in Carboline pro bono publico.

CASWELL DRUGS, Paris, Tennessee, and Compound, Sold by druggists. Prepaid, $1. THE SYSTEM COMPANY, 1 Mirror st., New York.

THEY WERE RIGHT

When the Doctors Called it Gravel, and Mr. Washington Monroe, of Catskill, Green Co., N. Y., was Unable to Using Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, which Entirely Removed the Disease—The Wisdom of Following a Wife's Advice.

"For many years I had suffered from a complaint which the physicians called Gravel. I had employed some of the most noted doctors without obtaining any permanent relief, and for a long time my case was regarded as hopeless. All who knew the circumstances said I must die. Finally, my wife induced me to try a bottle of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, which she had somewhere heard of some advertised. Without the slightest faith in it, but solely to gratify her, I bought a bottle of a druggist in our village. I said that said two or three bottles more, and—to make a long story short—I am now as healthy a man as there is in the country.

"Since then I have recommended DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY to others whom I have to have suffered from Kidney and Liver complaints, and I can truthfully say that the FAVORITE REMEDY has done its work with a similar completeness in every instance, and I feel some other sick and discouraged mortal may have the same blessing if he will only try the FAVORITE REMEDY. set 1-3d."

DR. SCHENCK'S MEDICINES FOR THE CURE OF CONSUMPTION.

For other Certificates of Cures send for Dr. Schenck's book on Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Dropsy, and a full description of these diseases in their various forms, also valuable information in regard to the diet and clothing of the sick: how and when exercise should be taken, &c. This book is the result of many years of experience in the treatment of Lung Diseases, and should be read, not only by the afflicted, but by those who, from hereditary taint, or other cause, suppose themselves liable to any affection of the throat or lungs.

IT IS SENT FREE, Post Paid, to All Applicants.

Address Dr. J. H. Schenck & Son, P. O. Box 2063, Philadelphia, Pa.

A Gentleman well known in Zanesville, Dresden, and Coinoctou writes from Pekin, Ill.

Dear Sir—In the winter of 1871 I was told by three prominent doctors that my wife had Consumption, and that she could not live until Spring. Soon after this a friend sent me Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I had tried everything else, and was almost in despair, but I thought I would try it, and I commenced the use of the medicine with the thought of its curing me, but after taking the first bottle I was satisfied it was the right thing, I had tried before, from my former sickness, I consented to continue that after taking four or five bottles she was pronounced by her doctor to be in the Second Stage and I also took some of the Musselvale Pills.

It is now two years since she was so pronounced by her doctor, and she is now well. Of course it was a long, but it was a sure cure. I certainly gained strength, the character of which I cannot from my judgment be changed—and being so effective—and as I had a whole family of children to care for, I felt that my recovery was rapid. I placed their fate, and mine with confidence, and now I am entirely well, a wonder to my acquaintance who saw me when I was so low.

I weigh 195 pounds, appetite good, and I can truthfully say that I owe my life to Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and I feel as thankful to you that I am so, as I should be if I was a Christian. I have taken no other medicine, and I feel as thankful to you that I am as healthy a man as there is in the country.

"Since then I have recommended DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY to others whom I have to have suffered from Kidney and Liver complaints, and I can truthfully say that the FAVORITE REMEDY has done its work with a similar completeness in every instance, and I feel some other sick and discouraged mortal may have the same blessing if he will only try the FAVORITE REMEDY. set 1-3d."

J. LEWIS, Druggist.

May 19, 1881. No. 200 S. Main st., Providence, R. I.

DR. SCHENCK'S MEDICINES: MANDRAKE PILLS, SEAWEED TONIC, and PULMONIC SYRUP

Are sold by all Druggists, at $1 full directions for their use are printed on the wrappers of every package.

Take Dr. Schenck's address now, and send for the book mentioned in the beginning of this advertisement.

KIDNEY-WORT

THE SURE CURE FOR KIDNEY DISEASES, LIVER COMPLAINTS, CONSTIPATION, PILES, AND BLOOD DISEASES.

PHYSICIANS ENDORSE IT HEARTILY.

"Kidney-Wort is the most successful remedy I ever used." Dr. P. C. Dalton, Menkton, Vt.

"Kidney-Wort is invaluable." Dr. R. S. Clark, Sc. Hero, Vt.

"Kidney-Wort has proved invaluable in my practice authority." Dr. E. Bonnifay, Sun Hill, Ga.

IN THOUSANDS OF CASES

It has cured where all else failed. Like a mild, but efficient, CERTAIN IN ITS ACTION, but harmless in all instances.

IF It cleanses the Blood and Strengthens and gives New Life to all the important organs of the body. The extraordinary success of this medicine is due to the fact that it acts on the Liver, Bowels and Kidneys at the same time. Purity and healthy. In this way the worst diseases are eradicated from the system.

PRICE, $1.00 LIQUID OR DRY, SOLD BY DRUGGISTS. Dry can be sent by mail.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO. Burlington Vt.

KIDNEY-WORT

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Pleasant to Take. Powerful to Cure. And Will Prove In Every Home a KIDNEY and LIVER CURE

Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is a vegetable compound, containing purgative properties, and is a most powerful tonic. It gives universal satisfaction wherever introduced. It has no equal for Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Kidney Disease, Dropsy and Low Spirits.

It gives universal satisfaction wherever introduced. It has no equal for Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Kidney Disease, Dropsy and Low Spirits.

To persons accustomed to spirituous liquors it is a most valuable tonic. Invaluable for weakness arising from injudicious indulgence, or from the effects of tobacco, opium, or other narcotic stimulants. It has no bad effects upon the system, but is free from all injurious ingredients.

Are you suffering from any disease treatable to medicine? Are you sick? Are your friends or relatives sick? Are they suffering? If so, purchase the nearest one Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and be cured of your disease.

PRICE, $1.00 LIQUID OR DRY, SOLD BY DRUGGISTS. Dry can be sent by mail.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO. Burlington Vt.

CONSUMPTION.

I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by the use of which thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles free to any sufferer who will give express and post office address. Respectfully, DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., New York.

DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., New York.

DR. FOOTE'S Original METHODS Made World Famous. OLD EYES Restored. RUPTURE Cured without operation. PHIMOSIS Cured without cutting. NERVOUS Debility, etc., cured by new and rational treatment. CHRONIC Diseases of all kinds. HOME CURE. Consult free. Medical Book, 100 pages, 10c. each. Address Dr. E. B. FOOTE, Box 758, N. Y. City.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

C.N.U. No. 21—84.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 29, 1884.

Additional Local.

Memorial Day Program.

Procession will form at one o'clock, on Bridge street, under the direction of Capt. Harrison Riordan, Marshal, and Dr. J. A. Carlstein, officer of the day, as follows:

1. Decorated Chariot with flowers.
2. Charlevoix brass band.
3. Schools.
4. Good Templars.
5. Walter Clifford Post, G. A. R. of Boyne.
6. Geo. Martin Post of Eastport.
7. Baxter Post of Charlevoix.
8. Citizens.

ORDER OF MARCH.

Starting front of opera house, marching down Bridge street to Antrim, up Antrim to State, out State to cemetery, where the usual ceremonies will be performed.

The "Continental vocalists" will also render appropriate music.

Returning down State, Main and Bridge streets and concluding with the following in the opera hall:

Music by the band.
Singing by the choral society.
Prayer by Rev. C. F. Van Auken.
Oration by Rev. T. J. Hill, of Boyne.
Music by the band.
Singing by choral society.
Benediction by Rev. J. T. Iddings.
Let everybody come.

Circuit Court.

Court convened Tuesday afternoon, and adjourned Wednesday morning. The following is a synopsis of cases, and their disposition:

People v. Burgess, murder; nolle pros. entered.

Faish v. Von Platen; continued.

Martin v. Beach, assumpsit; continued.

Wood v. Norwood, assumpsit; continued.

Buttars v. Munro, attachment; judgment for plaintiff, $1,442.58.

Reynolds v. Munro, attachment; judgment for plaintiff, $625.99.

Buttars v. Munro, attachment; judgment for plaintiff, $3,453.53.

Chapman v. Addis, attachment; judgment for plaintiff, $3,096.81.

Ferguson v. Gonzaer, attachment; Stoepel & Co. allowed to appear as special defendants.

Jordan v. Holly, attachment; continued.

Crouter v. Eaton, ejectment; continued.

Plummer v. Addis, attachment; judgment for plaintiff, $977.45.

Fuller v. Strong, cognovit; judgment by confession.

Hess v. Lamoreux; proceedings in court below reversed and held for naught.

Fourth National Bank of Grand Rapids v. Addis; judgment $1,020.

Anderson v. Anderson, certiorari; continued.

Peck v. Addis; judgment $2,125.17.

Mitchell v. Addis; judgment for plaintiff, $2,144.38.

Auchmuty v. Addis; judgment for plaintiff, $2,700.

Moses v. Clark; judgment by confession, $470.53.

Lalone and Cornwell v. Addis; judgment $981.67.

Taylor v. Dixon; to dissolve equart needing referred to commissioner.

Rapin v. Macy, to remove cloud from title; dismissed.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by Uranus Rose, Real Estate Broker.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, for the week ending Tuesday evening, May 27, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

Clementine Taylor to William M. Corwin, part of s ½ of n ½ of n e ¼, 6-23-6, $84.

A. D. Cruickshank et al. to Henry Fox, lot 1, 8-33-7, $600.

W. W. Phelps and wife to D. W. Thompson, 2 acres of n of l ½ of n e ¼, 15-32-6, $105.

Georgiana Barrett to Ellen F. Emery, lot in South Lake, $600.

Eliza Baxter to Louis Linne, s e ¼ of s ½ ¼, 8-32-5, $250.

A. H. Upright et al. to Samuel G. Blanchard, lot 130 of Upright & Hurlbut's addition to Charlevoix, $150.

Ruben Willis to J. M. Eaton, n ½ of n e ¼, 33-34-7, $500.

J. M. Eaton and wife to E. M. Clark, w 30 acres of n ½ of n e ¼, 33-34-7, $120.

Ruben Willis, e 10 acres of n w ¼ of n e ¼, 33-34-7, $1.

J. M. Eaton and wife to Jane Slaw-waw-day-see, n e ¼ of n e ¼, 33-34-7, $1.

Jane Slaw-waw-day-see to E. M. Clark, w 30 acres of n ½ of n e ¼, 33-34-7, $1.

Gardner S. Delano to Geo. Wardrop, 15 acres, 18-33-5, $150.

E. Starmer to Louisa T. Starmer, s ½ of s w ¼ and n w ¼ of s w ¼, 36-34-6, $500.

J. A. Campbell and wife to Byron M. Holmes, part of n w ¼ of s w ¼, 23-32-7, $200.

Shipments.

The following are the clearances from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the custom house for two weeks ending Tuesday, May 27:

14—Schr. John Baker, 5,300 ties, Upright, Emery & Co., to Milwaukee.

14—Schr. Chris. Greiner, 190 cords wood, T. D. Smith, to Milwaukee.

15—Schr. Moses Gage, 70,000 cedar posts, Upright Emery & Co., to Chicago.

15—Schr. Mocking Bird, 80 cords wood, S. Parker and 1,200 ties Upright Emery & Co., to Racine.

16—City of Charlevoix, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, Olds, to Chicago.

16—S. S. Sea Gull, 2,400 posts, 800 ties to Milwaukee.

17—Schr. Helen, 400 posts, T. D. Smith, to Chicago.

17—Schr. Lottie Mason, 55 cords bark, Stone, to Milwaukee.

17—Schr. Gilbert Knapp, 350 logs pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

19—Schr. Lapeline, 150 cords wood, F. Thorp to Milwaukee.

19—Schr. Harriet Rose, 140 cords wood, A. S. Stringo to Chicago.

19—Schr. M. L. Higgie, 220,000 feet hardwood lumber, Gleen & Porter, to Chicago.

19—Schr. Louis Ludington, 137 cords wood, S. Parker, to Racine.

20—Schr. Bert Barnes, 5,300 ties, T. D. Smith, to Chicago.

20—Prop. John Ott, 100 logs pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

20—Sch. Jessie Phillips, 190,000 feet hardwood lumber, Gleen & Porter to Chicago.

20—Sch. Salina, 40 cords wood, 20 cords bark, M. Sanderson, to Milwaukee.

21—Sch. M. L. Collins, 180 cords wood, T. D. Smith to Milwaukee.

21—Schr. Hercules, 80 cords bark, A. Fox to Milwaukee.

21—Schr. Evening Star, 200 cords wood, W. H. Browner to Chicago, 100,000 feet hardwood lumber, A. W. Olds to Chicago.

22—Schr. Mockingbird, 115 cords wood, Upright, Emery & Co. to Milwaukee.

24—Schr. John Baker, 170 cords wood, Upright, Emery & Co. to Milwaukee.

24—Sc. Martina, 500 logs pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

24—Schr. Sam Gren, 85 cords wood, T. D. Smith to Milwaukee.

26—Schr. John C. Bauer, 130 cords wood, J. C. Wright, to Milwaukee.

26—Schr. Flowering, 45 cords bark, Geo. Bartson to Milwaukee.

27—Sch. John Schuette, 225 cords wood, Upright, Emery & Co., Milwaukee.

Council Proceedings.

At the meeting of the council last Thursday evening, the marshal was instructed to make a written report in regard to service of notice for building sidewalk, and repair of jail; also instructed to have the necessary repairs made to the jail, at a cost of not exceeding $15.

The committee on ordinance reported an ordinance licensing and regulating draymen, which was adopted.

Bills were allowed and ordered paid as follows: G. W. Crouter, blank book, $1.50, Smith & Parmelee, print ing, $5.25; Washburn & Ackert, repairs to engine, $8.28.

The druggists' bond of F. Hines & Co. was presented and approved.

The street commissioner was instructed to post notices for the protection of the village park.

The marshal was instructed to enforce the ordinance in regard to obstructions on the streets and side walks.

Adjourned one week.

South Arm.

Decoration day is to be celebrated here with appropriate exercises. The G. A. R. Post in charge.

We hear it rumored that some persons think that a change of postmaster is desirable. "Let well enough alone" is a good old motto.

Elder Blake took the Gazelle for Ironton on Friday where he preached on Sunday last. His health is improving, though slowly.

Rev. J. Redpath was in town last week.

Mr. Isaac Shipman, of Traverse City, was in town recently.

Extensive repairing on the saw mill is being done by F. J. Moech. Jos. Hyland of Charlevoix, is repairing the boiler.

Mr. J. Cummings, was badly hurt last week by the chain by which he was drawing up logs, in Glenn's mill, breaking and striking him on his head.

Supper for Two.

A new scheme of money getting for churches and charitable societies has been devised, which our young people should try and profit by at once while it is novel. The "racket" works as follows: Each lady will bring a basket containing supper for two. The baskets will be placed in the hands of a committee, who will number them. Numbers will be placed on slips of paper to correspond with the baskets. Then each will get his basket, which contains the name of a lady. He then finds his lady and conducts her to the seales to be weighed, and pays one cent per pound for her and her basket. —Muskegon News.

Burgess.

Clover is in blossom up in Hayes.

Thomas Duke intends to enclose his place with a wire fence.

Grass and grain of all kinds are just beoming this weather.

School has commenced at Maple Grove, with Miss Annie Bell, of Charlevoix, as teacher.

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix	6 30 a. m	2 00 p. m
Arrive East Jordan	8 30 a. m	4 00 p. m
Leave East Jordan	11 00 a. m	6 30 p. m
Arrive Charlevoix	12 00 a. m	6 30 p. m

Stopping at intermediate points

Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Str. M. W. WRIGHT—Capt. L. J. Bennett.

Leave Charlevoix	8 30 a. m	2 00 p. m
Arrive Boyne	9 30 a. m	3 00 p. m
Leave Boyne	9 30 a. m	4 45 p. m
Arrive Charlevoix	12 00 a. m	6 30 p. m

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. A. H. Bennett

East Jordan, lv	7 00am	Harbor Springs	1 30pm
Charlevoix	8 00am	Petoskey	2 00pm
Petoskey	11 00am	Charlevoix	3 30pm
Harbor Springs	11 30am	East Jordan, ar	6 30pm

Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. B. Thompson.

Le Boyne	7 00am	Le Charlevoix	2 00pm
Ar Charlevoix	9 30am	Ar Boyne	4 30pm

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan and Charlevoix.

Steamer NELLIE BOOTH—Capt. Frank Cater.

LEAVE	AM	PM	ARRIVE	AM	PM
East Jordan	6:30	1:00	Charlevoix	8:45	3:15
Charlevoix	9:30	4:00	East Jordan	11:55	6:00

Stopping at intermediate points.

HANNAH, LAY & COMPANY'S STEAMER LINE.

SEASON OF 1884.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS.

CAPT. O. E. WILSON.

GOING NORTH. Monday, Wednesdays, and Fridays.		GOING SOUTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.
Will Leave		Will Leave
Traverse City	7:00am	St. Ignace	5:00am
Northport	9:30am	Mackinaw Isld	7:00am
Charlevoix	12:00m	Cross Village	10:00am
Petoskey	2:00pm	Harbor Springs	12:30pm
Harbor Springs	2:45pm	Petoskey	1:00pm
Cross Village	5:00pm	Charlevoix	3:30pm
Mackinaw Isld	9:00pm	Northport	6:00pm
Arriving at St. Ignace	10:00pm	Arriving at Traverse City	8:30pm

T. S. PAXTON,

CAPT. A. C. MAHON.

GOING NORTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.		GOING SOUTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.
Will Leave		Will Leave
Traverse City	7:00am	Harbor Springs	6:00am
Old Mission	9:00am	Petoskey	7:00am
Elk Rapids	10:00am	Charlevoix	8:30am
Torch Lake	11:00am	East Jordan (or Boyne)	10:00am
Norwood	12:00pm	Charlevoix (return)	11:00am
Charlevoix	2:00pm	Torch Lake	12:00pm
East Jordan (or Boyne)	3:30pm	Elk Rapids	1:00pm
Charlevoix (return)	5:00pm	Old Mission	3:30pm
Arriving at Harbor Springs	7:00pm	Arriving at Traverse City	6:00pm

GOOD CONNECTIONS

Will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on the G. R. & I. R. R., also on Monday morning between the City of Grand Rapids and the T. S. Paxton, leaving Grand Rapids every Monday and on Wednesday evenings, between the T. S. Paxton going south and the City of Traverse to Chicago.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card in effect January, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv		7 40am	7 15pm
Richmond	2 37pm	10 32	9 07
Winchester	3 17	11 17	10 00
Ridgeville	4 11	11 57	11 21
Fort Wayne, ar	6 42	2 20pm	1 40am
Fort Wayne, lv		2 35	2 05	8 45am
Leesburg		3 13	3 11	9 17
Sturgis		3 53	4 11	10 35
Vicksburg		4 11	4 33	11 08
Kalamazoo, ar		4 32	4 52	12 5-5am
Kalamazoo, lv		7 02	7 32	1 52
C & I Junction, ar		7 32	8 02	2 22
C & I Junction, lv	7 15am		9 00	3 45
G. R. & I. Junc.	7 30		10 05	5 05
Howard City	8 17		1 20	6 20
Big Rapids	9 15		12 19pm	7 22
Reed City	10 17		1 17	8 22
Cadillac, ar	11 25		2 30	9 30
Cadillac, lv			4 00
Walton Junction			4 17	12 00am
Kalkaska, lv			4 49	12 35
Mancelona			5 17	1 05
Bone Falls			5 47	1 35
Petoskey, ar			7 15	3 45
Harbor Springs			8 00	6 00
Traverse City			10 00	8 00
St. Ignace			7 00am	5 00am
Marquette			3 12	1 46
Negaunee, ar

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Negaunee, lv			5 17pm	7 20am
Marquette			9 00	8 20
Harbor Springs			5 10am	6 10pm
Markinaw City			6 50	9 15
Harbor Springs			7 00	4 20
Petoskey, lv			7 45	5 05
Bone Falls			8 13	12 27am
Mancelona			8 42	1 00
Kalkaska			9 13	2 34
Walton Junction			9 17am
Traverse City, lv			1 35	2 25
Cadillac, ar		3 30pm	4 45	5 40
Cadillac, lv		3 40	4 50	5 50
Reed City		4 42	5 42	7 40
Big Rapids		6 08	6 25	8 42
Howard City		7 25	8 18	10 05
G. R. & I. Junc.		7 40	8 05	10 25
C. & I. Junction, ar	6 20am		8 32	12 30pm
Kalamazoo, ar	8 32		8 52	2 20
Kalamazoo, lv	9 07		9 22	2 25
Vicksburg	9 46		9 52	3 10
Sturgis	10 01		9 56	4 12
Leesburg	10 39		10 25	5 31
Fort Wayne, ar	12 22pm		10 52	6 42
Fort Wayne, lv	12 52	5 57am	12 00m
Ridgeville	3 09	7 36	2 25
Winchester	3 47	8 18	3 03
Richmond	4 27	9 11	4 03
Cincinnati, ar	7 40pm	12 00pm	7 40am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, AGT., Grand Rapids, Mich.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and direction for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's generous offer can do so by addressing, in perfect confidence, John B. Ogden, 42 Cedar St., New York.

OLD NEWSPAPERS FOR SALE

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

FOR THE CAMPAIGN

The Journal

Will be sent to any address during the Campaign for

10c a Month

CASH IN ADVANCE.

NOW IS THE TIME TO GET UP A CLUB.

E. T. BROWN & CO

Threshing Engines,

Portable and Stationary

Engines,

SAW MILLS, THRESHERS MILL SUPPLIES.

(BARGAINS IN SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.)

WRITE FOR PRICES AND CATALOGUE

West Bridge Street,

Grand Rapids, Michigan

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES

New Stores

and

NEW GOODS

A Complete Stock of Hardware, Iron, Cutlery, Tinware, Fishing Tackle, Stoves, Implements and Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggies, Wheelbarrows, Carts, Refrigerators, Doors and Sash, Paints and Brushes. The very best Tin and Job work done on short notice.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW.

THE MOST USEFUL BOOK EVER PUBLISHED.

A Book that should be in Every House.

The press, teachers, and professional people throughout the country pronounce it to be a BOOK OF BOOKS. It contains upwards of 50,000 WORDS, with their definitions and pronunciation according to Webster and other recognized authorities; a large number of additional words and definitions in general use. It contains a mine of information for everybody. This book is handsomely bound in cloth, containing 542 Pages. Profusely Illustrated. We propose to send you one of these valuable books, by mail, all shipping charges prepaid, to any address, on receipt of only ONE DOLLAR.

Address M. STOLZ & CO.,

20 Park Place, New York.

HEADQUARTERS

FOR

New Stores, New Goods, New Prices, Best Work,

HARDWARE, STOVES & IMPLEMENTS

CHARLEVOIX, MICH., HARBOR AND SUMMER RESORTS.

A Complete Stock of Hardware, Iron, Cutlery, Tinware, Fishing Tackle, Stoves, Implements and Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggies, Wheelbarrows, Carts, Refrigerators, Doors and Sash, Screen Doors, Paints and Brushes, Rope, Glass and Putty, Fence Wire, Farm Bells, Mechanics' Tools, Whips, Revolvers, Spoons, Forks, Etc.

Special Department FOR Notions In Hardware.

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES

The very Best TIN AND Job work Done on Short Notice.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 20, 1884.

What My Lover Said.

By the merest chance in the twilight gloom,
In the orchard path he met me—
In the tall, wet grass, with its faint perfume,
And I tried to pass, but he made me stay.
Oh, I tried, for the world had told me
So; I stay and blushed until the grass grew red,
With my face bent down above it,
While he took my hand as he whispering said—
How the clover lifted each pink, sweet head
To listen to all that my lover said!
Oh! the clover is blonde—I love it!

In the dusk, wet grass went the path to hide,
And the low, wet leaves hung over,
But I could not pass on either side,
For I found myself, when I had tried,
In the manner of the old fast lover,
And he held me there and he raised my head,
While he closed the path before me,
And he looked down into my eyes and said—
How the leaves bent down from the boughs overhead,
To listen to all that my lover said,
Oh! the leaves hanging lowly o'er me!

Had he moved aside but a little way
I could surely then have passed him,
And he knew I never could wish to stay,
And would not have heard what he had to say,
Could I only aside have cast him.
I was glad of the dusk, the autumn wind,
And of the searching night-wind found us;
But he drew me nearer and softly said—
How the pure, sweet wind grew still instead,
To listen to all that my lover said,
Oh! the whispering winds around us!

I am sure he knew, when he held me fast,
That I must be all unwilling
For I tried to go, and would have passed
As the night was come with its dews at last,
And the sky with its stars was filling;
And he clasped me close when I would have fled,
And he made me hear his story,
And his mouth came out from his lips and said—
How the stars peeped out where the white moon fed,
To listen to all that my lover said,
Oh, the moon and stars in glory!

I know that the grass and leaves will not tell,
And I'm sure that the wind, precious rover,
Will carry the secrets so safely and well
That no being shall ever discover
One word of the many that rapidly fell
From the eager lips of my lover,
And the moon and the stars that looked over
Shall never reveal what a fairy-like spell
They have created about us that night in the wet grass,
In the path through the dew-laden clover,
Nor echo the whispers that make my heart swell,
As they fell from the lips of my lover.

—Attributed to Horace Greeley.

ALWAYS IDLE.

The setting sun was tinging the trees with ruddy gold, casting purple shadows over the rocky mountains outlined against the skies, falling and flushing the little red schoolhouse with unequalled glory.

School was over—at least, the children were supposed to have left, but even now a few lingered behind, talking with great animation over the coming holidays and the prize-drawing.

"I expect Bert will be first in composition; his essays are always best," one boy remarked.

"Yes, if he tries," answered the other a little doubtfully. "I wish he wouldn't, then there would be a chance for one of us."

"Try! Of course he will. I say, Bert!" Tom cried, as a tall bright-looking boy passed.

"You; what is it?"

"Are you going in for the composition?"

"I should rather think so," Bert cried in surprise. "Why?"

"I thought I should like to know. You see there might be a chance for me if you didn't. You are sure to carry off the prize."

Bert smiled and tossed his head proudly.

"Well, yes, perhaps. You see, I am always first. There is not one of you I can't beat."

"You forget Sidney Lennox."

"Lennox?" Bert echoed scornfully. "I am not afraid of him."

"He's awfully clever when he chooses to exert himself."

"Yes, when he does; but you know he is always idle. I do not think I shall have him for a rival."

"No, I don't either. What a pity he is such an idle boy, always dreaming—never doing. Now, if I only had one-half his brains, I would beat the whole lot."

Bert smiled again, a little triumphantly; he knew he had nothing to fear from Tom, and after a few more words the boys parted.

But it so happened that the few careless words spoken by them were not unheard.

They had been standing beneath the school-room window, never thinking that anyone was there; but a pale dreamy-looking boy, sitting by the open casement, dividing his attention between his unlearned lesson and the beautiful sunset scene beyond, had caught the words.

As he listened the thoughtful look died away, and was succeeded by one of mingled surprise and indignation, the deep flush rising to his brow, showing the words had struck some hidden chord in his heart, rousing him from his dreams to reality.

"Always dreaming—never doing," came wafted up on the summer breeze, and Sidney felt, with shame, how true those words were.

A sudden thought flitted through his mind, and he pondered long after the boys had gone away, until a new resolve shone in his dark eyes, a new earnestness settling on the broad brow; and rising, he flung his book aside, and went in search of his master.

"Mr. Selton."

"Ah, Sidney, is it you? Have you mastered your lesson?" the schoolmaster asked.

"Yes; but it is not that I wished to speak about. It is that I want to put my name down for the composition prize."

Mr. Selton gazed in some surprise at his pupil; it was very unusual for him to ask to enter into the lists of competitors for the prizes, but he said kindly enough:

"Very well, Lennox, I am glad to see you are willing to work. I only wish you would always try."

"I am afraid I am always too idle, sir, but I think I will turn over a new leaf now, and begin afresh; perhaps I shall get on all right."

"I am sure you would if you tried; you are intelligent enough," said the master.

Sidney flushed slightly at the praise, and he inwardly determined to prove the truth of the words, so with this resolve he went home prepared to work earnestly and diligently.

Bert Linton was very much surprised, when the list of competitors was read aloud, to hear the name of Sidney Lennox, and for a moment his confidence of gaining the prize was shaken, then he brightened up, for it was well known that sometimes Lennox commenced a thing, then with his usual dreamy indifference left it, and forgot that he had ever began.

"I did not know that you were going in for this," he said later to Sidney.

"Oh yes. You see I haven't gained a prize since I have been at school, so I think it is time to begin now," Lennox answered, smiling.

Tom was even more surprised than Bert, and his good-natured face took a longer turn, as he thought how small a chance he had against two such good composers.

But he groaned aloud when he heard the subject he was to write upon, "The First Rays of the Sun," and his heart was filled with despair.

"Whatever made him choose that, of all things?" he said confidentially to Bert. "I haven't the faintest notion of what to say, and expect that the sun is here, and sometimes shines, and more often doesn't. I don't know anything further about it."

Bert also had a look of perplexity, and he shrugged his shoulders as he answered:

"And I cannot tell you. It is the most difficult thing we have had as yet. I confess I am at a loss myself."

"Well as long as I'm not the only one, I don't care," Tom said, sighing. "I wonder what Lennox thinks!"

"He looks the same as he always does—calmly and serenely indifferent. I believe if Mr. Selton had told us to write an essay on the inhabitants of the moon, he would be just the same."

For the next few weeks every boy went about with grave, thoughtful faces, evidently deeply puzzled at the subject the master had chosen.

Only Sidney had remained tranquil during this time, so perplexed frown knitted his brow; his lessons every day were perfectly said, and Bert's were not always, his mind seemed to be too entirely wrapped up in the subject to allow of other things.

At last the great day arrived. All the essays had been given in some time before.

The boys, in a state of suppressed excitement, trooped early to school, and many whispered consultations were carried on in the playground as to the probable results.

"I don't believe Lennox has tried at all," Bert remarked complacently to Tom. "He looks too indifferent, too dreamy. I dare say he repented before he got half through."

"Perhaps; but I don't know. You never can judge by his face what he is thinking of. For all we know, he may be excited as we are, only he won't show it. Have you succeeded in getting a good idea?"

"Pretty well. I thought for several days, and at last a sudden idea struck me, and I wrote it out."

"Of course I haven't a chance against two such clever fellows as you and Sidney. It was perfectly useless trying. By the way, did he go in for any of the other prizes?"

"No; he was too late. Besides he never could exert himself to do more than one thing."

But here the conversation was stopped by the loud clamor of the bell, and soon all were assembled in the school-room, listening in breathless silence to the announcement of the fortunate winners.

One by one the prizes were given out, Bert coming in for his share, and Tom was made happy by a prize for arithmetic, a thing he was very good at, at the last, the prize for composition, Mr. Selton looked smilingly around.

"I am very pleased with the essays I received, they were all better than I expected. But the most beautifully written was Sidney Lennox's. I have great pleasure in handing him his first, but, I hope, not the last prize."

And amidst a loud cheer from the boys, he placed in Sidney's hands a handsomely bound book—a volume of poems.

Lennox flushed and thanked his master, and from that day he became one of the most earnest workers; but even Bert can find fault with him now, or say he is always idle.

Dime Novel Work.

The work of the dime novel is being performed with even more than the usual success. The other day three boys robbed their parents and started for the boundless West. More recently a lad in a Philadelphia public school drew a revolver on his teacher, and examination showed that seven other boys present were armed with revolvers and bowie-knives. They had formed a secret brotherhood, their leader, the boy who pulled the pistol, having taken the terror-inspiring name of "Schuylkill Jack." They meant to set off in a little while for the West also, being consumed with a fine ambition to become cowboys. This sort of escapade is becoming common, and while no doubt there are many absurd features about such boyish outbreaks, they furnish cause for uneasiness too. The class of literature which is mainly responsible for all this folly is distributed all over the country in immense quantities, and it is distinctly evil in its teachings and tendencies. The heroes of the dime novels are almost always thieves, robbers and immoral characters, and the heroines are no better. The stories abound with descriptions of brutality, cruelty and dishonesty, when they do not go further and for worse. Boys gather from them the idea that violence and trickery and immorality are manly, and that the character to be admired is the lofty and ruffian who knocks everybody about, and cuts throats right and left, and plunders successfully, and is hail-fellow with the thieves and dangerous classes generally.

Through reading this pestilent stuff a great many boys are undoubtedly put fairly in the road to ruin. They insensibly acquire a crooked moral vision. They begin to deteriorate in their associations. They pine for opportunities to emulate the heroes they are reading about. Presently they are tempted to steal from their parents, friends or employers, to prepare for some preposterous raid, and then, though they may be saved for the time, their characters have sustained a shock which is liable to weaken them permanently. It is difficult to deal adequately with this evil because of the absence of uniform legislation. A good deal can no doubt be done by vigilance and local preventive organizations, such as are at work in New York, but probably the most effective remedies are in the hands of parents and relatives, who, if they will only take the trouble, certainly must be able to cut off the supply in a large number of cases.

The habit of relying upon the State in such matters is in the ascendant and it is already far too prevalent. The State ought not to be called upon to do anything which can be better or as well done by private energy and efforts conveniently wrapped up in the subject to allow of other things.

At last the great day arrived. All the essays had been given in some time before.

The boys, in a state of suppressed excitement, trooped early to school, and many whispered consultations were carried on in the playground as to the probable results.

"I don't believe Lennox has tried at all," Bert remarked complacently to Tom. "He looks too indifferent, too dreamy. I dare say he repented before he got half through."

"Perhaps; but I don't know. You never can judge by his face what he is thinking of. For all we know, he may be excited as we are, only he won't show it. Have you succeeded in getting a good idea?"

"Pretty well. I thought for several days, and at last a sudden idea struck me, and I wrote it out."

"Of course I haven't a chance against two such clever fellows as you and Sidney. It was perfectly useless trying. By the way, did he go in for any of the other prizes?"

"No; he was too late. Besides he never could exert himself to do more than one thing."

But here the conversation was stopped by the loud clamor of the bell, and soon all were assembled in the school-room, listening in breathless silence to the announcement of the fortunate winners.

One by one the prizes were given out, Bert coming in for his share, and Tom was made happy by a prize for arithmetic, a thing he was very good at, at the last, the prize for composition, Mr. Selton looked smilingly around.

"I am very pleased with the essays I received, they were all better than I expected. But the most beautifully written was Sidney Lennox's. I have great pleasure in handing him his first, but, I hope, not the last prize."

And amidst a loud cheer from the boys, he placed in Sidney's hands a handsomely bound book—a volume of poems.

Lennox flushed and thanked his master, and from that day he became one of the most earnest workers; but even Bert can find fault with him now, or say he is always idle.

The old regimental hospital system, in the British army, is labored, and the new system which was worked at Tel-el-Kebir by Lord Wolseley established in its stead. A new divisional organization called the bearer company, of eight doctors, some 200 trained bearers and drivers, with ambulance wagons, operating tables, soups, wines, chloroform, and all the means of performing operations and giving temporary support, is formed for the division as a whole, and to it all the regimental wounded are taken by the regimental and its own bearers. Here they are examined, operated on and fed. When this is over they are carried by ambulance to the field hospital, generally some further distance from the field, and there deposited.

Advance Lumber Company

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO. ADVANCE, MICH.

For You NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIOGRAPHICAL 1884. ANNUAL. 1884.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR.

It contains something for everybody. Its pages are filled with honest truth and fact. It is also serviceable in the Home, the Counting-room, the Lawyer's office, the Statesman's Study, the Student's Politicians, the Merchant, the Mechanic, and in the Schools. It will help you to buy the Furniture or an honest counselor and seeks for models to patterns of virtue.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.

Which in some way or other touch nearly 200 PORTRAITS, MEN AND WOMEN, who have exercised and are still exerting powerful influences in various directions.

While presenting the American publication, crowning pinnacle of MODERN ART, it presents the most attractive portraits and lives of the MOST EMINENT EUROPEANS of the day.

Its pages familiarize the reader with the features and lives of great Statesmen, Orators and Turrowned Misers, Members of the Cabinet, Statesmen, Warriors, Senators, Congressmen, Governors, Ministers, Railroad Kings, Actors, Actresses, Musicians, Prima donnas, Prelates, Poets, Jurists, Advocates, Irish Agitators, Editors, Authors, Philanthropists, Orators, Bishops, and others in all the various walks of life, INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES,

AMONG WHOM WE MAY MENTION BLAINE, ARTHUR, MCDONALD, BAYARD, MORRISON, FLOWER, HUMPHREY, LINCOLN, BABIN, BUTLER, HANCOCK, HILL, HENDRICKS, BLACKMAN, EWING, INGALLS, PAYNE and BLAIR.

EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.

Catholics and Protestants, whether Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Congregationalists, Methodists, or Baptists, Republicans or Democrats are con- THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL Commending itself to the esteem of which have indeed become the household friends of thousands of their fellow citizens.

The Brand of the

PROMINENT WOMEN

Important place in this universally fascinating volume constitutes encouraging and instructive reading, and will enchant the reader that women form a large number and that she is well able to fill it.

Type would become exhausted with the renewed success of the men and women whose names have been familiar to every body, get a copy of THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL.

Sent postpaid on receipt of ONE DOLLAR.

● L. KLOPSCH & CO., Publishers, 92 White Street, New York.

NEW GOODS.

I am pleased to say that my

Spring Stock

is ready for inspection. Come and see them, and when you want a suit of clothes that are JUST IN STYLE, you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES,

AND

Price to Correspond With the Times.

GEO. W. MILLER.

JOSEPH HYLAND,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Boiler Maker,

Sheet-Iron Worker,

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

$1 A YEAR. $1 ONE DOLLAR.

THE WEEKLY Detroit Free Press

TWO PAPERS FOR THE PRICE OF ONE

THE HOUSEHOLD

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

Ten Large Pages of News and Weekly Matter. Ten Pages Devoted to Agriculture, Science, Mechanics, Manufactures, Commerce, Markets, Stock Reports, Etc. Specimen Copies Free. Address, FREE PRESS CO., Detroit, Mich.

$1 A YEAR. $1 ONE DOLLAR.

$1 A YEAR. $1 ONE DOLLAR.

The JOURNAL and the FREE PRESS one year for Two Dollars Cash in Advance.

FOR THE CAMPAIGN.

The JOURNAL will be sent to any address until after election for Ten Cents a Month,

CASH IN ADVANCE.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 47. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JUNE 5, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Is published every Thursday morning,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG,

Office over T. H. Smith's grocery,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Business Directory.

ATTORNEYS.

SPRINSHANK & EHRE, Attorneys at Law, Office in Barlow Block, Charlevoix, Mich. A. S. SPRINSHANK. C. J. EHRE.

HART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents, Lake st., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

POTTER & TURNOUR, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

"OTTO D. MANN, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Office in Barlow Block, opposite postoffice, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

H. LEE, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Office on Lake st., Boyne, Mich.

JAY A. HAYES, Attorney at Law, and Notary Court Commissioner, Office in bank building, Lower Mitchell St. Petoskey, Mich.

J. M. CLARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

WILL EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

WHITNEY & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, Office opposite P. O. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

OTTO C. WEBNER, Attorney and Solicitor, and U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

JAY C. MERRITT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX, Capital $50,000. Buy and sell exchange, make collections, loan money, and negotiate loans on real estate, receive deposits, and transact a general banking business. Interest allowed on time deposits. Collections given careful attention and prompt remittances made on all points in Europe and United States. Sight drafts and railroad tickets sold to and from all parts of Europe. $100,000 loaned on real mortgages. BROWNS & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7 p. m. in the opera house. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. J. P. VANDERS, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. J. J. TOMLINSON, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX HOOK AND LADDER FIRE COMPANY meet every Saturday night, at Browns hall. W. F. BISHOP, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

B. SEYFRIED, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Manuals, Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

M. L. SMITH, teacher of Musical Composition and Thorough Bass. Classes forming at all times. Inquire of the Journal office.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. HIGGINS, Proprietor. Only first-class Horses and Carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

J. A. VANISTEN, M. D., Office at the Ingleside.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office and residence, Lake st., Boyne City.

N. C. GRAVES, M. D.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

BREAKE & HARRISON, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 193, meets second Saturday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 227, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Boyne City Lodge No. 311, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

F. O. L.—Tree Blaze No. 187, meets Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

MASONIC—Charlevoix Lodge No. 267, meets Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over postoffice.

VETERINARY SURGEON

CHAS. SANBURY, V. S. Office at Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

WELL DIGGING.

FRANK DUBOIS, Charlevoix, Mich., will sink wells, contract for the work in the city or country, including, basin, curbing, all complete, $10 per foot. Parties wanting wells will do well to call on me before contracting elsewhere. Collections given careful attention and prompt remittances made.

A. WHITMAN, Cashier.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means by which alone he hopes to reach them. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and Throat and Lung Diseases. Parties wishing the prescription will find it a great blessing, by addressing, Rev. W. A. WILSON, 154 Penn St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

Extra copies of the JOURNAL for sale at Weeks' drug store.

1872 DR. G. W. CROUTER, 1884

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.

PURITY, POLITENESS.

We make it a point to sell only

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

Our Prices will always be as Low as

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

Can be Sold.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON, Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE.

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Eagle Hotel,

E. A. H. COLE, PROPRIETOR,

South Arm, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public. Good livery in connection. Fare moderate.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public. Good livery in connection. Fare moderate.

HULBERT HOUSE,

P. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house is centrally located. Good sidewalk from steam boat landing to house.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

WM. J. WEEKES, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house has been thoroughly renovated and is first-class in every respect. It is popular with sporting public. Steamers landing within a few rods of the house. Sample room.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

UNITED STATES HOTEL,

GEO. W. CHILDS, Proprietor,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

HALL'S Catarrh Cure

Is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD $100

We manufacture and sell it within positive guarantee that it will cure any case of Catarrh, no matter how long standing, with a single instance.

It is unlike all other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and accept no substitute. If your Druggist has not got it, send to us and we will forward it postpaid, for 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

DR. CROUTER, Agt., Charlevoix. 41

A PRIZE. Send six cents for postage and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from the first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. Address, Inclosing a 3c. stamp, TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine. 49

1864

GEN. U. S. GRANT.

There is not in "America" another citizen whose career has been as notable as that of Ulysses S. Grant.

He was honored by the whole world as the illustrious conqueror of Napoleon I, for his great military achievements in our civil rebellion. As a general, the lustre of his name remains as brilliant as ever; it has passed into history and it will be handed down to honor for ages to come. Civic honors were crowded upon his military fame by his election to the presidency for two terms. His first term as the executive head of the United States would have added fresh laurels to his name had he then retired from public service; but, the tide of political favor carried him again into the White House and the second four years of his presidency are well remembered as creating much criticism in his own party ranks. And yet, when Gen. Grant was succeeded by Hayes his name was a power in the land. After his tour round the world in which the crowned heads of empires and kingdoms did homage to his greatness, he returned to his native country and the famous struggle for a third nomination for the presidency in which "300" delegates at Chicago led by Roscoe Conkling proved their faith in Grant, is and ever will be the prominent episode in political annals that commands admiration, even from the then anti-Grant faction.

Having attained the pinnacle of honor in public life, the illustrious general and ex-president turned his steps into Wall street—the Mecca of sharks and speculators, expecting to score brilliant victories in the financial world. Clustering around his name were those of James D. Fish, Ferdinand Ward, and others whose checks were good for millions when the firm of Grant & Ward first swung its sign to the gates of Wall street, and the business of the concern grew into a magnitude of immense proportions.

Not until the late crash in Wall street was it surmised, even by General Grant himself, what the character of the operations of the firm were.

The general was at no time active in the management of the affairs of the bank, trusting the details to his young partner, Ward. We need not repeat the scandalous developments that have become public since the assignment of the firm, and the incarceration in jail of Ferdinand Ward.

General Grant is ageing very rapidly. Our illustration, which is an exact likeness as he appears to-day, lacks the vitality that characterized his portraits only a few years ago. He has surrendered all his property and assets to the creditors of the firm.

Tootsacho.

Did you ever have a cracking, jumping snapping, roaring, lightersome, toothache, that kept the whole family up an average until 2 o'clock in the morning? Many have it, but all have not heard of the wonderful cures made by Hamilton's Toothache Drops which are warranted to give instant relief. Safe yet effective. Price only 25c. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co.

GOT TO BLEED IT!

Mr. A. bought his wife one bottle of Parmelee's Blood Purifier, and now he thinks he has got himself into business, for she derives so much benefit from it that she must try another bottle or two and he permanently cured. There is no purifier known so efficient in its workings as this. Only $1.00 per bottle. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co.

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 144 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Soil, clay loam. A good farm house, and two frame barns. About 30 acres cleared, balance good beech and maple timber. About 20 acres more probably can be cleared with from school land sale until. Terms: $300 down, balance on time to suit purchaser. Price $1,800 for the whole farm, or less than two thousand dollars, balance in said purchaser. For further particulars apply to DANIEL FRANCIS, Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGough's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

FOR SALE.

SECOND HAND

Stationary Engine and Boiler

Size of cylinder 10x20 in. Boiler 12 feet long, 42 in. diameter, 48 in. in shell, 42 in. in shell, 42 in. in shell, 42

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, — MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

PITTSBURG dispatch: Notice was posted on the doors of the Penn Bank at noonitoday, owing to a sudden illness of President Biddle, who had taken an overdose of a narcotic to allay pain, the bank had again suspended. It is stated that the report by the Clearing House of checks aggregating $265,000 brought about the crisis. The news caused excitement, and rumors of all kinds are circulated. James H. Fisk, President of the wrecked Marine National Bank of New York, pleaded not guilty to the charge of misapplying funds, and was released on $30,000 bail.

FRED D. GRANT, in his assignment papers, which he filed in New York, shows liabilities of $2,215,000 and nominal assets of $1,799,013. Jesse R. Grant has debts of $96,429 and assets of $131,959. Mrs. Gen. Grant has sold her Washington house to John R. McLean for $6,500. Gen. Grant has mortgaged W. H. Vanderbilt an individual share of 1-8 ownership in the stables in Fifteenth, Long Island, are amulets of cattle suffering from pleuro-pneumonia, the afflicted animals being first selected, then killed, and the carcasses secretly conveyed to New York and Brooklyn and sold for food. Since the suspension and reopening of the Metropolitan Bank of New York deposits have been diminished $9,000,000. Thomas W. Evans, Cornelius H. Thompson, and John R. Dickson, bank officials of New York, have been held for trial for overcertification of checks.

ODE D. TOLE, said to be a scion of "one of the best and noblest French families," tried to commit suicide in a New York hotel by drinking water in which he had steeped the heads of matches. He did not succeed, and is recovering. Hiram Sibley has given Cornell University $80,000 for an additional building. At a meeting of the barbed-wire manufacturers of the West and Northwest held in Chicago it was resolved to close the factories during the months of July and August.

THE true inwardness of the Penn Bank collapse at Pittsburgh reaches the public in interesting slices. President Biddle has filed a confession of judgment in favor of the wreck for $22,775. The overdrafts of $350,000 reported previously have been swelled to $1,200,000, and it is expected that the liabilities will reach $2,000,000. The officers of the concern are charged with desperate speculation in oil ever since the Cherry Grove district was opened.

THE WEST.

WHEN the New York express from Chicago reached Jackson, Mich., one night, three men informed the passengers in the rear coach that they must leave into the next car as the travelers passed out on the platform they were relieved of all their valuables by the men. The robbery was so skillfully effected that the train moved off before the amazed visitors could give an alarm. Daniel McCauley, an 18-year-old youth, who was born in Rhode Island, was sentenced in a Dubuque Court at Dubuque, Iowa, in reply to questions he said he did not know the nature of an oath, had never been to a Sunday-school, could not read or write, had never heard of God, and believed that Andrew Jackson was President of the United States. A 65-year-old girl, the daughter of William Dyke, living near Hillsdale, Mich., was murdered near that place. David Stone, a half-witted uncle of the girl, was arrested for the crime. A new species of worm is said to be ravaging the cornfields of Marion County, Illinois. It is about an inch long, of yellowish color, and of the diameter of a pin. Reports of the condition of the grain crops in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, and Dakota continue to be very favorable. The Methodist Diocese of the P. E. Church elected Dr. Worthington, of Detroit, Mich., Bishop, on successor to Dr. Harris.

A HORRIFYING tragedy was enacted at St. Louis. At an early hour in the morning Mrs. Alexander Edmund entered her husband's room, where she procured a razor, and, assisting to her own aid, deliberately cut the throats of her 3-months-old baby and 4-year-old daughter. Passing to another room she tried to cut the throat of a third child, a 6-year-old girl. The scream of the child awakened the woman's husband. While he was dressing the wounds of his child his wife attempted to cut her own throat, inflicting a dangerous and probably fatal wound. Mrs Edmund was no doubt insane when she committed the terrible deeds. She had been an inmate of a lunatic asylum, but it was thought that she had been permanently cured.

George Anderson, an aged farmer of Bowling Green, Ohio, was beaten to death with a hickory cane by his insane wife, who has twice been confined in an asylum.

Jack Hinkle has been convicted of prize-fighting in Saunders County, Neb., and will serve a term in the penitentiary.

The State Veterinary Surgeon of Kansas, after a protracted tour, reports sheep-raising among horses in fifteen counties.

THREE loiters in the cash factory of Carr, Ryder & Wheeler, at Dubuque exploded the other day, killing five persons and seriously wounding three others. The engineer is said to have been running with half steam.

STRONG'S Bank of Green Bay, Wis., with a capital of $50,000, has failed. Henry Strong is President. Heavy withdrawals on account of recent failures led to the crash. It is stated that depositors will get 75 cents on the dollar. Jacob Sommers, of Chicago, has been sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary for a vain attempt to reduce to criminal habits a German girl of 16 years, named Teresa Rohde.

TWO MASKED men, armed with blackjacks, halted the Fort Benton coach twenty-five miles from Helena, robbed the passengers, and fired at the mail bags.

IT is charged at Yankton, Dakota, that the United States Marshal has "fixed" a jury in favor of Gov. Ordway, who will be soon tried on the bribery charges. A dynamite cartridge was discovered in the basement of the building at Xenia, Ind., in which the Journal of that place is printed. The discovery, as a matter of course, caused intense excitement. Prentice Tuller, who stole a large amount of money from an express company at St. Louis, was arraigned in the Criminal Court of that city. He astonished everybody by pleading guilty, whereupon Judge Van Wagoner sentenced him to five years' imprisonment in the Penitentiary. Dave Shoup, the miscreat who outraged and killed his 8-year-old niece last week near Hillsdale, Mich., confessed, was taken into court, pleaded guilty, sentenced to solitary life imprisonment, and immediately removed to the Jackson Penitentiary.

A VAST crowd assembled in the Criminal Court-room at Chicago to learn the result of the Kilbourne trial. Judge Anthony expressed the hope that the audience would make no demonstration over the verdict, but when the acquittal was announced the floor shook with applause. The accused was permitted to hold a reception, when he was returned to his cell to await trial on an indictment for the murder of Mrs. Wilson.

THE SOUTH.

THOMAS H SMITH, an aged merchant of Baltimore, has been expelled from the Christian Church, for taking a dollar from the contribution basket. He contends that on his rounds as a deacon he changed a dollar for a lady and thoughtlessly retained it.

FRANK Jones in the parishes of Louisiana have badly damaged the crops. Planters and business-men are much discouraged.

THE absence of its President caused a run on the Bell Springs Savings Bank and forced a suspension. Inge & Malone, tobacco dealers of Petersburg, Va., have failed. Walter, the junior member of the firm, is a son of the noted "Readjuster" Senator.

H. T. DUNCAN, editor of a daily newspaper at Lexington, Ky., has been fined $200 for malicious libel because his journal published the end of a citizen eating referendum on the Judge of the Circuit Court. Duncan was away from home when the card was issued.

WASHINGTON.

CAPT. GEORGE H. PERKINS, U. S. N., was ordered to take command of the Hartford, the flagship of the Pacific squadron, last week. He wrote to Secretary Chandler requesting against the order and asking him to revoke it. The latter replied, reminding Capt. Perkins that he has enjoyed a year's leave of absence and two years' practical exemption from duty, refusing to revoke the order, and telling the Captain in good set terms that if he does not obey the order before the 15th of June his resignation will be accepted.

CONGRESSMAN HURD, of Toledo, says an effort will be made during the present session of Congress to add lumber and coal to the free list. Secretary Folger has decided that the Chinese Government may send operators with a silk loom to be exhibited at the New Orleans Exposition, the understanding that they will leave the country at the close of the display.

THE loss is about $600,000. One-half of the Mail Building at Toronto, Ontario, was burned, and the telephone service of the city was destroyed. The loss is about $100,000. Other fire losses of the week were as follows:

	Losses
Chicago, tide and tallow warehouse	$10,000
Dunkirk, N. Y., flour mill	15,000
Buffalo, N. Y., flour storage	10,000
Sioux Falls, Dakota, hotel	15,000
Lyons, Mich., plow works	20,000
Cheviots, Ohio, oil tank	15,000
Jackson, Mich., car works	20,000
Hollidaysburg, Pa., iron works	20,000
Fort Worth, Tex., flour mill	10,000
Iowa Falls, Iowa, lumber yard	10,000
Avoca, Ill., business houses	10,000
Marion, Ind., house to a physician	10,000
Henry, Ill., five stores	17,000
Wooster, O., railroad barn	10,000
New Orleans, steamboat and cotton	25,000
Cedar Rapids, Iowa, hotel	20,000
Kansas City, Mo., hardware house	15,000
Fort Yates, Dakota, store	10,000
Rockville, Ind., flour mill	10,000
Boston, Ohio, nail mill	12,000
Toledo, Ohio, flour mill	10,000
Gibson, Wis., stave factory	10,000
Stevens, Wis., lumber mill	10,000
Carroll Iowa, creamery building	10,000
Reading, Mass., rubber factory	20,000

GENERAL.

THE St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railway Company has been notified by the Collector of Customs at Winnipeg that no hogs could be imported from the United States into that Province, the inspection showed that the shipment of hogs into Manitoba, as well as the crossing of under-ventilated cattle, being for the immediate slaughter of 1 and 2 days entered. Under such regulations a thousand miles of cattle suffering from pleuro-pneumonia, the afflicted animals being first selected, then killed, and the carcasses secretly conveyed to New York and Brooklyn and sold for food. Since the suspension and reopening of the Metropolitan Bank of New York deposits have been diminished $9,000,000. Thomas W. Evans, Cornelius H. Thompson, and John R. Dickson, bank officials of New York, have been held for trial for overcertification of checks.

ODE D. TOLE, said to be a scion of "one of the best and noblest French families," tried to commit suicide in a New York hotel by drinking water in which he had steeped the heads of matches. He did not succeed, and is recovering. Hiram Sibley has given Cornell University $80,000 for an additional building. At a meeting of the barbed-wire manufacturers of the West and Northwest held in Chicago it was resolved to close the factories during the months of July and August.

THE true inwardness of the Penn Bank collapse at Pittsburgh reaches the public in interesting slices. President Biddle has filed a confession of judgment in favor of the wreck for $22,775. The overdrafts of $350,000 reported previously have been swelled to $1,200,000, and it is expected that the liabilities will reach $2,000,000. The officers of the concern are charged with desperate speculation in oil ever since the Cherry Grove district was opened.

THE WEST.

WHEN the New York express from Chicago reached Jackson, Mich., the other night, three men informed the passengers in the rear coach that they must leave into the next car; and as the travelers passed out on the platform they were relieved of all their valuables by the men. The robbery was so skillfully effected that the train moved off before the amazed visitors could give an alarm. Daniel McCauley, an 18-year-old youth, who was born in Rhode Island, was sentenced in a Dubuque Court at Dubuque, Iowa, in reply to questions he said he did not know the nature of an oath, had never been to a Sunday-school, could not read or write, had never heard of God, and believed that Andrew Jackson was President of the United States. A 65-year-old girl, the daughter of William Dyke, living near Hillsdale, Mich., was murdered near that place. David Stone, a half-witted uncle of the girl, was arrested for the crime. A new species of worm is said to be ravaging the cornfields of Marion County, Illinois. It is about an inch long, of yellowish color, and of the diameter of a pin. Reports of the condition of the grain crops in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, and Dakota continue to be very favorable. The Methodist Diocese of the P. E. Church elected Dr. Worthington, of Detroit, Mich., Bishop, on successor to Dr. Harris.

A HORRIFYING tragedy was enacted at St. Louis. At an early hour in the morning Mrs. Alexander Edmund entered her husband's room, where she procured a razor, and, assisting to her own aid, deliberately cut the throats of her 3-months-old baby and 4-year-old daughter. Passing to another room she tried to cut the throat of a third child, a 6-year-old girl. The scream of the child awakened the woman's husband. While he was dressing the wounds of his child his wife attempted to cut her own throat, inflicting a dangerous and probably fatal wound. Mrs Edmund was no doubt insane when she committed the terrible deeds. She had been an inmate of a lunatic asylum, but it was thought that she had been permanently cured.

George Anderson, an aged farmer of Bowling Green, Ohio, was beaten to death with a hickory cane by his insane wife, who has twice been confined in an asylum.

Jack Hinkle has been convicted of prize-fighting in Saunders County, Neb., and will serve a term in the penitentiary.

The State Veterinary Surgeon of Kansas, after a protracted tour, reports sheep-raising among horses in fifteen counties.

THREE loiters in the cash factory of Carr, Ryder & Wheeler, at Dubuque exploded the other day, killing five persons and seriously wounding three others. The engineer is said to have been running with half steam.

STRONG'S Bank of Green Bay, Wis., with a capital of $50,000, has failed. Henry Strong is President. Heavy withdrawals on account of recent failures led to the crash. It is stated that depositors will get 75 cents on the dollar. Jacob Sommers, of Chicago, has been sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary for a vain attempt to reduce to criminal habits a German girl of 16 years, named Teresa Rohde.

TWO MASKED men, armed with blackjacks, halted the Fort Benton coach twenty-five miles from Helena, robbed the passengers, and fired at the mail bags.

IT is charged at Yankton, Dakota, that the United States Marshal has "fixed" a jury

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

PITTSBURG dispatch: Notice was posted on the doors of the Penn Bank at noon today, owing to a sudden illness of President Biddle, who had taken an overdose of a narcotic to allay pain, the bank had again suspended. It is stated that the report by the Clearing House of checks aggregating $265,000 brought about the crisis. The news caused excitement, and rumors of all kinds are circulated. James H. Fisk, President of the wrecked Marine National Bank of New York, pleaded not guilty to the charge of misapplying funds, and was released on $30,000 bail.

FRED D. GRANT, in his assignment papers, which he filed in New York, shows liabilities of $2,215,000 and nominal assets of $1,799,013. Jesse R. Grant has debts of $96,429 and assets of $131,959. Mrs. Gen. Grant has sold her Washington house to John R. McLean for $6,500. Gen. Grant has mortgaged W. H. Vanderbilt an individual share of 1-8 ownership in the stables in Fifteenth, Long Island, are amulets of cattle suffering from pleuro-pneumonia, the afflicted animals being first selected, then killed, and the carcasses secretly conveyed to New York and Brooklyn and sold for food. Since the suspension and reopening of the Metropolitan Bank of New York deposits have been diminished $9,000,000. Thomas W. Evans, Cornelius H. Thompson, and John R. Dickson, bank officials of New York, have been held for trial for overcertification of checks.

ODE D. TOLE, said to be a scion of "one of the best and noblest French families," tried to commit suicide in a New York hotel by drinking water in which he had steeped the heads of matches. He did not succeed, and is recovering. Hiram Sibley has given Cornell University $80,000 for an additional building. At a meeting of the barbed-wire manufacturers of the West and Northwest held in Chicago it was resolved to close the factories during the months of July and August.

THE true inwardness of the Penn Bank collapse at Pittsburgh reaches the public in interesting slices. President Biddle has filed a confession of judgment in favor of the wreck for $22,775. The overdrafts of $350,000 reported previously have been swelled to $1,200,000, and it is expected that the liabilities will reach $2,000,000. The officers of the concern are charged with desperate speculation in oil ever since the Cherry Grove district was opened.

THE WEST.

WHEN the New York express from Chicago reached Jackson, Mich., the other night, three men informed the passengers in the rear coach that they must leave into the next car; and as the travelers passed out on the platform they were relieved of all their valuables by the men. The robbery was so skillfully effected that the train moved off before the amazed visitors could give an alarm. Daniel McCauley, an 18-year-old youth, who was born in Rhode Island, was sentenced in a Dubuque Court at Dubuque, Iowa, in reply to questions he said he did not know the nature of an oath, had never been to a Sunday-school, could not read or write, had never heard of God, and believed that Andrew Jackson was President of the United States. A 65-year-old girl, the daughter of William Dyke, living near Hillsdale, Mich., was murdered near that place. David Stone, a half-witted uncle of the girl, was arrested for the crime. A new species of worm is said to be ravaging the cornfields of Marion County, Illinois. It is about an inch long, of yellowish color, and of the diameter of a pin. Reports of the condition of the grain crops in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, and Dakota continue to be very favorable. The Methodist Diocese of the P. E. Church elected Dr. Worthington, of Detroit, Mich., Bishop, on successor to Dr. Harris.

A HORRIFYING tragedy was enacted at St. Louis. At an early hour in the morning Mrs. Alexander Edmund entered her husband's room, where she procured a razor, and, assisting to her own aid, deliberately cut the throats of her 3-months-old baby and 4-year-old daughter. Passing to another room she tried to cut the throat of a third child, a 6-year-old girl. The scream of the child awakened the woman's husband. While he was dressing the wounds of his child his wife attempted to cut her own throat, inflicting a dangerous and probably fatal wound. Mrs Edmund was no doubt insane when she committed the terrible deeds. She had been an inmate of a lunatic asylum, but it was thought that she had been permanently cured.

George Anderson, an aged farmer of Bowling Green, Ohio, was beaten to death with a hickory cane by his insane wife, who has twice been confined in an asylum.

Jack Hinkle has been convicted of prize-fighting in Saunders County, Neb., and will serve a term in the penitentiary.

The State Veterinary Surgeon of Kansas, after a protracted tour, reports sheep-raising among horses in fifteen counties.

THREE loiters in the cash factory of Carr, Ryder & Wheeler, at Dubuque exploded the other day, killing five persons and seriously wounding three others. The engineer is said to have been running with half steam.

STRONG'S Bank of Green Bay, Wis., with a capital of $50,000, has failed. Henry Strong is President. Heavy withdrawals on account of recent failures led to the crash. It is stated that depositors will get 75 cents on the dollar. Jacob Sommers, of Chicago, has been sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary for a vain attempt to reduce to criminal habits a German girl of 16 years, named Teresa Rohde.

TWO MASKED men, armed with blackjacks, halted the Fort Benton coach twenty-five miles from Helena, robbed the passengers, and fired at the mail bags.

IT is charged at Yankton, Dakota, that the United States Marshal has "fixed" a jury

ADDITIONAL NEWS.

GEORGE MONTEIGH, son of one of the leaders of the celebrated Boston "ten party," died in the Massachusetts capital in his 89th year.

GEN. BENJAMIN F. BUTLER, of Massachusetts, was nominated for President by the National Greenback Convention at Indianapolis. Judge West, of Mississippi, was nominated for Vice President. The Massachusetts Democratic Convention met at St. Paul and elected delegates to Chicago, while not instructed, those chosen are in favor of Tilden.

SEVERAL individuals met at Sharpsburg, Ky., assured themselves by shooting at bottled lamps in a grocery store. One of the lamps exploded and scattered the burning. The flames spread rapidly, and nearly all the principal business place of the town were destroyed. The total loss is placed at $100,000.

SIR BARTLE FRERE, well known in connection with British South African politics, died in London after a protracted illness. He took a conspicuous part in connection with the Zoor and Zulu difficulties of Zululand, in the same region.

WESLEY JOHNSON was hanged at Napoleon, Ohio, for the murder of George W. Williams and his wife near that place the 23d of October, 1881.

THE wreck of the Lord Hill turned of the South Pennsylvania Railroad, near Somerset, Pa., caused the death of one person, eight men, and seriously crushing the others. The Lord Hill, of the Penn Mail, of Pittsburgh, after making a clear confession of judgment for $22,775 has gone to the country where the convern closed has been closed, leaving behind it debts and assets in a considerable amount.

A MAYFAIR feud in several of the Western States damaged cars consolidated, and fruit and garden truck were severely injured.

THE Union Deposit Bank at Greensburg, Pa., has closed its doors. It is owned by David Trubisam, who is absent, and John Walker, meeting at all hours and in all places, is believed to be in excess of deposits. Capt. J. E. Jones, of the Twelfth United States Infantry, was drowned while attempting to cross to the Canada side from Fort Niagara.

THE French Government has resolved to celebrate the centenary of the French revolution of 1789. An international exhibition will be held in Paris. Emperor William appears to be much struck at the conspiracy late between Italian Tory and Papal Nuncio, and Prince Bismarck is said to have introduced in Reichstag a bill which, if it passes the Lower House of Prussian Parliament, will be rejected by the Upper House, the

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and honorary delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 4th day of July, and to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at Whitney's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 16th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past political affiliations, and all persons who can unite with us in an effort for a return of honest and a prudent, economical administration of government, and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to said state convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each one hundred votes cast for governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of and less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to all legal ballot-boxes, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

H. F. PENNINGTON, Secretary. O. M. BARKER, Chairman.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Democratic County Convention.

A Democratic County Convention for the purpose of electing two delegates to the State Convention, and to reorganize the County Committee, will be held at

BATEMAN'S OPERA HOUSE, CHARLEVOIX, ON THURSDAY, JUNE 12TH, 1884,

at 2 o'clock p. m. A full attendance is desired.

J. MILO EATON,
Chairman Democratic County Committee.

The various townships are entitled to delegates as follows:

	Vote for Gov. 1882.	No. Delegates.
Bear Lake	26	1
Boyne Valley	5	1
Charlevoix	59	1
Charlevoix	203	10
Evangeline	131	7
Eveline	198	7
Hayes	93	5
Hudson	52	3
Marion	22	2
Melrose	41	2
Norwood	36	2
Resort	29	2
South Arm	145	7
Springvale	11	2
Wilson	58	2

A meeting of the county committee of the Greenback party, of Charlevoix county will be held at the office of Crooksbank & Grier, in the village of Charlevoix, on Saturday, June 14, 1884, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of organizing throughout the county, and for the transaction of other important business in the interests of BUTLER AND REFORM.

By order of executive committee.

E. H. SHEPARD, Secretary.

From Chicago.

Through the courtesy of the senior editor of the Sentinel, we are permitted to make the following abstracts of telegrams to that paper from its representative in Chicago, but received too late for use this week:

General Sherman has telegraphed that he will not accept the nomination, nor serve if elected.

A resolution binding all delegates to support the nominee of the convention created a warm discussion.

J. B. Henderson, of Missouri, was made permanent chairman.

The Times predicts that Arthur will have 298 and Blaine 304 on first ballot, but that neither will be nominated.

Convention met at 7 o'clock last evening. The committee on credentials not being ready to report, adjourned till 10 o'clock to-day.

By telephone from Petoskey:

Convention called to order at 10.50.

Committee on credentials reported at 11.07.

Committee on resolutions reported at 1.23. Protection plank cheered heartily; anti-polygamy also.

States called for national committee at 1.45.

Platform read at 1.50 amid tremendous cheers.

Notes and News.

Some of our republican friends are shouting themselves hoarse for the "old ticket." They seem to realize that republican success depends on the third ticket, and are anxious to create a public sentiment in that direction. Ben. Butler has been nominated by a party with a complete organization in nearly every state in the union, and is a candidate of no mean proportions. Good men in this town, staunch republicans and democrats, have said they would vote for Butler if it was the last vote they could ever cast. Republicans want to vote for him because he more nearly represents the original type of republicanism than any other. Democrats want to vote for him on account of his record as a reformer during the past few years; because he represents today the policy and principles advocated by the mass of working people of this whole country; and because he is his own dictator, not submitting to the rule of any faction or clique. If the democrats ratify his nomination, he can be elected by a handsome majority. If a third ticket is placed in nomination, it calls for the hardest work ever done by the democratic party, with the odds largely in favor of republican success. Is it not then the policy of wisdom to break the ring with Butler, leaving minor differences in the party for future settlement?

In the congressional elections of 1882 the democracy cast 4,187,397 votes; the republicans 3,605,427; the greenbackers and all others 324,855. The democracy had, therefore, a majority over all on the popular vote of 257,115. With the growth of the tariff reform sentiment the democracy on that issue is stronger than it was two years ago. If that issue is abandoned, or even if it is neglected, the vote will fall behind that of two years ago. Policy, therefore, points in the same direction as principle to a fearless presentation of the tariff reform issue and a vigorous prosecution of the canvass upon that issue.—Free Press.

Big Rapids contemplates a street railway and an electric light, and sights for pure water.

The Detroit Evening News came out Monday evening with a new dress.

One of our local citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Cosmer.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and loss up the spring system with Hall Parmelee's Condition Powders one cent. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. E. Weed & Co. A-60

Clothers.

And the milder forms of bowel difficulty, dysentery, diarrhœa, &c., all come from a disordered digestion attended with pain in the stomach, cramps, chills, &c. Be wise and ward off these attacks by taking Hamilton's Jamaica Ginger Tonic and Pain Cure, which is a sure remedy. Never known to fail to give immediate relief. As an outward application in rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, sprains, strains, lame back and side, it cannot be beaten. Price 25 and 50 cents. Sold by O. E. Weed & Co.

W. F. ORRELL,
HOUSE DECORATOR,
Charlevoix, Mich.
PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.
ARTISTIC PAPER-HANGING.
Finishing Hardwood a Specialty

C. W. SMITH,
ELECTRO-PLATER,
Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.
Electroplating in Gold and Silver. Any article of Jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order. 29

For You
NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.
THE ILLUSTRATED
BIOGRAPHICAL
1884. ANNUAL. 1884.
PRICE ONE DOLLAR.
It contains something for everybody. Its pages nurture and instruct young and old. It is as serviceable to the Doctor, the Clergyman, the Lawyer, the Merchant, the Mechanic, the Farmer, the Student, the Housekeeper, the Mechanic, and to the School Boy who longs to lay the foundation of an honest character and seeks for models to imitate after.
THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.
Within its pages may be found nearly
200 PORTRAITS, MEN AND WOMEN who have exercised and are still exerting potent influence on various directions.
While preeminently an American publication, bearing admirably of EMINENT AMERICANS, it combines the portraits and lives of the most PROMINENT EUROPEANS of the day.
Its pages familiarize the reader with the features and the lives of prominent Crowned and Uncrowned Rulers, Members of the Aristocracy, Statesmen, Orators, Soldiers, Clergymen, Ministers, Railroad Magnates, Artists, Editors, Historians, Philosophers, Poets, Authors, Actors, Actresses, Author-Actresses, Jurists, Philanthropists, Orators, Bishops, and others in all the various walks of life, INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES,
AMONG WHOM, WE MAY MENTION BLAINE, ARTHUR, SCHOFIELD, HAYARD, MORRILL, FLOWER, EDMUNDS, LOGAN, SHIRS, BOUTWELL, BURNSIDE, HANCOCK, BUTLER, HOLMAN, HENDRICKS, TILDEN AND BUCKNER.
EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.
Catholic and Protestant, Worker, Philanthropist, Conservative, Liberal, Skeptic, Believer, Orthodox, Heterodox, Rich and Poor, Learned and Unlearned, Young and Old, Male and Female, will find in THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL a familiar face the owners of which have endeared themselves to thousands of their fellow-men. The Rivers the PROMINENT WOMEN which occupy an honorable prominence, whether in the walks of benevolence and charity, uplifting and will and encouraging and fostering, or in literature, or in the fine arts, or in the business life, or in a noble mission and that each well and ably fulfills it.
Hence will interest acquainted with the faces and history of the men and women whose names have become familiar to everybody, get a copy of THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL.
BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL
Sent postpaid on receipt of ONE DOLLAR.
L. KLOPSCH & CO., Publishers,
92 White Street, New York.

Deposits of FIVE CENTS AND UPWARDS received. Pay Interest at the rate of Four Per Cent. We hold large deposits in this department. Prepaid Bonds for sale, payable at 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 years. Gold by the yard. Interest allowed on deposits. Safe Deposit Boxes for rent. Money to loan on approved security. We do not speculate; holding that with our own money it is foolish, and with that of our depositors it is foolish, and worse than foolish, to speculate.
SAVINGS BANK OF DETROIT. BANK OF DETROIT.

McCABE'S
Livery and Hack Line
DRAYING TO ORDER.
Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.
BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES
AT
McCabe's Livery Barn,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.
Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.
SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMAW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.
☞ The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 43

JOHN NICHOLLS,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and Dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

G. W. JEFFERIES,
Dealer in
Fresh and Cured Meat
Fresh and Salt Fish,
AND VEGETABLES.
Fat Stock and Farm Produce Wanted.
West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

NEW STORE,
M. V. DYER,
PROPRIETOR.
ADVANCE, MICH.
A FULL LINE OF
Groceries, Provisions,
And Fancy Dry Goods.
Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the
Lowest Cash Price,
For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and
Examine Our Prices.
We guarantee satisfaction.
J. P. DYER, Agent.

Grand Rapids Democrat,
DAILY AND WEEKLY.
Office: 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.
TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:
Daily Democrat—By mail, $8.00 per year in advance, postage paid.
Weekly Democrat—$1.50 per year; 75 cents for six months; 40 cents for three months—invariably in advance. Address,
THE DEMOCRAT,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.
Have just received a fine stock of
Ladies' French Kid Shoes,
Made in the Latest Styles.
Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,
A Large Stock always on hand.
Men's Fine Walking Shoes,
LATEST STYLES.

GILBERT & MOULTON,
EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.
House, Sign, and Fresco Painting,
GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,
Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.
The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,
South Arm, Mich.
GENERAL MERCHANDISE
A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.
Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,
AT LOW PRICES.
PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.
Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

EVERYTHING
IN THE LINE OF
Furniture and Undertakers' Goods
CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF
HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.
CHEAP FOR CASH.
Come and See Me Before Buying.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES
—IN—
All-Wool Goods,
Overcoats and Suitings,
Boots and Shoes.
I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at actual cost, as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant
First-Class,
And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. Remember, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are
Big Bargains.
E. M. Clark.
Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

Provision Market.

Retail prices to consumers, as corrected every Saturday evening by UPRIGHT, EMREY & CO., general dealers:

FLOUR, per bbl, $4.00, $5.50, and $7.00.
FEED, per cwt, bulked $2.00; unbulked, $2.05.
CORN MEAL, per cwt, bulked $2.00; unbulked, $2.05.
WHEAT, per lb, $0.[illegible].
OATS, per bu, 50c.
POTATOES, per cwt, $1.00@1.00.
APPLES, per bu, $1.00.
ONIONS, per bu, 50c.
BUTTER, per lb, 25c.
EGGS, per doz, 16c.
LARD, per lb, 08@10c.
HAM, per lb, smokers, 12c.
SALT PORK, per lb, 10@12c.
SALT FISH, per lb, 10@12c.
MACKEREL, per lb, 10c.
CHEESE, 10c.
WHITE WATER OIL, 25c.
FARMERS' PRODUCE in good demand.

Fresh Meats from the Market.

CORRECTED BY G. W. JEFFERIES.

STEAK, best cuts, 12@15c; fresh pork, 12c; roast pork, 10@12c; sausage, 10c; hams, 14c; gammon, 10c; tallow, 06@07c.

Local News Brevities.

Will Charlevoix celebrate?

The bark trade has begun.

W. H. Hurlbut is planking his dock this week.

☞ L. M. Clark sells a good fine boot for $2.50.

☞ Canned goods at wholesale prices at E. M. Clark's.

Mrs. O. R. Weed is recovering from her recent illness.

☞ E. M. Clark sells a good calf rear boot for $4.

The new roller rink is advertised to be opened to night.

The Saginaw Valley was in port again last Thursday.

Capt. A. Roddy, of Beaver Island, was in town Tuesday.

The Clara Belle took a large party to Elk Rapids last Sunday.

W. E. Orrell arrived home on the Lawrence Sunday afternoon.

☞ Note our market changes this week. Upright, Emrey & Co.

☞ A fresh lot of Warren cigars just received, at the palace barber shop.

☞ The best and cheapest line of Kentucky Jeans in Charlevoix at E. M. Clark's.

Geo. O. Taylor is at Chicago this week, in attendance at the republican convention.

F. J. Mesch will have a fine lot of strawberries on his Norwood garden this season.

Next Sunday is "Children's day" and both churches will give appropriate services.

☞ Hats at the Hub House of Upright Emrey & Co., are warranted to give satisfaction.

Boise Bros. mill at Bay Springs turned last Saturday night. Total loss, no insurance.

The Norwood M. E. church is being enclosed, and workmen are engaged in the same this week.

☞ L. D. Bartholomew has the only original and genuine implement house.—Beware of imitators.

F. J. Mesch loaded the schooner Gangos with 203,000 feet of hard-wood lumber at Norwood this week.

Wines are strong for a dozen or more phones here, with the central office at Dr. Cromer's drug store.

The tug Kitty Smoke returned to Muskegon last week, not finding hardwood sufficient here to make it pay.

☞ Upright, Emrey & Co., have a full line of nails, doors, lath and shingles, which they are offering at bottom prices.

☞ Mr. Blanchard has invented a clamp; 200,000 in general use is proof of its merits. For sale at L. D. Bartholomew's.

Hiram Blakely and John Keith, of Eastport, and John B. Taylor, of Horton's Bay, were among our callers on memorial day.

M. J. Stockman and wife, and Ed. Turnelee went to Chicago on the Champion to be present at the republican convention.

☞ Farmers can save Money by buying implements of L. D. Bartholomew. Good mowing machines only $55. Reapers $95.

Rev. J. T. Iddings will preach at Horton's Bay next Friday evening. He will also preach at Ironton, next Monday evening, June 9th.

J. A. Bacot has partially recovered from his long siege of sickness, and one day this week rode to Boyne and back on the Wright.

While the school children were in line in front of the opera house last Friday, Mr. John Anderson took a photograph of them.

Rev. W. R. Stuchcomb, presiding elder, occupied the M. E. pulpit last Sunday evening. He also preached at Barnard Monday evening.

It has been suggested that a company of guards or cadets would be an attraction to numerous young men of Charlevoix. Who will organize one?

Children's day will be observed at the Opera house with appropriate exercises. Flowers and birds will be important features of the decorations.

☞ A new line of prints, cottons, ginghams, hosiery, sackings, cloakings, &c. Call and satisfy yourself as to quality, prices, etc. Upright, Emrey & Co.'s.

The Grand Traverse Herald has been enlarged to an eight column quarto, and now claims to be the largest weekly newspaper in Michigan. It is a good paper and deserves its success.

Children, flowers, and birds, will be conspicuous at the M. E. church next Sunday. Recitations at the morning service by members of the school. At night the usual Sabbath school concert.

Harry Webber's "Nip and Tuck" is announced for one entertainment at the opera house, Tuesday evening, June 10th. The state press are almost unanimous in praise of this troupe.

The Elk Rapids iron company have made necessary changes in machinery for the purpose of utilizing sawdust from their saw mill, which will also improve the fishing by keeping saw dust out of the water.

The recent frost so much complained of over the state generally, has not so far as we can learn done very much injury around here. A few strawberry blossoms were blasted and that is about all.

If you have the blues, feel bad anywhere, and want something to arouse your circulation, go and see Nip and Tuck. Cure will leave your soul like a cat going under a barn after a rat. —Cleveland Herald.

At Vanderbilt the Social Club took hold of the fourth of July business, and mean to pitch it to success. What society will take the initiative and push the matter here, soliciting the necessary aid of the citizens.

Mrs. L. E. Allen, and Miss Annie Cooper went as delegates from the W. C. T. U. of Charlevoix, to attend the annual state convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union to be held in Flint, Mich., June 3, 4, 5, and 6.

The clarion for the head of the procession was in form of a pyramid decorated profusely with wreaths and bouquets to be used at the cemetery. The beauty of the display was due largely to the effective arrangement by J. Milo Eaton.

The Clara Belle will give an excursion to Petoskey next Saturday, leaving Charlevoix at 8 o'clock, a. m., for the accommodation of those desiring to attend the circus at that place, returning after the performance. Round trip tickets 50 cts.

A. J. McLeod received another drove of live stock, for his wholesale meat trade, on the Lawrence Sunday. To all appearances he is making a success of it. Nearly every morning the Gazelle carries one or more carcases for the up-take trade.

H. B. Chapman's "Tourist's House," at Bay Springs, will probably be opened to the public on Wednesday, June 25th. Arrangements are being made to celebrate the event with speeches, and a ball, particulars of which will be announced later on.

Capt. A. Roddy came over from Beaver Island on his schooner, the Six brothers, last Saturday, calling at Cross Village. From that place Capt. Wagaly came with him, with power of an attorney from his son John, to transfer the schooner Tom Paine to Capt. Roddy, and has given bill of sale at the office of E. H. Green. The Six Brothers will be put in the fish business at the Island, and the Tom Paine in the post and tie business between Beaver Island and Milwaukee. The captain returned home yesterday.

We have printed for Prof. M. L. Smith this week a number of large charts of musical instruction.—filling a sheet of card board 14x22 inches with solid type.—which accounts for eight pages instead of ten. We will try, however, to balance the accounts next week.

If Charlevoix intends to celebrate the fourth, something ought to be done about it pretty soon. A meeting should be called, committees appointed, and arrangements made in time to give a chance for thorough work, and make the day a successful as memorial day was.

Mr. L. D. Porter, late of St. Joseph county, who recently purchased R. A. Miller's farm south-west of Charlevoix is about to convert it into a dairy farm on a small scale, and will thus be enabled to supply our citizens with fresh butter. We wish him success in the venture.

☞ F. H. Lester agent for the McIntyre & Goodsell Pump Manufacturing Co., is stopping at the Fountain City House. Persons desiring to purchase pumps or organs, or wishing to have their instruments tuned or repaired will receive prompt attention. Orders may be left at Cooper's furniture store.

Some of these dusty days are a reminder that a street sprinkler would be a valuable addition to the business of Bridge street, and there is no doubt the merchants would respond liberally if some of our teamsters should act in the matter, and take a weekly contribution to pay for man and team.

Harry Webber's Nip and Tuck combination gave an excellent performance at the Opera House on Wednesday night. There is not a stick in the company, and Carrie Webber, the child actress, drew rounds of applause; she is the greatest marvel for a little body, in face, tone, and gesture, we have ever seen.—Lansing Republican.

The M. W. Wright will give an excursion from Boyne to Petoskey next Saturday, leaving Boyne at 8 o'clock and Charlevoix at 10 o'clock, remaining in Petoskey until 8 o'clock Sunday morning, thus giving a chance to attend both afternoon and evening performance of the circus. Round trip tickets: Boyne 75 cts; Charlevoix 50 cts.

L. G. Evans has established a boat line between Eastport and Elk Rapids, and for the present will discontinue his express line to Charlevoix. His old friends, however, will be provided transportation at any time desired, for he will keep his outfit in good shape, and next fall, after navigation closes, will resume his regular trips to Charlevoix.

From the opening of navigation to June 1st the bridge over Pine river has been opened for 310 passages of large craft, not including fish boats and small pleasure boats. Forty-eight of these passed in April, and the balance in May an average of 8½ a day for the month. For the month of June Mr. Evans says he will keep a record of openings for every kind of craft.

John Keith, of Central Lake, and John B. Taylor, of Horton's Bay, for merly of Walsterville, Ingham county, two old veterans who are, by the way, also veterans of the Mexican war, frequently fighting in the same battles, met by chance last Friday for the first time, to become acquainted. Thus do these reunions bring together and make friends of men who would never know each other in any other capacity.

Among Our Patrons.

Last Tuesday afternoon we took a ride into the country towards Norwood, to interview some of our farmer friends, and see what the country is and what is being done towards its development. Although we stopped at various places along the route, the first to receive attention this week will be the farm of H. H. Vanneman.

This gentleman came to Charlevoix county sixteen years ago, from St. Lawrence county, New York, and purchased 740 acres of land. He has sold 200 acres, leaving 480 still in his possession. Of this, about 60 acres are improved, and have been brought under as light a state of cultivation as many of the older settled portions of southern Michigan. He has something over 100 fruit trees in good bearing condition, which just now are blossomed full. A small creek runs through the farm in such a manner as to give a living stream to every quarter section, fitting it admirably for a stock farm. In fact this was Mr. V.'s original intention, but has not been carried out. The soil is a heavy loam, and the crops this spring are in good condition, promising a rich harvest. The buildings are large and comfortable. Adjoining the residence is a large shop and wood house, with a frame 1st, 22x42, above, showing that some time in the past the old gent has been light-footed as well as light hearted. Of outbuildings, he has a horse barn, a hay barn, and two log barns. Of stock he has one team of horses, 12 head of cattle, and 11 hogs.

Although 78 years old, and for ten years past gradually declining, he is still able to, and does this spring, go into the field with the men and work nearly all day. This wonderful activity he attributes to having led a strictly temperate life in all things, husbanding his strength and resources of health. Last March he was sick unto death, and only waited for the final dissolution of body and soul. He recovered, and claims now to feel quarter than any time during the past ten years.

At the age of 19 he joined a church (did not name the denomination) and has not changed either religion or politics since. (He is now an uncompromising democrat, and will be as long as he lives.) Though not an active member of a church, he is a frequent contributor, the Charlevoix Congregational society having recently received a pledge of $100. He is a Royal Arch Mason, and says: "That, properly lived, is religion enough for me." He has held the office of justice of the peace in his township eight years.

Though he has reached the age when death may come quickly, he may see a number of years of active service as a reward for his temperate life, and an abundance of property to show for his activity in business.

Other notes of our trip must be reserved for a future article.

GIRL WANTED.
One that is handy with the needle, to work at dressmaking. Apply to Mrs. McLean, on Clinton street.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, county of Charlevoix, ss.—Notice is hereby given, that in an order of the Probate Court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the fourteenth day of May, A. D., 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of John Weed, late of said county, deceased, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate Court at the Probate office in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and allowance, on or before the third day of November next, and that the Monday, the 3rd day of November next, and the Monday, the 3rd day of August, next, are appointed the days of hearing claims, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days.

Dated May 23, A. D. 1884.

☞ JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

J. L. HURD & CO.
Offer a full and fresh line of
DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, &C.
At Very Low Prices.
Headquarters for
Groceries and Provisions.
Call for the Belding Flour.
Sole Agency for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

Electric Light
In the form of a FAIR, now located in Charlevoix. This light saved down high prices on kitchen utensils, tinful ware, crockery, glassware, tinware, hosiery, kerchiefs, handkerchiefs, corset sets, ladies' hose, gents' hose, ladies' kick, hand mittens, hand pillows, hammocks, carpet sweepers, ladies' aprons, ladies' sacks, ladies' sunbonnets, sun umbrellas, stand straps, cornsilk, jumpers, and fresh comfort energy.
A good leaf rack 10c, dust pan 11c, scrub brush 10c, whisk broom 5c, hand mirror 5c, spectacles 5c, suspenders 12c, ladies' hose 12c, gents' hose 10c, standard alcohol 10c, ladies' kid gloves 25c, gents' kid gloves 25c, ladies' ribbed vests 25c, and a multitude of other household articles too numerous to note, all of never before heard of prices at
THE FAIR,
J. J. Kanagy & Son,
46 CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix, ss.—At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, on the twelfth day of May in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Keat, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of

BENJAMIN WALKER, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Merlin Walker, praying that a certain instrument now on file in this court, purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, may be admitted to probate, and that a time and place be appointed for proving said will, and for the appointment of said executor be granted to Reuben Walker or some other suitable person. Thereupon it is ordered that Wednesday, the twenty sixth day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the several persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal a newspaper published and circulated in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES A. KEAT,
(A true copy.) Judge of Probate.

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix, ss.—At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, on the twelfth day of May in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Keat, Judge of probate. In the matter of the estate of CHARLOTTE HOOVER, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Moses Lowden, praying among other things that an administrator might be appointed for said estate. Thereupon it is ordered that Wednesday, the twenty sixth day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the several heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the several persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal a newspaper published and circulated in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES A. KEAT,
(A true copy.) Judge of Probate.

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. E. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

OLD NEWSPAPERS FOR SALE

HEADQUARTERS
FOR Plows, Harrows,
Horse Rakes,
And everything in the Agricultural Implement line.
Examine and be Convinced:
The No. 10 Champion Plow, "Best in the World." The Gale Plow. The Oliver Chilled Plow. The Gale Horse Rake. The Albion Mfg. Co.'s New Horse Rake. The Osborne No. 7 Mower, light and strong. The Buchanan Wagon.
IN HARDWARE
We do not imitate; we lead. We positively guarantee our GOODS and PRICES. We ask kindly for our proportion of your patronage.
May 22, 1884. STOCKMAN & IDDINGS.

THE LAST KISS.

An Incident of the Wreck of the City of Columbus.

BY CHARLES W. BURNER.

"Among the confused mass who were struggling for life, there was one, who, notwithstanding all men and his self, at the conclusion of the scene, displayed what that of a hero. The panic which had seized the others was not seized by them, but their blanched faces told that they realized the peril which surrounded them. The only movement of any one was that of a young gentleman and his child as stood on the deck, clasped in each other's arms, the gentleman's head resting on the shoulder of his little one, the arms of the child clasped around the neck of the father, and while the spray and water dashed over them, they seemed oblivious to the howling tempest and to the fearfulness of their situation. In the midst of the confusion, a young man and his sister, who had been separated from their parents, in the hurry of the moment, were thrown together, and the young man, Mr. Cox, gave his sister some one which will remain in his memory until his dying day."—Boston Herald.

The breakers roar, the mad winds howl,
Misery settles like icy blight;
Her shrill shriek rives by the rocks,
The doomed ship sinks at last.

With dreadful rift and thundrous shock,
Their white mouths flecked with spray,
The hungry billows leap on deck,
Like wolves upon their prey.

Against the onset of the sea,
The fury of the gale
What human hand may hope to stand?
What man, save God's, prevail?

Alas, alas! O, cruel Death,
Thus in the fearful night,
Thy minions rend their helpless victims more
Than mortal man may, O, dost

But hark! Who stand so calmly there
Upon the reeling deck,
Unmoved amid the howling throng,
The element to the wreck?

A stately form in manhood's prime,
Raven-browed and eagle eyed,
A gentleman, and a gentleman, aye! and fair,
Clasping close to his side;

Strong is the sharp steel's edging thongs,
Strong the ship's timbers, strong
Her iron ribs and sinew, and their cleeks
Are warm as dead men's lap!

It is the lodging sheet that makes
Their fear-wrought cold shiver, and their cheeks
And not the dread of death that comes
The hoarse of ocean roar!

For see how calmly, heart to heart,
Hand closely clasped in hand,
Amid the rift's resounding rifts
The wife and husband stand!

Stand as they stood long years ago,
Hand grasp and heart grasp true,
Ready to bring as sweet joy,
And be fair hand's pride.

Ah! who can know the thoughts that burned
Those brains, ere kiss have breath?
The agony in that unkissed lips
Twin lives to face with death?

A shock—a lurch—as sullen wash
The stark-like rock-fangs rip
The shattered sides, and with a roar
The wild water whelms the ship!

One brief chance of living arose,
Used to and farewell life,
And with each husband, heart to heart,
Sink in the dread abyss!

O, Death, thou hast thy victories,
O, kill, thou hast thy laurel;
Thy lows can be here—here
That shall your triumphs shame.

But never a victor died,
Yet lived his victory to see,
Thus wreck for wreck—
In this fair! Like like wish.
—Southern World.

KITTY'S COOKING EXPERIMENT.

BY M. C. FARLEY.

The band was playing the "Beautiful Blue Danube," but John was too angry to care for the music. He hurried his pretty fiancee into the conservatory, and hidden behind a tall palm which peered fiercely in her ear, "You promised me that you wouldn't dance again with that Fitz Simmonds, and I've counted three waltzes, besides a polka or two. What does this mean, Kitty?"

"I think it means that you're inclined to find fault with me, John, and to be jealous." Kitty smiled sweetly up into her companion's angry face.

"But your promise, Kitty; what of that?"

"To be sure, John, I told you I would not waltz again with Fitz Simmonds. But you know promises are like pie-crusts—made to be broken, and I couldn't help it. Fitz dances divinely."

"Yes, Simmonds is a cowardly sneak," burst out young Mason, in quick passion. "And I forbid you to dance with Jim again."

"You forbid me," repeated Kitty with withering scorn in her voice and a proud toss of her head.

"Yes. I forbid you," retorted John in a sudden heat. "I will not permit my wife to go dancing around any ball room with Fitz Simmonds' arms about her waist."

A dangerous flash shot from Mis Kitty's eyes.

"In the first place, Mr. Mason, you are ridiculously jealous. And in the second place permit me to return your ring, and to inform you that so far as I am concerned, you will never have a wife to dance around a ball-room with anybody."

John ground the tiny ring under his heel.

"Now, Kitty, ——"

But there was no Kitty. She had disappeared. Like a flash, among the throng at the open door. And ten minutes later he saw her handed to the carriage by his hated rival.

If John Mason retired to his couch that night, or rather that morning—for the hour was long enough past midnight—in an enviable frame of mind, that must have been Kitty's feelings as she sought the privacy of her own room, and meditated upon the downfall of all her former hopes. Two stray tears trickled down her dear little nose as she put up her crimps before the glass and caught a glimpse of the ring, her forefinger whereon John's diamond had so long had an abiding place.

"As if anybody could care two straws for Fitz Simmonds, the silly thing," said Kitty, crossly, getting into bed. "And John, old dear me. No girl is the worse ever had so much trouble as I."

Long enough before Kitty's blue eyes opened John Mason had packed his valise and announced to his mother that he intended to go out into the country and spend the summer at one of his places down the river, and that on no account was she to send him any messages, invitations, or anything else. He declared savagely that he hated the world. "All he asked now was to be let alone," and away he went.

* * * * * * *

It was six weeks after John Mason's begira that the great bank failure occurred in Smithville. Kitty went down to dinner one day and was stunned by the astonishing news of the failure, coupled with the intelligence that all the McCord money was sunk in the general disaster, and that now the bank had bursted the McCords—leaving the widow and her four daughters—Lindet's penny with which to bless themselves.

"What on earth is to be done," gasped Kitty, pale with astonishment and terror. "Here's Nell and Bess and little Flo, all younger than I am, and there isn't a thing we can do to earn money."

"Do!" ejaculated Mrs. McCord, "we can all starve I suppose. We can all starve in a heap together."

"What a pity that you can't teach music, Kitty," said Flo, disconsolately.

"Or if you could only paint a class in drawing," added Bess.

"Or that mamma were only a first sister and calmly exphound the mysits of the team, and finally asked her, after some skirting round the compass if she "had a steady faller?" as if she hadn't, why she might count on him for a regular "Sunday suitor" instead of only say the word."

However, they were not long in arriving at their destination, and without ceremony ate the new cook was installed in her new domain.

The first thing to be done was to prepare the supper. Kitty thought Miss Parlee was a failure when the faulty Baking lord of the Lodge returned the eggs for the fourth time before he would condescend to eat them.

"I'm glad I wouldn't make a nun," said Kitty, as, flushed and tired, she gave the obstinacious eggs the forbidden at the blaze and sent them back again by the waiter. "These eggs in the beginning were cooked a la Parlee to a time. It is worth ten dollars a week to serve such a fault-finding master as this one is."

The next morning her trials began in good earnest. The master of Brier Lodge was not only fastidious, but capricious as well, and Kitty was convinced that she was not only expected to cook the meals, but to wash the dishes and lay the table besides.

"I'll do before I'll touch those oily cooks," said the rebellious Kitty.

"And I'll report you to the master if you don't," said the old housekeeper. "Mr. Ralph's orders are that you do as I bid you."

"Very well, John," began calm, or nearly, in serious. I can't live without you any longer. I am to make up my mind to—to—to—

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 5, 1884.

A Tribute to Heroes.

The sun last Friday morning was shrouded with large banks of dreary clouds, and the softened rays shut furtively through the hazy drapery as it in sympathy with the spirit of memorial day. By ten o'clock all indications of rain disappeared and the people began to gather on the streets in crowds. Many prominent buildings were decorated with flags, most noticable being Dr. Crouter's drug store, Geo. Miller's clothing store, Rosenberg's dry goods store, and a number of others less prominent. The first arrival of importance was the North Star, with Walter Clifford post, of Boyne, which was met at the dock by Baxter post, of Charlevoix. Geo. Martin post, of Eastport, arrived soon after, and preparations began for the services.

At one o'clock the procession formed on Bridge street under the direction of Capt. H. Berdan, marshal, and Dr. J. A. Cashelon, officer of the day, in the following order.

Choir of Flowers.
Charlevoix Cornet Band
Charlevoix Schools, under the command of Col. O. D. Wilson, assisted by the various teachers.
Walter Clifford post G. A. R., of Boyne.
Geo. Martin post G. A. R., of Eastport.
Baxter post G. A. R., of Charlevoix.
Citizens.

On the line of march to the cemetery, the band discoursed appropriate music. At the cemetery the various companies formed into a hollow square, with the cenotaph in the center. The "Continental" vessels rendered an appropriate medley entitled "echoes from the old camp ground," followed by the usual services and decorations of the cenotaph. Twenty minutes were allowed for decorating individual graves, during which time Walter Clifford post paid a fitting tribute to the hero whose name they bear by strewing flowers where his remains will lie when removed from the west to this place. At the close of these services the column again formed and moved down State street to the opera house. Services opened with music by the band and a selected choir. Rev. C. P. Van Anken offered prayer, and Rev. T. J. Hill, of Boyne, delivered the address. The speaker gave a brief outline of the causes of the war, and the more important successes and defeats in its prosecution; mentioned the evident feelings of the soldiers on both sides of the lines during the struggle; discussed some of the more memorable phases of army life; outlined the most prominent results, including the origin and growth of memorial service; and referred to the fraternal spirit now exhibited by veterans of both sides in the annual reunions north and south. After the address, music was again furnished, and the services closed with a benediction by Rev. J. T. Id-dings. Opportunity was then given the veterans of Walter Clifford post to shake hands with the widow of the late Capt. Clifford.

All unite in pronouncing this the most successful memorial service ever held in this county.

A FLAG WITH A HISTORY.

Comrade John Keith, of Geo. Martin post, had the honor to carry a flag which was also a veteran. Its history before the battle of Bottom Bridge on the Chickahominy, Mr. Keith does not know, but at that engagement he saw the flag fall from the hands of a dying color sergeant, and he threw away his gun and picked up the flag, carrying it to James River. At this place the commander of the regiment took it away from him and gave it to another without even assigning Keith if he wanted or was willing to carry it. On the discharge of Keith at Rockland, Me., July 10, 1864, the adjutant general of the state returned it to him, at the same time censuring the officer who had taken it away. The flag has four scars, but is otherwise in good condition. It has been in Mr. K.'s possession 20 years, and will probably be treasured as a heirloom by the generations to come.

CONTINENTAL VOCALISTS.

A fitting close to a day of unpleasant memories—an incident to restore one to the normal activities of the present.—was the concert given by this troupe under the auspices of Baxter post at the opera house in the evening. All the praise previously published was fully sustained, and more too. Minnie Field, as a comedian, is a whole entertainment, and kept the audience in a roar of laughter. The other features of the entertainment were equally good. The house was crowded, and netted the grand army treasury $20.

Ironton.

Mrs. Hardy has the best garden in town.

Came to the house of C. H. Webster, one day last week—an eight pound boy.

Olin Hammond, son of Henry Hammond, has resigned his position in the company's store. A Mr. Smith takes his place.

J. G. Peterson, of this place, has his store finished and is waiting to receive $3,000 worth of goods, which will arrive here this week.

The steam barge John Otis made four trips from Point St. Ignace to this port last week with ore, carrying 470 tons each time.

The furnace made 52 tons of iron on Friday last, gross weight. She intends to make 65 tons per day, mid the hammer furnace of the state.

Services will be held at the school house Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, by Rev. C. F. Van Anken, and Rev. Mr. May will preach in the evening.

The father of Mr. George Jones, who has been visiting with his son for the past few weeks, has returned home to his family, in Richmond, Va.

The Seth Melvina canoe in last night for the purpose of hoaling with wood up the river. She has hitherto been carrying iron to Chicago for the Pine Lake Iron Co.

A fearful row took place at the store of the Pine Lake Iron Co., on Thursday of last week. C. W. Lowder, a Kentuckian, got drunk at one of the saloons and went to the store, and took possession of it. Help was procured at the furnace and he was knocked out, and knocked after he was out, and when the whisky was knocked out of him, he was a fearful sight for others to look at. He has left the country.

Queen of the Lakes.

This side wheel steamer from the inland lakes between Elk Rapids and Torch Lake, was in port last Thursday for inspection and transfer to her new proprietors, who will put her on a line on Lake Superior, near Duluth. She is built for the excursion business, and has accommodations for a large number of passengers. Of light draft, she is well adapted to inland lakes and rivers. During the resort season she would be an excellent boat for the Pine lake region.

Save Your Rags.

Messrs. Wilkinson & Shepard, "rag peddlers," have established their headquarters at this place, and will do their shipping of rags from here the balance of this season. With two wagons they have bought twenty-five tons of rags since March 1st, and will immediately add four more wagons, expecting to increase the business in proportion.

Political Politeness.

When a man runs for office, he makes many new acquaintances, many of whom he finds it very desirable to forget.

The intimate friends he makes are principally of the debtor class.

They are unselfish citizens, and realizing how much better and more comfortable it is to belong to the creditor, rather than the debtor class, it is their aim in life to place all their acquaintances on the creditor list.

They did that with me, for which, of course, I now, and doubtless always shall be, greatly obliged to them.

By deceitful flatteries they lead the unsuspecting victim on to defeat and eternal ruin.

It is because of them that the life of a candidate is so full of impending perils, no burdening with crushing responsibilities.

Running for office signifies squandered means, wasted time, bummer associations, bummer bacals, and a general breaking down of all moral sense. Fortunate, indeed, is it for him who is tainted with the disease, if his first experience is sufficiently severe to cure him for ever after, and generally more fortunate for the people.

But the malady when once fixed in the system is incurable.

The chronic office-seeker can find no relief for his disease; on all street corners, in all sample rooms, at every free lunch counter, you may find them, wan looking, hungry-eyed men they are, discussing in solemn fashion, profound questions of finance.

Every city, every village, is full of them. They are represented in every corner grocery and wayside inn.

Heaven will have no attractions for them if they cannot seek office there.

Hell will have no terrors, can they only be assured that there will be a chance for them to serve on some political committee.—Cari Pretzel.

A Happy Family

Circle is the greatest blessing of our civilization but such a thing is not possible when disease and death lurks on the threshold. One of the most important conditions to be attended to is that the liver and kidneys are in a healthy condition. More trouble arises from derangement of these organs than from any other cause, often resulting in dizziness, fatigue, disease, and other difficulties that are generally counted incurable. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver cure will prevent and cure all these difficulties with great certainty. Large bottles $1. Sold by H. B. Weed & Co.

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS,

Patent Medicines, all Kinds.

Imported and Domestic Perfumery,

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Rathbone's new

Opera Block

$66 week at home. $5.00 outfit free. Pay positively when proven. No risk. Capital not required. We will prove it. If you want business at which persons of either sex, young or old, can make $66 at home all the time they work, with absolute certainty, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine. 491

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix..... 6.30 a. m	2.00 p. m.
Arrive East Jordan.... 8.30 a. m	4.00 p. m.
Leave East Jordan.... 6.00 a. m	4.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix..... 11.00 a. m	6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Str. M. W. WRIGHT—Capt. J. J. Bennett.

Leave Charlevoix..... 6.30 a. m	2.00 p. m.
Arrive Boyne..... 8.30 a. m	4.00 p. m.
Leave Boyne..... 8.30 a. m	4.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix..... 12.00 a. m	8 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. A. H. Bennett

East Jordan, lv. 7.00am	Harbor Springs 1.30pm
Charlevoix..... 11.00am	Petoskey..... 2.00pm
Petoskey..... 11.00am	Charlevoix..... 4.30pm
Harbor Springs 11.30am	East Jordan, ar. 5.30pm

Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. D. Thompson.

Lv Boyne City 2.00pm	Lv Charlevoix. 2.00pm
Ar Charlevoix. 5.30pm	Ar Boyne City. 5.30pm

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan and Charlevoix.

Steamer NELLIE BOOTH—Capt. Frank Cahoy.

Leave E. Jordan 8.30 a.m	Arrive E. J. 4.30 p.m
Ar Charlevoix. 9.30 a.m	Leave Char. 5.30 p.m
Leave Char. 9.30 a.m	East Jordan 11.00 a.m

Stopping at intermediate points.

HANNAH, LAY & COMPANY'S STEAMER LINE,

SEASON OF 1884.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,

CAPT. O. P. TILLEY.

GOING NORTH Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays	GOING SOUTH, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.
Will Leave	Will Leave
Traverse City. 7.00am	M. Ignace 5.30am
Northport..... 9.00am	Northport..... 9.00am
Charlevoix..... 12.00 m	Cross Village.. 10.00am
Petoskey..... 2.00pm	Harbor Springs 12.30pm
Harbor Springs 3.00pm	Petoskey..... 1.00pm
Cross Village.. 5.00pm	Charlevoix..... 3.30pm
Mackinaw City 9.00pm	Northport..... 5.00pm
Arriving at	Arriving at
M. Ignace..... 10.00pm	Traverse City.. 8.30pm

T. S. PAXTON,

CAPT. A. G. ALBRIGHT.

GOING NORTH Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.	GOING SOUTH, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.
Will Leave	Will Leave
Traverse City.. 7.00am	Harbor Springs 6.00am
Northport..... 10.00am	Petoskey..... 7.30am
Elk Rapids.... 10.00am	Charlevoix..... 8.30am
Torch Lake.... 11.00am	East Jordan ov
Norwood..... 12.00pm	Boyne 10.00am
Charlevoix 2.00pm	Charlevoix (re-turning)..... 11.30am
East Jordan ov	Norwood..... 1.00pm
Boyne 3.00pm	Torch Lake..... 2.00pm
Charlevoix (re-turning)..... 5.00pm	Elk Rapids.... 3.00pm
Petoskey..... 6.30pm	Old Mission.... 3.00pm
Arriving at	Arriving at
Harbor Springs 7.00pm	Traverse City.. 6.00pm

GOOD CONNECTION

Will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on the D. M. & E. R. R.; also on on Monday mornings between the City of Traverse from Chicago and the City of Ottawa from Ludington, and on Wednesday evenings between the T. S. Paxton going south and the City of Traverse to Chicago.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card in effect January, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv...		7 40am	7 15pm
Richmond.....	2 20am	11 20	11 00
Muncie.....	3 11	12 17	12 02
Fort Wayne, ar.	6 42	2 55pm	1 52am
Fort Wayne, lv.		2 47	2 50	8 40am
Kendallville....		3 45	3 54	9 35
Ligonier.....		4 11	4 21	10 01
Valparaiso.....		5 11	6 31	11 44
Kalamazoo, ar		6 52	8 52	12 25pm
Kalamazoo, lv.		7 00	8 55	12 35
Otsego.....		7 19	9 16	1 00
Gun Plains.....	7 15am		9 32	1 25
Grand Rapids....	7 30		10 00	1 55
Ionia.....	8 10		10 46	2 37
Big Rapids.....	9 41		12 19pm	4 02
Reed City.....	10 17		1 17	5 12
Cadillac, ar.....	11 25		2 23	7 00
Cadillac, lv.			2 30	9 50
Traverse City, ar			6 15
Cltham, lv.			1 17	6 00am
Manistee.....			4 40	12 05
Grand Rapids....			4 25	2 20
Petoskey, ar.....			6 23	3 11
Harbor Springs			6 45	3 30
Mackinaw City			10 00	8 00
Wayne.....			4 00pm	10 40
Saginaw, ar			9 12	7 08

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Saginaw, lv...			5 15pm	7 20am
Marquette.....			7 00am	4 00pm
Wayne.....			8 45am	6 10pm
St. Ignace City			2 40	9 55
Harbor Springs			7 05	2 20
Petoskey, lv.....			7 38	11 53
Gorge Falls.....			8 15	12 35am
Manistee.....			9 18	2 14
Cltham, lv.			9 45	3 15
Traverse City, lv			11 35	5 20
Cadillac, ar.....		3 30pm	11 45	5 30
Cadillac, lv.		4 30	1 17pm	7 16
Reed City.....		5 32	2 24	8 22
Big Rapids.....		6 16	3 02	9 07
Howard City.....		7 05	3 48	10 07
Ionia.....		7 49	4 36	10 52
Grand Rapids....	6 30am		4 32	12 30pm
Kalamazoo, ar	8 32		6 25	2 23
Kalamazoo, lv.	6 37		6 32	2 30
Vicksburg.....	6 51		6 46	2 44
Schoolcraft.....	7 00		7 16	4 10
Kendallville....	11 18		9 38	5 31
Fort Wayne, ar	12 20am		10 45	6 42
Fort Wayne, lv.	12 52	5 30am	12 00am
Muncie.....	1 49	7 54	2 24	5 56
Richmond.....	2 28	8 15	3 05
Cincinnati, ar...	5 15	11 20	6 45
Cincinnati, lv.	9 0pm	12 0pm	7 30am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Agt G. R. & I., Grand Rapids, Mich.

ERRORS OF YOUTH

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the receipt and direction for making the simple Remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experiment can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN H. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.

Gold for the working class. Send 10 cents for postage, and we will mail you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. We will prove you. You can work all the time or in spare time only. The work is universally adapted to both sexes, young and old. Ventsy ventsy earn from 50 cents to $5 every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: to all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, a valuable sample box of goods sent free by mail to those who give their whole time to the work. Great success absolutely sure. Don't delay. Start now. Address BRYANT & CO., Portland, Maine.

AGENTS wanted for the sale of all the Presidents of the United States. The largest, handsomest, and best book ever sold for less than twice our price. The fastest selling book in America. Immense profits to agents. All intelligent people want it. Any one can become a successful agent. Address, HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Maine. 491

OLD NEWSPAPERS FOR SALE

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875

E. T. BROWN & CO.

Threshing Engines,

Portable and Stationary

Engines,

SAW MILLS, THRESHERS MILL SUPPLIES.

(BARGAINS IN SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.)

WRITE FOR PRICES AND CATALOGUE

West Bridge Street.

Grand Rapids, Michigan

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES

New Stores

and

NEW GOODS

A Complete Stock of Hardware, Iron, Cutlery, Tinware, Fishing Tackle, Stoves, Implements and Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggies, Wheelbarrows, Carts, Refrigerators, Doors and Sash, Paints and Brushes. The very best Tin and Job work done on short notice.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW.

NEW GOODS.

I am pleased to say that my

Spring Stock

is ready for inspection. Come and see them, and when you want a suit of clothes that are JUST IN STYLE, you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES,

AND

Price to Correspond With the Times.

GEO. W. MILLER.

JOSEPH HYLAND,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Boiler Maker,

Sheet-Iron Worker,

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

Advance Lumber Company

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO. ADVANCE, MICH.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 48. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JUNE 12, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

is published every Thursday morning,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office over T. D. Smith's grocery,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Business Directory.

ATTORNEYS.

CHAS. S. SHAW & SHIER, Attorneys at Law, Office in Bennett Block, Charlevoix, Mich. C. J. SHAW. C. J. SHIER.

HENRY T. SHAW, Attorney at Law, Real Estate Agent, Notary Public. Lake St., east of post-office. Charlevoix, Mich.

JAMES W. SWIFT, Attorney at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

FRED W. WAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate carefully attended to. Office on Lake St., Boyne City.

H. L. WEAVER, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office on Lake st., Boyne City.

J. E. WEATHERBY, Attorney at Law, and Solicitor in Chancery. Office in bank building, Traverse City, Petoskey, Mich.

J. W. TYLER, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

J. A. CASHELON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

NORTON, KENT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law. Office opposite E. T. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

O. D. WILSON, Attorney and Solicitor and U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

L. CARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX. Capital $50,000. Drafts and Bills of Exchange on Europe. Exchange on all cities in Europe and United States. Steamships and railroad tickets sold to and from all parts of Europe. $100,000 to loan on first mortgages. REYNOLDS & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday Services at 10.30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Prayer meeting every Sunday evening at 6 o'clock. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. C. P. VAN ANKEN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday Services at 10.30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. J. T. IDDINGS, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX HOUGH AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet every Saturday night, at the hose house. H. F. BISHOP, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

H. SUTFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cigars, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

M. L. SMITH, teacher of Musical Composition, and Thorough Bass. Classes forming at all times. Charlevoix, Mich.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. MILO EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class Horses and Carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

J. A. CAUGHTEN, M. D. Office at the Dochville.

L. EWEN, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office and residence, Bridge St., Charlevoix, Mich.

A. C. GRAVES, M. D. Office in Sec Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. PRENTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agent, Charlevoix, Mich.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R. Baxter Post No. 379, meets second Monday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F. Charlevoix Lodge No. 55, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F. Boyne City Lodge No. 200, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

F. & A. M. Boyne City Lodge No. 182, meets on or before full moon. Hall over post office.

MASONIC—Charlevoix Lodge No. 287, meets on or before full moon. Hall over post office.

VETERINARY SURGEON.

ELIAS RANSBURY, V. S. Office at Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

WELL DIGGING.

FRANK DUBIA, Charlevoix, Mich., will attend promptly to all work in the line of well digging, cistern building, stone repairing, well covering, cellar building, and shutter work. 45

A. BUTLER, President. A. R. UPHOUT, Vice President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money to loan on approved paper at reasonable rates. Deposits received. Collections given careful attention and remittances made promptly.

G. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

O. W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Electroplating by Gold and Silver. Any article of jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order. Charlevoix.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

1872 DR. G. W. CROUTER, 1884

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.

PURITY, POLITENESS.

We make it a point to sell only

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

Our Prices will always be as Low as

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

Can be Sold.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON, Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is entirely furnished, and the accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Eagle Hotel,

E. A. H. COLE, PROPRIETOR,

South Arm, Michigan.

A new house, situated near end of bridge across South Arm, Antrim County. Horses and boats for guests. Headquarters for Intermediate Lake and Jordan River tourists.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOKER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages.

HULBERT HOUSE,

P. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house is centrally located. Good sidewalk from steam boat landing to house.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

WM. J. WEBER, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house has been thoroughly renovated and put in good shape for the traveling and sporting public. Sojourners landing within a "stones throw" of the house. Sample Rooms.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the River near, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

UNITED STATES HOTEL,

GEO. W. CHILDS, Proprietor,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

W. F. ORRELL,

HOUSE DECORATOR,

PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.

ARTISTIC PAPER-HANGING.

Finishing Paper a Specialty

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

GET YOUR

Photographs

At D. S. Way's.

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 80 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Soil, clay loam. A good frame house, and tamarac bank barns. About 35 acres cleared, balance good beech and maple timber. About 200 fruit trees beginning to bear; one-half acre in cultivated and small fruits. Terms easy. Inquire of the owner, on the premises, or address, care of this office. For further particulars apply to

DAVID H. FRANCIS, Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGeagh's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

FOR SALE.

SECOND HAND

Stationary Engine and Boiler

Size of cylinder, inches in bore: Boiler 12 feet long, 42 in. diameter, 48 flues. The engine has been thoroughly overhauled, and is practically as good as new. Price and terms cash. Apply to

W. M. SPRIGGS

Cor of Washington & Ackert, at the Machine shop.

Fresh Oysters

Just Received.

300 pounds Candy and Nuts.

Two Barrels Fresh Butter

Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.

Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents.

AT L. L. CARR'S.

HODGE & LITZAU,

Manufacturers and Dealers in

HARNESS, SADDLES

Carry Cushs, Robes, Whips, Lasher, Lap Robes, Blankets, Etc. Special attention given to repairing. Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. Call and see my stock

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods. Also agent for the celebrated Dr. Boyer Spectacles and Krystoli Scientific Spectacles. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

Grand Rapids Democrat,

DAILY AND WEEKLY.

Office: 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

Daily Democrat—By mail, $8.00 per year in advance; $2.00 for three months.

Weekly Democrat—$1.00 per year, 25 cents for six months, 10 cents for three months—invariably in advance. Address

THE DEMOCRAT,

Grand Rapids, Mich.

Benjamin F. Butler.

Ex-Gov. B. F. Butler is unquestionably receiving the benefit of a boom of considerable pretensions. His nomination for the presidency by the green back-labor convention, which follows speedily upon that tendered him by the anti-monopolist convention in Chicago is, to say the least of it, an actual nomination. To be sure, it is not unanimous, about 100 delegates in an assembly of about 450 having refused to vote for him under any circumstances whatever. Nevertheless, it is a nomination, and a man "who goes into the field" (and we use the word here in the sense in which racing men employ it) with two nominations to his credit and three or four more about to fall due is not to be despised as a candidate. It is very well understood that Butler proposes to be himself "the field"—the republican nomination being the only one which he has not reached out after. There were murmurs and even hoots from the anti monopoly convention in Chicago, and some of the ring-streaked and speckled delegates of the motley throng vowed that the convention had been corrupt by "fixed" for Butler. But the redoubtable ex-governor of Massachusetts ought to be able to silence those and other cavilers.

Gen. Ben. Butler is one of the squarest men in the world and the freest from humbug. He is willing to be president; and he says so to everybody who asks him. He has opinions of his own, and he avows them to them. Some of them are popular and some are not; but this makes no difference to Butler.

Men's New Fashions.

A gentleman never indulges in the extremes. He must never forget that he is a gentleman. He must be unobtrusive, while correct.

For a, say, full dress, he should wear a black suit of plain cloth or worsted, with low cut vest; expansive, snowy white bosom, fastened with a single dull-gold stud, a standing collar with broken points, and a white-lawn tie. The latest thing in studs, and a fashion that will probably obtain the coming winter, is to have three pearl studs fashioned to look like the pearl button of our fathers. A very pretty style is, too, White silk vests have been affected, but, it is probable that they are a whim of the day. For a dinner party or the theater one may substitute black silk for silver satin, black or white. Gloves are coming in again. A gentleman may go to a reception or ball without them; but if he dances he must surely wear white, pearl, or some delicate shade. If he is inclined to be a little fashy they will be embroidered with black.

If the objective point be the theater or opera, an opera hat is the thing, and is most convenient. It should never, however, be carried into a reception, any more than should an overcoat. The vests of an evening dress are cut a little broader to show more shirt, but a trifle higher. Colored dress suits will not be introduced in this country, as has been predicted.

The neat dressy suit of a gentleman is the four-button[ed], double-breasted frock, commonly called the Prince Albert, with light trousers. When the gentleman gets home from his business he dons this garment with a neat flat scarf of silk—again never satin. When on the street in this costume a silk hat is inseparable from the frock. A Derby or straw hat with a frock coat is decidedly in bad taste, as is a tile with a sack coat. When on the street he will now wear a light overcoat, reaching to a point above the knees, a coat of some neutral gray or mixed goods. Then with gloves, if with a lady, he is dressed. The gloves to be worn are to be much heavier, of dog-skin, and with welted seams, without embroidered backs. They are called "chevrette or cape gloves." If he is not with a lady gloves are optional. The frock made black worsted cloth is always correct. Many, however, who can afford several suits, wear for walking a frock of brown or blue.

Then comes the morning coat, or three and four buttoned cutaway. These are made up in suits of gray or mixed goods, when they generally have pockets on the flaps. Otherwise, a black or blue coat is worn with light trousers. With it can be worn either a silk or derby hat. The silk hat will be of higher crown and narrower brim. The Derby will be of very light weight and will be generally black in color. At the races and seashore tall white hats will be the rage. The white Derby will not be common, though some of dark gray will be worn. There will be hardly any sale for felt hats. When a gentleman wishes to go out in the evening, in the rain, or to travel, instead of a felt he will wear a Tweed cloth hat, oftentimes of the same stuff as his traveling suit.

Finally, his business or traveling dress should consist of a sack coat, waistcoat and trousers from the same pattern. The styles will be considerably more pronounced than those of last season. Checks will be somewhat the rage, though many will prefer the more subdued patterns. A great many rough grays have been imported from Canada, as well as Scotch Tweeds and English suitings. With it he should wear a dark scarf of some harmonious shade. Narrow cuffs will be worn, fastened by linked buttons. The back seams of the coming spring will fit a little closer to the body. They, as well as the cutaways, will roll a little more at the collar, displaying a trifle more of shirt. The frock coat will be the least bit shorter. Trousers will be a little wider, not fitting tightly, but still hanging in a shapely manner on the leg.

For those who are particular, shirts with collars and cuffs attached are in vogue. Certainly for dress occasions, when so much of the linen is visible, a much neater effect is obtained, there being no movable joint between the shirt and collar. Thus the tie can be manipulated to much better advantage. Closed standing collars have been the thing, but now fashion decrees that the point shall be broken down. They will be, moreover, rather higher than formerly. No one who is not deformed should wear the low collar.

As any style becomes popular the leaders of fashion drop it and adopt something new, which is in its turn despised. Oftentimes fashions are discovered to have moved in a circle, that which was discarded becoming the chosen garment or cut. The foregoing suggestions and ideas may be followed by the young man desiring to appear in correct attire.—Phila. Press.

Fannie Elsler.

Fannie Elsler has never married, says a Vienna correspondent, although she is reported to have been beset with offers from her 16th to her 17th year. She is credited with having had a number of lovers, and an officer in the Austrian cavalry and a well-known stock broker in Vienna are reported to be her sons, but the relation has never been publicly acknowledged

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

A CAVE-IN under the tracks of the Reading Road at Turkey Run, Pa., caused a suspension of work in the collieries. The ground is gradually sinking.

A HEAVY frost in Northern New England the other night did very great damage to the corn and beans, stripped the leaves off fruit trees injuring most of the apple and peach beds in some sections. The loss to farmers and gardeners is the greatest for many years.

JOSEPH BIRDS, engineer at Lockamann mill at Scranton, Penn., caught his own shirt on a shaft. He was whirled against the iron beams at the rate of two hundred revolutions per minute, and when the machinery was stopped his body was a shapeless mass of matter. It appears that John U. Rose managed to escape from New York by the aid of Messrs. Jay Dunn, pastor of St. Luke's Church. The charge against the absconder is forgery in signing a check for $20,000 as President of the Second National Bank after his forced resignation. His father was compelled to make the amount good.

JESSE CARTER, a colored murderer, was hanged at Pittsburgh, Pa. He asserted his innocence on the scaffold.

The assignee's report of the condition of the Penn Bank of Pittsburgh shows that $1,295,276 is due depositors, and that the overdrafts aggregate $1,250,934. Most of the directors withdrew their accounts on the day that the bank closed for the last time.

THE WEST.

NEAL MCKEAGUE, who was acquitted of the murder of James L. Wilson at Wauseka, was released from the jail in Chicago, State's Attorney Mills having entered a nolle prosequi on the remaining indictment, for the murder of Mrs. Wilson. McKeague at once started in search of his father, with whom he will probably go to Canada for a visit.

The stomach of Sabin Trowbridge, Postmaster at Lee Center, Ill., who died last February, has been sent to a Chicago chemist for analysis, it being charged that his young wife poisoned him. Letters found secreted in an old lounge, recently, gave the clew to the crime. The whereabouts of Mrs. Trowbridge are unknown.

In Detroit, Mrs. Laura Schulz was found in her night-dress on the sidewalk with her throat cut, but still living. Her husband was detained for two hours, and released for lack of evidence against him. She recovered consciousness and held a long private interview with her husband, showing that the case was one of attempted suicide on account of family troubles.

NEAL MCKEAGUE, who was recently acquitted of murder in a Chicago court, reappeared in Winnetka, and received hearty greetings from his acquaintances. At Bellbrook, Iowa, a man named Williams visited Nick Bright, who was ill. Bright jumped upon his visitor, felled him with a hatchet, and chopped his head to pieces. Then he proceeded to murder his wife and himself through the heart. Both men had been on a spree together recently, and the whisky had unsettled Bright's reason.

ANOTHER corpse of a young girl has been found near the scene of the butchery at Pleasanton, Kan. The murdered victims have been identified as the family of John Anderson, and Lewis Wampler, nephew of Anderson, is wanted for the crime. It is alleged that the woman and her four children were killed by Edward Wampler had committed, and that he lured them from home and murdered them for self-protection. The milling room of Preslerie Stearns & Co.'s pharmaceutical laboratory, at Detroit, was destroyed by fire. It was with difficulty that the fire was prevented from extending to the entire establishment. Two employes were seriously hurt and fatally injured by the flames. Sallie Hayes, a negress, who killed Police Sergeant Jackson, was sentenced at St. Louis to be hanged July 18.

THE SOUTH.

HOOPER'S building at Baltimore collapsed from the weight of cotton it contained, the fourth floor first giving way, and forcing the others down. Of a number of persons in the structure six bodies have been recovered. Three persons were fatally injured, and two others are missing and supposed to be in the debris.

In Mitchell County, North Carolina, two prominent gentlemen resorted to the code to settle a missing difficulty. The parties were Col. Willis Borden, late of Louisville, Ky., and Capt. Lindsey, of Mitchell County. The duel took place in the month of a mine name, the weapons being revolvers, and Borden was instantly killed.

GEN. O. E. BABCOCK, Col. Levi P. Luckey, and Benjamin F. Butler, of Washington, were drowned while making a trip along the Atlantic coast in connection with the work of the light-house board. Only the body of Gen. Babcock was recovered. He was made secretary to President Grant, and his wife is the eldest daughter of Hon. Benjamin H. Campbell, of Ohio.

MR. A. CAMERON, head of the firm of Carriere & Co., New Orleans, left that city on the steamer Knickerbocker, for New York, but fell overboard before the quarantine station was reached, and was drowned.

WASHINGTON.

THERE is good authority for the statement that the Secretary of War has informed the President that the evidence against Gen. Swaim is sufficient to require his trial by court-martial. The banking-house of D. W. Middleton & Co. has made an assignment. The liabilities amount to $230,000. Among the sufferers are newspaper correspondents and army and navy officers. The Western Union officials offered to run wires into the private houses of five of the candidates for the Presidency—Blaine's, Logan's, Sherman's, Lincoln's, and Edmunds'. The offer is understood, was accepted. Mr. Blaine does not propose to use the line to his house, however, as he intends to leave Washington for Augusta, Maine, in the vicinity of which he intends to pass the summer.

The following is a recapitulation of the national debt statement issued on the 1st inst.:

Interest-bearing debt—
Coin and gold-bill per cents	$25,000,000.00
Three per cents	56,000,000.00
Refunding certificates	249,848,000.00
Navy pension fund	14,000,000.00
Total interest-bearing debt	$1,010,848,000.00
Matured debt—
Debt on which interest has ceased	13,576,212.56
Interest thereon, matured	267,749.46
Certificates of deposits	15,000,000.00
Gold and silver certificates	26,183,140.00
Fractional currency	8,292,271.40
Total without interest	$60,860,373.42
Total debt principal	$1,070,408,373.42
Total interest	15,844,749.46
Total cash in treasury	189,000,000.00
Debt less cash in treasury	1,097,253,122.88
Decrease during May	4,762,241.26
Decrease of debt since June 30, 1866	91,923,711.66
Current liabilities—
Interest due and unpaid	5,649,952.65
Debt on which interest has ceased	13,576,212.56
Interest thereon	267,749.46
Gold and silver certificates	26,183,140.00
Legal-tender notes outstanding	347,731,000.00
Total	$393,408,054.67
Available assets—
Cash in treasury	$189,356,357.49
Funds loaned to Pacific Railway Companies, but not payable until 1901 and 1906—
Principal	$64,623,512.00
Interest accrued and not yet paid	1,645,564.80
Interest paid by United States	45,968,976.82
Interest repaid by companies—
By transportation service	$3,127,262.12
By cash payments, 5 per cent. earnings	662,198.87
Balance of interest paid by United States	42,179,515.83
Interest accrued	$2,806.146
Interest paid by United States	41,596,976.82

In the Criminal Court at Washington, Judge Wylie reduced to $20,000 the bail of Col. Burnside, the defaulting Disbursing Clerk of the Postoffice Department.

POLITICAL.

WALTER H. SHUTE asked a Greenback meeting at Indianapolis that Peter Cooper rank $100,000 in an effort to float the defunct, the Greenback organ of which Shupe was editor.

IT has been editorially stated in the Washington Post that Samuel J. Tilden will not be a candidate before the Democratic Convention in Chicago, and will under no circumstances accept a nomination. A mass meeting to ratify the nomination of Butler and West was held at Joliet, Ill., the other night. Workingmen, Greenbackers, Anti-Monopolists, and Independent Democrats were out in force.

The Democratic Central Committee of Arizona has selected W. K. Meade and G. H. Oury as delegates to the national convention, and instructed for Tilden and Hendricks.

MR. TILDEN has been interviewed as to his intentions in reference to correspondence with the Democratic National Convention. He refused to say anything about his intentions. He had several times denied his position, he said, and had nothing more to communicate at present.

PARIS HALLEGRAS has been nominated for Congress by the Democrats of the Ninth Pennsylvania District.

GENERAL.

WILLIAM BROWN, a colored man, who murdered a peddler named Lavigne at Oakdale, Illinois, and buried his body in the fireplace, was executed at Belleville. He confessed his crime, and scarcely had strength to reach the scaffold. John Tolbert was hanged at Paris, Alabama, for the murder of a companion named Aaron Baker.

FIVE Mexican States have revolted against the rule of Gonzales on account of the recent massacres. Troops are being concentrated in the interior for the suppression of the rebellion. There was a decrease of 22.2 per cent. in the postal clearances of twenty-five clearing houses outside of New York last week as compared with the aggregate clearances for the same cities the corresponding week last year. The decrease in New York was 6.7 per cent. Yellow fever has reappeared at Campeche, Mexico.

JOHN EVANS, who married the wealthy widow Noble, of Quincy City, Ohio, has been compelled to hastily quit the district. Mrs. Noble's daughter left home a short time after the marriage, and shortly afterwards very ill, soon died, but not before intimating that Evans had effected her ruin and that an abortion, performed by a certain Dr. Strothers, hastened her death. Evans was hanged in effigy, and the doctor has been arrested.

FOREIGN.

DYNAMITE explosions at London caused a widespread alarm and blockade of the police, says a cablegram, are completely baffled, and, for the first time in the history of great crimes in the metropolis, they seem even a theory to offer. In fact, they find themselves to be a laughing stock. The public are becoming hourly more restive and agitated over the apparent incompetence of the police, and the wildest stories of reprisals against Irish agitators are mooted. The appointment of hotel vigilance committees on the American system is seriously discussed in some influential very conservative quarters.

THE Commission of the German Reichstag has approved the bill for the insurance of working people against accidents. The Republique Francaise condemns the United States Government for allowing dynamitards to plot in this country, though there is more reason to believe that Paris is the headquarters of the miscreants than New York. The German papers advise England to exact reprisals from the Irish; while the London Telegraph appeals to the American Government not to harbor assassins.

ADDITIONAL NEWS.

IT has been ascertained that Gen. Babcock and his companions came to their death by the capsizing of a boat after the steering oar had been broken. Gen. Babcock clung to the boat until she reached the shore breakers, when he was torn off and drowned. His life was insured for $20,000, and the amount will immediately be paid to his widow.

Col. Buford, who killed Judge Elliot, and was sent to the Kentucky Central Lunatic Asylum and escaped, was returned to the institution in a partially off-hand and dilapidated condition.

The Nye-and-signal, of Cincinnati, was sold in Chicago at auction to satisfy mechanics, engravers and creditors. The price is $25,000. The L. H. and W. round-house at Lafayette, Ind., was suddenly collapsed, seriously injuring five men.

In the litigation concerning the interest of James Couch in the Tremont House, Chicago, Judge Drummond appointed Samuel Powell receiver and instructed the Schenks to Couch and Clemenson, in bond of $100,000, with sureties to have the records of the hotel. A fire at Cleveland inflicted damage of $30,000 on the planing of McAllister & Co., Sexton & Moore, Mrs. Dunn, Quartermaster, U. S. A., walked off a train in Kansas and was killed.

THE Fifteenth Ohio District Democrats renominated the Hon. Jacob Wilkins for Congress and instructed the Schenks to support Tilden and Hendricks.

Oregon was carried in the election of the late election by 5,000 majority. The Legislature is Republican on joint ballot by a majority of fourteen. The Republicans also elect their Congressman. The state board of canvassers, composed of Democrats, declare the principal plank of which both parties made the issue, namely, that the duties on lumber should be imposed upon the Pacific Coast, at a lower rate than will yield the largest amount of revenue, and that the revenue from lumber duty should be imposed upon Eastern lumber, the Convention adopted a resolution chosen as a delegate-at-large to Philadelphia, Mr. A. Bonn, J. C. Blakley, and C. M. Ingersoll. They are uninstructed, but are in favor of Tilden.

The House of Representatives on June 5 passed bills to forfeit the land grant of the California and Oregon Road; to let lie the Cumberland River at Nashville and the Missouri at Lexington; and to repeal a law giving to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company the right to select lands in lieu of those found to be mineral. There was no session of the Senate.

Compressed Asphalt.

Although the value of bituminous asphalt for paving has long been recognized, it has always been felt that one of its defects is a want of density, which another is its slipperiness under the influence of slight moisture. To remedy the first of these defects heavy steam rollers have been used, while for the second sharp sand or some other similar material has been introduced into the body of the bitumen. The most recently proposed method of treating it in order to remove these drawbacks, and apparently the most successful, consists in combining limestone with the bitumen and molding the compound under the pressure. The limestone is crushed, heated, and mixed with the bitumen at a temperature of 212 degrees Fahrenheit, the stone having a great affinity for the bitumen when heated. The compound is then pressed into rectangular blocks of convenient size in which under a pressure of about fifty tons. The blocks are then submitted to a cold-water bath until they are cold and ready for use. They form a paving material of great density, and in which the angular points of the limestone are always being developed under traffic. A permanently rough surface is thus produced, which, combined with the cracks formed by the joints of the blocks, presents an excellent foothold for horses.

MANY farmers feet roots without first freeing them from dirt. This is an injurious practice, and harmful to cattle.

THE MARKET.

NEW YORK.
BEEVES	$ 8.00 @ 9.50
FLOUR—Extra	6.00 @ 6.75
WHEAT—No. 1 Chicago	1.29 @ 1.30
No. 2 Red	1.00 @ 1.02
CORN—Mixed	57 @ 58
OATS—White	42 @ 47
PORK—Mess	18.00 @ 18.25
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Choice to Prime Steers	6.50 @ 7.25
Fair to Good	5.50 @ 6.25
Butchers'	3.50 @ 5.00
HOGS	5.25 @ 5.75
FLOUR—Fancy White Winter Ex	6.25 @ 6.50
Fancy Spring	5.75 @ 6.00
CORN—No. 2 Mixed	46 @ 46
OATS—No. 2 White Western	30 @ 32
RYE—No. 2	76 @ 77
BARLEY—No. 2	87 @ 90
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	18 @ 20
CHEESE—Full Cream	11 @ 12
Skimmed	3 @ 5
EGGS—Fresh	14 @ 16
POTATOES—Peachblows	75 @ 80
PORK—Mess	18.00 @ 18.25
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.25 @ 1.26
CORN—No. 2	46 @ 46
OATS—No. 2	29 @ 30
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 1	1.26 @ 1.27
CORN—No. 2	44 @ 45
OATS—No. 2	29 @ 30
RYE—No. 1	74 @ 75
PORK—Mess	19.00 @ 19.50
LARD	9.00 @ 9.10
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.26 @ 1.28
CORN—Mixed	42 @ 42
OATS—Mixed	28 @ 30
RYE	74 @ 76
PORK—Mess	18.00 @ 18.50
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.02 @ 1.05
CORN—Mixed	47 @ 48
OATS—Mixed	30 @ 31
RYE	1.75 @ 1.80
LARD	9.00 @ 9.25
DETROIT.
WHEAT—No. 1 White	1.30 @ 1.30½
CORN—Mixed	47 @ 48
OATS—No. 2 White	32 @ 33
RYE—Mixed	75 @ 76
BARLEY	1.00 @ 1.05
PORK—Mess	19.00 @ 19.50
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best	5.75 @ 6.00
Common	3.25 @ 5.50
HOGS	5.50 @ 5.60
SHEEP	4.00 @ 4.50

SENATE AND HOUSE.

Proceedings of the Federal Congress Boiled Down.

TUESDAY was no session of the Senate on the 31st ult. In the House, with half the seats vacant, bills were passed granting right of way to railroads through Indian Territory to Texas, to the Gulf, Colorado, and Santa Fe Roads, and to the Kansas and Arkansas Valley Road, and to Indian Judges to preclude the leasing and lending of lands in Indian Territory.

In the Senate, on the 32 inst., with Messrs. Conkling, Sherman, Logan, Hewley, and Allison in their seats, the greatest day's work of the session was performed, among such bills passed were the Senate bill to admit Colorado, Nebraska, and Florida States, giving the chiefs of Tuscaroa and Seneca pecuniary relief, to the relief of the Tuscaroa Indians in Nebraska, and to enlarge the Homestead Act in Nebraska. The Senate also passed the Senate general pension bill. The House passed the legislative appropriation bill, with an amendment giving certain exemptions to distillers. A bill was introduced to appropriate $50,000 to aid the Southern Exposition at Louisville and to admit exhibits free of duty. Mr. Randolph introduced a bill for the removal of persons who have contracted or hereafter may contract for slaves for the army or the Indians. Mr. Stewart, of Nevada, introduced a bill authorizing the President to issue a proclamation earlier than ninety days after the Supreme Court of Utah shall have decided that the President may, if he shall deem it necessary, suspend and so long suspend the operation of the act of March 22, 1882, in relation to the jurisdiction of the courts of Utah, and to the jurisdiction of the officers, and to the qualification of jurors in said Territory, and to the exemption of persons from service on juries in said Territory on account of their religious belief. Mr. Hoar introduced a bill to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors in Washington Territory for a period of two years, and to provide for the appointment of a commission to report to Congress at its next session a plan for the disposition of the public lands in said Territory, which was ordered to be printed. The Senate passed the Senate bill to provide for the leasing and lending of lands in Indian Territory.

Mind Cures.

While Chicago is busied with great material enterprises, Boston is developing a new "line" that is likely to create a good deal of attention. It is called the mind cure. Literally thousands of the people of that good city believe that disease may be banished from the earth by the exercise of a belief in supernatural agencies, and submitting to the personal manipulation of certain highly endowed men and women, who, by the laying on of hands, can rid the afflicted person of the ills he suffers from. Leon N. P. Banks, the Rev. W. H. Alger, and a great many others are said to be believers in the mind cure. Diseases of all kinds, it is claimed, are brought on by lack of faith. Fear, which is inverted faith, is one of the meanings of physical ailments. Of course, in this craze is but the repetition of an old, old story. From the beginning man is his witness, all through the history of the race, certain religions, ancient and modern have claimed that mind is so far superior to matter as to enable the former to act. The power to heal the sick is regarded in many countries, as it has been in all ages, as a warrant from the Most High to prove the truth of certain theological dogmas. It is, however, surprising that so intelligent a community as that of Boston should give acceptance to so old an superstition. It is, nevertheless, true that the imagination has much to do with the furious illnesses of nervous people. Many hundreds of thousands of human beings think they are sick when all they really need is some stimulus that will set them to work, or some absorbing pursuit that will take them out of themselves. When one's energies are directed outward instead of inward there is no time for brooding over fancied ailments. This is all there is in faith cures or mind cures.—Beadle's Monthly.

The editor of a scientific monthly asks for correct drawings of a "Tornado at Work." He says he has seen them every other night and found his wife reading to him a letter signed "Your true Julia," which she found in his inside coat pocket, has made a sketch of the "affair" and sent it to the editor of "notes." He will send to the scientific editor.—Ex.

THE following agrees laws, on the authority of a skilled arboriculturist, been obtained from the trees: Ash, 200 years; columbella, 3,000; cedar, 2,000; oak, 1,500; spruce, 1,200; lime, 1,100; Oriental palm, 1,000; walnut, 980; olive and cypress, 800; orange, 650; maple, 581; elm, 500.

"WHY did Moses write three of the commandments on one table of stone, and seven on the other?" asked an Austin Sunday-school boy. "Because he wanted to make an excuse of them, I suppose?"—Texas Siftings.

Mr. Lincoln's Statesmanship.

No more difficult task has ever been presented to any government than that which Mr. Lincoln and his Cabinet assumed in the month of March, 1861. To judge it now by any appearance of irresolution, or by any seeming disposition to compromise, would be trying it by a standard totally inapplicable and unfair. Before and beyond all things, Mr. Lincoln desired to prevent war, and he felt that every day of peace gave fresh hope that bloodshed might be avoided. In his inaugural address he had taken the strongest ground for the preservation of the Union, and had carefully refrained from every act and every expression which would justify even in the public opinion of the South, an outbreak of violence on the part of the Confederates. He believed that the Southern revolt had stimulated in great proportions in consequence of Mr. Buchanan's assertion that he had no power to coerce a seceding State. Mr. Lincoln had announced a different creed, and every week that the South continued powerful his hope of ultimate success grew stronger. He believed that with the passage of time the secessionists could be brought to see that union was better than war for all interests, and that in an especial degree the institution of slavery would be imperiled by a resort to arms. He had faith in the sober second-thought, that the South would deliberately, if a union would be saved. He feared that the Southern mind was in the condition in which a single untoward circumstance might precipitate a conflict, and he determined that the blood of his brethren should not be on his hands.

Mr. Lincoln, moreover, knew that war between a divided North and a united South would be a remediless calamity. He knew that if such war should be found unavoidable, the administration which had determined to be a party to it would be the recipient of the curses of the North, and that, if it should be the South entirely in the wrong and the Government of the Union entirely in the right, it would be the South in the front which the rebellion would present, the administration was required that it should not be more solid, more immovable, more courageous, than that with which the supporters of the Government would meet it. Statesmanship cannot be judged upon these lines. It must be decided by results. When that conclusive test is brought to bear, Mr. Lincoln's policy as head of the Government in the weeks immediately following his inauguration deserves the highest praise, and all the more because it was compelled to disregard the clamor and disappointed expectations of many who had been conspicuously influential in bringing it into power, and who therefore thought themselves entitled to give counsel.—Rhodes' Twenty Years in Congress.

Clay's Defeat by Polk.

The election hinged on the result in New York. One hundred and thirty-eight electoral votes were necessary to choose. Clay had 105, if New York would have had a total of 141. Mr. Polk, with New York added to his vote, received a majority of one and was President of the United States.

Clay contended for the Presidency, either before or since, has been conducted with such intense energy and such deep feeling. Mr. Clay's friends were endowed men and women, who, by the laying on of hands, can rid the afflicted person of the ills he suffers from. Leon N. P. Banks, the Rev. W. H. Alger, and a great many others are said to be believers in the mind cure. Diseases of all kinds, it is claimed, are brought on by lack of faith. Fear, which is inverted faith, is one of the meanings of physical ailments. Of course, in this craze is but the repetition of an old, old story. From the beginning man is his witness, all through the history of the race, certain religions, ancient and modern have claimed that mind is so far superior to matter as to enable the former to act. The power to heal the sick is regarded in many countries, as it has been in all ages, as a warrant from the Most High to prove the truth of certain theological dogmas. It is, however, surprising that so intelligent a community as that of Boston should give acceptance to so old an superstition. It is, nevertheless, true that the imagination has much to do with the furious illnesses of nervous people. Many hundreds of thousands of human beings think they are sick when all they really need is some stimulus that will set them to work, or some absorbing pursuit that will take them out of themselves. When one's energies are directed outward instead of inward there is no time for brooding over fancied ailments. This is all there is in faith cures or mind cures.—Beadle's Monthly.

NATIONAL REPUBLICANS.

Eighth Quadrennial Convention at Chicago.

Scenes and Incidents—Gen. Henderson, of Missouri, Elected Permanent Chairman.

Meeting of the National Committee.

At a meeting of the Republican National Committee, held at Chicago, June 1, the following gentlemen were present: Messrs. Cameron, Chairman, in the place of Senator Anthony, deceased, Cameron, Pennsylvania; Chandler, Michigan; Conkling, New York; Logan, Illinois; Sherman, Ohio; Allison, Iowa; Dawes, Massachusetts; Burnside, Rhode Island; Patterson, New Hampshire; Hoar, Massachusetts; Chalmers, Mississippi; Cameron, Wisconsin; Dorsey, Arkansas; Hewitt, Alabama; Chaffee, Colorado; Hamlin, Maine; Conger, Michigan; Frelinghuysen, New Jersey; Dennis, Maryland; Kasson, Iowa; Chandler, New Hampshire; Ingersoll, Illinois; Hawley, Connecticut; Dawes, Massachusetts; Burnside, Rhode Island

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic State convention to select a state central committee and temporal delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 3rd day of July, to nominate state candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand opera house in city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 9th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party association and differences, who can unite with us in the reform of abuses of office and a juster and economical administration of government, and who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to said convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

H. F. PENNINGTON, Chairman.
E. A. BRAPARD, Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

A meeting of the county committee of the Greenback party of Charlevoix county will be held at the Mansion house, in the village of Charlevoix, on Saturday, June 14, 1884, at 1 o'clock, p., to arrange for a thorough organization throughout the county, and for the transaction of other important business in the interest of the party.

AND REPUBLICAN.
By order of executive committee.

E. A. BRAPARD, Secretary.

Democratic Caucus.

At a caucus held at town hall on Wednesday evening, the following gentlemen were named as delegates to the county convention to be held today: Amos Fox, J. Milo Eaton, Chas. Kelly, C. B. Wood, L. D. Barthomew, A. H. Colgrove, J. Weyburn Lewis Reynolds, Geo. Pappin, and Geo. W. Miller.

J. Milo Eaton, A. D. Cruickshank, and Chas. J. Strang were made a township committee for the ensuing year.

Notes and News.

It is said that Henry Ward Beecher cannot stomach the republican ticket, tough as his gizzard is.

The times are against Brother Blaine—the New York Times the Philadelphia Times the Chicago Times and the Detroit Times.

The Detroit Free Press of last Sunday was a 36-page affair, and contained 114 columns of reading matter. Verily this is a prosperous city.

The Eaton county democratic convention expressed itself on the presidential situation as follows: Butler 26, Tilden 23, Cleveland 8, Carlisle 2, Hancock 1.

Geo. C. Langdon utters some strong words for Butler in the Detroit Free Press, virtually predicting the downfall of the democratic party, if Butler is not endorsed at the national convention.

It is reported that Michigan furnishes more cedar for telegraph poles having and other purposes than all the other states combined. The business at nearly all shore points, and also at some of the interior towns, is certainly assuming enormous proportions, and as cedar timber is abundant in the state the industry is liable to become one of great importance.—Iosco County Democrat.

A friend asked us the other day if we really believed that this country (Northern Michigan) would ever be sufficiently free from the influences of untimely frosts, &c., to be a good farming country? Most certainly we do, or we should not remain here fifteen minutes longer than would be necessary to pack our few belongings into a pocket handkerchief and take to the ties headed due south. While we may err in judgment, we certainly are not lacking in faith for the future of the Traverse Region. One or two backward and unfavorable seasons cannot shake our confidence.—Kalkaska Leader.

President Ashley of the Toledo, Ann Arbor and Northern railroad, replying to a communication from one of our business men in regard to the possibility of that road passing through this section of country and the benefits to be derived therefrom, says, under date of May 30; "* * I have laid my attention called to the route of which you write, so often, by letter and otherwise, that our board has more than once discussed the practicability of the line which you propose, and I am inclined to the opinion that if satisfactory inducements were offered, some one or more of our board might be induced to visit your county and that part of the state this fall and examine it for themselves. What inducements can you offer for the location of our line via Kalkaska and Bellaire to Charlevoix?" Bellaire Breeze.

Smokers and Smoking.

"The modern autocrat," says Mr. Labouchere, "is not the smoker, but the lady who objects to him. Most ladies like the smell of smoke; those who do not are behind the age and would do well to accustom themselves to it." It is the custom in this country to speak and act with a spirit more kindly than Mr. Labouchere shows towards women. The few men who do not do so are thought to be unhappy in their minds by reason of their incapacity to please.

Neither they nor the few women who are not grateful for the consideration they receive, will have the power to change this fortunate rending of the unwritten law. But we have a small question of casuistry to ask of the makers of social regulations. Those women who do like smoking, and whose only objection is that in certain times and places the toleration of it is destroying to their dignity, when and where and to whom may they permit it?

None but people who have lived all their lives in a single social circle, or who are for themselves most comfortably opinionated, will say that the question is settled, and that whoever is in doubt is so out of ignorance. A wide observation, however superficial, shows that there is a puzzling variety of places where there should be convenient flexibility. It might even be, perhaps it is, among the "elect" that a gentleman does not smoke while walking in the street with a lady. Yet there are married women of good standing who walk part way down town every morning with their husbands, and would not think of asking them to give up their after-breakfast cigar. And nobody is shocked.

At the seashore everyone will admit—so, that is not safe to say—but most people will admit that it is allowable for the men to smoke when a party of ladies and gentlemen are sitting together on the rocks; but may they smoke in walking to the rocks? Some say no. On hotel verandahs a gentleman feels obliged to ask a lady who may join the group in which he has previously been smoking if he may retain his cigar. But what would he think if she should confess that smoking is not endurable to her?

There is a kind of half politeness that forces a lady to consent when smoking makes her really ill, or when she thinks it is, in that particular situation, a little derogatory to her to permit it; for the conventinity may not be disregarded which exacts some loss of comfort in keeping up more or less formal manners between a gentleman and the gentlemen who are not of her family. But to smoke on a verandah surely is allowable, and needs no apology to a lady who of her own accord joins a party where smoking already is going on.

Some say that on any country walk it would be setting aside too much of her dignity for a lady to permit a man not of her own family to smoke. Some would even require a gentleman to throw away his cigar when joined a lady in a stroll about the grounds of a country house where both are guests, while most would call this absurdity indeed. When the master of a house offers cigars to an evening visitor, the latter, though he knows he may light it, asks permission of the housekeeper.

But what may the husband do whose wife declares smoking makes her sick, destroys the sweet air of her house, is a wicked vice, or what not? Dreadful stories s. e told at lunch tables among women alone, of husbands advances and driven to evil companionship, not in the least by native inclination, but by the obstinacy of wives who would not reconcile themselves to toleration of smoking at home. On the other hand there is a legend of a cruel man who persisted in smoking before his wife, who said that the least whiff of smoke gave her pangs so severe that he did not believe in them at all. And one day she was found dead in her bed, and there found on that she had had heart disease, and that tobacco had been the immediate cause of her departure.—Boston Courier.

"Call Me Johnnie."

The editor of the Enquirer is familiarly known as Mac, as might naturally be expected. It is related that some time ago a flip young man for an out of town paper was empowered on the Enquirer. He soon put himself on a more familiar footing with the editor than had been gained even by old and faithful attaches. One day he walked into the sanctum of the great head of the paper with:

"I say, Mac, how do you like my department in this morning's paper?"

It is related that Mr. McLean looked at him with a withering look, and said:

"Mister Blank," emphasizing the Mister, "please don't call me Mac. Nobody calls me that. Call me Johnnie. Everybody calls me Johnnie."

Not taken back a bit, the flip young man answered:

"Oh, I beg pardon. Well, Johnnie, didn't I give you a smarter to-day?"—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and loss in the system you will find Parmelee's Vermifuge Powders unrivalled. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co. 846

GOT TO SLEEP !!!

Mr. A. Bennett his wife our baby at Parmelee's Fever Powders, and now he thinks he has got blessed nice lookers, for she declares so much benefit from it that she sent my mother half a dozen and he permanently cured. There is no quieter kissed so efficient in its workings as this. Only $1.00 per bottle. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co.

Additional Local.

Among Our Patrons.

After leaving Mr. Vanneman's, as noted last week, we called on Mr. Gilbert Mobbs. This gentleman owns forty acres, thirty of which are well improved. He came here eleven years ago, cutting his road through miles of unbroken wilderness. He has labored under many disadvantages, chief of which is ill-health caused by dyspepsia, hence the small farm. However, his farm bears an appearance of rough work and comfortable living. A fine orchard is started, and a strawberry patch which will yield somewhere from seven to ten bushels of fruit this season. From the chamber of his house a good view may be had of lake Michigan, about 14 miles distant.

Edwin Cook's farm joins Mr. Mobb's on the west. He has 135 acres, 100 of which are improved. In five years Mr. Cook has developed from a wilderness a fine stock farm, and has now 5 horses, 3 colts (one pair of twins), 20 head of cattle, and a small flock of sheep. His buildings are comfortable, and everything about them has a thrifty, prosperous appearance. From his front door may be seen the northern extremity of the peninsula on the west of Traverse Bay, and the Manitou, Fox, and Beaver Islands.

Mr. Cook has been generally in a clay loam, with occasional spots of sand. It grows all kinds of crops, and when properly tilled the harvest is abundant, of which Mr. Cook's success is sufficient proof.

O. D. Hilton is mother who has not labored in vain. With 170 acres of land, 100 of which are improved, he has gathered around him all the necessities of life, and many of the luxuries not enjoyed by his fellow-men. Like Mr. Cook, he has a fine view of lake Michigan, and a better view of his neighbors because more timber is cut and more land open to cultivation. He has a fine old orchard, which adds wealth to his purse as well as an increased satisfaction to his mind every living. Next summer he will build a residence worthy of its surroundings, the material for which is already being gathered together. Among the noticable ornamental features of the farm is a row of thrifty maple trees along the highway. These are now far enough advanced to shade the weary traveler, and are a source of no little pleasure to their owner.

Adjoining Mr. Hilton's farm is a school-house, built by Mr. Isaac Mill, last year, which Mr. H. says is the best country school house in Charlevoix county, as is also the school within its walls, taught by Miss Minnie Leroy.

To be continued.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by Traverse real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate, in Charlevoix county, for the week ending Tuesday evening, June 10, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

John Nickols and wife to Oscar R. Smith, s w ¼ of n e ¼ 28-33 S, $100.

Harriet Hedriged to Henry C. Hedriged, e ½ of s e ¼ 20-34 6, $1.

Eliza O-hiw-gaw-me-ko to Eva J. Lay, n e ¼ of n w ¼ 11-34-7, $700.

Mary Ann O-hiw-gaw-me-ko to Eva J. Lay, n e ¼ of n w ¼ 11-35-7, $200.

William Koepke and wife to August Prosher, n ½ of n e ¼, s e ¼ of n w ¼, and n w ¼ of s e ¼, 27-34-5, $1600.

Walter J. Harpe to Francis L. Morford, 16 acres, 35-34-6, $300.

William A. Atkinson and wife to A. R. Upright, n w ¼ of n w ¼ and s e ¼ of n w ¼, 14-33-8, $1.

Francis L. Morford to Arden B. Morford, 32 acres off s end of e ½ of s e ¼, 35-34-6, $300

One of our local citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Jas. Crozier.

Toothache.

Did you ever have a cracking, jumping, stinging, roaring, throbbing, toothache, that lay the whole family in an uproar until 3 o'clock in the morning? Many have, if they will but avail themselves of the wonderful cures made by Hamilton's Toothache Drops which are warranted to cure in one minute. Sold by druggists. Price only 25c. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co.

A Happy Family

"Probably the greatest blessing of our civilization but such a thing is not possible when diseases and death lurk on the threshold. One of the most important matters to be attended to is that the liver and kidneys are in a healthy condition. More trouble arises from derangement of these organs than from any other cause. Of a result follows in dyspepsia, diabetes, kidney and liver complaints, and other difficulties that are generally considered incurable. Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure will prevent and cure all these difficulties with great certainty. Large bottles $1. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co.

WIT AND HUMOR.

Oh, pretty maiden, now inclined to play
The part of sudden lover,
Everyone editor your choice to name the day,
They think be matter over.
"Is he the one?" This question is your mind
As you will you about it over and over,
Keep up suspense to the last, your bad been Made to do—concealed your.

A mother should be punished by being sent to the school.

No despair should lack for land when he gets sick at every day.

If you own a horse and cutter and want to kill time—sleigh it.

Winter is the only thing that can bend a man's back without its back broken.

An Indiana jury sent in a written verdict of "Rode to pees bi the biler busttu."

"What shall I write about?" asked a young reporter of the managing editor. "Oh, write about a column and a half," replied the M. E.

De Maistre said: "To know how to wait is the great secret of success." It is, if you want to get a chop at an average sweet restaurant.

A ready-made rejoinder: He—"You made a fool of me when I married you, ma'am." She—"Law! You always told me you were a self-made man!"

A Boston woman has discarded her pet pug and gone to petting her husband. Had "her set" have gone back on her on account of plebeian instes.

The color line is rapidly disappearing in North Carolina. A white man was arrested a few days ago for robbing a colored citizen's hen coop.

A young lady in Huntington, Pa., who has been deserted by her lover, has hoisted on his farm. She merely unsingled her form of attachment.—Albany Times.

A Springfield man wrote to Governor Robinson to inquire if the law would permit him to marry a cousin. The reply was—"The law is willin,' if the cousin is."

This is the way a mother down east describes her daughter's courtship: "He posed and sighed, she nayed and 'twixt last she 'sented, then he gaged her."

Someone interrogated little Georgie in regard to her sister's betrothed. "How old is he?" "I don't know." "Well, is he young?" "Yes—he has no hair yet."

How a woman always does up a manuscript she sends to a friend, so that it looks like a well-stuffed pillow, is something that no man is woman enough to understand.

"How do you kill time here?" asked a well-dressed and an equally swell New Yorker. "Oh, with our club," was the reply. And the pair went off to look up one, each having some to kill.

Fathers often make a great mistake in bringing up their sons to follow their own trade. A trunkmaker was wiser. He had ten sons, and all are now railroad porters. That trunkmaker is getting rich.

A Boston man advertises that he recovers umbrellas. This man should have a good run of custom. We would give him a job ourselves if we thought he could recover the silk one we lost last spring.

The following question is to be wrestled with by a country debating society at its next session: If the Mormon has eight wives and barbs one of them, how much of a widower does he become, if any?

"I believe," said Fanderson, "that you take me for a fool." Replied Foggs "I have been asked a sleepy Kendy, but, bed as I am, I still have respect for every man's belief—including yours, Fendy, including yours.

"Why does the train run so much faster than yesterday?" asked a passenger on a branch of the Wabash railway of the conductor. "We are in Missouri today," was the reply, "and we always get out of this state as soon as possible."

"Johnnie," asked a Marathon lady of an urchin, "why doesn't your mother sew up that hole in your coat? It has been there two weeks now." "Oh, she can't." She's busy sewing on a crazy quilt to beat Mrs. Jones'."—Marathon Independent.

"Don't talk to me about beginning at the bottom of the ladder," observed a "crushed" actress to a friend; "I began there ten years ago, and I'm there still. It was to do over again I'd begin at the top. It's much easier to fall down than to climb up."

"I don't see how you can endure that Polly girl, Jack," said his sister. "I'm sure there's nothing in her." "Nothing in her, indeed! I just wish you'd been with us to supper after the theater to-night," and he dropped a tear over his buried salary.

A lecture on "The Ten Commandments" was recently delivered in a western town, and the local paper spoke of it as a novel and brilliantly original code of morals, which will be likely to make a stir in the world when it becomes more widely known.

To empty a theater in case of fire, the act-drop should be lowered. All the men will rush out by force of habit and the women will sit still, as usual in such cases, and a panic will be prevented. This suggestion is freely offered for what it is worth. It is not patented.

"Papa, why did Washington cut down the cherry tree?" and a six-year-old son. "I will answer your question by asking you one. Why did you break that pane of glass this morning?" "Er—er, because er—er—" "Well, my son, that's just the reason George gave his father."

A Brooklyn youth, who rushed into matrimony on $14 a week, and was arrested for failing to support his wife, says that he was led to the experiment from seeing in a penny paper an account of how cheaply a loving couple could live. Moral—Beware of those penny papers.—N. Y. Com. Advertiser.

A visiting friend found Simkins with his coat off standing in the doorstep the other night, and remarked: "Suffering Cæsar, man, you'll catch an awful cold out here in your shirt sleeves." "That's what I want," said Simkins, cheerfully. "Got to sing a new song solo at an entertainment to-morrow night, you know."

"I can't pay that bill just now; you will have to wait a little for the money." "All right, sir," cheerfully responded the boy, as he seated himself and unfolded a copy of the Police Gazette. "Them's the orders of the boss." "What are the orders of the boss?" demanded the gentleman, sternly. "I'm to wait for the money."

Mr. James K. Rendall relates the following: "Senator Palmer, of Michigan, although a man of dignity, is something of a wag. He occupies one of the four seats on the highest dais of the chamber. He at first called that locality, as in the French assembly, 'The Mountain;' but, finding that the middle man of the row was the New Hampshire Senator, he changed the nomenclature to 'Lake's Peak.'"

An Austin lady recently returned from quite a protracted visit to the north, whither her husband, being closely confined by business, was unable to accompany her. While upgrading her trunk her decidedly plain and vinegar-featured housekeeper thus addressed her: "Share, and you have a jewel of a husband. 'Yes, I think myself he is pretty fair.' Share, do you consider him equal to jewel?" "Why, during the entire time you were gone he never said a word to me."

Mormon customer—"I want a mourning band for my hat." Storekeeper—"For temporary use, or to wear always?" Customer—"I shall never take it off." Storekeeper—"Well, here is something that I can warrant durable and——" Customer—"My goodness, that won't do; it's three inches wide, when my mother-in-law died it was only an inch and a half wide." Storekeeper—"I should consider that a good width." Customer—"But you forget. I have twelve wives, and therefore can't spare over half an inch for each without enlarging the hat."

One Kind of Fool.

A young man with a plated watch-chain that would do to tie up a sacred elephant, came into Dewver the other day from the East on the Junkerup Short line, and told the ticket clerk that he had just returned from Europe, and was on his way across the continent with the intention of publishing a book of international information. He handed an astonished clerk a five-dollar note, registered in a bald, bad way, and with a flourish that scattered the ink on the tablecloth and on everything within reach. While he ate another man's dessert he chatted on guilty about Congress and the little cattle man who had to stay out on the Black plains and watch the cows while others paddled around Venice and acquired information in a foreign land.

At first the cattle man showed some interest in Europe, but after awhile he grew quiet and didn't seem to enjoy it. Later on the European tourist, with soiled cuffs and auburn mane, ordered the waiters around in a majestic way to impress people with his greatness, tipped over the vinegar cruet into the salt, and ate a slice of boiled egg out of another man's salad.

Casually, a tall Kansas man, strolled in, and asked the European tourist what he was doing in Denver. The cattle man, who, by the way, has been abroad five or six times, and is as much at home in Paris as he is in Omaha, investigated the matter, and learned that the fresh French tourist had been herding lions on a chicken ranch in Kansas for six years, and had never seen blue water. He then took a few personal friends to the dining-room door, and they watched the alleged traveler. He had just taken a long refreshing drink from the finger bowl of his neighbor on the left and was at that moment trying to scoop up a limp of sugar with the sugar-tong on the right.

There are a good many fools who drift around through the world and dodge the authorities, but the most dangerous one that I know is the man who goes West with two dollars and forty cents in his pocket, without brains enough to sell the most delicate cambric handkerchief and tries to play himself for a savant with no more knowledge that he has to do without information all the time to keep his abysmal knowledge from barting him.—Bill Nye.

A clergyman was devoutly reading the Holy Scriptures to his congregation, when he came to certain words in the lower right hand corner to which he desired to give great emphasis. So he read with a loud voice, "I am" turned over two leaves and continued—"as ass, the foal of an ass"—then, seeing his mistake, found the right place, and added—"that I am," which of course, nobody would deny.—Burr.

The fish tug Lida, of Ludington, arrived yesterday to stay.

The fish tug Kitty Gaylord is an arrival since our last, to all appearances having come to stay.

The whistle of the tug Higgie assisted the Lawrence to make this port in the fog last Sunday afternoon.

Rev. J. H. McCartney will preach at the M. E. church next Sabbath morning and evening. All are invited.

☞ Upright, Emrey & Co., have a full line of sash, doors, lath and shingles, which they are offering at bottom prices.

Mrs. L. E. Allen and Miss Annie Cooper returned home from Flint on Tuesday. They report a pleasant time.

☞ L. D. Bartholomew has sold nearly three tons of Barb fence wire this season. Doors and sash in proportion.

Children's day exercises at the M. E. church gave excellent satisfaction in character, collections, and everything else.

Will C. Graves, brother of Dr. S. C. Graves, of this place, arrived on Tuesday, to remain the summer, perhaps permanently.

Dr. H. P. Snyder, dentist of Traverse City, spent a few days in Charlevoix this week. He says he is getting a good business here.

The new schooner Florence M. Smith, recorded her first clearance on the 9th, with 55 cords wood for E. M. Clark, to Milwaukee.

There were seven cages of birds, and a great quantity of beautiful flowers, among the decorations at the opera house for children's day.

W. F. Orrell is this week fitting up J. Milo Eaton's real estate office with handsome decorations in wall paper, —finest styles just from Chicago.

The engineer of the Wright sailed his hand last Friday so seriously that his physician has little or no hope of his ever regaining the use of it.

Frank Richardson and Della Stafford, of Norwood, were married at the M. E. parsonage, by Rev. J. T. Billings, yesterday afternoon, June, 11th.

We have recently ordered some wood type for poster work, which is expected some time this week. With it we hope to increase our job printing business.

Rev. J. C. Van Auken, of Northport, recently from Chicago Seminary, brother of Rev. C. F. Van Auken, of Charlevoix, will preach at the opera house Sunday morning and evening.

Liberal advertising filled the opera house at the occasion of the presentation of Harry Webber's Nip and Tuck, and the audience evidenced their satisfaction by frequent applause.

Ira L. Guilford, an old friend and classmate of Rev. C. F. Van Auken, is stopping in the village a few days. He pronounces this one of the most delightful summer towns he ever visited.

A good job of "repairing" has been done to the bank between J. Milo Eaton's real estate office, and O. I. Wheat's confectionery store. A strong sod has been laid, and a barbed wire fence put up to protect it.

We understand that a meeting has been called at Lewis hall this Thursday evening, for the purpose of organizing a military company. All interted are desired to be present, and participate in the organization.

Last week we mentioned that L. D. Potter had commenced the dairy business on the old R. A. Miller farm. We have since used on our table, butter made by Mrs. P. and can recommend it to all who desire a first class article.

At a democratic caucus at the Hilton school house June 9th, the following gentlemen were elected delegates to the county convention at the opera house to day: Edwin Cook, Jas. O'Brien, Alfred Van Deusen, and Gilbert Mobbs.

A story is related of a Charlevoix county farmer who went to Washington territory, to look for a more generous country than this, in which to build a home; failing there returned to Charlevoix; again took the fever and emigrated to Kansas, and failing there has permanently settled here. To retrieve his lost fortunes he has engaged in the poultry business, beginning by setting an old rooster on hen's eggs.

Wilkinson & Shepard, buyers of rags, old rubber, and copper, have a "telephone order," for our readers this week, which is worth remembering. It is the premise saved that make many people rich, and the trade of these gentleman is an important item.

On our supplement pages will be found a portion of O. F. Wisner's poem "Hiaweah," read before the Charlevoix Liberal Club as the "Persian Queen." Mr. Wisner received many words of praise of his production, and we trust its publication will bring to him many other friendly notices. It is to be published in pamphlet form, printed on a very fine tinted paper. Its publication in the Journal will continue about two months.

There was quite a sensation in town last Monday afternoon, caused by a report that Geo. Estelle and family had gone out for a sail Sunday morning, and being overtaken by the squall about noon had not since been seen. Wm. Ferguson took a sail boat and went in search of them, returning Tuesday morning with the information that they had been blown ashore above the little island, and found shelter in an old Indian wig wam. They have since returned home safely.

Dr. J. N. Fowler, of Grand Rapids, a specialist in the treatment of cancer, the eye and ear, catarrh, and other chronic and malignant diseases, is stopping at the Bridge Street house for a few days. He has been eminently successful in his practice of nearly thirty years in this State, and has testimonials of many remarkable cures. He has a series of charts in his room showing the organism of the human system, and his consultations (which are free) are very instructive. For references, etc., see his Peoples Journal.

Celebration.

There will be a meeting at the town hall, at 7:30 Friday evening to make arrangements for celebrating the Fourth in good old-fashioned style. Let there be a full attendance.

Shipments.

The following are the clearances from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the custom house for the week ending Tuesday, June 10:

Schr. Ben Franklin, 50 cords wood, to Milwaukee.

Schr. Florence M. Smith, 55 cords wood, E. M. Clark, to Milwaukee.

Schr. Little Mason, 40 cords wood, 10 cords bark, Will Stone, to Milwaukee.

Sunday School Convention.

Program of the Charlevoix county Sunday school convention, to be held at Boyne City on Wednesday, June 25, 1884.

MORNING SESSION.

9.30 Devotional exercises.
Address of welcome, by superintendent of Boyne City Sunday school.
Response by the president.
9.50. Brief reports by township presidents (or proxy appointed by them) of the condition of each Sunday school in the county.
9.30. Discussion: How can we extend and secure attendance in our Sunday schools? Opened by Rev. Wm. Norton.
10.00. Discussion: How we can secure regular attendance in our Sunday schools? Opened by Rev. Wm. Norton.
10.20. Discussion: Reverence. Opened by E. M. Clark.
11.00. Miscellaneous business and appointment of committees.
12.00. Picnic dinner.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

1.00. Devotional exercises.
1.20. Children's meeting.
2.00. Discussion: How should we teach temperance in our Sunday schools? Opened by E. H. Green.
2.30. Discussion: Preparation of the lesson. Opened by Dr. J. T. Brown.
2.50. Discussion: Sunday school finances. Opened by Rev. J. Redpath.
3.30. Election of officers for ensuing year.

Appropriate music will be interspersed through the exercises.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure neutralizes the poison. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crozier.

Cholera.

And the milder forms of bowel difficulty, dysentery, diarrhoea, &c., all come from a disordered digestion attended with pain in the stomach, cramps, colic, &c. He who and ward off these attacks by taking Hamilton's Jamaica Ginger Tonic and Pain Cure, which is a sure remedy. Never known to fail to give immediate relief. Any one entertaining a prejudice against medicine, or who is opposed to using a tonic, should try a bottle of this medicine. Price 25 cents. Sold by Dr. Crozier.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich. June 12, 1884.

Provision Market.

Retail prices to consumers, as corrected every Wednesday evening by UPRIGHT, EMREY & CO., general dealers:

FLOUR, per bbl. $4.00, $5.00, and $7.00.
OATS, per bu. 50c.
GROUND FEED, per cwt. $1.00@1.05.
POTATOES, per bu. 50c.
ONIONS, per bu. $1.00.
BUTTER, per lb. 25c.
EGGS, per doz. 16c.
LARD, per lb. 10@12c.
HAMS, etc. Shoulders, 12c.
SALT PORK, 10c; Dry Salt Side, 12; Beef, 8c.
TAR COAL, per ft. 10c.
CHEESE, 8c.
WATER WHITE OIL, 25c.
FARMERS' PRODUCE in good demand.

Fresh Meats from the Market.

CORRECTED BY O. W. JEFFERYS.

SEAT beef steak, 12½@15c; fresh pork, 12½; mess, 12@15c; sausage, 15c; hams, 16c; shoulders, 10c; ribs 6c, 8c.
TALLOW, 6@8c.

Local News Brevities.

Mrs. A. F. Stover is on the sick list this week.

Summer visitors are becoming more numerous.

☞ Notice in Hardware of L. D. Bartholomew.

☞ Keeseps for overseers of highways, at this office.

☞ Note our market changes this week. Upright, Emrey & Co.

☞ Carpet tacks, and Threshing Machines at L. D. Bartholomew's.

Artie Howard has our thanks for late papers from Washtenaw county.

Prof. J. L. Guilford, physiognomist, is at the Bridge street house this week.

Geo. O. Taylor arrived home from Chicago on the Lawrence last Sunday.

Mr. A. J. Hawkes, of South Arm, gave the JOURNAL a call on Wednesday.

Prof. M. L. Smith and his mother will give a concert at Eastport this week.

It is estimated that a fine flagstaff will soon be placed on the opera house center.

Bert Jordan is said to have the most lonker pole in Charlevoix county.

Miss Emma Gleen was in town a few days the guest of Miss Minie Sebels.

M. J. Stockman and wife arrived home from Chicago on the Lawrence last Sunday.

O. R. Wood is suffering this week from a severe attack of inflamatory rheumatism.

C. J. Grier and wife went to Traverse City on the Grand Rapids, Tuesday afternoon.

Hon. Leroy Warren, of Lansing, and Mr. Satterlee, are at F. Shantz's this week.

Dr. J. N. Fowler, of Grand Rapids, is at the Bridge street house a few days this week.

C. G. Lewis and R. E. Newville, of Boyne, gave the JOURNAL a call last Friday morning.

☞ Hals at that Hat House of Upright Emrey & Co., are warranted to give satisfaction.

C. G. Lewis, of Boyne, arrived home from the west on the Champlain last Thursday night.

John Barns, who has been at Vassar the past winter, returned to Charlevoix last Saturday.

A. L. Hamill is building a fruit stand next to the bridge, on the east side of Bridge street.

School closes on Friday of this week. The children will have a holiday until September.

Bernie Gollick has gone into the show business, at least he has a young bear for a menagerie.

The exercises of "anniversary week" at Olivet College will begin on Saturday evening, June 14.

J. A. Bacot was in Charlevoix yesterday, though not fully recovered from his recent illness.

☞ Mr. Dingel has made L. D. Barthalomew agent for the "Hoosier" (Champion of the world) Roller skates. They are the best skate in the market.

☞ Note our market changes this week. Upright, Emrey & Co.

☞ Carpet tacks, and Threshing Machines at L. D. Bartholomew's.

Artie Howard has our thanks for late papers from Washtenaw county.

Prof. J. L. Guilford, physiognomist, is at the Bridge street house this week.

Geo. O. Taylor arrived home from Chicago on the Lawrence last Sunday.

Mr. A. J. Hawkes, of South Arm, gave the JOURNAL a call on Wednesday.

Prof. M. L. Smith and his mother will give a concert at Eastport this week.

It is estimated that a fine flagstaff will soon be placed on the opera house center.

Bert Jordan is said to have the most lonker pole in Charlevoix county.

Miss Emma Gleen was in town a few days the guest of Miss Minie Sebels.

M. J. Stockman and wife arrived home from Chicago on the Lawrence last Sunday.

O. R. Wood is suffering this week from a severe attack of inflamatory rheumatism.

C. J. Grier and wife went to Traverse City on the Grand Rapids, Tuesday afternoon.

Hon. Leroy Warren, of Lansing, and Mr. Satterlee, are at F. Shantz's this week.

Dr. J. N. Fowler, of Grand Rapids, is at the Bridge street house a few days this week.

C. G. Lewis and R. E. Newville, of Boyne, gave the JOURNAL a call last Friday morning.

☞ Hals at that Hat House of Upright Emrey & Co., are warranted to give satisfaction.

C. G. Lewis, of Boyne, arrived home from the west on the Champlain last Thursday night.

John Barns, who has been at Vassar the past winter, returned to Charlevoix last Saturday.

A. L. Hamill is building a fruit stand next to the bridge, on the east side of Bridge street.

School closes on Friday of this week. The children will have a holiday until September.

Bernie Gollick has gone into the show business, at least he has a young bear for a menagerie.

The exercises of "anniversary week" at Olivet College will begin on Saturday evening, June 14.

J. A. Bacot was in Charlevoix yesterday, though not fully recovered from his recent illness.

☞ Mr. Dingel has made L. D. Barthalomew agent for the "Hoosier" (Champion of the world) Roller skates. They are the best skate in the market.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Offer a full and fresh line of

DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, &C.

At Very Low Prices.

Headquarters for

Groceries and Provisions.

Call for the Belding Flour.

Sole Agency for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss.—Notice is hereby given, that at a session of the Probate Court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the eleventh day of June, A. D. 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of Charles Hall, deceased, late of said county, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate Court, at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and adjustment, on or before the fifth day of January next, and that such claims will be heard by said Court on Monday, the first day of September, and on Monday, the fifth day of January next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days.

Dated May 12th, A. D. 1884.

JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss.—Notice is hereby given, that at a session of the Probate Court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the eleventh day of June, A. D. 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of Charles Hall, late of said county, deceased, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate Court, at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and adjustment, on or before the fifth day of January next, and that such claims will be heard by said Court on Monday, the first day of September, and on Monday, the fifth day of January next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days.

Dated June 11th, A. D. 1884.

JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, County of Charlevoix, ss. At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, on the eleventh day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four. Present, James A. Keat, Judge of Probate, in the matter of the estate of CHARLOTTE BOWDISH, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Ira Bowdish, praying that administration of said estate be granted to Ira Bowdish or to some other suitable person, and that the heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, may be bound to account for so much of said estate, as may be in his hands, or subjected to said estate, of the decedent of said deceased, and that the residue of said estate may be assigned and distributed to the persons entitled thereto, it is ordered that the petitioner shall not be required to give a bond, and that the heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be held in the Probate office in the village of Charlevoix, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted, and it is further ordered that said petitioner give notice to the several persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix County Journal, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, four successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES A. KEAT,
(A true copy.) Judge of Probate.

Telephone Order

Hello there!
Hello! What is it?
Has your mother got any rags, old rubber, or copper she would like to dispose of? If so, please pick them up and save them, as WILKINSON & SHEPARD of Charlevoix, Mich., will be round in a day or two and get them. 48

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Wood & Co.'s drug store.

OLD NEWSPAPERS FOR SALE

HEADQUARTERS FOR Plows, Harrows, Horse Rakes,

And everything in the Agricultural Implement line.

Examine and be Convinced:

The No. 10 Champion Plow, "Best in the World." The Gale Plow. The Oliver Chilled Plow. The Gale Horse Rake. The Albion Mfg. Co.'s New Horse Rake. The Osborne No. 7 Mower, light and strong. The Buchanan Wagon.

IN HARDWARE

We do not imitate; we lead. We positively guarantee our GOODS and PRICES. We ask kindly for our proportion of your patronage.

May 22, 1884. STOCKMAN & IDDINGS.

SAVINGS BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.

Deposits of TEN CENTS AND UPWARD received. We hold large deposits in this department. REASONS.—First, we are under State control. State Savings Banks are the safest institutions. National banks are subject to a supervision and control of the comptroller of the currency. Second, amount of stock, surplus and undivided profits, is nearly double that of any other bank in Charlevoix county. State Savings Banks offer no inducements to speculators, being a mutual institution, and that is why our savings department is filled with our own money. We do a general banking business. Interest allowed on time deposits. Money loaned on real estate security. Exchange bought and sold. Collections promptly made. Our office is located in the Savings Bank building, which is our own property, and with our friends is a strong point. Call and see us. REYNOLDS & BROWN.

Electric Light

In the form of a FAIR, now located in Charlevoix. They have added some high prices on kitchen utensils, toilet soaps, crockery, glassware, hammocks, jewelry, lawnmowers, hammocks, creeper sets, ladies' fine shoes, shopping baskets, ladies' and misses' fine sailor hats, corsets, table cutlery, tool chests, spoon racks, table cutlery, and china, spoon racks, overalls, jumpers, and fresh confectionery.

A good tool rack for, dried pan tie, scroll bracket, which forms the hand mirror so, splendid unknown home tie, ladies' home tie, goods home tie, clamshell shaved noodle, gents' bicycle shirt tie, ladies' bicycle shirt tie, and a complete line of fine fads of household articles too numerous to note, all of never before dreamed of prices at

THE FAIR,

J. J. Kanagy & Son,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A PRIZE. Send six cents for postage and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All of either sex succeed from the first hour. The broad road to fortune opens wide and inviting before the workers. Address, True & Co., Augusta, Maine.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The subscriber having been permanently cured of that dread disease,

THE SONG OF THE WORKERS.

BY EDWARD WILLETT.

I sing the song of the workers, the men of the brawny arm,
Who give us our daily bread and keep us from hunger's harm;
Who plow the soil of the forest, who leaven the fields with gold,
Who take no heed of the sunshine, and mind not sweat of toil.

I sing the song of the workers, who harvest the molten grain,
And fan it and thresh it, and sift it, nor care for the dust and pain;
Who fill the grain in the wagons, and stoutly their oxen drive,
And bid them good-by as they go, like the lees flying home to the hive.

I sing the song of the workers, the men who strength as I have not,
Who give to their muscle and nerve as they good the basket bring;
Who give to their mind and brain as they water the parched ground,
And run the risk of their lives as they pass the perilous stream.

I sing the song of the workers, the men who bake good bread,
Who handle for us the honey that comes to the humble hive;
The patient and tireless workers, with muscles strong as steel,
Who guide the locomotive's thunder, and lift, and handle, and weed.

I sing the song of the workers, demanding for every one
The poorest and lowliest of all the work he can do
For all the work of the workers, no matter whom or where,
To meet the one grand result the honest, proportionate share.

A MATER DOLOROSA.

A Chinese woman has no identity of her own. She is simply of consequence as she is the wife of some man, or the mother of a son. If this phase of existence sheds but little glory upon her, it also relieves her of many responsibilities, and gives to her obscurity the value of entire anonymity.

Aunt Nancy was the wife of Uncle Lisha.

It would be impossible to give a biography of Aunt Nancy without including Uncle Lisha, or to eliminate her individuality long enough to serve her up alone. And I should if the dear old lady would like such marital independence. Nor do I think she would recognize any picture of herself that was not a reflection of him. Like the moon, she shone by borrowed light.

Uncle Lisha was a living illustration of the old adage, "It is better to be born lucky than rich." His property was inherited, and he never did a day' work in his life. But everybody else in his family worked, Aunt Nancy, his wife, more than any of them. Uncle Lisha didn't work because he enjoyed poor health. A partial list of his complaints would read about like this:

Fever and ague.
Chronic indigestion.
Paralysis of the heart.
Paralysis of the liver.
Inflammatory rheumatism.
Lameness in the left knee.
Lameness in the right knee.
Ossification of the joints.
Hereditary consumption
(On the mother's side.)
Hereditary apoplexy.
(On the father's side.)

These were just a few of the ills which laced the poor man, and made him exceedingly careful of himself. He couldn't stop for fear of apoplexy symptoms, he was afraid to lift anything, on account of his spine; he never dared hurry, as his heart had a habit of beating, and, in fact, nothing agreed with him except—doing nothing. He was the very same boy referred to in the following incident. I am aware it is credited to the Beecher family, but they never had a monopoly of lazy boys, if they did of bright ones. Uncle Lisha's father had given Uncle Ed, on one time been away from home a few days, leaving his two boys, Elisha and Edward, to do the chores. When he returned, nothing had been done, and he discovered the boys in a hay-mow, reading stories.

"Yes!" thundered the Doctor, "come here, sir."

Zeke came and stood shame-faced by his father.

"What have you been doing since I was away?"

"Nothing, sir."

"Elisha, come here, you, and give an account of yourself. Tell the truth, now. What have you been doing?"

"Helping Zeke, sir."

This family was Uncle Lisha's stock in trade, and he steadily improved it and made others believe in it, until they really considered it wrong to expect him to do anything. I can see him yet putting on his boots of a winter's morning. All the cattle had been fed, watered, cleaned, and wood carried in. Aunt Nancy had been up hours, getting breakfast and washing the children, and telling them not to make a noise and wake "poor father," who hadn't slept a wink all night. Gentle soul! It is possible that she believed it, for she was too tired herself to be awake to see. And when he came down they all waited on him and handed him his boots, which he lingered patiently in front of the hot fire. Then he would cough feebly, put his hand to his heart, sigh—and warm the inside of his boot. After resting from this exertion he would take a strap in each hand and with several attempts get it on. Then a long rest, before a similar process with the other one. A drink of reviving water was then handed by one child, while another and a boy had looked at him as if he had been a tenderness wonder. "Poor father" was only afflicted with spring fever, which lasted him the year round—in other words, chronic laziness.

"I shan't last long," he would say, in that whiney-piny voice which exasperated all who knew him as he really was. "Then, Nancy, you and the children can live it all your own way."

And Aunt Nancy would cry, and the children howl, and there would be some added delicacy at the sufferer's plate for the next meal.

"There's only a dozen eggs in the house," that saintly woman would observe. "Now, children, I'm going to cook those for your poor father—don't one of you ask for eggs."

But when he reached the last egg one of the tempted children would pluck up courage to hint for it. Uncle Lisha would look at that child with a countenance of much reproach, and say:

"Yes, take it, take it, and let your poor sick father starve."

There was no chance for Aunt Nancy to have any pet ailments. If she was sick and complained, Uncle Lisha would say:

"You felt just so, mother," and that settled it. If he was going anywhere, he would put in the saving clause:

"If I live, and Nancy's well."

Her health was never mere chimera of the imagination.

I've suffered worse and never mentioned it—suffered like a wintergreen, I do would ask, as if that were the plus ultra of misery.

Every year or two he made a new will, and every day he advised Aunt Nancy what to do when he was gone. In their early married life, when the children were small, he had intended that she would marry again, but in later years this fear had no place in his thoughts. The children themselves were married and gone, and Aunt Nancy was an old woman with a white, placid face, and bands of iron-gray hair—not really old, but worn out—her life had been such a perpetual echo of Uncle Lisha. He didn't like company, so she didn't have any. He never wanted to go anywhere, so she stayed at home. If she ever went to church she had to go alone, and that was so dreary, and she had so many inquiries to answer about his health that she seldom went.

"Don't miss me when I'm gone," he would say, cheerfully, and so she would. And she would have missed the old clock in the corner, too, if it had suddenly disappeared.

"What does the doctor say about me?" he asked her one day when the village physician had gone out, first calling her to one side. Perhaps Aunt Nancy was a little worn out that day, or lessened her resentment, for she deliberately answered:

"He thinks you haven't a disease in the world, Elisha, and that if you would take more exercise it would be better for you."

He was wounded to the quick, and did not speak to her for twenty-four hours, and he discharged the impolitic physician the next day.

Uncle Lisha was fond of lachrymose hymns, and when not singing

"Here, iron the towels a dozen round," he would tip back his chair—the only one in the room—his eyes and chant by the hour:

"I'm resting home
No more to roam,
No more to sin or sorrow,
No more to wear
The heavy cross,
I'm on my home to-morrow."

But tomorrow came and went, and Uncle Lisha did not go home.

There was a shelf in the closet which was especially devoted to his medicines. In his early days he had dosed milly with rhubarb and samaradilla. Then quinine became the fashion, and he dosed on that. Later generations of tonics, patent nostrums and alterative pills completed the list, except that there was no end to the domestic remedies, such as mustard and ginger, and other alleviating agents.

"When I am gone," he would say, mournfully, "give my medicines to some deserving poor person. There'll never be another such sufferer in the family as I have been."

But there came a day when even Uncle Lisha's ailments were of little account. Aunt Nancy was sick, very sick. She had been breaking down all summer, but no one had been concerned, least of all her husband, who had developed new symptoms that were very alarming—to himself. Finally, she went to her bed and sent for the children. They at once called in a Doctor, who on his first visit looked exceedingly grave. Upon the second he asked for a private interview with Uncle Lisha.

"Your wife is a very sick woman," he said, abruptly.

"She does seem ailing," said Uncle Lisha, rubbing his lame knee, and forgetting at the moment which one it was; "but, bless you, I've had the same symptoms so long I'm used to them, Doctor. She's well, compared to me, actually well."

The doctor looked at the old man with some contempt.

"Threatened lives last long," he said, bluntly. "But have it your own way. I've tried to prepare you—that's all."

The doctor took his leave, and Uncle Lisha went into the sick-room. It was calm and serene. Most of all, that pale shell face on the pillow. It seemed ages since the poor kindly light in them that had been there for thirty years when they met his. The pinched white cheeks were only more sunken and withered.

"Having a kind of spell, ain't you, Nancy?" said Uncle Lisha. "Now, don't get discouraged. I've felt just as hundreds of times! It's nothing new and nothing to worry about."

"I'm not worrying," said his wife, faintly: "I am dying, Elisha."

"Nancy, you ought'n't to talk about such a serious thing as that so lightly. It—it—makes my rheumatic worse to hear you. You ought to have some consideration for me. I can't stand everything."

"Poor old boy," said Aunt Nancy, shaking his plump, young hand. "Poor Lisha! you will miss me for awhile."

"There, there, now," said Uncle Lisha, soothingly; "I'll give you a spoonfull of my tonic in the morning, and you'll come out like a lamb in the spring time. Go to sleep, Nancy; it'll help you wonderfully. It always helps me."

The next morning Aunt Lucy had taken the tonic of a new life. "I'm going home first, after all," she said with a smile, and died.

This upset all the calculations of a life time with Uncle Lisha. He had nobody to complain to, and he was uncared in the least whether he had twenty ailments or one. He was not encouraged to be lazy, and helpless, and selfish, and he fell into complete ruin. He had nothing to live for, so he could not complain to himself or him with himself his own symptoms. He never tailed of dying or sung "I'm going home" again. In the weather he went up to his wife's grave. Doubtless it would have distressed her had she known that she was dead to his complaints. In his room a dress and shawl of hers hung on the chair. When he finally became ill in earnest he made light of it. For their mother's sake the children tended him faithfully. One night he stretched out a wasted hand and touched his wife's dress.

"Nancy," they heard him whisper, "I'm going home. I'm going home to morrow."

They buried him beside her.—Mrs. Wagne, in Detroit Free Press.

BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS.

Speech of Hon. N. E. Worthington, of Illinois, in the House of Representatives.

The House being in committee of the whole House on the state of the Union and having under consideration the bill (H. R. 340) to establish and maintain a bureau of labor statistics, Mr. Worthington said:

MR. CHAIRMAN: I am in favor of any legislation that will throw light upon the great questions involved in this bill. No investigation is needed to demonstrate the fact that there is an uneasiness when judge will lean secure in one and wanung, willing and anxious to work, find honorable, and remunerative labor. There is no sinister opposition thus to see laborers unemployed who want to work, or to see their families drawn in darkness for a miserable pittance to the sweat shop or the factory, and it is a sweet heredity that life should be a perpetual struggle for mere existence, without time or adequate means for self-improvement; that it should be a constant fight to keep the gaunt wolf of want and famine from the door, and, yet, glorious, that freedom from the cradle to the grave, that freedom from the fear of the sickness, of unemployed brother, of unequaled variety of climate and productions. The Turkish and genius of both the Greek and the Roman science flourish under our flag.

Under the shadow of the vine and the olive, in the sunshine of the Orange and the Lemon, amongst the sunny people, are animate production. Large bodies of our young men and young in the history of nations. No other nation has ever produced such natural aptitude for inventive, economy, and labor. And, though, we have had our share of the evils of the growth of our national existence, we have nearly confronted squarely with the perplexing problems of labor and capital. Our men and women out of employment, out of wages, are nearly four-and-and body hundred. Yet, in the face of that other unhealthy fact the wealth of the country increased in the last year, the wealth of the country increased in the last year, the wealth of the country increased in the last year,

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 12, 1884.

Around the County.

South Arm.

Robert Summerville has returned from his Canadian trip.

James Wadsworth, Esq., of Bellaire, was in town Saturday.

O. D. Wood, of Charlevoix, made this town a business call last week.

Mr. Levison, of Traverse City, passed through here recently, selling dry goods.

P. L. Lanway has opened his grocery to receive the public custom. Go show Phil.

Peter Murry, of Echo, came very near losing his house and barn by fire last week but through the heroic efforts of his neighbors they were saved.

The gentle rain, much needed, has at last arrived. The spring has been propitious for clearing land and consequently much of that business has been pushed up.

The reporting season has begun. Seven fishermen from Elmira called on Rev. H. C. Scofield last week. They caught quite a number of fish in the waters of upper Intermediate lakes.

Decoration day passed off quite pleasantly for the first effort. Quite a crowd was gathered though not the largest ever here, as the Enterprise stated. The unpleasant features of the occasion were the intolerable dust and lack of seats. Hon. H. B. Hudson gave us a splendid speech and especially counselled the Grand Army boys to be steadfast.

Norwood.

G. V. Nash has a fine new carriage, and is enjoying the use of the same.

Ed. Moldo has a photograph tent pitched here and is, we understand, doing very good work.

J. Guyles and wife were in town the 8th, the guests of Mr. Geo. Guyles.

Mr. Geo. VanPelt shipped ten thousand lath-blocks to Chicago by steamer Champlain, Saturday the 7th.

The schooner South Side of Milwaukee, cleared this port with 150 cords of wood for Guyles, Nash & Co. Sunday the 8th.

The exercises on Children's day at the school house were very fine. There was a fine display of rare and beautiful flowers; the children did themselves proud in the way of declaiming and singing. Rev. Mr. Heath gave a short exclamation to the children of the day so apart for them. Generally speaking, it was a very pleasant meeting.

Ironton.

J. G. Peterson has a new $160 organ. Mrs. Peterson looks pleased.

Mr Moses Foreman went to Chicago on the last trip of the John Otis.

Mrs. Fred. Debenham, presented her husband with a little girl baby last week.

The furnace is doing better than ever before. It made 57 tons of iron in one day.

Preaching at the school house on Monday evening of this week, by Rev. Mr. Hilsings of Charlevoix.

The new street running from Front street to Pioneer house, is completed. The town was much in need of this road.

The Pine Lake Iron Co., are going to build several more dwellings this summer. Walter Manny has the contracts.

Burgess.

Mr. Tillotson is engaged at Petoskey this week.

George Banks traded his oxen for a span of horses one day last week.

Some of the ladies of this town met at Moses Cooper's residence one day last week for an old-fashioned quilting.

The greenbackers of Hayes are invited to assemble at Cruickshank & Grier's office in Charlevoix, next Saturday at 11 a. m. as the county committee meets there at that time.

[Will our correspondent please furnish the facts in regard to the failure of town officers to carry out the will of the people as expressed at the township meeting, which he refers to. —Ed.]

GLEANINGS.

There are thirty-nine English tailors in Paris.

New York City's total debt is $93,174,721.49.

The city undertaker of Palatka, Fla., is a woman.

"Horse" Murray is now traveling correspondent for a funny paper.

Fred Reitbrock, of Milwaukee, has a turning lathe once used by Maximilian I, of Germany.

During the present century 150,000,000 copies of the Bible have been printed in 226 different languages.

Ass Ballard has been secretary of the Massachusetts Sunday School Publishing Company for fifty years.

The management of the old Soldiers' Home at Newark, N. J., is stuck that the cost for each veteran is only 30 cents per day.

Liverpool is the greatest shipping port of the world, its annual tonnage being 2,646,872 tons. London is the next port, with 2,339,688 tons. Glasgow ranks third, with a tonnage of 1,432,354. New York comes fourth on the list of shipping ports of the world, with a tonnage of 1,163,576.

The United States Treasury has the biggest spittoon on record. It is a great oblong wooden box as big as a bed, filled with sawdust. It lies in the basement, at the foot of the four flights of stairs which lead to the various stories, and accommodates the government employes and others.

The "Major Oak," near Edwinstowe, England, fell before the recent gale there. Its trunk had a girth of 29 feet, and the circumference of the top was 240 feet. The hollow stem was used by picnic parties, and seven people had at one time partaken of a meal in it. It was known to have stood 700 years.

Twenty-six years ago Roscoe Conkling was elected mayor of Utica, N. Y., the ex-Senator being then 28 years, 4 months and 2 days old. James S. Sherman, the present mayor, was 28 years, 4 months and 10 days old when he assumed office on the 4th inst. Mr. Conkling, therefore, still remains in the field as the youngest mayor of Utica by eight days.

The Black Watch, mentioned so frequently in the dispatches from Suakim as having borne the brunt of General Graham's last engagement, is the name given to the Forty-second Regiment, Highlanders. Into this regiment were enrolled, in 1737, the companies, dressed in black, or dark tartans, that had watched the Highlands during the war for the restoration of the Stuarts.

The Llewellyn family, of Pottsville, Pa., is familiar with wooden legs. Mrs. Ann Llewellyn, who wears one, married her late husband because he had a wooden leg, and their only son walks abroad on an ostrich shank. Mrs. Llewellyn recently told a facetious lawyer that wooden legs were better than wooden heads any day in the week.

An eccentric Binghampton, N. Y., man, who is married but does not live with his wife, proposes taking an excursion to Europe next spring, and to defray all expenses on certain conditions. The party most convenient of ten or more unmarried couples, the female to do the "propping of the question" prior to the voyage. On board the steamer there is to be one or more weddings each day until the trip is finished.

Daniel Montague, of Northboro, Mass., has what he claims is the oldest piano in the country. The instrument is a four and a half octave, 4½ feet in size, with a solid mahogany case. It was manufactured by Benjamin Claremont, of Milton, England. The instrument was brought to this country by John Ferrenweather, who many years ago was a Boston fur dealer. This ancient piano is known to be over 175 years old.

At Ansonia, Conn., John Morrisey owned a 200-pound Siberian bloodhound that had a tumor of six inches in diameter, and on Saturday a horse doctor removed it. The dog was neither chloroformed nor tied, but a muzzle was put on, and at a word from his master he placed himself in position for the operation and lay quietly, restrained by nothing but the looks and words of his master, until the deed was done.

Breakfast parties are the fashionable Lenten entertainments in New York, and are served at 11 o'clock by candlelight. All daylight is excluded, and the guests—generally about twenty in number—are seated around four small tables, five guests at each table, and the tables are placed sufficiently near for general conversation. Breakfast is served in courses, after which there may be music or any amusements suggested by the hostess.

When hungry pigs are food, their mouths water, and the gastric secretion is largely increased. A manufacturer of pepsin, taking advantage of this fact, turns hungry pigs into a pen where a trough filled with food tempts the animals, though a wire screen prevents their eating it, and thus shortening the pepsin contained in the peptic glands. Then the hogs are killed, and the yield of pepsin is comparatively very large.

It has been decided by the New York Supreme Court that the money which a widow receives as insurance on her husband's life cannot be taken to satisfy debts incurred before the husband's death. The case in which the decision was rendered was an attempt by the owner of a judgment of thirteen years' standing against a deceased hotel man, to enjoin the widow from withdrawing the insurance money from a bank in which she had deposited it, and the court held that an injunction must be denied.

That soldiers are not always able to appreciate beautiful scenery is evident from the following inscription, said to be written on a tree in the Yellowstone Park, the outer bark of the tree having been scraped off with a trowel bayonet: "Howard's army camped here Sept. 4, 1876. Chief Joseph and Fisher's scouts three days ahead. Surrounding scenery would be darn fine if a fellow had any grub in his stomach. God bless our camp.—(and send us a supply train). A. J. Fay, Company F, Twenty-first Infantry."

A Michigan reporter asked the "Sweet Singer" of his state what she thought of Ella Wheeler's abilities as a poetess, and received the reply: "Well, she's doing purty fair for a beginner, but the gal's young yit. When she's had my experience in sawin' off language she'll most likely pan out reasonably fair on the rhyme racket."—Bismarck Tribune.

Subscribe for the JOURNAL.

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Masson.

Leave Charlevoix	6 30 a. m.	2 00 p. m.
Arrive East Jordan	8 30 a. m.	4 00 p. m.
Leave East Jordan	8 30 a. m.	4 30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	11 00 a. m.	6 30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Str. M. W. WRIGHT—Capt. J. J. Bennett.

Leave Charlevoix	6 30 a. m.	2 00 p. m.
Arrive Bayne	8 30 a. m.	4 00 p. m.
Leave Bayne	8 30 a. m.	4 30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	12 00 m. m.	6 30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. A. H. Bennett.

East Jordan, lv.	7.00am	Harbor Springs	1.30pm
Charlevoix	9.00am	Charlevoix	3.30pm
Petoskey	11.00am	Charlevoix	4.00pm
Harbor Springs	11.30am	East Jordan, ar.	6.30pm

Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. B. Thompson.

Lv. Boyne	7.00am	Lv. Charlevoix	2.00pm
Ar. Charlevoix	9.30am	Ar. Boyne	4.30pm

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan and Charlevoix.

Steamer NELLIE BOSTH—Capt. Frank Ulmer.

LEAVES	A M	LEAVES	P M
East Jordan	6 30	Charlevoix	1 15
Charlevoix	9 30	East Jordan	4 30

Stopping at intermediate points.

HANNAH, LAY & COMPANY'S STEAMER LINE.

SEASON OF 1884.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,

CAPT. H. E. WILSON.

GOING NORTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Will Leave		GOING SOUTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays. Will Leave
Traverse City	7.00am	Milwaukee	8.00am
Old Mission	9.30am	Manistique Intl'd	7.00am
Elk Rapids	10.00am	Cross Village	10.00am
Torch Lake	11.00am	Harbor Springs	2.00pm
Northport	1.00pm	Petoskey	3.00pm
Charlevoix	2.00pm	Charlevoix	4.00pm
East Jordan (receiving)	2.30pm	Torch Lake	2.00pm
Charlevoix (receiving)	5.00pm	Elk Rapids	3.00pm
Cross Village	6.30pm	Old Mission	5.30pm
Mackinaw Intl'd	9.00pm	Arriving at Traverse City	6.00pm
Arriving at Harbor Springs	7.00pm	Traverse City	8.30pm

GOOD CONNECTIONS

Will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains for Detroit, and at Harbor Springs with stages for the City of Traverse from Cheboiganand the City of Grand Rapids going north, and on Wednesday evenings between the T. S. Faxton going south and the City of Traverse in Chicago.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card in effect January, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv.		7 40am	7 15pm
Richmond	7 57pm	10 52	9 52
Winchester	8 24	11 21	10 21
Hildreville	8 41	11 37	11 37
Fort Wayne, ar.	9 42	12 40pm	12 40am
Fort Wayne, lv.		3 45	3 50	8 45am
Kendallville		4 15	4 20	9 17
Sturgis		5 13	5 18	10 35
Vicksburg		6 11	6 15	11 48
Kalamazoo, ar.		6 52	6 55	12 40pm
Kalamazoo, lv.		7 02	7 05	12 50
Battle Creek		7 32	7 32	1 17
Celdwater, lv.	7 15am	8 02	8 02	1 45
Hillsdale, lv.	7 36		10 05	3 05
Ann Arbor	8 47		11 20	4 27
Ypsilanti	9 13		11 49am	4 57
Detroit, ar.	10 25		1 05	6 10
Detroit, lv.	11 25		7 15	9 40
Windsor			7 55	9 50
Toledo			4 05	1 05
Kalkaska, lv.			8 17	12 00am
Manistique			1 40	12 05
Boyne Falls			5 31	3 34
Petoskey, arr.			6 45	4 50
Petoskey, dep.			7 35	5 10
Mackinaw City			8 00	6 00
St. Ignace			10 05	8 05
Marquette			7 00am	5 50pm
Negaunee, ar.			9 15	7 50

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Negaunee, lv.			5 45pm	7 20am
Marquette			9 00	9 30
St. Ignace			5 40am	6 15pm
Mackinaw City			6 10	7 05
Harbor Springs			7 00	8 20
Petoskey, lv.			7 45	9 15
Boyne Falls			8 15	10 27am
Kalkaska			9 13	2 11
Traverse City, lv			9 51	2 58
Cadillac, ar.			11 25	4 35
Cadillac, lv.	3 50pm	11 45		5 00
Reed City	4 37	12 32am		5 46
Big Rapids	4 52	1 07		6 16
Grand Rapids, ar.	5 35	2 25		7 16
D G H & M ry.	7 40	4 00		10 40
G'd Rapids, ar.	6 20am	10 45	12 40pm
G'd Rapids, lv.	6 32	2 50	2 25
Kalamazoo, ar.	8 20	6 25	3 50
Kalamazoo, lv.	8 35	6 32	3 60
Battle Creek	9 07	7 02	4 32
Celdwater	10 03	8 18	4 12
Hillsdale	11 10	9 35	5 35
Fort Wayne, ar.	12 30pm		10 10	6 45
Fort Wayne, lv.	12 40	5 30am	10 20
Hildreville	1 39	6 26	11 23
Winchester	2 00	6 48	12 00
Richmond, ar.	2 27	7 17	12 27
Cincinnati, ar.	7 00pm	12 30pm	7 35am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Ass't G. P. A. Gen'l Agt. Grand Rapids, Mich.

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitings,

Boots and Shoes.

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at actual cost, as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. Remember, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark.

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR,

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES AT

McCabe's Livery Barn,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

G. W. JEFFERIES,

Dealer in

Fresh and Cured Meat

Fresh and Salt Fish,

AND VEGETABLES.

Fat Stock and Farm Produce Wanted.

West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

OLD NEWSPAPERS FOR SALE

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX

☞ THE CELEBRATED MOWING MACHINE ☜ kind and for sale. 43

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the recipe for a simple remedy which cured my face, after being all over it, FREE, FOR THIS NOTICE, setting the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing a 3c stamp, DRS. YANDELL & CO., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will, for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the receipt and direction for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.

Gold for the working class. Send 10 cents for postage, and we will mail you free, a royal valuable box of sample goods that will put you in the way of making more money in five days than you ever dreamed of in a new business. Capital not required. We will start you. You can work all the time or in spare time only. The work is universally adapted to both sexes, young and old. You can easily earn from 50 cents to $5 every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: To all who are not satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing to us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Fortunes will be made by those who give their whole time to the work. Great success guaranteed to every industrious worker. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine. 43y1

HALL'S

Catarrh Cure

is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD PAID FOR CURE!

We manufacture and sell with positive confidence of its efficacy to cure any case of catarrh, the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike all other Catarrh remedies, it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with distressing disease, ask your druggist for Hall's Catarrh Cure, and if he says it has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

DR. CROOTER, Agt., Charlevoix. 41

$66 a week at home. $5.00 outfit free. Pay absolutely sure. No risk. Capital not required. Reader, if you want business at which persons of either sex, young or old, can make great pay all the time they work, with absolute certainty, write for particulars to H. Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine. 49y1

HADASSAH.

BY OSCAR F. WISNER.

Read before the Charlevoix Liberal Club, at the opera house, Feb. 18, 1884.

PROLOGUE.

'Tis an old Persian tale and told before
The snowy sail was seen along our shore.
The manners of the times are therein seen
Unlike our own, but quite as good I ween.
But man's the same, in joy and sorrow too,
And soul as pure and noble bearing true
In Persian climes as ours. Their stars at night
Look down as mild and shed a mellow light.

They lived and loved and hated, too, the same,
And fanned the fires which kindled into flame;
And stately halls they built, where music rare
Fluttered around on spirit-wings of air;
And flowery wreaths they wove, and smiled as we,
Thus ancient Persians 'round the silver sea;
And danced in halls of mirth as we to-day,
And passed their leisure hours in feasts and play.

Of these we sing. From Persian annals old,
Yet full of thought, and precious now as gold.
From such we take our epic song to-night
Contented if our harp be tuned aright.
The thoughts therein we weave in measured song,
Nor hope to hear its future notes prolonged—
If we have erred, the error is our own,
And we expect to reap that we have sown.

As when a youth sets floating on the wave
His birchen bark, like sailor true and brave,
And watches each and every plunge it makes
As o'er the crested waves its journey takes;
So we this poem, trusting to the breeze
Which waft it onward o'er the crystal seas,
Go, little bark! A question one of time
When all things fade in greater light sublime.

"A woman moved is like a fountain troubled;
muddy, ill seeming, thick, bereft of beauty; and while it is so, none so dry or thirsty will deign to sip or touch one drop of it. Thy husband is thy lord, thy life, thy keeper, thy lord, thy sovereign: One that cares for thee, and for thy maintenance; commits his body to painful labor both by sea and land, to watch the night in storms, the day in cold, whilst thou rest warm at home, secure and safe, and crave no other tribute at thy hands, but love, fair looks, and true obedience."—Taming of the Shrew. Act V. Scene II.

CANTO FIRST.

Of Hadassah, the queen, a story is told,
Full of beautiful gems—of pearls, and of gold;
When Persia's proud king in climes of the east
Made in fair Shu-shan his palace a feast.
This great Persian king was lord at that time
Over millions who dwelt in Iran's bright clime;
Where the sun in his splendor rolls through the sky
On bright car of fire dazling all human eye.

From realms which stretch out to India's strand
To Ethiop's possessions—that great shadow land;
His sceptre extended—his sceptre of gold
Over the land of the east in the years which are told.

He loved the red wine as it flashed in the bowl,
And woke the bright visions which dwelt in his soul.
And Vashti he loved; the queen of his heart,
And oft drew her to him from others apart.

Fair queen of the east, thy glory's no more!
For she who will be now waits at thy door.
Thy garments of purple now trail in the dust,
For thy king is enraged and his anger is just.
Thy pride is forever the scorn of the world,
And down to the earth thy glory is hurled;
Repent thee, O queen! and love him once more
As in days which have fled—the bright days of yore.

But the pride of the queen is greater than ever
And her will is like diamond which nothing can sever.
His mandate awakens no love in her soul,
She sees not the end, she brooks not control.
She moves not a step, but seems like a queen
Who rules all alone in splendor serene.
Repent thee, O queen of the beautiful east;
Repent and obey thy lord of the feast.

Now holds in a feast in his palace so fair,
Whilst the perfume of flowers fills all the air;
Where his princes and nobles together have met,
No thought of the past,—no cause for regret.
And here in his palace sits Persia's great king,
Surrounded by all that earth's treasures can bring.
Its pillars of jasper reach up to the sky,
And are lost to the gaze of the wondering eye.

And here he displayed his riches, they say,
To palace of Shu-Shan on festal day.
His power unrivalled by any we know
Of mortals who plod in this valley below.
Unwearied they feast, they drink of the bowl
Where the serpent lies hid, watching out for the soul!
Whilst the sun rolls along the blue of the sky,
And stars rise and set in circles on high.

Do they weary? It has never been said
Of the guests at this feast—no aching head!
All is life, all is joy, the music so free
Rolling out like silvery waves of the sea.
But a shadow now falls on Shu-Shan's rich feast,
A shadow which clouds all the clime of the east.
And the love which glowed in beauty 'till now,
Turns, quickly to hate, which purples the brow.

And Vashti, the queen, makes a brilliant repast
For her maidens, be sure; that feast was her last!
Here too the wine passed in goblets of gold,
At queen Vashti's feast in Shu Shan of old.
And on the seventh day when Iran's great king
Saw visions of glory dance round in a ring—
He commanded to bring Vashti, his queen,
In midst of his court that she might be seen.

That all might behold her beauty that day,
As the grand crowning act of his doings, they say;
But the queen now declines to attend on her lord;
No reason she gives—nought save her rash word.
Then the face of the king grew purple with wrath,
And loathsome as toad that hops in our path.
The monarch then swore (if not out of place),
And cursed all the daughters of Eve's fairest race.

And then he advised with wise ones aloud
Of the best course to take with Vashti, the proud.
And his courtiers replied in language so bold,
'Twould startle a modern free thinker, we're told.
"She has done a great wrong to king and to all
Who assemble to-day in Shu-Shan's bright hall.
Said Memucan the wise, over the land
'Twill spread in dismay and like fire will expand."

"Contempt and vile wrath will quickly arise
And reach from the earth to the blue pillar'd skies,
No one will be safe! And women will rule,
And we like great bodies be sent back to school;
To learn a new lesson, to learn to obey
Like children their mothers, on from this day."
Thus spoke the wise Memucan, wisest of all
Who feasted that day in Shu Shan's gay hall.

And ended he not; still further he spoke,
When all of the rage of this Persian awoke.
"Let an order be written and sent far away
Where the Persian and Mede delight to obey;
And let it be written at once! and the wise,
"And seal in post haste like light from the skies:
That Vashti the queen come no more 'fore the king
And then these husbands in Iran will sing."

Then a smile spread out on the king's purple face,
As Memucan the wise foretold the disgrace
Of obstinate wives, unheard of till then.
"Yes!" he continued "obedience to men!"
Still speaking, Memucan: "Let it be told
To the Persian and Mede in letters of gold;
That Vashti no longer her honors possess,
But another the king shall in splendor caress."

Then the mandate went forth all over the land,
From east to the west, the king's dread command!
In the air of the Mede, and the Persian it went
On the wings of the wind, 'twas hurriedly sent.
The king, when his rage toward Vashti had run,
Remembered her pride and what she had done;
And the fatal decree which blasted her fame,
And left her all lone—dishonored her name.

Then his princes cried out, "let another be brought,
And all the fair virgins of Iran be sought."
And soon from afar, all hastily came,
These daughters of beauty; his lust to inflame.
And she who is fairest, shall oversteep grace
The palace of Shu-Shan, and Vashti's high place,
By the side of the king, his glory to share,
Inhaling sweet incense which floats on the air.

Then the face of the king grew brighter that day,
And joy drove the shadows of anger away.
He smiled at the thought of another fair dame,
Whose pride the monarch of Iran could tame.
Whilst Mordecai seemed by providence sent
To work out his plans, and make Iran repent.
And better their state of the Jews in his reign,
And spread the great truth o'er Persia's vast plain.

Lo! yonder the virgins like beautiful flowers,
Now gathered from all of Iran's bright bowers.
At the palace of Shu-Shan now are they seen,
Those virgins so modest, one the future loved queen
Of Persia's domains, outstretching so wide,
Like the blue mirrored seas measureless tide.
So fair were these youths—so lovely and bright
Like glimmering stars of Persia's clear night.

Or fairer than roses with fragrant perfume,
Or the valley's white lilly, the fairest in bloom
With sparkling black eyes and earwaxes scented breath,
Like dew drops they seemed on some barren heath.
No dew drop or flower with these can compare,
Their dark-gold colored curls floating out on the air,
As they fluttered in halls of Shu-Shan that day,
So fairy-like seemed they in gilded array.

To be continued.

Birdseye View of Charlevoix, Mich., Showing Harbor and Summer Resorts.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS,

Patent Medicines, all Kinds.

Imported and Domestic Perfumery,

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Bartholomew's new

Opera Block

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 12, 1884.

RICH MEN'S WOES.

How Those Who Have Plenty to Give Are Bothered by Those Who Have Plenty to Get.

Before Jay Gould started south on his yachting trip he told a friend that if he gave away a dime for every dollar that was asked of him by beggars he would not have a cent left within two years. So it is with Vanderbilt, who, though in possession of an income of $6 per cent. upon a fortune of $238,000,000, is constantly besieged by begging letter-writers. Nine-tenths of his mail is made up of these missives. To the fugitive criminal every bush is an oil can; so to the Croesus of New York every new caller is a beggar. Gould and Vanderbilt, being immensely rich, are, therefore, big targets for the impecunious. But there is another man who, while not quite so rich, is notoriously free with his gifts, and consequently receives more begging letters than any rich man in America. Reference is made to Mr. George W. Childs, of the Philadelphia Ledger. His income from the Ledger is said to be over $1,000 a day. It is a private mint that ranks next to the New York Herald, and he has other sources of income as well. Nearly all this goes out in charity. Mr. Childs has no children save his newspaper boys, for whom he provides with lavish hand. He recently pensioned off his financial editor. Though worth $400,000, this gentleman was relieved from active work, but was continued on the salary roll just as if he had been an impecunious reporter.

A Record man met Mr. Childs yesterday morning at the corner of Sixth and Chestnut streets, just as the publisher had finished a five mile walk with Banker Drexel. These two friends are like Damon and Pythias. Mr. Childs walks out over the Schuylkill every morning to meet Mr. Drexel, and together they ramble down Chestnut street to their offices. The banker goes on to his counting-house, where he handles more capital than the thirty-three national banks of Philadelphia would have if they pooled all their dollars into one pot. Mr. Childs turns in at Sixth street to look over his morning mail and to dispose of his callers. There were five women and two clerical cut men waiting to see him on this particular morning. Six of the seven wanted money, and the lads who tend the door had shed them up, every one of them. These youngsters are trained up to a study of visitors, and they can scent a beggar at a distance of ten yards.

Mr. Childs' private secretary says that as many as two hundred begging letters are received in one day, and that the total of the applications for money made to the Ledger publisher by letter often averages $50,000 a day. One afternoon, while a friend waited outside to get an interview with him, a woman, a perfect stranger, went in to ask if Mr. Childs wouldn't pay off her debts, amounting to $3,000. Folks will come from a distance of five hundred miles to beg a small loan. Some want to be educated at his expense. Quite a number of young women have been sent to Europe through him to study music, but none of them have ever reached public distinction. Not a few of the beggars say they are ambitious, and want Mr. Childs to pay for courses of study that will enable them to enter the ministry or other profession.

A young lady in Indiana, who says she has heard much of Mr. Childs' generosity, writes an introduction of herself to him and adds:

"I come to the simplicity of a little child to ask you to please make me a present of a Boston belly shepherd pup of the male sex. I make this request of you because I have anything else to expect from dear Princess or anything else to present. I would be greatly obliged to you indeed for your kindness. Should you grant my petition I will name it after you. Very respectfully yours, "G. O. A."

Another applicant writes:

"I wish to ask a considerable favor. It is the loan of $100 to buy my sister out of school. I am an orphan, and have no brothers or sisters."

One weakness Mr. Childs has is a fondness for clocks. He has thirteen in his private office; some valuable for their historic associations, some because of their exquisite workmanship, and some because of the rare value of their cases—one, in particular, made of lapis lazuli, being worth its weight in gold. Altogether, in his three residences and at his private office, he has fifty clocks, worth $50,000. It is not strange, therefore, that he should get appeals from all over the world to buy old clocks. A few days since a woman called on him to induce him to buy a clock for $25,000. She did not know what he could do with it, but thought he ought to present it to the government.

A man in England wrote a note asking for money to send his three sons to school. Appeals for money to pay off the mortgage on the farm are a daily occurrence. Here is a specimen brick:

"Pocomoke, April 1, 1884.—My Dear Mr. Childs: I have a mortgage of $2,000 on our farm. It is held by a cruel man who is engaging us and threatens to sell our farm over our heads if we don't pay the interest. Won't you buy the mortgage? I know if you hold it you would not be hard on us. If you will do this I and my children will pray for you every night and morning. The sense of kindness and satisfaction one you have than to know someone is always praying for you. Answer immediately. Respectfully yours, "J. W. P."

If after two letters have been sent no answer has been received, the beggars will impudently write:

"I have written twice to you and have received no answer. What does this mean?"

Occasionally when Mr. Childs goes out of town for two or three days, he is greeted on his return by beggars, who say: "Why, I have called here three times thus far without seeing you."

Church fair committees and designing men stumble over each other in their processions to and from his office. Supplicants for his money chase to his summer retreated at Long Branch; they call at his country residence; they besiege his white marble palace in the city. Every rich man is pestered the same way, and all who are not pestered want to be.—Philadelphia Record.

Salt.

Salt is the only mineral substance required by man and the higher order of animals as an article of food. It is found in some form in nearly all parts of the world, and is generally obtained with but little trouble. It is found in a solid state in mines, and in a liquid state in the ocean, salt lakes, and springs. When liquid, it is necessary to evaporate the fresh water in order to get the salt. This is done in three ways; by the heat of the sun, by boiling, and by freezing the water. The water from the ocean in tropical countries is generally allowed to stand in shallow basins and evaporate by the heat of the sun. The water from lakes and springs is usually evaporated by boiling, or by artificial heat under shallow pans. In extremely cold countries the water is frozen; the ice formed is perfectly fresh, and the unfrozen water, beneath, a strong brine, which is evaporated by boiling.

Salt is also mined. One of the most famous salt mines is in Wieliczka, a small town in Austrian Galicia. It has about 6,000 inhabitants, and they are nearly all employed in the mine. The town is entirely undermined by the excavations made by cutting out the blocks of salt. In this mine are four stories, one under another. In the second story is a salt lake 650 feet long and forty feet deep, across which visitors are rowed; they then go a story below, and the lake is over their heads. In one of the chambers the miners have hewn out a chapel from the solid salt, and have ornamented it with a pulpit, statue, obelisks, and columns from the same material. It is dedicated to St. Anthony. Sometimes, members of the royal family visit the mines, and on such occasions the miners illuminate the chapel with candles and torches, and the effect is exceedingly beautiful.

Spain, also, has a remarkable salt mine. A hill covering three-fourths of a square league is composed of layers of salt, gypsum, and clay, about seven-eighths of it being pure salt. The salt is of three varieties; the first and rarest consists of large, clear masses, which can be split into cubes eight inches square. It is mined by the use of the pick and also by blasting.

The uses to which salt is put are numerous and important. It enters largely into most kinds of food. It is used to preserve meats and fish, for agricultural purposes, and in mechanical operations, particularly in making soda. France alone uses 48,000 tons annually, and the city of Glasgow 17,000 tons, in the manufacture of soda. It is also given to horses, cattle, and sheep, and they will not thrive well without it.—Journal of Education.

The Emperor William's Health.

In spite of the dreaded apparition of the White Lady, and notwithstanding all the evil forebodings entertained in the German capital at the Emperor's recent indisposition, the old monarch has once more regained his health, and with it his good humor. A vivacious French contemporary records that the Emperor recently gave a proof of his high spirit by saying to the sentinel at his door: "My boy, if you should see the White Lady, tell her to come back after fifteen years." He gives the following explanation of the octogenarian's disregard of the dreaded visitant. On hearing the news of the apparition which bodes death to one of the Hohenzollerns, the Emperor, in dismay, expressed a desire to hear the verdict of another authority. Dr. Lange, the Emperor's body physician, agreed, and sent for a gypsy, who, with the light of inspiration in her eyes, said: "Sire, you will live to be 100 years old; your son, and Prince Royal, will not reign, but your grandson, Prince William, will be your immediate successor." The Emperor loves life more than he loves the crown prince; he adores his grandson, and the prospect of fifteen years more of life and of the succession to the throne by his favorite, have given him new strength and confidence much to the satisfaction of his loyal subjects, and especially to the ingenious body physician, who, if the story were true, would, no doubt, have instructed the gypsy beforehand what to say.—Pa'i Mall Gazette.

Surgeon Don't Bite.

There were four or five of us on the long wharf running out into the gulf at Mississippi City, and we had been fishing away for half an hour without any luck when a big fat man, named Blake, from Ohio, suddenly called out:

"Say, boys, let's have a swim."

It was too hot, and we were too lazy, but Blake declared he'd have a swim by himself. He off with his clothes, hooked down into the water, and for a quarter of an hour clung to a spile and splashed the water, not being able to swim a stroke. By and by he climbed out, but hardly had his feet touched the planks when one of the men sang out:

"By the great horned spoon, but see there!"

Ten feet away from the end of the wharf were two sharks at least seven feet long, and the water was so clear that every wink of their eyes could be seen.

"Yes, a couple of sturgeon," observed Blake as he waddled forward.

"I saw one hanging around as I went down, but sturgeon don't bite!"

When he came to fully realize what an escape he had had he sat down on the head of a spile and blubbered like a boy who had stubbed his toe.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes,

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes,

LATEST STYLES.

GILBERT & MOULTON,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting,

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

Advance Lumber Company

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO. ADVANCE, MICH.

E. T. BROWN & CO.

Threshing Engines,

Portable and Stationary

Engines,

SAW MILLS, THRESHERS, MILL SUPPLIES.

(BARGAINS IN SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.)

WRITE FOR PRICES AND CATALOGUE

West Bridge Street,

Grand Rapids, Michigan

JOSEPH HYLAND,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Boiler Maker,

Sheet-Iron Worker,

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

NEW GOODS.

I am pleased to say that my

Spring Stock

Is ready for inspection. Come and see them, and when you want a suit of clothes that are JUST IN STYLE, you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES,

AND

Price to Correspond With the Times.

GEO. W. MILLER.

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES

New Stores and NEW GOODS

A Complete Stock of Hardware, Iron, Cutlery, Tinware, Fishing Tackle, Stoves, Implements and Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggies, Wheelbarrows, Carts, Refrigerators, Doors and Sash, Paints and Brushes. The very best Tin and Job work done on short notice.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW.

For You

NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.

THE ILLUSTRATED

BIOGRAPHICAL

1884. ANNUAL. 1884.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR.

It contains something for everybody. Its pages are interesting and instructive to all. It is alike attractive to the young and old, the merchant, the Lawyer, the Editor, the Statesman, the Politician, the Mechanic, the Mechanic and in the School Boy who longs to lay the foundation of an honest character and seeks for models to pattern after.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.

Within its pages can be found nearly

200 PORTRAITS, MEN AND WOMEN who have exercised and are still exerting potent influences in various directions.

While pre-eminently an American publication, giving prominent place to EMINENT AMERICANS, it contains the portraits and lives of the MOST PROMINENT EUROPEANS of the age.

His pages familiarize the reader with the features and the lives of prominent Crowned and Uncrowned Heads, Statesmen, Soldiers, Patriots, Ministers, Senators, Congressmen, Governors, Ministers, Railroad Magnates, Actors, Editors, Rich men, Poets, Philanthropists, Authors, Artists, and others in other walks of life, INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES,

AMONG WHOM WE MAY MENTION BLAINE, ARTHUR, BEECHER, BEAL, BUTLER, CONKLING, CLEVELAND, EDMUNDS, LINCOLN, ROBERT LEE, BERHMAN, TILDEN, HENDRICKS, HOLMAN, LOGAN, PAYNE and HOLIDAY.

EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.

Catholic and Protestant, whether Episcopalian, Presbyterian, Methodist, Congregationalist, Baptist, or Universalist, will find among its pages much to interest, instruct and edify.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL

may familiar from the owners of which have purchased, illustrative to thousands of their fellow citizens.

PROMINENT WOMEN which occupy an important place in this universally interesting volume contribute charming and instructive sketches, and will replace the reader that women has a noble mission and that she is well able to fulfill it.

If you would become acquainted with the fairest and noblest of the men and women whose name are your household words, and whose faces are familiar to everybody, get a copy of THE

BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL

Sent postpaid on receipt of ONE DOLLAR.

E. L. KLOPSCH & CO., Publishers,

92 White Street, New York.

$1 A YEAR. $1

ONE DOLLAR. ONE DOLLAR.

$1 A YEAR. $1

TWO PAPERS FOR THE PRICE OF ONE

THE WEEKLY Detroit Free Press AND THE HOUSEHOLD

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

Two Large Pages of News and Reading Matter. Terms: Three Months' Trial Subscription, 25 Cents. Three Months' Subscription, $1 Six Months, $2. One Year, $4. Sample Copy Free. Address, FREE PRESS CO., DETROIT, MICH.

$1 A YEAR. $1

ONE DOLLAR. ONE DOLLAR.

$1 A YEAR. $1

The JOURNAL and the FREE PRESS one year for Two Dollars Cash in Advance.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 49. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL is published every Thursday morning. BY CHAS. J. STRANG. Office over T. H. Smith's grocery. CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN. ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

1872 DR. G. W. CROUTER, 1884

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P. PURITY, POLITENESS.

We make it a point to sell only

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

Our Prices will always be as Low as

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

Can be Sold.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

JAMES G. BLAINE.

JOHN A. LOGAN.

Business Directory.

ATTORNEYS.

CHICKERSHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law. Office in Gaskarr's Block, Charlevoix, Mich. C. CHICKERSHANK. C. A. GRIER.

DILE & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Boyne City, Mich.

JONES & LITHICH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Real Estate Business promptly attended to. CHARLEVOIX TO LOAN.

H. A. JESSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office in Lake St., Boyne, Mich.

JAY S. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law, and Notary Public. Office in Gaskarr's Block, business entrusted to him will receive prompt attention.

J. E. LARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Chatham, Antrim Co., Mich.

JOHN WINNER, Attorney and Solicitor. Office, S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

N. GARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.—Capital $50,000. Receives and discounts at lowest rates. Exchange notes and mortgages bought and sold. Deals sold on all others in Europe and United States. Interest paid on time deposits. Collections promptly attended to. Interest allowed on time deposits. DAVIDSON & SIGNOR.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at 12:00 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7 o. m. in the school house. C. F. VANALSTINE, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7. J. T. JOHNSON, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX HOOSIC AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet every Saturday night, at the town hall. R. F. BISSELL, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

H. SUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

M. L. SMITH, teacher of Musical Composition and Thorough Bass. Classes forming at all times. Improve your Summer Days.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. MILO EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class Horses and Carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

J. A. CHRISTEN, M. D. Office at the Ingleside.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office on the Lake Shore, east of the Mansion House.

C. GRAVES, M. D. Office in Sec Block, Charlevoix.

W. M. FRIDAY, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 13, meets second Tuesday in each month, at I.O.O.F. hall.

I. O. G. T.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 827, meets every Friday evening, at the Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 266, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

I. O. L.—Tree Hives No. 107, meets Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

MASONIC—Charlevoix Lodge No. 362, meets Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over postoffice.

VETERINARY SURGEON.

MAS SANBURY, V. S. Office at Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

WELL DIGGING.

FRANK DUBIA, Charlevoix, Mich., will attend promptly to all work in the line of well digging, cistern digging, pump repairing, will drilling, cellar building, and similar work. 45

A. BUTTARS, President. A. H. DURKHIT, Vice President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money to loan on approved paper at reasonable rates. Deposits received. Collections given careful attention and remittances made promptly. G. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

O. W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. All articles of jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order. 12

Extra copies of the JOURNAL for sale at Weeks' drug store.

Board by the Day or Week AND WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS. Also Tobacco and Cigars. Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON, Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE, ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor, Charlevoix, Michigan. This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Eagle Hotel, E. A. H. COLE, PROPRIETOR, South Arm, Michigan. A new house, situated west end of bridge. Nearest Hotel to Jordan River. Horses and boats for guests. Headquarters for Intermediate Lake and Jordan River interests.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE, RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor. Charlevoix, - Michigan. Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids stages.

HULBER HOUSE, P. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR, East Jordan, Michigan. This house is centrally located. Good sidewalk from steam boat landing to house.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE, WM. J. WEBBER, PROPRIETOR, East Jordan, Michigan. This house has been thoroughly renovated and put in first class shape for the traveling and sporting public. Steamer landing within a "stone throw" of the house. Sample Rooms.

PINE LAKE HOUSE, A. J. HALL, Proprietor. Boyne City, Michigan. This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the outlet of Pine Lake. It is a large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE, A. B. NOYES, Proprietor. Ironton, - Michigan. Every convenience for the traveling public.

UNITED STATES HOTEL, GEO. W. CHILDS, Proprietor, Boyne City, Michigan. House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

W. F. ORRELL, HOUSE DECORATOR, Charlevoix, Mich. PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING. Finishing Hardwood a Specialty.

JOHN NICHOLLS, CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Manufacturer of and Dealer in HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades, WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

GET YOUR Photographs At D. S. Way's.

FARM FOR SALE. Consisting of 144 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Soil, clay loam. A good frame house, and two frame brick barns. About 55 acres cleared, balance good beech and maple timber. About 200 fruit trees, consisting of three-fold mile from schools and church. Terms: Cash, one hundred dollars, with not less than two thousand dollars, balance to suit purchaser. For further particulars apply to DAVID H. FRANCIS, Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE. The place known as THE BEATTY FARM Near McGeagh's Mill. For particulars inquire at the office of J. MILO EATON.

Fresh Oysters Just Received. 300 pounds Candy and Nuts. Two Barrels Fresh Butter. Golden Thread Sauer Kraut. Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents. AT L. L. CARR'S.

HODGE & LITZAU, Manufacturers and Dealers in HARNESS, SADDLES Curry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Lap Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY has purchased the Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to see her friends and patrons, as many more as possible. Call and see my stock.

C. R. BELLINGER carries the largest and finest stock of JEWELRY, Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and optical goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best time-piece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges. 41

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods. MISS L. SPAULDING Has just received a New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods, And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice. MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

HALL'S Catarrh Cure Is Recommended by Physicians! $100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE. We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will refund the above amount if it fails in a single instance. It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy as it is a positive improvement, and is not a stimulant, but a healer. It is not a douche, nor snuff, but a local remedy. If you have Catarrh in any form, or Cold in the Head, ask your Druggist for it, and accept no imitation or substitute. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Dr. CROUTER, Agt, Charlevoix. 41

PIMPLES. I will mail (Free) the recipe for a simple vegetable remedy that will remove tan, freckles, pimples and mildew, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful. Ladies should address, inclosing a postage stamp. Address, Mrs. LYDIA ALLEN, 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

ERRORS OF YOUTH. A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's generosity, can address, in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.

Get To Stand It!

Mr. A. bought his wife one bottle of Parmelee's Blood Purifier, and now he thinks he has got himself into business, for she derives so much benefit from it that she must try another bottle or two and be permanently cured. There is no purifier known so efficient in its workings as this. Only $1.00 per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Toothache.

Did you ever have a cracking, jumping-stopping, roaring, bothersome, toothache, that kept the whole family in an uproar until 3 o'clock in the morning? Many have it, but all have not heard of the wonderful cures made by Hamilton's Toothache Drops, which are warranted to cure in one minute. Safe, sure, effective. Price only 25c. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

A Happy Family

Circle is the greatest blessing of our civilization but such a thing is not possible when disease and death lurks on the threshold. One of the most important matters to be attended to, is the liver and kidneys are in a healthy condition. More trouble arises from derangement of these organs than from any other cause, often resulting in diabetes, Bright's disease or other dire entities that are generally counted incurable. Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure will prevent and cure all these diffi culties with great certainty. Large bottles $1, sold by O. B. Weed & Co. 8.65

Grand Rapids Democrat

DAILY AND WEEKLY.

Office: 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

Daily Democrat—42 numb. $6.00 per year or 50 cents per month.

Weekly Democrat, $1.50 per year; 75 cents for six months; 40 cents for three months—twenty-five numbers. Address,

THE DEMOCRAT, Grand Rapids, Mich.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

GEN. JAMES WATSON WEBB, the aged American journalist, died at his home in New York. The schooner Fanny Fern was run down off Gloucester, Mass., by an outward-bound coal-carrying steamer, and four of the crew were drowned. Over two hundred depositors of the Penn Bank, of Pittsburgh, have brought suit against the Directors of that defunct institution. Courtney, the oarsman, failed to meet Ross for the match at Oak Point, N. Y.

SIMS HAYNES SWANEY, ex-Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, died in New York city last week, aged 80 years.

THE Surgeon mansion at Providence has been purchased for $34,000 by Full River parties, who will reform it into a Catholic school or convent. Tilden G. Abbott, who wrecked a Watertown, Mass., bank, was sentenced to eight years in the Massachusetts State Prison.

THE explosion of a barrel of beer in a brewery at Newburgh, N. Y., killed James Quinlan and made a mourner of his wife.... Another bank failure has been convicted and sentenced. This time it is William S. Morgan, the defaulting cashier of the banking firm of Putnam & Earle, of Hartford, who has been sent to the Connecticut State Prison for three years.

THE WEST.

AT Florence, Wis., shots were exchanged in the street between Sheriff Readman and District Attorney McIntosh, the former being town treasurer.... A negro named Robeson and a white girl of the name of Christman crossed the river at St. Louis and were married in Illinois.... Henry Strong, President of the now defunct Strong's bank at Green Bay, Wis., has written to some friends in that city from Montreal, saying that he lost the bank's money in speculations in wheat, pork, and stocks. He borrowed the money from the bank on various securities and on the notes of his brother. No other person, he says was concerned with him in the steal.

AUGUST MCCLARKOUT has issued notice that the Indian sun dance will no longer be permitted at the Pine Ridge Agency. The tortuous "mourners" lies for years been growing into disfavor with the Indians themselves.... Mrs. Ellen Long pleaded guilty at Dodford, Wis., of the murder of the Rev. Harvey Whitmarsh, and was sentenced to life imprisonment. At Farley, Iowa, Jack Purdish was found dead with a bottle containing strychnine in his hand and a note stating that he had died for love.

CAPITALISTS on the Pacific coast are endeavoring to form a company to construct a railway to the extremity of Alaska, where cars could be turned forty-five miles across Behring Strait to the Siberian Railway.... A reward of $1,000 is offered by the citizens of Richland Township, Kansas, for the conviction of a supposed who has killed two cattle dogs and attempted to poison 125 cattle belonging to James Eaton, besides throwing strychnine into his well. The body of Capt. Fryer, keeper of the Colchester Reef light, lake Michigan, lost in the storm of Nov. 11 last, was found in the lake a few miles since many miles off the reef in a good state of preservation.

THE Union Depot at St. Paul, Minn., was destroyed by fire the other night; loss $250,000. The fire originated in the kitchen of the part used as a restaurant.

AN expressman named Frederick Ardell and an unknown companion were burned to death in a stable at Chicago.... Rev. De Worthington, of Detroit, has sent a telegram declining to accept the position of Bishop of Nebraska.

THE SOUTH.

GEN. ABE BUFORD, of Kentucky, killed himself at the residence of his nephew, in Danville, Ind. He left statements that financial embarrassment, family troubles, and the condition of his brother Tom, who was returned to the Anchorage Asylum, had to the act.... Lightning struck four men at Louisville, two of whom are not expected to live.... In Dinwiddie County, Virginia, one woman was killed by lightning, another was stunned, a church was blown down, and other injuries to property were reported.

MRS. ELLEN WITHERS intended to sail from Baltimore for Liverpool with three young children. In the dense crowd on the wharf two of the little ones got lost, and the mother and the others went on board the steamer. Mrs. Withers forgot to notify the officers of the vessel, but ran about the decks in search of the missing ones until the steamer sailed.

IN Pendleton County, W. Va., Andy Adams, a youth who had become insane on the subject of religion, butchered his mother and 8-year-old sister. He stated to his captors that the Lord had told him to dig them up as a sacrifice, and he would restore them to life again.... A violent storm passed over Bermuda in the neighborhood of Mott shoals, Va., and one boy was struck by lightning and badly injured. Fruit trees were badly damaged.

WASHINGTON.

The Director of the Mint, in his annual report on the production of precious metals, places the total production during the calendar year 1884 at $36,000,000, silver, at its coining rate, $46,500,000. Aggregate production of gold and $.... 200,000 in silver; California, $14,120,000 in gold, $1,460,000 in silver; Colorado, $4,100,000 in gold, $17,375,000 in silver; Dakota, $3,200,000 in gold, $150,000 in silver; Idaho, $1,400,000 in gold, $2,100,000 in silver; Montana, $1,900,000 in gold, $6,000,000 in silver; Nevada, $2,500,000 in gold, $5,400,000 in silver; New Mexico, $200,000 in gold, $2,945,000 in silver; Utah, $140,000 in gold, $5,620,000 in silver. The remainder was produced partially in Alaska, Oregon, Georgia, and North Carolina. This is a total of $22,500,000 in gold and $800,000 in silver from the yield of 1884.

THE minority report of the Senate Committee on the Danville riots charged that the investigation was not conducted with fairness, and that the results were not set forth with impartiality. Sarcastic allusions are made to the killing of negroes in Ohio in order that their carcasses could be sold to medical colleges.... President Arthur sent to the Senate a message recommending an appropriation of $500,000 for Government exhibits at the New Orleans Exposition.

ON the recommendation of the Judge Advocate General of the Army, the President has decided to order a court-martial for the trial of Gen. Swaim for alleged irregular financial transactions.... The June crop reports received at the Agricultural Department show an increase of 4 per cent. in the area under cotton, and a general average of 87, as against 86 at this period last year. There is an increase of 9 per cent. in the area under spring wheat, and the condition is placed at 101.... The winter wheat crop continues to show a high average, as well as oats and barley.

CAPT. VON EISENDECKER, the German Minister, has presented his letter of recall to the President.

POLITICAL.

THE Nevada Democratic State Convention, which met at Austin, passed resolutions demanding the nomination of Tilden and Hendricks, the removal of all restrictions on silver coinage, the absolute exclusion of the Chinese from the United States, and the resumption of land grants to the construction of lands by alien. In the California Democratic State Convention, a proposition by John H. Wise to send delegates to Chicago for the old ticket was followed by deafening applause for several minutes.

HON. SAMUEL J. TILDEN has addressed a letter to Daniel J. Manning, Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee of New York, formally declining a nomination for the Presidency. He writes: "I might not be unwise to seek which I have not the physical strength to carry through.

"In my condition of advancing years and declining strength I feel an assurance of my ability to accomplish those hopes [of reform]. I cannot now assume the labors of an administration or of a campaign.... I have lost no admit to the call of duty in choosing my public service forever closed."

THE Democratic State Committee of Michigan met at Jackson and adopted resolutions favoring Tilden and Hendricks, a resolution favoring tariff for revenue was lost.... Gen. Chalmers, in calling the Democratic State Convention of Texas to order at Fort Worth, said: "Tariff for revenue only is the Democratic slogan; men are secondary issues." This sentiment was greeted with vociferous applause and clouts of "Tilden."

GENERAL.

JOHN C. ENO, the defaulting bank President of New York, has been indicted for forgery in the second and third degrees. The first said to be no question as to his criminality, and several of his friends have gone to Montreal with funds to be used in his defense.... During last week there were 153 failures in the United States and sixteen in Canada.

FAST time was made by a special train on the Baltimore and Ohio Road conveying a number of newspaper correspondents to Washington from Chicago upon the adjournment of the National Republican Convention. The distances from Chicago to Chicago Junction, Ohio—271 miles—was covered in 5 hours and 31 minutes.... Twenty-four men and women of the Salvation Army arrived at Cleveland, Ohio, for distributing the peace by parading, singing, shouting, and playing music, and, very small sums. Twenty of the accused refused to pay the fine and were released on bail.... Lightning destroyed Alexander Carroll's house, near Ottawa, Ill., and his four children perished in the flames.

VENICE, the Canadian weather prophet, died at Montreal on the 4th inst.... The trotting horse Scotland beat John S. Prince, the champion bicyclist, in a ten-mile race at Philadelphia, Time 30:35.... A Committee of the Cincinnati Bar Association presented to the District Court an information designed to secure the disbarment of T. C. Campbell, whose trial for bribery in injure in a murder case was then in progress.

FORTY-FIVE of the crew of the sailing brig Confidence, which is in-bound in Notre Dame Bay, Northern Newfoundland, were rescued, but the ice-flow forced the rescuing steamer to retire, and twenty-nine men were left to starve on the wreck, on which there is neither fuel nor provisions.

At Belleville, Ontario, Joseph Tompert and George Leader were executed for the murder of Peter Lozier.

FOREIGN.

A CABLEGRAM from Newry, Ireland, states that a conflict between the Orangemen and Nationalists was precipitated by stone-throwing by the latter. Several shots were fired while the troops and police were endeavoring to suppress disorder. The row for the grand prize of Paris, 100,000 francs, was won by the Duke of Castiras' brown colt, Little John.

THE Chinese Embassadorship to France has been abolished and the treaty of peace with France is condemned by the Celestials, who are preparing to resist further Gallic encroachments.... British troops are round the hill at Birmingham, England, where the Irish dynamiters—Daly, Egan, and McDonnell—are confined.

DUELLEFF, the notorious Russian Nihilistic assassin, has been arrested in Berlin, and will be surrendered to the Russian authorities.... The Sultan refuses to appoint a delegate to the conference of the European powers on the Egyptian question unless he is previously informed as to the question which England will take.... The Bulgarian-Servian affair has been settled satisfactorily, and the marriage is called.

ADDITIONAL NEWS.

THE Texas Democratic State Convention selected as delegates at large to Chicago, Gov. Hubbard, L. C. Giddings, Thomas S. Brown, and John P. Smith. Before the declination of Mr. Tilden was made known the delegates were instructed for the old ticket; but subsequently a resolution was passed allowing the representatives of the State in the national convention to act on their judgment.

T. E. ASHBURY, of Murphysboro, has been nominated for Congress by the Democrats of the Twenty-fourth District.... The California delegates to the Democratic convention, on hearing of Tilden's declination, have declared unanimously for Thurman.

AT Key West, Fla., Frederico Gil Marero, a Cuban, was arrested from a Steamer from New York as being a dynamiter, and fine, dynamite caps, and books of instruction for the manufacture of explosives were found among his effects. He was held in $2,000. It is thought the Cuban dynamiters have been lurking near the compound parts of explosives to Key West, and then secretly manufacturing them.

EX-CONGRESSMAN HIESTER CLYMER, of Pennsylvania, at one time a prominent Democratic leader in the Keystone State, died at Reading, of paralysis, aged 57.... The employees of all the principal boot and shoe factories in Philadelphia are on a strike against a reduction of wages.... Fire in the building Nos. 112 and 114 Congress street, Boston, occupied by agents for two rubber companies, caused a loss of $100,000.... Sixteen firemen were injured by an explosion in the third story.

JUDITH H. MCCARTHY, son of the well-known Irish author and journalist, and himself a young man of considerable literary ability, died at New Albany, Ind., from the effects of a sunstroke. Tribute to the Parnell Commission, which has been headed by J. Enna, was a failure. The French Minister of the Interior has issued a decree forbidding bull fights.... News has reached London that a water-spout occurred in Akulig, Russian Turkestan. The river was overflowed, seventy houses were destroyed, and forty persons drowned.

CALHOUN BESHARA, a prominent lawyer of San Francisco, died a few days ago. In the famous duel between Judge David Terry and Senator Broderick, Beshara acted as Terry's second.... Graham Mott, who was a volunteer and do-nothing on the staff of Gen. Hancock, died at the Soldiers' Home.

THE State Bank of West Virginia, at Charleston, W. Va., has suspended payment. The liabilities are placed at $110,000 and the nominal assets are $115,000. The depositors are mostly poor people. The recent storm throughout North Georgia is difficulty of New Albany, Miss., between Maxey Lewis and a disappointed lover, Fred. Gray, in which each fired five times, the latter was mortally wounded.... A band of thieves has been organized in the Cherokee Nation, Indian Territory, and has been making depredations in the surrounding county. Recently the band were attacked by the militia of the Territory, and two of them were killed, and several, including five women, were captured. Fifteen have since surrendered. It is believed that the others will disband.

THE Senate, on June 12, passed the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill. Now Ayer offered an amendment to the bill providing that no money shall be paid out of the public treasury for public speeches of the Commissioner General of Agriculture in the Senate or in the House. It is understood that the House will not agree to the amendment, which only was passed in secret session, with only one or two votes against it. The bill will go to a committee of conference. The Mississippi Commissioner for the United States has already sent a duplicate of his salary bill, for fear of the family and Parlor Guards among the line as clerks. Senator Morgan's bill to pay the expenses of the Mississippi Commissioner is now in the Senate. Action was taken on the House passed the river and harbor bill, by 152 to 12 votes striking out the Hennepin Canal clause. By a vote of 8 to 5 the Committee on Foreign Relations decided against the proposition to recognize the Congo Free State, and voted with the Republicans in the majority.

It requires less philosophy to take things as they come than to part with them as they go.

THE MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BEEVES	$ 2.90	$ 6.00
SHEEP	3.00	4.50
LAMBS—Spring	5.00	6.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Chicago	.97	.99
No. 2 Red	.99	.99½
CORN—Ungraded	.47	.48
OATS—Mixed	.40	.44
PORK—Mess	17.50	17.75
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Choice to Prime Steers	5.50	6.10
Fair to Good	3.70	5.00
Stockers	2.00	3.00
HOGS	4.00	4.45
SHEEP—Fancy White Wethers	4.25	4.75
Good to Choice Wethers	3.75	4.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.90	.90½
No. 2 Red Winter	.97	.97½
CORN—No. 2	.37	.37½
OATS—No. 2	.31	.31½
RYE—No. 2	.57	.58
BARLEY—No. 2	.65	.66
LARD—Cash	4.37½	4.40
PORK—Mess	8.30	8.35
LIVE POULTRY—Turkeys	.07	.08
Chickens	.08	.09
Spring Chickens	.12	.13
BUTTER—Choice Dairy	.11	.12
Choice Creamery	.15	.16
Fancy Imitation Creamery	.13	.14
EGGS—Fresh	.12	.12½
POTATOES—Per Bushel	.45	.50
Sweet, per Bbl.	1.75	2.00
ONIONS—Per Bushel	.35	.40
BEEVES—Extra	5.00	5.25
HOGS—Packing and Shipping	4.25	4.35
SHEEP—Common to Choice	3.00	4.50
FLOUR—Winter Wheat	3.50	4.50
Spring Wheat	4.00	5.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.97	.97½
No. 2 Spring	.90	.90½
CORN—No. 2	.37½	.38
OATS—No. 2	.31	.31½
RYE—No. 2	.57	.58
BARLEY—No. 2	.65	.66
PORK—Mess	8.25	8.35
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.94½	.95
CORN—No. 2 Mixed	.37	.37½
OATS—No. 2	.31	.31½
RYE	.56	.58
PORK—Mess	15.00	15.25
CINCINNATI
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.97	.98
CORN	.38	.39
OATS—Mixed	.32	.33
PORK—Mess	16.00	16.50
DETROIT.
FLOUR	4.50	6.00
WHEAT—No. 1 White	.98	.98½
CORN—Mixed	.38	.38½
OATS—Mixed	.32	.32½
PORK—Mess	19.00	20.00
INDIANAPOLIS
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.96	.97
CORN—Mixed	.37	.37½
OATS—Mixed	.31	.31½
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE—Best	5.75	@ 6.25
Common	4.00	@ 5.00
HOGS—Common	5.50	@ 5.60
Best	5.70	@ 5.80
BEEF	4.00	@ 5.50

THE WORK OF CONGRESS.

What Is Being Done by the National Legislature.

MR. CULLOM'S bill limiting the jurisdiction of the United States Circuit Courts and regulating the removal of cases to the Federal Courts passed the House on June 7. The bill provides that the minimum jurisdiction of the Circuit Court shall be $500 in lieu of $500, and makes members of corporations liable to suit in the State Courts of this State for all judicial purposes as if they were citizens of the State. The House has passed a bill forbidding the removal and export of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad. Adverse reports were made on Mr. Hoar's bill to prevent the sale of Indian lands in severalty, and on the Senate resolutions offered by Mr. Jones, of Nevada, requiring the publication of public lands in public articles. Mr. Holman offered an amendment reducing the wages of Mr. Robson's translators. During the debate on this measure the House was twice without a quorum, and no adjournment was carried. The Senate was not in session.

In the Senate, June 9, Mr. Plumb reported favorably a bill to give California 5 per cent. of the proceeds of public land sales in that State, ostensibly for the construction of roads. Military Committee to make a report on the bill providing for the retired list of officers of the militia. The Mexican war pension bill was taken up, and Mr. Pendleton's motion to lay it on the table was carried by a vote of 29 to 25. In the House, Mr. Hall introduced a bill to repeal the act of March 3, 1883, relating to the sale of Mormon property. A resolution was adopted to extend the time for the completion of the road and bridge across the Willamette River, and to place Newport Newport in a collection district, and to provide for the distribution of the surplus in the treasury. In committee of the whole, the Senate bill to provide for the construction of a bridge across the Mississippi River at Hannibal, Mo., was considered and passed. The House then resumed the consideration of the Senate bill to provide for the construction of a bridge across the Mississippi River at Hannibal, Mo., and after a long discussion, in which the bill was opposed by Messrs. Hiscock, Cullom, and others, and advocated by Messrs. Hale, Pendleton, and others, the bill was passed, by a vote of 126 to 75. The Senate bill to provide for the construction of a bridge across the Mississippi River at Hannibal, Mo., was then passed, without a division, and was passed. The House, in committee of the whole, on the bill to provide for the construction of a bridge across the Hennepin Canal, Illinois, the House refused to strike out the clause providing that the United States shall not be a stockholder in the company, by a vote of 82 to 75. The House then passed the bill, without a division, and the Senate bill was then passed, without a division, and the Senate bill was then passed, without a division, and the House bill was laid on the table.

Hints About Letter-Writing.

A MR. Mac Chise said of late some, "First catch your hare," in writing a letter first have something to say. Life is too brief to throw away the hours of time to be wasted in the platitudes even of the best of friends. Cicero, in his Latin, said, "Nothing more social or friendly than a letter." Lord Bacon, in his "Essays," said: "Letters are the representatives of the absent friend." Pliny, in his letters, said: "Letters are the messengers of friendship." Cicero, in his letters, said: "Letters are the messengers of friendship." Cicero, in his letters, said: "Letters are the messengers of friendship." Cicero

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Among Our Patrons.

The fine farms which comprise the extensive openings around Mr. Hilton's, as noted last week, are Mr. McGough, with 100 acres improvement, Chas. Wells, with 60 acres, Nick Shores, Oland Weed, John Robinson, John Chepoton, Bob Trimble, and Sim Baker. Mr. Wells has 12 head of cattle, and a small flock of Cotswold sheep, all doing splendid. All these farms having been well cultivated, are quite free from stumps, have more or less board fences, and round one very much of the older portion of northern Michigan.

From Hilton's to Charlevoix we did not stop to interview the various farms, but took a few notes while passing.

James and Albert O'Brian have each a comfortable new farm with every appearance of successful management.

Alfred Van Deusen has recently built a new barn, and is this spring grading and fitting up the front yard of his residence. When finally finished and sodded, he will have as pleasant a place as one could ask.

The estate of Avery VanDeusen, lately deceased, is building a new barn 40x84 feet with a wing for a horse shed 30x40 feet.

Two years ago Geo. O'Brian came here and settled on 60 acres of wilderness, with a pair of well endowed hands and an axe for a stock in trade. To-day he has a comfortable house and barn, crops growing, and everything apparently as prosperous as one could ask.

The same energy for two years will make him one of the leading farmers in this county. Mr. W. McGough was not at home, and it being nearly dark, the mill was not running. It will be made the subject of a future article.

Arthur Hamlin is building a small barn.

L. D. Porter, who recently purchased R. A. Miller's farm, is engaging in the dairy business on a small scale. We have tried some of the butter and know it to be good.

Democratic County Convention.

The democratic county convention met at Hudsonville's opera house last Thursday, June 12. The meeting was called to order by J. Milo Eaton, and H. A. Jersey was made chairman.

Mr. Jersey addressed the convention a few minutes, outlining the work of the democracy in the past, and what it believed to be necessary to success in the future.

Chas. J. Strang was elected secretary.

Mr. Eaton outlined the work necessary to be done at that meeting, the first business being to elect delegates to the state convention to be held in Detroit, June 18th.

The townships were represented as follows:

Charlevoix—Amos Fox, J. Milo Eaton, Charles Kelly, O. B. Weed, L. D. Bartholomew, A. R. Vilgrove, F. Waydom, Lewis Reynolds, Geo. Pappin, Geo. W. Miller.

Evangeline—H. A. Jersey, W. J. Lewis, A. B. Martin, D. Halladay, Michael Dragney, James Kennedy, B. F. Ingalls.

Eveline—A. B. Noyes.

Hayes—F. J. Smith, R. H. Bennett.

Marion—William Miller.

Melrose—N. N. Card, J. H. Lyons.

Norwood—Edwin Cook, James O'Brian, Alfred Van Deusen, Gilbert Mobbs.

Other townships in the county were not represented.

After some discussion as to the basis of representation, Mr. Card presented the name of J. Milo Eaton as a delegate. Mr. Eaton gave reasons for not wishing to go, and asked the convention to substitute the name of Chas. J. Strang in place of his, which was done.

Mr. B. F. Ingalls presented the name of H. A. Jersey as the second delegate, which was carried unanimously.

The question of instructing delegates was discussed, sufficient to bring out the prevailing sentiment, but no action taken.

The following county committee was then named:

Beat Lake—R. C. Pletteiper; Boyne Valley—H. Morsh; Chandler—Alfred Hensley; Charlevoix—J. Milo Eaton; Evangeline—A. E. Martin; Eveline—A. B. Noyes; Hayes—F. J. Smith; Hudson—Frank Algire; Marion—William Miller; Melrose—N. N. Card; Norwood—O. B. Ellison; Resort—E. Engelsperger; South Arm—Jas. Jerome; Springvale and Wilson not being represented, the committee were authorized to appoint members from those townships after a canvass of the electors for an active democrat who would go to work, and continue until after election.

A local executive committee to act with the member from Charlevoix township was named, consisting of A. J. McLeod, L. D. Bartholomew and Chas. J. Strang. This committee was also authorized to act as a conference committee.

After some discussion concerning the desirability of harmony in work this fall, the convention adjourned.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure cures Catarrh. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Cramer.

Verily it is hereby given that on or about May 1st, 1884, I shall commence selling, on the cash system, my entire stock of goods, at the very lowest cash prices, that they may be found to be, on examination, the lowest prices ever offered in Charlevoix. Yours respectfully,

J. L. HURD.

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

The Sanitary Engineer is of opinion that there is no method of removing snow from city streets that is worth talking about except by carting it away bodily. The use of salt is not adapted to the removal of considerable quantities of snow. If so applied and in sufficient volume it would be found much more costly than carting. Moreover, briny slush, the inevitable result of the application of salt, is a nuisance in itself, and not easily gotten rid of when in large quantities. It always makes a freezing mixture, producing a temperature of about zero Fahrenheit, even in thawy weather, and injuriously affecting the feet of both men and animals which are brought in contact with it.

More Definite.

"Didn't you say Jimson was a first-class salesman and a gentleman?" asked the boss, of a merchant traveler, relative to a new man who had proved quite the contrary.

"No, sir, I did not," was the emphatic reply.

"Well, I do not wish to impugn your veracity, but I am willing to make an affidavit to the effect that you told me you could say he was an excellent man in every respect."

"That's what I did say, sir."

"Why did you deny it, then?"

"I didn't deny it."

"I say you did."

"I beg your pardon; I said I could say that he was a first-class salesman and a gentleman, but I didn't say so, nor would I, unless I wanted to tell a lie, and sir, a man in my profession never lies; that is, hardly ever."

"Oh—ah—indeed?" stammered the boss, "I should have been more particular, and, sir, you should have been more definite."—Merchant Traveler.

Murders and Executions.

In an editorial in the April Crisis, entitled "Mob or Magistracy," the following comparison is made between murder and the application of justice: "Over against the fifteen hundred murders of the last year, we have the report of barely ninety-three legal executions. Many of these must have been cases in which the crime had been committed in 1882, while many of the criminals of 1883 had not yet been brought to trial. It is not, however, far from the truth to say that, while thirteen or fourteen hundred murders are committed in this country every year, fewer than a hundred of the murderers suffer the extreme penalty of the law. When the willful slayer knows that he has thirteen chances out of fourteen of escaping the full penalty of the law, the deterrent influence of punishment cannot be said to be very powerful.

"The small number of murderers hanged by the sheriffs, and the greater number hanged by the mobs, should be evidence enough that the administration of our criminal courts in many quarters is faintly defective, and needs reforming. The only classes of persons interested in maintaining the present state of things are the criminals and the criminal lawyers; and it is not for their exclusive benefit that society is organized. The contrast between the swift, firm and sure methods of English and Continental courts in dealing with great criminals, and the tardy, feeble, and abortive methods of our own, should sting our national pride to some energetic measures of reform. The people must rouse themselves to demand a more vigorous enforcement of the laws, and they must see to it that judges and prosecuting attorneys are chosen who have the ability and the will to bring evil-doers to justice. The judges on the bench may well inquire whether the protection of the criminal has not assumed disproportionate importance in our criminal procedure. If, to our first impulse, innocent men may suffer, the law itself, which is the only protection of innocent men, becomes utterly paralyzed, then there is a call for a revision of our methods and our maxims, and the infusion of a new spirit into our laws. Every judge who will brush aside the hair-splitting devices of the lawyers, and insist that criminal trials shall be conducted with rigor and directness of purpose, will deserve, and will be likely to win, the approval of his fellow-citizens."

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS,

Patent Medicines, all Kinds.

Imported and Domestic Perfumery.

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Bartholomew's new

Opera Block

For You

NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.

THE ILLUSTRATED

BIOGRAPHICAL

1884. ANNUAL. 1884.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR.

It contains something for everybody. Its pages interest and instruct young and old. It is adversionable to the Doctor, the Clergyman, the Lawyer, the Editor, the Statesman, the Business Politician, the Merchant, the Mechanic and to the School Boy who longs to be a Statesman or an honest character and seeks for models to guide in the right direction.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.

Within its pages may be found nearly

200 PORTRAITS, MEN AND WOMEN who have exercised and are still exerting present influences in various directions.

Within its pages are the American publication, without regard to political or religious bias, of the biographies, portraits and lives of the most PROMINENT EUROPEAN RULERS of the day.

The pages familiarize the reader with the Statesmen and the lives of prominent Crowned and Uncrowned Rulers, Members of the Cabinets, Statesmen, Warriors, Sovereigns, Governors, Ministers, Orators, Editors, Actors, Editors, Philanthropists, Philosophers, Poets, Inventors, Advocates, Judges, Financiers, Journalists, Philanthropists, Orators, Mishaps, and others in all the various walks of life, INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES,

AMONG WHOM WE MAY MENTION BLAINE, ARTHUR, BEECHER, BAYARD, BLACKBURN, HOLMAN, GARFIELD, GRANT, THURMAN, HANCOCK, EDMUNDS, LOGAN, CONKLING and others.

EVERY ARTICLE AND SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND ATTRACTIVE PORTRAIT.

Only a small number remain, whether Republicans, Democrats, Liberals, Greenbackers, Prohibitionists, Methodists, Presbyterians, Episcopalians, Catholics, Jews, Gentiles, Infidels, Christians, Agnostics, Atheists, Free Thinkers, Free Lovers, Free Livers, Free Talkers, Free Writers HUMILITY.

BY G.

In fairest lands along the Tiber's shore
The citizens dispersed with advancing night.
Take choices fit and fill the place with song;
And soon a long-taste in the firmament
Beneath the crescent moon in heaven's arch.
The ceaseless play of waters on the strand
Mingled with the sweet music of the night.
Then, to relieve monotony, the band
Repeat a nightly vesper to the earth.
A youth alone, the quiet and unassuming,
Walking with fleetful pace along the sands,
Is filled with visions of the ideal past.
He sees the days of the Caesars all his feet
Thronged with people, and the palaces and climb
Along the course—the strange, wild
Impelled with his own sense and will
Upon the sacred instant has a fascinat;
But soon, with sudden, unexpected sway,
Revelling waters sporting with the vessel
Exulting bear it backward to the ragged rock
Of the unknown, the unknown, the unknown.
Oh, what than much the visions of sensuality,
Thus lately he a time is left to pal
Along the river's crook—persistence to steal
The Tuscan beach of some sweet, fragile
Boat.
Till wholly seized and stealthily borne upon
The tide of life, and lost forever!
The boat blow, the
Thus moved the youth in consort with his soul.
"Ambition is the whirlpool of mind.
The sacred flames of honor, and of fame,
Are all those immortal are yet they're fairly burned.
Remorse, and the trouble of sin hour,
That off now is to the lamp 'tis dropped,
And leave it to unconsciousness and unkind,
And so sometimes a phantom of the mind
Also should come be summoned to fulfill
A law like this: Hark, one tiny drop
From out the sea-sun never change its depth?
Yet, ever changing, ever the same
As if to prove the wisdom of the Deity.
More so thing but is more after gain is done?
And reveling is the burning heart and home
And this are very sure?
O, sweet is life! Oh to the hour when man
Would scorn it most! and sweet the message
Of
The lacks world unknown beats that break,
And omits the moment to try the sister, safer
Way which, though it feel through sail and pain,
Is ever more sweet of that than
Too oft devised by man.
Yet, ever the sweet, ever from the night,
So isn't is ever in advance of us—
Now how the waters gently as leaves,
Now sight the frantic winds, and mixed
The sound of pebbles on the lonely shore;
But the human form cutting slow his steps
Along the sand, small leave insight of days,
Yet ever the sweet, ever the sweet, ever
Is, may potent sanctuary of the soul.
Whatever thee be, or faith, or hope, or trust,
Or Heaven—or the Great Unknown, implanted
In the human breast, be then with me
Till life and billows of the bottoms sea
Bear one burden safely to eternity!

TINSEL AND GOLD.

BY ELLA R. ROSS.

The wide, large kitchen of the Brevoort farmhouse was adorned with a profusion of pink-tinted apple blossoms, early cherry blooms, and the bright pink flowers of the peach, while a large blue pitcher stood on the mantel filled with rose-scented pennies, yellow daffodils, and all the garden flowers of that loveliest of all seasons, perfect May.

Myrtle Brevoort had been busy for more than an hour at the work of adornment, and now that she had finished her task of the 5 o'clock supper was being discussed, every one must have a word to say about the handiwork of the 16-year-old maiden.

"There is a basket of my Genesee Flower apples, the same amount of cherries, and at least a quite of Early York peaches sacrificed to the caprice of this wasteful damsel," said Farmer Brevoort," stroking fondly the golden curls of his much-loved only daughter.

"Harley Martine is expected, I guess," laughed the 15-year-old son of the house. "Mart is always grinked up when he is coming."

Myrtle colored slightly and glanced slyly across the table, where sat a young exquisite from Lockhart, the young city near. He was her aunt's stepson, Alvin Audly, and, although almost affianced to Harley Martine, she wished to see how Tommy's words affected him.

They did not seem to move him so much as they did her, and Aunt Augusta, who sat near him. She smiled a little upon him, and said, half scornfully, half, half security.

"So Myrtle is about to take up with a farmer; I hope she may be happy."

"I only hope she may do as well as to take up with Harley Martine," replied Mr. Brevoort, bluntly. "There is not a finer young man in the State."

"And there is nothing in the world between them to warrant such silly jests as yours, Tommy," said Mrs. Brevoort, sharply, to her hopeful son, for she secretly sympathized with what she believed her sister's higher aims for her daughter.

The kind farmer smiled at his ruffled spouse, and then said, laughing:

"There, there, Sarah, don't look so vexed, Harley will not trouble you. He started for New York this morning, upon some business for his father, and will not be back in some time."

Myrtle looked up quickly. She felt a little guilty, for she had allowed her aunt to be a little dazzled by the glitter and tinsel of her stylish aunt and her dainty cousin.

Mr. Brevoort noticed his daughter's glance, and said, in answer to the question in her eyes:

"He stopped at the field where I was working and told me about it, and he also sent his respects to Mrs. and Miss Brevoort."

"Ah," replied Mrs. Brevoort, but her daughter turned whiter than the dress she wore.

Myrtle did not imagine how deeply Harley Martine had been hurt by the change in his little sweetheart since the advent of the stylish Alvin Audly; while she thought he could not care much for her, since he could leave the neighborhood without even bidding her "good-by."

A mist dimmed the deep, blue eyes for a few minutes, and then she turned a more attentive ear to the blandishments of her aunt and the attentions of the carefully attired Alvin.

Harley Martine little thought what that little act of coldness was to cost him, or the fearful sorrow he might have spared sweet, confiding little Myrtle by remaining by her side.

When they returned to the parlor Myrtle sat down on a low stool at her aunt's feet, and listened, as she told her of the grandeur of her home in the city, where Myrtle had never been, until her childish brain was almost fascinated by the tale.

"Sarah, why may not Myrtle accompany us home? We should dearly love to have her, and I assure you Alvin would do everything to make her visit pleasant, for he thinks the world of her."

Mrs. Brevoort, to whom the words were addressed, did not reply for a moment, but then she said:

"I would please me much to have her go, for it is hardly the place for a young lady here; but I do not know what her father would say, and, besides, her wardrobe would need replenishing."

"What of that," exclaimed Mrs. Audly. "Town is the place to purchase new frocks, and it would be a pastime for me to go shopping for her."

"I know," replied the sister, "that I will have to see what Mr. Brevoort says; and surely you are not thinking of drawing your visit to a close?"

"I do not know; it will be altogether as Alvin decides. He may wish to return any day."

"I will speak to Mr. Brevoort this evening, then, Augusta."

"That is a sensible woman," ejaculated Mrs. Audly. "You can not wish your modest and lovely Myrtle to marry a common farmer."

Sarah Brevoort knew exactly what was in her sister's mind, and she herself would not object to an alliance for her daughter with one so seemingly influential and rich as Alvin Audly.

But Farmer Brevoort was of a different stamp, and had frequently expressed a very unfavorable opinion of Alvin Audly, which, however, Mrs. Brevoort carefully kept to herself; and, if the truth must be told, he had a very inner insight into the character of his visitors than did his wife, although a sister of the wealthy Mrs. Audly.

Did you ever need a person who, if he become possessed of a thing, believed that articles instantly doubled in value? Did you ever know a woman who, if she had a 6-cent calico wash dress, would always speak of it as her "navy-blue silk?" If you ever did, then you have witnessed one of the most innocent traits of Augusta Audly's character.

And it never entered into the simple head of Sarah Brevoort that there might be an object hidden somewhere under all this attention.

Myrtle and her mother had to plead a long time before Mr. Brevoort would give his consent to a visit to the city; but, unfortunately, he did grant, and Myrtle went to spend some months in the city of Lockhart with her aunt.

Her aunt also had the privilege of making any additions to Myrtle's wardrobe she thought necessary, and Mr. Brevoort was to foot the bills.

It must be confessed Myrtle did not find everything quite as she had fancied it. Her aunt's elegant home upon the avenue turned into a parlor and two bedrooms in a boarding-house.

"We rented our home, you know, dear; for when we went down to your aunt's we intended to stay the winter."

Mrs. Audly did not add that the reason for her change of plan was owing to Mr. Brevoort's sharp eye, which she feared would spy out and frustrate her designs are they could be accomplished.

Myrtle, however, did not question her aunt's sincerity, and entered with all the zest of girlhood into the delight of dressmaking which Mrs. Audly inaugurated.

"I believe I shall make your dresses myself," she said. "I used to cut and fit when I was a girl."

Myrtle made no reply, and from this moment she was quite a lay-a-cotton velvets, with the cheapest of cheap lace, sprang dresses which Mrs. Audly kindly bestowed on the lid! It be sent to Mr. Brevoort:

"Two water-dress trimmed with point lace.....$150.00
Two morning-dresses with ruffles and lace.....$50.00
Two evening-dresses trimmed with point lace.....$150.00
Two cloaks, one velvet and one lace.....$150.00
Two hats, one velvet and one lace.....$50.00
Two fans, one lace and one feather.....$50.00
Two pairs of gloves, one lace and one feather.....$50.00
Two pairs of shoes, one lace and one feather.....$50.00
Two pairs of stockings

HADASSAH.

BY OSCAR F. WISNER.

Among these fair virgins was Mordecai's kin,
A Jewess by birth and formed but to win,
And her kindred were captives. Now far away
In the land of the Persian, live they to-day.
"Speak not lovest one of our hated race,
Not a word of bondage in this accursed place.
Until the right time—when the king is all joy,
Then thine arts with the Persian quickly employ."

Thus spoke the sly Jew to Esther, the fair,
Who appeared to outshine all the virgins then there.
But time glides along, and months roll away,
And the feast at the palace had seen its best day:
And the fragrance of myrrh breathes over all,
As they circle around in Shushan's bright hall.
And the king waits impatient his queen to behold
All robed in her purple colored garments and gold.

Lo! yonder is Cupid, that invisible guide,
Who plays such a part in humanity's tide.
He watches his chance, and bends his bright bow,
And Persia's great king at his feet is laid low.
And Shushan now echoes with music and song,
For Esther is queen! and Cupid is strong.
And Vashti no longer is queen of the east,
And her smile has departed at royalty's feast.

And Mordecai sits at the beautiful gate;
All silent he sits, as fixed there by fate.
But he knows of a plot wrought from the king,
And tells it to Esther—a wonderful thing!
How servants once sought their monarch to slay,
And snatch from the palace the light of the day.
Then the evening old Jew gained favor at last
And in presence of Iran in splendor he passed.

But, yonder is Haman! who treads o'er the stage,
In pride of his power, in that distinct age.
Above all the princes was Haman, the bad,
Though his face wore a smile and seemed ever glad.
When passing one day in splendor of state,
He noticed the Jew sitting close by the gate;
But he bowed not, nor moved when Haman passed by,
Save a toss of his head, and scorn in his eye.

Then Haman grew angry as any could be,
And vowed to himself, he'd bend his proud knee
The knee of the Jew—and his anger swelled high,
And the demon of hate flashed out from his eye.
And they who stood by the beautiful gate,
Informed the great king—and still they did wait
For an answer, from Persia's proud lord—
Still wait they for answer—still not a word.

Then Haman grew fearful, he cursed and he swore,—
So 'twas thought in the days of Iran of yore.—
And he willed to destroy the whole Jewish race,
And marked for this Jew a special disgrace.
Then Haman recounts to the monarch alone,
Who sat in his pride on Persia's dread throne;
How the Jews would never his edicts obey,
And despised all the laws of Persia that day.

He told how the king could make a great gain,
By enforcing his laws throughout his domain.
What a conflict of laws! continued he still,
"And how they do fight 'gainst your majesty's will.
Now let them perish! these merciless Jews,
Who defy thee, O king—to obey, they refuse
Thus spoke vile Haman in Iran's best ear
All bold with assurance and void of all fear.

It will fill up thy treasures, most gracious king,
And over all lands thy praises will ring.
I will give of my means, said Haman anon more,
To see all the Jews sink down in their gore.
Then the king drew his ring from his delicate hand,
And gave it to Haman, 'twas his word of command.
Then Iran sat down with Haman to drink,
Whilst the serpent crept over the cup's golden brink.

Mordecai knew of the plot all the while,
For he saw on the face of Haman a smile.
He knew by this sign that mischief's afloat,
And like sentinel at sea he seeks the life boat.
Now he puts on raiment of sackcloth so sure,
And walks through the city and cries to be secure;
And walks in this garb 'fore the beautiful gate
Where he sat when Haman passed there, of late.

To be continued.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 19, 1884.

Around the County.

South Arm.

E. S. Hawks of Charlevoix visited his parents in this township last week.

An organ agent, from Charlevoix, invaded our peaceful hamlet last Wednesday.

Arthur Meech, son of F. J. Meech of Norwood, is seen on our streets frequently.

Mrs. Blake and children spent a few days last week visiting friends in Jordan township.

James F. Palmiter is busy now finding out the secrets of the worthy citizens of this township.

Mr. Hankey of Petoskey from whom some of our merchants receive their flour was in town Thursday.

Rev. R. Tyndall of Elmira made his friends here, a call last week. He intends visiting Canada soon.

Mr. and Mrs. McArthur visited their friends in the Wilks settlement a week ago, and spent the Sabbath with them.

Our photograph artist has his building erected and we presume nearly ready for business, from outside appearances.

Mr. Peter Higgins, mail carrier between Echo and Central Lake, boasts of a young daughter which arrived last week.

Our genial postmaster, can be heard quite frequently, grinding music out of his organette, which by the way is a genuine article.

Mrs. Freeman Wilson lies in a critical condition, with a disease of the brain, which so far has baffled the doctors to locate. Her recovery is doubtful.

A number of South Arm people went over the Lake to hear the Rev. Devine of Chicago, preach last Sabbath. They report a pleasant and profitable trip.

W. F. Empey has been building a walk from his store to E. A. H. Coles, which is quite an improvement. The weary pedestrian would bless the rest of the South Arm citizens, if they would do likewise.

Burgess.

Phil. Howe is the happy father of a bouncing boy.

Died at Peter Daniels, June 16th, Jenny Pashawba, aged 14.

Charles Hamlin cut his thumb quite bad one day last week.

Peter and Frank Kane flave the best piece of winter wheat in town.

Mrs. Charles Howe has been very sick with billious fever, but is recovering.

J. S. Webster has peas that are hoded to blow. They were sown last fall.

Chauncy Howe Jr., who has been sailing has come home, and is getting out bark.

The friends of Lizzie Willis, will be pleased to learn that she is recovering from an attack of brain fever.

The cultivation of hops has got to be quite an industry in Hayes. There if one yard on state road that is beautiful, especially the poles.

Norwood.

Mr. Frank Richardson and Miss Della Stafford, of this place, were married at the M. E. parsonage in Charlevoix, Wednesday, June 11th. They returned to Mr. Stafford's the following day, and that evening were joined by a party of young people, and we are told a very pleasant evening was had.

The Rev. Mr. Morgan arrived last Saturday, and on Sunday morning preached to a crowded house.

The Lawrence called at this place Sunday on her way down.

Shall the fourth be celebrated at Norwood? If not, why not? It has been intimated to us that the boys were going to give a days work on the town hall for the privilege of having it ready to celebrate in.

Mr. Wm. and Chas Rodshorne of Detroit are in town the guests of F. J. Meech.

OLD NEWSPAPERS FOR SALE

WAR WITH much PRICES.

A fall in the price of Hardware, at L. D. Bartholomew's.

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES AT McCabe's Livery Barn, CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR.

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

for cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞"The CORBIN'S MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 43

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix.....	9 30 a. m.	2.00 p. m.
Arrive East Jordan....	9 50 a. m.	4.00 p. m.
Leave East Jordan....	6 30 a. m.	1.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix.....	11.00 a. m.	6.00 p. m

Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Str. M. W. WRIGHT—Capt. J. J. Bennett.

Leave Charlevoix.....	6 30 a. m.	3.00 p. m.
Arrive Boyne.....	8 30 a. m.	1.00 p. m.
Leave Boyne.....	9 30 a. m.	4.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix.....	12 00 a. m.	6.30 p. m

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. A. H. Bennett.

East Jordan, lv.	7.00am	Harbor Springs 1.30pm
Charlevoix.....	8.30am	Petoskey..... 3.30pm
Petoskey.....	11.00am	Charlevoix..... 5.30pm
Harbor Springs	11.30am	East Jordan, ar. 6.30pm

Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. R. Thompson.

Le Boyne....	7.00am	Lv Charlevoix..	2.00pm
Ar Charlevoix.	8.30am	At Boyne.....	3.30pm

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan and Charlevoix.

Steamer BELLE HARTH—Capt. Frank Cater.

LEAVE	AM	PM	ARRIVE	AM	PM
East Jordan	6.30	1.00	Charlevoix	8.30	3.15
Charlevoix..	9.30	4.00	East Jordan.	11.55	6.00

Stopping at intermediate points.

HANNAH, LAY & COMPANY'S STEAMER LINE. SEASON OF 1884.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,

CAPT. O. E. WILSON.

GOING NORTH.		GOING SOUTH.
Monday, Wednesdays, and Fridays.		Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.
Will Leave		Will Leave
Traverse City..	7.00am	St. Ignace.....	7.00am
Northport.....	9.00am	Mackinaw Isl'd	7.00am
Leelanau.....		Traverse City..	10.00am
Suttons Bay..		Leelanau.....
Harbor Springs	2.40pm	Northport.....	1.00pm
Petoskey.....	3.00pm	Leaving at
Mackinaw Isl'd	9.00pm	Harbor Springs	2.00pm
Arriving at		Petoskey.....	3.30pm
St. Ignace.....	10.00pm	Arriving at
		Traverse City..	8.00pm

T. S. ARTHUR

CAPT. A. G. ALDRICH.

GOING NORTH.		GOING SOUTH.
Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.		Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.
Will Leave		Will Leave
Traverse City..	7.00am	Harbor Springs	6.00am
Old Mission ..	8.00am	Petoskey.....	7.00am
Northport.....	9.00am	Old Mission....	9.00am
Peels Lake....	11.00am	East Jordan for
Norwood.....	12.30pm	Boyne.....	10.00am
Charlevoix for	2.00pm	Charlevoix for
East Jordan for		Marion.....	11.00am
Boyne.....	3.30pm	Norwood.....	1.00pm
Charlevoix for		Peels Lake....	2.00pm
Marion.....	5.00pm	Northport.....	3.30pm
Petoskey.....	6.00pm	Old Mission....	5.30pm
Arriving at		Arriving at
Harbor Springs	7.00pm	Traverse City..	6.00pm

GOOD CONNECTIONS

Will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on the G. R. & I. R. R.; also on Monday mornings between the City of Traverse from Chicago and the City of Grand Rapids going north, and on Wednesday evenings between the T S. Parties going south and the City of Traverse to Chicago.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card to date of January, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv..		7 00am	7 15pm
Richmond	3 37pm	10 32	8 06
Muncie.....	4 41	11 32	9 06
Kingsville.....	4 11	11 32	10 21
Fort Wayne, ar.	6 42	1 25am	1 35am
Fort Wayne, lv.		2 47	2 20	6 07am
Kendallville....		3 55	3 32	9 17
Sturgis.....		4 43	4 14	10 05
Vicksburg.....		5 03	4 32	10 23
Schoolcraft, ar.		6 12	5 42	12 25pm
Kalamazoo, lv.		7 05	6 32	1 25
G'd Rapids, ar.		9 02	9 22	3 57
G'd Rapids, lv.	7 15am		9 35	4 05
Ionia.....	7 56		10 05	5 05
Howard City....	8 41		10 49	6 22
Big Rapids.....	9 17		11 19pm	7 22
Reed City.....	10 17		1 12	8 18
Cadillac, ar.....	11 25		2 25	9 30
Cadillac, lv.....			2 30	9 50
Traverse City, ar			4 05
Kalkaska, lv....			4 17	12 00am
Grayling.....			5 07	1 00
Bagley.....			5 42	2 20
Petoskey, ar....			6 24	3 15
Harbor Springs.			7 15	4 45
Mackinaw City..			8 05	6 00
St. Ignace.....			10 00	8 50
Marquette.....			3 00am	5 00am
Negaunee, ar....			7 10	7 50

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Negaunee, lv....			5 15pm	7 30am
Marquette.....			7 00	9 05
St. Ignace.....			8 45am	6 15pm
Mackinaw City..			9 40	7 10
Harbor Springs.			7 50	8 20
Petoskey.....			8 38	11 37
Grayling.....			9 15	12 27am
Kalkaska.....			9 18	2 14
Traverse City, lv			9 51	2 30
Cadillac, ar.....			11 15am
Cadillac, lv.....		3 20pm	11 45	5 50
Reed City.....		4 59	1 12pm	7 16
Big Rapids.....		5 12	1 30	7 35
Howard City....		6 08	2 35	8 47
Ionia.....		7 23	3 44	10 05
G'd Rapids, ar.		7 40	4 00	10 25
G'd Rapids, lv.	6 20am		4 32	12 27pm
Kalamazoo, ar.	7 32		5 52	2 20
Kalamazoo, lv.	6 32		6 02	2 30
Vicksburg.....	9 57		7 22	3 06
Sturgis.....	10 01		8 16	4 12
Kendallville....	10 47		9 03	5 00
Wolcottville....	11 02		9 52	6 42
Fort Wayne, lv.	12 02	5 37am	12 00am
Kingsville.....	1 49	6 28	1 07
Winchester.....	3 28	8 16	2 55
Richmond, ar....	4 27	9 17	4 01
Cincinnati, ar....		7 40pm	12 05pm	7 30am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Actg G. P. Agt., Grand Rapids, Mich.

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1873.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitings,

Boots and Shoes.

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at actual cost, as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. As a member, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark.

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 50. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JUNE 26, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

is published every Thursday morning,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

(other news T. B. Smith's grocery)

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Business Directory.

ATTORNEYS.

O. E. ISMANN & GRIER, Attorneys at Law. Office in Bulmer' Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

A. A. ISMANN. A. J. GRIER.

DIXON & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

PUGH & ALDRICH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

FRED M. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate Brokers promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

H. L. JESSUP, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office on Lake st., Boyne, Mich.

HILLS & NEWBERRY, Attorneys at Law, and Real Estate Commissioners. Office in Mark Hoyt's Banking house on Mitchell st, Petoskey, Mich.

J. E. CLARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

NORTON, KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law. Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

OWEN F. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, and Circuit Court Commissioner.

A. J. GARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX. Capital $50,000. Loans and discounts at lowest rates. Interest allowed on deposits. Drafts bought and sold, and collections made on favorable terms. Steamship and railroad tickets sold to and from all parts of Europe. Foreign money bought and sold.

REYNOLDS & BURROWS.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH. Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7 p. m. in the opera house. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7.30 in the school house.

C. T. ANASTAS, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH. Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7.

J. T. DENNIS, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX HOUGH AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet every Saturday night, at the town hall. H. F. BISHOP, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

R. SUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Plants, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. MILO EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class horses and carriages kept. Good Saddle horses a specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

J. A. CHRISTIAN, M. D. Office at the Ingleside.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

N. C. GRAVES, M. D. Office in Bee Block, Charlevoix.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. SHERMAN, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R. Rankin Post No. 193, meets second and fourth Monday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. G. T.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 307, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 309, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

I. O. L.—True Blues No. 157, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 362, meets at Lewis's on or before full moon. Hall over postoffice.

VETERINARY SURGEON.

CHAS. RANSBURY, V. S. Office at Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

WELL DIGGING.

FRANK BURKA, Charlevoix, Mich., will attend promptly to all work in his line of well digging, cistern building, stone repairing, well curbing, cellar building, and similar work. 45

A. BUTTARS. A. R. UNDERWOOD, Cashier.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money to loan on approved security at reasonable rates. Deposits received. Collections given careful attention and remittances made promptly.

O. W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. Any article of jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order. 29

PIMPLES.

I will send (free) the recipe for a simple vegetable remedy that will clear the face of PIMPLES, FLESHWORMS, BLACKHEADS, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or beardless face. Address, inclosing a 3c. stamp, T. S. VANDERBILT & CO., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

OLD NEWSPAPERS FOR SALE

Opera Block

NOTICE is hereby given that on or about May 20, 1884, two yearling colts or thoroughbreds, both colts are bright bay with black mane and tail, one is a mare of good size, the other is a horse, rather small. Strayed upon my farm located in the ten mile of Bear Lake, sec. 29 and now remain upon my premises.

Dated Bear Lake this 10th day of June 1884.

HIRAM CHAMBERLAIN.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss. Notice is hereby given, that in an order of the Probate Court for the County of Charlevoix, made on the twenty-fourth day of May, A. D. 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of John C. Spafo, late of said county, deceased, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate Court, at the Probate office in said county of Charlevoix, for examination and allowance, on or before the third day of November next, and that such claims will be heard before said court on Monday, the fourth day of August, and on Monday, the third day of November next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days.

Dated June 24th, A. D. 1884.

JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss. Notice is hereby given, that by an order of the Probate Court for the County of Charlevoix, made on the eleventh day of June, A. D. 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of Charlotte Rowdish, deceased, late of said county, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate Court, at the Probate office in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and allowance; on or before the fifth day of January next, and that such claims will be heard before said Court, on Monday, the first day of September, and on Monday, the fifth day of January next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days.

Dated June 11th, A. D. 1884.

JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix.—At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office in the village of Charlevoix, on the twenty-third day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Keat, Judge of probate, in the matter of the estate of CHARLOTTE ROWDISH, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Albert Rowdish, administrator of said estate, praying that certain real estate mainly described in said petition, and all of which is in said county, be assigned for the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the Probate office in the village of Charlevoix, on the fifth day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the several heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the Probate office in the village of Charlevoix, on the fifth day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the several persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, four successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES A. KEAT,

Judge of Probate.

(A true copy.)

FARM FOR SALE

Consisting of 141 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Good house, barn, and other out buildings; 25 acres fine hardwood timber, balance good beech and maple timber. About 20 fruit trees beginning to bear. One half mile from school and saw mill. Terms, time thousand seven hundred dollars, with not less than two thousand down; balance to suit purchaser. For further particulars apply to DAVID H. FRENCH, Charlevoix, Mich.

Electric Light

In the form of a FAIR, now located in Charlevoix. They have saved down high prices on kitchen utensils tinted ware, crockery, glassware, tinware, lookery, knickknacks, trimmed sets, lamps, knickknacks, fancy goods, kettles, boilers, dishes, pitchers, bat kets, hand mirrors, medicine chests, shawl straps, carpet sweepers, washboards, tubs, scrub brushes, brooms, jumpers and Dover egg beaters.

A good hot rack for, dust pan tip, wash bowl set, stick broom tie, hand mirror, tin spoons, mirror box tie, ladies' lame tie, goods tube tie, standard tie, ladies' tie, gents' tie, and a number of household articles too numerous to mention, all of never before heard of prices at

THE FAIR,

J. J. Kanagy & Son,

46 CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES AT McCabe's Livery Barn, CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS,

Patent Medicines, all Kinds,

Imported and Domestic Perfumery,

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Bulmer's new

Opera Block

1872 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.

PURITY, POLITENESS.

We make it a point to sell only

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

Our Prices will always be as Low as

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

Can be Sold.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

Board by the Day or Week AND WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON, Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Eagle Hotel,

E. A. H. COLE, PROPRIETOR,

South Arm, Michigan.

A new house, situated west end of bridge. Nearest Hotel to Jordan River. Horses and boats for guests. Headquarters for Intermediate Lake and Jordan River hunters.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public. Headquarters for the Petoskey and Big Rapids Shoot.

HULBERT HOUSE,

P. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house has been thoroughly renovated and put in first class order for the traveling and sporting public. Shooters landing within a "Stones throw" of the house. Sample Rooms.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

UNITED STATES HOTEL,

GEO. W. CHILDS, Proprietor,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

W. F. ORRELL,

HOUSE DECORATOR,

Charlevoix, Mich.

PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.

ARTISTIC PAPER-HANGING.

Finishing Hardwood a Specialty

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

Fresh Fruits!

A Fine Stock just received

AT L. L. CARR'S.

GET YOUR

Photographs

At D. S. Way's.

HODGE & LITZAU,

Manufacturers and Dealers in

HARNESS, SADDLES

Carry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Lap Robes, Blankets, Etc. Special attention given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Usher & Howard, and will be pleased to meet the old customers, and gain as many new ones possible. Call and see my stock

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and optical goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best time-piece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

Roswell P. Flower,

Of New York City, was born at Theresa, Jefferson county, N. Y., August 7th, 1835. When eight years old Roswell's father died leaving the family in straightened circumstances, and the boy worked hard to aid in supporting his widowed mother and two children. At fourteen he began his business life as a clerk in a store and at eighteen we find him in Watertown, N. Y., a clerk in the post-office which position he held for six years. He then began business for himself in a small way, as a jeweler, and in ten years he had saved quite a competency from his profits. Henry Keep, a celebrated railroad magnate at that time and a brother-in-law of Mr. Flower, now died and left him in charge of his estate of four million dollars. Mr. Flower removed to New York city at that time and soon developed the fact that he was a remarkable financier. He became and still is the head of his banking firm at 52 Broad street, two brothers being his junior partners.

Mr. Flower was elected to the 47th congress in opposition to Wm. W. Astor under most peculiar circumstances. A vacancy was caused in the seventh N. Y. congressional district which includes the wealthiest portion of New York City, by reason of Levi P. Morton's appointment to France as U. S. Minister. Wm. W. Astor ran for the vacant seat as a republican, the district being a republican stronghold. Mr. Flower was induced to permit the use of his name in opposition to Astor, and although the latter is said to have spent fabulous sums of money at the polls, Mr. Flower was elected by a majority of over three thousand votes. He subsequently refused a re-election and has devoted all his time to business and acts of philanthropy, his generosity to church table and public institutions being unbounded and yet unostentatious.

Buying a Good Man's Coal Oil Land.

At the beginning of the oil excitement in Pennsylvania a very religious old farmer who owned forty acres in the center of the "belt" had offers for his farm until he couldn't sleep nights. They began at $4,000 and went up to $50,000, but to each and every would-be purchaser the old man steadily replied:

"If the Lord has put coal-ile under my farm it isn't for me to dispute his will."

One day, however, the agent of a syndicate came along and asked what figure the old man would act on his acres.

"I've bin offered $50,000."

"Yes."

"I've his saying as how the Lord put the ile there for some purpose of his own.

"Exactly."

"Well, now, if you could convince me that about one barrel in ten of the ile from this farm would be used for people to read their bibles by I reckon I'd set my figures at about $60,000."

In less than three hours the farm changed hands.—Wall Street News.

Curious Interpretation of Shakspeare.

I once mentioned in a school-report how a young man in a training college, having to paraphrase the famous passage in "Macbeth" beginning turned this line into "Can you not wait upon the lunatic?" And I remarked what a curious state of things it would be if every pupil of our national school knew that when a taper burned the wax is converted into emulsive seed and water, and thought at the same time that a good paraphrase for was "Can you not wait upon the lunatic?" If one is driven to choose, I think I would rather have a young person ignorant about the converted wax, but aware that "Can you not wait upon the lunatic?" is bad, than a young person whose education had been such as to manage things the other way.—Mother Arnold in The Manhattan.

Can't thou not minister to a mind diseased?

Can't thou not minister to a mind diseased?

The Zuni Indians are dying of the measles or the scurr.

Telephone Order

Hello there!

Hello! What is it?

Has your mother got my rags, old rubber, or copper she would like to dispose of? If so, please pick them up and save them, as WILKINSON & SHEPARD of Charlevoix, Mich., will be round in a day or two and get them. 48

HELLO! How Are You?

Of Interest to All.

HAVE YOUR GROCERIES, MEATS, FISH, AND VEGETABLES, DELIVERED

Free of Charge.

All orders by telephone or otherways, promptly attended to.

Having placed a Telephone in our market, we can receive and fill orders promptly, with the least possible trouble to our patrons.

Ice Delivered

Every Morning.

Opposite Bridge street house, Charlevoix.

JEFFERIES & DECKER.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NO LESS than 1,102 persons met with a violent end in Berlin during the past year, 414 of whom committed suicide. Of this last-named figure 182 died by hanging, 45 by shooting, 105 by drowning and 82 by poisoning themselves.

A NEW journal, called the Honeymoon, has appeared at Brussels. The editor announces that he has secured the co-operation of a doctor of law and of an experienced gynecologist. The business of this last functionary will be to find illustrious ancestors for those who think their prospects of marriage will be thereby improved.

BY the turning down of an old house in Charlotte, N. C., a letter written twenty-five years ago, and describing the tender emotions of a citizen of Charlotte on the eve of his wedding, has been found. The old man had quite forgotten the letter, and now wonders how he could ever have been guilty of such sublime nonsense.

GEN. PRESTON JOHNSTON, a son of Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston, is reported by the Rev. Dr. Henry M. Field as saying of the battle of Shiloh: "When my father was shot, and fell from his horse, he had gained a great victory; and if he had not been killed at that critical moment, in two hours more he would have captured Gen. Grant and his whole army.

IT has just been discovered, so it seems, that there are no earthworms in the soil of Manitoba. This must be a source of profound satisfaction to Manitoba birds, as they will not have to get up so early in the morning in order to prevent the other bird from getting the worm. But then it is doubtful if a bird loves to lie in bed in the morning as much as mankind do. Thus are the most joyful discoveries tempered by mature reflection.

OLIVE LOGAN writes that Mrs. Victoria Woodhull is married to John Randolph Martin, a rich London banker. Bad as the fine day you can see the pleased amiable face of the now Mrs. Martin side by side with that of her faithful sister, Tennie C. Claflin, as they sail together in their comfortable carriage and roll toward their splendid residence in Courtfield Gardens over the smooth avenues of lovely Hyde Park."

WILLIAM KING, a wealthy London merchant, struck a new kink in the matter of will-making which is calculated to work the opposite effect of ordinary wills, and at the same time give great encouragement to the study of a profession that never knows too much. He willed $1,000 to his physician, with the proviso that the sum should be doubled every year that the testator should be kept alive. He lived ten years.

The paradise of wheelmen, as the users of bicycles and tricycles call themselves, is Washington, the streets of no other city affording such favorable conditions for the wheel. Ladies are beginning to use the tricycle, and a lady on one of these vehicles accompanied by a gentleman on a bicycle promises to be a common sight. The number of bicycles in the United States is estimated at 40,000, and there are two or three associations of wheelmen.

WOMAN suffrage is being agitated in Great Britain. The ladies have now mixed the watery, "No taxation without representation," and have boldly declared that they would steadily refuse to pay any taxes until their sex is enfranchised, and are organizing societies of female taxpayers to resist, by every device known to the law, the collection of taxes by forfeiture and sale. The leader of the agitation in the Commons is Mr. William Woodall, member for Stoke-on-Trent.

MR. EUGENE STORRS, of Chicago, was dining in London, at Minister Lowell's, and near him sat the Duke of Argyll, who during the conversation expressed surprise that Chicago should have treated Oscar Wilde—"a man whom we think nothing of, if we think of him at all"—so well. "It's all a mistake, your Grace," replied Mr. Storrs; "we had nothin' to do with Wilde in Chicago." "But I certainly read in the New York and Boston papers long accounts of his reception in your city." "Yes, your Grace," answered the Chicago lawyer, "but a 2 recent growth of Chicago has made it the metropolis of the United States, and all the backward cities are jealous of her, and say spiteful things about her."

ONE of Mexico's eruditions is its postoffice. Having entered the Postal Union, letters pass between it and other countries in the Union for 5 cents a half-ounce; but between towns within its own border the rates are a great deal higher. It is the custom along the Rio Grandy, therefore, for Mexicans to cross the river and use the American post, thus saving money in corresponding with their own countrymen.

"I WISH," says Lawrence Toole, the English comedian, "that the editors would kindly leave my nose alone. I have no desire to thrust my nose into the newspapers. Indeed, I entirely concur with my old and valued friend, Mr. Herbert Spencer, when he says: 'Evolution, devoid of multiplex, is but a weak substitute for the creation of forces. The outcome of moral energy must succeed, not opposite, natural effort.' These admirable words express exactly my views on this subject."

FRIEDHAITMAN, a 17-year-old prisoner at the Schenectady (N. Y.) Jail, where he was awaiting trial on the charge of theft, managed to escape, and, after leading the Sheriff a lively chase, crawled under a building a few twenty inches from the ground. The Sheriff, suspecting his presence there, and not having a weapon, drew a mercenary ax from his pocket, and, pounding it where he supposed his hird was, threatened to shoot if he did not come out. Thinking the black article a veritable revolver, the prisoner surrendered and was taken back to jail.

A PHILADELPHIA oysterman has a pet clam that he calls "Puss." It is a big fellow; if that expression can be used about a clam that answers to the name of "Puss." He caught her at Narragansett Pier last summer, and she cost him so much digging that he decided to keep her. One night there was a terrible squealing down cellar where Puss had her sleeping apartments. The oysterman went down and found a rat with his foot fast between the bivalve shells. Some days after the oysterman declares Puss has caught 112 rats. This is not a fish story, but it is as near as one can come to it when talking about clams.

A SPIDER's web is as capable of teaching a lesson now as in the days of Robert Bruce. When a detective was sent for to find out who had robbed the private safe of Mr. Judd, of Stratford, Conn., the astonishing individual noted the fact that while a window near the safe had been left open, apparently by the escaping thief, a cobweb stretched across the aperture had not a thread broken. The sagacious detective argued from this that the robber had had other means of entrance and egress, and then upon leading himself to the law office of Mr. Judd's son, and accused him of having stolen the money. The young lawyer, who stood too high in the estimation of the public to have been suspected by any one, indignantly denied the charge; but when informed that there was proof that the window was opened from the inside, he "weakened," and confessed the theft. He handed over the money to the detective, and that worthy transferred it to the proper owner with explanations. It may be hardly necessary to remark that no prosecution of the thief has followed.

NEW YORK SUN. "It was as good as a circus," said Sergeant Mulholland. "I was walking along Broadway this morning when I saw a black-and-tan cab coming furiously up Murray street. The driver seemed to be doing his best to stop the animal, but it was unmanageable. A tall, well-built man, who did not see the runaway, was crossing the street. Everybody cried out to him, but the horse was close upon him before he saw it. Quick as thought he put out his right hand, seized the horse by the mouth, gave a sudden twist, and the runaway was lying flat on his side on the crossing. The cab driver was too much astonished to say a word, and the stranger picked his hat and walked off as coolly as though nothing had happened. I learned that he was Mr. Leonard R. Sturges, the owner of a cattle ranch in Texas. He knew a trick that the cowboys have of throwing a steer by giving its head a little twist. He practiced it on Broadway, and if a runaway horse got a lesson that he wont forget if he has any sense."

KYSER'S BENEDICTION.

BY CORIO.

It was a pleasant summer's day,
When Kyser married Miss Wolcott,
The music sound, and all was gayety,
There was a dinner quite and stall,
Except when Kyser, noble dog,
Let out a sullen, vengeful roar;
For, with knives, the farmer had
Chained Kyser to his cellar floor.

And there was a sound of knives sharp,
With which man sees no cheap knives sharp,
And wee to him the edge find
Who treated the farmer's other dog.
For Kyser, you see, was the dandy pup
Of the drought of his poor Kyser's life,
Kyser was a dog of high degree,
There was a color horse then.

On in the chapel neighborhood
The bonnie Bonnie to enter free!
From Bonnie's mouth the Kyser growes,
And each one of the town, "Look yes."
The office done of Farmer Cuse!
The office done of Farmer Cuse!
Before, where the folks were gone
Kyser's dog in his waistcoat, "Nothing tone.

But Miss Brown this morning had
The little collar wooden gated,
And, jumping closely, he had found
Poor Kyser was equipped children,
Then, running swiftly back again,
He gleeful ran back to the village,
And in a trice that collar had
Kyser and Tommy's collar.

Tears with that Kyser showed his teeth,
Aye! Hilled his sacred Kyser's mourning collar,
Tom Gingo, he filled the jug full up,
While Kyser looked and cussed, "Good lot!"
Then the faces each dry mouth
Was been put in a hopeless pall,
And when they left, those three children friends—
Kyser, and Tom, and the dog—were "tuff."

Then stumbling, as they walked, there two
Child noticed on the dark-brown acres
Of the farm, a little, little, little
Where gone the pet of Farmer Cuse
Thus blinded with sorrowful pine,
Two lies set handkerchiefs to wipe
Half smashed his head; but what was worse,
Two dark warm boys, he's smashed his jug.

Then Alex's morning half run cry,
"Ah, ow! ow, ow, ow, ow! Ow! Ow!
Rescue, Tom Gingo, and no more with me,
Mourn not in the dog, Kyser, here we go!"
Then Thomas stumbled up his horse,
Up which stumbling, he fell in his cry,
"Ah!" said he, "I always knew
A funeral, life, for Kyser that die."

"Now, Alex, life you a sermon preach,
And I will, in my knowledge, "hear;"
And then this birth begins to mourn
After that dog Kyser mourned such,
And Alex mumbled in my sense words
Of Kyser's life, and Tom said, "Like,"
"And Thomas long time," Alex said, "Like,"
Was sung by silent eyed The news Gingo.

"The benediction now we'll hear,
Kyser's dog, mourning mourner, life, Jack,"
Alex spoke, and Tom said, "Life,"
Was lying the upon life back.
"Tears," he said, "Do thou yourself!"
"What's thank?" said Tom, all here now,
And thus the benediction ends
In shape of Kyser's bearers "Bow wow."

Upon the cellar door, and sing,
Although he was his pained chase,
Kyser's dog howled—"And sing while teeth,
The hopeful watchdog Kyser come
Back, and I'll remain a little,
And fain fed over Alex's life,
Tom Gingo, and Thomas Tom Gingo and,
Thus ends, he lies at such low, rare where,
Poor Tom made no merrier life.

Kyser's dog mourned life life,
Not gladness he to that cemetery,
Alex gave life to his mourner life
Through solid fed and gay music tears;
Tom Gingo life life life life
Life life life life life life life life
And then, oh, life life life life life life life life

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

The State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select delegates to represent Michigan in the national democratic convention at Chicago, was held in White's theater, Detroit, on Wednesday afternoon, June 18th. Nearly every county in the state was represented by a full delegation, indicating an honest enthusiasm and strong hope of victory, even in the remote counties heretofore entirely under republican influence.

O. M. Barnes, chairman of the state central committee, called the convention to order at 12 o'clock, and named as the selection of the committee for temporary officers, Don M. Dickinson, of Wayne, chairman, and H. F. Pennington, of Eaton, secretary.

On taking the chair, Mr. Dickinson made a few remarks enlogistic of Samuel J. Tilden, Grover Cleveland and others, and counseled an earnest, thorough campaign in support of whoever might be selected as our national representative.

The necessary committees on credentials, organization, etc., were appointed, and the convention adjourned for dinner.

On reassembling, the committees reported, the temporary officers were made permanent, and names were presented for district delegates, who were affirmed by the convention.

For delegates-at-large the congressional districts were called first for the nomination of candidates. Thirteen names were presented, representing nearly every portion of the state. On the vote by counties, each district supported its favorite, until it became apparent that none could be elected without some of them; changing.

Tuesney, of Saginaw, was ahead, and a few changes gave him the desired majority. The same tactics were followed with each of the others.

A. P. Swineford, of Marquette, while having many friends, was required to define his democracy before he could be elected. Representing a highly protected district, and the majority of the convention having a determination to re-assert the national platform of 1876.—"a tariff for revenue only;"—it was desired to have his pledge to support such a platform before he could be recognized as a representative of Michigan democracy. This he did in a few well chosen words.

The alternates were elected by acclamation, and included those whose friends were most prompt in announcing their candidacy, and fortunate enough to get the chairman's recognition.

The delegates to Chicago, with their alternates, are as follows:

At Large—T. E. Tarsney, East Saginaw; O. W. Coburn, Kalamazoo; O. M. Barnes, Lansing; A. P. Swineford, Marquette.

First District—Daniel J. Campau, John Harmon. Alternates—August Lemmer, W. F. Stone.

Second District—P. M. Holloway, of Hillsdale; John Strong, Jr., of Monroe. Alternates—W. T. Ho Schoenherr, of Lenawee; Chas. R. Whitman, of Washtenaw.

Third District—Col. Michael Shoemaker, of Jackson; Devillo Hunnard, of Calhoun. Alternates—L. M. Powell, of Jackson; Henry D. Fessel, of Branch.

Fourth District—Charles H. Rhinerdier, of Lapeer; F. E. Stevens, of Van Buren. Alternates H. C. Bockoff, of Berrien; Jos. K. Riley, of St. Joseph.

Fifth District—Horace B. Peck, of Allegan; John H. Willey, of Kent. Alternates—Thos. Heffron, of Ottawa; Angelo E. Tower, of Ionia.

Sixth District—Dr. M. L. Bragg, of Clinton; Jerome Eddy, of Genesee. Alternates—H. N. Sweney, of Livingston; O. L. Davis, of Oakland.

Seventh District—Elijah G. Stevenson, of St. Clair. M. I. Boots, of Macomb. Alternates—Dr. A. B. Parker, of St. Clair; Mark Carrington, of Lapeer.

Eighth District—James K. Wright, of Gratiot; Jerome W. Turner, of Shiawassee. Alternates—Cornelius Tennent, of Isabella; T. J. Fisher, of Montcalm.

Ninth District—Edwin B. Bincker, of Manistee; Daniel E. Soper, of Newaygo. Alternates—Fred. A. Nims, of Muskegon; Wm. F. Mitchell, of Mason.

Tenth District—D. O. Fisher, of Bay; C. P. Cook, of Tuscola. Alternates—W. L. Churchill, of Alpena; H. D. Wilson, of Clare.

Eleventh District—John Power, of Delta; Wm. F. Pendell, of Mackinac. Alternates—Hugh McDougall, of Menominee; A. E. Banks, of Benzie.

The next skirmish was for chairman of the state central committee, with half a dozen candidates for the honors, but one Kelly, of Flint, was the lucky man.

The members from the various districts are as follows:

First District—Adam Zeigler and John Miller, of Detroit.

Second District—E. J. Smith, Lenawee; John Strong, Monroe.

Third District—Enoch Ranker, Jackson; H. F. Pennington, Charlotte.

Fourth District—H. C. Sherwood, Hartford; A. J. Shakespeare, Kalamazoo.

Fifth District—I. M. Weston, Kent; G. D. Stanford, Ottawa.

Sixth District—Quincy A. Smith, Ingham; Elliot R. Wilson, Oakland.

Seventh District—Isaac Beach, Lapeer; W. T. Hope, Huron.

Eighth District—Frank Lawrence, Saginaw; J. Stewart Tessie, Montcalm.

Ninth District—W. B. Wilson, Muskegon; Charles E. Beecraft, Mason.

Tenth District—L. S. Osman, Bay; C. J. Pillsbury, Emmet.

Eleventh District—Thos. M. Brady, Houghton; Gustave L. Troupe, Chippewa.

The platform adopted gives forth no uncertainty on the tariff question although two minority reports were offered favoring incidental protection. We print it in full, as follows:

We, the democracy of Michigan, in convention assembled, pledge ourselves anew to the constitutional doctrines of the democratic party. We deplore the fact that Samuel J. Tilden has declined a re-election to the presidency of the United States, and we affirm our faith in the sentiments expressed by his noble and statesmanlike letter.

We believe that home rule is the essence of free government, that the lines bounding state and national authority should be clearly defined to insure the broadest liberty to the people.

We believe in the economical administration of the government, and we denounce the republican party in power for its waste and extravagance in squandering the public money.

We demand the immediate reduction of the present outrageous system of taxation which is accumulating over $100,000,000 surplus revenue each year.

We heartily endorse the action of the democratic majority in congress in its endeavors to reduce taxation.

We believe in commercial freedom, in the right of every man to buy where he can buy the cheapest and sell where he can sell the dearest.

We denounce the present tariff, levied upon over 4,000 articles as a masterpiece of injustice, inequality and false pretense. It has fostered some to subsidize the few. It prohibits imports that might purchase the products of American labor. It has degraded American commerce from the first to an inferior rank on the high seas. It has cut down the wages of American manufacturers at home and abroad, and increased the returns of American agriculture, an industry followed by half our people. It costs the people five times more than it produces to the treasury, obstructs the process of production and wastes the fruits of labor. It promotes fraud, fosters smuggling, corrupts dishonest officials, bankrupts honest merchants and favors the rich at the expense of the poor. We demand that all custom house taxation shall be only for revenue.

We instruct the delegates to Chicago elected by this convention to insist upon the reaffirmation of the policy of tariff reform as essential to the consistency and success of the party.

We denounce the republican party for its hypocracy in distorting for a reform of abuses for which it has the sole responsibility, and yet in placing in nomination for the presidency a man identified with all these abuses and the corruption which has disgraced our politics during the time while his party has been in power.

Although no instructions were given the delegates, the sentiment of the convention was strongly in favor of Grover Cleveland, with McDonald, or some other good western man to occupy second place, we believe they will support such a combination unanimously, unless it becomes necessary to change to some other combination to secure a nomination. We believe that at least one delegate at large will support Butler, when a break is unavoidable, if his name is presented in a manner to give assurance of success, especially if there be a fatal conflict of interests in a few of the leading states which we deemed necessary to success.

On the whole, the convention is said to have been the largest and most enthusiastic ever held in the state, and gives more promise of success this fall.

Notes and News.

Grover Cleveland is "a strong, clean, able man."—Record.

The south acknowledge Cleveland as a free trader, and if there be any opposition, it will come on that basis.

The Muskegon News should not feel so bad because the Muskegon county delegates to Detroit could not have everything their own way. Other counties in the district are also deserving of recognition occasionally, and we think Muskegon had her share this time. All that fell to the lot of Charlevoix was a seat on the platform, as one of the vice presidents.

"The policy of John Kelley and his Tammany sachems this year will undoubtedly be 'A democrat or nothing.' Flower will do. But Cleveland, never! The cry against Cleveland will be: 'No republicans or bogus reformers for the democratic party.' Tammany must have a full-fledged democrat, and they would rather fight a losing fight with such a candidate than to win with Cleveland. The democrats will make a fatal blunder if they nominate this man!"—Detroit Journal. This is the howl set up, year after year by republicans, and echoed by the "rule or ruin" democracy, until defeat has come to be more certain than victory. And it will come again this year unless the various opposing factions concede something and pull together.

The Alba Record is supposed from some of its editorials to be a free trade paper. In a recent issue it said the Detroit Evening Journal was the "best two cent paper ever published in the state." As the Journal is the most radical protection sheet in the state, and there are at least two other equally good two cent news papers in Detroit which favor tariff reform, we would like the Record to explain in what the Journal's excellence consists.

The manner in which public sentiment is manufactured among traveling people is worthy of consideration. Last Thursday it was impossible to buy a Free Press on the train a large portion of the distance this side of Lansing. Tribunes were plenty, and those wanting news of the convention were compelled to take Tribunes or nothing. The report published in that paper was designed to make republican converts, turn thus a truthful statement of the proceedings.

The democracy of Michigan is for Grover Cleveland for president by a large majority, but not unanimously. The mention of the name of Ben Butler showed that he had a small but determined following, large enough to become the balance of power, and elect any good man on whom they may unite; or defeat any opposition to republicanism if not united. The republicans of Michigan are in the minority, and if the opposition can be united they will sweep everything.

While Michigan democracy is for Grover Cleveland for president, by a large majority, it is not unanimous. The following resolution, offered by Willard Stearns of Lenawee, at the state convention, met with such determined opposition from the Butler men as to leave no room for doubt that they will become a factor in the canvass worth considering and harmonizing. Their opposition killed the resolution. The name of Cleveland caused the enthusiasm of the delegates to a high pitch, but when Mr. Murtagh, of Wayne, moved to substitute the name of Benjamin F. Butler, it caused an explosion. More than a dozen delegates jumped to their feet to address the chair, and the chairman was compelled to rule the whole thing out of order until a more convenient season. This gave them all time to consider, and the Cleveland men gave way on the plea that the resolution might have a bad influence on other states, and would be considered as pledging Michigan to Cleveland's support, and practically instructing the delegation to support him at Chicago. Virtually it was a victory for the Butler men. The resolution is as follows: "Resolved, that the chairman of the democratic state convention be instructed to send to the New York state convention the following dispatch: The democracy of Michigan, in convention assembled, send greeting to the democracy of the empire state, and would enthusiastically hail the nomination of Grover Cleveland for president of the United States, in the interests of national honor, popular government, and the people's prosperity."

W. M. WAGAR. D. C. WAGAR.

WAGAR BROS.,

Wholesale and Retail dealers in

Tobacco, Cigars,

And Smokers' Articles.

Also a full line of Confectionery, Fruits,

AND

Temperance Drinks.

Third door west of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own Wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 43

E. T. BROWN & CO.

Threshing Engines,

Portable and Stationary

Engines,

SAW MILLS, THRESHERS, MILL SUPPLIES.

The Best Saw Mill in the World for the Money.

(BARGAINS IN SECOND HAND MACHINERY.)

WRITE FOR PRICES AND CATALOGUE

West Bridge Street,

Grand Rapids, Michigan

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes,

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes,

LATEST STYLES.

GILBERT & MOULTON,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting,

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

Advance Lumber Company

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO. ADVANCE, MICH.

NEW GOODS.

I am pleased to say that my

Spring Stock

is ready for inspection. Come and see them, and when you want a suit of clothes that fits them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES,

and

Price to Correspond With the Times.

GEO. W. MILLER.

New Stores

and

NEW GOODS

A Complete Stock of Hardware, Iron, Cutlery, Tinware, Fishing Tackle, Stoves, Implements and Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggies, Wheelbarrows, Carts, Refrigerators, Doors and Sash, Paints and Brushes. The very best Tin and Job work done on short notice.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW.

THE MOST USEFUL BOOK EVER PUBLISHED!

A Book that should be in Every House.

The press, teachers, and professional people throughout the country pronounce it to be the BOOK OF BOOKS. It contains upwards of 50,000 WORDS, with their definition and pronunciation, according to Webster and other recognized authorities; a large number of additional words and definitions in general use. It contains a mine of information for everybody. This book is handsomely bound in cloth, containing 542 Pages Profusely Illustrated. We propose to send you one of these valuable books, by mail, all shipping charges prepaid, to any address, on receipt of only ONE DOLLAR.

Address M. STOLZ & CO.,

30 Park Place, New York.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 20, 1884.

Provision Market.

Retail prices by consumers, as corrected every Wednesday evening by WRIGHT, KELLEY & MACY, general dealers.

FLOUR, per bbl, $5.00, $5.50, and $7.00.

CORN MEAL, per cwt, bolted $2.00; unbolted, $1.75.

HAY, per ton, $8.00.

OATS, per bu, 30@35c.

APPLES, per bu, 25@30c.

EGGS, per doz, 12c.

POTATOES, per bu, $1.00@1.25.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 20, 1884.

Ten Reasons for Locating in Michigan.

First. Because no other state presents so great a diversity of soil. The climate is equable, the seasons well defined, and crops of all kinds are raised under the most favorable conditions.

Second. Because desirable agricultural and timbered lands are to be had at prices ranging from $1.25 to $15 per acre. These lands are situated near markets, and, when timbered, the timber produced will more than pay the cost of clearing. Taxes are low and the state has no debt.

Third. Because all cereals and all vegetables are raised with marked success in nearly every county in the state. This fact should impress itself upon every land seeker who may think of locating in western territories, where wheat alone can be raised, particularly since the low price of this cereal is likely to render its production unprofitable.

Fourth. Because it is the best fruit state in the union. The variety and excellence of its fruits have never been excelled.

Fifth. Because its vast meadows and wood lands afford the best possible opportunities for grazing. The reputation of Michigan cattle and sheep is already world-wide.

Sixth. Because it has a magnificent growth of woods, both hard and soft, which are convertible into a variety of useful articles in daily use all over this country and the world; and its location on the growing prairie states will make every foot of timber valuable.

Seventh. Because the iron, copper, slate, stone, plaster, salt, coal, and oil industries of Michigan would in themselves sustain the great reputation the state has achieved, were agriculture and lumbering unknown within its borders.

Eighth. Because good markets are to be found in every county. Rail road and water transportation combine to make rates to the seaboard much lower relatively than in many states.

Ninth. Because the varied resources above enumerated afford a field for manufactories of all descriptions. Water power is to be had in every county, and the expense of carrying on factories is thus reduced to the minimum.

Tenth. Because the educational advantages offered by the schools and colleges of Michigan are unsurpassed. Education practically free, is available throughout the entire state.

For more detailed information read the pamphlet, "Michigan and its Resources," which can be had free of charge by addressing the

COMMISSIONER OF IMMIGRATION,

Detroit, Mich.

Fruit Prospects.

Correspondents of the secretary of state make the following reports of the prospects for fruits in the Grand Traverse region, as taken from the June crop report:

From W. W. Johnson, Suwanee, Antrim county: The prospects are excellent here for a full crop of the following varieties of fruit: Apples, hardy cherries, grapes, strawberries, raspberries, etc. Slight frosts occurred about the last of May but did no damage. Peach buds were all destroyed by cold weather in January. The trees survived and are leaving out nicely. Tender cherries and some varieties of plums seem to have been affected by the cold winter, and only a partial crop of plums may be expected. We are having a severe drouth, the surface soil is so dry that late planted corn does not sprout.

From George Parmelee, Old Mission, Grand Traverse county: Apple orchards are a sea of bloom (June 5). Plums and cherries are about as full. Pears do not promise more than half a crop. Some peach trees are full, others not, depending to some extent on the condition of "atmospheric drainage," as we had a cold sump last winter when the temperature fell to near the killing point. The Canadians are making a poor show on account of small wood growth last season. Small fruits all promise well, though in some cases the first straw berry blossoms were cut by a frost. In this vicinity the loss was slight. Notwithstanding the full promise of the free fruits I shall be surprised if all is realized, for the great blight of apples, plums, cherries, pears, and peaches laid year rested so much on the foliage as on the fruit, and it seems hardly reasonable to expect that degree of vitality in the trees necessary to mature a very heavy crop this season. I look for the fullest crop on those trees which carried the most healthy foliage last year.

From J. G. Ramsdell, Traverse City, Grand Traverse county: I am only speak for my own farm, and having visited or inquired of others. Apples, pears, plums, cherries, and quinces promise more than an ordinary crop. Peaches about ten per cent of a full crop. Grapes a full crop. Frost late June did no damage to fruit in this county.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crosier.

A PRIZE. Send six cents for postage and we will mail you free a valuable sample of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All other sections from the field hour, workers, absolutely sure. Address, at once, H. HALLETT & CO., Augusta, Maine. 4[illegible]

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. Parties wishing the prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn. St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

AGENTS wanted for the Pictorial Bible. The largest, handsomest, and best selling book in America. Immense profits to agents. All intelligent people want it. Any one can become a successful agent. Terms free. HALLET BOOK CO., Portland, Maine. 4[illegible]

For You

NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.

THE ILLUSTRATED

BIOGRAPHICAL

1884. ANNUAL. 1884.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR.

It makes a smiling for everybody. Its pages amuse and instruct young and old. It is alike entertaining in the Dorm, the Clergyman, the Lawyer, the Editor, the Statesman, the Student, the Politician, the Merchant, the Mechanic and in a School Boy who longs to lay the foundation of a pleasant character and crack for models to pattern after.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL

IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.

While its pages may be found nearly

200 PORTRAITS, MEN AND WOMEN who have expired and are still exerting potent influence on the world's progress.

Within its covers are American publications treating principally of EMINENT AMERICANS, or contains the portraits and lives of the most PROMINENT EUROPEANS of the age.

Its pages familiarize the reader with the lives of those who have by their prominent Social and Governmental Rulers, Members of the Cabinets, Statesmen, Warriors, Senators, Congressmen, Governors, Judges, Journal Reporters, Editors, Historians, Philosophers, Poets, Inventors, Advocates, Friends of Humanity, Leaders of Thought, Designers, Philanthropists, Orators, Bishops, and others in all the various walks of life.

INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES,

AND WHOEVER MAY NEVERTHELESS BLAZE ARTHUR MCDONALD, HAYARD MORRISSEY, GEORGE BOUCICAULT, LEXIGUES SAFIS, BUT LOR SCERMAN THORPE, BLUMBERS, HOLMAN, LOGAN, PAYNE and BO BLAY.

EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.

Can you? If Professional, Mercantile, Manufacturing, Professional, or Congressional Department, Publication, Publication, Publication

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

The State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select delegates to represent Michigan in the national democratic convention at Chicago, was held in White's theater, Detroit, on Wednesday afternoon, June 18th. Nearly every county in the state was represented by a full delegation, indicating an honest enthusiasm and strong hope of victory, even in the remote counties heretofore entirely under republican influence.

O. M. Barnes, chairman of the state central committee, called the convention to order at 12 o'clock, and named as the selection of the committee for temporary officers, Don M. Dickinson, of Wayne, chairman, and H. F. Pennington, of Eaton, secretary.

On taking the chair, Mr. Dickinson made a few remarks eulogistic of Samuel J. Tilden, Grover Cleveland and others, and counseled an earnest, thorough campaign in support of whoever might be selected as our national representative.

The necessary committees on credentials, organization, etc., were appointed, and the convention adjourned for dinner.

On reassembling, the committee reported, the temporary officers were made permanent, and names were presented for district delegates, who were affirmed by the convention.

For delegates-at-large the congressional districts were called first for the nomination of candidates. Thirteen names were presented, representing nearly every portion of the state. On the vote by counties, each district supported its favorite, until it became apparent that none could be elected without some of them changing.

Tuesney, of Saginaw, was ahead, and a few changes gave him the desired majority. The same tactics were followed with each of the others.

A. P. Swineford, of Marquette, while having many friends, was required to define his democracy before he could be elected. Representing a highly protected district, and the majority of the convention having a determination to re-assert the national platform of 1876,—"a tariff for revenue only,"—it was desired to have his pledge to support such a platform before he could be recognized as a representative of Michigan democracy. This he did in a few well chosen words.

The alternates were elected by acclamation, and included those whose friends were most prompt in announcing their candidacy, and fortunate enough to get the chairman's recognition.

The delegates to Chicago, with their alternates, are as follows:

At Large—T. E. Tarsney, East Saginaw; O. W. Owens, Kalamazoo; O. M. Barnes, Lansing; A. P. Swineford, Marquette.

First District—Daniel L. Campau, John Harmon. Alternates—August Lemmer, W. F. Snyder.

Second District—F. M. Holloway, of Hillsdale; John Strong, Jr., of Monroe. Alternates—W. T. B. Schumacher, of Erimsville; Chas. E. Whitman, of Wyandotte.

Third District—Col. Michael Shoemaker, of Jackson; Dwight Hubbard, of Calhoun. Alternates—L. M. Powell, of Jackson; Henry D. Peck, of Branch.

Fourth District—Charles H. Kimmerlee, of Cass; F. E. Stevens, of Van Buren. Alternates—H. C. Rockwell, of Berrien; Jos. K. Riles, St. Joseph.

Fifth District—Horace B. Peck, of Allegan; John H. Withey, of Kent. Alternates—Thos. Hoffman, of Ottawa; Angelo E. Tower, of Ionia.

Sixth District—Dr. M. L. Bragg, of Clinton; Jerome Eddy, of Genesee. Alternates—H. N. Spencer, of Livingston; D. L. Davis, of Oakland.

Seventh District—Elliot G. Stevenson, of St. Clair; M. I. Brabb, of Macomb. Alternates—Dr. L. B. Parker, of St. Clair; Mark Carrington, of Lapeer.

Eighth District—James K. Wright, of Gratiot; Norman W. Turner, of Shiawassee. Alternates—Cornelius Bermell, of Isabella; T. J. Potter, of Clinton.

Ninth District—Robert B. Hacker, of Manistee; Daniel E. Soper, of Newaygo. Alternates—Lord A. Ross, of Muskegon; Wm. F. Nisbett, of Mecosta.

Tenth District—D. O. Fisher, of Bay; C. P. Black, of Tuscola. Alternates—W. L. Churchill, of Alpena; H. O. Wilson, of Clare.

Eleventh District—John Power, of Ionia; Wm. P. Preston, of Mackinac. Alternates—Hugh McLaughlin, of Menominee; A. E. Banks, of Gogebic.

The most skirmish was for chairman of the state central committee, with half a dozen candidates for the honors, Jerome Eddy, of Flint, was the lucky man.

The members from the various districts are as follows:

First District—John J. Enright and John Miller, of Wayne.

Second District—E. J. Smith, Lenawee; John Strong, Monroe.

Third District—Enoch Hunker, Jackson; H. L. Pennington, Charlotte.

Fourth District—H. P. Sherwood, Berrien; A. J. Shakespeare, Kalamazoo.

Fifth District—I. M. Weston, Kent; H. D. Sanford, Ottawa.

Sixth District—Spinoy A. Smith, Hughson; Elliot R. Wilson, Oakland.

Seventh District—Isaac Beach, Lapeer; W. T. Hope, Huron.

Eighth District—Frank Lawrence, Saginaw; J. Stewart Crosby, Montcalm.

Ninth District—W. B. Wilson, Muskegon; Charles E. Bewsquare, Mason.

Tenth District—L. S. Coates, Bay; P. J. Fullthorp, Tuscola.

Eleventh District—Thos. M. Brady, Gustave L. Trompe, Chippewa.

The platform adopted gives no uncertainty on the tariff although two minority reports offered favoring incidental protection. We print it in full, as follows:

We, the democracy of Michigan, in assembled, pledge ourselves anew to the national doctrines of the democratic party. We hail the fact that Samuel J. Tilden is a candidate for the presidency. We believe in the economical administration of the government, and we denounce the party in power for its waste and extravagance in squandering the public money.

We demand the immediate reduction of the present outrageous system of taxation, accumulating over $100,000,000 surplus each year.

We heartily endorse the action of the democratic majority in congress in its efforts to reduce taxation.

We believe in commercial freedom, the right of every man to buy where he can cheapest and sell where he can sell it.

We denounce the present tariff, levying 2,500 articles as a masterpiece of injustice and false promises. It has, for many to subsidize the few. It predicts that might produce the products of labor. It has depraved American from the first to no laborer rich or poor. It has cut down the sales of manufacturers at home and abroad, and the returns of American agriculture, by reason of half our people. If people for times more than it proved treasury, enhances the process of and wastes the fruits of labor. It treat, leaves smuggling, enriches officials, bankrupts honest merchants the rich at the expense of the poor. We that all custom house taxation shall be revenue.

We instruct the delegates to Chicago by this convention to insist upon the plank of the policy of tariff reform as a test of the consistency and success of the party.

We denounce the republican party for its treachery in declining for a revenue tariff which it has the sole responsibility, and placing in nomination for the presidency identified with all these abuses and which has disgraced our politics, time while its party has been in power.

Although no instructions were given the delegation, the sentiment of the convention was strongly in favor of Grover Cleveland, with McDonald as some other good western candidate may second place, we believe will support such a court unanimously, unless it becomes necessary to change to some other nation to secure a nominate believe that at least one delegate large will support Butler, break is unavoidable, if his presented in a manner to give ance of success, especially if a fatal conflict of interests in of the leading states which are necessary to success.

On the whole, the convention said to have been the large most enthusiastic ever held state, and gives more promise cess this fall.

Notes and News.

Grover Cleveland is "a clean, able man."—Record.

The south acknowledge Cleveland as a free trader, and if there opposition, it will come on the

The Muskegon News shows feel so bad because the Muskegon county delegates to Detroit have everything their own Other counties in the district deserving of recognition occasion and we think Muskegon should share this time. All that fell to the lot of Charlevoix was a seat on the platform, as one of the vice presidents.

"The policy of John Kelley and his Tammany cohorts this year will undoubtedly be 'A democrat or nothing.' Flower will do. But Cleveland never! The cry against Cleveland will be: 'No republicans or bogus reformers for the democratic party.' Tammany must have a full-fledged democrat, and they would rather fight a losing fight with such a candidate than to win with Cleveland. The democrats will make a fatal blunder if they nominate this man."—Detroit Journal. This is the howl set up year after year by republicans, and echoed by the "rule-or-ruin" democracy, until defeat has come to be more certain than victory. And it will come again this year unless the various opposing factions concede something and pull together.

The Alba Record is supposed from some of its editorials to be a free trade paper. In a recent issue it said the Detroit Evening Journal was the "best two-cent paper ever published in the nation." As the Journal is the most radical protection sheet in the

E. T. BROWN & CO.

Threshing Engines,

Portable and Stationary

Engines,

SAW MILLS, THRESHERS, MILL SUPPLIES.

The Bett Saw Mill in the World for the Money.

THE JOURNAL.

No. 50. SUPPLEMENT. June 26, 1884.

HADASSAH.

BY OSCAR F. WISNER.

O venturesome Jew! how dared thou come
So near to the gate, in thy sorrow alone?
Thy heart is o'erburdened by sadness be sure,
And thy burden of sorrow none others endure.
Hark! thy cries have reached the ear of the queen,
And she, like our Saviour, must soon stand between
The oppressor and thee, as so dejected Jew,
Mong many now false—to thyself ever true.

And mourning and gloom now spread o'er the land,
At Edict of Shu Shan, the king's dread command.
Then Esther took raiment and sent to the Jew,
But his sorrow was deeper than any yet knew,
And she sends her servant to find out the cause
Of his grief so deep, and so long without pause.
Hatach went forth and answered the Jew,
And asked him the cause, if may he know.

"Methought I heard a voice cry, 'Sleep no more! Macbeth does murder sleep.' The innocent sleep, sleep that knits up the ravell'd sleave of care, the death of each day's life, sore labor's bath, balm of hurt minds, great nature's second course, chief nourisher in life's feast."—Macbeth, Act II. Scene II.

CANTO SECOND.

Then Mordecai tells him of Haman and all,
And how he had plotted the deed fearful fall.
How assessors were hired and paid for this man,
How he urged on in secret his terrible plan,
How the race of the Jews, extinguished would be,
Unless quickly heed they to Haman the knee.
How alas! would she fall, the beautiful queen,
And fill up the cup in this terrible scene.

Now the storm clouds of Haman roll on the sky,
And darker its azure-tipt colors on high.
And the Jew, in his sadness, sits far apart,
For his soul is most sad and his sorrowful heart.
Of the flames that are lighted for this accursed race,
Of the chrome and the terror and deepest disgrace
Of the blood which fattens Persia's fair land,
Now drunk like water by her glittering sand.

O, who has not known of sorrow so deep,
Which crowds on the soul in the midnight of sleep,
When phantoms, unseen by light of the day,
Spread out their dark wings and flitter away:
Then quickly return to torture again,
With look full of horror, which adds to our pain.
In that dream in the silence of night,
When a flock of fierce demons come to affright.
Is truth in our dreams? Do they ever unfold
The mysteries of being, the depths of the soul?
Do they gloom on the canvas foreboding of dread,
Skilled champions of horror, from realms of the dead,
Of the ghastly unseen by us when awake,
Of the life that's begun when the undying snake
Coils its form round the soul and hurries away
To the deep burning lake, uncheered by the day.

More lifelike they seem than visions of day,
And clothed in more beauty and splendid array.
Thus in dreams we may walk in proud stately halls,
And fled to the aisle that overmore falls,
On our mide ethereal, unfettered by time,
As we wander 'mid flowers in that beautiful clime,
And gaze on the landscape beyond us, where lie
The sun's golden beams will diffused in our sky.

To the spirit angelic which visits its God,
When it leaves its clod pathway by mortals here trod.
And thus in our dreams, we hasten away
From earth's clouded shade—hate to the regions of day,
Where the skies ever glow, the flowers ever bloom,
Away, far away from sorrow and gloom.
Its pleasure is as bright as rainbow at morn,
When the sun breaks forth through the rifts of the storm.

On wings rende of light, it mounts to the sky,
And looks on the sunbeams of glory on high,
Through the aleaves of heaven it wanders in pride,
And quenches its thirst at its crystalline tide,
And it gazes for out on those mansions of plains,
Where the garden of beauty 'mid love ever reigns.
Thus the dreams of the good ever lead us away
Where the soul in its errors can nevermore stray.

But let us return to the Jew, who is now
Relating to Hatach the manner and how
Haman, the wicked, and Sha'Shan's decree
United now are, and strong as the sea.
How the Jew's hated race, swept all away
In an hour, by Edict, of that fearful day.
Now go, said the Jew, and tell to the queen,
That she, our deliverer, must stand between

The Jews and bad Haman. Go Hatach, he said,
And tell all the plots of this fiend full of dread;
How he worketh on fall, wherever we be,
Go quickly to Esther, that she too may see.
Then Hatach departed on swift-winged feet,
To the palace of Esther, his queen there to meet.
Then the face of the Jew shone once again,
For his heart had been filled with sorrow and pain.

To be continued.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW.

THE MOST USEFUL BOOK EVER PUBLISHED!

A Book that should be in Every House.

The press, teachers, and professional people throughout the country pronounce it to be the BOOK OF BOOKS. It contains upwards of 50,000 WORDS, with their definition and pronunciation, according to Webster and other recognized authorities; a large number of additional words and definitions in general use. It contains a mine of information for everybody. This book is handsomely bound in cloth, containing 542 Pages Profusely Illustrated. We propose to send you one of these valuable books, by mail, all shipping charges prepaid, to any address, on receipt of only ONE DOLLAR.

Address M. STOLZ & CO.,
29 Park Place, New York.

Confectionery, Fruits, Temperance Drinks.

Third door west of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Horsey Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 26, 1884.

Provision Market.

Retail prices to consumers, as corrected every Wednesday evening by FFRIGHT, EMREY & CO., general dealers.

FLOUR, per bbl, $5.00; $6.50, and $7.00.
CORN MEAL, per cwt, bolted $2.00; unbolted, $1.90.
HAY, per ton, $20.00.
OATS, per bu, 50@55c.
SHIPSTUFF FEED, per cwt, $1.00@1.25.
POTATOES, per bu, 40@60c.
ONIONS, per bu, $1.00.
BUTTER, per lb, 20@25c.
EGGS, per doz, 20c.
LARD, per lb, 10@12c.
HAMS, per lb, Smoked, 12c.
SALT PORK, per lb, Dry Salt Side, 12; Beef, 8c.
MACKEREL, per lb, 10c.
COFFEE, 10c.
WATER-WHITE OIL, 20c.
FARMERS' PRODUCE in good demand.

Fresh Meats from the Market.

CORRECTED BY G. W. JEFFERIES.

MEAT cost, steak, 12@18c; fresh pork, 12@ [illegible]; sausage, 15c; hams, 18c; shoulders, 10c; ribs, 8c.

FALLOW, 5@6c.

Local News Brevities.

Calling cards at this office.

New coffee grinder at E. M. Clark's.

Boots and shoes at cost, at E. M. Clark's.

TELEPHONE your wants to J. L. Hurd & Co.'s.

Fourteen pounds C sugar for $1, at E. M. Clark's.

New assortment of bird cages, at L. D. Bartholomew's.

New goods of all kinds just arrived, at E. M. Clark's.

One hundred men's clusters and summer coats at E. M. Clark's.

Finest groceries in town and lowest prices, at J. L. Hurd & Co.'s.

The Fair is receiving new goods weekly, go and see their bargains.

The Sherman & Williams paint is the best, and is as cheap as poor paint.

A few loads of good wood wanted in this office. Come now, don't wait; bring on.

New and extensive lines of ribbons, embroideries, laces, etc, at J. L. Hurd & Co.'s.

A. L. Hamill intends to make it a point to have a full stock of refreshments for the fourth.

Don't fail to see the beautiful the beautiful scenery introduced in Uncle Tom's Cabin to-night.

We are receiving large invoices of goods weekly and study the interests of everybody. Upright, Emrey & Co.

Dr. Towler will remain at the Bridge street house another week, and those wishing to consult him will govern themselves accordingly.

To the reporters and others. Upright, Emrey & Co. are at the front with a new delivery wagon and look after the interests of their patrons with promptness and despatch.

Upright, Emrey & Co., have remodelled the hall above their store and converted it into a wave room, where they have a full line of doors and windows, which they offer for sale at prices which astonish the natives.

Mason & Morgan's, mammoth Uncle Tom's Cabin combination, will present their ever popular American drama, at the opera house to-night. This excellent organization has been greatly enlarged and augmented since their last visit, and now consists of thirteen talented artists, colored brass band, superb orchestra, jubilee singers, genuine Siberian bloood hounds, and many nearly a car load of special scenery. Popular prices. General admission 75 cents, children 25 cents. Reserved seats 50 cents, on sale at Weed's drug store.

J. P. Woodbury opened his cottage yesterday.

The Arlington House, at Petoskey, opened June 19th.

This town is becoming noted for Saturday night rows.

The Belvedere house was opened to the public on the 23d.

Arrangements have been made for sprinkling Bridge street.

Some one purloined G. W. Jefferies dog last Friday afternoon.

J. Milo Eaton has recently added three new phaetons to his livery outfit.

Dr. O. H. Weed will be home in about a week, to remain for the summer.

The new flag-staff on the opera house was erected last Saturday afternoon.

H. W. Page, general manager of the Belvedere house, is here this week.

Mrs. W. F. Orrell is in Detroit this week, will return home early next week.

Mr. A. F. Draper, says it is the intention of Upright, Emrey & Co., to make a specialty of doors, windows, lath, and shingles.

O. W. Smith, lapidist, now occupies his new building on Bridge street.

Capt. H. S. Stevens, of the tug J. H. Martin, started for Chicago last Friday.

L. E. Allen is building a stone wall along Bridge street in front of his lot.

Bridge street has been given a covering of gravel on the north side of the river.

The Evening News now reaches Charlevoix on the day following its publication.

Geo. H. Winans and A. P. Fiske, of Kalamazoo, were at the Belvedere on Tuesday.

Ben Weaver leaves to-morrow for Escanaba, where he will visit friends for a few weeks.

E. H. Green's office is receiving a new covering of wall paper by W. F. Orrell this week.

Antonio Duval and Lizzie Wheaton of Norwood were married by O. D. Hilton, on the 19th.

Geo. A. Leonard & Co., received their brass handle lathe from Grand Rapids on Wednesday.

Geo. E. Bardeen, O. O. Dunham, and Mrs. E. D. Mann, arrived at the Belvedere last Friday.

Bills are out for a dance at the opera house during the fourth. A good time is anticipated.

F. G. Hines & Co.'s show cases are of a new pattern, with steel supporting bars, sliding doors, etc.

A. L. Faulkner, of the Traverse City printing company, gave the JOURNAL a call last Friday morning.

Newman street is being graded and given a covering of clay and gravel,—a much needed improvement.

The propeller City of Grand Rapids went to Chicago in place of the City of Traverse, last Thursday.

John West, E. A. West, and Miss Lizzie Schoenmann, of Chicago, registered at the Belvedere Monday.

Charlevoix did not turn out in force to the opening of Chapman's "Tourists' Home" at Bay Springs.

I. A. Delamarter, with E. T. Brown & Co., Grand Rapids, dealers in mill machinery, is in town this week.

Al. Cooper and Clara Campau were married at Petoskey last Friday. They will commence housekeeping at once.

O. A. Baker, of Lansing, was in town yesterday, on the way to Traverse City for two weeks trout fishing.

There is a finer piece of rye between Boyne and Boyne Falls, than anywhere along the railroad this side of Detroit.

Bradley's dining hall, adjoining the Charlevoix resort is opened to-day, under the management of Mrs. R. W. Duncan.

Dr. M. L. Leach, of Traverse City, was in town a few days this week. He called on the JOURNAL Monday morning.

We understand that a program for celebrating the fourth is being arranged, to give the small boys plenty of amusement.

Rev. F. R. Bonker, a student of Olivet college, will spend the summer vacation in this vicinity, assisting Rev. C. F. VanAuken.

J. E. Chew, of Hayes, who is teaching school in Springvale township this summer, was in town Tuesday, on his way home to spend the vacation.

Those pads of receipts, notes, etc., sold by F. G. Hines & Co., are quite a novelty in their way. They are well made, of new designs, and cost no more than the old styles.

Mr. Ainslie is to be congratulated on the fine appearance of Dixon avenue since it was graded and raked. The time is not distant when it will be the finest street in Charlevoix.

W. C. Nelson, of the Lelanau Enterprise, gave the JOURNAL a call on Tuesday. He reports business good, and says he is one of the mortals fortunate enough to be prosperous and happy.

A. D. Crooksham started on Tuesday to visit his parents near Quebec, whom he has not seen in a number of years. He will also visit the White Mountains, returning to Charlevoix in about three weeks.

Two weeks more will close the first year of the JOURNAL. A large majority of the subscriptions will expire with that date, and renewals will be in order. We hope our friends will respond liberally.

A. H. Tyler is erecting a tower in Petoskey from which he expects to have an excellent view of the surrounding country, and with the aid of field glasses Beaver Island can also be plainly seen.

Wiggar Bros. have a card this week, advertising their smokers' articles, confectionery, etc. The boys will find their pool room a good place in which to spend an evening, when they want to play.

Pathmasters are now required by law to plant at least 50 trees, 90 feet apart, along the line of the highways in their respective districts each year until each road is provided with ample shade.—Exchange.

No. 1 of the Straits Journal was published by Geo. A. Mosher, at Mackinaw City, June 19. It is a seven-column folio, with a fair show of advertising, and indications of thoroughness in local work.

Advocates of temperance have some excellent prohibition timber, if they will write up the numerous Saturday night whiskey rows, and read them to the voters on election day next spring. Ironton will contribute her share.

Mr. A. W. Johnson, wife and son, of Blackbury, Ill. are visiting in Charlevoix. Mrs. Johnson is a daughter of Rev. J. J. Kanagy, and is accompanied by her sister Alice Kanagy. The latter will remain here.

Cruickshank & Grier received 55 volumes of "American Decisions," on Wednesday, by express from A. L. Bancroft & Co., San Francisco. The remaining volumes of the set will be delivered from time to time, as fast as published.

C. R. Bellinger has a watch which may be made an open face or "hunter's case" at will. Call and see it. And while in the store don't fail to look over the large stock of charms, pins, etc., in his show case. He has just added over $400 worth of new goods.

F. G. Hines & Co., druggists and stationers, have a card in this paper, announcing their business. Frank is an ambitious young man, has an excellent room in a good location, a complete outfit of fresh goods, and with his experience will no doubt be as successful in drawing trade as many an older dealer.

While in Detroit last week we made the acquaintance of Mr. H. W. Faircloth, commissioner of immigration. He is an industrious young man, and is making large additions to the pamphlet, "Michigan and its Resources." He has many commendations for northern Michigan, and says Charlevoix stands first as a summer resort.

W. C. T. U.

At the regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. held on June 20th in the parlors of Mrs. Byrn n Sec, the interest of the meeting was greatly enhanced by the able and very interesting report, made by Mrs. L. E. Allen, of the proceedings of the state convention lately held at Flint. Mrs. C. Y. Cook, Mrs. Isaac Mills, and Mrs. Elmore Mudge, were appointed as delegates to the first annual convention of the eleventh district, to be held at Petoskey, on Thursday (day and evening), June 26, 1884. Mrs. C. J. Strang and Miss Annie Cooper were appointed as alternates.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by Dennore Bates, real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, for the week ending Tuesday, June 24, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

Medad Thompson and wife to Emma Severance, parcel of land 25-34-8, $200.

John Burgess to Adaline M. Bellinger, part of block 2 Charlevoix, $1,000.

Jacob Wolf and wife to John Hirns, lot 11, block 10, Charlevoix, $600.

Alfred Westgate and wife to George Eaglebear, w f 1/2, of s w 1/4, 7-34-8, $100.

Elizabeth Thompson to Sophia Osborn, lot 10 block 4, Smith Bros.'s, $100.

Thomas Quinlan and wife to Amos Hawkins, parcel of land 25-34-8, $200.

William Wachsmann-Simpson and wife to Hepworth Newson, el rods on s w 1/4 of s 1/2 of s 1/2, 33-32-7, $6.

George Newsoth to Amelia and wife to Horace Newson, 2 acres in s e 1/4 of s e 1/4, 4-32-7, $100.

Peter F. Weber to Township board of Norwood, lots 6 and 7 block 1 Norwood, $75.

George T. White and wife to George Wetmore, e 1/2 of s w 1/4 and w 1/2 of s e 1/4 of s w 1/4, 27-34-5, $800.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Offer a full and fresh line of

DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, &C.

At Very Low Prices.

Headquarters for

Groceries and Provisions.

Call for the Belding Flour.

Sole Agency for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

NEW FIRM. NEW GOODS

F. G. HINES & CO.,

A Complete Stock of

DRUGS AND STATIONERY

Bridge Street, Carpenter Building.

A share of the Patronage of Charlevoix and Vicinity Respectfully solicited.

Prescriptions Carefully Compounded.

LIVING PRICES. POLITE ATTENTION

Shipments.

The following are the clearances from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the custom house for the week ending Tuesday, June 24:

June 14—Schr. Willard A. Smith, 1,000 cedar posts, Chas. Hall, Milwaukee.

20—Schr. A. D. C. F. M., 35 cords wood, Amerda Burk, A. B. Steele to Milwaukee.

20—Schr. Zelma, 10 cords wood, 66 cords bark, Master, to Milwaukee.

20—Schr. Cleveland, 20 cords wood, Upright, Emrey & Co., to Milwaukee.

20—Schr. M. Smith, 30 cords wood 37 cords bark, E. M. Clark, to Milwaukee.

21—Lottie Mason, 35 cords wood, W. A. Stone, to Milwaukee.

23—Schr. Charlie Marshall, 100 cords wood, 120 cords bark, E. M. Clark, to Milwaukee.

23—Schr. O. M. Nelson, 140 cords wood, Upright, Emrey & Co., to Milwaukee.

Toothache.

Did you ever have a cracking, jumping singing, roaring, bothersome, toothache, that kept the whole family in an uproar until 3 o'clock in the morning? Were you so bad all have not heard of the wonderful cures made by Hamilton's Toothache Drops which are warranted to cure in one minute. Safe to use, effective. Price only 25c. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co.

Cholera.

And the milder forms of bowel difficulty, dysentery, diarrhœa, &c., all come from a disordered digestive apparatus with pain in the stomach, cramps, colic, &c., the wise and ward off these attacks by taking Hamilton's Jamaica Ginger Tonic and Pain Cure, which is a sure remedy. Never known to fail to give immediate relief. As an outward application in rheumatism, neuralgia, stiffness, sprains, strains, lame back and side, it cannot be beaten. Price 25 and 50 cents. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co.

A Happy Family

Circle is the greatest blessing of our civilization but such a thing is not possible when disease and death lurks on the threshold. One of the most important matters to be attended to, is that the bowels and liver are in a healthy condition. More trouble arises from derangement of these organs than from any other cause, often results in diabetes, Bright's disease, and other difficulties that are generally counted incurable. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure will prevent and cure all these difficulties with great certainty. Large bottles $1. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and loss up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unsurpassed. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co. 849

Got To Stand It!

Mr. A. bought his wife one bottle of Parmelee's Blood Purifier, and now he thinks he has got himself into business, for she derives so much benefit from it that she must try another bottle or two and be permanently cured. There is no purifier known so efficient in its workings as this. Only $1.00 per bottle. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co.

HALL'S Catarrh Cure

Is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD PAID FOR CASES IT FAILS TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case of catarrh, however severe, in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you will consult with this disease, get your druggist to sell and accept no imitation or substitute. If he has not got it, we will send it prepaid for one dollar. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Dr. CROUTER, Agt., Charlevoix. 41

$66; week at home. $5.00 outfit free. Pay absolutely all expenses. Any active man or woman, Reader, if you want business at which persons of either sex, young or old, can make great pay all the time they work, with absolute certainty, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & CO., Portland, Maine. 1y1

AGENTS wanted for the lives of all the Presidents, from Washington to Arthur, inclusive. The largest, handsomest, and best book for the money. Fifteen years' work by the ablest author in America. Immense profits to agents. All intelligent people want it. Any one can become a successful agent. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Maine. 1y1

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser, having been restored to health of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, Irritation, &c. Parties wishing the prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. Wilson, 194 Penn. St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

Extra copies of the JOURNAL for sale at Weed's drug store.

HEADQUARTERS

FOR

Plows, Harrows,

Horse Rakes,

And everything in the Agricultural Implement line.

Examine and be Convinced:

The No. 10 Champion Plow, "Best in the World." The Gale Plow. The Oliver Chilled Plow. The Gale Horse Rake. The Albion Mfg. Co.'s New Horse Rake. The Osborne No. 7 Mower, light and strong. The Buchanan Wagon.

IN HARDWARE

We do not imitate; we lead. We positively guarantee our GOODS and PRICES. We ask kindly for our proportion of your patronage.

May 22, 1884. STOCKMAN & IDDINGS.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

AMONG those in attendance at the annual banquet of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Club, at the residence of Col. Duffy, Lancaster, Pa., last week, were Senators Edmunds, Pendleton, Bayard, J. Donald Cameron, Angus Cameron, Samuel J. Randall, Gen. Simon Cameron, Charles A. Dana, George W. Childs, and the Judges of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

AT Butler, Pa., the boiler at oil well No. 13 exploded, killing the engineer, Richard Walker, and fatally injuring his son.

BY a collision between a church excursion train and an accommodation train on the Camden Road, near Ashland, Pa., eight employes were killed and a number badly wounded. The disaster occurred at a sharp curve, and was caused by the non-reception of a telegraphic dispatch. Both locomotives were destroyed.

IN Southern New Jersey, on the morning of the 16th, the thermometer fell to 38 degrees. There were frosts in some places, but considerable damage was done to the other crops. For the third time in thirty years in Somerset & Co., wholesale millinery, New York, have failed. On the former occasions their pool, respectively, 25 and 35 cents on the dollar.

ABOUT five thousand persons, mostly Spanish Americans, assembled at Central Park, New York, to witness the unveiling of a statue to Bolivar, the great liberator. Mrs. John Roth escaped from burning building at Erie, Pa. She vainly sought to get her clothing and was burned to death.

FRANCIS MATTHEW STRONG, of the Maryland Supreme Court, benefited his last at Philadelphia, after a lingering illness at the close of his seventy-third year.

A STATUE of the late Gov. Buckingham, of Connecticut, was unveiled at Hartford, in presence of six thousand militiamen and a vast concourse of citizens. By a decision of the New York courts the Rev. John F. Newman is reinstated from officiating as pastor of the Madison Avenue Congregational Church, taking charge of its services or meetings, or from receiving salary, rent or setting pewlor, since March 31 of this year.

THE WEST.

THREE Deputy Sheriffs at Salt Lake, armed with Winchester rifles, executed Fred Hoyt, who had been three times tried for murder. He sat upon his coffin, blindfolded, and the officers fired from a pound ten pieces distant.

JUDGE EDGERTON, at Yankton, D. T., granted a motion quashing the indictment against Gov. Ordway, alleging the grand jury's want of jurisdiction.

IN a price-fight near Minneapolis, Minn., between Patsy Mellen and Jack Keefe, fourteen rounds were fought in fifty-six minutes, when Mellen was declared the victor.

ALEX. FRIDIGER, a notorious crook, was found hanging to a tree near Sturgeo, Dakota Territory. The circumstances unknown.

The body of a man named Bechtel was found in the Jim River, near Mitchell, Dakota Territory, and it is believed that he was executed by the vigilantes.

WHILE intoxicated James Cowan, 8 years old, was drowned near Omaha, Neb. His little companions were so befuddled with beer that they could render him no assistance. At Oconto, Wis., an aged woman named Mrs. Charles Ritter burned her husband with oil as well and then took parts green. Both are still alive.

LYMAN Partners, who last August killed his wife on a ferry-boat on Detroit River, was executed at Sandwich, Ontario. He maintained hearty. His body was interred at the expense of a number of philanthropic ladies. He broke jail last November, and was recaptured at Pullman, Ill. Mrs. Roberts C. Cole, wife of Chief Justice Cole, of the Wisconsin Supreme Court, is dead. She was in her 67th year. A dispatch from Fort Leavenworth chronicles the death of Col. Edward R. Platt, Adjutant-General of the Department of the Missouri.

ISAAC JACOBSON, the Finnish sailor who murdered George Bedell in Chicago, having pleaded guilty, was brought before Judge Williamson for sentence. The humility of the crime forced a sentence of death by hanging on Sept. 13. While the Judge, the clerk, and the attorneys were almost overcome by emotion, the doomed man listened nothing but unfeigned.

THE SOUTH.

REZIA, a Cuban, was hanged in the jail yard at Key West, Fla., for the murder of a companion.

TWO shots were exchanged in the daily affray at New Albany, Miss., between Mayor Reeves and Lloyd Ford, a desperado. Ford was shot in the breast, from which he died, and Reeves was about dying he echoed a bystander: "Did I miss?" "No." "Then I die in peace." H. P. Stone, a manufacturer of coach trimmings in Baltimore, having separated from his wife, went to the residence of his brother-in-law, and tried to kill himself with a knife. While bleeding profusely he was driven from his premises, when he climbed the railing of the city reservoir and soon drowned. At Baltimore, Lewis Singer, mistook Marion Dennis a boarder, for a burglar and shot him dead.

A MEMBER of German clubs, rats are trying to establish their little hotels in the lands of the Dolomy Valley, in Oconee County, South Carolina. The lands are among the most valuable in the State, and contain rich mineral deposits. The claim of the Germans is based on grants said to have been made in 1790, and on renewed by New 1,000 present occupiers.

HOUTEN, DAY & CO., cotton factors at New Orleans, have suspended, and ask an extension. Liabilities, $280,000; assets, $380,000.

AN injunction was granted at Louisville restraining the removal of the headquarters of the Knights of Honor from Kentucky. General Stout, Supreme officer of the order, says members need not feel alarmed, that death benefits will be paid regularly and business matters attended to. The flag-staff of Constitution has sailed from Annapolis for Hampton Roads, to repair her hull, it having been found so rotten that it could not hold the rudder.

WHILE towing a bark from New York in the Mississippi the iron tug W. W. Wood suddenly entered and sank, drowning the pilot and two other persons.

WASHINGTON.

SOME of the sufferers by the collapse of Middleton & Co., bankers, are endeavoring to secure their indictment for obtaining money under false pretenses. It is stated that charity funds and speculators' margins were swept away with the ordinary funds, until nothing is left in the way of assets.

GEORGE E. Spencer writes to Representative Springer, denying the statement of Mr. W. Dorsey that Spencer demanded $12,000 from Elkins to secure Dorsey immunity in the star-route frauds.

SENATOR ALLISON, Chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, says that under no conditions will the Senate be in time for adjournment until all the appropriation bills are signed. He does not think there is any possibility that the business before Congress will be completed before July 15.

A CIRCULAR addressed to the foreign representatives by Dr. Carlos Zerenda proposes the celebration of the discovery of America, 400 years ago, by a universal exposition at the capital of Mexico, and the erection of a colossal statue of Columbus upon the spot selected by an international committee, upon a base of stones collected by the nations of the world which have since the discovery of America taken part in its colonization, civilization, and progress. A. H. McKenney, Clerk of the Supreme Court of the United States, was stripped of $6,000 by the collapse of Middleton's bank at Washington. Everything in which he had left securities in their safe were cut open and the contents abstracted.

POLITICAL.

THE Texas Democratic State Convention selected as delegates at large to Chicago, Gov. Hubbard, D. C. Gidding, Thomas J. Brown, and John P. Smith. The platform declination of Mr. Tilden was made known the delegates were instructed for the old ticket; but subsequently a resolution was passed allowing the representatives of the State in the national convention to act as their judgment.

THE Texas Democrats have adopted resolutions denouncing a protective tariff as unconstitutional, unjust, and in conflict with the genius and spirit of a free government. The delegation is uninstructed.

IN answer to a telegram from the St. Louis Evening Chronicle, Daniel Manning answers: "Mr. Tilden has his letter more than under no circumstances will he be a candidate for the Presidency."

A MEETING of the Massachusetts Independents, over which Charles W. Calman presided, condemned at Boston the Republican Presidential nominations, and resolved the Democrats would name men satisfactory to their views. They also instructed their Executive Committee to call a convention not later than Aug. 1. President Eliot, of Harvard, in a speech, hoped a new party would grow out of this movement. A committee was appointed to hold a conference with the Independent Republicans of New York, and letters from sympathizers were read in order to ascertain the Presidential preferences of the Democratic masses in the central portion of the country, since the declination of Mr. Tilden, the Chicago Times secured interviews with several thousand influential gentlemen. The result has indicated that the Western States are largely in favor of Cleveland and McDonald as the strongest team. Other aspirants for the Democratic nomination are in full appreciation of McDonald. The Democracy of Massachusetts are united in support of Butler. In the Southern States Bayard receives a prime favorite.

GEN. BUTLER has formally accepted the nomination for President by the National Greenback Convention. The Dakota and Illinois District Republicans nominated by acclamation, for Congress, Thomas Ridgeway, of Shawneetown. The Democratic State Convention of Delaware adopted a resolution presenting Thomas F. Bayard as a statesman whose nomination for President would furnish at once the platform and the candidate.

IN the New York Democratic State Convention at Saratoga the differences of opinion among the various sections of the New York City Democracy were settled and harmony seemed by allowing Tammany thirty-one delegates in the national convention, the County Democracy thirty-one, and letting Hall ten. The convention did not instruct its representatives at Chicago, but they are believed to stand 46 for Cleveland, 14 for Flower, and 7 for Bayard. The delegates-at-large are Daniel Manning, Edward Cooper, Lester B. Faulkner, and John C. Jacobs. Among the district delegates are Augustus Schmuck, John Kelly, and Abram S. Hewitt.

THE delegates to the National Democratic Convention, selected by the Michigan Democrats at Detroit, are nearly for Cleveland. One delegate is for Thurman. The platform denounces the present tariff laws as iniquitous and unjust, the parent of every economic evil, and demands a tariff for revenue only. The Democrats of the Fourth District of Illinois have nominated John F. Lynch for Congress.

GENERAL.

THE trial of N. C. Campbell, a criminal lawyer of Cincinnati, on charge of bribing a juror in a murder trial, resulted in a disagreement of the jury, seven of its members voting for acquittal. The papers prepared for his disbarment contain seventy charges.

DURING the past week the business failures in the United States and Canada numbered 228, an increase of thirteen over the previous week. The Pioneer Powder Manufacturing Company of Chicago, Ill., has accepted $75,000 from the Dupont Powder Company for suspending suit for one year.

OBITUARY. The Rev. Dr. Alexander J. Baird, of Nashville, Tenn., died suddenly at the Park Avenue Hotel, New York, while on his way to attend a meeting of the Presbyterian Alliance at Belfast, Ireland. He was in his 60th year. He had been a pastor at Nashville since 1854, when the war Col. J. G. Bourne, a Greenback leader in Iowa, died at Fort Dodge. The deceased was engaged in the extension of the Fort Scott Road, died of heart disease on Monday. Commander Samuel D. Gregory, U. S. N., died at Boston, Mass., aged 71.

EMIGRANT passenger rates have been reduced on all the German and English steamships, the steamship lines to $15. The National Line, it is reported, is selling tickets for $14. The decrease in the aggregate earnings of the twenty-five leading railroads of the United States in the month of July, as compared with the figures of the corresponding week last year, was 23.1 per cent. Outside of New York the decrease was 18.9.

THE Ohio Supreme Court rendered decisions on the Scott law, declaring the second section of the act, providing for a fine on real estate tenanted by a liquor dealer, is unconstitutional. Judge Okey dissented from to say whether the entire statute is unconstitutional. The decisions in the cases prosecuted in the cases under consideration, involve a vast amount of money. The prominent officials of the various seaports indicate that Chicago, in the number of arrivals and departures, with only the exception of Washington, is the greatest port in the United States. For the year 1881 her crustacean arrivals and departures were 1,000, while all the ocean seaports combined only reached 1,500. The Chicago Tribune's account of a blast two Americans and twelve Mexican laborers were killed on the Texas Pacific branch of the Mexican Central Railway, near Chihuahua. Of the Americans killed was Mike Madigan, a well-known railroad contractor of St. Louis.

THE Directors of the Kansas & Inland Road report for the year ending with March gross earnings of $45,555,91 and a net income of $5,237,762. The capital stock is $1,000,000, and the bonded debt $47,500,000.

FOREIGN.

DYNAMITE explosions at London caused widespread alarm and indignation. The police, says a cablegram, are completely baffled, and, for the most part in the hands of great crimes in the metropolis, have but even a limited idea of what to do, but find themselves to be a laughing stock. The Times has been barely able to restrain itself and uttered over the apparent incompetence of the police, and the wished schemes of mischief against Irish agitators are revealed. The appointment of Royal Commission to inquire into the Phoenix Park plan is seriously discussed in some bitterness and considerable complaint.

THERE are fresh electoral riots in Hungary. Three persons were killed and many wounded. The Tichborne pretender is to be released from an English prison on a bond of $5,000. The Duke of Hohenlohe, the German Embassador at Paris, declares that public feeling in Germany continues to be convenient against France by constant provocation from the French press.

ELECTION agents throughout Great Britain expect an early dissolution of Parliament, and are making arrangements accordingly. The marriage of Princess Elizabeth of Hesse and the Grand Duke Sergius contracted at St. Petersburg Prince Kropotkine's allocution from Chief police, gives Fenny, July 14, is received. The Princess is permitted free entrance to her husband's cell, and passes whole days sitting with him in his prison. A large meeting of Orangemen was held at Belfast, Ireland, to protest against Home Rule, denouncing Earl Spencer and warning him that no attempt to carry out the resolution of visiting Ulster.

THE 14th anniversary of Sedan, a French soldier fired at George W. Roosevelt, the American Consul. The bullet passed through his hat, coming very near him and knocking him over. It is believed that the assassin mistook his victim for an officer in uniform. On the entrance of Duke Sergius into St. Petersburg, householders were forbidden to admit strangers to their residences, as has been the case at Moscow. Mahdi has proposed one of his subordinates Governor of Bagdad, and threatens to annihilate any Turkish force that may be sent against him.

AN epidemic, believed to be the bubonic plague, has broken out in a village along the right bank of the Tigris River near Bagdad.

In the Belgian Chamber of Deputies the Catholic party has not a majority of thirty-four. At Vienna, Herr Eckelsbacher, of the Stadt Schmiet, who, among several others, was charged with having set fire to that building, was sentenced to death. The crew of the Norwegian bark Eukowes was found guilty of negligence in not promptly taking steps to be extinguishing flames when the blunder was found on fire. He was sentenced to fine and imprisonment and ordered to pay a fine of £15.

FRANCE and Tonquin are in the statement of an Arab from Berber that the rebels, on May 23, massacred two thousand male citizens and fifteen hundred men of the garrison, but spared the women and children. The Pope has written to the Papal agent at Brussels to open negotiations for the establishment of diplomatic relations with the Vatican. Leopold, the Prince, Theodore, King of Burmah, has pleasured his Queen and her husband married the Queen's sister.

WALTER O'HARA, editor of United Ireland, was fined £500 by a Dublin court for contemptuous comments on a libel suit brought by Crown Solicitor Bolton. Maybloom has engaged Patti to sing in America next season. This is to wind $1,000 for each concert, and all her expenses are to be paid. An English military regiment mutinied at Gibb, near Limerick, Ireland, and made a savage attack on the, for unpopularity, injuring several of them. Some arrests were made.

ADDITIONAL NEWS.

WHILE a train on the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Road was passing through the long tunnel near Magnolia, two strangers opened upon a passenger with a concealed pistol and leveled him under his gun. Stopped on all the robbers leaped from the train, fired at pursuers. The Dominion Government has granted permission to the Canadian Pacific Road to carry Montana coal over its line in bond.

A tornado, on the coast of Africa, has passed under French coulors. The King will be a mere figurehead. He will have no authority whatever, however, which will probably compensate him for the otherwise empty honor of a Kingship. The cable connection the dispute of Dr. Dawson, professor of history in the University of Berlin.

MRS. WARREN, wife of Bishop Henry W. Warren, of Denver, Colo., has donated $10,000 to Denver University for the establishment of a Department of Divinity to be known as "The Bill school of Divinity," in conferring all others endowed single professorship. Margaret King, a young girl of Milwaukee, has eloped with Henry Gooding, 60 years of age, for years an usurer of the Sabbath. Died, Owing to a dispute touching a mining claim, Edward Gallagher shot Mrs. Greenwood, near Senora, Cal. The women, too, then followed Gallagher, and fired at him with a pistol, killing Mrs. Wakefield instead of Greenwood, but the latter turned on him, and shot the mortally. Wakefield was married yesterday Greenwood, but he camped and fought for his life. Greenwood died, both herself and Gallagher are in jail. Mrs. Greenwood is the other Wakefield who died from their wounds.

ABOUT 2,500 men assembled at Greenwood, Del., to celebrate the completion of the mines of the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Railroad. Gen. Jarvis, Senator Vance, and Judge Dillney delivered speeches.

IN the Indiana State Republican Convention, the first ballot for Governor resulted in 401 votes for W. H. Calkins, 342 for W. T. Dudley and 8 for Gen. J. P. C. Shanks, and the nomination of Calkins was made unanimous. The platform favors the framing of a new constitution for the State. The Prohibitionists of Illinois, at their State convention at Bloomington, nominated J. B. Hobbs, of Chicago, for Governor, and Dr. Dunning, of Ottawa, for Lieutenant Governor. The sum of $2,700 was raised for campaign purposes.

IN the Senate, on the 15th, Mr. Brown signmitted the usual resolutions of Mr. Bassett, a Democratic Senator from Delaware, to the effect that the Senate, in the exercise of its discretion, and in the interest of the public, ought not to be called upon to pass the bill for the relief of Fitzhugh Lee, ex-Governor of Virginia, and Mr. Bayard, of Delaware, spoke in support of the resolution. The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of the Pendleton Civil Service bill, and Mr. Pendleton, the author of the bill, spoke in support of it. Mr. Hoar, in opposition to the bill, said that it was not the time for reform when the country was in a state of prosperity, and he was opposed to the bill because it was a Democratic measure. Mr. Ingalls said that the Senate was not in a condition to discuss the proposition, and he moved that the bill be laid aside. Mr. Pendleton said that he would be willing to have the bill laid aside if the Senate would agree to fix a day for its consideration. Mr. Ingalls said that he would not agree to any such arrangement. The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of the Tariff bill, and Mr. Morrill, the Chairman of the Finance Committee, spoke in favor of the bill. Mr. Beck, of Kentucky, also spoke in favor of the bill, and Mr. Hoar, in opposition to it

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 20, 1884.

Around the County.

South Arm.

Mr. St. John has recently moved in to our village.

F. W. Empey dispensith the news to the East Jordanites.

The rag-man has been here collecting South Arm's old clothes.

Mrs. Boise and family have moved into Peter LaClair's house on his farm.

South Arm has received its first piano. Mrs. P. L. Lanway is the happy owner.

The crops are looking pretty well excepting hay and oats. Potatoes and corn are doing well.

It was H. B. Stohlman, South Arm postmaster, that built the walk spoken of last week.

Mr. Robert Murphy has moved into his residence which he began building about a week ago.

A 10 lb boy was added to the household of A. B. Vance, June 13th. Some Add Vance-ment still in this world of progress.

Several vessels loaded here last week. East Jordan and South Arm are getting to be quite an item in the commercial world.

Mr. Butler, aged ninety-six, and grand-daughter Miss Judd, of Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. Lovewell, of Chicago, and Mrs. Susan Cole, of Bay Springs, are here now as guests of E. A. H. Cole and Mrs. J. A. Kent.

Ironton.

Mr. Frazell will move his blacksmith shop on to the new street recently opened.

One of the coal kilns fell in, last Saturday, resulting in considerable loss to the company.

The Ironton school is progressing rapidly under the management of Mr. J. M. Harris and Miss Stevens.

Walter Mauney has sold his residence to the iron company. Foreman Kemp will occupy it as soon as vacated.

Thos. Brown assaulted Wm. Henry with his fist one day last week, and Squire Sheldon assessed him $18 and costs, to settle it.

Preaching Sunday morning at the school house by Rev. Mr. Blake, in the evening by Rev. Mr. May, and Monday evening by Presiding Elder W. R. Stinchcomb.

A map of South America, 3x5 feet, constructed of earth, is one of the attractions at the school house. It was "drawn" by a class in geography, of four girls and two boys, whose ages range from 14 to 17 years. The general surface, with mountains, valleys, rivers etc., is delineated, and the vegetable and other products of the different localities are indicated. The whole is a credit to the class, and to their teacher, Mr. Harris.

Norwood.

Mr. Wm. Rathbone left here for his house in Detroit, Monday, the 23d.

Mr. Fred Smith and Miss Abbie Bennett, of Charlevoix, were in town Sunday, guests of D. R. Bennett.

Darley Meech, son of F. J. Meech, returned to his home Saturday the 21st. We are glad to see you Darley.

Rev. Mr. Morgan preached to an over crowded house Sunday evening—crowds stood at every window outside.

Work has begun on our new town hall, and ere long we will have a building that our town people may feel proud of.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Guyles and their daughter May, left for Manitowoc, Saturday the 21st. Mrs. Guyles goes for a visit of three months.

Burgess.

Haying will begin next week.

Road overseers in Hayes generally intend beginning work this week.

A Butler club will be organized in Murry school district this week.

The saw mills of Messrs. Crun and Whitford, recently burned, are to be rebuilt soon.

David Talisbaw, aged 28, died at the residence of his father, and was buried June 22.

Preaching at Maple Grove school house next Sunday at 11 o'clock by Rev. D. H. Pierce.

A republican from Evangeline, visiting in Hayes this week, predicts that many republicans will vote for Butler this fall.

Ironton School.

The following is a report of the senior department of Ironton school for summer term up to June 20:

NAMES.	Orthography.	Reading.	Penmanship.	Geography.	Arithmetic.	Grammar.	Average.
Eddie Bird	85	88	90	90	85	85	87
Geneva Bird	90	90	100	90	90	90	90
Nellie Noyes	100	100	100	100	100	100	100
Kate Smith	100	100	100	100	97	98	99
Stella Miller	95	75	95	90	90	85	85
Mary Ford	85	85	85	75	75	85	80
Lizzie Webster	85	92	100	95	92	88	92
Carrie Simpson	92	91	98	90	93	85	92
Minnie Mills	90	85	95	90	93	85	90
Thos. Markey	78	92	85	71	89	73	81
Ella Hind	100	100	100	98	92	75	93
Phebe Holland	71	85	92	78	92	73	82
Warren Webster	80	80	...	90	72	80	83
Nellie Hammond	75	90	...	90	92	85	85
Ella Bird	80	85	...	90	78	80	84
Katie Murray	80	65	...	90	72	80	81
Mary Schoffel	75	100	...	90	90	75	78
Kittie Reamer	70	74	...	92	80	75	71
Nettie Waldron	81	100	...	90	92	75	86
Jennie McQuoer	70	45	...	90	76	70	72
Jennie Hurd	70	100	...	81	70	70	75
Ella Bennett	80	90	...	90	80	70	80
Walter Bird	80	70	...	90	80	60	78
Zella Goodwout	100	90	...	90	100	90	96
Laura Webster	90	100	...	90	90	90	91
Annat'ninghahm	87	100	...	88	100	89	93
Mena Ertel	91	81	...	93	88	75	84
Claude Bird	70	85	...	84	84	75	79
Frank Hammond	75	75	...	90	84	75	77
Louisa Howe	70	90	...	78	88	75	72
Walter Williams	70	74	...	85	80	80	75
Hannah Mooney	82	85	...	90	84	75	71
Sophronie McClelland	68	78	...	85	96	70	76
Nellie Markey	85	71	...	90	84	75	77
Charlie Howe	75	90	...	90	92	75	76

J. M. HARRIS, Teacher.

WAR WITH HIGH PRICES.

A fall in the price of Hardware, at L. D. Bartholomew's.

FOR SALE.

The place known as THE BEATTY FARM Near McGeogh's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of J. MILO EATON.

JOSEPH HYLAND,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Boiler Maker,

Sheet-Iron Worker,

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR.

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

Grand Rapids Democrat,

DAILY AND WEEKLY.

Office: 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

Daily Democrat—By mail, $8.00 per year in advance, postage paid.

Weekly Democrat—$1.50 per year; Friends for six months; 10 cents for three months—invariably in advance. Address,

THE DEMOCRAT,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Ironton School.

NAMES.	Orthography.	Reading.	Penmanship.	Geography.	Arithmetic.	Grammar.	Average.
Eddie Bird	85	88	90	90	85	85	87
Geneva Bird	90	90	100	90	90	90	90
Nellie Noyes	100	100	100	100	100	100	100
Kate Smith	100	100	100	100	97	98	99
Stella Miller	95	75	95	90	90	85	85
Mary Ford	85	85	85	75	75	85	80
Lizzie Webster	85	92	100	95	92	88	92
Carrie Simpson	92	91	98	90	93	85	92
Minnie Mills	90	85	95	90	93	85	90
Thos. Markey	78	92	85	71	89	73	81
Ella Hind	100	100	100	98	92	75	93
Phebe Holland	71	85	92	78	92	73	82
Warren Webster	80	80	...	90	72	80	83
Nellie Hammond	75	90	...	90	92	85	85
Ella Bird	80	85	...	90	78	80	84
Katie Murray	80	65	...	90	72	80	81
Mary Schoffel	75	100	...	90	90	75	78
Kittie Reamer	70	74	...	92	80	75	71
Nettie Waldron	81	100	...	90	92	75	86
Jennie McQuoer	70	45	...	90	76	70	72
Jennie Hurd	70	100	...	81	70	70	75
Ella Bennett	80	90	...	90	80	70	80
Walter Bird	80	70	...	90	80	60	78
Zella Goodwout	100	90	...	90	100	90	96
Laura Webster	90	100	...	90	90	90	91
Annat'ninghahm	87	100	...	88	100	89	93
Mena Ertel	91	81	...	93	88	75	84
Claude Bird	70	85	...	84	84	75	79
Frank Hammond	75	75	...	90	84	75	77
Louisa Howe	70	90	...	78	88	75	72
Walter Williams	70	74	...	85	80	80	75
Hannah Mooney	82	85	...	90	84	75	71
Sophronie McClelland	68	78	...	85	96	70	76
Nellie Markey	85	71	...	90	84	75	77
Charlie Howe	75	90	...	90	92	75	76

SAVINGS BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.

Deposits of TEN CENTS AND UPWARD received. Five per cent. interest, payable January and July. We pay no Taxes. Our Rates are low. $40,000 in Real Property, held by us to protect our depositors. All security to depositors. Stockholders are not personally liable for deposits beyond amount of stock owned. Depositors are not liable for any loss, only secure their bills in circulation. Second, we do not speculate; holding that it is our own money it is loaned, and we must be careful.

REYNOLDS & BROWN.

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix	6.30 a. m	2.00 p. m.
Arrive East Jordan	7.30 a. m	4.00 p. m.
Leave East Jordan	8.00 a. m	4.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	11.00 a. m	6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Str. M. W. WRIGHT—Capt. J. I. Bennett.

Leave Charlevoix	6.30 a. m	2.00 p. m.
Arrive Boyne	8.30 a. m	4.00 p. m.
Leave Boyne	9.00 a. m	4.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	11.00 a. m	6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. A. H. Bennett.

East Jordan, lv.	7.00am	Harbor Springs 1.30pm
Charlevoix	9.00am	Petoskey	2.40pm
Petoskey	11.00am	Charlevoix	1.30pm
Harbor Springs	1.00am	East Jordan, ar.	5.30pm

Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. E. Thompson.

Lv Boyne	7.00am	Lv Charlevoix	7.00am
Ar Charlevoix	9.30am	Ar Boyne	1.30pm

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan and Charlevoix.

Steamer NELLIE BOOTH—Capt. Frank Cutler.

MAYS	A M	MAYS	A M
East Jordan	6.30	1.00	Charlevoix	9.45	5.15
Charlevoix	8.30	4.00	East Jordan	11.30	6.00

Stopping at intermediate points.

HANNAH, LAY & COMPANY'S STEAMER LINE.

SEASON OF 1884.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,

CAPT. O. E. WILBUR.

GOING NORTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.		GOING SOUTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.
Will Leave		Will Leave
Traverse City	7.00am	Mackinaw Isl'd	5.30am
Northport	9.30am	Harbor Springs	7.00am
Charlevoix	11.00am	Petoskey	8.30am
Petoskey	2.00pm	Charlevoix	10.30am
Harbor Springs	3.00pm	Northport	1.00pm
Cross Village	5.00pm	Traverse City	4.00pm
Mackinaw Isl'd	9.00pm
Arriving at		Arriving at
St. Ignace	10.00pm	Traverse City	6.30pm

T. S. FAXTON,

CAPT. A. G. ALLMAN.

GOING NORTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.		GOING SOUTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.
Will Leave		Will Leave
Traverse City	7.00am	Harbor Springs	6.00am
Old Mission	9.20am	Petoskey	7.00am
Elk Rapids	10.00am	Charlevoix	8.30am
Torch Lake	11.00am	East Jordan (or Boyne)	9.00am
Norwood	12.00pm	Norwood	10.00am
East Jordan (or Boyne)	2.30pm	Charlevoix (morning)	11.30am
Charlevoix (morning)	5.00pm	Torch Lake	2.00pm
Petoskey	6.30pm	Elk Rapids	3.00pm
Harbor Springs	7.00pm	Old Mission	3.30pm
		Traverse City	6.00pm

GOOD CONNECTIONS

Will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on the G. R. & I. R. R. also on on Monday mornings between Chicago and Mackinaw, by the steamer City of Grand Rapids going north; and on Wednesday evenings between the T. S. Faxton going south and the City of Traverse for Chicago.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card in effect January, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv.		7 00am	7 15pm
Richmond	2 57am	10 32	10 32
Winchester	3 24	11 07	11 07
Ridgeville	4 11	11 51	11 51
Fort Wayne, ar.	6 42	2 25pm	2 20am
Fort Wayne, lv.		2 35	2 50	6 45am
Auburn Junc'n		3 13	3 34	10 35
Sturgis		4 01	4 13	11 40
Vicksburg		4 32	4 43	12 25pm
Kalamazoo, ar.		5 02	5 10	12 55
Kalamazoo, lv.		7 40	7 12	1 52
Otsego			7 40	2 19
Plainwell		7 54am	7 56	2 40
Otsego & M. Crossing		7 56	10 05	5 05
Bound Oak		8 10	1 20	6 22
Big Rapids		9 43	12 10pm	7 22
Reed City		10 17	1 12	8 20
Cadillac, ar.		11 25	2 25	9 35
Cadillac, lv.			2 30	9 50
Clam River			4 05
Kalkaska			4 17	12 00am
Grayling			4 40	12 35
Bonne Falls			5 17	1 20
Petoskey, ar.			5 45	1 45
Harbor Springs			6 05	6 00
Mackinaw City			10 40	9 50
St. Ignace			7 00am	5 50am
Negaunee, ar.			9 12	7 06

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Negaunee, lv.			5 15pm	7 30am
Marquette			6 00	8 15
St. Ignace			5 45am	6 15pm
Mackinaw City			10 10	10 40
Harbor Springs			7 00	4 35
Petoskey, lv.			7 25	5 10
Bonne Falls			7 55	5 45
Kalkaska			8 41	6 21
Grayling			9 15am
Clam River			11 35	8 30
Cadillac, ar.		3 30pm	11 45pm	8 50
Cadillac, lv.		3 40	11 50	9 00
Reed City		4 42	12 52am	10 05
Big Rapids		5 08	1 35	8 47
Bound Oak		6 25	3 18	10 02
Otsego & M. Crossing		6 32pm	3 25	10 09
Otsego		6 35	3 32	10 20
Plainwell		6 42	3 42	10 32
Kalamazoo, ar.		6 55	3 52	1 00
Kalamazoo, lv.		7 05	4 05	1 15
Vicksburg		10 01	6 16	4 12
Sturgis		10 44	6 56	5 33
Auburn Junc'n		11 17	7 32	6 42
Fort Wayne, ar.	12 32pm		10 55	6 42
Fort Wayne, lv.	2 35am	11 25	12 02
Ridgeville	3 03	1 58	2 35
Winchester	3 42	2 31	3 14
Richmond, ar.	4 17	3 11	4 02
Cincinnati, ar.	7 40pm	12 50am	7 50am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Ad'l Ag't, Grand Rapids, Mich.

GEO. HAYES, Gen'l Pass. Ag't, Chicago.

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitings,

Boots and Shoes.

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at actual cost, as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties who desire to attend to purchase or not. Remember, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark.

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 51. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JULY 3, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday morning,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office over T. D. Smith's grocery,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE, AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

Business Directory.

ATTORNEYS.

PRESSLAND & GIGER, Attorneys at law, Office in Bulson Block, Charlevoix, Mich. W. P. PRESSLAND. A. C. GIGER.

DIET & CLAL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loans, Wells' Lake St., east of postoffice, Chicago, Ills.

FRED A. MOTTON, Attorney at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

WM. P. WAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Claims promptly attended to. CHARLEVOIX TO-DAY.

A. A. JERSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office over Lake St., Boyne City, Mich.

HILLS & NORTON, Attorneys at Law, and Patent Court Commissioners. Office in brick building, corner Mitchell St. Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

NORTON, KLAY & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law. Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Bay St. Traverse City, Mich.

OSCAR F. WINNER, Attorney and Solicitor, and U. S. Pension and Claim Commissioner.

N. SARGENT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX, Capital $50,000. Buy and sell exchange at lowest rates. Loans made and mortgages bought and sold. Drafts sold on all cities in Europe and United States. Steamship and railroad tickets sold to and from all parts of Europe. Conveyancing done free of charge. REYNOLDS & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sabbath services at 10.30 A. M. and 7 P. M. Sabbath school at 12 M. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7.30 P. M. A. T. TOMLINSON, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 A. M. and 7 P. M. Sunday school at 12 M. Class meeting at 9 A. M. Prayer and prise meeting Thursday evening at 7. A. J. TAUSNIS, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX HOUSE AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet at Sampling house every Saturday night. H. F. BIGGS, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

PORTFILLE Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Humoeopathic Cures, Charlevoix, Mich.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. MIDDLETON, Proprietor. Only first-class Horses and Carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

A. J. CLEINSTEN, M. D. Office at the Depot.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office on Lake Street, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. C. GRAVES, M. D.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HIRAM S. HARMSA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Hawley Post No. 279, meets second Monday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 207, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows hall.

I. O. O. F.—Boyne City Lodge No. 260, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

I. O. O. F.—True Hiram No. 17, meets Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

MASONIC—Charlevoix Lodge No. 292, meets Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over postoffice.

VETERINARY SURGEON.

CHAS RAMSEY, V. S. Office at Bridge Street House.

WELL DIGGING.

FRANK DUBOIS, Charlevoix, Mich., will attend promptly to all work in the line of well digging, cistern building, stone repairing, well curbing, cellar building, and similar work. 47

A. BETTARS, President. A. E. UPHAM, Vice President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money taken on approved paper at reasonable rates. Deposits received. Collections given careful attention and remittances made promptly. C. R. THOMAS, Cashier.

O. W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Electroplating in Gold and Silver. Any article of jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order. 39

PIMPLES

I will mail (free) the recipe for a simple vegetable remedy that will remove the pimples, blotches, black heads, and all eruptions, leaving the skin velvet smooth, and containing the elements for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing a 3c. stamp, BOX 1, NEWBURG, CUYAHOGA CO., OHIO.

10 CENTS a month will pay for the JOURNAL during the campaign. Begin now.

1872 — 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.

PURITY, POLITENESS.

We make it a point to sell only

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

Our Prices will always be as Low as

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

Can be Sold.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample rooms in Charlevoix.

Eagle Hotel,

E. A. H. COLE, PROPRIETOR,

South Arm, Michigan.

A new house, situated west end of bridge. Keepers Hotel to Jordan River. Horses and hacks for guests. Headquarters for Intermediate Lake and Jordan River hunters.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public. Good headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids stages.

HULBERT HOUSE,

P. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house is centrally located. Good sidewalk from street level landing to house.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

WM. J. WEEKS, PROPRIETOR.

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house has been thoroughly renovated and put in first-class shape for the traveling and sporting public. Steamers landing within "shoot-from" of the house. Sample Rooms.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

UNITED STATES HOTEL,

GEO. W. CHILDS, Proprietor,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

W. F. ORRELL,

HOUSE DECORATOR,

Charlevoix, Mich.

PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.

ARTISTIC PAPER-HANGING.

Finishing Hardwood a Specialty

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

Fresh Fruits!

A Fine Stock just received

AT L. L. CARR'S.

GET YOUR

Photographs

At D. S. Way's.

HODGE & LITZAU,

Manufacturers and Dealers in

HARNESS, SADDLES

Carry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Lap Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be placed in receipt of all the old customers, and as many more as possible. Call and see my stock.

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Spectacles. Goods warranted as represented. Watches and Clocks REPAIRED WELL, the best time-piece ever made, and all repairs left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

Telephone Order

Hello there!

Hello! What is it?

Has your mother got any rags, old rubber, or copper she would like to dispose of? If so, please pick them up and save them, as WILKINSON & SHEPARD of Charlevoix, Mich., will be round in a day or two and get them. 48

HELLO! How Are You?

Of Interest to All.

HAVE YOUR GROCERIES, MEATS, FISH, AND VEGETABLES, DELIVERED

Free of Charge.

All orders by telephone or otherways, promptly attended to.

Having placed a Telephone in our market, we can receive and fill orders promptly with the least possible trouble to our patrons.

Ice Delivered

Every Morning.

Opposite Bridge street house, Charlevoix.

JEFFERIES & DECKER.

Grover Cleveland.

Grover Cleveland, the present governor of New York is looked upon by the leaders in the democratic party as the most available candidate for the presidency, and it is believed by many that he will probably be nominated on the first or second ballot.

Governor Cleveland is a native of New Jersey, and is now in his forty-seventh year. He comes from a ministerial family, his father and a number of his relatives being Presbyterian clergymen. Grover received an academic education after which he went to New York city as a clerk in some charitable institution. He soon became infected with the western fever, and on his route to his intended destination he stopped in Buffalo N. Y., to visit a wealthy uncle residing in that city, who persuaded his nephew to remain and take a position in his store. Young Cleveland, however, aspired to become a lawyer and his relative encouraged him in this ambition by securing him a clerkship with a prominent law firm in Buffalo. Mr. Cleveland was admitted to the bar in 1859, and soon thereafter was appointed assistant district attorney for the county of Erie. In 1870 he was elected sheriff of the county and in 1881 mayor of the city. His election in 1882 as governor of New York was a noted triumph of his popularity with the people, his majority over Judge Folger being nearly 200,000. Upon this fact is based his present prominence as a candidate before the approaching democratic convention, and it is claimed by admirers, that if nominated he would sweep the empire state with a large majority over Blaine.

Governor Cleveland is a bachelor, and should he become the next incumbent of that White House he will have to run the gauntlet of a second ensemble with marriageable ladies who will aspire to do the honors as mistress of the social household of the president of the United States.

Notes and News.

Tammany democrats will not support Cleveland for president without a pledge that Flower will be state governor, and Tammany shall have the naming of mayor of New York.

Chebeygun compels book agents to pay a license of $100 per day. It must be a good book to warrant so much expense, but the dear people will not object to being protected from their importunities.

G. A. Jeanell, of Lansing, has in his possession a collection of relics taken from the ruins of the old capitol building just after it burned, two years ago. He has arranged the articles in a cabinet made of cinderoids that escaped the fire. Some of the present collection in the state pioneer society as a gift.

In assuming his democratic preferences the Detroit Evening News says: "We are quite convinced that Butler is the spontaneous choice of the great mass of the democratic people in this state; that he is the chosen candidate of thousands of voters whose assistance is essential to democratic success, but whose help cannot be had without Butler, and that in short, Butler is the only democrat in the country who can positively beat Blaine."

Labor Commissioner McGrath says that taking a list of 3,000 mechanics in Michigan, he found that 62 per cent were foreigners, while with laborers the percentage was still larger. On the contrary he found that among lawyers, clerks, book keepers and waiters, the percentage of Americans was the greatest. The lesson to be drawn from these figures, he said, was that the Americans must bestir themselves or the mechanical trades will soon be entirely in the hands of foreigners.

Benjamin F. Butler, was represented as the state convention held in Detroit, in the person of Col. Plympton, chairman of the democratic state central committee of Massachusetts. He came to Detroit for the purpose of feeling the pulse, and ascertaining the real sentiment of the Michigan democracy. In reply to a question propounded to him by the editor of the Lansing Journal, Col. Plympton stated that Butler would attend the Chicago convention as a delegate-at-large from Massachusetts, and, further, that he would go there as a democrat and come away a democrat. In other words, Butler proposes to guide by the action of the convention, and support whomever may be nominated. Col. Plympton ridiculed the idea that Butler could stand in the way of democratic success. He said Butler would naturally like to be made the nominee of the party, but if in the wisdom of the convention he is not deemed an available nominee he will be fairly in the impending contest, he will quietly submit to the will of that body. This is a view of Butler that is not shared by many people. A majority of his supporters think Butler will remain in the field as a presidential candidate whether he is nominated by the democrats or not. But Col. Plympton is the acknowledged manager of Butler's canvass, and he dotted his i's upon this point. His statement concerning his chieftain's probable course is highly creditable to Butler as a man and a democrat. Butler's letter of acceptance of the greenback nomination would seem to corroborate this theory, for he emphatically says he accepts the nomination, but simply indulges in a general discussion of certain principles.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by Tuttmore Bros., Real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, for the week ending Thursday evening, July 1, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

George F. Moore to G. S. Brown, n ½ of n w ¼ 12 29 8, $100.

G. S. Brown and wife to Geo. N. Cartwright, n ½ of n w ¼, 12 29 7, $2,000.

Elon Andrews and wife to Hiram Andrews, s ½ of s w ¼ 28 34 4, $200.

Joseph Bergey to Abner G. Hewitt, e ½ of e ½ of s w ¼ 17 30 6, $1,000.

Abner G. Hewitt and wife to Sophia R. Bean, s ½ of s w ¼, 32 30 6, $1,000.

Archibald R. Upright and wife to H. V. Frisek, part of n ½ of n w ¼, 8 32 7, $150.

A. R. Upright and wife to I. W. Brock, part of n ½ of n w ¼, 8 32 7, $400.

A. R. Upright and wife to Wm. H. Brock, part of n ½ of n w ¼, 8 32 7, $300.

A. R. Upright and wife to Pamelia Brock, part of n ½ of n w ¼, 8 32 7, $300.

A. R. Upright and wife to James M. Brock, part of n ½ of n w ¼, 8 32 7, $200.

Sampson A. Smith to A. F. Draper, lot No. 7, blk. 13, Charlevoix, $150.

A. R. Upright and wife to Harriet J. Brock, part of e ½ of s w ¼, 5 32 7, $300.

A. F. Draper and wife to Hyram Brock, part of e ½ of s w ¼, 5 32 7, $300.

Milton Griffith and wife to Marshall Griffith, e ½ of s w ¼, 22 30 5, $1,000.

Shipments.

The following are the clearances from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the custom house for the week ending Tuesday, July 1:

June 26—Schr. Chas. Phillips, 180,000 ft hard

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, — MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS.

Intelligence by Wire from All the World.

FOREIGN.

—Johnson, the alleged dynamiter, who pretended to know all about the plot to blow up the Victoria Docks, London, has been pronounced an impostor by the English detectives.

—The Roads in Dunemin are impassable, and the inhabitants are in great distress.

—Miss Sheldon, who is said to be an Englishwoman, was captured in Kansas near the Indian Territory line by what are described in England as bandits. The English Government has interceded in his behalf with our Government, but Lord Edmund Fitzmaurice, brother of the Marquis of Lansdowne, who is Foreign Secretary, was obliged to announce in the British Parliament that his correspondence with the United States Government in reference to Sheldon has been carried on without effect.

—Ten deaths from cholera occurred in one day at Toulon. The chateau at Marseilles formerly belonging to the Empress Eugenie has been prepared to accommodate 700 patients.

—The new Cunard steamer Umbria was launched at London. The tonnage is 8,000. Her engine is the most powerful in the world, 12,000 horse power.

—The Rev. James John Hornby, Head Master of the great University Preparatory School at Eton, Eng., has been appointed Bishop of that institution, vice the Rev. Dr. Goulford, deceased.

—In London, Hallam Tennyson and Miss Audrey Boyle were married at Westminster Abbey in presence of Premier Gladstone and Madame Lowell. A banquet was given to ex-Minister Sargent at the Army and Navy Hotel, the honorary returning to speak on political questions.

—Adrian Lewis Richter, the artist, is dead at Dresden, Saxony.

PERSONAL.

—Mr. Blaine is determined to finish his book, and has resolved to devote some hours each day to writing the concluding chapters.

—Among the unhappy wives who lately secured divorces in Chicago was Margaret Codingwood, an English actress known as "Florence Emmers."

—Col. C. R. Jonnison, who commanded the Seventh Kansas Regiment during the war, died at Leavenworth, after suffering greatly from asthma. He was 59 years of age, and a man of the most reckless courage.

—Maj. Lucius H. Drury, formerly of the First Vermonters, and a Chicago merchant from wounds received in the battle of Chickamauga.

—Gen. Ward B. Burnett, of New York, died at Washington. He graduated at West Point in 1852.

—The funeral of Bishop Simpson, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, occurred at Philadelphia. Thousands attended to pay their last respects to the great divine. The mortal remains of the deceased prelate were paid to rest in the south aisle of Laurel Cemetery. The pall-bearers were all members of the Methodist Conference.

—The Episcopal Conference at Omaha elected Dr. Foster, of Geneva, N. Y., Bishop of the Nebraska Diocese.

—The degree of LL. D. was conferred by Yale College upon Gov. Hoadly, of Ohio, and Elisha H. Roberts, editor of the Fifth (N. Y.) Herald.

FINANCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL.

—About 8,000 coal miners in the Hocking Valley have struck on account of the reduction of the price of mining 10 cents per ton.

The agricultural department of Illinois, in its report for June, will show that in the central corn belt the prospects are favorable for an immense crop. Wheat will be ready for the harvester early in July.

—The master plumbers of New York have locked out a number of journeymen established all the way from 400 to 1,200.

—The imports for the fiscal year ending June 30, had, aforetime, 7,000,000,000 pounds of sugar, about 5,000,000,000 pounds of coffee, and over 150,000,000 eggs. The sugar manufactured here amounted to about 250,000,000 pounds.

—Matthew Morgan's Sons, of New York, have failed. The firm is an old one and has been considered reliable. The failure, or suspension, as it has been called, is attributed in exchanges to value in railroad bonds especially. It is believed that when the numbers can read so on their railroad securities they will be able to meet all payments. The house was established in New York city thirty-five years ago. The members are Southern men.

—Reports from California are that heavy rains have helped grain, so that the yield will approximate 25 per cent.

—The Lumber Dealers' Association at St. Louis made an assignment for the benefit of its creditors.

—The Central Pacific Road has asked its employes to give it thirty days' credit for the amount of their wages, in order to accumulate funds to meet more pressing demands. Charles Crocker admits that only 25 per cent. can be obtained on Southern Pacific bonds, and that he is trying hard to borrow some money.

POLITICAL.

—Ex-Senator S. C. Pomeroy, of Kansas, has been nominated for President of the United States by the Anarchists (Anti-Secret Society) party. John A. Conant, of Willimantic, Conn., is the nominee for Vice President. The platform adopted by the convention at Chicago demands the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating drinks; that the chattels of all secret lodges granted by Federal or State legislatures should be withdrawn; that land and other monopolies should be discouraged; and the abolition of educational colleges and a direct vote for President and Vice President of the United States.

—The Democrats of the Second Indiana District have nominated Thomas H. Cobb for a fourth term in Congress.

—Gen. Hendricks is at the head of the committee appointed by the National Republican Convention, which met from Texas August at Washington and officially announced him as his nomination for the Vice Presidency. The Senator accepted the honor, and made a suitable speech in response.

—Ex-Chief Justice Cole, of Iowa, is a candidate for Solicitor of the Treasury, the Judge Bagnor, deceased.

—The Indiana Democratic State Convention nominated Isaac P. Gray for Governor, and M. D. Manson for Lieutenant Governor.

—The Ohio Democratic State Convention was held at Columbus. The platform adopted favors a tariff for revenue limited to the necessities of the Government, no adjustment to encourage productive interests at home, but not to create monopolies.

—North Carolina Democrats nominated Gen. Alfred M. Scales for Governor. The delegation to Chicago is divided between Hayard and Cleveland.

—The Missouri Democracy refused to instruct its delegation in Chicago to vote as a unit, and for Tilden. The delegates-at-large are John Cline, Burton Mansfield, H. D. Francis, and Charles H. Hansay. Gov. Crittenden heads the list of alternates.

GENERAL.

—The Executive Committee of the reunion of soldiers and sailors to be held in Chicago in August have decided to raise a guarantee fund of $5,000. Any surplus will be devoted to building a memorial hall.

—Considerable excitement exists at Columbus, Ohio, over the arrest, Sunday, of the base ball field, of several players of the Columbus club on warrants sworn out by the law and order Committee of that city. The game was stopped nearly minutes in order for the accused to give bail.

—A schooner which arrived in New York from Savannah reports having passed through a school of whales extending on all sides as far as the eye could reach.

—Evangeline Moody talks hopefully of the result of her mission to England. He says that about a million and a half of people treated his mother and thousands of people were converted. He is particularly enthusiastic about the democratic influence of his preaching. Peer and pauper, he says, are alike by side.

—The Appellate Court at Chicago has affirmed the judgment of the Lynch Court giving a colored citizen named Timothy Cooper the sum of $2,000 for being ejected from an omnibus, owned by Fred W. Peck, solely because of his color.

CASUALTIES.

—At Armour & Dole's elevator, Chicago, Miss Alice M. Wells, of Boston, while viewing the machinery on the upper floor, was caught and crushed to death in an instant. She was 18 years of age.

—It is learned that the Spanish bark Angelia, which recently sailed from New Orleans for Barcelona, was struck by lightning and burned at sea. The crew was saved.

—A tornado uprooted twelve buildings at Fort Madison, Iowa. A field of 100 acres of corn, near Cerro Gordo, Ill., was flooded to the depth of six feet by a cloudburst.

—Four Italian laborers were fatally injured by the caving of Gould's tunnel, on the Pan Handle Road, near Steubenville, Ohio, and five others were badly bruised.

—The building of Hermanson's bakery in Williamsburg, N. Y., caused the death of two firemen and fatal injuries to a third, while seven men were severely burned and otherwise injured. A stable in the rear of the bakery was also burned, with eight horses. The property loss is estimated at $150,000.

—Two men were fatally injured by an explosion of dynamite in the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tunnel near Washington, Pa.

—The steamship Florida, owned in Boston, burned, with her cargo, at Mobile. She was laden with sugar and hemp. Loss, $1,0,000; insured for $125,000.

—The boiler in J. T. Smith's planing-mill at Wausau, Wis., exploded, destroying the structure and killing three employes. A woman standing on the porch of her residence, near by, was killed by a fragment of the boiler, and her mother was mortally wounded, while an invalid female will die from the effects of the shock. A dozen persons received serious injuries.

CRIMES AND CRIMINALS.

—A Milwaukee policeman, named Frank Piaszek, was fatally shot by a suspicious person whom he was taking to the station.

—A horse thief was lynched near Bismarck, D. T., and another gang of lone were captured, one being shot and the other hanged.

—The door of the jail at Vincennes, Ind., was battered down with a sledge by a party of fifty persons, Oliver Canfield, the murderer of Mrs. Gerkin, was taken from his cell and hanged to a telegraph pole near the scene of his crime. Canfield and his victim recently went to Vincennes from a neighboring town, one also was awaiting a divorce in order to marry him.

—Ike Lasky, a negro 35 years old, who recently made three attempts to outrage white women at Whitney, Tex., and succeeded in one instance, was taken from jail at that place and lynched. The vigilantes also cut his ears off.

—In a street-car quarrel in the City of Mexico between President Gonzales' servant Gen. Major's son, Prof. Garcia, of the military school, who accompanied Gonzales, shot young Major and his servant dead.

—The Governor of Mexico, on sent a company of militia to Mule to protect a wife murderer, named Andrew Long, from a mob, which three times had a rope around his neck.

HERE AND THERE.

—The property of the wrecked Penn Bank of Pittsburgh has been appraised at $175,000, while the liabilities amount to $400,000.

—Robert Garlick, S. S. Caldwell, ex-Mayor of Columbus, and S. S. Benedict, a of stockholders of that Bank, are in jail.

—Andrew Long, who so narrowly escaped lynching at Mule, Mich., pleaded guilty to murdering his wife, and is already in the Sing Sing Prison for life. It was the prisoner in a court the dead woman's brother attempted to shoot her to pieces.

—In the Bergner & Engel brewery, near Philadelphia, 1,000 barrels of beer were burned. Harvard was 12 rounds behind.

—For a distance of twenty-five miles along the Youngstown and Pittsburgh Railroad, not a single pine tree is left. Fuel has been killed by sulphur water from the coal mines.

—A fire which broke out in the furniture store of McCracken & Brewster, Hoyal street, New Orleans, quickly spread to five adjacent buildings, and the entire fire department was called to the scene. The loss exceeds $200,000. Three firemen were injured.

—A sullenness containing a party of five, returning to Gruenau, Sioux Sioux, from Pierre, was upset in a spot, Mr. Tucker and Miss Henderson were drowned. The others were rescued.

—Gen. Henderson, of Princeton, Ill.; Wm. Williams of Michigan City, Ind.; J. B. Wakefield, of Mankato, Minn., and W. H. Hunt, of Logansport, Ind., have been nominated for Governor by the Prohibitionists.

—Ex-Attorney General S. F. Hughes has been nominated for Governor of Arkansas by the Democrats.

—Ex-Congressman John R. Eden is the choice of the majority of the delegates elected to the Seventeenth Congressional District Democratic Convention of Illinois.

—At the meeting of the National Republican Committee at New York, H. P. Jones, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was appointed Chairman, and Samuel Fessenden, of Connecticut, Secretary. The Executive Committee includes ex-Senator Chaffee, J. Manchester Haynes, J. C. New, S. B. Elkins, col. George W. Hooker, Powell Clayton, John R. Lynch, J. S. Clarkson, Church Howe, and A. L. Conger.

—Prince Victor, son of "Prince Plon," is delighted to go to general such city, and his father is disposed to remove them all on occasion him in a carriage. The father has written to M. Jolibois, a senator of the French Chamber, ever, urging him to encourage his son's insubordination.

—A severe hailstorm visited the southern port of Russia. The hailstones were as large as grouse eggs.

—At a convention held in Waterford County, Ireland, it was agreed by the tenant farmers of Ireland to establish a fund for the payment of members of Parliament who, at with the Parnellite party. The tax will amount to about one cent on the dollar of valuation.

—In the House of Commons, on motion of Gladstone, the franchise bill was ordered to a third reading. In the course of his remarks the Premier stated he had tried to avoid a conflict with the House of Lords. While he would greatly regret it, he had no fear of the issue.

—An important murder trial has been concluded at Lincoln, Ill. The accused parties—J. H. Hall, Hale Hall (his wife), and Frank Ferris—were charged with the killing of Terrence McMahon and his two hired men at Mount Pulaski, in Logan County, several months ago. The jury found J. H. Hall guilty, and fixed the penalty at his prison for life. In case the prisoner escaped, the jury recommended that he be hanged.

—In the Bergner & Engel brewery, near New London, Ct., the latter was in 20 24 hours to create time on record. Harvard was 12 rounds behind.

—For a distance of twenty-five miles along the Youngstown and Pittsburgh Railroad, not a single pine tree is left. Fuel has been killed by sulphur water from the coal mines.

—A fire which broke out in the furniture store of McCracken & Brewster, Hoyal street, New Orleans, quickly spread to five adjacent buildings, and the entire fire department was called to the scene. The loss exceeds $200,000. Three firemen were injured.

—A sullenness containing a party of five, returning to Gruenau, Sioux Sioux, from Pierre, was upset in a spot, Mr. Tucker and Miss Henderson were drowned. The others were rescued.

—Gen. Henderson, of Princeton, Ill.; Wm. Williams of Michigan City, Ind.; J. B. Wakefield, of Mankato, Minn., and W. H. Hunt, of Logansport, Ind., have been nominated for Governor by the Prohibitionists.

—Ex-Attorney General S. F. Hughes has been nominated for Governor of Arkansas by the Democrats.

—Ex-Congressman John R. Eden is the choice of the majority of the delegates elected to the Seventeenth Congressional Democratic District Convention of Illinois.

—At the meeting of the National Republican Committee at New York, H. P. Jones, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was appointed Chairman, and Samuel Fessenden, of Connecticut, Secretary. The Executive Committee includes ex-senator Chaffee, J. Manchester Haynes, J. C. New, S. B. Elkins, col. George W. Hooker, Powell Clayton, John R. Lynch, J. S. Clarkson, Church Howe, and A. L. Conger.

—Prince Victor, son of "Prince Plon," is delighted to go to general such city, and his father is disposed to remove them all on occasion him in a carriage. The father has written to M. Jolibois, a senator of the French Chamber, ever, urging him to encourage his son's insubordination.

—A severe hailstorm visited the southern port of Russia. The hailstones were as large as grouse eggs.

—At a convention held in Waterford County, Ireland, it was agreed by the tenant farmers of Ireland to establish a fund for the payment of members of Parliament who, at with the Parnellite party. The tax will amount to about one cent on the dollar of valuation.

—In the House of Commons, on motion of Gladstone, the franchise bill was ordered to a third reading. In the course of his remarks the Premier stated he had tried to avoid a conflict with the House of Lords. While he would greatly regret it, he had no fear of the issue.

—An important murder trial has been concluded at Lincoln, Ill. The accused parties—J. H. Hall, Hale Hall (his wife), and Frank Ferris—were charged with the killing of Terrence McMahon and his two hired men at Mount Pulaski, in Logan County, several months ago. The jury found J. H. Hall guilty, and fixed the penalty at his prison for life. In case the prisoner escaped, the jury recommended that he be hanged.

—In the Bergner & Engel brewery, near New London, Ct., the latter won

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Interesting Figures.

Oscoda, Mich., June 25. H. N. Loud, one of the Oscoda salt and lumber company, has made the statement to a reporter of the Detroit Evening News that nearly all the married workingmen here own their own homes, and that therefore this was evidence of good pay. He afterwards qualified his statement by reducing the number owning houses 50 per cent. Thinking such a fact would be worth recording, J. W. McGrath, who is here to watch the strike and gather data for his second annual report as commissioner of labor, examined the assessment rolls of the two towns. He found the assessed value of the real estate of the township of Oscoda owned by residents to be $229,187. Of this four men own $173,069, nine own $14,375, 14 own $8,773.62, not workingmen, own $15,150, and 146 other persons, some of whom are not workingmen and others, while working, yet do not work in the mills, own $27,730. Of this last number, probably a liberal estimate would be to say 100 work in the mills.

In AuSable there are 281 real estate owners, and they are assessed at $187,190. Of this number four are assessed at $105,405, 14 at $34,916, 10 at $12,315, 24 at $4,930, and 222 at $31,625. Of the 222 probably not over 175 are workingmen. It is thus seen that out of the 1,500 workingmen in the two towns less than 300 own homes. The average assessed value of the workingmen's homes in AuSable is $142, and of Oscoda is $190, and the homes of these workingmen are many of them of the rudest kind, some being made of unplaned boards set on end and cleats nailed over the cracks. A considerable number are assessed as low as $25, $40, and $50, the great majority running below $150.

As near as it can be got at there are in Oscoda and AuSable 18 sawyers getting $3.50 to 3.75 a day, 7 saw filers at $3.50 18 saw setters at $2.25, 18 edgers at $2.25, 6 gang sawyers at $2.75, and 20 carriagemen at $1.75. A few workmen get $1.62½, but at least 60 per cent of all the hands employed in the mills receive $1.50 a day and less. Viewed in connection with Loud's statements, these figures are interesting and important, as bearing on the situation here.

No visitors to northern Michigan should fail to go to Central lake in Antrim county. It is worth a long journey to see. It is the central one of a series of several lakes connected by small rivers from one hundred yards to one or two miles in length, this one being the largest of the series of lakes, and is about seven miles long and from one to three miles wide. These lakes are all of surpassing beauty and loveliness, and have been pronounced as far excelling the most noted lakes that attract the tourists to Europe—Breeze.

The Detroit News thus sets forth some of the benefits of protection on the east shore Saginaw is the local center of protection in this state. The organs of that region have assured us time and again that protection was all for the good of the poor workingmen to protect him against pauper labor. Pauper Italian labor has nevertheless been recently introduced there, and the Italians were working for 50 and 75 cents a day. The result was that the resident "protected" laborers have held a meeting, expressed their indignation, and the Italian paupers will be requested to move on. But they won't move. They will remain until their importers, the protected owners of mills and salt blocks, find some still cheaper and more degraded labor to take their place. They will "move on" before the pressure of competition, as their predecessors have "moved on" before them. This has been the story told again and again in all the protected industries of the United States. Labor sinks to a lower notch of degradation every year."

"Free trade is an impossibility in this country," say the protectionists. But free trade—absolute free trade—exists throughout this country, and has existed ever since the adoption of the constitution, between the people of all the different states and territories. Under absolute free trade between the states the domestic commerce of this country has increased and prospered in a manner unprecedented in history. Under practical free trade during the low-tariff era previous to 1860 our foreign commerce grew to such great proportions that it rivaled Great Britain's, while under the protection era since 1860 that foreign commerce has so dwindled that an American merchantman is a curiosity in foreign ports. The system that has brought such great prosperity to the domestic commerce of this country would prove equally beneficial if applied to foreign commerce, subject only to such limitations as the necessities for revenue demand.

Change in Climate.

Felix L. Oswald in the April North American Review says: In Pennsylvania, Kentucky, West Virginia, and Tennessee, the lumber trade increases more than any other branch of industry, and, in the river valleys, the steadily increasing maxima of high-water marks, as well as the devastating floods of 1882, 1883, and the present year, are therefore only painful allusions to the probabilities of the future.

But while droughts can be counteracted only by a wide-spread system of co-operative tree-culture, spring floods admit of more local remedies. With rare exceptions they originate in mountain countries, where two causes combine to increase the evil effects of forest destruction: the steepness of the drainage slopes, which pour down the floods before any considerable portion can be absorbed by the soil, and the effects of premature spring seasons, which swell the torrents with the thawing snows of the upland regions. Arboreal vegetation obviates those perils by absorbing, or at least retarding, the drainage even of the steepest slopes, to a degree which almost exempts from inundations the river valleys of densely wooded hill countries, and the only radical remedy would, therefore, be to protect or replant the forests bordering the valleys of all the upper water-courses. Mountain land is so cheap that extensive tracts could be bought by the Government at nominal prices; and in the upper Alleghanies there are mountain slopes that could be intrusted to their natural safeguards—their steepness and their rockiness. Still, here and there a local demand for fuel has overcome such obstacles. High up in the alpine valleys of Polk County, Tennessee, a single establishment—the furnace of the Ducktown copper mine—has destroyed the trees of a hundred hills. The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad has done the same for the mountains of West Virginia, and the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad for the valley of the upper James River.

In such valleys, and especially where the nature of the soil threatens to delay the growth of young trees, the replanting of the forest should be supplemented by precautions against immediate dangers. Nature has given us a hint, which the Spanish Moors acted upon in the construction of the vast alberkeles, or river reservoirs, which regulated the water supply of the South Spanish vegas. Wherever a river expands into a chain of lakes we find that such lakes serve not only as reserve basins in all but the driest seasons, but also protect the valleys of their off-coast streams against the floods of the upper tributaries. A rain that would cause the overflow of a narrow mountain stream in a single day might continue for weeks without effecting an appreciable change in the level of a large lake. A smaller lake, or even a mere balsa, as the Spanish-Americans call the expansions of their coast rivers, would at least compromise matters by distributing the deluge over a basin where evaporation, and especially the water-absorbing alluvium of an extended shore-line, would diminish its volume, while the slower rise of the expansive water-level would retard that of the affluent streams. Violent northwest storms have now and then "backed" the waters of Lake Erie till the Niagara River sank visibly below its normal level,—once so much, indeed, as to expose the naked rocks of the Horseshoe Fall, and the sudden bursting of an ice-gorge might produce the opposite effect, but there is no case on record that a wet-spring, or the sudden thawing of the snow in the upper lake region, had endangered the river suburbs of Buffalo. Between Lake Leman and the hills of St. Saubert the level of the Rhone varies only a few feet; follow its continuous with the Ardeche and other torrents of the Cevennes, its valley is subject to inundations which, in the south of Bharpit, have repeatedly done more unbelief than an invading army of vandals could have perpetrated in the same time.

☞ Remember that we are now supplied with poster type, and when you want anything in that line come and look over samples.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crozier.

☞ We are Anxious

That every young lady should know what a delicate and harmless beautifier is to be found in Hamilton's oriental balm. It is absolutely harmless, and it makes the complexion so soft, and brilliant, as nearly resembles all the age freckles that one needs only to prize it a trial to be convinced of its merits. Only 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. H. Weed & Co.

WAR WITH

PRICES.

A fall in the price of Hardware, at L. D. Bartholomew's.

NOTICE is hereby given that on or about May 20th 1884, two trolling coils, a large and small, both coils are bright tag with black and red tail, one is a mass of good size, the other is a loose, rather small. Strayed upon my lackwood land in the township of Bear Lake, Sec. 20 and now remain upon my premises.

Bear Lake Mich. 1st day of June 1884.

E. T. POUTREAUX.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss. Notice is hereby given, that by an order of the probate court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the fourth day of June, A. D. 1884, in matters of the estate of Charlotte Rondolph, deceased, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of Charlotte Rondolph, deceased, late of said county, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said probate court at the office of said court in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and adjustment, on or before the fifth day of January next, and that such claims will be heard before said Court, on Monday, the first day of September, and on Monday, the fifth day of January next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days.

Dated June 4th, A. D. 1884.

JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

PROBATE ORDER. State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix, ss. At a session of the probate court for said county of Charlevoix, at the probate office in the village of Charlevoix, on the ninth day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Keat Judge of probate. In the matter of the estate of

CHARLOTTE RONDOLPH, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Albert Rondolph, administrator of said estate, praying that certain real estate might be sold to pay debts. Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the fourteenth day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for hearing of said petition, and that the several heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden in the probate office in the village of Charlevoix, and show cause why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the several persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Courier, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES A. KEAT,

(A true copy.) Judge of Probate.

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 114 acres, 45 miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Set into farm, 40 acres frame house, and two frame bank barns. About 40 acres of good hardwood timber, balance cleared. Water. About 1½ mile from village, and less than half mile from school and city mail. Price three thousand cash, or four hundred less than two thousand 2 years, balance in mill purchase. For further inquiries apply to

DAVID H. FRANCIS, Charlevoix, Mich.

Electric Light

In the form of a FAIR, now located in Charlevoix. They have saved down high prices on kitchen utensils, toilet soap, crockery, glassware, hosiery, hosiery, knee-jeans, tea-pots, prompt sets, ladies' handbags, shopping bags, ladies' ties, ladies' hosiery, ladies' hosiery, ladies' cuffs, ladies' collars, ladies' shawls, ovenlis, jumpers, and fresh cooked bonny.

A jew of hot tea, cool pure ice, soda water, ice, a quick frozen ice, hand mirror ne, splendid assortment of ladies' hosiery, ladies' jeans, lace ne, wheel chairs, ladies' hosiery, ladies' jeans, lace ne, ladies' hosiery, ladies' jeans, lace ne, ladies' hosiery, ladies' jeans, lace ne

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, — MICHIGAN.

Interesting Figures.

Osceola, Mich., June 25.—H. N. Lund, one of the Osceola salt and lumber company, has made the statement to a reporter of the Detroit Evening News that nearly all the married workingmen have own their own homes, and that therefore this was evidence of good pay. He afterwards qualified his statement by reducing the number owning homes 50 per cent. Thinking such a fact would recording, J. W. McGrath here to watch the strike a data for his second annual commissioner of labor, equ assessment rolls of the to He found the assessed val real estate of the township owned by residents to be Of this four men own $173, own $14,375, 14 own $8,7 workingmen, own $15,150, other persons, some of who workingmen and others, wh ing, yet do not work in the t $27,700. Of this last mund ably a liberal estimate wo say 100 work in the mills.

In AuSable there are estate owners, and they are at $187,190. Of this number assessed at $103,405, 14 at $ at $12,315, 24 at $4,950, and 2 625. Of the 222 probably 175 are workingmen. It is t that out of the 1,500 workin the two towns less than homes. The average assess of the workingmen's homes Sable is $142, and of Osceola and the homes of these wor are many of them of the rud some being made of unplaned set on end and cleats nailed cracks. A considerable nu assessed as low as $25, $40, the great majority running bet

As near as it can be got at t in Osceola and AuSable 18 getting $5.50 to 3.75 a day, 7 at $3.50 18 saw setters at $ edgers at $2.25, 6 gang saw $2.75, and 20 earringmen at $ few workmen get $1.625, but 60 per cent of all the help en in the mills receive $1.50 a Ives. Viewed in connectio Lund's statements, these fig interesting and important, as on the situation here.

No visitors to northern M should fail to go to Central Antrim county. It is worth journey to see. It is the end of a series of several lakes co by small rivers from one a yards to one or two miles in this one being the largest of th of lakes, and is about seven mi and from one to three mile These lakes are all of surp beauty and loveliness, and ha pronounced as far excelling th noted lakes that attract the tou Europe.—Breeze.

The Detroit News thus sch scare of the beauties of protect the east shore Saginaw is th center of protection in this The organs of that region have ed ve time and again that pro was all for the good of the poor ingman to protect him agains per labor. Pauper Italian lab nevertheless been recently intr them, and the Italians were w for 50 and 75 cents a day. The was that the resident "protecti lovers have held a meeting, ex their indignation, and tha pauper labor will be requested to m But they won't move. They w main until their importers, the tectal owners of mills and salt find some still cheaper and no graded labor to take their They will "move on" before the ace of competition, as their cessors have "moved on" before them. This has been the story told again and again in all the protected industries of the United States. Labor sinks to a lower notch of degradation every year."

"Free trade is an impossibility in this country," say the protectionists. But free-trade—absolute free-trade—exists throughout this country, and has existed ever since the adoption of the constitution, between the people of all the different states and territories. Under absolute free trade between the states the domestic commerce of this country has increased and prospered in a manner unprecedented in history. Under practical free trade during the low-tariff era previous to 1860 our foreign commerce grew to such great proportions that it rivaled Great Britain's, while under the protection era since 1860 that foreign commerce has so dwindled that an American merchantman is a curiosity in foreign ports. The system that has brought such great prosperity to the domestic commerce of the country would prove equally beneficial if applied to foreign commerce, subject only to such limitations as the necessities for revenue demand.

Change in Climate.

Felix L. Oswald in the April North American Review says: In Pennsylvania, Kentucky, West Virginia, and

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., July 3, 1884.

How Protection does not Protect.

One of the brilliant features of the protective tariff is the direct bribe it holds out to American manufacturers not only to sell their goods to foreigners for less than they charge their own countrymen, but to buy of foreigners the very raw material which goes into the manufacture of these goods. An American manufacturer may buy English pig iron, manufacture it into nails and then sell his nails to the English buyer cheaper than he sells them to his own customers in the United States, who give him the "protection" which enables him to throw them overboard.

In every article made for export the manufacturer is allowed to deduct the duty on any foreign material he may have imported for the manufacture of the article. The duty on foreign lumber has in this way operated to the injury of the American lumber and lumber manufacturer.

The Standard Oil Company consumes yearly in the manufacture of boxes from 150,000,000 to 200,000,000 feet of lumber. The business of making these boxes has been divided among different American manufacturers, and it has proved a no inconsiderable item in creating a demand for lumber among American lumbermen. In anticipation of this trade many mills have laid in large stocks of lumber, which bid fair to remain stagnant on their hands, and aid in depressing still more an already depressed, over-protected, over stimulated business.

The stock is used for cases containing the refined oils of the Standard company. These cases are exported and on them the government refunds the duty of $2 per thousand on lumber. The company is one of the largest monopolies in the world, and therefore, one of the chief consumers of coarse lumber, which has been heretofore largely supplied from the Saginaw Valley, and so creating a lively market for it.

But the Standard Oil Company has taken a new departure. It does not believe in protection, except as it can protect itself. It does not believe there is any patriotic merit in buying American lumber when it can buy foreign lumber cheaper. It has therefore begun the erection of large mills at Owego, New York, for the construction of these cases, and notified the mills that have previously supplied it that it will no longer buy of them. The Standard company has already bought 25,000,000 feet of lumber in Canada and made extensive arrangements for buying the whole of its raw material there, and thus dispensing with the American supply. As the government refunds the duty the Standard Oil Company gets its Canadian lumber duty free. The American lumberman, especially the American manufacturer, cannot compete. The protective tariff forbids it, and has actually taken away from him a not inconsiderable business.

Under these circumstances he begins to see the value of reciprocity. With a reciprocity treaty, he would be able so far as raw material is concerned, to buy his lumber, either on this side or that, and so compete for the business of which the tariff has deprived him. A more signal instance of the totally opposite effect produced by the tariff from the one intended is not often afforded; although the history of protection in this and other countries is full of numerous and flagrant examples.—Detroit Free Press.

Worth Thinking Of.

Does it ever occur to the business man, the workingman, the taxpayer of every class, what the immense surplus in the treasury of the United States means? Do they recognize the fact that it is their money, every dollar of it, and that it has been taken from them unnecessarily and unjustifiably to be piled up where it does them no earthly good? Such is the fact, whether they recognize it or not. The money has been taken indirectly—a dollar here on clothing, a dollar there on the other necessaries of life—but it has been taken just as effectually as if an agent of the government had taken it directly from the pockets of the taxed. And the taxed are just as much the poorer for the taking as as they would be if it had been direct. It is worth while thinking of these things now when the people could use their money to such excellent purpose if the government had not "absorbed" it and piled it up where nobody can use it except by invention of corrupt and extravagant schemes for squandering it. It is all the better worth while, because the day is rapidly coming when the taxpayer will have an opportunity to show by voting for tariff reform that he disapproves of the "surplus" theory of government finance.—Detroit Free Press.

AGENTS wanted for the lives of all the Presidents of the United States. The largest, handsomest, and best book ever sold for less than twice our price. The fastest selling book in America. Agents report from $20 to $50 daily. Any person can be a successful agent. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Maine. 4w

BAY SPRINGS, MICH.

We give above a view of Bay Springs, Mich., showing prominently Chapman's mammoth hotel, the "Tourists, House," which was opened to the public June 25th. We were prevented from being present at the opening, but the following report from the Grand Traverse Herald is hope more complete than anything we could write:

The formal opening of the new summer hotel at Bay Springs, took place yesterday. A pleasant party from Traverse City joined there a large crowd from all parts of the Grand Traverse region, and a most enjoyable time was had.

Bay Springs is located at the head of Pine Lake, about 18 miles from Charlevoix, and one mile from Boyne City. The location is fine and with such a house as was opened yesterday, the spot cannot fail to prove an attractive one to the summer visitors to Northern Michigan.

H. B. Chapman, a capitalist of Reading, Hillsdale county, the owner of the grounds and proprietor of the new hotel, has spent $40,000 in improvements, and has completed one of the most attractive and finest summer hotels in the state. The building is three stories and basement and will accommodate over 100 guests. The building itself is a fine one and large verandas add much to the appearance and comfort of the house. The finishing and furnishing is elegant. The rooms are airy and pleasant, and no hotel in the state is better provided with the elegancies and comforts of summer life. Bath rooms, public and private parlors, elegantly furnished bridal chamber, a large and handsome dining hall, supplied with table appointments that would do credit to any hotel in the country, so indeed would the entire house and all its conveniences and keepings. In the basement is an elegantly fitted up banking house.

The proprietor, H. B. Chapman, is one of the most genial, whole souled landlords in the country. His aim and object seems to be to give his guests the greatest amount possible of comfort and pleasure. Summer visitors seek such resorts for enjoyment and Mr. Chapman fully appreciates this, and proposes to gratify the tastes and wishes of his guests to the fullest extent.

The gathering yesterday, at the formal opening of the house, was a most pleasant one, and the entertainment afforded by the host was a right royal one. An elegant dinner, that would make favorable comment in any resort or city hotel is the country, was spread and done ample justice to, and the best pleasant feature was the happy manner in which it was presided over by the host. The entire company was made at home in all parts of the house, and the guests departed with a most favorable impression of house and host. In the evening those who could stay enjoyed an elegant banquet and dance.

Mr. Chapman has done a fine thing for northern Michigan and his efforts cannot fail to be appreciated by residents and visitors.

Prices 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

We Are Anxious

That every young lady reader should know what a delicate and lasting beautifier is to be found in Hamilton's Celestial balm. It is absolutely harmless, and it makes the complexion so soft and brilliant, so surely removes all tan and freckles, that one needs only to give it a trial to be convinced of its merits. Only 50 cents per bottle. Sold by G. H. Wood & Co.

WAR WITH THE PRICES.

A fall in the price of Hardware, at L. D. Barthelonew's.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

THE OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE sold and kept for sale. 12

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dreadful disease by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge,) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, and all throat and lung affections, will please address Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

$66 week at home. Most costly free. Particulars free. Address H. HALLETT & CO., Portland, Maine. 52

Catarrh Cure

Is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will refund the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. It has not blistered Snuff. Not a powder. Not a douche. Not painful. Not a syringe. Not intrusive as douchers. It has not got it, and to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and direction for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by his advertisement can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 43 Cedar St., New York.

E. T. BROWN & CO.

Threshing Engines,

Portable and Stationary

Engines,

SAW MILLS, THRESHERS, MILL SUPPLIES.

The Best Saw Mill in the World for the Money.

(BARGAINS IN SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.)

WRITE FOR PRICES AND CATALOGUE

West Bridge Street.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., July 3, 1884.

Provision Market.

Retail prices in consumers, as corrected every Wednesday evening by UPRIGHT, EMERY & CO., general dealers:

FLOUR, per bbl, $5.00, $6.50, and $7.00.
CORN MEAL, per cwt, bolted $2.00; unbolted, $1.90.
HAY, per ton, $9@$10.
OATS, per bu, 30@35c.
GROUND FEED, per cwt, $1.40@1.45.
POTATOES, per bu, 30@35c.
ONIONS, per bu, $1.00.
BUTTER, per lb, 20@25c.
EGGS, per doz, 8c.
LARD, per lb, 12@15c.
HAMS, per lb, Shoulders, 12c.
SALT PORK, 10c; Dry Salt Side, 12; Beef, 8c.
MAN'L FILLS, per lb, 18c.
CHEESE, 12c.
WALTON'S BEST OIL, 25c.
FARMERS' PRODUCE in good demand.

Fresh Meats from the Market.

CORRECTED BY G. W. JEFFERSON.

MEAT, beef steak, 12@18c; fresh pork, 12@ [illegible]; sausage, 15c; hams, 15c; shoulders, 10c; rib meat, 8c.
TALLOW, 6@8c.

Local News Brevities.

☞ Calling cards at this office.

Dance at the opera house tomorrow.

Mrs. L. E. Allen is on the sick list this week.

L. L. Carr receives fresh fruits by every boat.

The Sheboygan mill at Boyne is running again.

The Rochester Silk Co. is pronounced a fraud.

The roller rink at Boyne will be opened on the fourth.

S. M. Moore, of Chicago, is at the Chicago Club house.

The managers of the opera house dance deserve success.

Painters are at work on Fox's new store building this week.

Z. N. Garlant and wife, of Boyne, gave us a call on Tuesday.

Capt. H. S. Stevens, is suffering with a felon on his thumb.

Religious services at Chapman's hall, Bay Springs, next Sunday.

Mrs. G. Daniels, of Cadillac, visited friends in Charlevoix over Sunday.

Rev. H. C. Schofield, of South Arm, made the JOURNAL a call on Tuesday.

Fred Hurd, of Saline, visited with E. M. Clark a few days this week.

R. H. Dougall advertises skating and dancing alternately all day on the fourth.

D. S. Way exhibits a well made photo of Chapman's hotel at Bay Springs.

☞ "Yes George, I bought my roller skates at L. D. Bartholomew's only, $3.50 per pair.

The ladies of the M. E. church will hold a Sunday school festival some evening next week.

Arlen Howard started yesterday for a visit among his friends in Saline, Washtenaw county.

O. S. Wisner will read a poem at Boyne City, as a part of the exercises celebrating the fourth.

Holmes & Mann's pavilion show is advertised for one entertainment in Charlevoix this evening.

☞ Have you seen Mrs. Clifford's house? It is painted with the Sherman & Williams's paints.

J. R. and W. F. Palmeter, and Will Rogers, of East Jordan, were among our callers last Saturday.

Mr. J. S. Smithson, of the Chicago resort, will occupy the pulpit at the opera house next Sunday.

Jefferies & Decker advertise by bills to deliver groceries, meats, fish, and vegetables free of charge.

The windows for the Norwood church were shipped from the Charlevoix factory last Saturday.

Mrs. Jennie McBeth and children, of Clinton, Ind., are visiting her brother, H. S. Harden, this week.

A party from Galesburg, Ills., are expected at A. R. Upright's next week, to remain during the season.

F. J. Smith has purchased the Nellie Booth, and will run her on the Boyne City route to carry the mail.

We are receiving large invoices of goods weekly and study the interests of everybody. Upright, Emery & Co.

A. R. Upright's large and well furnished residence is a source of much pleasure and comfort to those who avail themselves of his hospitality during the summer season.

Levi Metz, of Rock Elm, was one of our callers on Tuesday. He reports crops suffering for want of rain.

The M. W. Wright is laid up for repairs this week, but Captain Bennett hopes to have her out again in a few days.

☞ A. F. Draper, says it is the intention of Upright Emery & Co. to make a specialty of doors, windows, and shingles.

Mr. Henry Moore and Miss E. J. Goodhew, were married last Sunday afternoon, by Rev. C. F. VanAuken, at his residence.

The ladies of the Congregational society will occupy the store room of Amos Fox's new building as a dining hall on the fourth.

The Boise spindle factory at Bay Springs is nearly enclosed, and the boiler is ready to be tested when the smoke stack is finished.

A. F. Stover saw two tramps trying to enter a neighboring house about four o'clock Saturday morning. They made themselves scarce at once.

Our officers and citizens should make it decidedly hot for those fellows who prowl around nights, prying into stores, shops, residences, etc.

Mrs. S. T. Glover, son and daughter, of St. Louis, Mo., who have been stopping at A. R. Upright's for ten days past, started for Grand Rapids on Tuesday.

Wm. Withers fell with a scaffold while lathing at the new congregational church yesterday morning, and broke his left leg below the knee. He was attended by Dr. Graves.

—To the resorters and others, Upright, Emery & Co. are at the front with a new delivery wagon and look after the interests of their patrons with promptness and despatch.

Three men were seen leaving the little island Tuesday morning, with the blue skiff afterwards found at two mile point by Messrs. H. Wade and Harvey and George Wilson.

Is there any good reason why a fruit and lemonade stand should run full blast all day Sunday, and a fruit, grocery, or other provision store along side be compelled to close?

Poor Bonteemé! One would think from reading the last Petoskey Record that its editor had been swindled by a soulless fruit man filling the bottoms instead of the tops of strawberry boxes.

The Charlevoix Savings Bank, with a capital of $25,000, is an institution now being organized under the state law. It will do business at present in the rooms now occupied by the M. & F. bank.

—Upright, Emery & Co., have remodeled the hall above their store and converted it into a ware room, where they have a full line of doors and windows, which they offer for sale at prices which astonish the natives.

Willis F. Cornell, and old Lansing boy, and founder of several printing offices, passed through Charlevoix last Friday. He is now traveling for Shniedewind & Lee, dealers in printing presses and material, Chicago.

There has been a change of time on the G. R. & I. R. R. Trains arrive at Petoskey from the south at 3.45 p. m., 6.36 a. m., and 6.33 p. m., and depart, going south, at 10.47 p. m., 8.28 a. m., and 7.30 a. m. The full corrected table will appear next week.

Three sons of H. N. Higginbotham, with Field, Marshall & Co., Chicago, were on the Paxton yesterday morning, on the way to the Jordan to engage in trout-fishing. They were joined at this place by John Mobilleau who will act as guide and boatman.

J. S. Wyckoff has fitted up the room recently occupied by D. C. Bacon, in Bell's building, for a restaurant. He will keep fine confectionary, fruits, ice cream, home-made bread, cakes, and pies, and a fresh supply of D. C. Bacon's pure sugar confectionery. Here's hoping he will succeed.

Services at M. E. church next Sunday morning. Subject of discourse "The footprints of law in the spirit and being," John 15: 10. At night a sermon under the auspices of the women's christian temperance union. It is at the usual time of our monthly union temperance meeting. All are invited.

H. Wade and Harvey and George Wilson, were out near two mile point (south) yesterday morning, and found six blank books,—four large and two small ones,—and a good quilt, hid in the brush. They were brought to Justice McLeod's office.

The need of a good lock up was never more apparent than at present, when the country is infested with hoboes, vagrants, etc. They have little fear of our present accommodations, escape being so easy, and besides, the expense of keeping is very great.

A sixteen foot skiff, painted blue, with one pair of oars in our locks, two quilts, a piece of canvas, and several pieces of cooking utensils, were found at two-mile point, Tuesday evening. The initials, E. N. G. under the seat of the boat, had been partially erased.

The excursions given by Paxton up the Arm last summer, called the attention of hundreds of people to our resources who would not in any other manner have known what this country is. The same thing is being done this summer; and their popularity is daily increasing.

Edwin Cook of Norwood, remembered the printer last week with a fine mess of strawberries and green peas from his own garden. The strawberries were a little ahead of any we have seen this season, and the peas were the first. Northern Michigan will not take a back seat for anyone.

The Detroit Free Press says that Rev. Kendall Brooks, D. D., president of Kalamazoo College, has returned home much improved in health by his European trip. He will spend the summer at Charlevoix, and resume his old duties at Kalamazoo in the fall, with a new lease of life.

In the Ironton items last week it was stated that Thos. Brown assaulted Wm. Henry. This is a mistake. The item was originally written "Thos. Brown was assaulted by Wm. Henry." As printed the item is unjust to Mr. Brown, and we hope this correction will be satisfactory.

Mr. Joseph Steele, of Chicago, son of Capt. Steele, master in chancery of the superior court of that city, arrived on the Lawrence Sunday. He will devote two or three weeks fishing, making his headquarters at Stimson's. His mother and sister spent a portion of last summer here.

The Clara Belle has had her upper deck removed, increasing her seaworthiness, and will add Beaver Island to her route, taking two days for the round trip. During the resort season this should be the most popular route on these lakes, and we hope the change will prove a profitable investment for her owners.

It has been suggested that a market room or shed would be a desirable feature of the proposed new town hall, for the purpose of making a headquarters for farmers and their customers, when disposing of wood, hay, vegetables, and produce generally. The cost of the necessary building would not be great, and its convenience and value will be conceded by all who give the subject attention.

Three suspicious looking vagrants were arrested on the beach of lake Michigan Tuesday afternoon. Examination before justice McLeod failed to prove anything against them, and two are discharged; the other was held until Wednesday morning, and is now in jail. During the day various persons were offering blank books for sale, and it is believed they were all connected in one gang.

Arrivals at the Charlevoix resort include the following: Katie and Blanche Weimer, of Kalamazoo, on the 20th; H. D. Lord, of New York city, Mrs. D. H. Lord, of Howard City, Samuel Brooks and family, and Mrs. Allen Potter, of Kalamazoo, on the 27th; Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Wood, of Ann Arbor, Bertha and Beatrice Barden, of Syracuse, N. Y., and F. R. Mills, G. I. Allen and Mrs. S. A. Gibson, of Kalamazoo, on July 2d.

In northern Michigan there is a large area of land known as "plains," which is said to be poor land and not tillable. A movement is on foot to induce the legislature to establish an experimental farm at Baldwin, Lake county, and determine by experiment what can be raised upon it. If something could be raised upon this soil there would be thousands of acres brought into the market cheap.—Evening News.

Our Population.

Through the courtesy of county clerk Upright we are enabled to give the official returns from the census enumerators of the entire county of Charlevoix, by villages and townships. For the purpose of comparison we include the population of 1880, by townships, as follows:

	1880.	1884.
Bear Lake	266	328
Boyne Valley	434	593
Charlevoix	519	1,036
Charlevoix	429	1,236
Evangeline	567	1,267
Eveline	631	1,376
Hayes	167	193
Hudson	208	317
Marion	188	11
Norwood	70	97
Norwood	206	623
Round		111
South Arm	257	1,26[illegible]
Springvale	580	392
Wilson	361	504
Totals	5,145	9,235

The population of villages is as follows:

Charlevoix	1,198
Boyne Falls	75
Boyne City	252
Bay Springs	13
Horton's Bay	7
Norwood	141
South Arm	149
South Lake (East Jordan)	1,[illegible]
Ironton	94
Norwood	19

Bold Burglars.

On Thursday night the residence of Dr. Chamberlin, of Norwood, was entered by burglars, who helped themselves freely to bread, meat, and canned fruit. On Friday night the house was again visited, this time taking clothes, a rubber coat, and a watch. The same night the store of Gnyles & Nash and the house Geo. Guyles were entered. From the store they took two coats, one containing a letter and $11.00 in money which was to have been registered the following day. From the house a $30 wolf robe was taken. On the same night Mr. H. Moore lost a horse and buggy, and found Dr. Chamberlin's coat in his barn. The horse was afterward found between Norwood and Charlevoix, but the buggy is still missing. On Saturday two fellows were arrested at Petoskey and brought here for trial. They were locked in rooms at the Fountain City house, but one of them escaped by making a rope of the bed clothes and dropping himself out of the third story window. He has not since been recaptured. The other was discharged for want of proof.

M. E. Church.

M. E. church, Pastor and Congregation, most cordially invite all strangers, and resorters, to participate in the services held each Sabbath, morning and evening. All who are not otherwise engaged, will be welcomed; with the assurance, that a pleasant time, will be had. The Sabbath school, is quite a factor, in the enjoyableness of each Sabbath service. J. T. JENKINS, Pastor.

A PRIZE. Send six cents for postage and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to make money right along fast of anything else in this world. All of either sex, succeed from the first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the worker, absolutely sure. Address, TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine. 1w1

Extra copies of the JOURNAL for sale at Wood's drug store.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Offer a full and fresh line of

DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, &C.

At Very Low Prices.

Headquarters for

Groceries and Provisions.

Call for the Belding Flour.

Sole Agency for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

NEW FIRM. NEW GOODS

F. G. HINES & CO.,

A Complete Stock of

DRUGS AND STATIONERY

Bridge Street, Carpenter Building.

A share of the Patronage of Charlevoix and Vicinity Respectfully solicited.

Prescriptions Carefully Compounded.

LIVING PRICES. POLITE ATTENTION

HEADQUARTERS

FOR

Plows, Harrows,

Horse Rakes,

And everything in the Agricultural Implement line.

Examine and be Convinced:

The No. 10 Champion Plow, "Best in the World." The Gale Plow. The Oliver Chilled Plow. The Gale Horse Rake. The Albion Mfg. Co.'s New Horse Rake. The Osborne No. 7 Mower, light and strong. The Buchanan Wagon.

IN HARDWARE

We do not imitate; we lead. We positively guarantee our GOODS and PRICES. We ask kindly for our proportion of your patronage.

May 22, 1884. STOCKMAN & IDDINGS.

CHINTZ.

In dim mysterious folds you lie,
In tender mellow and decay,
Upon the shelves of Grandmamma's
Behind some enchanting opens.

Some delicate vine your stamens wave
Till lost in flecksen client seas,
And cherubim, wound in fairy skeins,
Zip valleys Japanese.

Your scenes speak primely opulence,
As smile sans strife you flower wine,
And gild with strange magnificence
Your dreamful peacock dyes.

You seem wedded deep by lotus scent,
In drinks rainbow-hued moonshine dak;
You waft me to the Orient
Whenever I pause and think.

Of damsels quiet with love; and ever
Thou art to me, to secure dead,
The good years in a city-goods store,
At dollars two per week.

A WILLFUL FLIRTATION.

BY SARA B. ROSE.

Aunt Rosie and myself had been the first to emigrate to my brother's new residence which stood by the seashore, quite a distance from any village. We intended to have the place entirely set to rights before the arrival of Leslie and Letty, for my little sister-in-law would have with her the little six-weeks-old heir to the "House of Yorke," as I laughingly called our family name, and Leslie wished everything to be as pleasant as might be when Lettie first saw our summer resort. We had succeeded beyond our best expectations, and a week saw our pleasant summer cottage all straightened and ready for the occupants, but we had been given two weeks in which to finish our work, as I had one week left me in which to get into mischief.

There was "a lad I left behind me," who dwell in the city where my brother resided, a handsome, jerky-haired darling, but oh, he was the plague of my life, always getting into flirtations if he even crossed the street, and he made my life a burden to the "mashes" he was ever making, in the cars, and every place where his handsome face was seen.

Now I had always done my best to keep even with him in this line, and had even went so far as to write a few letter to myself, in order to make him jealous, and I will allow you to judge if I succeeded, for when I showed it to him I expressed the highest admiration for the style and sentiment, and he replied:

"It's just some girl, or colored "aintah," I believe."

"Indeed! Well I shall answer it and so:

"That would be the best thing you could do. Get your paper and I'll help you compose it, and then I'll drop it in the office for you."

"You you would! You'd tear it up and then he never would get it."

"No, I wouldn't, and now since you have doubled my honor, I won't touch it at all. But I'd like to see what you write to him."

"Very well," I returned, for I thought I saw a way to touch him a little, so I brought my paper immediately.

"How would you commence?" I asked, as I sat, pen in hand, and loved with the box of paper. "Would it do to say, 'Sweet, but unknown one?'"

"Well, that might do, but is hardly ardent enough. If I were you I would say, 'My adored and adoring lover?'"

"But he wrote 'My adored Maud.' It would never do to copy right after him."

"Wouldn't it? Ha! ha! ha! Oh, Maudie, it's too thin, too thin, too thin."

"What do you mean?" I asked, with an attempt at dignity.

"Why you little goose, don't you suppose I know you write it yourself, before I found this?"

And if you will believe it, the provoking fellow had actually found the sheet upon which I had practiced my "original hand," together with the first draft of that awful letter.

I was so angry I could have slapped his face, but, luckily, at that moment Leslie came in, and, after he had gone, Archie talked so nicely, and never mentioned that horrid letter, and gave me a lovely diamond ring he had brought me for my engagement ring, that I forgot all about it. But after that I got up all the real flirtations that was possible, from Mike, the porter, to a purple old baronet who once attended the same church that I did.

And I had not forgotten it when I went down into the country, either, and I have always told Archie he was entirely responsible for what happened that dreadful evening.

"Go long, chile, now, and put on your pretty white dress and blue ribbons, and go down to the shore a spell, if you want to; I've got all the work done now," said Aunt Rosie.

So I ran off upstairs to my little little white chamber, and dressed myself, as she had told me; then I took my white garden hat, with the wreath around it, and my large blue satin sunshade, and ran down again.

"Do I look pretty, Aunt Rosie?" I asked, as I stood for a moment upon the piazza.

"Just like a posey, Miss Maudie, and your eyes look just like them forget-me-nots there," returned she, pointing to the flower-beds.

I smiled back my thanks for this complimentary speech, and the kind face of the colored woman disappeared from the window, and I walked slowly off down to the seashore, wishing that Archie was with me; for I was really fond of him, although he tormented me so, and then I grew interested in a great steamer which was steaming in only just far out at sea, and the first I knew I was among the sands upon the shore.

There had been a storm a few days before, and the shore was strewn with bits of broken and torn seaweed, and all the other debris which old Ocean throws up at such times.

I picked up a brilliant sea-shell, and, fired into ambition by this, I took up a stick and began a thorough search, turning over every little pile of rubbish which I met with in my walk. All at once I felt a sort of magnetic thrill which told me some one was looking at me, and I looked up to see a group of four ladies, each with a book in her hand, and all regarding me with amused looks. I stooped short, but the oldest of the ladies came bravely to the rescue.

"You are Miss Maudie Yorke, I am very sure," she said, pleasantly, "of the little cottage over there among the trees."

"I am," I replied, regaining my equanimity; and the lady again spoke:

"I suppose it would be only right to inform you of the names we are blessed with, since we have the advantage of you. I am Mrs. Agnes Atwell. This is Miss Etta Lansing, Miss Ida Evarts, Miss Ella Evarts—Miss Yorke. We are your nearest neighbors," she ended, and, "and I will own to having coveted your new cottage ever since I heard you were here, for it is very lonely with no company at the seaside, after the excitement of the city."

I responded as politely as I was able, and the young ladies were very pleasant. I found Mrs. Atwell an old acquaintance of my sister-in-law, and, as I had heard Letty mention the name of Agnes Atwell, I was seen at home among friends.

"Come home with us to tea," begged Mrs. Atwell, as the bands of my watch pointed toward five o'clock. "We will take no refusal, for I know you are alone with the servants."

Thus importuned I was soon walking toward Mrs. Atwell's cottage by her side, and the three girls chatting gaily behind us.

"The young ladies have been practicing are cry," she said, as we went through the pleasant grounds. "Do you ever use the bow and arrow?"

"Yes," I answered, delightedly, "I think it the nicest of all out-door exercises."

"Ella, do you?" cried Ella Evarts, behind me. "Then do let's show a little now."

"I have not hit the target once since I have been here," said Ida.

They had an original sort of a game, and their target was a large board fastened up against a tree.

"We are but beginners, Miss Yorke," said Etta Lansing, apologetically; and then Mrs. Atwell left us, leaving me to the care of the young ladies. We sauntered ourselves with the bows and arrows for a short time, and then the three carried me off to look at a tiny aquarium, for which they declared they had spent a fortune in shells and fishes.

"There! I caught that my turtle!" cried Ella.

"Nellie mtch, only I notices every time he looks at you he turns turns a reddish-green, and it's my opinion the boy is a little crecked in the upper story."

I laughed heartily at Aunt Rosie's opinion, and although I did not exactly think so she did, I really wish he was little more "the hard kind" of a lover to confront by intended with, but at least he was as nice as that Irene Andersen was, that rude sort a dead-set at Archie last summer. My reflections were cut short by the entrance of an gin sts, the three girls as Mr. Fred Atwell. Mrs. Atwell was indisposed, the young ladies said. We passed a very pleasant afternoon, and the girls started for home about dark, but Fred made me move to go with them.

"Come Fred," said Ida, "it is time we were going."

"You can go, if you wish. I shall spend the evening with Miss Maudie."

"But we don't wish to go home alone," cried Ella.

"Don't you?" answered Fred, indifferently.

"No, Fred," said Etta. "We can't possibly go home without you; here is your hat."

"You may put it back again. I intend to remain awhile longer," said I, and I smiled a peculiar smile in his disfigured eyes.

"But we promised Mrs. Atwell we bring you home with us," said Etta, earnestly.

"I believe I am able to care for myself," he said, so sulkily that the girls left him to himself.

I noticed the girls looked at each other strongly, and seemed reluctant to leave me. I urged them to remain, but they departed hurriedly, as I thought, as I watched them from the window.

"What a strange lot of young folks there be," said Aunt Rosie, in my ear, when I joined her. "I guess the girls chatting place behind us."

"The young ladies have been practicing are cry," she said, as we went through the pleasant grounds. "Do you ever use the bow and arrow?"

"Yes," I answered, delightedly, "I think it the nicest of all out-door exercises."

"Ella, do you?" cried Ella Evarts, behind me. "Then do let's show a little now."

"I have not hit the target once since I have been here," said Ida.

They had an original sort of a game, and their target was a large board fastened up against a tree.

"We are but beginners, Miss Yorke," said Etta Lansing, apologetically; and then Mrs. Atwell left us, leaving me to the care of the young ladies. We sauntered ourselves with the bows and arrows for a short time, and then the three carried me off to look at a tiny aquarium, for which they declared they had spent a fortune in shells and fishes.

"There! I caught that my turtle!" cried Ella.

"Nellie mtch, only I notices every time he looks at you he turns turns a reddish-green, and it's my opinion the boy is a little crecked in the upper story."

I laughed heartily at Aunt Rosie's opinion, and although I did not exactly think so she did, I really wish he was little more "the hard kind" of a lover to confront by intended with, but at least he was as nice as that Irene Andersen was, that rude sort a dead-set at Archie last summer. My reflections were cut short by the entrance of an gin sts, the three girls as Mr. Fred Atwell. Mrs. Atwell was indisposed, the young ladies said. We passed a very pleasant afternoon, and the girls started for home about dark, but Fred made me move to go with them.

"Come Fred," said Ida, "it is time we were going."

"You can go, if you wish. I shall spend the evening with Miss Maudie."

"But we don't wish to go home alone," cried Ella.

"Don't you?" answered Fred, indifferently.

"No, Fred," said Etta. "We can't possibly go home without you; here is your hat."

"You may put it back again. I intend to remain awhile longer," said I, and I smiled a peculiar smile in his disfigured eyes.

"But we promised Mrs. Atwell we bring you home with us," said Etta, earnestly.

"I believe I am able to care for myself," he said, so sulkily that the girls left him to himself.

I noticed the girls looked at each other strongly, and seemed reluctant to leave me. I urged them to remain, but they departed hurriedly, as I thought, as I watched them from the window.

"What a strange lot of young folks there be," said Aunt Rosie, in my ear, "I guess the girls chatting place behind us."

"Ha! ha! Ha! How should you?" he laughed, strangely.

"When you know and that I am the great King Cyclops—greatest of all the giants—you will be a judge of a man's nature, no matter how outwardly he may be from the sky—the gift of a flower the same of which is unknown to me. Then from out the grass shine everywhere small bright flowers of many colors, among them a delicate blossom, a blossom bravely lifting its head up on a slender stalk. And there are other blossoms, but less beautiful, and there are many flowers of many colors, among them a blossom, a blossom bravely lifting its head up on a slender stalk. Now, I ask you, which of these blossoms is most worthy of

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., July 5, 1884.

Around the County.

Sunday School Convention.

The sixth annual meeting of the Charlevoix county Sunday school Association was held in the M. E. church, Ironton, on Wednesday, June 25th. On account of sickness in his family, the president, Rev. J. Red path, of Boyne Falls, was not present, but the chair was ably filled by Rev. Wm. Norton, the vice president.

The subjects discussed were well handled, and reports were received from the greater part of the Sunday schools in the county.

The district school of Ironton came to the children's meeting in procession, and their attention and good behavior was a marked feature of the convention.

Want of time kept many earnest workers from speaking their thoughts, but all agreed that this was the largest and most interesting meeting of the association since its organization.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows.

President.—Rev. Wm. Norton, of Boyne City.

Vice President.—T. C. Bird, of Ironton.

Secretary and Treasurer.—B. Suffield, of Charlevoix.

Burgess.

Good corn weather.

Haying has commenced in Hayes.

The day we celebrate,—next Friday.

Green peas and new potatoes for the fourth of July.

New arrival in Hayes, at the house of Joseph Lewis, Jr.,—a boy and Joe is happy.

It would be well to put a bell on some of the Charlevoix people, when they wander off up in the woods in Hayes.

Miss Lizzie Willis had a sister visiting her from Cheboygan this week, she came on account of her poor health.

There has been lots of improvements on the highways in Hayes the last week, thanks to our efficient highway commissioner.

If some of the worldly minded people of Hayes would do less work on Sunday, and more on some other days it would be just as well.

George Banks thinks it is queer this, a well educated man should live to be 32 years old before he found out what day was the Sabbath.

South Arm.

Mrs. Broughman and son visited at Boyne City last week.

Quite a number of persons here are suffering with bad colds.

Mrs. Miles had an attack of heart disease last week but is recovering.

Elder Blake did not fill his appointment here on account of the quarterly meeting at Ironton on Sabbath last.

The familiar whistle of the Clara Belle is missed now, but we hope to see her soon in running order again.

The South Arnites that took in the Sunday school convention at Ironton, report a pleasant and profitable occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Vance, of this place, celebrated their wooden wedding at Mrs. V's parents in Echo, June 28th.

Mrs. Rushey aged sixty-six died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Cummins, on Saturday night after three weeks illness. The funeral is to be held to day at the school house.

Council Proceedings.

At the meeting last Thursday evening, $10 were appropriated to clear a place in the village park for holding Fourth of July services.

Bill of Thos. Shier, for building crosswalks, amounting to $10.65, was allowed and ordered paid.

J. R. Dixon offered to give a warranty deed of lot three, Dixon's addition, for use as a street, if the council will pay Wm. Colgrove the sum of $50.

It was moved and adopted that an extra tax of $1,500.00 be raised to meet the necessary expenses of the village for the ensuing year.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, by the common council of the village of Charlevoix, that the village of Charlevoix raise the sum of $7,000 by loan, secured by the bonds of the said village of Charlevoix, payable in not less than ten years, for the purpose of purchasing a lot and erecting thereon a brick building to be used as a village hall, lock-up, and engine house.

Resolved, further, that a special election of the legal voters of said village of Charlevoix be held on Monday, the 21st day of July, A. D. 1884, for the purpose of determining whether such loan shall be made or not, and that the contents of the ballots used at said election shall be "For the Loan," and "Against the Loan," * * *

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix	6 30 a. m	2 00 p. m.
Arrive East Jordan	8 30 a. m	4 00 p. m.
Leave East Jordan	9 00 a. m	4 30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	11 00 a. m	6 30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. A. H. Bennett

Leave East Jordan	7 00 am	Harbor Springs 1 30pm
Charlevoix	9 00am	Petoskey 2 00pm
Petoskey	11 00am	Charlevoix 4 30pm
Harbor Springs	12 30pm	East Jordan 6 30pm

Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. E. Thompson.

Lv Boyne	7 00am	Lv Charlevoix	7 00am
Ar Charlevoix	9 30am	Ar Boyne	9 30am

Stopping at intermediate points.

HANNAH, LAY & COMPANY'S STEAMER LINE,

SEASON OF 1884.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,

CAPT. O. E. WILSON.

GOING NORTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.		GOING SOUTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.
P'M	Leave	P'M	Leave
Traverse City	7 00am	St. Ignace	5 30am
Charlevoix	10 30am	Mackinaw City	7 30am
Charlevoix	12 00m	Cross Village	10 00am
Petoskey	2 00pm	Harbor Springs	12 30pm
Harbor Springs	2 45pm	Petoskey	1 30pm
Cross Village	5 00pm	Charlevoix	3 30pm
Mackinaw City	8 00pm	Northport	6 00pm
Arriving at		Arriving at
St. Ignace	10 00pm	Traverse City	8 30pm

T. S. PAXTON,

CAPT. A. E. AUBREY.

GOING NORTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.		GOING SOUTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.
P'M	Leave	P'M	Leave
Traverse City	2 00am	Harbor Springs	6 00am
Elk Rapids	4 00am	Petoskey	7 30am
Elk Rapids	10 00am	Charlevoix	9 30am
Petoskey	11 00am	East Jordan (or Boyne)	8 00am
Harbor Springs	12 30pm	Charlevoix (returning)	11 30am
Charlevoix	2 00pm	Norwood	1 00pm
East Jordan (returning)	3 00pm	Elk Rapids	2 00pm
Charlevoix (returning)	5 00pm	Old Mission	3 30pm
Petoskey	6 30pm	Arriving at
Arriving at		Traverse City	6 00pm
Harbor Springs	7 00pm

CROSS CONNECTIONS.

Will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on C. & G. R. & I. R. R.; also on on Monday mornings between the City of Traverse from Chicago and the City of Grand Rapids going north; and on Wednesday evenings between the T. S. Paxton going south and the City of Traverse to Chicago.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.

For You

NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.

THE ILLUSTRATED

BIOGRAPHICAL

1884. ANNUAL. 1884.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR.

It contains something for everybody. Its pages are entertaining and instructive. It is invaluable to the Doctor, the Clergyman, the lawyer, the Editor, the Statesman, the Student, the Politician, the Merchant, the Mechanic and in all School Rooms who hope to lay the foundation of an honest character and seek for models to pattern after.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.

Within its pages may be found nearly

200 PORTRAITS, MEN AND WOMEN who have exercised and are still exerting great influence in various directions.

While preeminently an American publication, giving prominently of EMINENT AMERICANS, it also contains the portraits of some of the PROMINENT EUROPEANS of the day.

His pages familiarize the reader with the features and the lives of prominent Crowned and Uncrowned Rulers, Statesmen, Warriors, Orators, Congressmen, Governors, Ministers, Railroad Magnates, Artists, Editors, Philanthropists, Philosophers, Poets, Inventors, Advocates, Irish Agitators, Captains of Industry, Judges, Philanthropists, Orators, Bishops and Divines in all the various walks of life, INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES,

AMONG WHOM WE MAY MENTION BLAINE, CLEVELAND, BEECHER, BEAUCHAMP, MORRISON, LOGAN, EDMUNDS, BAYARD, ALLEN, BUTLER, SHERMAN, TILDEN, HENDRICKS, HOLMAN, LOGAN, PAYNE and HAMPTON.

EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.

Catholics and Protestants, whether Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Methodists, Lutherans, Baptists or Reformists, will find within the numerous classes, ample reason why THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL may familiar from the owners of which have unbounded influence in thousands of their fellow men. The lives of the PROMINENT WOMEN which occupy so important place in this universally interesting volume, constitute a series of most interesting biographies, and will endear the reader that woman (as a noble mission) and that she is well able to fulfill it.

If you would become acquainted with the faces and careers of the men and women whose names have become familiar to everybody, get a copy of THE

BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL

Sent postpaid on receipt of ONE DOLLAR.

J. L. McDONALD & Co., Publishers, Rooms 23 White Street, New York.

SAVINGS BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.

DEPOSITS RECEIVED UPWARD ERASERS. Deposits will be received from one dollar upwards. Interest at the rate of Five per cent interest payable January and July. Property held by law to protect our depositors. All Securities for deposits. Stockholders are personally liable for deposits beyond amount of stock held by them in proportion to their shares. Special care is taken to secure their bills in circulation. Special attention to collections. We do not speculate, but do a safe business. Money is safe, and we make it safe to deposit with us. It is Solid, and we make it Solid.

DIRECTORS: CHAS. J. STRANG, WM. SHIPMAN, H. L. SLOVER, JAS. MASON, A. A. SHEPARD, JOHN MITCHELL, JOHN SHEARER, JOHN W. SPENCER, JAMES SHEARER, JR., WM. SAUNDERS, JOHN STONE, JR., JAMES SHEARER.

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGeagh's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS,

Patent Medicines, all Kinds,

Imported and Domestic Perfumery,

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Rathbone's new

Opera Block

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR.

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co's mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

JOSEPH HYLAND,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Boiler Maker,

Sheet-Iron Worker,

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Horse shoeing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

OLD NEWSPAPERS FOR SALE

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitings,

Boots and Shoes.

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at actual cost, as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. Remember, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark.

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 52. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JULY 10, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

is published every Thursday morning,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office over T. D. Smith's grocery,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Business Directory.

ATTORNEYS.

CRUTCHSHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law. Office in Insurance Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

A. D. CRUTCHSHANK. C. A. GRIER.

HART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake st., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FOGG & ALDRICH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

H. A. JERSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office on Lake st., Boyne, Mich.

HILL & NEWBERRY, Attorneys at Law, and Circuit Court Commissioners. Office in bank building, corner Mitchell St. Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

NORTON, KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law. Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

OSCAR F. WINNER, Attorney and Solicitor, and U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

ZN. GARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX. Capital $50,000. Loans and discounts at lowest rates. Exchange notes and mortgages bought and sold. Drafts sold on all cities in Europe and United States. Passenger and Railroad tickets sold to and from all parts of Europe. $100,000 to loan on first mortgages.

SILAS WILLIS & DAVIS.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 A. M. and 7 P. M. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30. H. T. SAMPSON, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 A. M. and 7 P. M. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.

J. T. HOBBS, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX HOOD AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet every Saturday night, at thirteen hot.

H. P. BOSHER, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

B. SUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. MILO EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class Horses and Carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

J. A. CARLSTEIN, M. D.

Office at the Ingleside.

J. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. C. GRAVES, M. D. Office and residence one door west of Bank of Charlevoix.

W. H. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homœopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Butler Post No. 119, meets second and fourth Monday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 327, meets every Friday evening, in Harrington's hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 203, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

I. O. O. F.—True Blue No. 157, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 382, meets on Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over Bank.

VETERINARY SURGEON.

CHAS. BANBURY, V. S. Office at Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

WELL DIGGING.

FRANK DURGA, Charlevoix, Mich., will attend promptly to all work in the line of well digging, cistern building, pump repairing, well stoning, cellar building, and similar work. 49

A. BUTTARS, President. A. R. TUBBY, Vice President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money to loan on approved paper at reasonable rates. Deposits received. Collections given careful attention and remittances made promptly.

G. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

O. W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. Any article of Jewelry made to order. AGATES AND ONYXES cut to order. 3

PIMPLES

I will mail (Free) the recipe for a simple Vegetable Salve that will remove TAN, PIMPLES, FIRE-PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful. This Salve is unlike all others, is a luxurious cosmetic, and will be sent free to any address, including a 3c. stamp. Mrs. VANDEL & Co., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

10 CENTS a month will pay for the JOURNAL during the campaign. Begin now.

NOTICE is hereby given that on or about May 20, 1884, two yearling colts, or thereabouts, both colts are bright bay with black mane and tail, one colt is of good size, the other is a large native mare colt. Stayed upon my inclosed land in the township of Eden, Mich., over 20 and now remain upon my premises.

Dated Bear Lake this 10th day of June 1884.

E. C. PORTEFIELD.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss.—Notice is hereby given, that by an order of the Probate Court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the twelfth day of May, A. D. 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of Harriet N. Tillinghast, deceased, late of said county, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate Court, at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and allowance, on or before the first day of December next, and that said Probate Court will meet at the Probate Court, on Monday, the first day of September, and on Monday, the first day of December next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of these days.

Dated May 12th, A. D. 1884.

JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss.—Notice is hereby given, that by an order of the Probate Court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the twelfth day of May, A. D. 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of Benjamin Walker, late of said county, deceased, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate Court, at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and allowance, on or before the first day of December next, and that said Probate Court will meet at the Probate Court, on Monday, the first day of September, and on Monday, the first day of December next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of these days.

Dated May 12th, A. D. 1884.

JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix, ss.—At a session of the probate court for said county of Charlevoix, held at the office in the village of Charlevoix, on the twelfth day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Keat, Judge of probate. In the matter of the estate of CHARLOTTE BOWDISH, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Albert Bowdish, administrator of said estate, praying that certain real estate might be sold to pay debts. Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the 14th day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the several heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden in the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the several persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

(A true copy.) JAMES A. KEAT,

35-36 Judge of Probate.

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix	6 30 a. m	2 00 p. m.
Arrive East Jordan	8 30 a. m	4 00 p. m.
Leave East Jordan	9 00 a. m	4 30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	11 00 a. m	6 30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan and Charlevoix.

Str. M. W. WRIGHT—Capt. J. J. Bennett.

LEAVE	A M	P M	ARRIVE	A M	P M
East Jordan	7:00	1:30	Charlevoix	9:30	4:00
Charlevoix	9:30	4:00	East Jordan	11:35	6:00

Stopping at intermediate points.

Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. E. Thompson.

Lv Boyne	7:00am	Lv Charlevoix	7:00am
Ar Charlevoix	9:30am	Ar Boyne	4:00pm

Stopping at intermediate points.

Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Steamer NELLIE BRITH—Capt. Frank Cutler.

Leave Boyne	9 30 a. m
Arrive Charlevoix	12 00 m
Leave Charlevoix	1 30 p. m
Arrive Boyne	4 00 p. m

Carrying the U. S. Mail.

HANNAH, LAY & COMPANY'S STEAMER LINE,

SEASON OF 1884.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,

CAPT. O. E. WILSON.

GOING NORTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.		GOING SOUTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.
P'M	Leave	P'M	Leave
Traverse City	7:00am	St. Ignace	5:30am
Charlevoix	10:30am	Mackinaw City	7:30am
Charlevoix	12:00m	Cross Village	10:00am
Petoskey	2:00pm	Harbor Springs	12:30pm
Harbor Springs	2:45pm	Petoskey	1:30pm
Cross Village	5:00pm	Charlevoix	3:30pm
Mackinaw City	8:00pm	Northport	6:00pm
Arriving at		Arriving at
St. Ignace	10:00pm	Traverse City	8:30pm

T. S. PAXTON,

CAPT. A. E. AUBREY.

GOING NORTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.		GOING SOUTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.
P'M	Leave	P'M	Leave
Traverse City	7:00am	Harbor Springs	6:00am
Elk Rapids	10:00am	Petoskey	7:30am
Elk Rapids	11:00am	Charlevoix	9:30am
Petoskey	12:30pm	East Jordan (or Boyne)	10:00am
Harbor Springs	2:00pm	Charlevoix (returning)	1:00pm
Charlevoix	4:00pm	Norwood	3:00pm
East Jordan (returning)	5:00pm	Elk Rapids	4:00pm
Charlevoix (returning)	7:00pm	Old Mission	5:30pm
Petoskey	8:30pm	Arriving at
Arriving at		Traverse City	6:00pm
Harbor Springs	7:00pm

CROSS CONNECTIONS.

Will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on C. & G. R. & I. R. R.; also on on Monday mornings between the City of Traverse from Chicago and the City of Grand Rapids going north; and on Wednesday evenings between the T. S. Paxton going south and the City of Traverse to Chicago.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.

1872 — 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.

PURITY, POLITENESS.

We make it a point to sell only

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

Our Prices will always be as Low as

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

Can be Sold.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON,

Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations are excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Eagle Hotel,

E. A. H. COLE, PROPRIETOR,

South Arm, Michigan.

A new house, situated west end of bridge. Nearest hotel to Jordan River. Horses and boats for guests. Headquarters for intermediate Lake and Jordan River tourists.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages.

HULBERT HOUSE,

P. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house is centrally located. Good sidewalk from steam boat landing to house.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

WM. J. WEBER, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house has been thoroughly renovated and refitted. Good livery in connection. Good spring ponies. Steamers landing within a "stones throw" of the house. Sample Rooms.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

UNITED STATES HOTEL,

J. J. STEVENS & SON, Proprietors,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

W. F. ORRELL,

HOUSE DECORATOR,

Charlevoix, Mich.

PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.

ARTISTIC PAPER-HANGING.

Finishing Hardwood a Specialty

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TUNGUES, SCHEES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

Fresh Fruits!

A Fine Stock just received

AT L. L. CARR'S.

GET YOUR

Photographs

At D. S. Way's.

HODGE & LITZAU,

Manufacturers and Dealers in

HARNESS, SADDLES

Carry, Curtes, Hearses, Whips, Lasters, Lap Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. Call and see my stock

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in the County. Also agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best time-piece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

Telephone Order

Hello there!

Hello! What is it?

Has your mother got any rags, old rubber, or copper she would like to dispose of? If so, please pick them up and save them, as WILKINSON & SHEPARD of Charlevoix, Mich., will be round in a day or two and get them. 48

HELLO! How Are You?

Of Interest to All.

WE HAVE GROCERIES, MEATS, FISH, AND VEGETABLES, DELIVERED

Free of Charge.

All orders by telephone or Office ways, promptly attended to.

Having placed a Telephone in our market, we can receive and fill orders promptly, with the least possible trouble to our patrons.

Ice Delivered

Every Morning.

Opposite Bridge street house, Charlevoix.

JEFFERIES & DECKER.

Additional Local.

J. J. Bush, of Lansing, is in town recruiting.

The East Jordan dramatic club is advertised for one entertainment at the opera house tonight. They gave excellent satisfaction on their last visit, and no doubt will do so well again.

The M. W. Wright will give an excursion to East Jordan on the 12th, for the benefit of the Orangemen who desire to attend the celebration at that place. Fare 75 cents per capita, round trip.

Mr. Fred A. Smith and Miss Ada E. Bennett were married by Rev. C. P. Van Ackers at the residence of the bride's parents, at 10 o'clock yesterday. They took the steamer City of Grand Rapids for a trip to Mackinac.

On our last page will be found an announcement of an illustrated lecture by J. S. Stallman, of Chicago, for the benefit of the Congregational Church. The subject is one of interest, and the illustrations are shown by means of a magic lantern. We hope to see the opera house filled.

The following receivers are mentioned at the Fountain City house: J. P. Adams, Sandwich, Ill.; J. Morgan, Aurora, Ill.; H. S. Slover, wife and son, Mrs. Jules Valle, nurse and child, Mrs. W. E. Wagner, and daughter, Mrs. A. M. Simonds, of St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. M. A. Tarleton, and E. H. Tarleton, of New Orleans, La.; and B. Rafferty, of Boyne, O.

Last Tuesday morning, Dr. Carlstein, with the assistance of Drs. Preston and Graves, removed from the arm of Mr. John Grant, of South Arm, a tumor weighing nearly two pounds. Mr. G. is about 75 years old, in fair health, and the doctor expresses a hope of ultimate recovery. If he does recover it will be a most remarkable cure. The scar on the arm is as large as a man's hand.

Card of Thanks.

The ladies of the Congregational church and society wish through the JOURNAL to thank the many friends who assisted them in preparing and serving refreshments on the 4th. And especially do they thank Mr. Fox for the use of his building, and Messrs. J. L. Hurd & Co. for dishes etc.

BY ORDER OF COMMITTEE.

We Are Anxious

That every young lady should know what a delicate and harmless beautifier is to be found in Hamilton's Oriental balm. It is absolutely harmless, and it makes the complexion so soft, and brilliant, so surely removes all tan and freckles, that one needs only to give it a trial to be convinced of its merits. Only 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Two Assignments.

R. M. Cherrie, of Chicago, president and principal stockholder in the Pine Lake Iron Co., of Ironton, made a voluntary assignment on the 3d. We have not yet learned the effect it will have upon the future operations at the furnace. John Otis & Co., engaged in the iron business at Manistique, made an assignment on the 5th, to Willard Burnham of Grand Rapids. No figures can be given at present as to the amount of assets and liabilities. The failure is said to be the result of the failure of R. M. Cherrie, of Chicago, which occurred on the 3d. It has been intimated that these failures may seriously interfere with the plans of several Charlevoix county businessmen.

Later advices are to the effect that matters have been adjusted at headquarters, and affairs at the furnace will continue as heretofore.

Our Celebration.

Charlevoix did not indulge in long and tiresome processions, long-winded oratory, and a crowding of three days sports into one, as is the custom generally. The all night rain promised to continue through the day, and preparations were deferred,—some of them indefinitely. No doubt many remained at home who had contemplated a "big day." However, we had a very respectable crowd, and after the rain ceased, enough of the smaller games, races, etc., were had to make the day satisfactory. At the dark skating and dancing were indulged in during the day and early evening, and at the opera house one of the best dances of the season was kept up during the afternoon and nearly all night. The congregation society gave a dinner in Fox's new building, netting a handsome sum. During the evening there was a display of fire works on the corner of Bridge and Clinton streets.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the JOURNAL by Uranus Bacon, real estate dealer.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, for the week ending Tuesday evening, July 8, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

J. Milo Eaton and wife to Bertha A. Hawks, part Eaton's addition to Charlevoix, $50.

John Nichols and wife to Albert E. Pickard, lot 6 block 8, south Lake, $60.

William Hogg to C. V. Cook, n w ¼ of s w ¼, 12-30-7, $80.

A. R. Upright et. al. to Louisa Stanat, lot 102 Upright's addition to Charlevoix, $60.

A. R. Upright et. al. to Orlando Blair, lot 75, Upright's addition to Charlevoix, $100.

Albert Dixon and wife to George Olney, n e ¼ of n e ¼, 36-33-5, $200.

Jesse Stevens and wife to Amanda Grosejean, lot 3 block 3, Stevens' add. to Boyne, $100.

Hiram Sanford to Gilbert Moles, s ½ of e ½ of n w ¼, 24-33-5, $1.

W. H. Hurlbut and wife to Jane Whitfield, 1 acre, 27-34-8, $100.

Shipments.

The following are the cleared from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the custom house for the week ending Tuesday, July 1:

Schs 2—Prop. John Dean, 60 tons pig iron, Pine Lake iron Co., to Chicago.

2—Schr. Florence M. Smith, 65,000 feet hard wood lumber, Glenn & Porter, to Chicago.

2—Schr. Bert Barnes, 100 cords wood, Mayer to Milwaukee.

2—Schr. Lettie Mason, 50 cords wood, W. J. Scott to Milwaukee.

2—Schr. Freeling Star, 40,000, feet hardwood lumber, 60 cords bark, Ingersoll Mfg. Co., and 30 cords, to Sheboygan.

2—Schr. Jennie Weaver, 50 cords bark, Slater to Chicago.

2—Schr. Forward, 130 cords wood, Upright Emery & Co., to Chicago.

2—Schr. Jesse Hidings 120,000 feet hardwood lumber, Andrews & Co., to Chicago.

4—Schr. Mocking Bird, 150,000 feet hardwood lumber, Upright Emery & Co., to Chicago.

5—Schr. Saint C. Huver, 120 cords wood, John Wright to Milwaukee.

5—Schr. Phoenix, 250,000, hardwood lumber, Glenn & Porter, to Chicago.

5—Schr. Phoenix, 200 cords bark, Upright Emery & Co., to Chicago.

5—Schr. A. R. Blake, 120 cords bark, Upright Emery & Co., to Chicago.

5—Schr. Contest, 80 cords wood, J. A. Bassi, to Kenosha.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

SIX lives were lost by the sinking of the schooner Babcock near Barnegat, New Jersey. H. H. Baxter (the Bay State Cooker Company) failed at Boston for $100,000.

While walking in Allegheny City, Pa., John Donaldson, who had been bitten by a dog two years ago, was suddenly taken with hydrophobia. He was removed to a police station, where it required the efforts of five men to hold him, and after intense suffering he died the following day. A fire at Deffiwood, Cambria County, Pa., destroyed the principal buildings in the place. The total loss is placed at $75,000.

THE WEST.

GEN. SHERIDAN and a party of friends visited Chicago to witness the inauguration of the Washington Park monument. The meeting opened with stakes aggregating $87,900, and entries numbering 1,069. ...At San Francisco, Gustave Lorenzen, nephew of Samuel Seifer, a merchant, left his home without a word, over was making a warrant for his arrest on the charge of forging his uncle's name. He refused to give him money for gambling purposes.

A RECENT dispatch from Helena, Montana, states that Ed Dwyer and Al Nickler, two desperadoes, had known from the Benton and Billings Stage Company at Rock Springs Station, 100 miles northeast of Helena, John Davis, the Superintendent of the stage line, pursued the two down Musselshell River. When fifty miles below the station he was told by cowboys that the thieves passed with the horses a day and a half before. Davis's cowboys volunteered to follow the trail. The thieves were overtaken thirty miles north of Black's Ranch, and attacked. The cowboys were driven back, leaving only with revolvers, while the horse thieves had rifles. Men were sent to the camp for guns and the fight was renewed. Sol Scott, a cowboy, was shot dead and Ed Dwyer wounded, captured, and hanged. William Jones and Tim Devlin, cowboys, were wounded. Col. Conrad, Henry of Chappell, Tilo Wise, lumber agent, has been indicted by the United States Grand Jury for cutting two balsas for dropping trespass against certain parties. Tobacco, the Cincinnati murderer, who is partly responsible for the terrible loss in that city last March, has been sentenced to be hanged on October 17. ...John Strange, lumber dealer, of Wausau, Wis., has gone into bankruptcy. Liabilities, $40,000; assets, $20,000. ...Hudgins & Co's large warehouse, filled with agricultural implements, at East St. Louis was destroyed by fire. Loss, $80,000; insurance, $20,000. ...The iron steamship Peoria left from Chicago to Buffalo 100,000 bushels of wheat, the largest cargo ever known on the lakes. ...Judge Wylie of Columbus, has decided against playing base ball on Sundays in that city.

The residence of Mrs. Patrick Murphy of Brier Hill, near Youngstown, Ohio, was destroyed by fire. Three of the children, aged 5, 7, and 9 years, perished in the flames. Mrs. Murphy herself escaped, and she succeeded in rescuing her fourth child. The Sheriff of the Cherokee Nation is engaged in taking down fences on all tracts larger than fifty acres, and confiscating the wire. In Sac and Fox south of Coffeyville and has removed thousands of miles from inclosures which exceeded the limit fixed by the council.

ALGAR PINKERTON, the famous detective, who died in Chicago last week, was born in Glasgow in 1819. He never fully recovered from a stroke of paralysis received in 1869. He leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter, and was possessed of a large fortune. ...Northern Cheyenne Indians on the Tongue and Rosebud River who are without rations and starving, are killing their cattle in great numbers, and the stockmen threaten resistance if the Indians are not moved away by the Government. The situation is regarded as serious. ...The Denver & Rio Grande Road is made to meet interest by the payment of $600,000 in new consolidated bonds. ...Two men were killed and two others seriously injured by the wrecking of a construction train near Sumner, Mo.

THE SOUTH.

DOC WALKER was hanged at Texarkana for the murder of Lucas Grant. Two thousand citizens were permitted to witness the execution.

ON account of the failure of the mirbanks to work, a Virginia Midland express train was at a high rate of speed when the bridge over the James River, near Lynchburg, Va. The cause of the smashing, to strike the upright girders, throwing it from the track. The trucks of the car dragged the sleepers a distance of 100 feet, and one coach fell through the opening into ten feet of water. All the passengers were saved, most of them being taken out through the windows in the ventilators in the top of the car.

ST. JOSEPHINE Catholic Orphan Asylum near Newport, Ky., was destroyed by fire. The inmates all escaped, and are temporarily quartered in Newport.

WASHINGTON.

THE President has signed the bill organizing a Bureau of Labor. United States the bill this human becomes adjunct of the Interior Department. An appropriation of $25,000 is given. Two appointments to be made are a Commissioner by the President and a Chief clerk by the Secretary. All other work will be that of experts, and they are to be chosen by the Secretary on the recommendation of the Commissioner. The comparatively small appropriation will render it impossible this year to do any large amount of investigation, as there will be a prominent printing, correspondence, copyist, &c., to pay for. The bureau is authorized to inquire into matters relating to wages, hours, woman and child labor, imported contract labor, such as that of the Italians, Slavonians, Hungarians, and Chinese, now brought here in groups.

EX-SENATOR KELLOGG appeared before the Springer committee and made a statement in reference to his connection with the star-route cases. He said he had no corrupt connection with any person concerned in those cases, denied emphatically the truth of the criminating statements made by Walsh and others against him, and offered to submit correspondence and documents in proof of his innocence.

FOLLOWING is the last regular monthly statement of the public debt:

Interest-bearing debt:
Four and one-half per cents	$250,000,000
Four per cents	737,000,000
Three per cents	670,000,000
Refunding certificates	1,000,000
Navy pension fund	14,000,000
Total interest-bearing debt	$1,672,000,000
Matured debt	1,635,650
Debt on which interest has ceased	2,000,000
Legal tender notes	346,739,406
Certificates of deposit	86,870,000
Gold and silver certificates	124,207,270
Fractional currency	6,967,000
Total without interest	$1,168,399,360
Total debt outstanding	$2,840,049,360
Total interest	$1,000,000,000
Interest matured	2,000,000
Interest ceased to mature	1,000,000
Total interest	$1,003,000,000
Total principal and interest	$3,843,049,360
Cash in Treasury:
Gold coin and bullion	$100,000,000
Silver dollars	54,000,000
Paper dollars	1,000,000
Bonds for circulation	1,000,000
Total cash in Treasury	$156,000,000
Debt less cash in Treasury	$2,687,049,360
Decrease of debt since June 30, 1881	171,000,000
Decrease of debt since June 30, 1882	182,000,000
Current liabilities:
Interest due and unpaid	$ 1,000,000
Debt on which interest has ceased	2,000,000
Interest thereon	1,000,000
Matured debt and interest	1,635,650
Interest accrued not yet due	19,000,000
Total	$24,635,650
Cash in Treasury:
Available assets:
Gold	$100,000,000
Silver	54,000,000
Paper	1,000,000
Bonds for circulation	1,000,000
Total available assets	$156,000,000
Deficit	$131,365,350
Outstanding liabilities:
Gold certificates	$124,207,270
Silver certificates	86,870,000
Fractional currency	6,967,000
Total	$218,044,270
Cash available	156,000,000
Excess of liabilities over cash	$62,044,270
Interest payable by companies:
Principal outstanding	$ 64,623,512
Interest accrued, not yet paid	1,293,470
Interest not accrued	17,000,000
Total	$82,916,982
Interest paid by companies	$ 18,183,933
Average rate of interest	3 per cent.
Interest paid by United States	68,318
Balance of interest paid by United States	13,095,618

POLITICAL.

THE Arkansas Democrats in convention adopted a platform favoring public schools, forbidding immigration, favoring retrenchment and reform and a reduction of duties. Regret is expressed at the decisions of Judge Lake, who is called in a political and statesman.

NEAR Dow, of Maine, denies the report that he will be a candidate for the Prohibition ticket this year. While in Kansas, Maine, and Iowa he declares the Republican ticket will be defeated, the Prohibitionists will do no other thing.

GENERAL.

SANTIAGO SIGNUS, Mayor of New Laredo, Mexico, has been sentenced to pay the District Judge for contempting court while City Collector. The proceeding Mayor has suffered imprisonment ...Sabre ... Trans-Pacific ... Pacific ... Pacific ...

This week completes the first year of the JOURNAL. Is it a success? Has it come up to the standard fixed for it by its promoters and friends? We leave each to answer for himself. All with whom we have talked express satisfaction with its course, and we have yet to hear the first complaint.

Notwithstanding the numerous predictions one year ago, that that the JOURNAL would not live out the first winter, by the leniency of our creditors and the steadfastness of our friends we have lived, and take this occasion to thank you one and all. But even this has not been accomplished without strict attention to to business and the most thorough economy.

As a business venture the JOURNAL is fairly successful, but is not yet "out of the depths." It will require nearly another year to meet every obligation, but with continued good health we shall do it, besides adding much new material to the outfit.

Since early spring we have contemplated an enlargement to twelve pages with the new volume, but the present depression in business makes it impossible. With a revival of trade we shall resume the supplement sheets, and hope eventually to reach the desired enlargement, with even a greater number of pages among the possibilities.

The majority of our subscriptions expire with this week. To assist in meeting bills now due, we ask every one to renew as soon as circumstances will permit.

FROM CHICAGO.

Republican lightning doesn't operate for a democratic convention. During the republican convention the local officer here chained to have "had an operator at the instrument all day" receiving convention bulletins, and "this service was supplemented by good service at Dr. Cronter's by telephone." We have not yet been able to get a word from the democratic convention. Voters how do you like this?

The Detroit Free Press characterizes the life of Isaac M. Singer, the sewing machine man, who died leaving an estate of $11,000,000, as "one of those cases of latter-day Mormonism which are suffered to exist on this side of the Rocky mountains with little protest and no interference of law." Singer had at one time five living wives. One had been divorced without her knowledge, three lived in luxury and ignorant of each other, each bore large families for him, and all were deserted for a fifth, in Paris, with whom he lived the balance of his days. This is a case which makes no stir in congress, but is quite as demoralizing as any other polygamy about which so much has been written.

Michigan Rivers and Harbors.

Washington, July 5.—The river and harbor bill, as finally passed by both houses of congress yesterday, contains the following Michigan appropriations: $30,000 for continuing the improvement of the Detroit river, $125,000 for Big lake channel; $75,000 for the improvement of the mouth and harbor of Cedar river; $25,000 for Grand river below Grand Rapids; $50,000 for improving the Saginaw river; $2,000 for a harbor at Belle river; $15,000 for a harbor at Black lake; $10,000 for a harbor at Charlevoix at the entrance to Pine lake; $18,000 for Ludington harbor; $5,000 for Cheboygan harbor; $5,000 for Frankfort harbor; $12,500 for the harbor of refuge at Portage lake; harbor at Grand Haven, $50,000; harbor of refuge, Sand Beach, Lake Huron, including dredging, $75,000; harbor of Ludington, $10,000; harbor at Manistee, $18,000; harbor at Muskegon $30,000; Grand Marais harbor, $15,000, harbor at Ontonagon, $15,000; harbor at St. Joseph, $35,000; Marquette harbor, $5,000; harbor at Saugatuck, $3,000; harbor at South Haven, $7,500; harbor at White river, $10,000.

One of our best citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Crosier.

Remember This.

Hamilton's German Bitters are the best bitters made. They promote sleep and allay nervousness. They tone up and strengthen the system, without exciting the brain as do most other stimulants. They soothe to rest the jarring nerves, and calm the irritable and jaded system. They are prepared from the purest materials and are the best medicines you can use for restoring health and strength. Try them. Seventy cts per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

AGENTS wanting for the lives of all the Presidents of the United States. The largest, handsomest, and best book ever sold for less than twice our price. The fastest selling book in America. Immense profits to agents. All intelligent people want it. Any one can become a successful agent. Address at once, HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Maine. 4291 tuf.

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

Advance Lumber Company

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO. ADVANCE, MICH.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes,

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes,

LATEST STYLES.

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR,

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS,

Patent Medicines, all Kinds.

Imported and Domestic Perfumery.

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists, and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Burbidge's new

Opera Block

JOSEPH HYLAND,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Boiler Maker,

Sheet-Iron Worker,

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Repairs of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES AT

McCabe's Livery Barn,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 42

Electric Light

In the form of a FAIR, now located in Charlevoix. They have spread down with prices on kitchen utensils, jewel soap, crockery, glassware, linen towels, ladies' hosiery, gents' suspenders, linen towels, tablecloths, sheeting, table cloth, hand mirrors, lace, pedpins, frames, hat pins, lace curtain, under vests, shawl straps, ear rolls, combs, and twelve cent counters.

A good hat rack for, each penny, wash boards, 5c, knives, forks, tea spoons, 5c, tablespoons, 10c, tea kettles, 10c, tin buckets, 10c, lamp chimneys, 5c, gents' suspenders, 10c, stand of shaving mugs, 5c, gents' suspenders, 10c, and a multitude of household articles too numerous to mention, all of same or lower number of prices at

THE FAIR,

J. J. Kanagy & Son,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

46

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

NEW GOODS.

I am pleased to say that my

Spring Stock

is ready for inspection. Come and see them, and when you want a suit of clothes that are JUST IN STYLE, you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES,

AND

Price to Correspond With the Times.

GEO. W. MILLER.

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES

New Stores and NEW GOODS

A Complete Stock of Hardware, Iron, Cutlery, Tinware, Fishing Tackle, Stoves, Implements and Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggies, Wheelbarrows, Carts, Refrigerators, Doors and Sash, Paints and Brushes. The very best Tin and Job work done on short notice.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitings,

Boots and Shoes.

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at actual cost, as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. Remember, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark.

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

E. T. BROWN & CO.

Threshing Machines

Portable and Stationary

Engines,

SAW MILLS, THRESHERS, MILL SUPPLIES.

The Best Saw Mill in the World for the Money.

(BARGAINS IN SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.)

WRITE FOR PRICES AND CATALOGUE

West Bridge Street,

Grand Rapids, Michigan

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., July 10, 1884.

Provision Market.

Retail prices in consumers, as corrected every Wednesday evening by UPRIGHT, EMREY & CO., general dealers:

FLOUR, per bbl, $5.50, $6.50, and $7.50.
CORN MEAL, per cwt, bolted $1.00; unbolted, $1.30.
HAY, per ton, $8@9.
OATS, per bu, 50@55c.
GROUND FEED, per cwt, $1.40@1.55.
POTATOES, per bu, 40@45c.
ONIONS, per bu, $1.00.
BUTTER, per lb, 20@25c.
EGGS, per doz, 20c.
LARD, per lb, 14@15c.
HAMS, 16c; Shoulders, 12c.
SALT PORK, 10c; Dry Salt Side, 12; Beef, 8c.
MACKEREL, per lb, 10c.
CHEESE, 10c.
WATER WHITE OIL, 20c.
FARMERS' PRODUCE in good demand.

Fresh Meats from the Market.

CORRECTED BY G. W. JEFFERSON.

BEAT: beef steak, 12½@15c; fresh pork, 12½ mutton, 12@15c; sausage, 12c; hams, 15c; shoulders, 10c; rib stews, 8c.

TALLOW: 6@7c.

Local News Brevities.

☞ Calling cards at this office.

Notice change in card of Dr. S. C. Graves.

New samples of business cuts just received at this office.

Look over our samples before ordering posters of any kind.

Several matters of interest are crowded out this week.

Frank Connor has been released on bonds to keep the peace.

Come and see our charcoal sketches for advertising purposes.

Arba Howard returned yesterday from his recent visit south.

Mrs. L. E. Allen is recovering under the care of her mother.

The Bayne Sunday school will have a picnic in about two weeks.

☞ Wager Bros. received their long expected pool table this week.

Mrs. Harrison Miller returned home from Beaver Island last week.

H. B. Chapman, of Bay Springs, gave us a call last Saturday.

Willie Gibson, of Beaver Island, was in town a few days this week.

S. S. Cobb, of Kalamazoo, is at the Bridge street house for a few days.

W. E. Rogers, of East Jordan, called at this office last Thursday.

J. Milo Eaton is in attendance at the Chicago convention this week.

H. J. Haveus, of Howell, Mich., is in Charlevoix this week on business.

A. R. Struthers remembered the printer last week with a fine lot of pie plant.

Robt. O'Neil, now of Elk Rapids, visited friends in Charlevoix on the fourth.

The Lewrenes loaded with posts at Upright, Emrey & Co's., Tuesday evening.

O. B. Weed & Co. will fill the medicine chest for the Chinaphian on her next trip.

Miss Clara Sheridan has gone to Ann Arbor for a brief visit with her parents.

Bishop Simpson's life will be reviewed at St. A. church next Sunday morning.

C. L. Bellinger moved on Monday to his store recently repaired and repainted.

Miss May Pepineau has been quite sick for the past few days, but is better again.

Geo. Miller has put up two attractive and convenient awnings over his front windows.

J. W. Rogers and J. C. Jordan, of East Jordan, were among our callers last Saturday.

☞ Gold paint for decorating, and small cans of fancy paints at L. D. Bartholomew's.

Judge Dryden and daughter of St. Louis, Mo., are visiting his daughter Mrs. Dr. Graves.

Notices concerning the estate of Benjamin Walker, deceased, may be found in this paper.

Remember the Sunday school festival at Fox's new store, to-morrow evening at six o'clock.

Eli Toulouse started Monday night to make another attempt to raise his schooner sunk near Leland.

H. F. Blakely's store at Eastport turned a week ago Sunday night. Loss $2,000; insured for $1,500.

Eugene Cross has moved his family to Charlevoix from the Fox island where they have been living.

Geo. S. Raymond and family, of Galesburg, Ills., are stopping at A. R. Upright's for a brief recreation.

Prof. M. L. Smith has rented a house on Clinton street, and will settle his family therein in a few days.

R. Gilley has purchased the stage line and mail route of D. Blakely, between Charlevoix and Elk Rapids.

O. I. Wheat offers for sale his stock of groceries, confectionery, etc., to give him more time to devote to his trade.

We understand that Mrs. O. S. Gulley, of Detroit, will not spend the summer in Charlevoix, as she did last year.

F. H. Bonker, of Olivet college, who is spending his vacation in Charlevoix, is studying the flora of this vicinity.

☞ All those who take comfort in playing fifteen ball pool, don't forget the pool room of Wagar Brothers, Charlevoix, Mich.

The residence of John Nicholls has been given a new coat of paint, with a new coat of paint, with trimmings lighter than the body.

J. E. Potter, engineer for Glenn & Porter's mill at East Jordan, was in town Monday looking after material for repairs to the boiler.

The side-wheel steamer, Queen of the Lakes, from Elk Rapids, gave an excursion to Ironton, on the fourth, which was well patronized.

O. W. Smith has given the front room of his lapidary an attractive finish. The counter is his own design and work, and looks well.

Boyne City boys have organized a base ball club, and would like to play with a club in Charlevoix. Brace up boys, and give them a whirl.

Wm. Francis and wife of Mitchell, Ont., who have been visiting their son D. H. Francis, started for home on Monday, on the Grand Rapids.

Wm. Burton, late of the Clara Belle goes to Elk Rapids, and will have a place on the tug Albatross. He will return to Charlevoix in the fall.

J. S. Smithson, of Chicago, will occupy Rev. C. F. Van Auken's pulpit, at the opera house, on Sunday morning, July 13. All are welcome.

The Clara Belle will give an excursion from East Jordan to Petoskey and Harbor Springs next Sunday. Fare from Charlevoix round trip, 50 cents.

The "pavilion show" is not one we can recommend "for ladies and children," as it was advertised. The characters approach too nearly to the vulgar.

East Jordan will celebrate the battle of Boyne next Saturday. The Wright will carry passengers at excursion rates,—75 cts. per couple, round trip.

☞ California apricots, peaches, green gages, egg plums, quinces, foreign and domestic dried fruits. Call and get a can that will surprise your stomach. Upright, Emrey & Co.

☞ Upright, Emrey & Co., are away ahead on fancy groceries. Their honey jumbles, chocolate, coffee cakes, Milwaukee butters, drop cookies, and Mackinac tarts are great,—try them.

One of the best features of the fourth was the rain which set in Thursday evening, continuing nearly all night and part of Friday forenoon, wetting the crops nicely. It was needed very much.

Mrs. Ella Smith advertises her millinery goods at cost for cash to close out. The stock includes a choice lot of straw goods, flowers, laces, ribbons, etc., of latest styles and first class goods.

☞ Mr. Fox's store, and the residences of Mr. John Nichols and Henry Cooper are painted with the high grade Sherwin & Williams' paints. How they shine! Price the same as for poor paint.

Dexter & Noble have decided to place the steamer, Queen of the Lakes upon Pine Lake, to run from Charlevoix to some point up the lake to run the balance of the season. Capt. Fred Johnson commands her; his son Charles first mate, and Henry Peters engineer. The Queen is an elegant steamer and should be well patronized by Charlevoix county people.—Rapids Progress.

☞ To avoid an interference with the Sunday School Festival tomorrow evening, the East Jordan Dramatic Club have decided to give their entertainment "Down by the Sea," at the opera house TO-NIGHT, July 9th. Admission 25 cents; reserved seats 35 cents. Reserved seats for sale at Wood's drug store. Doors open at 7 o'clock, commence at 8 o'clock.

Miss Carrie Hilton, of Norwood, who has been attending school at Pontiac for the past four years, has graduated, and is now visiting friends at St. Louis, Gratiot county. She will return home next week.

At the M. E. church Rev. J. T. Iddings will speak next Sunday morning, taking for his subject "How are the mighty fallen," in memory of the late Bishop Mathew Simpson. At the evening service Mr. Smithson, of Chicago, will occupy the pulpit.

John Hammond claims to have the best 20 acres of hay in this county, his farm being so located that a dry time is to his advantage. Richard Lake is another not affected by the weather and claims to have 40 acres of hay and wheat that is hard to beat.

Dr. O. B. Weed returned home from Manistique last Saturday, where he has had a position as principal of the schools. He will visit friends in Charlevoix and elsewhere during the summer, returning to Manistique next fall for another year as principal, at an increased salary.

One day this week while opening up Ash street, workmen uncovered an old grave in which were eight human skeletons. As this place was once an Indian burying ground, it probably accounts for the skeletons. From the appearance of them they must have been buried many years ago.—Elk Rapids Progress.

J. R. Doughty, of the Mt. Pleasant Enterprise, gave us a call Monday morning. He was one of the party of excursionists to Marquette, and stopped on his return to look over this country. He is of the opinion that our location is an excellent one, and hopes to spend a few weeks with us for the benefit of the health of his family some time in the future.

☞ Who has dried peaches spiced? Upright, Emrey & Co. Who has dried blackberries at 18 cts. per lb. Upright, Emrey & Co. Where do telephone orders receive prompt attention? At Upright, Emrey & Co.'s Who are our best grocers? Upright, Emrey & Co. Who keeps the fastest delivery wagon? Upright, Emrey & Co. Who dare sell the cheapest? Upright, Emrey & Co.

The Toledo, Ann Arbor, and Northern Michigan railroad was completed to St. Louis, Gratiot county, June 26th, and the event was celebrated by the citizens of the surrounding country with a procession, picnic dinner, speeches, etc. J. M. Ashley Jr., was eulogized for his energy and push in its construction. We hope the managers will see it to their interest to decide upon Charlevoix as their ultimate terminus.

Geo. Olney found, last Sunday, the buggy, harness, and robe stolen from Hosea Moore, of Norwood, June 27th. He learned that a horse had been seen rolling in the road near the cemetery on the morning following the robbery, and going to the place, he turned into the bushes and found traces of a wagon having passed through. About two rods from the road he found all the articles together where they had apparently been left in a hurry.

"A gentleman, who, with his family, has just returned from Washington Territory, gives a very discouraging account of the condition of the people. He says business is at a standstill. No employment for mechanics or laborers and thousands of emigrants, who would return east if they had enough money to bring them. He went there with intent to settle.—Ex. Michigan is the best state to settle in, and Charlevoix county has an abundance of farming land at $5 an acre and upwards.

We wonder how long it will take our backwoods officers to learn that they cannot handle (and keep) the experienced and desperate crooks who occasionally strike this country in the summer, as they do one of our domestic drunks and disorderlies. The arrest of these criminals heretofore has been a farce for they have got away either before or after trial. In the dilapidated condition of the county jails in Emmet and Charlevoix, the handcuffs and shackles are about the only security an officer has against the escape of a prisoner and they should be applied every time. We are glad that our Petoskey officers have lost no men as yet.—Petoskey Record.

Mr. A. Butler, of Mayville, Dodge county, Wis., is visiting friends in this county, and made the JOURNAL a call last Thursday. Mr. Butler is a veteran and a veteran democrat too, having voted that ticket all his life. He is 95 years old, served in the war of 1812, has lived through the administration of every president of the United States, remembers distinctly when Washington completed his second term. His eye sight, memory and hearing are good and his carriage as straight as any man of 40. He returns to Wisconsin in a few weeks, and bids fair to see another democratic president inaugurated.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crosier.

Nature Cleanses

The system, if given an opportunity, but very few persons realize to give nature a chance and so the blood, which is the great drain for carrying away impurities, becomes so clogged with disease that unless some help is given it, the person will be afflicted by blood poisoning and suffer with pimples, boils, carbuncles, cancers, scrofula, &c., and after the slightest help. Save yourself from all this suffering and loss of time by using Parmelee's Blood Purifier which prevents all diseases in the system. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and loss in the spring you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co. 8-49

J. L. HURD & CO.

Offer a full and fresh line of

DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, &C.

At Very Low Prices.

Headquarters for

Groceries and Provisions.

Call for the Belding Flour.

Sole Agency for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

NEW FIRM. NEW GOODS

F. G. HINES & CO.,

A Complete Stock of

DRUGS AND STATIONERY

Bridge Street, Carpenter Building.

A share of the Patronage of Charlevoix and Vicinity Respectfully solicited.

Prescriptions Carefully Compounded.

LIVING PRICES. POLITE ATTENTION

M. E. Church.

M. E. church, Pastor and Congregation, most cordially invite all strangers, and resorters, to participate in the services held each Sabbath, morning and evening. All who are not otherwise engaged, will be welcomed: with the assurance, that a pleasant time, will be had. The Sabbath school, is quite a factor, in the enjoyableness of each Sabbath service.

J. T. IDDINGS, Pastor.

The Household.

Dyspepsia, indigestion and headache seem to take the place of the three graces in many households. How sad is the condition of such a family. The kidneys and liver often get deranged and perhaps the parents or even children may be suffering from Diabetes, Bright's disease, or some kindred disease. As a preventive and also a cure for all the diseased conditions of the human family no preparation equals Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure. Only $1.00 for large bottles. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

FORSALE.

A Small Stock of

GROCERIES, CONFECTION'RY NOTIONS, ETC.,

Including Fixtures.

EXCELLENT LOCATION FOR BUSINESS.

I want to devote my whole time to painting, and to Cabinet and picture frame work.

Inf O. I. WHEAT.

W. M. WAGAR. D. D. WAGAR.

Wagar Bros.

Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars And Smokers' Articles. Also a full line of Confectionery, Fruits And Temperance Drinks. Pool Room in rear of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.

HEADQUARTERS

FOR

Plows, Harrows,

Horse Rakes,

And everything in the Agricultural Implement line.

Examine and be Convinced:

The No. 10 Champion Plow, "Best in the World." The Gale Plow. The Oliver Chilled Plow. The Gale Horse Rake. The Albion Mfg. Co.'s New Horse Rake. The Osborne No. 7 Mower, light and strong. The Buchanan Wagon.

IN HARDWARE

We do not imitate; we lead. We positively guarantee our GOODS and PRICES. We ask kindly for our proportion of your patronage.

May 22, 1884. STOCKMAN & IDDINGS.

"OH! WHY SHOULD THE SPIRIT OF MORTAL BE PROUD?"

(The following is from President Lincoln's favorite poem, "Oh! Why Should the Spirit of Mortal Be Proud?" William Knox is the author.)

Oh! Why should the spirit of mortal be proud? Like a swift-flowing meteor, a bird-flying cloud, A flash of the lightning, a breath of the wave, Man passeth from life to his rest in the grave.

The leaves of the oak and the willow shall fade, Be scattered around and together be laid; And the young and the old, and the low and the high, Shall moldder to dust, and together shall lie.

The infant and mother attended and loved; The mother that infant's affection who proved, The husband that mother and infant who blessed, Each, all, are away to their dwellings of rest.

The maid on whose cheek, on whose brow, in whose eye, Shone every perfection, pleasure, but triumphs are by; And the mother of those who love her and praised, Are alike from the minds of the living erased.

The hand of the king that the scepter hath borne, The brow of the priest that the miter hath worn, The eyes of the lawgiver and the heart of the brave, Are hidden and lost in the depths of the grave.

The peasant whose lot was to sow and to reap; The herdsman who climbed with his goats up the steep, The hunter who wandered in search for his food, Have linked anew like the grass that we tread.

The saint who enjoyed the communion of heaven, The sinner who dared to remain unforgiven, The slave who has toiled, or the master who lived, Have equally mingled their bones in the dust.

So the multitude goes like the flower or the weed That withers away to let others succeed; So the multitude comes, even those we behold, To repeat every tale that has oftten been told.

For we are the same our fathers have been; We see the same sights our fathers have seen; We drink the same stream and view the same moon, And run the same course our fathers have run.

The thoughts we are thinking our fathers would think; From the death we are shrinking our fathers would shrink; To the life we are clinging they also would cling; But it speeds from us all like a bird on the wing.

They loved, but the story we cannot unfold; They sorrowed, but the heart of the haughty is cold; They grieved, but no wail from their slumber will come; They joyed, but the tongue of their gladness is dumb.

They died, aye, they died; we things that are still Must walk on the turf that lies over their love, Must look on their children with a troubled alarm, Meet their children that they met on their pilgrimage road.

Yea! hope and despondency, pleasure and pain, We mingle together in sunshine and rain; And the smile and the tear, the song and the dirge still follow each other, like surge upon surge.

'Tis the wink of the eye; 'tis the draught of the breath, From the blossom of health to the paleness of death, From the cradle to the bier and the shroud— Oh! Why should the spirit of mortal be proud?

DAISY ARNOLD'S STRATAGEM.

BY ALMA E. MCKEE.

CHAPTER I.

When the slumbering sea lies still,
Lapped in the moonlit beach,
The stillness almost seems
To possess the power of speech.
When Time, in his flight,
Where or not hark may he,
Is the soft, lazy air glides along,
May it bear a message to me.

It was almost like a bit of Persian poetry, that little conservatory, in its glow and fragrance, and soft, delicious murmur of leaves, ornamented with azaleas, geraniums, pomegranates, orange blossoms, etc. Daisy Arnold looked not unlike a Persian enchantress, as she stood leaning one fair hand on a vine-wreathed trellis, her hair of burnished gold vying in brightness with the sweet, plumes swaying above her head, and a quiver in the white lids that hid her large, blue eyes. She was tall and large, with regular features, and a sea-shell pink in her cheeks, and an unconscious hauteur in the poise of her dainty throat and shoulders. Daisy Arnold was born to be an heiress, and very few could she fulfill the mission of her queenly life.

She was not alone in the sunshine and fragrance of the conservatory. Eustace Emory was there, leaning against the stage, and somewhat impatiently twisting and untwisting a sprav of jessamine with his nervous fingers. He was a tall, manly young fellow, with dark brown eyes and hair, and a face that you were involuntarily compelled to admire and like.

"I cannot see any sense in asking such impossibilities, Daisy," he said, almost passionately.

"Are they impossibilities, Eustace, dear?"

"I cannot go to South America without you."

"But you can, and you will."

"How can I go away there without you, and to be gone a whole year? It is impossible, Daisy. And sometimes, when you cease as you are doing now, I almost fancy that you do not care for me as you used to do."

"Eustace!"

"I know, darling, that it may sound vapid; but can I help it?"

"But tell me, that I may understand your wish in this matter. What would you have me do?"

"Marry me to-night, and go to South America with me in the vessel which sails to-morrow at 1 o'clock. That is all, Daisy?"

"Eustace!"

"A very reasonable wish," laughed Daisy. "But you know, Eustace, that I never will marry you without your mother's free sanction and approbation."

"But she does not know you, Daisy."

"I but makes no material difference. I shall never enter a family where I am not welcomed by each member."

"But just think, dearest, how utterly absurd and groundless mother's objections are.

"Yes, she fancies me a frivious, heartless woman of the world, with no knowledge beyond waltzing and thrilling. Eh, Eustace?"

"I do not know what ever possessed me to allow you to read that unjust letter. But, darling, forget the existence of that letter, and follow me to the parsonage this night, where you will be made my own sweet wife. Will you not consent, dear?"

"Nay, Eustace; and you must not seek to turn me from the path of duty. My dignity and pride would, also, suffer, if I married until your mother gives her free and full consent."

"And you say that you love me, Daisy?" he asked, a tone of unrepressed anguish in his voice.

"Ah, dear heart; how well you cannot know! Better than my life, dear. Were it not so I should not now have this ring upon my finger," she said, as she turned the sparkling diamond letter to the light, that it might shine and sparkle in its dazzling beauty. "But I cannot break my word, even for you, Eustace, dear."

"You are unreasonable, Daisy. For we might cut this Gordian knot by the exercise of our own free will. You might become my own true wife now; and then I should have my prize with me on this long, long journey."

But Daisy Arnold only shook her golden locks.

"We must wait and see what goods the gods may provide in the future for us. And now leave me, Eustace, or I shall break down entirely. One o'clock to-morrow will come only too soon."

"Yes, but I may not start to-morrow, as I have so many things to attend to ere I go."

"Oh, go, by all means, to-morrow, or you will be obliged to wait until another week, and your relative may be dead when you arrive."

"I have a companion to hunt for my mother. She will be entirely alone, Mrs. Forrest told me that she knew of some one who would like the situation, and perfectly recommendable at the same time. But that is in Boston, and I shall have to go to-morrow to see about her."

"Oh, do not let that hinder you, Eustace; I think I know of a young woman who would suit your mother, and I will send her to Cumberemor."

"Can she read aloud and make jellies, and prepare delicacies, and sew ruffles and cap borders, and talk fluently?" asked Eustace, with a smile.

"She can do everything."

"And will she have patience and forbearance, and be as meek as Moses?"

"At least, rest assured, she will try."

"She will succeed, then. I think, Daisy, it seems to me that you are in haste to hurry me off."

"Oh, Eustace, dearest, you are misjudging me," she said, in a voice which trembled in spite of all her resolution; "I want you to do your duty, that it all, to your sick uncle, and let his last hours be cheered by the touch of a gentle, loving hand. And, more than this, I should like you to learn the lesson of life's patience and endurance. It will be sunshine after darkness, if you do not repine."

"My own little prophetess!" he said, drawing her to him and kissing the unresisting lips. "I will go and strive to be patient manfully. But oh, my darling, if you knew how I shall miss you!"

Dorothy Arnold drew a letter from her wicker basket.

"So Mrs. Forrest knows you, eh?" asked her inquisitress.

"Yes, madam."

"Well," commented the matron, glancing over the note, "this recommendation seems very satisfactory. I don't know but you may come and try. The only objection that I can have is that you are altogether too pretty-looking, and I do not like to have my girls to blame for that. Take off your things; you may as well begin at once."

CHAPTER II.

More than a year has elapsed since the events recorded in this story. The maples were bare and leafless, the snow lay white and deep in all the hollows and dimples by the roadside, and a sharp December wind was sweeping across the valley as the sun glowed with momentary redness through the week upon the distant hills ere it sank out of sight.

"How soon it grows dark," said Mrs. Emory, with a little sigh. "That's right, Dorothy—put on some more wood and draw the curtains. Now we're snug!"

And snug they were, with the shaded lamp glowing softly on the table, and the bright wood fire leaping and crackling up the chimney. Dorothy drew a low Ottoman by the side of Mrs. Emory, and sank comfortably down upon it. She made a very pretty figure as she sat there, her golden hair unfastened and falling in ringlets over her shoulders, dressed in blue, with a knot of blue ribbon tangled somewhere in her burnished hair, and her clear blue eyes turned wistfully toward the old lady's face.

"What was that you were saying about going back to New York, my love?" asked the lady, remarkably "I just want to tell you that you can't go. I can't let you go. You belong to me."

She put one arm around Dorothy's neck, and drew the proud cheek down upon her lap.

"Do you love me, Mrs. Emory?" asked the girl, earnestly.

"Love you, darling? I cannot endure the thought of getting along without you. It is beyond possibility," said the old lady, pathetically. "Can you not live with me, dear? Don't leave me?"

"If you wish it, dear Mrs. Emory, I will live with you always. But I have something to tell you, I think. But,

"Oh, what is that?" cried the lady, excitedly rising to her feet. "That is not together the noise of the maples. Listen! My boy's step," and she rushed into the hall, to be joyfully caught to the breast of her son Eustace.

"But you are not alone, mother?" he said, gazeering through the partially closed door at Dorothy's profile on the wall.

"No, my son. Let me introduce—"

"But, to his mother's amazement and horror, her son was at that very moment embracing and pressing his unresisting lips to Dorothy's blushing face.

"And my name is Dorothy as well as Daisy, dear Mrs. Emory," exclaimed Daisy. "Please, will you not forgive me?"

A reconciliation soon followed.

Stories of Webster.

Mr. Webster used to consider Pines Point, on the lower Potomac, a delightful retreat. He could find relaxation from the turmoil and anxiety of state affairs—comfort, quiet, and merriment were to be found in the magnificent groves and spacious saloons of this romantic region. Fishing was his great pastime. One day, on his return from an unsuccessful effort to capture "the finny tribe," he was asked by a friend to a question that "he had only secured one sheepshead, and that was his own." "Were such sheepshead for years to be caught here," remarked the proprietor of the pavilion, "I would be angling or drawing the seine all day." Mr. Webster had a very vague idea of the "Great West" of his day. On one occasion when he was in the Senate a proposition was before it to establish a mail route from Independence, Mo., to the mouth of the Columbia River, some three thousand miles, across plains and mountains, about the extent of which the public then knew no more than they did of the interior of Thibet. Mr. Webster, after denouncing the measure generally, closed with a few remarks concerning the country at large. "What do you want," he exclaimed, "with this vast, worthless area? This region of savages and wild beasts, of deserts, of shifting sands and whirlwinds of dust, of cactus and prairie dogs? To what purpose would we have to put these great deserts or those collateral mountain ranges, impassable and covered to their very base with eternal snow. What can we ever hope to do with the sea-coast, even, for a distance of three thousand miles, rock-bound, cheerless, unsinnting, and not a harbor on it? What use have we for this country?"—Ben: Perley Poore.

Have Patients.

"I know, my dear," said the young doctor to his wife, "that we must pick; but after awhile our luck will change, and we will have every thing we want. You must learn to have patience."

"Don't preach what you don't practice. If you'd learn to have patients, we would soon be out of trouble," and she whisked out of the room, so full of feeling that she stepped over at the eyes.—Merchant Traveler.

PEOPLE who are constantly talking about "what is due to society," often forget altogether what is due to themselves, to say nothing of what is due to the butcher and the baker.

Modern Nomads.

"The cyclic philosophers, if there are any, know that civilization moves in a circle, and that the freedom of unsocialized nomadic life succeeds the freedom of barbaric life. Originally nomadic, we rove about until circumstances and the accumulation of our possessions compel us to settle down and take root in one place. Then the process of evolution goes on as wealth and uneasiness and dissatisfaction (which are causes for modern culture) increase, until we become again in our desires nomadic. The cyclic philosopher, if he exists, says that the instinct for a travel home is a "middle-class" instinct. The laborer, like the tramp, and the "higher classes" like also to roam, and to have many places of temporary residence. As we all belong to the higher class in this country, we all like to move about, and we do move according to our several abilities. If we understand the process of evolution on this continent, it was from the nomads to the dwellers in communal houses and villages, like the pueblos, to that to the possession of separate houses; or, in the Indian phraseology we now use, to the building of lands in severalty. As we become more highly developed and prosperous, we go back in a sort of communal existence in gigantic boarding-houses, especially in summer and an association of flats, and those who can do so take a step further, and rent an entire house, or, if we are rich, buy. The confessed advantage of a boarding-house and flat is that you can leave it at any time and start on your wanderings with no more preparation than an Indian needs in striking his wigwam, or a Tartar in saddling his horse.

Comparatively few are yet of the very highly civilized can put themselves on this absolutely nomadic basis; but once a year everybody must join this movement in some way. This is not the dictate of fashion, but the demand of health. Our puny ancestors used to stay at home the year round, except for an occasional family visit, or a short week or two at some mineral spring, or a sojourn in the neighborhood of an oyster bed. But nobody can live now without an absolute change of air and scene at least twice a year. Even in New England, where there is a change of air every twenty-four hours, and if one will only stay still he will get in the course of the year as many different climates as any human system can digest, there is a semi-annual frenzy for going away from home. Those who have pleasant homes get weary of the routine of comfortable existence and the accumulating burden of an exhausting modern house-keeping, and long for the ranger accommodations of a gigantic boarding-house in some vast wilderness, or in some caravansary by the sea. It is the communal instinct breaking out again. There are those who say that this is owing to the malaria, that people need to change the kind of malaria, the city sort for the country sort, the sea-side kind for the mountain, and so on. But malaria, which is a very vague word, means anything to be thought synonymous, with civilization, is not the moving cause. It is the nomadic instinct, which is in the process of evolution round to the old condition in which man could not keep still. It must be that health demands again an approach to the primeval state. There are a hundred diseases which wealth allows us to cultivate, besides malaria, that demand a summer and winter change.—Charles Dudley Warner, in Harper's Magazine.

He Made a Fortune Swapping Jack-Knives.

"There's a man," said the gentleman who had been lounging around the New York Herald's town bureau, "who never was a great deal of a scholar.

He pointed out at a man, but at a battered sign on the other side of the street, which failed to tell that business or diamonds was carried on within.

"That man, continued the crack, "began life by swapping jack-knives. He used to go around the streets with a little bundle of cutlery under his arm, and his method was to approach and ask a man if he didn't want to exchange his old penknife for a new one of first class Sheffield make. About nine times in ten the stranger would accept the invitation. Then the peripatetic dealer in blades would open his bundle and negotiations would begin. The end of it generally was that the stranger received a good, new knife in exchange for his own blade and gave the dealer a little something to boot. The old knives were cleaned, polished, and supplied with new handles, and swapped over again. The idea was novel, and its originator made a good deal of money by it. When he had accumulated a snug little capital he set up a diamond-loan business over there, and he is worth a cold million now. The dealer made money they go in to see him and raise the wind on their diamonds. He won't take any other kind of security, and he makes money hand over hand."

THERE are three vicks to the lamp of a man's life—brain, blood, and breath. Press the brain a little, its light goes out, followed by both the others. Stop the heart a minute, and you all three of the wicks. Choke the air out of the lungs, and presently the fluid ceases to flow, the engine comes to a dead stop, all is soon stagnation, cold, and darkness.

A WORTHY Quaker wrote thus: "I expect to pass through this world but once. If, therefore, there be any kind ness I can show, or any good thing I can do to any fellow human being, let me do it now. Let me not delay or neglect it, for it will not pass this way again."

HUMOR.

"PA," asked Walter, "what is a Bohemian?" "A Bohemian, my son," replied pa, "is a person who is sort of horticultural chap—you've heard of tulip fanciers, you know."—Times-Democrat.

A COMMISSIONER wants to know if there is more than one religious denomination that believes in fore-washing. It is sincerely to be hoped that there is.—Cincinnati Saturday Night.

A CAMEL will work for seven or eight days without drinking. In this he differs from some men who work for eight or eight days without working.—Lowell Courier.

"NO, LADIES, no. They do not open the campaign with a can-can dance. They do it with a corkscrew. How little, alas, do women know about politics."—Burlington Hawkeye.

"NEIN, Herr Silbermann, I don't buy dot ring off you for no hundred dollar, ma' I don' do no pizness mit you vot ever, don't it? Ay I didn't inc dot ring off Silbermann, eh? Well, Silbermann was goin' to marry my vife vunce, ma' he didn't. Yes a man was schmarter as I, I don' do no pizness mit him, ain't it?"

"IN a commonplace, school-room tone, 'Now the earthly curtain drawn from above Shows the stage of life, and the actors move.' A blessed thought, indeed, for those Who have to act in disguise a very little, Till round of the live like some Who are doing it left so now, that is—Uncle Ruggles.

THE BANG MUST GO.

The fad has a good grip on Jane
"Away with the false bang!"
And all the girls, from Maine to and North,
Are filled with bang's pang.
O, sharper than a serpent's tooth,
And decidedly than its fang,
Is the false bang, which shows a tooth
Which otherwise is hard to hide.

THE PLUMBER'S DAUGHTER.

Her mother's sick, see our pa's
Will be back in a week, I expect,
Meanwhile I'm left to keep house,
Its never each moment dreaded
Continually upon the brink,
Her head in some she trained,
Then mustered low "Young, g.n't you think Boomsdorfer's husband's insane?"

"Boomsdorfer?"

"My dear, and I've said a score!
Of times, and yet I can't remember
Its name, you ask a big book map
For visiting as you might see."

A NEW York man advertised "a safe, quick, and reliable corn remover, without the application of knife or cutlery, or pain experienced. Price only $1." A young man who never walks out without wishing he could leave his feet at home forwarded $1, and two days afterward received by express a livery cover.

JONES—"Yes, sir. I have been installed, sir. My blood boils when I think of it." Smith—"Hit is what way?" "You know my name was on the jury list last week." "Yes." "Well, I went there and was put on the jury at once." "Nothing remarkable about that." "Yes, but you forget; not a single lawyer on either side objected to me." "Could anything be more insulting?" "What? Not objecting to you?" "Of course. They must have taken me for a natural-born numskull, or they wouldn't have been so willing."

The Wear of Coins.

It is estimated by the Treasury officials that if coin is in active circulation, or is frequently transferred from hand to hand in ordinary transactions, a $20 gold piece should continue current for fifty years, an eagle for twenty years, a half eagle for twenty years, and $3 and $2 pieces each for ten years.

Inasmuch as coin cannot continue in circulation even for a short period without some loss of weight, and the wear, Congress has established a number of pieces which coins will be received at the Treasury at their nominal value. Section 1 of the act of 1873 provides: "That gold coins which have become reduced in weight by natural diversion, or by abrasion, shall be current and receivable at the State. They were separate and distinct coinages. The Steel-ville and Indiana was one, the Ohio, Ala. Ohio and Ala. Ohio and through the whole list. I was then able to know nearly every fellow on my side." Section 1 of the act of 1873 ments and equalizations were. I could not tell the pronunciation now, but I knew deserved it. Before I left the Pan Handle Road I had as many men under me as from Steubenville to Wheeling, than a dozen of them, and those merely because I knew enough to know that I have wished often to find a man for overturn work, and would have been glad to have taken a man from the ranks if I had known one capable for the position; but I did not, and the result has been that the son or nephew of this or that official would be given the place. It is on this account that I think young men in the railroad business have such an unequal chance in the battle they are trying, many of them, so courageously to fight."—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

The Brother.

"Does the man rush?"

"Yes, he is a rusher."

"Why does he hurry along the street in that fashion? Perhaps his house is ablaze?"

"Perhaps he never had one. That man is a lawyer who possible makes $10 a week. When he leaves his office he puts up a sign, 'Back in three minutes, please wait'"

"But why does he rush?"

"To make people think he is carrying the Supreme Court under his hat."

"Wouldn't some of his creditors backle him on the street if he didn't put on so much steam?"

"Great, my boy! You might guess a thousand times and not hit the nail any closer!"—M. Quad.

It is a great and noble thing to cover the blemishes and to excuse the failings of a friend; to draw a curtain before his vices, and to display his perfections; to bury his weakness in silence, but to proclaim his virtues upon the housetop.—Sophia.

De chap dat an stoopin' over lookin' out his tater patch ain't up to see all de leetle fairlin' ob his nabors.—Life.

John Adams and His Son.

Old John Adams, proud as he was of his son, John Quincy, could not manage that on every occasion he was a "chip of the old block."

Dr. Orville Dewey once visited old John Adams at his house in Quincy, and was presented to him by Mr. Josiah Quincy. The ex-President talked incessantly. The Haiian author, Mechinchelli, was mentioned, whereupon the venerable old gentleman discoursed about him for ten minutes without stopping, and in language so well chosen that Dr. Dewey thought it might have been printed without alteration.

Very different was John Quincy Adams, to whom Dr. Dewey was introduced at the White House in Washington, during Mr. Adams' Presidential term. The Doctor said to his companion as they entered the mansion:

"Now tell Mr. Adams who I am, and where from, for I think he must be puzzled what to talk about with so many strangers coming to him."

He was accordingly introduced, after which his friend, an aged member of Congress, withdrew, leaving the President and the strangers alone together. The President pointed to a chair, which Dr. Dewey took. What followed the Doctor himself relates thus:

"I was a young man, and felt that it did not become me to take the initiative. And there we sat five minutes without a word being spoken by either of us. I mean, I was my brave, and want away. I knew whether more astonished.

Dr. Dewey was certainly unfortunate in his interview. Probably the President was tired out with receiving visitors, and waited for the young gentleman to start the conversation.

About the same time Thurlow Weed saw John Quincy Adams for the last time; but the President spoke and more active.

"I rose before the sun," says Mr. Weed, "and walked down to the bank of the Potomac, observing as I approached it a gentleman in nankeen pantaloons and a blue jacket walking rapidly from the White House toward the river. This was John Quincy Adams, the President of the United States.

"I moved off to a respectful distance. The President began to undress before he reached the brink of the river, where he exposed his clothes, and then plunged in head-foremost and swam out from one to two rods, swimming rapidly, and turning occasionally upon his back, seemingly as much at his ease in that element as in his chair.

"Coming out, he rubbed himself thoroughly with towels which he had brought for that purpose in his hand. The sun had now risen above the hills and dressed himself and was returning to the Presidential mansion."—Youth's Companion.

The Popular Remedies of the Day.

DR. JOHN BULL'S Smith's Tonic Syrup

FOR THE CURE OF

FEVER and ACUE

Or CHILLS and FEVER,

AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. No fever can resist the action of this medicine, if it be administered according to the directions. It is in no way injurious to the constitution, and may be taken by the most delicate female or child with perfect safety. It is a powerful tonic, and its effects are such as to leave the system in a healthy condition. Unlike other fever medicines, it does not leave the bowels in a costive state, but by its mild cathartic effect it leaves

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE

BY

J. S. SMITHSON

OF CHICAGO,

On Wednesday Evening, July 16th,

IN THE

OPERA HOUSE, CHARLEVOIX.

Subject: The Castles of England, Scotland, and Ireland.

Sixty Splendid Views will be Shown by Oxy-hydrogen Gas.

Tickets 50 Cents Each

Tickets may be had at the office of the Journal, the Sentinel, Dr. Crouter's, West's drug store, Belvedere house, Charlevoix Resort; Geo. O. Taylor, Chicago Resort; the Company's store, Ironton; Glenn's store, East Jordan; Postmaster, Boyne City; A. J. Strout's, Horton's Bay; Flanagan's store, Atwood; Gaples & Nash store, Norwood; and Arlington House, Petoskey.

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

GILBERT & MOULTON,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting,

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

HADASSAH.

BY OSCAR F. WISNER.

"O Cromwell! Cromwell! had I but served my God with half the zeal I served my king, he would not in mine age have left me naked to mine enemies."—Henry the VIII.

CANTO THIRD.

Lo! there he comes now! 'tis Haman the vile,
With doubt in his trend and sickly faint smile.
"Thy petition, queen Esther," the king again now,
With a stern tone of voice and a cold marble brow.
"Thy petition, although it should claim
The half of great Iran's sunlit domain,
Speak out, my fair queen, come, let us know
The caused of thy grief, thy sadness and woe."

"If I have found favor, O gracious king,
I rely on thy promise—a most precious thing.
My nation is sold, and my people are slain,
And their bodies now cover all of Persia's domain.
But I would not complain, had we been sold
Into bondage most vile, for treasures of gold;
But now I complain—their bodies must lie,
As food for the beasts and birds of the sky."

"Who hath sold thee, Hadassah?" then spoke the king.
"Who hath dared to do such a dastardly thing."
Then Iran looked stern and flashed his proud eye,
Like light which darts down from the azure built sky.
"Tis Haman the wicked," Esther then spoke,
And all of her soul through her countenance broke,
Whilst the pallor of death, soon overspread
The face of lost Haman, as though he were dead.

Then the king, rising up from the banquet of wine,
Walked forth in his garden full of rage all the time.
And he cursed in his heart this Haman so vile,
Who covered his deeds with a fair courtly smile.
And as he turned back to the banquet again,
He saw there a sight which would startle most men.
For Haman had fallen on the bed of the queen
In his prayer to be saved, and thought him unseen.

But the eye of the king lightning-like flew
As a flash of the sunbeam over the dew;
And the serpent suspicion siezed on him there,
Though Haman was whelmed in the night of despair.
"What?" thundered Iran, "will Haman thus dare
To force my loved queen, so gentle and fair?"
Then a mantle was thrown over Haman's face,
The black mantle of darkness, shame and disgrace.

"Led yonder the gallows," his chamberlain said,
"Twas made for the Jew"—then low bowed his head.
"Tis a stately great gallows, reaching up high,
And reaches, O king, to the vaults of the sky.
And on it let Haman swing out on the air,
And breathe out his life in shame and despair."
Thus his chamberlain spoke and soon night rose up
The dark form of Haman swing out on the sky.

No tempest of wrath clouds Iran's stern brow,
But all in clear sunshine and happiness now.
And Esther the queen is fair in his eye,
And brilliant as star of Persia's bright sky.
For the little blind Cupid aimed truly and well,
As since the Swiss hero named William Tell.
And Esther's countenance clearer now glows,
Whilst her cheek now assumes the hue of the rose.

A sunbeam plays on Hadassah's pale brow,
Which betokens her future brighter than now.
And sorrow no longer spreads out its wing
On shadowy pinions her bosom to sting.
The queen seems all joy; but now o'er her face
Flits a shadow, as she thinks of her race,
When from Shu-shan's fair palace once came
An Edict then dipt in hate's lurid flame.

Hadassah had whispered in Iran's bent ear,
That the Jew was her kindred evermore dear.
That he was her cousin,—her father, dead,—
That she leaned on his bosom her oft aching head.
But the king loved her still—loved her as true
As the pole star fixed in its ocean of blue.
Unchanging this level of the great Persian kings
Across it no shadows their pinions could fling.

To be continued.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., July 10, 1884.

Around the County.

East Jordan.

The Orange society at East Jordan, is making arrangements for a grand celebration on the 12th, (next Saturday), and extend a cordial invitation to all to come and join with them in having a good time.

Although the weather was decidedly threatening and disagreeable on the morning of the fourth, a large and orderly crowd gathered on the streets by noon. After marching to the grove and listening to a speech by Mr. Davis and the reading of the declaration of independence by Miss Lake, the crowd came back to see the races, which gave satisfaction. The day closed (with dancing parties at both the hotels, which were well attended.

Mr. A. B. Keene's new building is progressing finely, and makes quite an ornament and addition to town.

H. H. Finney, Eugene Cole, James and Will Stone, J. A. Keat, Fred. Bossinger, Chas. Sutton, and S. M. Rose, took a trip to Charlevoix on Monday, to attend the encampment of Odd Fellows. All report a good "quiet" time.

A large quantity of tan bark is being shipped from this place, principally by D. C. Loveday and W. F. Empey & Co., which goes a long way toward making business lively.

We hav'nt got that skating rink yet. Who is the lucky fellow to start one?

The main street is being graded, and lumber is on the ground for a new side walk, which will give East Jordan quite a city appearance, and be appreciated by those who have been obliged to travel through the sand.

Mr. Meech has started his mill, and is already turning out a large quantity of fine lumber.

Mr. Wilbur, of the firm of Stoepel Lumber Co., is in Detroit on business.

The people rejoiced to hear the familiar whistle of the Wright last Sunday evening. It is reported that she will make regular trips to East Jordan hereafter.

Springvale.

Mr. John Stradling, of Chandler township, and Miss Alma Small, of Springvale, were married on the 3d, at the residence of Mr. John Small.

There was a dance at the residence of Horace Pardee on the 4th. It was well attended and all report having a good time.

On account of the weather, a good many who had intended to go to Petoskey to spend the fourth, could not go. All who did go report having a splendid time. We were glad to see it rain as the crops needed it very badly.

Farmers have commenced to make hay.

Mr. James Pearson is getting along nicely with his new house. Mr. Pearson just moved to Chandler last spring, and we need more settlers just like him,—men who are help to the country instead of a detriment.

Mr. William Pearson started for Nashville, this state, on the 2d. He expects to be gone a short time on business.

Mr. J. M. Snyder, the postmaster, has been improving the appearance of his place by building a board fence.

Overseers have commenced work on the highways.

Miss Jessie Stowell, who is teaching in district No. 2, Chandler, has been sick for several days, but has recovered so that she can take her place in the schoolroom now.

The Sunday school in district No. 3 is well attended, and is a success in every respect.

Ironton.

Preaching Sunday morning by Rev. P. Blake, at the school house.

Only one fight during the week at Ironton. Mr. Mory and James Fred. Fred kicked out the first round. Both in the employment of the Pine Lake Iron Co., real bosses at that.

John W. Grant, a painter by trade, who has been up on the north shore the past winter, has returned to Ironton, and will work at his trade this summer, and return to the north shore this fall.

Richard Knight, of Banks, registered at the Pioneer house, Saturday night and Sunday. He brought a boat load of hay for the Pine Lake Iron Co.

Mr. Hunt lost another child Sunday. They lost one about a month ago. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt have our sympathy in their great bereavement.

A baby girl at Samuel Sanborn's July 4th.

A small child, a year and a half old, died of diphtheria at the house of Joseph Brinkman, Ironton, on July 5th.

James Marshall and Lizzie Alexander, both of Ironton, were married by Esquire Sheldon, on July 5th.

Burgess.

Another arrival in Hayes,—a nine pound girl at Moses Cooper's. Mother and child are doing well.

Elvin Hale has commenced to canvass for the campaign life of Blaine.

The average Hayseite is up to his eyes in clover, about these days.

The fourth was duly celebrated at Burgess post office.

Land-lookers are quite plenty in this town at present.

George Banks has put up an addition to his house, in the shape of a kitchen.

Early planted corn has commenced to tassel out.

Red raspberries have commenced to ripen and there will be plenty of them.

It is thought by some that the road commissioner is making too many changes in Pine lake road.

Deposits of TEN CENTS and UPWARD received. Interest allowed at the rate of FIVE PER CENT PER ANNUM. Would urge deposits in this department. BEAR IN MIND! 1st—Interest compounded every six months. 2d—Deposits may be withdrawn on demand. 3d—Interest begins the first month. 4th—Safety! State Savings Banks or other State Banks offer no other security for deposits beyond amount of stock held by stockholders, which is usually small. Loans taken, and that is often fictitious. National banks do not specialize; holding back with our own money it is foolish, and will cost you money. Call or address

BEYNOLDS & BROWN.

SAVINGS BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING.

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞ The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 43

Extra copies of the JOURNAL for sale at West' drug store.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect June 29, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv.		7 40am	7 15pm
Richmond	2 30pm	10 30	9 55
Winchester	3 31	11 29	11 26
Muncie	4 07	11 57	12 07
Fort Wayne, ar.	6 40	2 20pm	3 00	8 00am
Fort Wayne, lv.		2 35	3 05	4 05
Kendallville		3 08	3 42	4 46
Sturgis		3 45	4 14	10 53
Vicksburg		4 11	4 42	11 21
Kalamazoo, ar.		4 42	5 12	12 00pm
Kalamazoo, lv.		4 47	5 17	12 05
Otsego		5 06	5 36	12 31
Allegan	7 00am	11 00	10 25	3 00
Holland	7 35	11 15	10 45	3 35
Howard City	8 47	12 40am	12 01pm	4 56
Big Rapids	9 05	1 07	1 22	5 20
Reed City	10 17	1 56	2 36	3 18
Cadillac	11 20	2 55	3 35	4 18
Cadillac, lv.	11 25	3 05	3 00
Walton	12 42pm	4 32	4 35
Traverse City, ar.		5 35	5 35
Kalkaska, lv.	1 30pm	4 30	4 50
Mancelona	2 06	5 06	5 29
Alpena, ar.	5 00	6 00	9 00
Petoskey, ar.	4 15	7 05	7 05	1 15pm
Harbor Springs	4 45	7 05	7 05
Mackinaw City		8 00	8 00

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Mackinaw City	3 30pm	7 40am
Harbor Springs, lv.	10 25	1 35	4 00pm	6 00pm
Petoskey, lv.	10 47	1 57		6 22
Alpena, lv.	11 00	2 10		6 40
Mancelona	12 10am	3 51		8 07
Kalkaska	12 45	10 17		8 45
Traverse City, lv.	1 25	11 05	3 40pm
Walton	3 05	12 42pm	5 20	10 20pm
Cadillac, lv.	3 35	12 50pm	6 00pm	3 30pm
Cadillac, ar.	3 35	12 50pm	6 00pm	3 30pm
Reed City, lv.	4 39	1 57	7 06	4 18
Reed City, lv.		1 59	7 08	5 12
Big Rapids	4 57	2 16	7 26	5 37
Howard City	6 10	3 26	10 05	7 23
Holland	8 19	5 50	10 05	9 30
Allegan	8 50	6 25	10 45	10 05
Otsego	7 00am	8 35	11 45
Kalamazoo, ar.	7 25	9 00	12 10pm
Kalamazoo, lv.	9 00	6 52	2 00
Vicksburg	9 25	7 16	2 31
Sturgis	10 03	7 44	3 00
Kendallville	11 03	8 35	3 51
Fort Wayne, ar.	12 40pm	10 00	5 25
Fort Wayne, lv.	1 00	11 00am	5 50	1 50
Bluffton	1 41	11 42	6 31	2 34
Winchester	2 03	4 05		3 01
Richmond, ar.	2 40pm	1 30am		3 38
Cincinnati, ar.		6 40	10 25pm	10 30pm

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. A., Grand Rapids, Mich.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGeagh's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 53. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JULY 17, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Is published every Thursday morning,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office over T. B. Smith's grocery.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Business Directory.

ATTORNEYS.

CHUCKNSHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law, Office in Bellaire Block, Charlevoix, Mich. A. H. CHUCKNSHANK. C. S. GRIER.

HART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FRED A. MARBLE, Attorney at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Collections promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

H. A. JESSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office on Lake st., Boyne, Mich.

WELLS NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law, and Circuit Court Commissioner. Office in bank building entrance on Mitchell St., Petoskey, Mich

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

VORYS, KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

OSCAR F. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, and U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

Z. S. DARBETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.—Capital $50,000. Loans and discounts at lowest rates. Deposited notes and mortgages bought and sold. Money loaned on real estate security only. Drafts, Bonds, Securities and railroad tickets sold to and from all parts of Europe. $100,000 to loan on first mortgages. BATCHELOR & BARTON.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONVERSATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30 in school house. C. F. VANAUKEN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7. J. T. DONOVAN, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

CHARLEVOIX HOOSIER AND BEAUTY FIRE COMPANY meet every Saturday night, at hose house. R. F. BISHOP, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

R. SUTFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Humoroide Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. MILO EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class Horses and Carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

J. A. CARISTEN, M. D., Office at the Ingleside.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

N. C. GRAVES, M. D. Office and residence one door west of Bank of Charlevoix.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlev'x.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. O. U. W.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 27, meets second and fourth Mondays in each month, in Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 395, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

O. U. A. M.—Boyne City Council No. 117, meets every Saturday on or before full moon. Hall over postoffice.

MASONIC—Charlevoix Lodge No. 262, meets Monday on or before full moon. Hall over postoffice.

VETERINARY SURGEON.

DR. N. SANBURY, V. S., office at Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

WELL DIGGING.

FRANK DUDDA, Charlevoix, Mich., will attend promptly to all work in the line of well digging, cistern building, tunnel repairing, well curbing, cellar building, and similar work. 45

A. BUTLERS, President. A. B. UPHOFF, Vice President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money loaned on approved paper at reasonable rates. Deposits received. Collections given careful attention and remittances made promptly.

O. S. TIDDMAN, Cashier.

O. W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. Any article of Jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order. 29

PIMPLES.

I will send Free the recipe for a simple VEGETABLE BALM that will clear the face of PIMPLES and BLOTCHES, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or beardless face. Address, inclosing a 3c. stamp, Mrs. V. DUDLEY & Co., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

10 CENTS a month will pay for the JOURNAL during the campaign. Begin now.

1872 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.

PURITY, POLITENESS.

We make it a point to sell only

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

Our Prices will always be as Low as

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

Can be Sold.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON, On Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Eagle Hotel,

E. A. H. COLE, PROPRIETOR,

South Arm, Michigan.

A new house, situated next east of bridge. Nearest point to Jordan River. Horses and boats for guests. Headquarters for intermediate Lake and Jordan River tourists.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids stages.

HULBERT HOUSE,

P. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house is centrally located. Good sidewalk from steam boat landing to house.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

WM. J. WEIKEL, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house has been thoroughly renovated and put in first-class shape for the traveling and sporting public. Good livery running within a "stones throw" of the house. Sample Rooms.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

UNITED STATES HOTEL,

J. J. STEVENS & SON, Proprietors,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

W. F. ORRELL,

HOUSE DECORATOR,

Charlevoix, Mich.

PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.

ARTISTIC PAPER-HANGING.

Finishing Hardwood a Specialty

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

Fresh Fruits!

A Fine Stock just received

AT L. L. CARR'S.

GET YOUR

Photographs

At D. S. Way's.

HODGE & LITZAU,

Manufacturers and Dealers in

HARNESS, SADDLES

Carry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Lap Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work, Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. Call and see my stock

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated Elgin and Waltham watches, the best time pieces made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

Telephone Order

Hello there!

Hello! What is it?

Has your mother got any rags, old rubber, or copper she would like to dispose of? If so, please pick them up and save them, as WILKINSON & SHEPARD of Charlevoix, Mich., will be round in a day or two and get them. 48

HELLO! How Are You?

Of Interest to All.

HAVE YOUR GROCERIES, MEATS, FISH, AND VEGETABLES, DELIVERED

Free of Charge.

All orders by telephone or Otherways, promptly attended to.

Having placed a Telephone in our market, we can receive and fill orders promptly, with the least possible trouble to our patrons.

Ice Delivered

Every Morning.

Opposite Bridge street house, Charlevoix.

JEFFERIES & DECKER.

THOMAS F. BAYARD

Thomas F. Bayard is a member of one of the most famous families in the state of Delaware. The first American Bayard was Nicholas, a brother in-law of Governer Peter Stuyvesant, and a rigid Huguenot. The statesman who now most conspicuously honors the family, is one of several of its members who have served their country with distinction in the federal congress.

He was born October 29, 1828, was educated at the "Flushing" School, Wilmington, and as a boy aspired to become a merchant. But with youth came the more generous ambition which has borne fruit in his popularity to-day. In 1851 Mr. Bayard was admitted to the bar. He opened an office and in a few years commanded remunerative practice. Up to 1869 he steadily pursued his business as a practicing lawyer, with but one break, namely, in 1853, when he served for a short time as United States district attorney. He succeeded his father as United States senator in 1869, and was re-elected in 1875 and 1881. Senator Bayard was a staunch friend of the south during the period of reconstruction; a "hard money" man when influential men in both the leading political parties favored the payment of national obligations on other than the gold basis, and a member of the minority in the electoral commission.

Our Summer Guests.

At Frank Shaubut's.

Joseph Steele, Chicago.
Mrs. Eddy and two children, Grand Rapids.

At Fountain City House.

Jules Velie, wife, child and nurse, St. Louis, Mo.
Judge Dryden, St. Louis, Mo.
H. A. Clover, wife, and son, St. Louis, Mo.

At Tourists' Home, Bay Springs.

T. Bates and family, St. Louis, Mo.
W. A. Drake, Hillsdale.
Misses Jennie and Maggie Maloney, and Master Chapman, Hillsdale.
Mrs. Mosher, Jackson.

At A. B. Upright's.

G. S. Raymond, wife and two children, Galesburg, Ill.
M. F. Holmes and wife, Chicago.
Mrs. R. E. Hopple, Chicago.
Frank T. Simons and wife, Chicago.
Miss Emma C. Bush, Chicago.

At Bridge Street House.

S. S. Cobb, Kalamazoo.
Mrs. Stanton, Grand Rapids.
Miss Lorraine and baby, Toledo, O.
A. B. Turner, Grand Rapids.

At Chicago Resort.

Mrs. M. L. Stone and three children, Chicago.
J. S. Sullivan and family, Chicago.
Geo. Harvey, Chicago.
Janet Nelson, Chicago.
Geo. Eckert and family, Oak Park.
Dr. R. G. Hague and family, Chicago.
H. W. & Mrs. C. P. Gates, Chicago.
Mrs. N. H. Bakenford and family, Chicago.
D. S. Cook, wife, three children and nurse, Chicago.
J. K. Dunlap, Oak Park.
Jas. A. Anderson, Kansas.
Emma M. Busby, Chicago.
Lassan Barr and wife, Bloomington, Ill.
Miss S. E. Clase, Chicago.
Miss Minnie Hotchkiss, Chicago.
Miss Lena Nelson, Chicago.
A. F. Goodwin, Chicago.
R. H. Scudson, Chicago.
C. H. Morse and family, Chicago.
Miss Anna E. Morse, St. Johnsbury, Vt.
Helen Robins, Mineralline, Iowa.
S. M. Moore, Chicago.
Mrs. R. C. Brayton and son, Chicago.
W. M. Bennett and wife, Jackson.
J. Lincoln, Chicago.
R. F. Eckert, Oak Park.
A. E. Merry, Oak Park.
Geo. D. Webb, Oak Park.
W. M. Kershoff, Oak Park.
J. E. Dunlap, Oak Park.
W. Herrick, Oak Park.
R. S. Stone, Chicago.
F. W. Moore, Chicago.
Alice Warren, Chicago.
Ida Moore, Chicago.
J. G. Davidson, Chicago.
J. K. Harmon, wife and children, Chicago.

At Charlevoix Resort.

John Weed and family, Chicago.
F. D. Haskell and wife, Kalamazoo.
Geo. Winans and family, Kalamazoo.
A. P. Fisher, Kalamazoo.
Mrs. Weimer and family, Kalamazoo.
Prof. S. Brooks and family, Kalamazoo.
Mrs. Dr. Stockbridge and family, Chicago.
A. V. Knight and family, Kalamazoo.
Prof. Lewis Stewart, Chicago.
Mrs. Sears and family, East Saginaw.
Mrs. C. L. Judd and family, East Saginaw.
H. B. Weir and family, Laporte, Ind.
A. H. Wood and family, Ann Arbor.
O. M. Allen and family, Kalamazoo.
S. A. Gibson and family, Kalamazoo.
Geo. Barlows and family, Kalamazoo.
J. L. Sebring and family, Kalamazoo.
J. S. Estabrook and family, East Saginaw.
Mrs. Heaton and daughter, Detroit.
B. Willy and family, Detroit.
Otto Marx, Toledo.
Chas. Graves, Toledo.
B. Bigelow, Toledo.
N. S. Waite, Toledo.
E. F. Wallbridge, Toledo.
Fred. Olney and family, Ann Arbor.
F. J. Henry and family, Kalamazoo.
Mrs. Lisenpeckit and daughter, Kalamazoo.
Maggie C. Cameron, Kalamazoo.
Maggie F. Clark, Chicago.
C. N. Holden and family, Chicago.
W. M. Holden and family, Chicago.
E. W. Bissell and family, Detroit.
Geo. Morris and family, Detroit.
D. H. Merrill and family, Kalamazoo.
Kendall Brooks and son, Kalamazoo.
Miss Lilian Wagner, St. Louis.
Mrs. C. A. Walsh and sons, Detroit.
H. W. Compton and wife, Toledo.
Mrs. C. Wilson and family, East Saginaw.
Mrs. Wm. T. Dewing and daughter, Kalamazoo.
Dallas Boudeman and family, Kalamazoo.
F. Hanney, Kalamazoo.
Mrs. W. E. Wagner and daughter, St. Louis.
Mrs. W. A. Tarleton and son, New Orleans, Louisiana.
Mrs. A. M. Simmonds, St. Louis.
Mrs. J. D. Clement and son, Sheridan, N. Y.
Geo. V. Buchanan, Fishwick, Wis.
F. D. Wilcox and family, Kalamazoo.
A. F. Marker and family, Battle Creek.
H. S. Abbott and wife, Kalkaska.
Geo. Bunting and family, Kalamazoo.
H. P. Farnsler and family, Reading.
Mr. Moore and family, Toledo.
Prof. Hadlock and family.
Mrs. Richards and two daughters.
Henry Mabes and family, Ann Arbor.
Prof. Olcott, and family.
Mrs. Van Vleck, Louis.
E. Woodbury and family.
Mr. Assos and family.

Additional Local.

Miss Carrie Hilton arrived home last Saturday.

W. F. Orrell has given the Buttars block some extra touches this week.

Mr. Ed. Stevens, of the U. S. hotel, Boyne, gave us a call on Tuesday.

John Gaunt, who last week had a tumor removed from his right arm, is at Frank Shaubut's doing well.

Miss Mary Jimerson, of Saginaw, has been visiting at J. J. Bennett's for a short time, and returns home this week.

Johnny Orrell fell last Saturday from a horizontal bar, breaking his collar bone. He is laid up, but will make a good recovery.

Mrs. C. H. Baldwin and Master Ralph Baldwin of St. Paul, Minn., arrived last week on the Lawrence and are the guests of Frank Shaubut.

Miss Ackery, living near the park, has a very fine garden, and raises some very fine early potatoes, some of which she furnished the printer's family last Saturday. In her garden, Her other work, nothing is done by halves, but everything thorough.

Miss Minnie Lewis, who has just closed an eight-months school in the Hilton district, returned to her home in Pontiac last Thursday. Her services were highly appreciated by the district, that an increase of $10 a month in salary was offered for another term. This she declined, and the district is sorry to lose her.

From the Sunday Free Press: Geo. John H. King and family leave this week for Charlevoix, where they expect to remain the balance of the season.....Mrs. R. Rasch and daughters, the Misses Edith and Polly, Mrs. C. Rasch and daughter Miss May Kirsch, leave for Mackinac and Charlevoix Tuesday evening.

Recent numbers of the Detroit Evening Journal, A. N. Fowler, wife and daughter, Grand Rapids, Miss Anna Cutchson, of Fort st., west, left Monday to spend the summer with Mrs. Sears, at Charlevoix.....Mrs. Dr. Walsh and sons, of Lafayette ave., left to-day for Charlevoix and will be absent until September.....Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bissell, of Lafayette ave., and family left yesterday for Charlevoix, where they will spend the summer months.....Mrs. Frank Crandall and Miss Florence Crandall, of Lafayette ave., will spend the summer at Charlevoix.....Miss Fanny O'Grady is visiting friends at Charlevoix.

One of our best citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it has cured his family. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

We Are Anxious

That every young lady should know what a delicate and harmless beautifier is to be found in Hamilton's Oriental balm. It is absolutely harmless, and it makes the complexion so soft, and brilliant, so surely removes all tan and freckles, that one needs only to give it a trial to be convinced of its merits. Only 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Nature Cleanses

The system, if given an opportunity, but very few persons find time to give nature a chance and so the blood, which is the great drain for carrying away impurities, becomes so clogged with diseases that nature asks help is given it, the person will be afflicted by blood poisoning and suffer with pimples, boils, carbuncles, cancers, scrofula, &c., and often die without help. Save yourself from all this suffering and loss of time by using Parmelee's Blood Purifier which prevents all diseases in the system. Large bot tles $1.00. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

The Household

Dyspepsia, Indigestion and headache seem to take the place of the three graces in many households. How sad is the condition of such a family. The kidneys and liver often get deranged and perhaps the parents or even children may be suffering from Diabetes, Bright's disease, or some kindred disease. As a preventive and also a cure for all the diseased conditions of the human family no preparation equals Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure. Only $1.00 for large bottles. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

ANTHONY WOHLEBER, a wealthy farmer of Erie County, Pennsylvania, stood on the edge of the family well and cut his throat with a razor. In falling to the bottom he was caught by projecting timbers and received, but died in two hours. He was aged 80 years.

THE assignee of Grant & Ward, of New York, has filed an inventory showing liabilities of $15,752,647, actual assets of $67,174, and nominal assets of $27,132,236. He reports that they kept no journal or cash-book, but no complete list of assets, and relied upon the small amounts of securities left with them as collateral for loans. In the intercollegiate regatta on Saratoga Lake the Pennsylvania University crew were the victors. The contest between the Pennsylvanians and the Cornell crew was close and exciting. The Princeton crew came in third and the Columbia fourth.

WHILE going to church at Erie, Pa., Adam Brelander, President of the wrecked Erie County Savings Bank, was arrested on the charge of having embezzled the funds of the institution, $120,000, and was committed in default of $100,000 bail. The millinery houses of S. & J. Sommerich, of New York, has failed for $93,000. The paper of J. de Rivisen & Co., sugar-dealers in the same city, has gone to protest, but they claim that with $1,000,000 in goods on hand they will soon be able to resume. The Toronto champion lacrosse team defeated the Americans, just returned from Europe, at New York.

THE WEST.

THE ball-tight at Dodge City, Kan., on the national holiday, attracted six thousand persons, among them being many Texas cowboys. Two of the bulls showed sufficient combativeness to interest the crowd. One of the Mexican matadores received what may prove to be a fatal wound in the ribs. Roger C. Guthrie, ex-City Marshal of Omaha, has been convicted of bribery after a protracted trial. A windstorm swept over Macon, Sangamon, and Christian counties, Illinois, which blasted much property and severely injured a number of people. A mysterious disease has within two weeks swept off fifteen hundred hogs in the vicinity of Vandalia, Illinois. At Fond du Lac, Wis., the other night, Lawrence Connaughty struck William Fuis over the head with a billiard-cue, causing injuries from which the victim died next morning.

The number of killed and drowned by the railroad disaster near Cunningham, Mo., June 20, is now stated to be fifteen, and as many wounded. The railroad authorities are reticent. Samuel Young, a noted counterfeiter of Indiana, has been lodged in jail at Indianapolis. He was captured on a farm near Surrey Mes., after a fight with Winchester rifles. . . . R. M. Cherrie & Co., pigeon manufacturers, of Chicago, have failed. The liabilities are placed at $250,000, the assets at $200,000.

THE Sioux Veterinarian of Kansas imported the livery-stables in Leavenworth, and found twenty-five cases of glanders. He ordered the shooting of five horses, valued at $1,000. . . . Notwithstanding the prohibition law, the distillers at Dubuque, Iowa, are manufacturing as usual, and the salesmen are openly selling liquors. The wholesale dealers are also busy, but they send out their packages in new shapes.

ROBERT S. AYERS, aged of the Southern Kansas Railroad Company at Garnett, Kas., also agent for the Wells-Fargo Express Company at that place, has been prosecuted several times for delivering packages containing liquor to parties in Garnett and vicinity. The packages were sent from Kansas City, and the agent was not supposed to know what they contained. He has been fined $20 in each case. In consequence of the prosecutions, several express companies have withdrawn their agencies from Garnett and other Kansas towns.

TWELVE acres in the Toledo (Ohio) business district were burned over, the property destroyed belonging to the Mitchell & Rowland Lumber Company, in whose yard the fire started, Nelson, Holland & Co., and J. B. Kelly. The loss is $385,000, and the insurance about $240,000. . . . The police of Milwaukee have arrested a man carrying on his person $18,000 worth of diamonds, on which he was endeavoring to obtain advances from pawnbrokers. . . . W. S. Jackson, a Colorado Springs hacker, has been appointed receiver for the Denver and Rio Grande Railway.

THE SOUTH.

DR. AUGUSTUS KOHBE, who died from sunstroke at Hot Springs, recently, was the first to suggest to Senator Logan the advisability of establishing a Government hospital for soldiers and sailors. . . . The probably final cases of smallpox occurred on the 6th inst. in Dallas, Tex., where the mercury registered 102 in the shade. The water supply is so low as to cause great alarm. . . . The premature discharge of a cannon at Cuthbin, Ky., killed two men.

IN a quarrel on a street corner in Baltimore, a sporting character named William McGowan was shot dead by Lino Slater, a nephew of the most prominent gambler in the city. McGowan last year killed Owen Gorter on the same ground.

THE first nominated woman raised in the United States was unveiled at New Orleans in memory of Margaretta Mayhew, known as the Orphans' Friend, whose benevolence was extended to all worthy calls for assistance.

WASHINGTON.

THE President has made the following appointments: John A. Kasson, of Iowa, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary from the United States to Germany; Alphonso Taft, of Ohio, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary from the United States to Russia; John M. Francis, of New York, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary from the United States to Austria-Hungary; Lucas Richmond, of Rhode Island, Minister Resident and Consul-General of the United States at Portugal; Samuel H. M. Byers, Consul-General at Rome; Baly; Thomas C. Williams, Consul-General at Honolulu; Ward McAllister, Jr., of California, United States Judge for the District of Alaska; E. W. Haskell, of Iowa, United States Attorney for the District of Alaska; Samuel Smith, of Iowa, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Dakota; John Jarrett, of Pennsylvania, Commissioner of Labor.

THE secret service division of the Treasury Department has uncovered evidence that a new counterfeit $10 silver certificate has appeared in the West. It is supposed to have been printed from a wood-cut, but is likely to deceive the ordinary judge of money. It is of the series of 1880, R. W. Scondald, Register, James Gilfillan, Treasurer. The note is one-quarter inch shorter than the genuine paper, is composed of two thin leaves with silk parallel lines and fiber laid between them. It has a crease in the back, where it should read, "And all public dues and when received," the word "all" is entirely omitted, and the words "when received" are run together as one word.

THE pension appropriation bill provides for 150 additional special examiners in connection with the Pension Department. The places will be filled by competitive examinations. Twenty-two additional appointments in the Patent Office will also be filled in accordance with the civil-service rules.

GENERAL.

THE business quarter of Port Perry, Ontario, was swept away by fire, the loss being about $150,000. . . . The establishment of the Silver and Deming Manufacturing Company at Salem, Ohio, was entirely destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $120,000; the insurance is $40,500. . . . Alexander Brown and Sons, of Baltimore, have suspended payment. . . . Nearly 150 men were thrown out of employment by the fire.

INDEPENDENCE DAY was celebrated throughout the country in the usual manner and with the usual spirit. There were the usual number of speeches in eulogy of Washington, Jefferson, and the fathers of the Republic, and of the Republic itself. . . . Gen. McClellan presided at Irvin S. Bowen's celebration at Woodstock, Conn., the late Henry Ward Beecher opening the proceedings with prayer, and Dr. Franklin Fox, of Chicago, closing with the benediction. . . . Addresses were made by Gen. McClellan, the historian Lossing, ex-Gov. St. John, of Kansas, Jerry Black, of Pennsylvania, and others. . . . A lemon by George H. Dobee, of Philadelphia, was cut by the whole audience. . . . At Ogden, Utah, a free dinner was spread, served with the medal voted to her by the Iowa Legislature for bravery. The Governor's private secretary made the presentation, to which Prof. John P. Carrin responded.

The formal presentation of Bartholdi's statue, "Liberty Enlightening the World," by the French Government to the United States took place in Paris. The festivities of the day were attended by the ceremony gunpowder residents and Will Waters, of Tuttle, Mich., a twelve-pound gun belonging to the Grand Army post, burst while firing a salute, mortally discharging Louis Smith. He had his right arm torn off, almost lodging had a thumb blown off. At Cassadaga, Ia., while attempting to fill a shell with nitro-glycerine, Patrick Conlin was blown into fragments. . . . New Mobile, Ala., a party of Democrats returning from a political meeting in a wagon, were fired upon by two negroes, armed with shotguns. One was killed on the hour, and all others were wounded. The negroes escaped.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR has nominated the members of the commission to be appointed concerning the best means of establishing closer commercial relations between the United States and South American countries.

TWO boys and two girls went out on Detroit River, from Sandwich, Ontario. The boat was capsized by the swell of a steamer, and three of the girls were drowned. One of the girls clung to the skiff all night and until the following afternoon, when she was rescued from a bank of rushes.

THE National Sons of Temperance of America held their convention at Halifax, N. S., last week. An increased membership was reported. . . . The Baltimore and Ohio Company has purchased the Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Toledo Road, and will have the paper endorsed by Commodore Garrison and the Andrews brothers.

FOREIGN.

A Tonkin dispatch says: "Dr. Kesh reports the cholera here as Asiatic, from the extreme East. He found the same malady here as in Egypt and India. The intestines being the seat of danger, fumigation is useless. He says the cholera will reach Germany; it will go everywhere leaving a country like Tonkin at most speed. . . . In the French Chambers, Premier Ferry said that the attack on the French troops at Langson to Chinese regulars was an instance of base and foul treachery on the part of the latter, for which China will have to give immediate and complete satisfaction. A London Times dispatch from Bangkok announces that the Minister of that place has found the Siamese in a most belligerent and inflexing great hoes upon them. . . . A jury in Dublin acquitted a couple in favor of William O'Brien, editor of United Ireland, in the suit for criminal libel brought against him by Secretary Cornwall, of the possibility.

LONDON dispatch: "The cholera is sharply on the decline, the number of deaths at the former place Monday was ten and at the latter four in a day. The people in the cities are leaving, and it is feared they will spread the plague. Experiments are going on in London now subjected to medical examination. Five cases infected are known to be in London. These precautions are taken to prevent the entrance of the cholera into the city."

The Liberal clubs of England are preparing to hold indignation meetings to protest against the action of the House of Lords in rejecting the franchise bill. . . . It is stated that Adelina Patti is about to take advantage of the new divorce law of France and get rid of the Marquis de Caux, with whom she has had no communication for seven years.

ADDITIONAL NEWS.

BOWDOIN COLLEGE, of Brunswick, Me., held its annual commencement exercises last week. Among others, the degree Doctor of Laws was conferred upon ex-Secretary Blaine. Chief Justice Waite was present and addressed the alumni at the annual dinner.

A LETTER from a Chinese official to a wealthy and influential Chinaman at San Francisco announces that the Celestial government has determined to conduct the French at the summer ordering a tax to be levied on all Chinamen living in the United States. A second letter is also said to exist, between German and China, which the former will support the latter in a war with France.

THE Louisiana Board of Health has instructed quarantine officers to detain all vessels coming from Yazoo, Marseilles, or other cholera-infected ports. . . . Paul Murphy, the world-renowned chess-player, died in New Orleans.

W. H. MCELIS, President of the Cincinnati and Eastern Railroad, recently had his life by a fall from the door of a baggage-car on the trestle-work near Winchester, Ohio. It is now learned that he has been securing money on forged notes, the amount involved being about $20,000, and the conviction grows that he committed suicide. . . . Four farmers from Dallas, Texas, appeared in Council Bluffs, with search warrants issued by a Justice of the Peace, and demanded bodies of four persons, armed with drawn revolvers. They were soon arrested for carrying concealed weapons, were threatened with tar and feathers. . . . Joseph Smith, son of the "prophet" and two others from Utah, are at Richmond, Mo., enquiring for the Mormon Bible, the original manuscript from the plates alleged to have been given to the angel to Smith, Sr., but the reasons for the enquiries have not been made public. . . . Mrs. Lucretia Garfield, of Cleveland, treated a mile in 2.12.

Stolen Thunder.

A series of revival meetings was in progress, and the subject on our own evening was the book of Ruth. Among the congregation was a brother whom the sisters delighted to hear. His language was always flowery—grandly eloquent. Waiting for his chance, he at length arose and said: "Brethren and sisters, the subject this evening is the book of Ruth. And do you know that I never turn to the book of Ruth without a thought coming to my mind that there it lies, like a beautiful jewel, between the cerulean sky of Judah's land and the purple of the Kings." Such an exquisite thought did not fail to have its effect upon his admiring hearers. Later in the evening an elderly clergyman came to, and after listening to the remarks for some time, arose and said: "My friends, whenever I turn to the book of Ruth I am always reminded of that beautiful quotation from Taylor, that it lies like a lovely jewel, between the cerulean of the Judges and the purple of the Kings." And he sat down, blissfully unaware of the idol he had smashed, while the grandiloquent man, with a tortured face, threw his head as far down into his coat collar as his spine would allow. . . Newburyport Herald.

THE "pie-nic pie" is the latest. Its dissimilarity from the ordinary common rem of pies permits it to be used in a common mill dinner time. . . Cincinnati Merchant Traveler.

NOW that Oscar is married he will probably get over his Wilde ways. He won't have time to paint knee breeches when he has to walk the floor with the baby all night.

A GREAT many young men get stupefied during the summer months, picking from the vine to the wine, and the steps of houses where there are good-looking girls.

The depth of poverty is reached when a man cannot get a coat on his tongue.

THE MARKET.

NEW YORK

BEEVES.....	$4 40@ 6 50
SHEEP.....	5 50@ 7 25
LAMBS.....	6 50@ 8 00
FLOUR—Extra.....	3 50@ 4 50
WHEAT—No. 2 Chicago.....	.98 @ .91
No. 3, Red.....	.90 @ .91
CORN—No. 2.....	.58 @ .60
OATS—Mixed.....	.38 @ .39
PORK—Mess.....	16 50@17 00

CHICAGO

BEEVES—Choice to Prime Steers.....	$5 25@ 5 35
Fair to Good.....	5 05@ 5 00
Common.....	4 50@ 4 75
HOGS.....	5 25@ 5 35
SHEEP—Fair to Choice Native.....	4 50@ 5 75
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring.....	.80 @ .81
No. 3 Red Winter.....	.78 @ .79
CORN—No. 2.....	.57 @ .58
OATS—No. 2.....	.34 @ .34½
RYE—No. 2.....	.59 @ .61
BUTTER—Choice Creamery.....	.21 @ .22
Fine Dairy.....	.13 @ .15
CHEESE—Full Cream.....	.09 @ .09½
Skimmed Flat.....	.03 @ .04
EGGS—Fresh.....	.14 @ .15
LARD—Steam, per ctl.....	10 00@10 05
PORK—Mess.....	16 75@17 00

TOLEDO

WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	.85 @ .87½
CORN—No. 2.....	.57 @ .58
OATS—No. 2.....	.37 @ .38
RYE—No. 2.....	.60 @ .61

MILWAUKEE

WHEAT—No. 2.....	.80 @ .81
CORN—No. 3.....	.54 @ .55
OATS—No. 2.....	.34 @ .35
RYE—No. 1.....	.61 @ .62
BARLEY—No. 2.....	.65 @ .67
PORK—Mess.....	16 00@16 25

ST. LOUIS

WHEAT—No. 2 Red, New.....	.86 @ .89
CORN—No. 2.....	.57 @ .58
OATS—No. 2.....	.37 @ .38
RYE.....	.60 @ .62
PORK—Mess.....	16 50@17 00

CINCINNATI

WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	.89 @ .91
CORN.....	.60 @ .61
OATS—No. 2 Mixed.....	.38 @ .39
PORK—Mess.....	16 50@17 00

DETROIT

FLOUR.....	4.00 @5.50
WHEAT—No. 1 White.....	1.00 @1.01
CORN—Mixed.....	.51 @ .52
OATS—Mixed.....	.34 @ .35
PORK—Mess.....	16.00 @16.50

INDIANAPOLIS

WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	.87 @ .89
CORN—Mixed.....	.47 @ .49
OATS—Mixed.....	.34 @ .35

EAST LIBERTY

CATTLE—Best.....	5.75 @ 6.00
Fair to Good.....	5.50 @ 5.60
Common.....	5.15 @ 5.25
HOGS.....	5.00 @ 5.15
SHEEP.....	4.00 @ 4.50

ILLINOIS DEMOCRATS.

They Meet in State Convention at Peoria.

Mayor Harrison, of Chicago, Nominated for Governor.

The Illinois Democratic State Convention, which met at Peoria on the 24d of June, was the largest ever held in the State. Nearly all the 1,400 delegates were in attendance, and 100 candidates were knocking at the door for admission. John H. Oberly, Chairman of the State Central Committee, called the convention to order. Rev. Dr. Cummins, of Peoria, offered an impromptu Chairman, and Monroe C. Crawford, of Ulster County, was chosen as permanent presiding officer.

The following were chosen as Presidential electors: At large, H. B. Fuller, of Coles, and William G. Ewing, of Cook. First District, J. W. Dunn; Second, James T. Healy; Third, James H. Ward; Fourth, Harvey D. Colvin; Fifth, James Moran, of Lake; Sixth, John F. Smith, of Stephenson; Seventh, James K. Hiles; Eighth, M. W. Sloutz; Ninth, George B. Harrington, of Iroquois; Tenth, Lorenzo J. Wilson, of Peoria; Eleventh, William Prentiss; Twelfth, Henry Phillips, of Clay; Thirteenth, H. P. Shelby, of Christian; Fourteenth, W. T. Kirz; Fifteenth, James R. Cunningham, of Adams; Sixteenth, J. C. Allen, of Richland; Seventeenth, E. B. Buck; Eighteenth, G. W. Allen, of Washington; Nineteenth, E. M. Youngblood, of Franklin; Twentieth, W. K. Murphy, of Perry.

S. Corning Judd, of the committee to select delegates-at-large to the national convention and committeemen-at-large of the State Central Committee, reported as follows:

Delegates-at-large—W. R. Morrison, John M. Palmer, J. C. Black, and Lambert Tree. Alternates—Thomas Merritt, M. C. McDonald, Thomas McNeely, and G. D. Ikenberry.

Members of the State Central Committee-at-large—John H. Oberly and Joseph Gorham.

The district committees reported the members of the State Central Committee as follows:

First District, A. W. Green, of Cook; Second, Finch Lawler, of Cook; Third, Patrick McCarthy, of Cook; Fourth, B. B. Chase, of Cook; Fifth, S. L. Bignall, of Kane; Sixth, Mr. Panzer, of Carroll; Seventh, W. C. Green, of Whiteside; Eighth, J. C. Campbell, of La Salle; Ninth, R. S. McBride, of Livingston; Tenth, ex-Sheriff Hamilton, of Peoria; Eleventh, E. T. Wright, of McDonough; Twelfth, Maurice Kelly, of Adams; Thirteenth, W. H. Snodgrass, of Sangamon; Fourteenth, Wm. Walker, of DeWitt; Fifteenth, A. J. Hyer, of Coles; Sixteenth, Judge Hogge, of Wayne; Seventeenth, W. Crouch, of Montgomery; Eighteenth, H. H. Whether, of St. Clair; Nineteenth, C. Dwight, of Marion; Twentieth, B. J. Goddard, of Williamson.

The committee on Resolutions presented a lengthy platform, the reading of which was frequently interrupted by applause. The document reiterates the Democratic principles and declares the success of the national convention to be as a mill on this question. It commends the work of Mr. Morrison in his efforts for horizontal reduction, and indorses the investigations of Congressman Morse into pensions for soldiers and sailors, opposes land-grabbing by foreign or other corporations or syndicates, and that forfeited grants should revert to the Government. It expresses sympathy between honest and convict labor, and opposes the convict labor law. While willing to punish the sale of intoxicants to minors or inebriates, the platform declares that sumptuary legislation on the sanctimonious plan of Prohibition is a familiar "disguise of the rights of qualitizens—at the hand of the tyrant." The platform concludes with a resolution in favor of the adoption of the Chicago Mayor.

Mr. Judd moved the adoption of the resolutions and called for the previous question.

Mayor Harrison, rose and said that he had a few words to say. He was unprepared to say anything in response to the nomination. He had not been consulted as to the platform as presented. He would move that the tariff question be stricken out, and substituted therefor, which he had no doubt, would suit wisely. He believed that taxation for purposes was unjust. He would say that of what which was defensible was tariff for revenue. There were various shades of opinion on the tariff question in the Democratic party, and the Democracy of Illinois should not undertake to anticipate the wisdom of the Congressional Democracy of the nation. The passage of this tariff plank at this time would endanger the success of the Democracy. State and national. He closed by moving to strike out all part of the platform referring to the tariff.

The Hon. W. R. Morrison seconded the motion. He hoped the gentleman who had preceded him would be nominated and elected Governor, and that he (Morrison) would be defeated.

Ex-Gov. Palmer said that if Mayor Harrison was not willing to run on this platform he should refuse the Gubernatorial nomination if tendered by the convention.

Mayor Harrison interrupted the speaker to say that he was misrepresenting his position. The Mayor said he meant to say that out the tariff plank, but merely the instruction to the Congressional delegation to act in a certain way to the national convention. Immediately after the Mayor had spoken, the crowd, numerous speakers struggling for recognition at the same time, finally it was decided to call the roll of the counties in the order they had signified their intention to the State delegation as moved by Hamilton. This process was interrupted by cheers by the friends and opponents of the motion, as the Chairman announced the votes of the delegations, for and against. At the conclusion of the roll announced a vote of 1,000 for striking out the instruction, 653; against, 623; majority in favor of striking out, 31. The platform as amended was then adopted by a viva-voce vote.

Ex. Gov. J. L. Beck presented the name of Carter H. Harrison, of Chicago, for the nomination for Governor, and the nomination was made by acclamation.

The remainder of the ticket was then selected as follows: For Lieutenant-Governor, Henry Seiter, of Jo Daviess; Secretary of State, Michael J. Dougherty, of Knox; State Treasurer, Alfred Dryden, of Sangamon; Auditor of State, Walter A. Carlin, of Jersey; Attorney General, Robert McKinley, of Edgar.

RIFE.

Be Value as an Article of Diet.

There is a big row among dyspepsia, the number of persons who had pain on an attempt of food digestion or even submission to digestion as they made to eat them, and to the state in which they are often calling, which rather than tended, they form a great charge for any digestion not of the strongest. They are only good when very good.

The use of rye in the place of the potato has various considerations to recommend it, chief of which is its greater digestibility, but, if the potato is so, that generally given it to our cookie it will certainly become phase the potato. It is, to-day, being in this country treated with the fine regard for its sterling qualities—it is hailed into popularity and sent on the made a tasteless mess, half grease and half potato, it is hailed indeterminately and here, the cookie is the dreams of it as made into rolls and fried as cookie, or treated as the loaf as a pudding, or excellent use for it as made into soup.

Now, you forbear the chief article of the diet of more millions probably than the whole of the rest of the world, and people who, whatever may be their standing in the scale of civilization, to which we measure themselves and add our number on it "A1," are in many respects our superiors. In the world Russia, the patriarchs of all existing civilization, the Chinese, the Annamite, the Siamese, the Hindoo, the millions upon millions of the night of King Rice, but the subject deserves a fuller treatment than can be given in a single paper, and it will be taken up at some early date, and the subject will be treated in a manner not before attempted, and the subject will be treated in a manner not before attempted, and the subject will be treated in a manner not before attempted

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic Nominations.

For President—
GROVER CLEVELAND, of New York.

For Vice President—
THOMAS A. HENDRICKS, of Indiana.

THE "OLD TICKET."

For months the press of the United States has teemed with prophecies of the ultimate success of the "old ticket" —the nomination and election of the men who were once elected president and vice president, and prevented by fraud from taking their seats. Until Samuel J. Tilden wrote his letter declining a renomination, he was looked upon by many as the coming man. The name of GROVER CLEVELAND was substituted, and the "old ticket" as amended was declared to be the winning ticket. That oft repeated prophecy has been fulfilled in part, and now the battle-cry will be as in '76, Cleveland, Hendricks, and Reform!

Democrats generally are well satisfied, and we believe they will give the ticket a hearty support, though there is not so good a chance to unite the greenbackers, independent republicans, and all other opposition in this county and state as there was with Butler. No matter what our views were in regard to Butler before the convention, our duty now as democrats demands that we stand together and support the men selected by our representatives at Chicago. The fact that Grover Cleveland was nominated on the second ballot is sufficient proof that he was the almost unanimous choice of the convention after "favorite sons" had been given the usual complimentary vote. Now let us give him our unanimous support in the canvas and at the polls.

We gave a brief sketch of Cleveland's life two weeks ago. Next week we expect to have a sketch and portrait of Thomas A. Hendricks.

"FROM CHICAGO."

Our paragraph under this caption last week was not designed to be personal, as has been construed, but a simple statement of fact. Although the Associated Press which sends these bulletins works at all times to republican advantage, we thought we should have something, even if not so much as was furnished for the former convention, and thus avoid the assertions always put forth by republicans, that the democrats were doing nothing. How much our neighbor pays for dispatches is not under discussion. At the other convention he came to us twice with bulletins, and we acknowledged the courtesy. This time, he says, "the manager had something else to do besides receiving dead-head dispatches for the JOURNAL."

Notes and News.

Hurrah for Cleveland!

The g o p will miss "Old Zack" this fall, if it becomes necessary to steal the presidency again.

Tilden and Hendricks were elected in 1876 by 250,000 popular majority. Is it true that "history will repeat itself in November?"

There are indications that the campaign this year is to be conducted in true and-slinging style, especially from the administration side of the fight.

A recent number of Puck furnishes a good illustration of the situation in New York. Tammany opposed Tilden, and he carried the state by 32,000; Tammany supported Hancock, and he was burried under 7,000 majority in that state. Tammany opposed Cleveland's nomination and will oppose his election.

The Sentinel accuses us of being bent on provoking a quarrel. This is a mistake. (Mistakes are liable, you know.) We simply stated an undisputed fact, and by the squirming one can easily believe we made a center shot. What would we want to provoke a quarrel with you for, when we have a personal promise of terrible results when such quarrel does come, and when all your neighbors testify alike as to your ability to maintain a quarrel? No, thank you; we don't want any quarrel with you. We only want what is right and just, and let that end it. This much we shall insist upon, however, "and don't you forget it."

NOTICE is hereby given that on or about May 20th next, two curling rinks, or thermometric Bath cells are bright bay with black mane and tail, one is a mare of good size, the other is a horse, rather small. Strayed upon my inclosed land in the township of Bear Lake, over 25 and now remain upon my premises.

Dated Bear Lake (Ills.) this day of June 1st, 1884. E. P. CHITTENDEN.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss.—Notice is hereby given, that by an order of the Probate Court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the fourtth day of May, A. D. 1884, we shall hold a special term of said court, at the residence of David S. Tillamagh, deceased, late of said county, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate Court, at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and allowance, and that such claims will be heard before said Court, on Monday, the first day of September, and on Monday, the first day of December next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days.

Dated May 4th, A. D. 1884.
JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss.—Notice is hereby given, that by an order of the Probate Court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the 4th day of June, A. D. 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of Joseph Wicker, late of said county, deceased, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate Court, at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and allowance, on or before the fifth day of January next, and that Monday, the first day of September, and on Monday, the first day of January next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days.

Dated June 4th, A. D. 1884.
JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE.—State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix, ss. In the matter of the estate of Charlotte Bonilah, deceased. Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of an order granted by the undersigned, Judge of Probate, in the county of Charlevoix, the 4th day of June, A. D. 1884, there will be sold at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the office of the Judge of Probate, in the village of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, in said state, on Saturday, the 5th day of July, A. D. 1884, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, subject to all encumbrances by mortgage or otherwise existing at the time of the death of said deceased, or at the time of sale, and also subject to the right of dower and the homestead right of said deceased, the following described real estate, to wit: Lots one (1) and two (2) in block one (1) in the village of Charlevoix, according to the recorded plat thereof, containing one hundred and sixty-one (161) feet more or less, according to United States survey.

ALBERT N. BONILAH, Administrator.

59-50

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court for said county, held at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, on Monday, the 2nd day of June, A. D. 1884, one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Keat, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of

BENJAMIN WALKER, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Reuben Wills, administrator, with the will annexed of said estate, praying for the reasons therein stated that certain real estate may be sold to pay debts outstanding against said estate.

Thereupon it ordered, that Monday, the eleventh day of August next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that notice of the time and place of hearing thereof be given to all persons interested in said estate, by publishing a copy of this order in the Charlevoix Courier, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES A. KEAT,
Judge of Probate.

AGENTS wanted for the lives of all Presidents and Statesmen of the United States. The largest, handsomest, and best book ever sold for less than twice our price. The fastest selling book in America. Immense profits to agents. All intelligent people want it. Any one can become a successful agent. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Maine.

CLEVELAND Agents wanted for his life; written at his own home, with his cooperation and authorization; the only authentic, complete, elegant, popular, comprehensive, best, cheapest, fastest selling, most per cent. profit to manufacturer and agents, more per copy to manufacturer than the other lives that are sold for twice its price; outsells all others ten to one; one of our agents made a profit of over $300 the first week. A harvest for agents. Will be realized by every agent. Our agents are universally successful. Agents, you need the most liberal offer ever offered. Send 50 cents for postage, etc., on free outfit, which includes large prospectus, free book. Act quickly; a day at the start is worth a week at the height.
ADDRESS HALLETT & CO., Portland, Maine.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.
A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will send free to all who need it, the recipe and direction for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.
The advertiser has been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, in another part of the world. He will also send free of charge, to all who desire it, a copy of the prescription used, free of charge, with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. Parties wishing the prescription, will please address, REV. EDWARD WILSON, 181 Penn. St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

A PRIZE. Send six cents for postage and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to make money right away than anything else in this world. Right away than anything else in this world. Right away than anything else in this world. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address, TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine. 49-1

OLD NEWSPAPERS FOR SALE

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS,

Patent Medicines, all Kinds.

Imported and Domestic Perfumery.

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Barnhouse's new

Opera Block

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR.

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

JOSEPH HYLAND,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Boiler Maker,

Sheet-Iron Worker,

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Books, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES

AT

McCabe's Livery Barn,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

Electric Light

In the form of a FAIR, now located in Charlevoix. They have spared down high prices on dry goods, dress goods, hosiery, gloves, laces, hamburgs, linen, hosiery, kerseys, hosiery, jeans, jeans, tweeds, cassimeres, ladies' cloaks, ready-made clothing, men's, boys' and children's hats, boots and shoes, trunks, valises, carpets, oil cloths, crockery, glassware, lamps, chimneys, shawls, straps, corsets, hoops, and in short everything.

A good fair rock for dust can up with brush 20 inch broom for 10c; linen towel 5c; linen towel 10c; ladies hose 5c; gent's hose 5c; gent's linen bosom shirt 50c; ladies white skirt 50c; ladies' colored skirt 50c; ladies' suit 2 worth $5 for $2; ladies' suit 2 worth $7 for $3; ladies' suit 2 worth $10 for $5; ladies' suit 2 worth $15 for $7; ladies' suit 2 worth $20 for $10; ladies' suit 2 worth $25 for $12; ladies' suit 2 worth $30 for $15; ladies' suit 2 worth $35 for $17; ladies' suit 2 worth $40 for $20; ladies' suit 2 worth $45 for $22; ladies' suit 2 worth $50 for $25; ladies' suit 2 worth $60 for $30; ladies' suit 2 worth $70 for $35; ladies' suit 2 worth $80 for $40; ladies' suit 2 worth $90 for $45; ladies' suit 2 worth $100 for $50; ladies' suit 2 worth $120 for $60; ladies' suit 2 worth $140 for $70; ladies' suit 2 worth $160 for $80; ladies' suit 2 worth $180 for $90; ladies' suit 2 worth

A TIMID-SUPER-SENSITIVE MAN.

He was good, he was brave, still was sadly afraid
That woman prized only his rental;
Yet I and devotion he sought in a maid,
For the goose was, you see, sentimental.
The darling of fortune, he was young and sweet,
The distinguished girl in society sought;
Such a plain, quiet fellow could never compete
With the rivals both handsome and witty.

His love with his fears carried warfare long waged,
When one, in the course of his wooing,
He hoped, to frightened, prospect, was engaged,
Ere Cupid knew what they were doing.
Two hours sweetly passed, a dream without break,
In soft words that won't bear repeating,
And as a sense his departure in lake,
Parting lips kissed with the "sweet of the meeting."

He turned in purpose of imparting some tey.
But twinged with a sharp melancholy;
"To answer my life could be crowned with sweet joy,
Oh, what can a fool in my fate!
"To my wealth that she sure, which drew her to me,
Begotten,
Such a fool demands a rich setting,
And my unfamious smiles are but feminine wiles
As I'll find when too late for regretting."

And meanwhile she stood there seeing his back,
And felt her poor heart beating faster,
At thought of her treasure now gone all the rack,
As the bought her destiny's answer.
A quick tear-drop trembling, also started of tears,
Ere a sob burst from her lips, for an atonement;
So she dashed her face in light down her tears,
Assuming a frown quite ferocious.

Her attitude where he plainly beheld,
In spite of the tense jealousy, which Making a place at blind he his last hopes were folded.
"Thank heaven he (need) Ere detected"
Too hurt for reproach, he hurriedly left,
And a bitter agony he discovery,
That an accident, hopless, her life had bereft
Of her super-sensitive lover.

She answered the billet whose heart she had "wrecked,"
That there he had failed to believe her,
Begging for a sunshine could never respect,
Though for her bed with a fever.
He was ill, and the fever, the fever, it sent
Such the delirious mind—dream!
But returned, they were married early last year,
And joined in their courtship's connection.
—N. Lore Independent.

At the Cream-Colored Cottage.

BY SARA B ROSE.

"How do you do, Mary? I have had it in my mind all the spring, ever since I heard you had bought a place in the country, to come down and stay all summer with you. I knew you would want some girls to advise you about furnishing, and so on, and I knew I was just the one to do that, so here I am."

Mrs. Holmes welcomed her offensive cousin cordially, although she secretly felt able to handle her house herself, with no advice but that of her daughters, but Cousin Martha had, ever since she had been a widow, been in the habit of living around among her relatives, and, indeed, levying her tax upon every one who had ever invited her to their house, when the pleasure of her company became burdensome to her relations.

True, some women would have preferred taking up some branch of industry to sponging around upon relatives and friends; but, happily or unhappily for them, Martha Mason was not one of this kind. She felt that the world owed her a living, and until some unlucky man chose her again for a wife, she meant that the world should pay its debt.

"What a queer-looking house this is, isn't it? One of the old, old-fashioned gothics; it would have been quite a gem for its antiquity, if some one had not adopted to represent it by painting it such a sickly cream color."

"I like it very well," returned Mrs. Holmes, who had the house painted herself. "And Belle and Clara think when the leaves of the ivy come out the house will look very picturesque."

"As if their taste was anything! I should have it painted again this very spring, if I were you."

"Would you not like to go to your room now, Martha?" asked Mrs. Holmes, who rather dreaded her cousin's sarcastic tongue, and wanted to be the first to tell the girls of the dread arrival. As I to talk them over a little before they met their cousin face to face.

"Perhaps I had better, but you must call me an hour before dinner, for I wish to give the girls some directions, for I cannot say that I exactly fancy their cooking.

And with a little derisive laugh the agreeable lady followed her large Saratoga trunk to her room, and Mrs. Holmes descended to the kitchen in the basement.

"Girls," said she, in a little fear of their reply, "Cousin Martha has come to spend the summer with us."

"Without an invitation; that is just like her!" cried Clara, in dismay.

"I shall not wait on her; if she stays here this summer she will make up her bed for all me," was Belle's comment.

"Girls," said Mrs. Holmes, in dismay, "remember your cousin is a widow and has no home."

"And so are you a widow, mother, and it would be just as much right for you to expect her to support you as for her to expect you to support her."

"Well, girls, I thought I would tell you beforehand, and I expect you to bear her with respect, at least. I must see about the table now."

"If mother was not so kind to her she would not dare come around so," said Clara, when her mother had left them.

"We would not mind it so much if she were not continually meddling with us," replied Belle. "She will have a grand time with the boarders now."

"She will be after Mr. Jewett, won't she? I wonder how mamma will like that." And Clara laughed slyly.

In the meantime Mrs. Mason crimped all the front of her rather carrotty hair, and pulled out the blue ribbon bows of her rather youthful gray dinner dress, and laid herself down for a little nap before dinning it, for dress well Martha Mason would, if all the cousins and half-cousins in the world donned sackcloth and ashes, while they toiled for her support.

The dinner was already on the table when Mrs. Mason came down, for Mrs. Holmes by some oversight had forgotten to call her until the last minute.

She was in her element when she found several boarders, engineers from the railroad building near by, at the table, one of whom, Mr. Jewett, a man of about 45 years, she began to make eyes at, notwithstanding she had heard that there was an engagement of marriage between him and her cousin, Mary.

For was not she, herself, better dressed than her young cousin, and a lady? While Mrs. Holmes toiled for the bread she ate, besides being two years older than herself? Reason told Mrs. Mason she would win, if she but allowed herself willing to engage in a second matrimonial scheme.

"How did you leave your brother's people?" inquired Mrs. Holmes, when her guest was seated and a great latter of chicken and hero.

"Very nicely, indeed; it is one of the pleasantest places I know. Sister Lucy has two servants, and they set the most luxurious table one could think of. Have the girls improved any in cooking since I was with you, Cousin Mary?"

"Oh, I think so now; my daughters are both very good cooks. I can think what I would have done if my girls had not helped me as they have done."

"A mother's partiality," returned the pleasing Mrs. Mason, glancing with a smile at Mr. Jewett.

"I can speak of the girls' proficiency in cooking myself," said Mr. Jewett, smiling. "Having been here so long, I know what experts in the art they are."

Mrs. Mason smiled rather unsaintly, one of her smiles being like the act of making other people feel small, and she had hoped Mr. Jewett would agree with her sentiments in regard to the girls.

When the dinner was finished, Mr. Jewett followed the ladies into the parlor, saying:

"I am going to drive five miles this afternoon to inspect a bridge, and I would like the company of you ladies, if agreeable to you both."

Mrs. Holmes gave him a reassuring smile and bow, and Mrs. Mason made him a very polite reply, in a very grandiloquent manner, and the gentleman then departed, after informing them that he would drive around for them at about 5 o'clock.

Before the time appointed, Mrs. Mason had made another ostentatious toilet, and joined Mrs. Holmes and her daughters in the sitting room.

"What an elegant man Mr. Jewett is, and how kind of him to plan that drive on the very first day of my visit, for, of course, he saw that I would be very lonely here."

"Mr. Jewett is a very kind man," replied Mrs. Holmes, while the girls winked at each other behind their aprons backs.

"And he thinks of all the proprieties, too," added their visitor, "for he thought, of course, that I would not accompany him alone at this very early stage of our acquaintance, and so invited you to act the part of chaperon for me."

Mrs. Holmes found that her thimble was missing at this moment, and Clara attempted to turn the subject by saying:

"How do you like our new house, Cousin Martha?"

"Quite well, if it was not where it is, and of such a hideous color, and so very, very cheap."

"Now, I think the color is very nice," was Clara's reply, "a very delicate color for this old gothic, and as for cheap, I should feel very proud of it, if it was only a little more out of the way of fashionable visitors."

Mrs. Holmes gave her daughter a look, but their cousin went on calmly.

"I have been overlooking the upper part of the house, but I could not find the third-story stairs, or isn't there any?"

"I believe not," replied Clara, who was at that moment thinking over a place for her meddling visitor's benefit.

"How old," said Cousin Martha, but at that moment the elderly beau drove up, and the middle-aged three departed on their pleasure drive.

After they were well gone the girls looked at each other and laughed heartily.

"I feel, re Clara, she is worse than ever," said Belle.

"And she thinks Mr. Jewett is after her," cried Clara, with tears of laughter in her eyes.

"I thought I should die when she told mamma that Mr. Jewett asked her for a chaperon for herself."

"Do you know what I should have done had I seen in mamma's place there?" asked Clara.

"Something awful, I suppose; what would you?"

"I should have told her distinctly to pack her trunk and I would send her to the depot in the morning."

"It would be the very best thing to do; but mamma won't say a thing, so she will have to put up with her the whole living summer."

"She'll try her best to cut mamma out."

"And she will talk so about the cooking and all the boarders will leave."

"Now, Belle," said Clara, solemnly, "if you will promise not to say one word to mamma I have a plan by which I think we can make Madame Martha behave herself in her brother's, where they have everything so luxurious, and who is indeed three times as able to take care of her as mamma is."

"But you will have to look on what you do, or mamma will be very angry at us both, for she always lays half the mischief to me."

"Very unjusty, too; but she won't find us out this time. Let's make Martha believe the cottage is haunted."

"How could we do that?"

"Easy enough; you know she said she had been answering around for the third-story staircase, and could not find it. Well, you know as well as I do that there are two, one opening into our room with a curious sliding panel, and the other opening into hers with another. Now she will never find out that those panels are doorways."

"I don't know as she would but mother will tell her."

"No, she will not, for I told her not to; because we have all our dresses and everything in the attic, and we did not want her inspecting them."

"Very well, but still I do not see the point."

"The point is just this, I am going to appear to be her."

"Clara Holmes!"

"I'll see if she will make us all uncomfortable all summer, without caring as much as by your leave."

"I believe it was all your work, young lady, just to get rid of me because you was jealous of one; but you need not be so mighty sure of success. Take a look at such a red-headed, freckle-faced thing as you are."

But she believed in the ghost all the same, for she would not attend Mr. and Mrs. Jewett's wedding; for she would have to spend a night under the roof of the Cream Colored Cottage.

On the Brink of Vesuvius.

Leaving your carriage at the mountain railway station you enter the ascent in very steep and at one place almost perpendicular. The railway is on cogs. The car moves rapidly, and in ten minutes you are within less than half hour's walk of the crater. You mount a chair and four stalwart mountaineers bear you through smoke and steam, amid the rumbling of the volcano and the melted lava in the very edge of the bowl, in which, as in a mighty cauldron, the fiery mass seethes in circles and thunders and roars. It is terrifically grand. The mountain is one filled with surging fire that rows up every half minute in a awful explosion, throwing up columns of smoke dark as midnight and streaked with burid fire. This melted matter falls back with a sickening, fearful sound, into the bowl on the edge of the crater. Before you are re-covered from one stunning sensation by another explosion burst on you, more overpowering than before, the column coming up through every crevice at your feet, and the whole summit is enveloped in cloud. The red lava, as it is thrown high in air in massive forms, seems heated in the furnace of Vulcan, and as it falls back down into the boiling sea of fire the sight is no more terrible than the noise is astounding. The crater seems like a mighty pot of hell, fire thrown up in burning waves from side to side, scorching, blistering and burning all heavy it. How can the mortain endure so in a strain? How can the eye bear such blinding brilliance of vast masses of fire? It crazes its two miles in our mad course, and you must make the circuit. The terror of the unheaving fire and shower of ashes and smoke and stone slows not abate. The troubling of the mountain inspires terror into strong nerves. You remember the tragic death of Pompeii, which is nearly 2,000 years ago, and the thousands that have been destroyed since. The explosions continue to deafen you. You remember the lone city of Herculaneum you have spend the morning, and you decide not to spend the summer there.

It is the most sublime scene I ever witnessed. Nothing before ever made so deep and tremendous an impression. It is the most active volcano in the world. Smoke never ceases to float off from it as a large pennant from the mast, and the crater never fails to show fire to those who visit it, and it may be seen almost every night from Naples. But on this bright day in March it presents with a thousand fire and a blackness of darkness never to be forgotten. The work were red-hot boilers and the periods were billows of crimson.—Rev. C. L. Goodell.

Making a Railroad.

When the war closed one of the Georgia railroads built a depot or a freight house on its line, and its rolling stock consisted of two old locomotives and four flat-cars. These couldn't roll until the ties and rails were laid, and the outlook was dubious enough. However, the president called a meeting of the board to see what could be done. When he had stated the condition of the track and equipment he added that the company hadn't a dollar in cash and no collateral to borrow money on. He spoke of their duty to the road, and then asked what should be done.

"I move we declare a dividend of 10 per cent," hastily replied one of the Directors.

It was a thunderclap which knocked 'em all down; but he followed it up by offering to loan the company $62,500 to make the dividend, and a dividend was declared. The stock at once leaped up from 12 to 91 cents, and in a year was held at 108, and paying dividends on that.

Made No Difference.

Old Tim borrowed the Governor's saddle, and after keeping it several months refused to return it.

"Why don't you return my saddle?" asked the Governor.

"I've had it four months, sah, an'—"

"That makes no difference."

"Don't it? Well, I'll keep it longer if it doesn't make no difference. Good day, sah."—Arkansaw Traveler.

DIVINE love is a secret flower, which in its early buds is happiness and in its full bloom is heaven.

HUMOR.

A DEAD frog was found in a church organ in Georgia. It is supposed that the creature was frightened to death by a row at a choir rehearsal.—Riverside Tribune.

SOME one asks: "How long is a man a bridegroom?" Not very long. In a majority of cases he becomes "short" before his wedding tour ends.—Norristown Herald.

"IS THIS a singing doll?" asked an old the clerk. "Yes, Madamoiselle." "How do you make it sing?" "Just as you would any other young lady." "How is that?" "By pressing it." "?!?"

"DO YOU paint yets?" asked an old friend of a fashionable artist, whom she had not seen for many years. "Yes," was the answer, "I still paint. I paint the children red and put it on with my slipper."

"SO MISS SEMPS and Mr. Linsey are to get married. Well, I declare! That aged couple. And she is old enough to be his mother." "Indeed she is. And as for him—why, he's old enough to be her father."

THE SEAM OF LIFE.

"I'll mend in mournful numbers
Life's torn web as we pass along."
If you can, say, two on numbers,
Life's web is torn, I'm sure you mean.
—Gentleman's Fashion Journal.

WE wrote that "all the windows in a certain dusty village looked as if they needed washing." The printers set it up "all the widows." A scene or sweep of hilly country was "strewn with graves." —Nashville World.

AN Arkansaw Grand Jury has indicted a widow for "trying to induce marriage to play on a harmonica. This will form a test suitable the country that the Grand Jury are not to be imposed upon.—Tuscaloosa Traveler.

DIONNAY refer to nature: "Do you call that a mutton-chop to bring to a gentleman?" Waiter, apologetically: "Beg pardon, sir. Thought it chop with us. Gentlemen and others gets exactly the same. It would be hard to make a distinction."—London Gentry.

THE WOMAN'S LOVE.

Woman's glorious beauty is here
The locks, off those shades
If woman's love is worth pleasing,
But without it her charms
The lovely form, the soul unsullied,
Are but trifles, and fade
Woman's love is the soul's
Woman's love is the soul's
—Philadelphia Times.

THE SUMMER HAS TAFFY.

Blow, blow, thou winds, of fanning breezes!
Let the hot days come and go!
Hot, hot, I know, the land and ocean,
Now, not so!

You wonder, then, what was her dower?
Well, I will try to tell you truly;
It was her lofty, young power,
Of—Boston Transcript.

THE mere twilight, and as the luster of the stars grew brighter in the gathering darkness he pressed his lips on the forehead of the beautiful woman who stood beside him and said tenderly: "When will you consent to make the life of our union, darling—let the wings of my imagination rest?" She looked up into his face and laid her head on his shoulder: "When you have had your life insured, dearest, and made me a present of the policy."

A STRANGER in Berlin, having fallen in love with an opera singer, purchased two dozen eggs and gave them to her to make her choice, saying he would call to know her decision. Shortly, however, before the hour he had intended to set out on his errand, the merchant received from his betrothed a billet doux to the following effect: "Dear Gustave—I like one quite as well as the other. I will, in fact, have both, so that you have no need to call."

VICTOR.—"You should know the Smiths, Lucy. They are such refined people and have no end of wealth. They winter every year in the south of France." Hostess—"Indeed. They can tell me the most desirable places for an hotel to stop at when they go abroad?" Visitor—"And do you think of going abroad?" Hostess—"Oh, you see, it isn't another thing when we live now, as my husband has retired from business, and I thought a few winters in Europe, varied by an occasional tour around the world, would—" Widow's Daughter (returning the dinner—"Ma, here is the butcher's boy again with that same horrid old bill. Shall I tell him you're not in again, like the last time?"—Exchange.

A Withering Retort.

A group of gentlemen at the Carlton were pleasantly discussing the failings of a well-known minor politician who was gathered to his fathers. One of them, who during the deceased's lifetime had apparently been his intimate friend, particularly distinguished himself by the searching nature of his criticism on the less pleasing qualities of the departed. Just as he was concluding his remarks, Mr. Disraeli joined the group, and was at once deferentially asked by the post-mortem dissector whether he (Mr. Disraeli) did not take the speaker's rather pleasing view of the defunct politician. "But," objected Mr. Disraeli, "I always understood that you were a great ally of the gentleman we have lost." "Oh, dear me, no," said the depreciator, "only an acquaintance I assure you." "Ah," said the Prime Minister, smiling, "I had thought the contrary. But I have always understood that the failings in the late Mr. ——— which you have just kindly enumerated, yet I agree with you so far as to acknowledge that I constantly found him guilty of one particular sin." "Indeed," said the depreciator, delighted, "and what was that, may I ask?" "A sin, sir," replied Mr. Disraeli, "of which nobody can accuse you—sin-cerity."—English Paper.

He has enough who is content.

DR. JOHN BULL'S
Smith's Tonic Syrup
FOR THE CURE OF
FEVER and ACUE
Or CHILLS and FEVER,
AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES
The proprietor of this celebrated medicine feels perfectly confident in its superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the correctness of the assertion that in no case the truth will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and while families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is certain to cure, if the use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after an apparent cure has been checked, more especially in those of long-standing cases. Tasteless medicine will not require any additional recommendation to those who have used it. It is important that remedies should be used in the early stage of the disease, and where the Tonic is used, a single dose of BULL'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient.
BULL'S SARSAPARILLA is the old and reliable remedy for impurities of the blood and all scrofulous affections—the King of Blood Purifiers.
DR. JOHN BULL'S VEGETABLE WORM DESTROYER is prepared in the form of candy drops, attractive to the sight and pleasant to the taste.
DR. JOHN BULL'S
SMITH'S TONIC SYRUP,
BULL'S SARSAPARILLA,
BULL'S WORM DESTROYER,
The Popular Remedies of the Day.
Principal Office, 931 Main St., LOUISVILLE, KY.

ARE YOU CONSTIPATED?
If you are bilious, dyspeptic or constipated, a few bottles of Hops and Malt Bitters will cure you as they have many others. An occasional use of Hops and Malt Bitters gives tone to the blood, strengthens the nerves and promotes perfect digestion. Do not be persuaded to try something else, said to be just as good, but get the genuine. For sale by all dealers.
HOPS & MALT BITTERS CO.,
DETROIT, MICH.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND
IS A POSITIVE CURE FOR
All those painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best female POPULATION.
Price $1 in Liquid, or in Lozenge Form.
Sold by all Druggists, or sent by mail, on receipt of price, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of Letter to Mrs. PINKHAM, 233 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass.
Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Torpidity, Constipation, Piles, and Dyspepsia, are cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Liver Pills. Sent by mail, on receipt of price, 25 cents a box.
Mrs. Pinkham's Lozenges, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Cramps and Pains in the Stomach, Sick Headache, Nervous Headache, Dyspepsia and Indigestion, Flatulency, Fainting, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Depression and Spinal Weakness, are cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Lozenges. Sent by mail, on receipt of price, 50 cents a box.
Mrs. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, for Ulcerations, Inflammations, Leucorrhoea, Irritation, Prolapsus, Falling and Displacements, and Spinal Weakness, is a Cure. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express, on receipt of price, $1 per box.
Mrs. Pinkham's Blood Purifier, for Scrofula, Humors, Boils, Pimples, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pain in the Bones, Ulcers, Sores, Swellings, Dropsy, Gravel, Erysipelas, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Scrofulous Complaints, Debility, Sleeplessness, Nervous Prostration, Nervous Headache, Female Weakness, Sent by express, on receipt of $1 per bottle.
Mrs. Pinkham's Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, a Tonic, Sent by express, on receipt of $1 per bottle.
Mrs. Pinkham's Sarsaparilla, for Purifying the Blood, Sent by express, on receipt of $1 per bottle.
Mrs. Pinkham's Nursing Sarsaparilla, to Increase the Secretion of Milk, Sent by express, on receipt of $1 per bottle.
Mrs. Pinkham's Uterine Pills, for Uterine Troubles, Sent by express, on receipt of $1 per box.
Mrs. Pinkham's Liquid Cathartic, Sent by express, on receipt of $1 per bottle.
Mrs. Pinkham's Liquid Cathartic Pills, Sent by express, on receipt of $1 per box.
Mrs. Pinkham's Liquid Cathartic Lozenges

HADASSAH.

BY OSCAR F. WISNER.

Then Persia's proud monarch smiling so bland
And seeming so pleased, drew from his hand
The king's signet ring, and gave to the Jew
A ring of great value, of the sky's deepest blue.
This ring now glows on the hand of the Jew.—
That hand which has ever been faithful and true.

Thus fortune, fickle goddess, doth over
Our destiny shape, still changing forever.

And sometimes in anger we thoughtlessly blame,
The wondrous caprices of this fickle dame;
And say to ourselves "if we could but see
The face of this goddess, more fickle than we,
We would give all we have to know how she looks.

And down she must be the witch of the brooks,
For she runs and she laughs all the while,
And scatters her gifts with a radiant smile."

But let us return to Esther the queen—
Her charms are so pleasing, her wit is so keen,
And she rules in the court of Iran, the great,
And whether at feast or in measures of state,

Her hand is oft seen on the cold marble wall
Writing out her decrees, in that time-honored hall;
And he who sat on Persia's proud throne,
Is only the clay which she moulds to her own.

Hadassah once more bows 'fore her lord
And petitions again, in soft honeyed words;
To put far away from Persia's domain
The decrees of bad Haman, which still doth remain.
Then the king stretches forth to his loved queen,
The sceptre of gold, as she kneels all serene.
But she rises again, still fair as before,
Like a silvery wave which glides to the shore.

"If I, O king!" in tender accents spoke
The queen of love, and all her soul awoke.
"Have found sweet favor in thy noble breast,
List to my prayer and grant my just request.
Grant that those letters which bad Haman sent
Be all revoked, and all their bad intent.
For how can I this bloody vision see,
Which slays my kindred ever dear to me."

Thus spake the queen and from her beauteous eyes
A teardrop mingled with a glad surprise,

As now the king, "let each and every deed
Be blotted out; thus let it be decreed."
Then smiled Hadassah, fairer than the morn
Just breaking from the east in summer born.
Thus the great crowning act of fairest dame,
Who could the fiery scroll of Iran tame.

Then to the Jew the Persian king aloud,
In accents stern with look and bearing proud
"Write to thy kindred as to thee it now may please,
From nearest land unto the distant seas;
In Iran's name and fix the royal seal
To my decree, before whose millions kneel."
"This is my will," he further boldly spoke,
"And no one dare my edict to revoke."

Then messengers were sent all o'er the land
To bear the edict Iran's dread command.
And camels, mules, and fleetest couriers trend
The Persian plains, the new decree to spread.
And to the Jews he gave the farther right,
To arm in self defence and meet the coming fight.

Thus then the Jews arose in numbers strong,
Against their foes who take the side of wrong.

Then Mordecai went forth in princely garments clad,
And crown of gold he wore upon his head.

Then Shu-Shan's stately palace rang with song,
And all the streets the joyful strains prolong;
Whilst fear fell on the Persians far and wide,
To see the swellings of avenging tide—
A tide which swept the Persian hosts away
Like dew before the onward march of day.

O! wondrous change—from sorrowful to gay,
As darkest night is turned to golden day.
All joy—all life—all animation now,
For Mordecai wears a crown upon his brow.
This the great edict o'er Persia's shining plain,
And thousand voices shout the loud acclaim.
The Jews have conquered! Over all the plain
Lie bleeding now the Mede and Persian slain.

Hark! to those groans, in Shu-Shan's stately hall.
Lo! blinding tears in rapid torrents fall.
Five hundred men lie bleeding all around,
And slaughter sends its incense from the ground.
And silver waves of music float no more
In Shu-Shan's palace, stained with human gore.
The Persian queen, the cause of this great flood,
Which fiery rolls in vengeance red with blood.

To be continued.

THE JOURNAL.

Charlevoix, Mich., July 17, 1884.

Around the County.

South Arm.

Farmers are now busy in the hay field; now and then bringing down a load of bark.

The J. Raber is loading with lumber at Meech's mill at present.

The orangemen took dinner at the Eagle hotel on Saturday last.

Mrs. S. G. Isaman is seriously ill, medical aid being necessary three times a day.

L. Freeman, of Echo, lost a child with diphtheria last week.

Mrs. Freeman Wilson is recovering. They "tripped the light fantastic toe," at P. L. Lanway's on the twelfth.

Our photographic artist was kept busy on Saturday last.

A. B. Noyes, of Ironton, was in town Orangemen's day.

Plenty of steamers now a days. Five landed at our docks within three hours on Thursday last.

Those from South Arm that attended the temperance lecture given by Mr. Hollister on Sunday evening, report a very scathing description of the ramseller and his thoughts. He lectures again on Friday evening.

Meech's and Gleun's mills were laid up for repairs last week. By the way, that new whistle of Meech's is a dandy.

James Holbee has a young American that asserted his independence by arriving July 4th.

Mrs. S. Farmer, of Boyne City, was a guest of Mrs. J. A. Kent this week.

Frank Pierson M. Smith loaded at Glen's mill last week. Capt. Tullock and D. Hinsbaugh, with their wives, were on board.

Farm machinery of all kinds are being bought in here every day, which shows that we are getting "civilized."

Burgess.

After a thorough canvass of the whole state of Hayes, it looks as though Butler had quite a majority over democrats and republicans, and we can influence as many of the Indian voters if not more, than either of the other parties.

Wm. Gibson a former resident of Hayes, but now at Vanderbilt, was in town visiting friends one day last week.

Ezra Ferguson raised a hay barn last Thursday.

The Lewis boys have a sulky rake for their haying. They had the misfortune to loose a valuable mare last week that was worth $150.

Mr. Minier who has been quite sick with rheumatism is able to be around again.

Roy Kane, who had a severe attack of diphtheria, is gradually recovering under the treatment of Dr. Lewis.

Joel Weaver has moved into his new residence on the centre road.

A large crowd at maple grove school house last Sunday, at the services held there by the Rev. D. H. Pierce. Prayer meeting next Thursday evening at the Whitford school house.

Had it not been for the rain last week haying would have been nearly finished in Hayes.

Wheat has commenced to ripen and will be ready to cut in a week or ten days.

The road commissioner let a job of corduroy on centre road last Saturday. There would have had more bidders if he had stuck up some notices in the district where the job was.

Norwood.

[The following was received too late for last issue]

The fourth, despite the rain, was very pleasantly spent by the most part of the village people of Norwood. The day was finished up with dancing in our town hall.

Mr. Geo. Ordway, and son Harry, spent the fourth in Norwood, the guests of Geo. Van Pelt and family.

Mr. Dorety and Mr. Cosper, of Elk Rapids with their ladies, Miss Walsh and Mrs. Philips, were in town Sunday, guests of Willard Spaulding.

Master Geo. Ferguson, son of C. H. Ferguson, of Hyde Park, Ill., is in town visiting his aunt Mrs. Geo. Foote.

Miss Essie Buttars, of Charlevoix is in town, the guest of Miss Belle Meech.

Mrs. Crane March has returned to her home, after a two weeks visit at her sister's, Mrs. Stover, of Old Mission.

Springvale.

Farmers have commenced haying.

The late rains have changed the appearance of crops.

Several parties have been looking for locations in this township the past week.

The school inspector, A. L. Spencer, of this township, is visiting the schools at present.

Mrs. M. E. Kelter has commenced summer term of school in the "Hall" district.

J. E. Chew after a pleasant vacation of two weeks, has resumed teaching in district No. 2.

Quite a number of the young folks were married during the past week, names too numerous to mention.

The "path master" is busy working the roads now a-days. Good roads, and plenty of them; is what is needed.

FOR SALE.

The place known as
THE BEATTY FARM
Near McGeagh's Mill.
For particulars inquire at the office of
J. MILO EATON.

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture the celebrated "Lewis" lever heel and toeing, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞ The DISBREE MOWING MACHINE is hitched and for sale. 43

WAR WITH HIGH
PRICES.

A fall in the price of Hardware, at L. D. Bartholomew's.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect June 22, 1884.

GOING NORTH

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv.	.....	7 40am	7 15pm	.....
Richmond, "	.....	10 20 "	10 20 "	.....
Winchester, "	3 31	11 22	11 38 "	.....
Ridgeville, "	4 11	11 57	11 57 "	.....
Fort Wayne, ar.	6 40	2 00pm	1 35am	7 45am
Fort Wayne, lv.	.....	2 45	2 50	8 05
Kendallville, "	.....	3 25	3 51	8 48
Wolcott, "	.....	3 47	4 16	9 10
Corunna, "	.....	4 11	4 44	9 37
Owosso, "	.....	5 31	6 12	11 51
Kalamazoo, ar.	.....	6 45	7 35	12 29am
Kalamazoo, lv.	.....	7 00	7 10	1 50
G'd Rapids, ar.	.....	8 00	8 20	3 35
G'd Rapids, lv.	7 30am	11 00	10 25	5 00
Howard City, "	8 47	12 20pm	11 42 "	6 20
Howard City, "	8 50	12 40pm	12 05pm	6 36
Big Rapids, "	9 43	1 27	1 02	7 27
Reed City, ar.	.....	"	1 38	7 56
Reed City, lv.	.....	1 00	1 50	3 15
Cadillac, ar.	10 25	2 00	2 50	9 30
Cadillac, lv.	11 20am	3 05	3 00	.....
Traverse City, "	1 15pm	5 15	5 05	.....
Traverse City, ar.	.....	5 10	5 10	1 10pm
Kalkaska, lv.	1 30pm	4 40	4 37	.....
Mancelona, "	2 07	5 08	5 05	.....
Boyne Falls, "	2 26	5 32	5 30	.....
Pelosky, ar.	2 45	5 50	6 20	.....
Harbor Springs, "	4 15	7 05	7 05	11 15
Mackinaw City, "	.....	8 30	8 00	.....

GOING SOUTH

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 6	No. 8	No. 4
Mackinaw City, lv.	3 30pm	7 00am	.....	.....
Harbor Springs, lv.	10 45	7 55	6 00pm	6 00am
Pelosky, lv.	10 47	8 08	.....	7 00
Boyne Falls, "	11 05	8 28	.....	7 30
Mancelona, "	11 22	8 36	.....	7 42
Kalkaska, "	11 45	10 24	.....	8 42
Traverse City, lv.	1 15	11 00	3 40pm	10 30am
Walton, "	1 35	11 10	.....	10 40am
Cadillac, ar.	2 35	12 10pm	.....	11 25
Cadillac, lv.	2 35	12 40pm	6 00am	3 30pm
Reed City, ar.	3 30	1 40	7 00	4 32
Reed City, lv.	4 07	1 45	7 40	5 12
Big Rapids, "	4 57	2 25	8 36	6 12
Howard City, "	5 20	2 50	9 05	6 37
Howard City, "	5 19	3 20	10 05	7 22
G'd Rapids, ar.	6 20	4 25	11 45	8 45
G'd Rapids, lv.	6 00am	4 35	11 45	.....
Kalamazoo, ar.	7 05	5 40	1 00am	.....
Kalamazoo, lv.	7 10	6 32	2 00	.....
Jackson, "	8 28	7 22	3 36	.....
Niagara, "	10 25	9 16	5 30	.....
Kendallville, "	11 33	9 35	5 31	.....
Fort Wayne, ar.	12 41am	10 20	6 10	.....
Fort Wayne, lv.	1 00	12 05am	6 50	3 50am
Ridgeville, "	3 07	1 17	.....	5 42
Winchester, "	3 40	1 55	.....	6 16
Richmond, ar.	4 25	2 05	.....	8 15
Cincinnati, ar.	7 10pm	7 30am	.....	12 05pm

C. L. LOCK WOOD, G. P. A., Grand Rapids, Mich.

SAVINGS BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.

Pay per cent TEN CENTS AND UPWARD Deposited. We hold large deposits in this department. Real Estate Mortgages, Bonds and other securities, belonging to our depositors. All State Savings Banks, or other State Banks offering similar deposits, are authorized by their charters to do not speculate; holding that with our money they are speculating with theirs. Second, we do not speculate; holding that with our money we are speculating with our own money. Interest paid on deposits. Money to loan. Drafts on all the principal cities of the world. Exchange bought and sold. Collections promptly made and remitted. Office in Bank building, Charlevoix, Mich.

BENSLEY & BROWN.

J. MILO EATON,

DEALS IN

REAL ESTATE
OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

GILBERT & MOULTON,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting,

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

Buy your Stationery of O. B. WEED & CO.

Advance Lumber Company

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO.
ADVANCE, MICH.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes,

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes,

LATEST STYLES.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 54. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JULY 24, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Is published every Thursday morning,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office over T. D. Smith's grocery,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Business Directory.

ATTORNEYS.

CHICKERING & GRIER, Attorneys at Law, Office on Bridge Street, Charlevoix, Mich. C. J. GRIER.

HART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FOSS & MARCH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate and Collections promptly attended to. EAST JORDAN.

H. A. HOBART, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office on Lake St., Boyne, Mich.

HILL & SAWYERS, Attorneys at Law, and Solicitors in Court Commissioners. Office in hotel building, corner of Mitchell St. Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR F. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, and U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

N. CARRIETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.—Capital $50,000. Loans and discounts at lowest rates. Exchange notes and mortgages bought and sold. Loans made on all kinds of approved security. Interest allowed on time deposits. Sight drafts on all the principal cities of the world. Money sent to all parts of Europe. $100 and upwards. Interest on time deposits. REYNOLDS & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7, in the school house. C. P. VANATWEN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7. T. J. HOLMES, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX HOUGH AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet every Saturday night, at Sexton hall. H. F. BENSLEY, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

H. SEFFELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Humoroids Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. MILO EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class Horses and Carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

J. A. CARRIETEN, M. D. Office at the Ingleside.

J. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office over the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

C. GREAVES, M. D. Office and residence one door west of Hotel St. Charlevoix.

W. H. STENTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Butler Post No. 191, meets second Monday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 337, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Inner Lake Lodge No. 203, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

I. O. L.—True Blues No. 18, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 322, meets Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over postoffice.

VETERINARY SURGEON.

ALAN BANBURY, V. S. Office at Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

WELL DIGGING.

FRANK DUBIA, Charlevoix, Mich., will attend promptly to all work in the line of well digging, cistern building, stone repairing, well drilling, cellar building, and similar work. 46

A. BUTTARS, President. A. E. DYMONT, Vice President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money to loan on approved paper at reasonable rates. Deposits received. Collections given careful attention and remittances made promptly.

G. S. TIDDAMAN, Cashier.

Telephone Order

Hello there!

Hello! What is it?

Has your mother got any rags, old rubber, or copper she would like to dispose of? If so, please pick them up and save them, as WILKINSON & SHEPARD of Charlevoix, Mich., will be round in a day or two and get them. 48

1872 — 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.
PURITY, POLITENESS.

We make it a point to sell only

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

Our Prices will always be as Low as

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

Can be Sold.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

Board by the Day or Week
AND
WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON,
Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Eagle Hotel,

E. A. H. COLE, PROPRIETOR,

South Arm, Michigan.

A new house, situated west end of bridge. Nearest Hotel to Jordan River. Horses and boats for guests. Headquarters for Intermediate Lake and Jordan River tourists.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids stages.

HULBERT HOUSE,

P. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house is centrally located. Good sidewalk from steamboat landing to house.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

WM. J. WEIKEL, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house has been thoroughly renovated and put in first-class shape for the traveling and boating public. Steamers landing within a "stone throw" of the house. Sample Rooms.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. D. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

UNITED STATES HOTEL,

J. J. STEVENS & SON, Proprietors.

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

W. F. ORRELL,
HOUSE DECORATOR,

Charlevoix, Mich.

PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.

ARTISTIC PAPER-HANGING.

Finishing Hardwood a Specialty

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

FOR SALE.

The place known as
THE BEATTY FARM
Near McGeagh's Mill.
For particulars inquire at the office of
J. MILO EATON.

FOR SALE.

A Small Stock of

GROCERIES, CONFECTION'RY
NOTIONS, ETC.,

Including Fixtures.

EXCELLENT LOCATION FOR BUSINESS.

I want to devote my whole time to jobbing, and to Cabinet and picture frame work.

O. L. WHEAT.

Fresh Fruits!

A Fine Stock just received

AT L. L. CARR'S.

GET YOUR

Photographs

At D. S. Way's.

O. W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. Any article of jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order.

HODGE & LITZAU,

Manufacturers and Dealers in

HARNESS, SADDLES

Carry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Leg Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. Call and see my stock.

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best time-piece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and direction for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 43 Cedar St., New York.

AGENTS wanted for the lives of all the Presidents of the United States. The largest, handsomest, and best book ever sold for less than twice our price. The fastest selling book in America. Immense profits in agents. All intelligent people want it. Any one can become a successful agent. Terms free. HALLET BOOK CO., Portland, Maine. 4951

Our Summer Guests.

At Bridgo Street House.

Mrs. Stanton, Grand Rapids.
Dr. J. N. Fowler, wife and daughter, Grand Rapids.
Judge Lorraine and lady, Toledo, O.

At A. R. Upright's.

Mrs. B. E. Hoppin, Chicago.
Frank T. Simons and wife, Chicago.
Miss Emma C. Rush, Chicago.
Mrs. M. F. Holmes, Chicago.
Mr. Hinter, Omaha, Ia.

At Frank Shaddock's.

Joseph Steele, Chicago.
Mrs. Eddy and two children, Grand Rapids.
Mrs. B. F. Carse and son, Chicago.
Mrs. C. H. Baldwin and son, St. Paul.
Mrs. R. A. Campbell, Traverse City.
Mrs. and Miss Blackburn, of Ionia.

At Fountain House, Bay Springs.

L. Falon and family, St. Louis, Mo.
W. A. Drake, Hillsdale.
Misses Jennie and Maggie Maloney, and Mabel Chapman, Hillsdale.
Mrs. Mosher, Jackson.

At Fountain City House.

Jules Valle, wife, child and nurse, St. Louis, Mo.
H. A. Clover, wife, and son, St. Louis, Mo.
F. W. Hathaway, Chicago.
Mrs. Allyn Adams, and Miss Ida Kney, of Ferrisville, Ind.
J. W. Edwards, Kalamazoo.
E. D. Culver, Lansing.
A. E. Hibbitt, North Adams.
H. W. Bates, Cincinnati, O.
Hon. T. J. Ferry and wife, Pigeon, O.
C. W. Allisy, Chicago.
A. R. Greenwood wife, Chicago.
J. E. Bunchell, Chicago.
W. G. Reinhardt, Chicago.
N. Vandecyn, Jackson, Miss.

At Chicago Resort.

Mrs. M. F. Stone and three children, Chicago.
H. W. & Mrs. C. F. Gates, Chicago.
Mrs. N. H. Blakeslee and family, Chicago.
James Burr and wife, Bloomington, Ill.
Miss S. E. Gates, Chicago.
Miss Minnie Hutchins, Chicago.
Miss Laura Nelson, Chicago.
A. F. Goodrich, Chicago.
H. H. Lessious, Chicago.
Miss Anna S. Morse, St. Johnsbury, Vt.
Helen Robins, Muscatine, Iowa.
Mrs. R. C. Bentley and son, Chicago.
J. Lincoln, Chicago.
F. W. Moore, Chicago.
Alice Warren, Chicago.
Ida Moore, Chicago.
J. G. Davidson, Chicago.
J. K. Harmon, wife and 2 children, Chicago.
Mrs. R. G. Bogue and family, Chicago.
Mrs. D. S. Cook, three children and nurse, Chicago.
Mrs. J. L. Shockless, Chicago.
Mrs. C. H. Morse and family, Chicago.
A. M. Fuller, wife, and child, Chicago.
Mrs. A. C. Brickhopf and child, Chicago.
Miss Telce Fuller, Chicago.
S. J. Curtiss, wife and two children, Chicago.
James H. Moore, wife and child, Chicago.
C. C. Warren and wife, Hillsdale.

At Charlevoix Resort.

John West and family, Chicago.
F. D. Haskell and wife, Kalamazoo.
Geo. Wheaus and family, Kalamazoo.
A. P. Fisher, Kalamazoo.
Mrs. Weimer, and family, Kalamazoo.
Fred. S. Brooks and family, Kalamazoo.
Allen Potter and family, Kalamazoo.
J. C. Knight and family, Kalamazoo.
Mrs. Sears and family, East Saginaw.
Mrs. C. L. Judd and family, East Saginaw.
H. B. Weir and family, Lansing, Ind.
A. B. Wood and family, Ann Arbor.
O. S. Allen and family, Kalamazoo.
S. A. Gibson and family, Kalamazoo.
Geo. Bardeen and family, Kalamazoo.
J. L. Schring and family, Kalamazoo.
J. S. Estabrook and family, East Saginaw.
Mrs. Heaton and daughter, Detroit.
R. Willig and family, Detroit.
Otto Marx, Toledo.
Chas. Graves, Toledo.
N. S. Waite, Toledo.
E. F. Walbridge, Toledo.
Fred. Olney and family, Ann Arbor.
F. J. Henry and family, Kalamazoo.
Mrs. Lauripacht and daughter, Kalamazoo.
C. N. Holden and family, Chicago.
W. M. Holden and family, Chicago.
E. W. Bissell and family, Detroit.
R. E. Merrill and family, Kalamazoo.
Kendall Brooks and son, Kalamazoo.
Miss Lillian Wagner, St. Louis.
Mrs. C. A. Walsh and sons, Detroit.
H. W. Compton and wife, Toledo.
Mrs. C. Wilson and family, East Saginaw.
Mrs. Wm. Y. Hewlug and daughter, Kalamazoo.
Dallas Bonderman and family, Kalamazoo.
Mrs. W. E. Wagner and daughter, St. Louis.
Mrs. W. A. Tarleton and son, New Orleans, Louisiana.
Mrs. A. M. Simmonds, St. Louis.
Mrs. J. D. Clement and son, Sherrillan, N. Y.
Geo. V. Dunham, Thalwell, Wis.
F. D. Wilcox and family, Kalamazoo.
A. E. Mather and family, Battle Creek.
E. S. Abbott and wife, Kalkaska.
Geo. Smiley and family, Kalamazoo.
H. P. Parmelee and family, Reading.
Mr. Moore and family, Toledo.
Fred. Hudnick and family.
Mrs. Richards and two daughters.
Henry Malone and family, Ann Arbor.
Prof. Olcott, and family.
Mrs. Van Vleck, Imla.
E. Woodbury and family.
Mr. Jewett and family.
Ira Buckles, Three Rivers.
B. P. McBaffee and wife, Kalamazoo.
Mr. F. Crandall and daughter, Detroit.
Wm. King and family, Detroit.
J. C. Lawrence and 2 children, Ypsilanti.
R. N. Dickman, Cleveland, O.
C. L. Coffin, Minneapolis, Minn.
Jesse Wood, Ann Arbor.
E. N. Smith, Ann Arbor.
A. Owen and family, Greenville, O.
E. N. Scribner, Toledo.
D. A. Waterman and family, Detroit.
George Smiley and family, Kalamazoo.
Supt. Wells and wife, Kalamazoo.
A. H. Ewing, Chicago.
C. L. Judd, East Bay.
H. F. Haines, Kalamazoo.
A. P. May, Kalamazoo.
H. Haskell and wife.
B. F. Jarvis.
J. I. Hoxine, Detroit.
George F. Kibbler.
C. F. May, Detroit.
Miss Nettie E. May, Detroit.

Shipments.

The following are the clearances from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the custom house for the week ending Tuesday, July 22:

July 16—Schr. John Raber, 120,000 feet hardwood lumber, F. J. Meech, to Chicago, 100 cords bark, Upright Emery & Co., to Chicago.

16—Schr. Jessie Phillips, 100,000 feet hardwood lumber, Stoepel & Co., to Chicago.

17—Schr. Sarah, 100 cords hardwood, 70 cords bark, Steele & Newman, to Milwaukee.

17—Prop. John Ohls, 400 bags pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

18—Schr. Surprise, 100 cords wood, T. D. Smith to Milwaukee.

18—Schr. Lyman, 120,000 feet hardwood lumber, The Lake Lumber Co., to Detroit.

18—Lottie Mason, 40 cords bark, A. Carpenter, to Milwaukee.

18—Schr. Evening Star, 160,000 feet hardwood lumber, S. M. Co. to Sheboygan, Wis.

19—Schr. E. K. Wood, 100 cords wood, Upright Emery & Co., to Milwaukee.

19—Schr. Crescent, 75 cords slabs, Stoepel & Co., to Detroit.

19—Schr. Lookout, 200 cords bark, Upright, Emery & Co., to Chicago.

19—Schr. Mocking Bird 45 cords wood, 40 cords bark, Steele & Newman, to Milwaukee.

19—Schr. D. M. Nelson, 180 cords wood, D. M. Nelson, to Milwaukee.

22—Schr. L. H. Coates, 120 cords wood, D. Ford, to Chicago.

22—Schr. Robert Howlett, 150 cords wood, W. S. Spring, to Chicago.

22—Schr. Laperlle, 135 cords wood, T. Thorp, to Milwaukee.

22—Schr. Hercules, 100 cords bark, A. Fox, to Milwaukee.

22—Schr. Sea Gem, 50 cords bark, T. D. Smith, to Milwaukee.

22—Schr. Vineyard, 150 cords wood, Upright Emery & Co., to Milwaukee.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by Dennison Bros., real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, for the week ending Tuesday evening, July 22, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

Byron Sea and wife to est. of H. N. Hallard, n ½ of n w ¼, 36-34-6, $100.

Jacob Wolf to Ross T. Owen, 5 acres, lot no. 3, 27-34-6, $25.

Joseph D. Sturrus and wife to James Toule, s ½ of s ½, 36-34-6, $1,000.

Jesse Bolton and wife to Joseph Bolton, n w fr. ¼ of n w ¼, 1-33-6, $200.

James Hemmings and wife to Elias A. Wheat lot 2 blk 13, Charlevoix $250.

Harriet L. Clifford to C. P. Van Antwerp, lot 10 in Clifford's addition to Charlevoix $150.

C. P. Van Antwerp and wife to John Nicholls, lot 10 in Clifford's addition to Charlevoix $150.

Wm. Gibson to Ezra A. R. Upright, s ½ of s w ¼, 1-34-7, $250.41.

William Gibson and wife to Samuel A. Gibson, w ½ of n w ¼, 36-34-7, $800.

Nature Cleanses

The system, if given an opportunity, but very few persons find time to give nature a chance and so the blood, which is the great drain for carrying away impurities, becomes so clogged with disease that unless some help is given it, the person will be afflicted by blood poisoning and suffer with pimples, boils, carbuncles, eruptions, scrofula, &c., and often die without help. Save yourself from all this suffering and loss of time by using Parmelee's Blood Purifier which prevents all diseases in the system. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

The Household,

Dyspepsia, Indigestion and headache seem to take the place of the three graces in many households. How sad is the condition of such a family. The kidneys and liver often get deranged and perhaps the parents or even children may be suffering from Diabetes, Bright's disease, or some kindred disease. As a preventive and also a cure for all the diseased conditions of the human family no preparation equals Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure. 50c. Sight $1.00 for large bottles. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Remember This.

Hamilton's German Bitters are the best bitters made. They promote sleep and allay nervousness. They tone up and strengthen the system, without exciting the brain as do most other stimulants. They soothe to rest the jarring nerves, and calm the irritable and jaded system. They are prepared from the purest materials and are the best medicines you can use for repairing health and strength. Try them. 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

We Are Anxious

That every young lady should know what a delicate and harmless beautifier is to be found in Hamilton's Oriental balm. It is absolutely harmless, and it makes the complexion so soft, and brilliant, so surely removes all tan and freckles, that one needs only to give it a trial to be convinced of its merits. Only 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unsurpassed. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co. 5-50

The Boston Advertiser (anti-Blaine rep) says: The only stroke of policy attempted in the letter is to divert attention from the discussion of the candidate and what concerns him, and to substitute therefor a debate on the tariff. The question as to the man is in fact the living question which today interests the American people. It is not a narrow question, for, as it happens, the man stands for as much as the chief product of a certain growing influence in our political life; but, a narrow or not, it is the question, and Mr. Blaine's opponents, if well advised, will not second his motion to transfer pending discussion to the tariff, and without their consent and co-operation the discussion cannot thus be transferred nor the real issues of the campaign be shelved.

Let history be repeated. The "old ticket" was once elected, and can be again; and when elected let us see that we are not defrauded of our rightful possessions.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

A FIRE broke out in a bakery at Bradford, Pa., Mrs. Reilly and her two children and a Swedish servant girl perished in the flames. A gentleman named Clark, of Jersey City, made a brave attempt to rescue Mrs. Reilly. Two women were badly injured in leaping from the burning building.

THE house Sour Mash was driven twenty miles in 77:45 in Hampden Park at Springfield, Mass. The Court of Crows of New Jersey has released two printers of Dorchester who were sentenced to long terms in State prison for criminal libel perpetrated by their employer.

A dispatch from Parker, Pa., says seven men were buried by an embankment caving in. Frank Gibson and Michael Mucalongh were killed, and Rowland Stagger, William Piper, Charles Alick, William Kentnerick, and John Selnik injured. Singer and Piper are hurt internally, and will probably die.

FOUR families of "assisted" immigrants from Ireland, and four from Germany, who arrived at New York the other day, will be sent back. The back manufacturers of New York and New Jersey have agreed to close their yards for the season Sept. 20, thus greatly curtailing the production.

EDWARD YARD, JR., & CO., late merchants, of New York, have failed. The liabilities are estimated at $1,000,000. The value of the assets is not fully known.

J. J. Duvall, formerly a practicing lawyer of St. Albans, Vt., has failed for $50,000.

THE WEST.

"BILLY" and "Charley" Hamilton were hanged at Warrensburg, Mo., for the murder of Carl Stehle, a German. A sanitary circular, urging that precautions be taken to prevent and counteract the inroads of cholera and suggesting the cleansing of streets, alleys, etc., has been issued by the Illinois State Board of Health to cities, towns, and villages. Everett A. Wallbridge, private bankers at Cleveland, made an assignment. They assert that they are largely greater in their liabilities, which is about $1,200,000, and it is expected that the suspension will be only temporary.

